Annotations on Chap. IV.

a Verſe 1. Μὴ ἐκκακεῖν] Is not to ſlacken in, or ceaſe from the performance of an Enterprize, Luke 18. 1. Gal. 6. 9. 2 Theſſ. 3. 13. particularly μὴ ἐκκακεῖν ἐν θλίψεσι, not to faint under Tribulations, Eph. 3. 13. and here v. 16. And this ſenſe is confirmed by the words following from v. 7. to the 16th.

b Ver. 2. Τὰ κρυπτὰ τῆς αἰσχύνης, the hidden things of ſhame.] The Apoſtle often ſpeaks of ſome Deceivers crept into the Church, whoſe glory was in their ſhame, Philip. 3. 19. whoſe Exhortation was attended with Uncleanneſs, Deceit and Guile, 1 Theſſ. 2. 3. and here, who did the hidden things of ſhame. Now theſe, ſay all the Greek Scholiaſts, were the falſe Apoſtles, τῇ τῶν νόμων ἐπιμιξίᾳ τὸ θεῖον κήρυγμα διαφθείροντες, who corrupted the Goſpel, by mixing it with the Law, as is apparent from the Apoſtle's words; for ſpeaking of theſe falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers, Chap. 11. 13. he ſaith v. 20. Are they Hebrews? So am I; Are they Iſraelites? ſo am I; Are they the Seed of Abraham? ſo am I. And that the Jewiſh Doctors were prone to Fornication, Uncleanneſs and Adultery, we learn from the Apoſtle's queſtion, Thou that ſayeſt a man ſhould not commit Adultery, doſt thou commit Adultery? Rom. 2. 22. and from the Teſtimony of their Joſephus concerning their Zealots, who profeſſed great Sanctity, but were indeed guilty (a) of Theft, Treachery, Adultery, the hidden things of Sin. From the Exhortation of St. Paul to them to look diligently, leſt there be among them any Fornicator, or Prophane Perſon, Heb. 12. 16. And again, Let Marriage be honourable among all, and the Bed undefiled; for Whoremongers and Adulterers God will judge, Heb. 13. 4. See the Note there. But this is ſtill more evident from theſe Epiſtles to the Corinthians, among whom theſe Deceivers had taught that Fornication was a thing lawful, 1 Cor. 6. 12. and ſo had taught them to corrupt the Temple of God, 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17. whence he ſays to them, Let no man deceive you, v. 18. and demonſtrates to them by many Arguments, that Fornication was a Sin inconſiſtent with the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, 1 Cor. 6. 13=20. that it excluded Perſons from the Kingdom of God, v. 9, 10. and ſhould exclude them from the Society of Chriſtians, Chap. 5. 11. Upon all which accounts he ſaith, Neither let us commit Fornication as ſome of the Jews did, 1 Cor. 10. 8. And in his ſecond Epiſtle, and twelfth Chapter, he expreſſes his Fears, leſt when he came among them, he ſhould find many, who through the Seduction of thoſe Men, had ſinned, and had not repented of the Uncleanneſs, Fornication, and Laſciviouſneſs, which they had committed. That theſe Men might be followers of Cerinthus, or of the Ebionites; See Note on Chap. 11. 22. But theſe things do more plainly agree to the Sect of Nicholas, one of the ſeven Deacons reſident at Jeruſalem, Acts 6. 5. they being, ſaith St. Peter, Men walking after the fleſh, in the luſts of the fleſh, 2 Pet. 2. 10. and alluring others through the luſts of the fleſh, v. 18. and ſaith St. Jude, Men walking after their own luſts, and foaming out their own ſhame, v. 13. That theſe Men were at Pergamus, teaching men to commit Fornication, we learn from Rev. 2. 14, 15. that they were alſo at Epheſus, and ſo near to Corinth, from Rev. 2. 6. and ſo might probably be the Perſons noted by St. Paul, ſaying, Eph. 5. 11, 12. It is a ſhame to ſpeak of τὰ κρυφῇ γινόμενα ὑπ' αὐτῶν, the things done by them in ſecret; and that they were at Corinth; See Note on 1 Cor. 6. 13, 14, 15.

c Ver. 3. Εἰ δὲ ἔστι κεκαλυμμένον τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ἡμῶν, if our Goſpel be hid.] Hence we learn that the Apoſtles delivered the Goſpel, in all things neceſſary to be believed, or done, with ſufficient plainneſs and perſpicuity, for otherwiſe they could not truly be ſaid to have manifeſted the truth to every man's Conſcience. The Apoſtle alſo, by declaring that if this Goſpel was hid from any to whom it was preached, it was only hid to them whoſe minds the God of this World had blinded, leſt the light of the glorious Goſpel ſhould ſhine in upon them, doth plainly teach that the Goſpel was not hid from them for want of clearneſs on the part of them who preached it, but only by reaſon of that blindneſs which Satan had wrought in them that heard it: So that if it were not manifeſt to all, (b) the fault is not in us, or in the obſcurity of the Goſpel, but in their own blindneſs, for we hide nothing from them: So the Fathers.

But here, ſaith Eſthius, the Apoſtle ſpeaks not of the Scriptures to be read, or underſtood by us, but of the Goſpel preached by him.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, That the Scriptures writ and read to them, contain the ſame Goſpel of Chriſt which they preached; and as the reading of the Law of Moſes, is ſtiled the Preaching Moſes every Sabbath-day, Acts 15. 21. ſo is the publick Reading the Scriptures of the New Teſtament, the preaching Chriſt, and his Goſpel; what reaſon then can be aſſigned why they, who confeſſedly preached the Goſpel plainly, ſhould write the ſame things to the ſame Perſons obſcurely; eſpecially if we conſider that they did τὰ αὐτὰ γράφειν write the ſame things to them for their ſafety, Philip. 3. 1. to put them in remembrance of thoſe things which they knew, and in which they were eſtabliſhed, by their preaching, 2 Pet. 1. 13, 14. and to ſtir up their pure minds by way of remembrance, that they might be mindful of the Commandments of the Apoſtles of our Lord, Chap. 3. 1, 2. that by reading them they might underſtand their knowledge in the Myſtery of Chriſt, Eph. 3. 4. And were theſe ends beſt proſecuted, or to be obtained by writing that obſcurely which they had plainly preached to them? Moreover whatſoever things were written aforetime, ſaith the Apoſtle, were written for our learning, Rom. 15. 4. And ſurely they who writ after by the ſame Spirit, writ to the ſame end, that they to whom they wrote might be wiſe to that which is good, Rom. 16. 19. that they might underſtand what the will of the Lord is, Eph. 5. 17. or might prove what is the good and acceptable, and perfect will of God, Rom. 12. 2. And if they writ for our Learning and Inſtruction in theſe things, to be ſure they writ plainly and clearly as to them, ſince otherwiſe they writ not ſo as to inſtruct and teach, but to confound the Reader. Seeing therefore the great end of writing the Scripture was to inſtruct the World in the Will and Mind of God, and the great things of Chriſtian Faith, either we muſt ſay that both the Writers of the Scripture, and the Holy Ghoſt that inſpired them, were defective in Skill, or in Care, ſo to write as to obtain this End, or that their Writings are an effectual Means to obtain it, which yet they cannot be unleſs they are plain and clear, as to the great things of Religion.

In ſhort, every wiſe Agent purſues his End by the moſt proper and effectual Means: Now ſurely to write plainly and not obſcurely, is the moſt proper means to inſtruct Men by Writing, and ſo the Apoſtles muſt have uſed this Means of Inſtructing in their Writings, or elſe they cannot be eſteemed wiſe Agents.

Ver. 4. ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου, the God of this World, &c.] Here obſerve, (1.) an Hyperbaton, the true ſenſe, and poſition of the words being thus, Among whom are the Unbelievers, whoſe Eyes the God of this World hath blinded, &c. Note (2.) that Satan here is called by St. Paul the God of this World, and Epheſ. 6. 12. The Ruler of the Darkneſs of this World, agreeably both to the Jewiſh and Chriſtian Notion; the firſt aſcribing to him the Dominion over all that were not of the Religion of the Jews, and introducing God ſpeaking to the Angel of Death or Satan, thus, (c) Though I have made thee κοσμοκράτορα a Ruler among the Creatures of the Nations, thou ſhalt have nothing to do with this People, becauſe they are my Sons; where alſo it preſently follows, This is the Angel of Death, which is called Darkneſs. And the Chriſtians allowing him to be Ruler over all that were not converted to Chriſtianity, and ſpeaking of that, as of the Diſpenſation which delivered them from the power of Darkneſs into the Kingdom of Chriſt, Col. 1. 13. 1 Pet. 2. 9. and turned them from Satan unto God, Acts 26. 18. And of the Gentile World, as walking before according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that worketh in the Children of Diſobedience, Eph. 2. 2. which had the Fathers conſidered, they would not have contended ſo ſtifly againſt the Marcionites and Manichees, that the God of the World here mentioned was the true God, as both (d) Irenæus, and (e) Tertullian, and as (f) St. Auſtin teſtifies, almoſt all the Ancients did; whereas indeed the true God is never repreſented in Scripture as the God of this World, but as the God of them who are called out of the World; nor is it the deſign of God, but of the Devil, to hide the glorious Light of the Goſpel from the World. d

Ibid. Ὅς ἐστιν εἰκὼν τοῦ Θεοῦ, who is the Image of God.] Chriſt ſeems here to be ſtiled the Image of God, not in the ſenſe of Theodoret, as being God of God, but rather, as the Text inſinuates, with relation to the Goſpel, and his Mediatory Office, in which he hath given us many glorious Demonſtrations of the Power, Wiſdom, the Holineſs, Purity and Juſtice, the Mercy, Goodneſs and Philanthropy of God, Tit. 3. 4. e

ſhining of the Face of Moſes after he had obtained his deſire of ſeeing the Glory of God, Exod. 33. 16, 19. upon which δεδόξασται ἡ ὄψις, his face was made glorious, Exod. 34. 29, 30. by reaſon of the Glory of God that he had ſeen. This now, ſaith St. Paul, belongs to us Apoſtles, the Glory of God ſhining more glorioufly in the Face or Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt, than ever it did in Moſes, and we beholding with open face the glory of the Lord, Chap. 3. 10. whereas the Children of Iſrael could not ſtedfaſtly behold the glory of the face of Moſes. Note alſo, that ἐν προσώπῳ is the conſtant reading of the Greek Scholiaſts.

g Ver. 10. Ἵνα καὶ ἡ ζωὴ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, that the life of Jeſus might be made manifeſt.] It being a certain demonſtration that Chriſt is riſen and ſtill lives, that we who perſwade others to believe this, are enabled to do ſuch mighty wonders in his Name, and patiently and conſtantly to ſuffer ſuch fiery Trials by his Grace.

h Ver. 12. Ἐν ὑμῖν, in you.] As being made partakers of the vital efficacy of Chriſt in his Spiritual Gifts, and of an Aſſimulation to his Reſurrection by a Life of Holineſs, but not of the like Sufferings with us, 1 Cor. 4. 8, 10.

i Ver. 13. Ἐπίστευσα, διὸ ἐλάλησα, I believed, therefore have I ſpoken.] Theſe words of David were ſpoken when the ſorrows of death compaſſed him round about, and the pangs of Sheol caught hold upon him, and yet he believed he ſhould walk before God in the land of the Living, Pſal. 116. 3, 9, 10. and therefore are applied by the Apoſtle in the Spiritual ſenſe of them to the Reſurrection, thus, That as David notwithſtanding all the Perſecutions which he ſuffered from the Hands of Saul, firmly believed he ſhould be preſerved, and raiſed to a Temporal Kingdom, ſo we Apoſtles believe that, after all our Sufferings for the Goſpel, we ſhall be raiſed and advanced to an Heavenly Kingdom.

k Ver. 14. Ὁ ἐγείρας τὸν Κύριον Ἰησοῦν, he that raiſed up the Lord Jeſus.] Here Schlictingius obſerves two things, (1.) That our Lord Jeſus did not raiſe up himſelf, but was raiſed from the dead by the Father. (2.) That though Chriſt Jeſus ſhall raiſe us up, yet ſhall he do this not by his own power, but by the power received from the Father. Now here

1*ſt*, I acknowledge that the Reſurrection of our Lord is frequently aſcribed in Scripture to God the Father, Acts 3.26. & 13.32. & 17.31. Rom. 4.24. & 10. 9. 1 Cor. 6. 14. & 15. 15. Gal. 1. 1. Eph. 1.20. Col. 2.12. 1 Theſſ. 1. 9, 10. Heb. 13.20. 1 Pet. 1.3,21. And the reaſon of the Chriſtian Diſpenſation requires it ſhould be ſo, this being a Demonſtration that God the Father was ſatisfied with his Performances and Sufferings for us, and that he owned him as a true Prophet, and his beloved Son, in that he raiſed him from the dead; but then this is not ſo to be underſtood, as to exclude Chriſt wholly from the ſame Action, for he himſelf promiſed to do this, when he ſaid of the Temple of his Body, Deſtroy this Temple, and in three days I will raiſe it up, John 2. 19, 22. And that he did ſo, we learn from this, that after his Reſurrection the Diſciples believed the word which Jeſus ſpake, whereas, had he not raiſed up himſelf, they could not have believed his word.

Let it then be noted, That our Lord was quickned by the Spirit, 1 Pet. 3. 18. even by the Spirit by which he offered up himſelf, Heb. 9. 15. Since then this Spirit of God dwelt in Chriſt, and is by him communicated to all Believers, it is eaſie to be underſtood how Chriſt raiſed up himſelf, and yet was raiſed up by the power of God, as the Holy Ghoſt is ſtiled, Luke 1. 35. Thus alſo the Reſurrection of the Juſt is aſcribed to God the Father, Acts 26. 8. 1 Cor. 6. 14. Heb. 11. 19. 2 Pet. 1. 3. and yet the ſame Reſurrection is frequently aſcribed to Chriſt, John 5. 28. & 6. 39, 40. & 11. 27. 1 Cor. 15. 21, 22, 25, 26. Rom. 14. 19. Rev. 3. 18. and this he will effect by the power he hath in himſelf, John 5. 26. by himſelf, John 6.47,54. I will raiſe him up at the laſt day; by his word, The dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God and live, John 5. 28. by the power by which he is able to ſubdue all things to himſelf, Philip. 3. 21. Now to raiſe the dead being a thing proper to God himſelf, Rom. 4. 7. Acts 26. 8. an inſtance of the power of God, Matth. 22. 29. and the belief of it being faith in God, Heb. 11. 19. 1 Pet. 1.3. whoſoever hath the power of raiſing all Men from the dead, muſt have the power of God; The Godhead, the energy of the power of the might of God, Eph. 1. 19. and the wholefulneſs of the Godhead dwelling in him; and if Chriſt did receive this power from the Father, he muſt receive it from him by the Communication of the Godhead to him.

Ver. 16. Ὁ ἔσω ἄνθρωπος, the inward man.] l Hence we learn, That the diſtinction betwixt the outward and inward Man, is not of the ſame import with that of the Old and the New Man, Rom. 6. 6. which is renewed after the Image of God in Righteouſneſs and Holineſs, Eph. 4. 22. Col. 3. 9, 10. but the outward man that periſheth ſignifies only the Body, the inward is only the Mind or Spirit which is in Man; ſo that when the Apoſtle ſaith in the Perſon of a Man under the Law, I delight in the Law of God after the inward Man, Rom. 7. 22. he ſaith nothing which intimates that the Perſon ſpeaking was renewed in the ſpirit of his mind, but only that his Mind was inclined to obey the Law

Law of God, though through the Law in his Members warring againſt it, he was led captive to the Law of Sin.

m Ver. 27. Βάρος δόξης, weight of glory.] The Hebrew word כבד which anſwers to βάρος, weight, ſignifies not only Multitude, but Greatneſs, and in the Rabbins, as well as Scripture, honourable. So Gen. 18. 20. Their ſin was כבדה מאד very great. See Gen. 50. 11. Exod. 9. 3. Honourable, ſo Exod. 20. 12. כבד Honour thy Father and thy Mother. See Deut. 28. 58. So that this word may ſignifie the Magnificence, the Abundance, and the Honour of the Future Glory which is prepared for the Chriſtian Sufferer.

Ver. 18. Note hence, That it is not only lawful, but even laudable, after the Example of the Apoſtles, in our Actions and Sufferings, to have reſpect to the Recompence of Reward, that being by the Wiſdom of the Holy Ghoſt propounded as our Encouragement to do and ſuffer theſe things. n

CHAPTER V.

Verſe 1. FOR we know, that if our earthly houſe of this Tabernacle were diſſolved, we have [provided for us, a at the reſtoring of it,] a building of God, an Houſe not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens.

2. For in this [Tabernacle] we groan earneſtly, deſiring b b to be cloathed upon with our houſe, which is from Heaven.

c 3. [We are, I ſay, deſirous of this,] c If ſo be that, [or ſeeing that, at the Reſurrection]
d being cloathed, we ſhould not be found d naked, [or with a Body uncloathed, as we have here.]

4. For we that are in this Tabernacle do groan, being burthened, not for that [through impatience under our Sufferings] we would be uncloathed, [by putting off the Body,] but [as deſiring v. 2. to be] cloathed upon [with our Celeſtial Body,] that mortality might be ſwallowed up of life.

e 5. e Now he that hath wrought us for the ſelf ſame thing, [i. e. hath wrought in us this earneſt deſire,] is God, who hath alſo given to us the earneſt of the Spirit, [whereby we are ſealed up to the day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30. and wait for the Redemption of the Body, Rom. 8. 23.]

6. Therefore [having this earneſt of the Spirit,] we are always confident, knowing, [Gr. being therefore always confident and knowing] that whilſt we are at home in the body, we are abſent from the Lord.

7. [For [whilſt it is thus with us] we walk by faith [only,] not by ſight.]

f 8. f We are confident, I ſay, and willing, [we in this confidence are willing,] rather to be abſent from, [or travel out of,] the Body, and to be preſent with the Lord, [or at home with him.]

9. Wherefore we labour that whether [we be] preſent [in,] or abſent [from the body,] we may be accepted of him [at his Appearance.]

10. For we muſt all appear before the Judgment Seat of Chriſt, that every one may g [then] receive the things done g in his body, [or by the body,] according to what he hath done, whether it be good, or bad.

11. Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we perſwade men [to believe we act in all ſincerity and truth, when we propound theſe things to them,] but [in this] we are made manifeſt to God, and I truſt alſo [we] are made manifeſt in your Conſciences, and have given you good aſſurance that we act ſincerely.]

12. For we commend not our ſelves again unto you, [as if we doubted of your good opinion of us,] but [we ſay theſe things to] give you occaſion to glory on our behalf, that you may have ſomewhat to anſwer them which glory in appearance, and not in heart, [or truth and ſincerity, but either of other men's labours, 2 Cor. 10. 15. or of things not really done by them, 2 Cor. 11. 12——21.]

13. For whether we be beſides our ſelves, [tranſported in ſpeaking of our Raptures, Extaſies, and Viſions,] it is to [do ſervice to] God; or whether we be ſober [in our Diſcourſes, not deſiring that other ſhould think of us above what they ſee in us, 2 Cor. 12. 6.] it is for your ſakes.

14. For the love of Chriſt conſtraineth us, [thus to promote his glory, and to ſeek your good,] becauſe we thus judge, that if one died for all, then were all dead; [i. e. obnoxious to death, and condemned to it for ſin.]

15. And that h he died for all, that they h who live [by his death] ſhould not henceforth live unto themſelves, but unto him that died for them, [i. e. for their ſins,] and roſe again [for their juſtification, Rom. 4. 24, 25.]

16. Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the fleſh, [i. e. according to carnal intereſts, the Riches, Honours, Pleaſures, and Advantages of this World, 2 Cor. 1. 17. & 10. 2.] yea, though we have known Chriſt after the fleſh, [expecting him as a Temporal King, and hoping for great Advancements in his Kingdom, as being his Diſciples,] yet now henceforth i know we him [ſo] no i

17. [And

17. [And so it is with all his sincere Votaries;] Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is [become] a new Creature, old things are passed away, [his affection to all temporal and carnal things;] behold all things are become new [in him.]

18. And all [these] things [belonging to the new Creation, this change of our Affections, this constraining Love,] are of God who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given, [or committed] to us the ministry of Reconciliation.

19. To wit, that God was in Christ reconciling the World to himself, [and] not imputing their [former] trespasses unto them, and hath committed to us the Word of Reconciliation.

20. Now then we are Ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us, we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye k reconciled to God. k

21. For he hath l made him to be [a] sin [offering] for us, who [himself] knew no sin, that we might be made [righteous with] the righteousness of God in him. l

a Verse 1. Οἰκοδομὴν τῆ Θεῦ ἔχομεν, we have a building of God.] It was the Doctrine of the (a) Platonists, That the Soul was a kind of Being which could not well subsist, or act without a Body, and therefore after her Separation from the Body, wanted some Vehicle or Cloathing, by which she might subsist, and act; and this Notion was embraced by Origen, and this Text was accordingly interpreted by him; See the Note on 1 Cor. 15. 44,45. And according to this Notion good Christians, assoon as they depart this life, are not found naked, but cloathed with their house from Heaven, which at the Resurrection shall be the ἐπένδυμα, or cloathing of their raised Bodies, which renders them immortal. But the Apostle cannot here be supposed to mean, that assoon as ever good Christians die, they shall be cloathed upon with this House, which is from Heaven, but only that they shall be so at the Resurrection. For (1.) we Christians, saith he, groan earnestly, desiring to be cloathed upon with this house, v. 2. Now, saith the same Apostle, we our selves groan within our selves, waiting for the Adoption, that is, the Redemption of the Body, Rom. 8. 23. (2ly,) They groaned to be cloathed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life, v. 4. Now when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal immortality, then only shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up of victory, 1 Cor. 15. 54.

b Ver. 2. Ἐπενδύσασθαι, to be cloathed upon.] By putting over this mortal Body, an incorruptible and eternal House. The Jews say, that Adam in his first Creation, being made ἐν' ἀφθαρσίᾳ for incorruption, Wisdom 1. 23. his Body was covered from Corruption Veste Onychina, with a cloathing like in colour to the Nail of the Hand. Accordingly the Apostle represents the future Bodies raised incorruptible, as cloathed with an immortal Covering, 1 Cor. 15. 53, 54.

Ver. 3. Εἴγε καὶ, if so be.] That these c words may be also rendred since, and seeing that, is evident from Scripture, and good Authors. Thus here v. 4. εἰ signifies quandoquidem, so εἴγε ἠκούσατε, seeing ye have heard, Eph. 3. 2. See the Note there. And again, Eph. 4. 1. Or else retaining our own Version, we may give this sense to the words, If so be that [then] we shall be found cloathed [with our Celestial Bodies, and so fitted for a blessed immortality,] and not [as the wicked] naked, [and without this heavenly building.]

Ib. Γυμνοὶ, naked.] i.e. not cloathed upon with d another Body. So 1 Cor. 15. 37. thou sowest γυμνὸν κόκκον naked grain, not covered with a Blade, or cover of Chaff, as when it riseth up out of the Earth it is, or with a Cod, as in Beans, Pease, and Lintels. And accordingly the (b) Rabbins introduce a Samaritan or Gentile, enquiring of R. Meir, Whether the dead rise naked or cloathed? and him answering thus, That Pease which are sown naked, arise cloathed, or covered with a Cod, and much more the dead: But then they seem to restrain this to the Just, saying, that the Just shall rise cloathed.

Ver. 5. Ὁ δὲ κατεργασάμενος ἡμᾶς εἰς αὐτὸ τοῦ- e το, he that hath wrought us for the self same thing.] Hence it appears there is no ground for that dangerous Opinion, that the Apostle here speaks as one that believed the General Resurrection and Advent of our Lord to Judgment would be suddenly; for this Perswasion being false, the Apostle could not in this sense say, We know that if this earthly Tabernacle were dissolved, we have [immediately] diately] a building of God, i. e. an heavenly Body to put on. God could not work them up to this deſire, that they might not be uncloathed, i. e. not die, but live to the Reſurrection to be then cloathed upon; nor could the Apoſtle, conſiſtently with this Perſwaſion, introduce the ſame Chriſtians willing to be abſent from the Body, that they might be preſent with the Lord. Moreover, in the preceding Chapter, v. 14. he plainly ſays that they expected to be raiſed up by Jeſus from the dead, and therefore muſt expect to die. See the Note on 1 Theſſ. 4. 15.

f Ver. 8. Θαῤῥοῦμεν δέ, we are confident.] i. e. We have not only confidence at his appearance, John 2. 28. but always even in death it ſelf, that though it renders us abſent from the Body, it will bring us home to Chriſt, and to a nearer fruition of him. Only here note, That according to the Doctrine of all the Ancients, the Souls of pious Men are not aſſumed into the higheſt Heavens, or the immediate Preſence of God and Chriſt, inſtantly upon their departure hence, for thus only we ſhall be ever preſent with the Lord, 1 Theſſ. 4. 16, 17. when by the power of God, at the laſt Trump, we ſhall be raiſed up to meet him in the Air; this Promiſe being made at his ſecond Coming to receive his Diſciples to himſelf, that where he is, they may be alſo, John 14. 3. But yet, according to all Antiquity, the Souls of pious Men, in the mean time, are in the place appointed for them Ἐνδημεῖν πρὸς τὸν Κύριον with the Lord, that is, with him in Paradiſe, where they enjoy the ſight and converſation of their Saviour by way of Viſion: For Paul, and the reſt of the Apoſtles, ſaith (c) Polycarp, are in the place appointed for them with the Lord. Not only in Heaven, ſaith (d) Irenæus, but in Paradiſe alſo our Saviour ſhall be ſeen, as Men are worthy to behold him: And this doth (e) Pſeudo-Juſtin gather from this very place, That the Souls of the Juſt go to Paradiſe, and converſe there with Chriſt by viſion.

g Ver. 10. Τὰ διὰ τοῦ σώματος, the things done by the Body.] Some Manuſcripts read τὰ ἴδια τοῦ σώματος, propria corporis, the things proper to the Body; ſo the Vulgar Latin: both Readings do ſufficiently confute the Doctrine of the Roman Purgatory, and their Prayers for the Dead, as teaching Men ſhall receive hereafter, not according to the Prayers of others for them, when they are out of the Body, but according to what they themſelves have done in the Body. Now it is ſure, that what the Living do of this kind for them after death, they themſelves do not in the Body, and ſo no account will be had of it in the great Day. And why ſhould they ſuffer before ſuch dreadful Pains in Purgatory, who afterwards muſt receive Rewards or Puniſhments, according, not to what they have ſuffered there, but according to what they have done in the Fleſh? The Fathers here do farther note,

1*ſt*, That the ſame Body which was diſſolved, ſhall be raiſed again, and not another; it being abſurd to think that one Body ſhould ſin, and yet another ſhould be puniſhed for it; one Body ſuffer, another ſhould be crowned for it: So Methodius, Chryſoſtom, and Theophylact.

2*ly*, That the Soul is to receive its Retributions with the Body, and not without it, according to (f) Methodius, (g) Theodoret, and (h) Hilary the Deacon, who paſſeth under the Name of St. Ambroſe.

Ver. 15. Καὶ ὑπὲρ πάντων ἀπέθανεν, and he died for all.] Here obſerve, g

1*ſt*, That Chriſt died for all, all that were dead, all who are by his Death engaged to live to him; as all to whom the knowledge of the Goſpel is vouchſafed, are.

2*ly*, That they do certainly miſtake the meaning of theſe words, then were all dead, who thus interpret them, (i) then were all obliged to be dead to ſin: For (1.) in theſe two Verſes, the word ἀπέθανον, dead, is four times uſed, once before, and twice after theſe words, then were all dead, and both before, and after, it undeniably ſignifies Death in the proper acceptation of the word: who then can think that the ſecond time in the ſame Sentence, it ſhould import only an obligation to die to ſin, or to our ſelves? Whenſoever in the Scripture it bears a Metaphorical ſenſe, ſome other word is joyned to it, which doth inforce that ſenſe; as when we are ſaid to die to ſin, Rom. 6. 2. to die with Chriſt, Rom. 6. 8. Col. 2. 20. to die to the Law, Gal. 2. 19. to die to the World, Gal. 6. 14. Col. 3. 3. Here therefore nothing being added to it to inforce

i Ver. 16. Οὐκ ἔτι γινώσκομεν, we know him so no more.] It is manifest that the Disciples, whilst Christ was with them, were much addicted to those Temporal Interests, still striving, and contending who among them should be the greatest in Christ's Kingdom, Luk. 9. 46. & 22. 24. asking to sit one at his right hand, the other on his left hand in his Kingdom, Mark 10. 37. and saying, We have left all, and followed thee, what shall we have therefore? Matth. 19. 27. and presently after his Resurrection enquiring, Wilt thou now Lord restore the Kingdom to Israel, Acts 1. 6. These Expectations, saith the Apostle, we have now laid aside, and serve Christ only for Spiritual and Eternal Advantages. Or we may interpret these words thus: We know, (i.e. respect) no Man according to the Flesh, (i.e. according to his Circumcision, or his Nation,) as being an Israelite, or of the stock of Abraham, as knowing that in Christ Jesus neither Circumcision availeth any thing ——— but a new Creature, Gal. 6. 15. and though we Jews at first knew Christ according to the Flesh, adhering to Circumcision and the Law, even after Faith in Christ, yet now we do not so; but all these old things are now passed away, we being dead to the Law, that we might live to God, Gal. 2. 20. and serving him now in newness of Spirit, not in the oldness of the Letter, Rom. 7. 5.

k Ver. 20. Δεόμεθα ὑπὲρ Χριστοῦ, καταλλάγητε τῷ Θεῷ, be ye reconciled to God.] Here is observable, against the Socinians, a double Reconciliation; 1*st*, a Reconciliation of God to us; for God was in Christ reconciling the World to himself through him; and that not by renewing our Natures, but by not imputing our Trespasses to us. This Reconciliation was affected, saith the next Verse, by making Christ a Sin-offering for us, that we might be made the Righteousness of God in him, and this Reconciliation is followed with an Exhortation on our parts to be reconciled to God.

Object. But Crellius objects, That the Reconciliation here mentioned is ascribed to God, and so it cannot be the appeasing of his Anger by making any Satisfaction to him; for can it be supposed, saith he, that God, being angry, should appease himself, and that by making Satisfaction by another to himself.

Answ. I answer, That the Text doth not barely say, God reconciled us to himself, but that he was reconciling the World to himself in Christ, that is by Christ, as the Means of our Reconciliation, or as the Sin-offering by which this Reconciliation was procured. It therefore is not necessary that these words should import, that God being angry, should appease himself, but only that he should declare himself so far appeased by Christ's Sufferings for us, and so well satisfied with his Blood shed for the Remission of our Sins, that he would not impute those Sins to any that believed in him. The Blood of Christ made a Sin-offering, making Atonement for us, as the Blood of the Sin-offering under the Law made Atonement for the Sinner, and procured the forgiveness of his Sins; and if under the Law Satisfaction was made by the Sinner to God, by a Beast of his own appointing, why may it not be made under the Gospel by a Saviour of his own sending?

Ver. 21. Ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν ἁμαρτίαν ἐποίησεν, he made him sin for us.] The words here being sacrifical, must be explained by their use in the old Law, when applied to Legal Sacrifices. Now the word ἁμαρτία, which we render sin, is used there customarily for a Sin offering: So the Law of the Sin offering is ὁ νόμος τῆς ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 6. 25. the Bullock appointed for a Sin offering is, τὸ μοσχάριον τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, ὁ μόσχος ὁ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, the Bullock of Sin, Exod. 29. 36. Lev. 4. 8, 20. The Goat to be sacrificed for Sin is ὁ χίμαρος ὑπὲρ ἁμαρτίας, the Goat of Sin, Lev. 4. 29. To make such a Beast a Sin offering for the People, is in the Sacrifical Phrase ποιεῖν ἁμαρτίαν, ποιεῖν τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, to make it sin, Lev. 4. 20. & 9. 7. & 14. 18. & 15. 19. Numb. 6. 11, 16. & 8. 12. It cannot therefore be doubted, but that ποιεῖν γὰρ ἡμῶν ἁμαρτίαν τὸν Χριστὸν, doth signifie here to make Christ a Sin-offering, or Sacrifice for sin for us. The end for which he was thus made a Sacrifice is this, that we might be made the Righteousness of God in him; i. e. that we might be justified by God, or might obtain forgiveness of sins, through faith in the blood of this Sin offering. For δικαιοσύνη Θεοῦ, the Righteousness, or the Justification of God, in St. Paul's stile, still signifies the Righteousness of Faith, in Christ dying, or shedding his Blood for us; as in these words, δικαιοσύνη γὰρ Θεοῦ, for the Righteousness of God in him is revealed from faith to faith, as it is written, the just shall live by his faith, Rom. 1. 17. Again, δικαιοσύνη Θεοῦ, the Righteousness of God without the Law is manifest—to wit, the Righteousness of God through faith of Jesus Christ, Rom. 3. 20, 21. And Chap. 10. 3, 4. For they not knowing τὴν δικαιοσύνην τοῦ Θεοῦ, the Righteousness of God, and going about to establish their own Righteousness, have not submitted τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ τοῦ Θεοῦ to the Righteousness of God. For Christ is the end of the Law for Righteousness, that is, Justification, to every one that believeth, Philip. 3. 9. That I may be found in him, not having my own Righteousness, which is of the Law, but that which is by the Faith of Christ, τὴν ἐκ Θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην ἐπὶ τῇ πίστει, the Righteousness neſs of God by faith. The Interpretation therefore given in the Paraphraſe is very agreeable to Scripture, whereas the Gloſs of the Socinians puts a continual force upon the words: for where in Scripture doth ποιῶν ἁμαρτίαν ſignifie to treat an innocent perſon as a ſinner? where is it that to be made the Righteouſneſs of God in Chriſt, doth ſignifie our being made new Creatures, or our being ſanctified? where doth God's reconciling us to Jeſus Chriſt, import his converting the World to himſelf by Chriſt as his Ambaſſador? why is God ſaid not to impute to Men their Treſpaſſes by the preaching of Chriſt, who preached only to the loſt Sheep of the Houſe of Iſrael, rather than by the preaching of the Apoſtles to the whole Gentile World? How was he made ſin more than they, if he were only treated as a Sinner on the account of the ſame Doctrine, which they equally preached, and ſuffered for? And why may not Men be ſaid to be made the Righteouſneſs of God in the Apoſtles, as well as in Chriſt, if this only imports our being converted, and ſo made righteous by the Doctrine they, as well as he, deliver'd?

a Verſe 1. Χάριν τοῦ Θεοῦ, the Grace of God.] The Grace of God in the O. Teſtament imports his Favour and kind Affection to us; and in this ſenſe it is ſaid in general, a good man obtaineth, Ratzon, רָצוֹן יְהוָה, favour of the Lord, Prov. 3. 34. & 12. 2. or in particular, that ſuch a pious man found חֵן χάριν grace in the ſight of God, 2 Sam. 15. 25. Gen. 25. Exod. 3. 6. 8. for as when it is ſaid, that Joſeph found grace in his Maſter's ſight, the meaning is, his Maſter ſhew'd favour to him; and when 'tis added, that the Ægyptians found grace in the ſight of Joſeph, the meaning is, he was inclined to ſhew favour to them, and grant them Corn for their ſubſiſtence; So when the Scripture ſaith, that pious Perſons found grace in the ſight of God, the Phraſe muſt ſignifie God's inclination to ſhew Mercy, and bear a kind Affection to them. The Grace of God in the New Teſtament, when it is not uſed to ſignifie the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, bears generally the ſame ſenſe; as when the Angel ſaith to Mary, Thou haſt found grace with God, Luke 1. 30. St. Stephen of King David, that he found grace with God, Acts 7. 46. St. Luke, that Jeſus encreaſed χάριν in grace with God and Man, Luke 2. 52. when Paul and Silas are ſaid to be commended to the grace of God for the work of the Miniſtry, Acts 13. 3. & 14. 26. & 15. 40. this being done by their Prayers to God for his favour and aſſiſtance in that work. When Men are ſaid to be juſtified by the grace of God, Acts 15. 11. Rom. 3. 24. Eph. 1. 7. and ſo have forgiveneſs of their ſins, according to the riches of his grace, it muſt import the ſame; for Juſtification and Forgiveneſs of Sin are Acts of God's free Grace and Favour to the Sinner. When it is ſaid that we are ſaved by the grace of our Lord Jeſus, Acts 15. 11. by grace ye are ſaved, not of works, by grace we are ſaved through faith, Eph. 2. 8, 9. Seeing this is ſpoken to Men yet alive, and ſo oblig'd to work out their ſalvation with fear and trembling, it cannot mean they were actually ſaved, but only that they were called to a ſtate of Salvation, enjoy'd the means, and were put in the way of Salvation by Grace, according to thoſe words of the ſame Apoſtle, He hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy Calling, not according to our works, but the grace given us in Chriſt Jeſus, 2 Tim. 1. 9. and to be thus ſaved by grace, is to be ſaved by the mercy and favour of God to us, according to thoſe words of the Apoſtle, When the kindneſs and love of God our Saviour to man appeared, not by works of righteouſneſs which we have done, but by his mercy he ſaved us, Tit. 3. 4, 5. it being purely of the mercy, and the grace of God that any Nation is called to the Knowledge of Salvation by Chriſt. When the Grace of God is ſaid to have abounded towards us, Rom. 5. 15, 20. & 15. 16. that Grace is ſtiled the free Gift of God. When St. Paul ſaith, by the grace of God I am what I am, 1 Cor. 15. 10. that he was called by his grace, Gal. 1. 15. and that the grace of God was abundant to him, 1 Tim. 1. 13, 14. he himſelf interprets this of God's great Mercy to ſo great a Sinner. When he ſaith, I do not fruſtrate the grace of God, Gal. 2. 21. this he interprets to be God's favour to Mankind, in ſending his Son to die for us. The exceeding riches of his grace, Eph. 2. 7. is God's great kindneſs to us in Chriſt Jeſus; and by the grace of God it is that Chriſt taſted death for every man, 2 Tim. 1. 9. Hebr. 2. 9. Hence is this Goſpel ſtiled, the grace of God which brings ſalvation, Tit. 2. 11. the grace of God which is able to build us up, and procure us an inheritance among them that are ſanctified, Acts 20. 32. This alſo muſt be the import of the word, when the Apoſtles exhort their Converts to continue in the grace of God, Acts 13. 43. and when they inform us, that God confirmed the word of his grace by doing ſigns and wonders, Acts 14. 3. and that the law came by Moſes, but grace by Jeſus Chriſt, John 1. 17. See the Notes on Heb. 12. 28. & 13. 9. James 4. 6.

Ibid. Μὴ εἰς κένον τ χάριν δέξασθαι, not to receive this grace in vain.] This we do, (1.) when we do not obtain the end for which it was deſigned, viz. to teach us, denying all ungodlineſs and worldly luſts, to live righteouſly, ſoberly, and godly in this preſent world, Thus thoſe Oblations, which are not acceptable to God, are ſtiled vain Oblations, Iſai. 1. 13. and the Worſhip which is not according to his will, vain Worſhip, Matth. 15. 9. becauſe this Worſhip, and theſe Oblations, though deſigned to procure God's favour, will not do it. ſurrection, your faith is in vain, 1 Cor. 15. 17. and if you retain it not, ye have believed in vain, v. 2. So to labour in vain, and run in vain, Gal. 2. 2. & 4. 11. is to do theſe things without profit to them, for whoſe ſakes they are done: And thoſe are called vain queſtions and vain words, Tit. 3. 9. and Matth. 12. 36. which are unprofitable.

c Ver. 2. Καιρῷ δεκτῷ ἐπήκουσά σου, I have heard thee in a time acceptable.] Theſe are the words of God the Father to Chriſt, ſignifying that he had accepted his Interceſſion for the Converſion of the Gentiles, and declaring that he had given him εἰς διαθήκην τῶν ἐθνῶν, for a Covenant to the Nations, a Light to the Gentiles, and his Salvation to the ends of the Earth, Iſa. 49. 6, 8. And ſo the (a) Jews interpret them. That Salvation either in the Prophet ſpeaking of Chriſt, as the Salvation of the ends of the Earth, or in the Apoſtle ſpeaking of the Day of Salvation, ſhould mean the deliverance of the Chriſtians from the perſecuting Jews, is very improbable in it ſelf, and is confuted by thoſe words, Now is the day of Salvation; for Chriſtians then groaned under Perſecution both from Jew and Gentile; and the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, which is ſuppoſed to have brought this deliverance to the Chriſtians from the perſecuting Jews, was fourteen years after the writing this Epiſtle.

d Ver. 4. Θλίψεσι] Say ſome, imports Afflictions in the general; Ἀνάγκαις more grievous Troubles; Στενοχωρίαις ſuch Preſſures as reduce us to the greateſt ſtraits. See Chap. 4. 8, 9.

e Ver. 14. Μὴ γίνεσθε ἑτεροζυγοῦντες ἀπίστοις, be not unequally yoked with unbelievers.] Here note that theſe words cannot be duly brought to prove that Chriſtians muſt not communicate with vicious Perſons at the Table of the Lord, though they be Chriſtians in Profeſſion, ſince the Apoſtle only ſpeaks of unbelievers. (2.) The Apoſtle here uſeth the very words by which the Prophet Iſaiah, Chap. 52. 11. exhorts the Jews to preſerve themſelves in Babylon, from the contagion of their Idolatry, and by which St. John exhorts all Chriſtians not to partake of the Sins, or the Spiritual Whoredoms of the Beaſt, Rev. 18. 4. He therefore cannot be ſuppoſed to forbid all Chriſtians, all converſe even with the Unbeliever, for he permits the believing Husband to live with the unbelieving Wife, and will not ſuffer the believing Wife to depart from her unbelieving Husband, 1 Cor. 7. 12, 13. he therefore only doth forbid communion with them in actions proper to them as Heathens, and alien from the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, viz. their Feaſtings and Sacrifices in the Idol Temples, 1 Cor. 8. 10. & 10. 21. And by Analogy, he alſo may be ſuppoſed to forbid Chriſtians to marry with an Unbeliever, for this was always held unlawful for the Jews to marry with an (b) Heathen, till they became Proſelytes to their Religion: For they looking upon themſelves as the pure ſervants of God, Neh. 2. 20. See Note on 1 Cor. 7. 14. thought it a Corruption of the Holy Seed to marry with the People of the Earth; and hence, when this was done, Ezra complains παρήχθη σπέρμα ἅγιον ἐν τοῖς λαοῖς τῆς γῆς, the holy Seed was mixed with the People of the Earth, Ezra 9. 9. Now the Chriſtians being made an holy Nation, a peculiar People, the holy Temple in which God by his Spirit dwelt, it ſeemeth as unfit that they ſhould marry with Heatheniſh Idolaters; and therefore to ſuch of them as were free, the Apoſtle ſpeaks thus, Let them marry only in the Lord, 1 Cor. 7. 39. i. e. to one of their own Religion: the marriage with an Infidel being the cloſeſt Conjunction with them, ſubjecting them many times to a neceſſary abſtinence from Chriſtian Aſſemblies, and to continual Temptations to Apoſtacy, or compliance with their evil Manners.

Ver. 18. Ἔσομαι ὑμῖν εἰς πατέρα, I will be to you a Father.] Theſe words are not to be found in Jer. 31. 1, 9. but they are the words of God to Solomon the Ruler of his People, Δικαστὴν υἱῶν σου καὶ θυγατέρων, a Judge over his Sons and Daughters, Wiſd. 9. 7. and they begin thus, τὸ δὴ λέγει Κύριος παντοκράτωρ, thus ſaith the Lord Almighty, 2 Sam. 7. 8. & v. 14. ἐγὼ ἔσομαι αὐτῷ εἰς Πατέρα καὶ αὐτὸς ἔσαι μοὶ εἰς υἱόν, I will be to him a Father, and he ſhall be to me a Son, which words are by the Apoſtle aſcribed to Chriſt, Heb. 1. 4, 5. and here to all Chriſtians, as being Members of his Body, and Joint-heirs with him. Moreover, the (c) Jews boaſted that the Divine Majeſty dwelt among them. After the days of Jacob, ſaith the Book (d) Coſri, holy Men increaſed into a great Aſſembly, and the Schechinah, or Divine Majeſty, reſted upon them by love to be their God. This favour God here promiſes to pious Chriſtians, as being the true Iſraelites. Again, They alſo thought that Purity from Uncleanneſs was a neceſſary Requiſite to obtain this Preſence of God: (e) For God, ſay they, doth not appropriate his Name to Iſrael to be called their God, but when their Camps are holy; but at that very moment, that they are ſo, he makes his Preſence to dwell among them, and becomes their God; and theſe things the Apoſtle, according to the Scripture Language, here applies to the Society of Chriſtians. And oh! what a powerful Argument do they miniſter to all Chriſtians, to cleanſe themſelves from all filthineſs of Fleſh and Spirit, perfecting holineſs in the fear of God, as they deſire this Almighty Lord and Protector to be ſtill preſent with them, and would not be obnoxious to the dreadful woe which will certainly follow upon his departure, Hoſea 9. 12. as they would have this God to be their God, which is a ſtate of preſent Bliſs; for bleſſed are the People who have the Lord for their God, as they would have him related to them as an heavenly Father, which Relation ſecures the enjoyment of all Bleſſings to them, which they daily ask, Matth. 7. 12. Laſtly, As they deſire to be his Sons and Daughters, and by that glorious Relation to be made Heirs of God, Joint-heirs with Chriſt, Rom. 8. 17. and to have the Spirit of his Son in their hearts, crying Abba, Father, Gal. 4. 6.

CHAPTER VII.

Verſe 1. HAving therefore theſe Promiſes, dearly beloved, [of a God thus related to, and dwelling with us,] let us cleanſe our ſelves a from all filthineſs of fleſh, [all uncleanneſs, and intemperance;] and ſpirit, [all idolatry,] perfecting [or ſtill making progreſs in] holineſs, in the fear of [that holy] God [who dwelleth in, and ſtands ſo near related to us.]

2. [And] receive us [into your kind Affections, for] we have wronged no man, we have corrupted no man [from the truth] we have defrauded no man, [as your falſe Apoſtles have done, 2 Cor. 11. 3, 20.]

3. I ſpeak not this [with an evil mind] to condemn you, [as ſuſpecting ſuch things of us,] for I have ſaid before that you are in our hearts [Chap. 3. 2. ſo that we are ready] to die, and live with you, [i.e. we love you ſo affectionately, that we could even die for the promotion of your welfare.]

4. [And therefore] great is my boldneſs [or freedom] of ſpeech toward you; great [alſo] is my glorying of you; I am filled with comfort [for your obedience, v. 14. and your liberality, 2 Cor. 9. 2.] I am exceeding joyful [on that account] b in all our Tribulations.

5. [I ſay, our Tribulations;] For when we were come into Macedonia, our fleſh had no reſt [for them,] but we were troubled [and preſſed] on every ſide; without were fightings [with the oppoſers of the Goſpel,] within were fears [leſt the falſe Apoſtles ſhould have perverted you from the ſimplicity which is in Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 3.]

6. Nevertheleſs [that] God that comforteth thoſe that are caſt down, comforted us [alſo] by the coming of Titus [with good tidings from you, v. 13.]

7. And not by his coming only, but by the conſolation wherewith he was comforted in you, [which he diſcovered to us,] when he told us your earneſt deſire [to rectifie what was amiſs in the matter of the inceſtuous Perſon,] your mourning [for your miſcarriage in it,] your fervent mind towards me, [and zeal againſt my Adverſaries,] ſo that I rejoyced the more [for his conſolation, than for his coming.]

8. For [therefore] though I made you ſorry with a Letter, c I do not repent, [Gr. I am not ſorry,] though I did repent, [Gr. though I was ſorry, viz. that I was forced to make you ſo, Chap. 2. 4.] for I perceive that the ſame Epiſtle made you ſorry, though it were but for a little] ſeaſon.

9. Now I rejoyce, not [barely] that ye were made ſorry, but that ye ſorrowed to repentance; for ye were made ſorry after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

10. For godly ſorrow worketh repentance to ſalvation d not to be repented of, [Gr. not repented of] but the ſorrow of the world worketh death.

11. For behold, this ſelf ſame thing that he ſorrowed after a godly ſort, what carefulneſs it wrought in you [of obeying my directions, v. 15.] yea, what clearing of your ſelves [from guilt, by inflicting Cenſures on the guilty Perſon, and putting away evil from among you, 1 Cor. 15. 13.] yea, what indignation, [againſt him who had ſo diſhonoured his Profeſſion, and defiled the Church,] yea, what fear [of my diſpleaſure, or the Rod I threatned, 1 Cor. 4. 21.] yea, what vehement deſire [to rectifie what was amiſs in this matter, v. 7.] yea, what zeal [for me,] yea, what revenge [in puniſhing the delinquent, ſo that] in all things [by this deportment] you have approved your ſelves e to be clear [from guilt] in this matter.

12. Wherefore though I write [ſo ſeverely] to you, I did it not for his cauſe that had done the wrong, [as delighting in his puniſhment,] nor for his cauſe that ſuffered wrong, [i. e. out of particular kindneſs to the Father of the inceſtuous Perſon,] but [chiefly] that our care for you in the ſight of God might appear to you.

13. Therefore we are comforted in your comfort comfort, [i. e. in the comfort we received from your deportment in this matter,] yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus [in you,] becauſe his ſpirit was refreſhed by you all.

14. For [now] if I have boaſted any thing to him of you, I am not aſhamed, but as we ſpeak all things to you in truth, [and ſincerity,] even ſo our boaſting which I have made before Titus is found a truth.

15. And his inward affection, [Gr. his bowels,] is more abundant towards you, whilſt he remembreth the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling you received him, [leſt there ſhould be any thing found in you that might offend him, or require my rod.]

16. I rejoyce therefore that I [can] have [this] confidence in you in all things.

Annotations on Chap. VII.

a Verſe 1. Ἀπὸ πάσης μολυσμοῦ, from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit.] The ſins of the Corinthians being Uncleanneſs and Idolatry, [See the Preface to the firſt Epiſtle, and the Notes on Chap. 10.] they ſeem to be here more eſpecially intended.

b Ver. 4. Ἐπὶ πάσῃ τῇ θλίψει ἡμῶν, under all our Tribulations.] As ἐπὶ ſignifies, Mark 2. 26. Luke 3. 2. & 4. 17. Acts 11. 28. 1 Cor. 6.1.6. or amidſt them, as Luke 12. 14. or, after them, as Philip. 2. 27. Heb. 9. 15.

c Ver. 8. Οὐ μεταμέλομαι, I do not repent.] It ſeems incongruous that the Apoſtle ſhould repent of what he writ by the direction of the Holy Ghoſt, and to this very end to ſtir up a godly ſorrow in them; and therefore it ſeems better to render the Original, εἰ μεταμέλομαι, εἰ καὶ μετεμελόμην, with Grotius and others, Non doleo quanquam doluit mihi, I am not ſorry now, though I was ſorry when I writ this Epiſtle, doing it with many tears, Chap. 2. 4. Or thus, I do not repent, though I ſhould have repented, viz. if it had not found this good effect upon you.

d Ver. 10. Ἀμεταμέλητον, not repented of.] That is, Such a change from the Service of Sin, to the Service of God, as we do not revoke, or repent of by relapſing again into the Sins once left off. Note alſo, That godly Sorrow is not it ſelf Repentunce, but that which tends to work it in us by preſerving us from relapſing into that offence, which created ſo much bitterneſs and anguiſh to us: The ſorrow of the World worketh Death, it dries up the moiſture of the Body, Prov. 17. 22. and hath killed many, Eccluſ. 30. 23.

c Ver. 11. Ἁγνοὺς εἶναι, to be clear.] Note here that true Repentance from Sin clears us from the Guilt of it, not only in the ſight of God, but Man, ſo that it is both uncharitable and unchriſtian to ſtigmatize, or reproach any Perſon for the Sin we know, or believe he truly hath repented of.

CHAPTER VIII.

Verſe 1. MOreover, Brethren, we do you to wit of, [Gr. we make a known to you,] a the grace of God beſtowed on the Churches of Macedonia, [Philippi, Theſſalonica, Beræa, &c.]

2. How that in a great trial of Affliction, the abundance of their Joy [in the Holy Ghoſt appeared, 1 Theſſ. 1. 6.] and their
b deep poverty abounded b to the riches of their liberality; [or how they being very poor, and much afflicted, Acts 16. 20. & 17. 5, 13. did notwithſtanding with great cheerfulneſs and joy, make a rich Contribution towards the Relief of their poor Brethren in Judæa.]

3. For to their power I bear record, yea, c and c beyond their power, [or abilities,] they, [unſolicited by us,] were willing of themſelves [to contribute to the neceſſities of the poor Saints in Judæa.]

4. [Not being intreated by us, but] praying us with much intreaty that we would receive the gift, and take upon us the fellowſhip of miniſtring to the Saints; [or be one of thoſe who ſhould take care for the adminiſtration and conveyance of it to them, v. 19, 20, 21. Chap. 9. 12, 13. 1 Cor. 16. 4. Acts 24. 17.]

5. And this they did d not as we hoped, d
[or thought the event would be, who could expect only a ſmall Collection from Men ſo poor, and ſo exhauſted,] but firſt [they] gave themſelves unto the Lord, [i. e. to his ſervice in it,] and unto us [to be employed in the promotion of this Charity, or the diſtribution of it to others,] by the will of God [moving them ſo to do, or according to his will, 2 Cor. 9. 4.]

6. Inſomuch that [ſeeing this forwardneſs in others] we deſired Titus, that as he had [in his laſt viſit of you] begun, ſo he would [now] finiſh in you the ſame grace [or Charity] alſo, [and ſee that ye be not defective in it.]

7. Therefore [Gr. ἀλλ', but] as ye abound in every [other] thing [or gift] in faith, in utterance, and knowledge, [1 Cor. 1. 5.] and in all diligence [to amend what I had blamed you for, 2 Cor. 7. 11.] and in your love to us, [ibid. v. 7. ſo] ſee that ye abound, [or, I pray that ye would abound] in this grace alſo.

e 8. I ſpeak e not [this] by [way of] commandment, but [of advice only, v. 10.] by occaſion of the forwardneſs of others, and to prove the ſincerity of your love [to Chriſt, and his Saints *.]

9. [And command you I need not;] For ye know the grace [or kindneſs] of our Lord
f Jeſus Chriſt, that f though he was rich, [Gr. that being rich,] yet for your ſakes he became poor, that [ὑμᾶς] ye through his poverty might be rich; [or as Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius read, that [ἡμᾶς] we through his poverty might be rich; which is the ſame in ſenſe with the other Reading.]

10. And herein I give my advice; for this is expedient for you, who have begun g before g not only to do, but alſo to be for-h ward h a year ago.

11. Now therefore perform [or compleat,] the doing of it, that as there was a readineſs to will, ſo there may be a performance [of that will] alſo, out of that which ye have.

12. For if there be firſt a willing mind, [whatſoever is given] it is accepted, accord-i ing to that a man hath, i and not [expected he ſhould give] according to that he hath not.

13. For I mean not that other men be eaſed, [or by your Charity ſhould live at eaſe,] and you [in the mean time] burthened [with want.]

14. But [that Chriſtian Charity ſhould be k managed] by k an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a ſupply for their want, that [another time] their abundance alſo may be a ſupply for your want, that there may be equality.

15. [That in your Peregrination it may be] as it is written [of the Jews travelling into the wilderneſs, where] he that had gathered much [Manna] had nothing over, and and he that had gathered little had no lack, [Exod. 16. 18.]

16. But thanks be to God, which put the ſame earneſt care into the heart of Titus for you.

17. For indeed he [not only] accepted the Exhortation [I made to him concerning this Employment,] but being more forward [than I thought to find him,] l of his own l accord, he went unto you.

18. And we have ſent with him the Brother, m whoſe praiſe is in the Goſpel m throughout all the Churches.

19. And not that [or ſo] only, but who was alſo choſen of the Churches to travel with us with this grace, [or Charity,] which is adminiſtred, [or diſpenſed,] by us to the glory of the ſame Lord, and [to the] declaration of your ready mind [to relieve your poor Brethren, or of our ready mind to perform this charitable office; Theodor. and Oecumenius read ἡμῶν.]

20. [We by taking ſuch faithful Companions with us,] avoiding [or taking care of] this, that no man ſhould blame us, [or charge us with inſincerity,] in this abundance [of your liberality] which is adminiſtred by us.

21. [And ſo] providing for honeſt, [Gr creditable] things, not only in the ſight of the Lord, but alſo in the ſight of Men.

22. And we have ſent with them n our n
Brother, whom we have often times proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent [in this Employment] upon the great confidence that I have in you.

23. Whether any do enquire of Titus, he is my Partner, and Fellow-helper concerning you [in promoting your welfare and reformation, 2 Cor. 2. 13. & 7. 6, 7.] or [whether] our Brethren be enquired of, they are the Meſſengers of the Churches, and [the Promoters of] the glory of Chriſt.

24. Wherefore ſhew ye to them, and before the Churches, [the proof of your love [to me,] and of our boaſting on your behalf; [i. e. that we did not vainly boaſt of your readineſs to perform ſuch works of Charity.]

Annotations

a Verſe 1. Τὴν χάριν Θεοῦ τὴν δεδομένην ἐν, the grace of God beſtowed on,] Or the charitable Contribution given in the Churches of Macedonia, to which they were excited by God's rich grace towards them; for that χάρις ſignifies liberality appears from v. 6. I exhorted Titus to finiſh in you χάριν ταύτην this charitable Contribution; And v. 7. that ye alſo may abound ἐν τῇ χάριτι ταύτῃ in this liberal Contribution. And v. 19. who was choſen of the Churches to travel with us σὺν τῇ χάριτι ταύτῃ with this Charity to be diſpenſed by us. So Chap. 9. 8. God is able to make πᾶσαν χάριν all liberality abound among you. And 1 Cor. 16. 3. to bring τὴν χάριν your liberality to the poor Chriſtians. Hence χάρις is by Heſychius and Phavorinus interpreted a Gift, as it is here by the Apoſtle ſaying of this abounding Charity, Thanks be to God for this unſpeakable gift, Chap. 9. 14, 15. This Charity is ſtiled the grace of God, either for its exceeding greatneſs, as Cedars of God, and Mountains of God, ſignifie great Mountains and Cedars, Pſal. 36. 7. & 80. 11. See Note on Acts 7. 20. Gen. 23. 6. & 30. 5. Jon. 3. 3. or rather as proceeding from God as the Giver of this Diſpoſition, and the Motive to this Charity, as the zeal of God, 2 Cor. 11. 2. the love of God, 2 Cor. 5. 14. the grace of God, Tit. 2. 11.

b Ver. 2. Εἰς τὸν πλοῦτον τῆς ἁπλότητος αὐτῶν, to the riches of their liberality.] So the word ἁπλότης uſually ſignifies both in the Old and New Teſtament. So Prov. 11. 25. ψυχὴ ἁπλῆ, the liberal Soul ſhall be made fat, Rom. 12. 8. He that giveth, let him do it ἐν ἁπλότητι with liberality, 2 Cor. 9. 11. being enriched in all things εἰς πᾶσαν ἁπλότητα to all liberality. And again v. 13. James 1. 5. If any man lack wiſdom, let him ask it of God, who giveth ἁπλῶς liberally.

c Ver. 3. Ὑπὲρ δύναμιν, beyond their power.] Thus (a) Philo) notes it as the Excellency of a Servant to engage in his Maſter's Service, not only readily and laboriouſly, but even ὑπὲρ δύναμιν beyond his ſtrength.

d Ver. 5. Οὐ καθὼς ἠλπίσαμεν, not as we hoped.] The word ἐλπίσας, hoping, is uſed by the (b) Atticks, ſay Grammarians, not only touching good things, but ſimply touching the event of what is future, e Ver. 8. Οὐ κατ' ἐπιταγὴν, not by way of commandment, or injunction.] i. e. The Apoſtle commands not how much they ſhould confer, much leſs that they ſhould give all their Subſtance, and live upon a Common Stock, leaving nothing to themſelves which they could call their own; for where no man hath any thing of his own, there is no place for liberality.

f Ver. 9. Δι' ὑμᾶς ἐπτώχευσε πλούσιος ὤν, being rich, he became poor for you.] Theſe words the Socinians interpret thus, That Chriſt being the only Son of God, conceived by the Holy Ghoſt, and endued with the power of the Holy Ghoſt, and being one to whoſe power all things in the Earth did yield, was therefore ſtiled rich; and that he became poor when he was bound, led away, expoſed to contempt, ſpit upon, ſmitten on the face, whip'd, crucified. But this Interpretation ſeems not well conſiſtent with the words of the Apoſtle. For,

1. All theſe Sufferings are indeed proper Indications of Infamy caſt upon him, and ſeeming Infirmity in him, but not of Poverty, ſeeing the richeſt Man may be expoſed to all, or any of theſe things.

2. The words ſeem to imply ſome change in the Perſon of whom it is here ſaid, that being rich, he became poor; whereas Chriſt was not leſs the Son of God, or leſs indued with power, when he thus ſuffered, as appears by the great Miracles he then did. Others of them ſay, that he became poor by leading a poor life on Earth: But (1.) it is not by his Poverty on Earth that we are made rich, but by the Humiliation of himſelf. And (2.) he was thus poor from his Birth and Cradle, even before the Holy Spirit deſcended on him at his Baptiſm. How much more naturally therefore are theſe words interpreted by that of the ſame Apoſtle, that being in the form of God, and thinking it no robbery to be equal with God, he emptied himſelf of all his glory, when he came to take our Nature on him, taking together with it the form of a Servant, and humbling himſelf to the death, even the death of the Croſs? Phil. 2. 7, 8. See the Note there. Which death, ſaith Irenæus, he could only ſuffer ἡσυχάσαντι τῷ λόγῳ, the Divine Nature being then quieſcent, and not active in him, this is that glory which he had with the Father before the world was, and which he, after his Aſcenſion, re-aſſumed, John 17. 5. Now if Chriſt thus emptied himſelf of his glory, that we might be ſpiritually rich, it becomes us in imitation of his great Example, to part with our Temporals, to ſupply the Exigencies of his needy and afflicted Members.

g Ver. 10. Οὐ μόνον τὸ ποιῆσαι, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὸ θέλειν, not only to do, but to be willing, or forward.] It is known that the will goes before the deed, and therefore τὸ θέλειν here cannot barely signifie to will, but either to do it μετὰ προθυμίας with readiness and zeal, as the following Verse interprets it, or, with delight, as the word often signifies; So 1 Sam. 18. 22. θέλει ἐν σοὶ βασιλεύς, the King delights in thee. See 2 Sam. 15. 26. Psal. 5. 4. & 21. 8. & 40. 12. Esth. 6. 6, 7. & 8. 11. Mal. 3. 1. Matth. 37. 43. in all which places it answers to the Hebrew word Chaphetz.

h Ibid. Ἀπὸ πέρυσι, a year ago.] The Apostle had exhorted them in his Epistle writ a year ago, to this Contribution, 1 Cor. 16. 2. and they, in obedience to his Directions, had begun to lay up in store willingly, this Charity he now exhorts them to consummate; and this he says to shew they were not only moved to it by the Example of the Macedonians, but rather were Examples to them, Chap. 9. 2.

i Ver. 12. Οὐ καθὸ οὐκ ἔχει, not according to what he hath not.] What is due to another, either by Debt, or Duty of making Provision for those of his own Family, cannot be charitably given, as being not our own.

k Ver. 14. Ἰσότης, an equality.] So far Christianity seems to require this Equality, as that we should not suffer others to lack the Necessities of this present Life, whilst we abound in them.

l Ver. 17. Αὐθαίρετος, of his own accord.] Here we see the sweet Harmony there is betwixt the Gifts of God, and our Perswasion and Free-will. Titus was moved to this work by St. Paul's Exhortation, and was also willing of his own accord, and yet God, saith the Apostle, put this earnest care into his heart.

m Ver. 18. Οὗ ὁ ἔπαινος ἐν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ, διὰ πασῶν τῶν ἐκκλησιῶν, whose praise is in the Gospel.] Who this Brother was is much contested; Antiquity hath carried it for St. Luke, worthy of praise in all Churches for the Gospel he writ. The Authority of this Assertion seems to rest upon the words of (c) Origen, the interpolated (d) Ignatius, and (e) St. Jerom. And this Difficulty lies against it, that this Brother is sent before St. Paul to Corinth with Titus, whereas St. Luke went with him to Troas, and from thence to Corinth, Acts 20. 4, 6. So Dr. Lightfoot. To which it may be answered, That it is not certain that St. Paul went from Troas to Corinth; perhaps he rather went from Philippi to Corinth, and so to Troas. See the Preface. And so this Person being chosen by the Churches to travel with this Charity, v. 19. might be both sent before to prepare it, and being returned to give notice to St. Paul, that it was ready, might go back with him to receive it.

n Ver. 22. Τὸν ἀδελφὸν ἡμῶν, Our Brother,] Apollo, say some of the Ancients, viz. Theodoret and Oecumenius, who before doubted of them, and so was not disposed to come to them, 1 Cor. 16. 12. but now, upon St. Paul's confidence of their readiness to obey his Precepts, was prevailed upon to come.

CHAPTER IX.

Verse 1. [TO me, I say, and to these Messengers of the Church;] For as touching the ministring to the Saints [in Judæa,] it is superfluous for me to write to you [again.] a 2. For I know the a forwardness of your minds [in that affair,] for which I boast of you to them of Macedonia, that Achaia was ready a year ago, and [the fame and example of] your zeal, hath provoked very many.

3. Yet have I sent the Brethren, [mentioned Chap. 8. 17, 18.] lest our boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf, that as I said [Chap. 8. 11.] you may be [found] ready.

4. Lest haply if they of Macedonia [who gave themselves up to us, Chap. 8. 5.] come with me, and find you unprepared, we, that we say not you, should be ashamed in this same confident boasting.

5. Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the [aforesaid] Brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up before hand your Bounty, whereof you had notice [or declared] before, that the same might be ready as a matter of [free] bounty, and not [extorted from you with difficulty,] b as [a matter] of covetousness.

6. But [to preserve you from this temper] this I say, he which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly; and he who soweth bountifully, shall reap also bountifully [from God again, Prov. 11. 24, 25.]

7. Every man [then] according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give, not grudgingly, or [as] c of necessity [to avoid c shame, ſhame, or only to comply with the Example, or Importunity of others,] for God loveth a chearful giver.

8. And [to this end conſider that] d [d] God is able to make all grace abound towards you, that ye always, having all ſufficiency in all things, may abound in every good [and charitable] work.

9. [According] as it is written [Pſal. 112. 9.] He hath diſperſed abroad; he hath given e to the poor; [e] his righteouſneſs, [i. e. his liberality,] remaineth for ever [in remembrance before God.]

10. Now [may] he that miniſtreth ſeed to the ſower, both miniſter bread for your food, and multiply your ſeed ſown, and in- f creaſe the fruits of your [f] righteouſneſs.

11. [That you may ſtill make progreſs in them,] being enrich'd in every thing to all bountifulneſs, which cauſeth through us [who diſpenſe it] thankſgiving to God.

12. For the adminiſtration of this Service, not only ſupplieth the want of the Saints, but is abundant alſo by many Thankſgivings to [the glory of] God.

13. Whilſt by the experiment of this miniſtration, they [men] glorifie God for your g profeſſed ſubjection to the Goſpel of g Chriſt, and for your liberal diſtribution to them, and to all men.

14. And [you alſo will receive advantage] by their prayers for you, which long after you, [and earneſtly deſire your welfare,] for the exceeding grace of God [they ſee] in you.

15. Thanks be to God for his unſpeakable Gift, [i. e. this admirable Charity, by which God is ſo much glorified, the Goſpel receives ſuch credit, others are ſo much benefited, and you will be ſo plentifully by God rewarded.]

a Verſe 2. Τὴν προθυμίαν ὑμῶν, your forwardneſs.] Some tell us that St. Paul preached the Goſpel at Corinth freely for two Reaſons: (1.) Becauſe he obſerved in them ſuch a ſaving temper, as would hinder the progreſs of the Goſpel, if it ſhould prove matter of charge to them. But this cannot be a true account of the matter: 1. Becauſe he doth the ſame at Theſſalonica the Metropolis of Macedonia, labouring night and day, becauſe he would not become chargeable to any of them, 1 Theſſ. 2. 6, 9. 2 Theſſ. 3. 8. and throughout all Aſia, ſaying thus to them, You know that theſe hands have miniſtred to my neceſſities, and to thoſe that are with me, Acts 20. 33. And it ſeems plain from his own words, that no Church communicated any thing to him, but that of Philippi, Philip. 4. 15, 16. (2.) Becauſe he commends them for their readineſs, and willing mind here, and Chap. 8. 11, 19. and mentions the liberality of their Contribution, and their unſpeakable Gift, with thanks to God, v. 13, 14, 15. in this Chapter, in which he doth exhort them to compleat it. (3.) Becauſe they contributed to others who were falſe Apoſtles, and ſuffered them to take of them; ſo he inſinuates in theſe words, If others are partakers of this power over you, are not we much more? This he ſpeaks, ſay Chryſoſtom and the Greek Scholiaſts, not of Peter, or the other Apoſtles; for then he would not have ſaid, Are not we much more partakers of this power than they? ἀλλ' ἑτέρων τινῶν ψευδῶν, but of ſome falſe Apoſtles, and Corrupters of them, of whom he ſaith, 2 Cor. 11. 20. You ſuffer if a man devour you, if he take of you; which alſo is a Confutation of the ſecond pretended Reaſon of this Abſtinence, that the Apoſtle did this to diſappoint the arts of theſe falſe Teachers, who preached the Goſpel freely, and gloried in ſo doing. See the Note on 2 Cor. 11. 12, 13. The Apoſtle himſelf gives another Reaſon of the doing this, both here, and elſewhere, viz. not becauſe we have not power, but to make our ſelves an example to you to follow us, 2 Theſſ. 3. 9. And again, Acts 20. 34. I have ſhewed you all things; how that ſo doing you ought to ſupport the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jeſus, how he ſaid, It is better to give than to receive.

Ver. 5. Καὶ μὴ ὡσεὶ πλεονεξίαν, and not as a b matter of covetouſneſs.] The Corinthians abounded, ſaith (a) St. Chryſoſtom, πρὸς τὸν ἅπαντα τῆς γῆς χρημάτων ἐμπόριον, in wealth above all other Cities, as being a very famous Mart, and ſo the Apoſtle is concerned to ſtir them up to an abundant Charity, as he did v. 14. and becauſe Riches begat Covetouſneſs, he here arms them againſt that Vice. Note alſo, That to give Alms out of ſhame, or to ſatisfie the importunity of others, rather than out of love and good will, is a ſymptom of a covetous temper.

Ver. 7. Μὴ ἐξ ἀνάγκης, not of neceſſity.] c Note that Neceſſity in Scripture ſtands oppoſed, not to Co-action, but to the free Election of the Will. See the Note on Philem. 14. and on 1 Pet. 5. 2.

d Ver. 8. Δυνατὸς ὁ Θεὸς, God is able.] Here note, That not only the Promise, but the Power of that God, who is good to all, is a Motive to expect his Grace and Favour; See the Note on Rom. 11. 23. Heb. 2. 18. Note, 2*ly*, That περισσεύσαι here signifies to make, or cause to abound, so Matth. 13. 22. & 25. 29. Whosoever hath, to him shall be given, καὶ περισσευθήσεται, and he shall be made to abound, 1 Thess. 3. 12. The Lord make you to encrease, καὶ περισσεύσαι, and to abound in love.

e Ver. 9. Ἡ δικαιοσύνη αὐτῆς, his righteousness.] That is, his Liberality, as the word often signifies in the Septuagint; So Gen. 19. 19. Thou hast magnified τὸ δικαιοσύνῳ σου, thy mercy, or kindness to me, Chap. 20. 13. ταύτῳ τὸ δικαιοσύνῳ, This kindness shalt thou shew me, Chap. 24. 27. He hath not left τὸ δικαιοσύνῳ αὐτῆς, his kindness to Abraham, See v. 49. Chap. 32. 10. Exod. 15. 13. & 34. 7. Prov. 20. 28. & 31. 21. Isa. 63. 7. Hence צדקה is ten times by the Septuagint rendred ἐλεημοσύνη Alms.

Ver. 10. Note that all the Greek Scholia f read δικαιοσύνης, not διακονίας, ministry.

Ver. 13. Ἐπὶ τῇ ὑποταγῇ τῆς ὁμολογίας.] Ὁμολογία in g the New Testament still signifies the Confession of Faith, 1 Tim. 6. 12, 13. Heb. 3. 1. & 4. 14. & 10. 23. ὑποταγὴ subjection to the Precepts of that Faith. So the Apostle signifies, that men seeing in them, by this Charity, the sincerity of their love, Chap. 8. 8. and so of their obedience to the Gospel, will be induced to glorifie God, and own the Excellency of that Religion which produceth such Fruits of Righteousness.

CHAPTER X.

Verse 1. NOw I Paul my self, [who would not deal severely with you,] beseech you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, [which I desire to imitate, even I] who in, [or, as to my] presence am [esteemed] base among you, but being absent am [accounted] bold towards you, [v. 10.]

2. But [whatsoever you esteem me,] I beseech you that I may not [find reason to] be bold when I am present, with that confidence wherewith I think [meet] to be bold against some, who think of us as if we walked according to the flesh; [now saying one thing, and then another, according to our Carnal Interests, 2 Cor. 1. 17.]

3. For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh. [exercising our Authority in weakness;]

a 4. For a the weapons of our warfare are not [weak, Isa. 31. 3. and] carnal, but mighty through God, to the pulling down of [the] strong holds [of the Gentiles.]

5. Casting down [their] imaginations [and reasonings,] and every high thing that exalteth it self against the knowledge of God, and

b b bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of [the Gospel of] Christ; [i.e. making the Gentiles obedient to it, in word and deed, by mighty signs and wonders, and by the power of the Spirit of God, Rom. 15. 18, 19.]

6. And having in a readiness to revenge all [the] disobedience [of your dissolute Members, Chap. 12. 20, 21. and of these deceitful workers, by punishing them with our Spiritual

7. Do ye look on things after the outward appearance, [judging of me from my outward person, and the infirmities of my body, v. 1, 2. and not from the power of Christ resting upon me, 2 Cor. 12. 9. and working by me?] if any man [on the account of his Gifts] trust to himself that he is Christ's, [a Minister of Christ, 2 Cor. 11. 23. an Apostle of Christ, v. 13.] let him of himself think, [or conclude] this again, that as he is Christ's, even so are we Christ's; [For the proofs of Christ speaking in me are not weak, but mighty, 2 Cor. 13. 3. and in nothing are we behind the very chiefest Apostles, Chap. 12. 11.]

8. For though I should boast somewhat more [than I do, or they can do] d of our d Authority, which the Lord hath given us for edification, and not for [your] destruction, I should not be ashamed.

9. [And this I say] That I may not seem as if I would terrifie you by Letters, [as you say I do.]

10. e For his Letters, say they, are weigh- e ty and powerful, but f his bodily presence is f weak, and his speech contemptible.

11. [But] let such a one think [or conclude] this, that such as we are in word by Letters, when we are absent, such will we be also in deed when we are present, [for if I come again I will not spare, Chap. 13. 2. but punish all disobedience.]

12. [This I say only,] For we dare not make our selves of the number, or compare our selves with some [among you] who commend themselves, [for their own performances, above measure, not considering how much they fall short of the performances of them they vilifie;] but they [thus] measuring themselves [only] by themselves, and comparing themselves [only] among themselves, [one false Apostle with another,] are not wise.

13. g But we will not boast, [Gr. neither will we boast,] of things without measure, [or

15. Not boaſting of things without our meaſure, that is, of other men's labours, but having hope, when your faith is encreaſed, that we ſhall be enlarged by you, [giving teſtimony to our labours] according to our Rule, [Gr. in reſpect of our line,] abundantly,

a Verſe 4. Τὰ ὅπλα τ στρατείας ἡμῶν, the weapons of our warfare.] That theſe include the Cenſures of the Apoſtolical Authority is certain; but that they are to be reſtrained to them, I do not think; but rather that they chiefly do refer to the miraculous Powers God had given them for the Converſion of the Gentiles to the Chriſtian Faith. Moreover, the Apoſtolical Rod ſeems not to relate to the power of Excommunication, but of inflicting Corporal Diſeaſes on Perſons refractory, and diſorderly, and ſeemeth not to have been continued after the death of the Apoſtles.

b Ver. 5. Αἰχμαλωτίζοντες πᾶν νόημα, captivating every thought.] The Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of captivating the reaſon of a Chriſtian to the Articles of Faith, by his belief of any thing propoſed as ſuch, though never ſo abſurd, or contrary to the reaſon of all Mankind, as ſome Popiſh Doctors lewdly talk; but of captivating the Reaſonings of Jew and Gentile, againſt the Chriſtian Faith, by the Demonſtration of the Spirit and Power, 1 Cor. 2. 4. Captivat intellectum, dum contradicentem ratione vincit, Ambr.

c Ver. 6. Ὅταν πληρωθῇ ὑμῶν ἡ ὑπακοή, when your obedience is fulfilled.] His love to the Corinthians, whom he deſired to ſpare, and the infirm ſtate of their Church at preſent, made him chuſe to defer the Puniſhment of theſe Offenders, till he had wrought off the Affections of the Corinthians from their falſe Apoſtles, and made them more unanimous in their regards to him; and this is the beſt Excuſe that can be made for the neglect of Chriſtian Diſcipline in any Church, viz. That (a) there is no place for ſevere Remedies, when the Diſeaſe hath infected the whole Church; the Apoſtle being here forced to yield to this Neceſſity, becauſe the Offenders in the Church of Corinth being many, they could not eaſily be puniſhed. Accordingly the Primitive Church relaxed the Severity of its Diſcipline, when great Multitudes were concerned, or ſuch as were like to draw great Multitudes after them.

d Ver. 8. Περὶ τ ἐξουσίας ἡμῶν, of our Authority.] The Apoſtle ſeems to refer to the Authority peculiar to the Apoſtles, of inflicting Corporal Puniſhments, on refractory Perſons, and delivering them up to Satan; See Note on 1 Cor. 4. 21. & 5. 5. which Power none of theſe falſe Teachers could pretend to, 1 Cor. 4. 19, 20. And this, ſaith he, the Lord hath given me for Edification, and not for Deſtruction, it being deſigned for revenging mens Diſobedience, v. 6. for the ſaving of the ſpirit, 1 Cor. 5. 5. and to teach Men, by what they ſuffer, not to blaſpheme the Truth, 1 Tim. 1. 20.

e Ver. 10. Ἐπιστολαί, Letters.] It cannot be hence concluded, That St. Paul writ more than one Epiſtle to them, for nothing is more common than this Enallage of Number. So Polycarp writing to the Philippians, ſaith, That St. Paul being abſent ἔγραψεν ὑμῖν ἐπιστολάς, writ Epiſtles to you. See Cotelerius there.

f Ibid. Παρουσία τ σώματος ἀσθενὴς, his bodily preſence is mean.] Seems plainly to refer to that which (b) Chryſoſtom, Nicephorus and Lucian relate of St. Paul, that his ſtature was low, his body crooked, and his head bald; and so he was literally κατὰ σῶμα ταπεινὸς; low in person, v. 1. when it is added that his Speech was contemptible, this cannot be understood as if it were so for want of Eloquence, or the floridness of the Greeks, for that was as much wanting in his Letters, as his Speech, or Sermons; it therefore seemeth to refer to some Infirmity of his Speech in Teaching. See Note on 2 Cor. 12. 7.

g Ver. 13, &c. In these four Verses the Apostle seems to advance himself above the false Apostles in these things: (1.) That whereas they could shew no Commission to preach to the Corinthians, no measure by which God had distributed the Corinthians to them as their Province, he could do so, v. 13. (2.) That whereas they went out of their Line, leaping from one Church to another, he went on orderly in conversion of Churches to the Faith, from Judæa through all the interjacent Provinces till he came to Corinth. (3.) Whereas they only came to, and perverted those Churches where the Faith had been already preached, and so could only boast of things made ready to their hands, v. 16. he had still striven to preach the Gospel, where Christ was not named, lest he should build upon another man's foundation, Rom. 15. 20.

CHAPTER XI.

Verse 1. WOuld to God you could bear with me a little in [this] a a my [seeming] folly [in boasting of my own performances,] and indeed bear with me.

2. For [I therefore do it because] I am jealous over you with a godly jealousie;
b for I have espoused you to one husband, [and desire] that I may present you as b a chast Virgin unto Christ [your Husband.]

3. But I fear, lest by any means, as the c Serpent beguiled c Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should, [by the subtilty of deceitful workers,] be corrupted from the simplicity [of the Faith] that is in Christ; [by mixing the observation of the Law with the Gospel, as these Judaizers did, and so returning as it were to your former husband. See Note on Rom. 7. 3.]

4. For if he that cometh [after me] preacheth another Jesus, [i. e. hath another Saviour to propound to you,] whom we have not preached; or if ye receive [from him] another Spirit [affording such Spiritual Gifts] which ye have not received [from us,] or another Gospel which ye have not accepted [or received already,] ye might well bear with him [in his pretensions to exceed us, but this cannot be said.]

5. For I suppose [in these things] I was not a whit behind the very chiefest Apostles, [Peter, James, and John, from whom these false Teachers from Judæa may pretend to come, 1 Cor. 1. 12.]

d 6. [But] though I be d rude in speech, yet [am I] not [so] in knowledge [of Christ and his Gospel,] but we have been throughly made manifest among you in all things [of this nature, Chap. 12. 11, 12.]

7. Have I committed an offence in abasing my self [so far, as to labour with mine
e own hands] e that you might be exalted [by the Spiritual Riches and Advantages of the Gospel; and in being an Apostle more regardful of you, than of other Churches?] because [being chargeable to some of them,] I have preached to you the Gospel of God freely.

8. f I robbed [i. e. made naked] other f
Churches, taking wages [or a stipend] of them to do you service.

9. And when I was present with you, and wanted, g I was chargeable to no man; for g that which was lacking to me, the Brethren which came from [Philippi, Philip. 4. 15, 16. in] Macedonia supplied; and in all things I have kept my self from being burthensome to you, and so will I keep my self.

10. As the truth of Christ is in me, no man shall stop me of this boasting in the Regions of Achaia.

11. [And] wherefore [do I thus resolve? Is it] because I love you not? God knows [the contrary.]

12. But what I do [of this kind] that I will [still] do, that I may cut off occasion [of boasting] from them which desire occasion, h that wherein they glory, they may be found h even as we.

13. For such are [your] false Apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the Apostles of Christ, [seeming to do as we do, or desiring to be thought equal to us in all things.]

14. And no marvel, for Satan himself is [sometimes] transformed into an Angel of Light, [pretending to do their work, and be a ministring Spirit to them whom he intendeth to destroy.]

15. Therefore it is no great thing if his Ministers also be transformed as the Ministers of Righteousness, whose end shall be according, [not to their specious, and hypocritical pretences, but] to their works, [Philip. 3. 18.]

17. That which I ſpeak [thus] I ſpeak it not after the Lord, [as commanded by him ſo to ſpeak,] but as it were fooliſhly, in this confidence of boaſting, [though the falſe Apoſtles have made it neceſſary, and ſo a part of Chriſtian Wiſdom ſo to do, Chap. 12. 11. to vindicate my Apoſtleſhip, and to confirm you in the Truth.]

18. Seeing that many glory after the fleſh, [as being the Seed of Abraham according to the fleſh,] I will glory [as to that] alſo.

19. [Nor can my ſeeming folly offend you, if you be indeed what you pretend,] for you [will] ſuffer fools gladly, ſeeing you your ſelves are wiſe [in your own conceits; or being wiſe, you muſt ſuffer fools gladly.]

20. [And ſure I am you can bear with greater matters;] For ye ſuffer, if a man bring you into bondage [to the Jewiſh Rites, Gal. 4. 9. & 5. 1.] if a man devour you, [as did the Phariſees widows houſes, living deliciouſly upon your Subſtance,] if a man take of you, [if he take away what is yours,] i if a man exalt himſelf [above you,] if a man ſmite you on the face, [or uſe you contumelioufly.]

21. [That which I ſaid of ſmiting you upon the face,] I ſpeak as concerning [the] reproach [they caſt upon you as prophane, uncircumciſed, whereas they are an holy Nation,] as though we had been weak, [i. e. inferiour to them in theſe things, not able to aſcribe to our ſelves theſe advantages as well as they;] howbeit, whereinſoever any is bold [in this kind,] I ſpeak fooliſhly, I am bold alſo.

l 23. l Are they Miniſters of Chriſt? I ſpeak as a fool, I am more [ſo,] in labours more abundant [than any of them,] in ſtripes above meaſure, [Acts 16. 22, 23.] in priſons more frequent, [v. 24.] in deaths oft, [1 Cor. 15. 31. 2 Cor. 4. 11.]

24. Of the Jews five times received I forty ſtripes m ſave one. m

25. Thrice [by the Gentiles] was I beaten with rods; [Acts 16. 23.] once was I ſtoned, [Acts 14. 19.] thrice I ſuffered ſhipwrack, a night and a day I have been n in the deep: n

26. In journeying often, in perils of waters, in perils of Robbers, in perils by my own Country-men, [Acts 20. 3.] in perils by the Heathen, in perils in the City [Damaſcus, Jeruſalem, Epheſus,] in perils in the Wilderneſs, in perils in the Sea, in perils among falſe Brethren.

27. In wearineſs and painfulneſs, in watchings often, [2 Theſſ. 3. 8.] in hunger and thirſt, in faſtings often, in cold, and nakedneſs, [1 Cor. 4. 11. 2 Cor. 6. 5.]

28. [And] beſides thoſe things which are without, that which cometh upon me daily [is] the care of all the Churches, [planted by me, 2 Cor. 7. 5.] or by others among the Gentiles, Coloſſ. 2. 1.]

29. [For] who [of them] is weak, and I am not [as] weak [in compaſſionating them, and complying with their weakneſs? 1 Cor. 9. 22.] who is offended, [or ready to fall from his Profeſſion,] and I burn not [with zeal to recover him?]

30. If I needs muſt glory, I will glory of the things which concern my Infirmities, [i. e. rather in my Sufferings for Chriſt, than in the great things he hath done by me.]

31. The God, and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which is bleſſed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not [in any thing I have now ſaid of my Sufferings.]

32. In Damaſcus the Governour under Aretas the King kept the City of the Damaſens with a Gariſon, deſirous to apprehend me [in compliance with the Jews.]

33. And through the Window in a baſket, was I let down by the wall, o and eſcaped his hands. o

a Verſe 1. Τῆς ἀφροσύνης μου, my folly.] Though the neceſſity which lay on the Apoſtle thus to commend himſelf for vindication of his Apoſtleſhip, made him free from folly in this matter, yet becauſe Self-condemnation uſually proceeds from Vanity, and Folly, and they who know not the neceſſity which lay upon him ſo to ſpeak, would be apt to impute this to him, he uſeth this word here, though ſaying, v. 16. Let no man think me a fool in this my boaſting. And Chap. 12. 6. Though I did glory, I ſhould not be a fool.

b Ver. 2. Παρθένον ἁγνὴν, a chaſt Virgin.] Here is thought to be an Alluſion to the ἁρμόσασθαι of the Lacedæmonians, who formed the Lives and Manners of the Virgins, and made them Regular, and ſo prepared them for their Husbands. But the Greek Commentators agree with our Tranſlation, rendring dring the word ἁρμοσάμην, by ἐμνησάμην, I have eſpouſed you: So (a) Phavorinus doth interpret theſe very words. And ſo the word is uſed frequently by (b) Herodotus, and it bears the ſame ſenſe in the Septuagint, ὃς ἁρμόζεται γυνὴ ἀνδρὶ, the wife is eſpouſed to the husband of the Lord, Prov. 19.14. As therefore the Jews ſay, that (c) Moſes eſpouſed Iſrael to God in Mount Sinai, when he made them enter into Covenant with him; ſo ſaith the Apoſtle here, by converting you to the Chriſtian Faith, I have eſpouſed you to one husband, even Chriſt.

c Ver. 3. Εὔαν, Eve.] He mentions Eve, not Adam, becauſe ſhe only was perſonally deceived by the Serpent, and was firſt in the tranſgreſſion, 1 Tim. 2. 14.

d Ver. 6. Ἰδιώτης τῷ λόγῳ, rude in ſpeech.] This cannot refer to his want of Eloquence, or Rhetorical Artifice in his Compoſitions, for this ſeems equally wanting in the Epiſtles of St. Peter and St. James; it therefore muſt refer to ſome imperfection in his Speech, which they had not.

e Ver. 7. Ἵνα ὑμεῖς ὑψωθῆτε, that you might be exalted.] So St. James uſeth the word, ſaying, Let the brother of low degree rejoyce ἐν τῷ ὑψει αὐτοῦ in his exaltation to the Riches, and Privileges of the Chriſtian Faith, Chap. 1. 9. So the Song of the Virgin Mother ſaith, that God by ſending the Meſſiah ὕψωσε ταπεινοὺς hath exalted them that were low, Luke 1. 52. And Capernaum is ſaid to be ὑψωθεῖσα exalted to Heaven by our Saviour's frequent preaching to them, Luke 10. 15.

f Ver. 8. Ἐσύλησα, I robbed.] Συλᾶν, γυμνᾶν, the word ſignifies to make naked, ſaith Phavorinus; to ſpoil, ſay others: For the Churches of Macedonia, from whom he received his Gifts, being poorer than that of Corinth, 2 Cor. 8. 2. might comparatively ſeem by this to be ſpoiled of what was neceſſary for them.

g Ver. 9. Οὐ κατενάρκησα ὑμῶν, I ſtunn'd no body with complaints;] I importuned none of them to ſupply my wants.

h Ver. 12. Ἵνα ἐν ᾧ καυχῶνται, that in what they glory.] This moſt Interpreters thus gloſs, That whereas the falſe Apoſtles glory in preaching the Goſpel freely, they may be found even in that to do only what we have ſtill done among you: And true it is that the Jewiſh Writers tell us, that their wiſe men of old would not be nouriſhed ſo from the Church, but rather choſe to get their living by their own labour, and therefore uſed to ſay, It is better to skin dead Beaſts, than to ſay to the People, I am a wiſe Man, or a Prieſt, therefore nouriſh me; and that the moſt excellent and perfect of them clave wood, and carried timber, and drew water, and wrought in Iron and Coals, and neither asked, nor would receive any thing of the Church; and therefore to make himſelf equal with the beſt of theſe wiſe men of the Jews, St. Paul might refuſe Maintenance from the Churches of Achaia. See Campegius Vitranga de Synag. Vet. l. 3. part. 1. c. 18. p. 884, 885. But this Expoſition is liable to this great Objection, That the Apoſtle ſpeaking to the Corinthians of the ſame Perſons, ſaith, Ye ſuffer if a man devour you, if a man take of you, v. 20. and 1 Cor. 9. 12 If others are partakers of this power, are not we much more? And elſewhere he repreſents theſe Jewiſh Teachers, as counting gain godlineſs, and doing all things for filthy lucre, Phil. 3. 19 1 Tim. 6. 5. 2 Tim. 3. 2. Tit. 1. 11. Others therefore interpret the words thus, This I will do, that I may cut off occaſion of glory from them who ſeek occaſion, that they may be found even as us. In which thing they would glory, but now they cannot do it, becauſe they are known to receive of you.

Ver. 20. Εἴ τις ἐπαίρεται, if a man exalts himſelf.] The Jews had a very high opinion of themſelves, as being the Seed of Abraham, and ſo of noble birth; (See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 26.) the People of God, and ſo holy and beloved of him; his firſt born and only begotten, for whom the world was made, 2 Eſd. 6. 59, 60. Hence in their Prayers to God they ſay, Populus tuus ſumus, Fœderati tui, progenies Abrahami, amici tui, cui ſacramento fidem tuam obſtrinxiſti in monte Moriæ, ſemen Iſaachi dilecti tui, qui ligatus fuit ſuper Altari tuo, cœtus Jacobi filii tui, Primogeniti tui, &c. And they had as mean and deſpicable thoughts of all other Men, whom therefore they inſulted over, calling them (d) the People of the Earth, the Prophane, yea, likening them to Dogs, (See Note on Philip. 3. 2.) and ſpittle; 2 Eſdr. 6. 56, 57. And from this Opinion, that the world was made for them, (See Note on 1 Cor. 3. 22.) they might eaſily conclude, that it was lawful for them to take it away from others, as being uſurpers of it. Hence (e) Buxtorf cites this Paſſage from the Talmud, That all the Poſſeſſions of the Gentiles are as Common, he that firſt ſeizes on them is Lord of them.

k Ver. 22. Ἑβραῖοί εἰσι, Ἰσραηλῖται; Are they Hebrews, are they Iſraelites?] Here is a certain Indication that theſe falſe Apoſtles and deceitful Workers were not originally Samaritans, as S. Magus, Doſitheus, and their Followers were, but of the Jewiſh Extract. 2ly, That they were Jews converted to, and ſtill owning, and preaching up the Faith of Chriſt, as is evident from the words following, Are they Miniſters of Chriſt? ſo am I; as alſo from Chap. 10. 7. It therefore ſeems that they muſt be of the Sect of (f) Cerinthus, that great Stickler againſt St. Paul for the neceſſity of Circumciſing the Gentiles, and for their Obſervation of the Law of Moſes; or the Nazarens or Ebionites; For theſe are not the Names of Perſons who were the Authors of any Sects, but of the (g) Jews which believed in Jeſus, and yet were zealous obſervers of the Law of Moſes. Now theſe Jews, before they believed, were of two ſorts; ſuch as admitted other Nations to live quietly among them, and even to embrace their Religion without Circumciſion; and ſuch as by no means would permit them ſo to do. Thus when Izates the Son of Helen Queen of Adiabene, embraced the Jewiſh Religion, (h) Ananias declared, he might do it without Circumciſion; but (i) Eleazar maintained that it was ἀσέβεια great impiety to remain uncircumciſed. And when two eminent Perſons of Traconitis fled to Joſephus, the (k) Zealots among the Jews, were urgent for their Circumciſion, if they would abide with them, but Joſephus perſwaded the Multitude againſt it. And this Controverſie continued after they embraced Chriſtianity, ſome allowing them to embrace Chriſtianity without ſubmitting to Circumciſion and the Jewiſh Law, others contending that without Circumciſion, and the Obſervance of the Law, they could not be ſaved. And theſe were the falſe Apoſtles which troubled the Churches of Corinth, Galatia, Philippi, and were great Enemies to St. Paul, who taught the contrary. So Epiphanius informs us of the (l) Cerinthians, adding alſo of the Nazarens, that they in all things accorded with the Doctrines of the Cerinthians. And certain it is, that ſuch Perſons went from Judæa, and gave great diſturbance to all Chriſtian Churches, eſpecially to thoſe which had been planted by St. Paul; for in the firſt Epiſtle to Timothy, and that to Titus, we have mention of thoſe of the Circumciſion who were vain Talkers and Deceivers, Tit. 1. 10, 11. 1 Tim. 1.4,6. Chap. 6.4,5. See Gal. 4. 9, 10. & 6. 12, 13. Philip. 3. 2. Col. 2. 16, 20.

Ver. 23. Note here that the Apoſtle proves the truth of his Miniſtry and Apoſtleſhip, not, as elſewhere, from the Miracles and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, which accompanied his preaching, but from his Sufferings, as being the things theſe falſe Apoſtles could not pretend to, Gal. 5. 11. & 6. 12. and ſo could not glory that they were like unto him in them, v. 13. l

Ver. 24. Παρὰ μίαν, ſave one.] The Law aſſigned forty ſtripes to them that were worthy to be beaten, but forbad them to exceed that number, Deut. 25. 3. But it being their Cuſtom to beat them with a Whip that had three Cords, and ſo every ſtroke with it going for three, they could only give them thirty nine, or forty two, which would have exceeded the number appointed by the Law; and therefore (m) Joſephus ſays, he that did contrary to the Law received by a publick Whip forty ſtripes ſave one. m

Ver. 25. Ἐν τῷ βυθῷ, in the deep.] This cannot well be underſtood of the Priſon at Cyzicum; for we never read that St. Paul preached there; nor of the Shipwrack, mentioned Acts 27. for that hapned after the writing of this Epiſtle; but probably of ſome of the other Shipwracks mentioned here, in which he might be ſo long toſſed to and fro in the Sea, upon ſome broken piece of Ship, before he got to Land, as (n) Joſephus ſaith he was. n a Verſe 1. [a] IT is not expedient for me, doubtleſs, to glory, [but ſince it may be ſo to you,] I will come to Viſions and Revelations of the Lord.

2. I knew a man in Chriſt above fourteen years ago, whether in the body I cannot tell, or whether out of the body I cannot tell, God knoweth, [I ſay, I knew] ſuch a one caught up to the third Heavens, [the Habitation of the bleſſed Angels, and of the Majeſty of God.]

3. And [again] I knew ſuch a man, whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth,

4. How that he was [at another time] b [b] caught up into Paradiſe, and [there] heard unſpeakable words, which it is not lawful, [or poſſible,] for a man to utter.

5. Of ſuch a one, [thus rapt out of himſelf,] will I glory, yet [or but] of my ſelf, [as I appear to you in my own perſon,] I will not glory [willingly] but in mine infirmities.

6. [Not that I really eſteem it a folly ſo to do; though in compliance with you I do ſtile it fooliſhneſs, 2 Cor. 11. 1, 16, 17. & 12. 11.] for though I could deſire to glory [of theſe things] I ſhall not be a fool; for I will [ſhall only] ſay the truth; but now I forbear [even to ſpeak of that,] leſt any man ſhould think of me above that which he ſees me to be, or he heareth of me; [above what my conſtant words and actions teſtifie of me.]

7. And leſt I ſhould be exalted above meaſure through the abundance of the Revelations [vouchſafed to me,] there was given c to me a thorn in the fleſh, [c] the Meſſenger of Satan to buffet me, [or, that a Meſſenger of Satan might buffet me,] leſt I ſhould be exalted above meaſure.

d 8. For this thing [d] I beſought the Lord [Chriſt, v. 9.] thrice that it might depart from me, [i. e. that I might be delivered from this thorn in my fleſh;]

9. And he ſaid unto me, My grace, [or favour,] is ſufficient for thee; for my ſtrength is made perfect, [and ſhewed more illuſtriouſly] in [this thy] weakneſs; moſt gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Chriſt may [more conſpicuouſly appear to] reſt upon me.

10. Therefore I take pleaſure in [theſe] infirmities [of the fleſh,] in [the] reproaches [I ſuffer upon that account,] in neceſſities, in perſecutions, in diſtreſſes for Chriſt's ſake; for when I am [thus] weak [in my ſelf,] then am I ſtrong [in the power of Chriſt. This latter Clauſe is in all the Greek Scholiaſts.]

11. I am become [as] a fool in glorying [thus, but] ye have compelled me [to it,] for I ought [rather] to have been commended of you; for in nothing am I behind the very chiefeſt Apoſtles, though I be nothing [of my ſelf, but through the grace of God I am what I am, 1 Cor. 15. 10.]

12. Truly the ſigns of an Apoſtle were wrought among you [by me] in all patience, in ſigns and wonders, and [in] mighty deeds. [See the Note on Heb. 2. 4.]

13. For what is it wherein you were inferiour to other Churches, except [it were in this] that I my ſelf was not burthenſome to you? forgive me this wrong.

14. Behold the e third time I am ready to e come to you, and I will [ſtill continue] not [to] be burthenſome to you, for I ſeek not yours, but you; f for the Children ought f not to lay up for the Parents, but the Parents for the Children.

15. And I [like a good ſpiritual Father] will very gladly ſpend [my ſpiritual Treaſures on you,] and be [ſpent my ſelf] for you, though the more abundantly I love you, the leſs I be loved.

16. But be it ſo; I did not burthen you [my ſelf:] Nevertheleſs [it may be ſuggeſted by ſome, that] being crafty, I caught you with guile, [getting much from you by the means of others.]

17. [I ask therefore,] Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I ſent to you?

18. I deſired Titus [to go to you] and with him I ſent a Brother: Did Titus make a gain of you? walked we not in the ſame ſpirit? walked we not in the ſame ſteps?

19. Again, think you that we excuſe our ſelves ſelves unto you [by ſpecious pretences, when we ſay that we deferred our coming that we might ſpare you, and be helpers of your joy? 2 Cor. 2. 23, 24.] we ſpeak [as] before God in Chriſt, [calling him again to record that we uſe no ſuch Arts,] but we do all things, dearly beloved, [as we did that,] for your edifying.

20. [And too much reaſon had we ſo to do;] For [yet] I fear, leſt when I come, I ſhall not find you ſuch as I would, and that I ſhall be found unto you [by inflicting neceſſary Cenſures, and Puniſhments upon you,] ſuch as you would not, leſt there be debates, envyings, wraths, ſtrifes, backbitings, whiſperings, ſwellings, tumults, [the uſual, and almoſt neceſſary conſequence of Schiſms and Factions in a Church.]

21. And leſt when I come again, my God will humble me among you, and that I ſhall [find reaſon to] bewail many who have ſinned already, g and have not repented g of the uncleanneſs, and fornication, and laſciviouſneſs which they have committed, [after the Example, and by the Inſtigation of their falſe Teachers, who themſelves practice the hidden things of ſhame, 2 Cor. 4. 2. and whoſe exhortation is of uncleanneſs, 1 Theſſ. 2. 3.]

a Verſe 1. Καυχᾶσθαι δ᾽ ὐ συμφέρει.] All the Greek Scholiaſts own our reading of theſe words, which may from the Greek be rendred, Surely it profiteth (or it advantageth) not me to glory, for I ſhall come to viſions; and then the ſenſe may be ſupplied thus, But it may be ſo to you, for I ſhall come to Viſions and Revelations of the Lord, in which I ſhall give ſuch an Evidence of the favour of Chriſt to me, ſuch a Teſtimony of my Miſſion from Heaven, as none of theſe falſe Apoſtles, or deceitful Workers can pretend to.

b Ver. 4. Ἁρπαγέντα.] Here (1.) it is enquired, Whether St. Paul was either, as to Soul only, or as to Soul and Body jointly, rapt into Heaven, or Paradiſe, as the Spirit ἥρπασεν caught up Philip, Acts 8. 39. or whether he only had a Viſion of theſe things on Earth, as the Spirit took up Ezekiel in a Viſion, Ezek. 11. 24. and as St. John was carried away into the Wilderneſs. I encline to the Opinion that this was a Real Rapture, as being moſt agreeable (firſt) to the words ἡρπάγη ἕως, he was ſnatcht as far as to the third Heaven, and ἡρπάγη εἰς Παράδεισον, he was ſnatcht up into Paradiſe; for theſe words do not well agree to a Viſion, or to an Extaſie. As for the ſeeming Raptures of Ezekiel and St. John, the Text plainly informs us, that they were not real, by ſaying, The Spirit took me up, and brought me in a Viſion by the Spirit of God into Chaldæa, Ezek. 11. 24. And again, The hand of the Lord was upon me, and carried me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and ſet me down in the midſt of the Valley that was full of Bones, Chap. 37. 1. And of St. John, He carried me away in the Spirit into the Wilderneſs, Rev. 17. 3. And Chap. 21. 10. He carried me in the Spirit to a great, and high Mountain. In theſe two Inſtances all is expreſly ſaid to be done ἐν πνεύματι in the Spirit; but nothing of this nature is intimated in St. Paul's Rapture. If you ſay he owns that this was done ἐν ὁπτασίᾳ in a Viſion; I anſwer, He ſeems not to ſay ſo, but only that in this Rapture he had a Viſion of the Lord. (2.) He ſays, He cannot tell whether he was then in the Body, or out of the Body; whereas in all imaginary Viſions the Soul continues in the Body. (3.) He adds, That he heard there unſpeakable words, which intimates that he was really in Paradiſe.

Q. 2. A ſecond Enquiry is, Whether St. Paul here ſpeaks of one Viſion or Rapture only, or of more. I anſwer, The Opinion of all the Ancients ſeem to have been this, that he was rapt at ſeveral times, into ſeveral places, and conſequently that he ſpeaks of more Raptures than one. (a) Irenæus ſaith that he was caught up into the third Heavens, and again was carried into Paradiſe. So alſo ſay (b) Tertullian and Pſeud-Ambroſius; (c) Epiphanius ſpeaks thus, Who can hear the Opinion of Origen, which placeth Paradiſe in the third Heaven? And this appears highly probable: 1. From theſe words, I will proceed to Viſions and Revelations of the Lord; which intimates that he would ſpeak of more than one: And from v. 7. leſt he ſhould be exalted τῇ ὑπερβολῇ τῶν ἀποκαλύψεων, with this multitude of Revelations. 2ly, Methodius of old did well infer this, from the Repetition of thoſe words, Whether in the Body, &c. for ſuch a Repetition muſt have been need-

(a) Uſque ad tertium Cœlum raptum ſe eſſe ſignificans, & rurſum delatum eſſe in Paradiſum —— quid illi prodeſt aut in Paradiſum introitus, aut in tertium cœlum aſſumptio. L. 2. c. 54.
(b) Tertull. de Præſcript. c. 24. Ambroſ. in locum.
(c) Quis audiat in tertio cœlo donantem nobis Originem Paradiſum? Ep. ad. Joh. Hieroſ. c. 3.

Digitized by Google

leſs concerning one and the ſame Viſion. For (d) hence, ſaith he, he intimates that he had ſeen two great Viſions, being twice aſſumed, firſt into the third Heaven, and then into Paradiſe. Hence therefore it doth not follow that Paradiſe is in the third Heaven, as later Writers have hence gathered againſt the Opinion of all the Ancient Chriſtians: And therefore (e) Epiphanius anſwers to this Text produced by Origen, by ſaying he was rapt up into the third Heaven, and after adding into Paradiſe, he ſhews Heaven to be in one place, and Paradiſe in another. Though therefore the third Heaven here, according to the Language and Diſtinction of the Jews, doth ſignifie the Angelick Heaven; it doth not follow hence that Paradiſe, into which the Apoſtle was caught up, at another time, and in another Viſion, muſt ſignifie the third Heaven.

3*ly*, Hence we may ſtrongly argue for the Diſtinction of the Soul from the Body, and its Capacity to receive and underſtand Cæleſtial Things in Separation from the Body; for if the Soul be not diſtinguiſhed from the Body, nor is capable of any Viſion or Revelation when out of the Body, there remains no foundation for the Apoſtle's doubt, whether he had theſe Viſions in the Body, or out of the Body, there being a neceſſity, upon that Suppoſition, to have them in the Body, or not at all.

c Ver. 7. Ἄγγελος Σατᾶν.] They who interpret this Meſſenger of Satan, and Thorn in the Fleſh, of the Motions of Concupiſcence, and the Suggeſtions of Luſt ariſing in Paul, are guilty of a great Miſtake; For this Thorn in the Fleſh was given him of God, who raiſeth in us no impure luſtings, James 1. 13, 14, 15. and never cures one Sin by another; nor would St. Paul have wiſhed that all Men ſhould have been as he, if he had felt theſe burnings, nor would he have refuſed that Remedy againſt them he preſcribed to others, 1 Cor. 7.7,9. nor could he have gloried, much leſs took pleaſure in theſe Infirmities, as here, v. 9, 10. he doth in this Thorn in the Fleſh. In a word, by confeſſing ſuch impure Motions lodged in his Breaſt, he would not have defended his Reputation againſt his Adverſaries, but rather given them freſh occaſion to reproach him, and would have rendred his Threats againſt the unclean, Chap. 12. 21. leſs prevalent. Let it be then obſerved,

1. That this Thorn in the Fleſh was ſurely ſome Infirmity in the Fleſh, or Body of St. Paul. So doth St. Paul himſelf inform us, by ſaying, ὁ πειρασμὸν μου ὁ ἐν τῇ σαρκί μου, οὐκ ἐξουθενήσατε, οὐδὲ ἐξεπτύσατε, You did not count me as nothing, nor ſpit upon me, becauſe of my Temptation which was in my Fleſh, Gal. 4. 14. but received me (notwithſtanding) as an Angel or Meſſenger of God. Whence two things are obſervable, (1.) That this Thorn, or this Temptation, was in his Fleſh, or in his Body. And (2.) that it was ſuch as rendred him in his Preaching obnoxious to great Contempt, and made him deſpicable in the Eyes of others.

2. 'Tis highly probable that this Infirmity in the Fleſh hapned to him after theſe Viſions, and Revelations of which he here ſpeaks; for he ſaith, it was ſent to, or befel him, that he might not be exalted through the multitude of his Revelations; and therefore muſt be given him after he had that Temptation they afforded to exalt himſelf.

3. 'Tis certain that it was ſome Infirmity of the Fleſh which naturally tended to obſtruct the Efficacy of his Preaching, and rendred his Miniſtry leſs grateful and acceptable to others, and made him ſubject to reproach, and to contempt in the diſcharge of this his Function. This is extreamly evident from the place cited from Gal. 4. 14. where, ſaith Theodoret, καίτοι πολλὴν ἔφερον ἐπὶ τῷ σώματι ἀτιμίαν, though I brought with me great Ignominy in my Body, you did not reject me; and alſo from Chriſt's anſwer to him, That his power was perfected in St. Paul's weakneſs, i. e. the greater is thy Infirmity in preaching the Goſpel, the greater is my Power in rendring it efficacious when preached by one ſubject to ſo great Infirmity.

4. 'Tis alſo certain that this was objected by the Corinthians, and the falſe Apoſtles to the diſparagement of St. Paul, and rendred him contemptible in their Eyes, that he was ἰδιώτης τῷ λόγῳ rude in Speech, 2 Cor. 10. 10. (which, as I have obſerved upon that place, cannot refer to his want of Eloquence, that being as much wanting in his Epiſtles, which they allowed to be powerful and weighty, as in his Sermons to them,) that in preſence he was baſe among them, ibid. v. 1. that the preſence of his Body was weak, and mean, καὶ ὁ λόγος ἐξουθενημένος, his ſpeech, ſuch as rendred him, contemptible, where the Apoſtle uſeth that very word which he had applied to the Infirmity of his Fleſh, Gal. 4. 14.

5. It cannot be denied but that an ἰλιγροφωνία, a ſtammering in ſpeech, or a ſqueeking ſhrilneſs in the voice, joyn'd with a low deformed ſtature, do naturally tend to render a Man contemptible in his preaching; and therefore Moſes declines the Meſſage God ſent him upon to Pharaoh, becauſe he was ſlow of ſpeech, and of a ſtammering tongue, Exod. 4. 10. ἰσχνόφωνος, καὶ βραδύγλωσσος.

6. Theſe words, a Thorn in the Fleſh, a Meſſenger of Satan, being here put by way of appoſition, muſt ſignifie the ſame thing, and ſo he muſt be buffeted by Satan, when by theſe falſe Apoſtles and Miniſters of Satan, 2 Cor. 11. 15. he was contemned, and made the Subject of their Scorn and Laughter, for this Infirmity in his Speech. But 'tis obſervable, that theſe words may be rendred thus, There was given me a Thorn in the Fleſh, Ἄγγελος Σατᾶν ἵνα με κολαφίζῃ, that the Angel of Satan might buffet me. Since then he calls the falſe Apoſtles Miniſters of Satan, it is not to be wondred that he here ſtiles them, or the chief of them, who thus reviled, and contemned him for this Infirmity, and therefore laboured to take off the Affections of the Corinthians from him, an Angel of Satan buffeting him.

d Ver. 8. Παρεκάλεσα, I beſought the Lord.] Here, ſaith Slictingius, is an inſtance of prayer directed to Chriſt; Ergo, ſay I, here is an inſtance of his Divinity: Prayer made to Chriſt by all Chriſtians, in all times and places, and for all things, being an evidence of his Omniſcience, Omnipotence, and Omnipreſence.

Note alſo, That though this Thorn in the Fleſh was not removed upon the prayer of the Apoſtle, yet was that granted for which he deſired that it might be removed, viz. that he ſhould preach the Goſpel more effectually, and to the honour of his Lord; and therefore he not only reſts ſatisfied under this Infirmity, but even glories in it on this account, that it tended to demonſtrate the Power of Chriſt reſiding in him. Thus doth God truly anſwer our Requeſts, when he gives, not what we would, but what he ſees to be more for his Glory, and our Good.

Ver. 14. Τρίτον, the third time.] Moſt Interpreters ſay that St. Paul had made two Reſolutions before to come to them, for proof of which they cite 1 Cor. 16. 5. 2 Cor. 1. 16. But both theſe Texts ſeem plainly to refer to one, and the ſame Reſolution, and the laſt to be only an Apology for Non-performance of the firſt: His meaning therefore may be this; I have once actually been with you, I was ready once more to come, though your diſorders unreformed hindred the performing that intended Journey, 2 Cor. 1. 23. and I am now ready the third time. e

Ibid. For the Children ought not to lay up for the Fathers, but, &c.] i. e. If Fathers of the Fleſh, they ought to lay up for them Temporals; if Spiritual Fathers, as St. Paul was, 1 Cor. 4. 15. to provide Spirituals for them, good Inſtructions, and Advice for the welfare of their Souls. f

Ver. 24. Μεμανοπαϊντων.] Hence it is evident, againſt Novatian, that the Chriſtian Diſpenſation admits Sinners to Repentance, though they have, after Baptiſm, committed great Offences, and lapſed into the ſins of the fleſh, mentioned Gal. 5. 19, 20, 21. g a Verſe 1. a THIS is the third time I am coming to you; in the mouth of two or three witneſſes ſhall every word be eſtabliſhed.

2. I told you before [in my firſt Epiſtle, Chap. 4. 19, 20, 21. being then abſent in Body, but preſent in Spirit, Chap. 5. 3.] and [I ſtill continue in my Reſolution,] foretel[ling] you as if I were preſent the ſecond time, [or, I foretel you as preſent in Spirit the ſecond time,] and being abſent [in Body,] I now write to them which heretofore have ſinned, [and have not repented, Chap. 12. 21.] and to all others [who ſhall fall into the like ſins,] that if I come again, [which I now fully am reſolved upon,] I will not ſpare [you.]

3. Since ye ſeek a proof of Chriſt ſpeaking in [and by] me, [even that Chriſt] who to you ward is not weak, but is mighty b b in [and among] you, [you ſhall find it in the exerting the power he hath given us to chaſtiſe ſuch Offenders.]

4. For though he was crucified through [the] weakneſs [of that Humane Nature which he took upon him, and in that appeared to others as weak,] yet he liveth [and diſcovers efficaciouſly that he doth ſo,] by the power of God [ſo glorioufly attending the invocation of his name, and faith in him;] c for c we alſo [Gr. and ſo we alſo] are [as yet in your apprehenſions] weak in him, but we ſhall [appear to] live with him by the power of God, [exerting it ſelf by us] towards you.

5. [And for a further Evidence that Chriſt preached by me hath not been weak, but mighty towards you:] Examine your ſelves, whether ye be in the faith, prove your own ſelves, Know ye not [of] your own ſelves [by the Miracles done among you, and the Variety of Gifts conferred upon you,] how that Jeſus d Chriſt is in [among] you, e except ye be d e

Reprobates, [i.e. diſapproved by God, and ſo he hath withdrawn theſe Gifts from you.]

6. But [however it may be with you,] I truſt that you ſhall know we are not Reprobates, [i. e. not diſapproved of, but owned by God, and Chriſt]

7. Now I pray to God, that ye do no evil [which may force us to exerciſe and ſhew our power among you, as deſiring] not that we ſhould appear approved, [by our power in puniſhing your offences,] but [rather] that you ſhould do that which is honeſt, though
f we be [in ſhew] f as Reprobates, [i.e. as deſtitute of the power of Chriſt in your eyes.]

8. [And then you will be ſecure from our Chaſtiſements,] for we can do nothing againſt the truth, but [only] for the truth, [having our power given for edification only, and not for deſtruction, v. 10.]

9. [Nor have we any deſire to uſe our power thus;] for we are [rather] glad, when we are weak, [as having no occaſion to manifeſt our power,] and ye are ſtrong [in faith, and good works,] and this alſo we wiſh, even your perfection [in them.]

10. [And] therefore I write theſe things being abſent, [to warn and reform you,] leſt being preſent I ſhould [be conſtrained to] uſe ſharpneſs [towards the unreformed among you,] according to the power which the Lord hath given me to edification, and not to deſtruction.

11. Finally, Brethren, farewel; be perfect [ly knit together,] be of good comfort [under all Calamities,] be of one mind, live in peace, and the God of love and peace ſhall be with you.

12. Greet one another with g an holy kiſs. g

13. All the Saints [here] ſalute you.

14. h The grace of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and the love of God [the Father,] and the Communion of the Holy Ghoſt, be with you all. Amen. h a Verſe 1. Τρίτον τοῦτο, this is the third time.] Of his coming the third time, ſee Note on Chap. 12. 14. Theſe Witneſſes, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, were Stephanus, Fortunatus, and Achaicus, ſent to aſſure them of his coming; Say others, his own reiterated Teſtimony to them by Letters, that if theſe Admonitions did not prevail on them who had ſinned to reform, he would not ſpare them.

b Ver. 3. Ἐν ὑμῖν, among you.] Chriſt ſhewed his power among them, by enabling St. Paul to preach the Goſpel to them in demonſtration of the Spirit and Power ſo efficaciouſly, as to convert them to the Faith, 1 Cor. 2. 4. In that variety of Gifts conferred on them, together with the Goſpel, by which their Teſtimony of Chriſt was confirmed, 1 Cor 1. 6. By his Power, conſpicuous in ſeconding St. Paul's delivery of the inceſtuous Perſon up to Satan, 1 Cor. 5. 4, 5. By the Chaſtiſements they ſuffered for communicating in the Lord's Supper unworthily.

c Ver. 4. Καὶ γὰρ ἡμεῖς, and ſo we alſo.] Theſe Particles ſignifie atque ita, even ſo, and ſo, and in like manner, and accordingly are rendred by Paſor, ſic & nos, as in this Paraphaſe. Again, It is evident from Scripture, that though Chriſt appeared to the World, as weak, and unable to eſcape his Sufferings, by permitting himſelf to be taken, and carried bound before the High-Prieſt, and Pilate, and at laſt to be lifted up upon the Croſs, and there die, yet was he only in appearance then weak; for he permitted not himſelf to be taken, till he had with a word ſtruck them to the ground who came to apprehend him, John 18. 6. and had declared that he was able to deliver himſelf out of their hands, Matth. 26. 53. Even ſo (ſaith the Apoſtle) we ſeem weak to you Corinthians, becauſe we do not exerciſe that Power among you which God hath given us, 2 Cor. 10. 10. & 11. 21. and here v. 9. But we ſhall ſhew our ſelves to live by the power of God exerciſed upon the Offenders in your Church.

Ver. 5. Ὅτι Χριστὸς ἐν ὑμῖν ἐστιν, that Chriſt is in you.] i. e. With, or among you. The words ſeem to allude to thoſe ſpoken by the tempting, contumacious Iſraelites, who after all the ſigns and wonders God had ſhewed to them, remained ſtill doubtful of his Preſence with them, enquiring εἰ Κύριος ἐν ἡμῖν; is the Lord among us, or not? Exod. 17. 7. So ſaith the Apoſtle, ſeeing after all the Miracles done among you, and the miraculous Gifts received by you, you ſtill ſeek a proof of Chriſt ſpeaking in or by me, ask your own ſelves? Know ye not by the Gifts ſtill exerciſed among you, except ye be rejected of God, that his Spirit, conveyed by my Miniſtry is ſtill among you? But then let it be noted here, that this place ſpeaks not of their being in Chriſt, but of Chriſt's being in them; not of his being in, but among them; not of his being in them, by their Faith in him, but his miraculous Preſence with them; not of his being in any private Perſon, but in the Church of Corinth in general. d

f Ver. 7. Ὡς ἀδόκιμοι, as Reprobates.] It is to be observed, that the word ἀδόκιμος, which we render reprobate, hath no relation in Scripture to any decree of God, either absolutely excluding Men from a capacity of Salvation, or doing it conditionally on the account of the Sin of Adam, but only doth denote such Men as have made themselves unworthy, by the Corruption of their Faith or Manners, to be approved and owned by God. Thus they, who when they knew God, did not glorifie him as God, neither were thankful, but changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped the Creature more than the Creator, and liked not to retain God in their hearts, Rom. 1. from v. 21—28. are the Men given up by God εἰς νοῦν ἀδόκιμον to a reprobate mind which prompted them to do those things God could not approve of, but abhor; And they who resisted the Truth through the Corruption of their Minds, are stiled ἀδόκιμοι περὶ τὴν πίστιν, i. e. Reprobates concerning the Faith, 2 Tim. 3. 8. i. e. Men whose Faith cannot be owned, or approved of. They also are in Scripture, as to their Manners, stiled Reprobates, whose Mind and Conscience is defiled, so that though in words they profess to know God, yet in works they deny him, being abominable, disobedient, and to every good work ἀδόκιμοι reprobate; i. e. void, not of Judgment only to discern, but of Affection to approve of it. Thus that Earth is stiled ἀδόκιμος reprobate, or rejected, which after all the Showers, which fall upon it, brings forth only Thorns, and Briars, Heb. 6. 8. and that Silver, ἀργύριον ἀδόκιμον, reprobate Silver, which being false stamp'd, or coyn'd, will not be receiv'd, but rejected, Prov. 25. 4. Isai. 1. 22. And in this sense St. Paul saith, he kept under his Body, lest whilst he preached to others, he himself should be ἀδόκιμος disowned and rejected by God, 1 Cor. 9. 27.

Ver. 14. Note that here plainly, as in the h Form of Baptism, Matth. 28. 19. we have the names of the Sacred Trinity; and the Father and Son in both places being mentioned as distinct Persons, we have no reason to doubt of the personality of the Holy Ghost thus mentioned with them.

TO THE Sixth Chapter of the Second Epiſtle
CORINTHIANS.

MOnſieur le Clerc hath obſerv'd in his Ars Critica, part 1. c. 8. p. 110. That ſince the time of St. Auſtin, ſcarce any word hath been uſed more frequently in ſpeaking concerning the Converſion of a Sinner, than is that of Grace; and yet if you ask them that uſe it what they mean by it, they can give you no clear Anſwer: So that a Jeſuite ſaid, not unpleaſantly, That it was nothing but a Neſcio quid, and that the Grace of God in Scripture doth always ſignifie not any ſecret Afflatus, but his Mercy and his Kindneſs to us. Now that I may not ſeem, with his witty Jeſuite, to ridicule, or with the Pelagians to deny that Grace, becauſe my Note in this Chapter, partly accordeth with his Criticks, I ſhall here briefly ſhew two things:

1*ſt*, That it ſeems neceſſary to aſſert that God vouchſafes to Men, not only the outward Diſpenſations of his Word to be the ordinary means of their Converſion and Sanctification, but alſo ſome inward Aſſiſtances and Operations of his Holy Spirit.

2*ly*, I ſhall endeavour to ſhew that theſe Aſſiſtances may be ſo explained, as to be no more unintelligible than are all the Influences of God upon the Soul, or the Temptations of the Evil Spirit.

Firſt, That it is neceſſary to aſſert that God vouchſafes to Men ſome inward Operations or Aſſiſtances of his Holy Spirit, to encline them to what is good, convert, and ſanctifie them. For

1. Why elſe is it expreſly ſaid, That God works in us both to will and to do of his good pleaſure, Philip. 2. 13. and doth within us what is acceptable in his ſight, Hebr. 13. 21. for ſure he cannot properly be ſaid ἐνεργεῖν, καὶ ποιεῖν ἐν ἡμῖν, to act, and work within us, who does, and worketh nothing in us? Yea, how doth the Word of God it ſelf, when heard, or read, work on us but by making impreſſions on our Minds? and ſhall that be deny'd to God himſelf which we allow to his Word? or ſhall he not be believed, when he ſaith, He doth work in us both to will and do, He doth in us what is acceptable in his ſight?

Again, Does it not ſeem unreaſonable to deny that influence to God, and the Good Spirit to excite Men to goodneſs, which generally is, and muſt according to the Scripture, be allowed to the Evil Spirit tempting Men to wickedneſs? Now, though this Evil Spirit cannot lay us under a neceſſity of doing wickedly, yet is he frequently in Scripture repreſented as a Tempter to Sin, which he can only be immediately by raiſing ſome Idea's in our Brain which do excite, diſpoſe, and move us, as our own Thoughts, or inward Sentiments, at other times, were wont to do, to what is evil. He alſo is in Scripture ſtiled that Spirit which ἐνεργεῖ works inwardly in the Children of Diſobedience, Eph. 2. 2. and leads them captive εἰς τὸ ἐκείνου θέλημα, to do his will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. which words ſeem plainly to import ſome inward energy of Satan to excite them to this Diſobedience to the Will of God, and this compliance with his own will, ſince then ſtronger is he that is in us, than he that is in the world, 1 John 4. 4. i.e. that good Spirit which dwells in pious Men, is more powerful in them than Satan is in wicked Men, we muſt allow this good Spirit ἐνεργεῖν to work in the Children of Obedience, as Satan is allowed to work in his own Children.

Moreover, The evil Spirit is repreſented as a lying Spirit in the mouth of Ahab's Prophets, 1 Kings 22. 21. He moved David to number the the people, 1 Chron. 21. 1. He entred into Judas, Luke 22. 3. He fill'd the heart of Ananias to lie to the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 5. 3. All which Expreſſions can never be accounted for without allowing him ſome power to work upon the ſpirits of theſe perſons, ſo as to raiſe within them ſome ſuch Ideas as would excite and ſtir them up to the performance of thoſe actions. Nor can we otherwiſe give any rational account of the Snares, Methods, Wiles, and Deviſes of Satan, mentioned 2 Cor. 2. 11. Eph. 6. 11. or tell how he comes, and takes away the Word out of the heart, Luke 8. 12. or how he takes advantage over us when we are overwhelm'd with grief, 2 Cor. 2. 10.

When therefore, on the other hand, God is ſaid to put his fear, and his law in our hearts, Jer. 32. 40. Hebr. 8. 10. and his ſpirit within us, Ezek. 36. 27. to create in us a clean heart, and renew in us a right ſpirit, ibid. to give us a new heart, Ezek. 11. 9. to circumciſe, and to convert the heart, Deut. 30. 6. Jer. 31. 18. If he by his good Spirit raiſeth no good Motions, or Ideas in us, which may diſpoſe us to his fear, and by attention to them may convert and cleanſe our hearts, if he vouchſafes unto us no inward Illuminations, by attending to which we may diſcern the wondrous things of his law, what can theſe Words or Metaphors import? Or why is his Spirit put within us, if he hath nothing to do there? yea, why are we ſaid to be ſtrengthned with might through the Spirit in the inward man to do his will? Eph. 3. 16. to be enabled through the Spirit to mortifie the deeds of the fleſh? Rom. 8. 13. Why is this Spirit ſaid to help our infirmities, v. 26. to purifie our hearts, 1 Pet. 1. 22. to be unto us a Spirit of Sanctification, 1 Cor. 6. 11. the Comforter, the Spirit of Power, Love, and of a ſound Mind? 2 Tim. 1. 7. For how is it poſſible he ſhould be all, or any of theſe things to us, or ſhould do all, or any of theſe things for us, by doing nothing in us? And ſeeing Conſolation ariſeth only from the inward teſtimony of the Conſcience; ſeeing Sanctification conſiſts in the renewing of the inward Man, and hath the Soul for its Subject; ſeeing the Heart is purified by an inward change, and temper, which renders it averſe from ſin, and ſets the Affections, Deſires, and Inclinations of the Soul againſt it; ſeeing the deeds of the fleſh are only mortified by ſuch a Renovation of the Mind as makes us to diſcern the pernicious Effects and dreadful Conſequences of living ſtill according to our fleſhly Appetites, and ſo begetteth a dread and hatred of them, a Reſolution to forſake them, a vehement Deſire to be freed from them, a ſincere Endeavour to reſiſt the motions of the fleſh, and a care that we do not for the future yield obedience to it in the luſtings of it; if there be no Renovation wrought in us by the Spirit, no Teſtimony of him with our ſpirits that we are the Sons of God, how can a Man conceive that all this ſhould be done by the Spirit without any energy in the Mind, and the Affections of a Man, and by that conſequently on the Will?

Moreover, If the holy Spirit hath no hand in producing, and carrying on the new Life, why is he ſtiled Πνεῦμα ζωοποιὸν, a quickning or life giving Spirit? ſeeing all Vital Operations iſſue from a Spirit acting in us, why are we ſaid to live in the Spirit, Gal. 5. 15. and to walk in the Spirit Rom. 8. 14. and ἄγεσθαι to be lead, or conducted by the Spirit of God? For as in natural and moral actions, we cannot be ſaid to live, or walk, without an inward principle of life and motion, or to be led or guided in thoſe Actions, but by the Light of Reaſon, ſo neither can we properly be ſaid to live, and walk in the Spirit, or to be guided by him, if he imparts no inward light to guide us in the ways of Piety, no inward motions to excite us to walk in them, no inward ſtrength or vital efficacy for the performance of them. And were it otherwiſe, why are all thoſe inward habits and diſpoſitions which adorn the Soul, and make it meet for the inheritance of Saints in light, ſtiled the fruits, not of the preaching of the Word, or of our own Conſideration, but of the Holy Spirit? For how are they his Fruits, if he doth nothing to produce them? why are they ſtill aſcribed, according to this Doctrine never to that which only doth, but to that only which doth not produce them?

To ſay theſe things, and theſe expreſſions concern only the times in which the extraordinary Gifts and Operations of the Holy Spirit were vouchſafed, is to make future Ages ſince the ceaſing of theſe Gifts, deſpair of being quickned, ſanctified, or comforted, or even enabled to purifie the heart, or to mortifie the deeds of the fleſh, to live or walk in the Spirit, and conſequently to deſpair of being now the Sons of God, united to Chriſt Jeſus, or having any of the Fruits of the Spirit wrought within them. And were it only then that no Man could be regenerate or born again without Water and the Holy Ghoſt, by what are we now regenerated? Why are we now baptized? or why is Baptiſm adminiſtred ſtill in the Name of the Holy Ghoſt?

In fine, it ſeems not poſſible, according to this Hypotheſis, to explain how, or to what end the Holy Spirit is ſo often ſaid to dwell, or to abide within us; how we are made an habitation of God through the Spirit; How we are made the Temples of God through the Holy Ghoſt which is in us, or united to Chriſt by the Spirit, or to what end the Holy Ghoſt thus dwells, or takes up his abode in them, in whom he acteth nothing, or reſts upon thoſe Chriſtian Sufferers whom he doth not inſpire with inward courage. And yet this abode of the good Spirit with us, is repreſented not only as the higheſt Privilege, but as the ineſtimable advantage of the Chriſtian. By this Chriſt, doth encourage his Disciples to demonstrate their love to him by keeping his Commandments, that then the Father will love them, and we, saith he, will take up our abode with them, John 14. 23. By this, saith the Apostle, God becomes our God, and we his People; our Father, we his Sons and Daughters, 2 Cor. 6. 16. And from our union by this Spirit to our Head Christ Jesus, such an ἐνέργεια, or inward working, is said to be diffused through every part of his mystical Body, as causeth the whole Body to encrease, and edifie it self in love, Eph. 4. 16. Colos. 2. 19. Now what account can be offered of these things, without allowing some inward Operations of the holy Spirit, as the consequence of this Spiritual Union, and this inhabitation of the holy Spirit in us? yea, who can tell what is the advantage of these Promises, I will put my Spirit in you, or pour him upon you, Prov. 1. 23. Jer. 36. 27. & 37. 14. Zach. 12. 10. John 7. 37, 38. if we receive no influx from him thus put into our hearts? What, lastly, is it for the holy Spirit to depart, or to be taken from us? or what can be the dreadful misery and woe denounced upon us when he doth so? For if he did nothing in us whilst he continued to be with us, what can we lose by his departure? or why did David so importunately beg God would not take his holy Spirit from him? Psal. 51. 12.

To say here the holy Spirit only dwelt in Christians, whilst the extraordinary Gifts and Afflatus of the holy Spirit were continued to the Church, and they lay under Persecution from the Heathen Emperours, is not only to contradict the tenor of the Scriptures, which declare that all Christ's living Members are thus united by the Spirit to their Head, 1 Cor. 12. 13. and that if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, dwelling in him, he is none of his, Rom. 8. 9. He cannot be the Son of God, for as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God, v. 14. He hath no right to call God Father, v. 15. no interest in the adoption, and in the inheritance of Sons, v. 17. but it is also to enervate the virtue of the Promises of Christ, and the consolation of Christians of all future Ages under their Sufferings for the sake of Christ; yea, it is in effect to make the dispensation of the Gospel cease, the difference betwixt that, and the Law, being by the Apostle placed in this, that the one is the ministration of the letter only, the other also of the Spirit. And if this were so only whilst these extraordinary Operations of the holy Spirit lasted, then from the time that they have ceased, the Gospel doth not in this differ from the Law, or deserve to be preferr'd above it on that account.

Argument 2. This Doctrine seems to take off from the energy of Prayer in general, and from the virtue of Prayer for the holy Spirit in particular, and so to make men slight and neglect that Duty of which the Scripture speaketh so magnificently, and to which it so frequently exhorts us, at least, it seems not well consistent with the tenor of those inspired Prayers, or those Prescriptions for it recorded in the Holy Scripture. For who can reconcile it with those Expressions in which holy men of God so often beg God would encline their hearts unto him, since this he cannot do without some Operation on their hearts, that he would draw them, that they might run after him, that he would open their eyes, and give them understanding to discern his Law, that he would lead them in the right way, in the way everlasting, and guide them by his eye? For if God by his Spirit hath no influence upon the Heart, or Soul, how doth he encline, or draw it? if none upon the understanding, how doth he enlighten or instruct it? if this be done only by the Word read, preach'd, and pondered in the heart, we may as well apply our selves to that work without, as with Prayer, unless we in these cases pray for some new external Revelations, or for some Motives not contain'd in Scripture.

Moreover, according to this Doctrine, it seems both fruitless and absurd to pray for the assistance of the holy Spirit, or to expect we should enjoy it. And so that passage of St. Luke, Ask and ye shall receive, seek and you shall find, knock and it shall be opened to you; for if evil parents give good gifts to their children, how much more will your heavenly Father give his holy Spirit to them that ask him, Luke 11. 9, 13. must be of no use or virtue to us. For what in these Expressions can we pray for, but the assistance of the holy Spirit? and what assistance can he afford us, if he doth not operate at all upon our Souls?

To say this Promise is to be confined to the Apostles days, seems not agreeable to reason; for why then do we hear of it in the Sermon on the Mount, which certainly was spoken εἰς ἀκοὰς τῦ λαῦ, in the audience of the multitude? Why doth it run in words so general πᾶς γάρ, for every one that asks receives? Moreover, those spiritual and ordinary Effects for which the holy Spirit was then given, those Fruits of the Spirit they produced in them, are as needful, and as spiritually good for Christians now, as when our Saviour spake these words; for as the holy Spirit was needful then to strengthen Christ's Servants in the inward man to do his will, Eph. 3. 16. to comfort them in Tribulations, and support them under fiery Trials, and to preserve them from the Subtilties of Satan, and the Temptations of the wicked World, so is there the same need of his assistance now for all these gracious ends, and therefore the same reason to expect him still to all these purposes. Moreover, the Conditions of this Promise may be performed by us now, as well as then; we may be now sincerely desirous to obey the holy Will

Will of God, and with true fervency and importunity may beg the holy Spirit to this end. And if we may acceptably perform theſe duties to which this Promiſe is annexed, why may we not as confidently expect the bleſſing promiſed from the God of Truth? For the encouragement here given to expect the aſſiſtance of the holy Spirit is this, that we ask him of our heavenly Father; Now this moſt comfortable relation God bears to all his children of what age ſoever, he is the ſame yeſterday, to day, and for ever; and therefore there is now, and ever will be, the ſame benignity in God, the ſame good will and readineſs in him to give his holy Spirit now unto his children for all needful purpoſes, as in all former ages. If therefore in like manner we do ask, we muſt have equal reaſon to expect we ſhould receive him. To proceed therefore

2*ly*, To explain, as far as I am able, and think it needful ſo to do, how thoſe Fruits of the Spirit, which the Schools call Graces, are wrought in us by the Spirit of God;

1*ſt*, I aſſert, that the manner in which the holy Spirit acts upon the minds and hearts of men, for the production of theſe Fruits or Graces, and the preparatory Diſpoſitions of the Soul towards them, may reaſonably be conceived to be ſuch as is ſutable to the Reaſon and Faculties of Men, viz. the Underſtanding and the Will. Now it is certain, that what naturally makes the Underſtanding to perceive, is Evidence propoſed and apprehended, conſidered or adverted to, for nothing further can be requiſite to make me come to the knowledge of the truth, and underſtand what the will of the Lord is, and ſo be wiſe unto ſalvation. Hence the Apoſtle prays that his Philippians might abound more and more in knowledge, and in all wiſdom, ἐν πάσῃ αἰσθήσει, in all perception, that ſo they may approve the things that are moſt excellent, Philip. 1.9,10. Hence he ſpeaks to the Romans thus, Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, εἰς τὸ δοκιμάζειν, that you may diſcern and approve what is according to the good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God, Rom. 12.2. and ſaith to the Epheſians, Be ye not unwiſe, but underſtanding what the will of the Lord is, Eph. 5.17. and v. 8, 10. Walk as children of the light, approving what is acceptable to the Lord. Again, what makes the Will chuſe, is ſomething approv'd by the Underſtanding, and conſequently appearing to the Soul as good, and whatſoever it refuſeth is ſomething repreſented by the Underſtanding, and ſo appearing to the Will as evil, whence all that God requires of us is, and can be only this, to refuſe the evil, and to chuſe the good. Wherefore to ſay that Evidence propoſed, apprehended, and conſidered is not ſufficient to make the Underſtanding to approve; or that the greateſt Good propoſed, the greateſt Evil threatned, when equally believed, and reflected on, is not ſufficient to engage the Will to chuſe that Good, and to refuſe that Evil, is in effect to ſay, that which alone doth move the Will to chuſe, or to refuſe, is not ſufficient to engage it ſo to do; that which alone is requiſite to make me underſtand and approve, is not ſufficient ſo to do. Now this being contradictory to it ſelf, muſt of neceſſity be falſe.

Be it then that we have naturally an averſion to the Truths propoſed to us in the Goſpel, that only can make us indiſpoſed to attend to them, but cannot hinder our conviction when we apprehend them, and attend to them. Whence for removal of it, the Apoſtle only prays that the eyes of our underſtanding may be enlightned, that we may know them, Eph. 18. adding, that where the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in Chriſt Jeſus was revealed, if after this their Goſpel was hid from any, it was only ſo, becauſe the God of this world had blinded the conceptions of their minds, that the light of the Goſpel might not ſhine into them, 2 Cor. 4.3,4. Be it that there is in us a renitency to the Good we are to chuſe; that only can indiſpoſe us to believe, and to approve it as our chiefeſt Good. Be it that we are prone to the Evil which we ſhould decline; that only can render it the more difficult for us to believe it is the worſt of Evils. But yet, what we do really conceive to be our chiefeſt Good will ſtill be choſen, and what we apprehend to be the worſt of Evils, will, whilſt we do continue under that conviction, be refuſed by us. It therefore can be only requiſite, in order to theſe ends, that the good Spirit ſhould ſo illuminate our Underſtandings, that we attending to, and conſidering what lies before us, ſhould apprehend, and be convinced of our Duty, and that the Bleſſings of the Goſpel ſhould be ſo propounded to us, as that we may diſcern them to be our chiefeſt Good, and the Miſeries it threatens, ſo as we may be convinced they are the worſt of Evils, that we may chuſe the one, and refuſe the other. Now to conſider in order to approbation and conviction, to chuſe in order to our good, and refuſe that we may avoid miſery, muſt be the actions not of God, but Man, though the Light that do convince, and the Motives which engage him thus to chuſe, and to refuſe, are certainly from God.

To illuſtrate this more familiarly by an Inſtance taken from our ſelves, or our deportment towards others: When a man, in words plain and intelligible, ſpeaks to another, if he will hearken to what he ſays, he muſt underſtand his mind; for by that very impreſſion the words make upon his brain, he immediately perceives his meaning. And cannot the divine impreſſion on the brain, which is God's ſpeaking inwardly to man, do the ſame thing? This action is indeed ſo neceſſary, that as it is not virtuous, or praiſe-worthy in any man to understand the mind of him who doth thus speak to him, so neither seemeth it praise worthy in us, purely to understand the mind of God thus speaking to us. Again, these words of man contain some exhortation to me to do what he desires I would do, backt with incouragements to do so, taken from the proposal of some advantage, the promise of some good I shall receive by complying with his Exhortation; or they contain some dehortation from doing what he would not have me do, because it will be hurtful to me, or will be certainly attended with some evil consequences: is not this the method used by all the World in dealing with one another? and do they not do all this with hopes and expectation of success? And is it not a great disparagement to the Word of God to think that his Perswasions, Admonitions, Exhortations, Promises, and Threats should be all insufficient to prevail with us to turn from our sinful Courses, and turn to him, when all Men who do use these methods towards their Children, Servants, Friends, or Relations do it in hopes that they shall be successful by these means? Moreover, If the Person they address to be slow of understanding, do they not hope to overcome that difficulty by the clearness of their discourse, and by reiterating the same thing by such variety of Expressions as he is best able to perceive? if he be averse from doing that which is desired, do they not hope to overcome that aversion by repeated exhortations, and vigorous impressions of those incouragements they tender to prevail upon him to comply with their desire? If he strongly be inclin'd to that from which they vehemently dehort him; do they not endeavour to turn the bent and current of his Inclinations by the like repeated Exhortations, and lively Representations of the Evils he will be certainly exposed to by so doing? All men are therefore of this opinion in their practise, that acting with Men by convincing Reason, and by Motives, and Perswasions, is acting with them suitably to their Faculties? And is not God himself of the same mind? hath he not reveal'd his will on purpose that we may know it? hath he not directed his Letters and Epistles to us, that by reading we may understand them, and know the things which do belong to our peace? Did not our Saviour utter all his discourses to the same end? why else doth he enquire so oft, Why is it that ye do not understand my speech? John 8. 43. How is it that ye do not understand? Mark 8.21. why doth he preface them with this instruction, hear and understand, Matth. 15.10. Doth not God call upon us to consider of our ways, & lay to heart his sayings, and his dispensations, Hag. 1.5,7. Doth he not prescribe this as the Remedy for preventing his Judgments, when he says, Oh consider this ye that forget God, Psal. 50. 21. and of being wise, by saying, Oh that they were wise, that they would consider their latter end, Deut. 32.29. doth he not represent this as the source of all the wickedness and idolatry of his own People, that they would not consider in their heart? Isa. 1.3. & 44.19. Doth he not make Conversion the Effect of this Consideration, when he saith, Because he considereth and turneth away from all the transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live, Ezek. 18.29. Psal. 119.59. Yea, doth he not represent this as a just ground of hope, that even the most stubborn sinners may be reform'd, when he saith to the Prophet, Remove by day in their sight, it may be they will consider, though they be a rebellious people, Ezek. 12. 3. Does not the Apostle pray that his Colossians may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom, that (so) they might walk worthy of the Lord to all well pleasing, being fruitful in every good work? Coloss. 1. 9, 10. that his Philippians might discern and approve the things that are most excellent, that they might be sincere, and without offence, being filled with all the fruits of righteousness, &c. Philip. 1. 10, 11. And must not then this knowledge and approbation of his Will be a means of rendring us fruitful in all works of righteousness? Does not God require his people to chuse life, Deut. 30.19. pronouncing a blessing on them that chuse the things that please him, Isa. 56.4. and threatning destruction to them that would not chuse the fear of the Lord, Prov. 1.29. but chose the things in which he delighted not, Isa. 56.4. Now doth he any thing more to prevail with them who do not chuse the fear of the Lord, do not the things that please him, to engage them so to do, or not to do the contrary, but teach them his ways, and perswade them to walk in them? Must it not then be certain, that either he transacts with them, as Men who might by these things be induced to chuse to fear him, and do the things that please him, and abstain from the contrary, or threatens to destroy them for doing what they could not help, and had no means sufficient to avoid, and for not doing what it was impossible for them to do? Again, doth he not exhort men to be willing and obedient, promising a full pardon, and a blessing to them that do so? Isa. 1.18,19. Doth not Christ resolve the destruction of the Jews into this, You will not come unto me that you may have life, Joh. 5.40. declaring this to be the reason why they were not gathered, because he often would have gathered them, but they would not be gathered, Luk. 13.34. because being so graciously invited to the Marriage Feast, they would not come? Matth. 22. 3. Now what did he to engage them to come unto him to gather them, to prevail upon them to come unto the Marriage Feast, but shew them the way of Life, exhort and invite them to come unto the Feast? Either then he transacted with them, as one who knew this was ſufficient for theſe ends, and that theſe things might have prevail'd upon them to be willing, or elſe he reſolv'd on their Excluſion from the Marriage Feaſt, and their not taſting his Supper, for not doing what they could not do, and condemn'd them for not coming when they could not, becauſe the Father did not draw them, or give them to him, Joh.6.37,44. and for not being gathered when indeed he would not, whatever he ſaid to the contrary, ſeeing he would not do that for them without which they could not be gathered. Moreover, doth he not earneſtly exhort and perſwade men to repent, and turn from the evil of their ways? doth he not ſay. Oh that my people would have hearkned to me, that Iſrael would have walked in my ways? Pſal.81.13. Oh that they were wiſe, that they would underſtand this! Deut.32.29. Oh Jeruſalem, wilt thou not be made clean, when ſhall it once be? Jer.13.27. Oh that thou hadſt known in this thy day the things which belong unto thy peace! Luke 19.42. Now either in theſe Exhortations and Perſwaſions he acts with Men ſuitably to their Faculties, exhorting them to do, and pathetically wiſhing they had done, what they might have done, though they did it not; or called them to repent that they did not do what they never could do, that they did not avoid what it was impoſſible they ſhould avoid, and even to repent that God had not irreſiſtibly done this for them, and ſeriouſly wiſhed they themſelves would have done what, if it ever had been done, muſt have been done by himſelf, and therefore was not done, becauſe he would not irreſiſtibly work the change in them.

In fine, Doth not God encourage Men to repent and believe, to be willing and obedient, by great and precious Promiſes of the moſt excellent and laſting Bleſſings? Hath he not threatned eternal Damnation to them that do not believe? Mark 16.15,16. hath not he ſaid He will come in flaming fire, taking vengeance on all that obey not the Goſpel? 2 Theſſ. 1.7. And muſt not all theſe things ſufficiently convince us, that God acts with Men as one who doth indeed ſuppoſe that Men may hearken to his Exhortations, and comply with his Perſwaſions to believe, and to obey his Goſpel? may be prevail'd on by his Promiſes to the performance of their Duty, and terrified by the conſideration of the Judgment threatned from their Diſobedience? Why elſe is it ſaid, that God hath given us theſe great and precious promiſes, that by them we may be made partakers of a Divine Nature? 2 Pet. 1.2. or why are we exhorted, having theſe promiſes, to cleanſe our ſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit, perfecting holineſs in the fear of God? 2 Cor. 7. 1. or why doth the Apoſtle ſay, Knowing then the terror of the Lord, we perſwade men? 2 Cor.5.11. If beyond all this, there be ſome phyſical and irreſiſtible operation on God's part, neceſſary to make Men know, and knowing chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil, this being not wrought in them who are born anew, why is the want of this New Birth, and this Spiritual Regeneration, ſo oft imputed to the want of their Conſideration, and their not laying to heart the things propounded to them, to their not enclining their heart to wiſdom, and not applying their hearts to underſtanding; and their not framing their doings to turn unto the Lord? Prov.1.14=30. Hoſ.5.4. If it be ſaid, this may be done becauſe they had grace and ſtrength ſufficient in their firſt Parents ſo to do; I anſwer, Admit that vain imagination that we had, what never we indeed had, or could have, becauſe 'twas loſt long before we had a being, yea, what Adam never had, becauſe then he muſt have had power to repent after his Fall, and then we muſt have it ſtill, for what power he had to repent after his fall, he could not loſe by his fall; I ſay, admit this Suppoſition, what is it to the import of all the Exhortations, Perſwaſions, and Motives contained in the Goſpel, which are all directed to fallen Man, and ſo, if God be ſerious in them, declare his great unwillingneſs that fallen Man ſhould periſh, his paſſionate deſire that he ſhould be ſaved, and if he ſpeaketh in them ſuitably to the Capacities and Faculties of fallen Man, plainly ſuppoſe him ſtill in a Capacity by the Aſſiſtances and Motives to underſtand his Duty, and to chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil?

*Prop.*2. I add, That this is not ordinarily, and needs not at all to be done now, by propounding to the Underſtanding any Truths, or to the Will any Motives or Inducements which are not contain'd in Holy Scripture. For if the Word of God be a perſpicuous and perfect Rule, able to make us wiſe to ſalvation, and furniſhed for every good work, ſure the good Spirit may, by ſuggeſting the Truths contained in it, and bringing them to our remembrance, and opening our underſtandings to perceive the Scriptures, ſufficiently remove the darkneſs that is in our minds; if it be a light ſhining in darkneſs, 2 Pet.1.19. and πάντα τὰ ἐλεγχόμενα, all Errors to be corrected, all Vices to be reproved, are made manifeſt by the light, Eph. 5. 13. then muſt it be ſufficient to illuminate our Underſtandings, and direct our Paths, or lead our feet into the way of truth. Again, Seeing the Motives contained in the Scripture, to engage us to turn from thoſe evil ways which tend to our diſquiet, torment, and miſery at preſent, and will hereafter ſubject us to eternal Miſeries, muſt be ſufficient to turn us from the evil of our ways, or elſe the higheſt Motives that can be offered muſt be inſufficient to that end, all other Motives to deter us from any action as pernicious and diſadvantagious to us, being as nothing, when compared to that, Depart from me ye wicked into into eternal fire; all evils we can dread, or ſuffer from the hand of man, as little in reſpect of what we muſt have cauſe to fear from him who can deſtroy both ſoul and body in hell fire. Since, on the other hand, the promiſe of everlaſting Happineſs, recorded in the ſame Scriptures, as the reſult of our ſincere Obedience, muſt be ſufficient to engage us in a ſincere endeavour to yield that obedience to the good and holy will of God, or no inducements can be ſufficient to that end, ſeeing this Motive eminently contains all other Motives in it, there being more in thoſe two words, the enjoyment of God, and everlaſting Happineſs, than Kingdoms, Thrones, and Treaſures, Joy, Pleaſures, Honours, and all that can expreſs the good things of this World, import, and therefore a more vehement conſtraining power in them, to the performance of our Duty, than in the united ſtrength of worldly Greatneſs, Honour, Pleaſures, and that which repreſenteth to our hopes and our deſires, that which incomparably excels all we can hope for, or deſire beſides; I ſay, this being ſo, the holy Spirit, by making deep impreſſions on the Mind of the advantages and rewards promiſed to our converſion and ſincere obedience, and of the dreadful evils threatned to the diſobedient, and bringing theſe things oft to our remembrance, which in the Scripture phraſe is putting theſe laws in our minds, and writing them upon our hearts, ſee Note on Hebr. 8. 10. muſt do what is ſufficient to work in us Converſion and ſincere Obedience. For what reaſon can be given why the Spirit of Wiſdom, having enlightned the eyes of our underſtanding to know what is the hope of our calling, and the glorious riches of the inheritance of the Saints, Eph. 1. 18 And theſe things being thus made preſent to our minds, ſhould not have greater prevalence upon our wills to obedience, than any temporal concerns to yield obedience to the laws of man? 'Tis certain, Satan can only tempt us by ſuggeſting ſome temporal allurements and advantages, or ſome temporal loſſes or affrightments to us; Since then the Scripture doth aſſure us, this is our victory over the world, even our faith, 1 Joh. 5. 4. i. e. our expectation of things hoped for, our evidence of things not ſeen, Hebr. 11. 1. theſe Objects of our Faith contained in the Scriptures, being preſented to us, and impreſſed upon us by the holy Spirit, muſt be ſufficient to baffle all the Temptations of Sin, Satan, and the World. In fine, of this we may be ſufficiently convinced from the Experience of Mankind: For ſince the apprehenſion of Good or Evil is the ſole Motive to make us undertake, or decline any Action, the greater the Good or Evil is, the ſtronger Motive it muſt be. Now, do not many millions in the world forego their preſent eaſe and pleaſure, encounter Difficulties, adventure upon Dangers, and undergo moſt toilſome Labours, in expectation of ſome finite temporal advantage, of which they cannot have aſſurance? do they not oft abſtain from what they paſſionately love, only for fear of dangers which poſſibly might not enſue upon the ſatisfaction of their Appetites? do they not ſow, and plant, and trade only in hopes of an increaſe? and ſhould not then the hopes of infinite eternal Happineſs, and the dread of endleſs Miſeries, more powerfully engage us to enjoy God's Precepts, and to reſiſt all the Temptations which Fleſh and Blood ſuggeſts againſt them?

But then, becauſe the Bleſſings and Miſeries of another World are things inviſible, and only are diſcerned by the Eye of Faith, they being only moral and ſpiritual Motives, which only work upon us as they are preſent to our minds by actual conſideration and reflection on them, and this they are not always, when the Temptations of the World, the Devil, and the Fleſh, by ſenſual Objects, are thus preſent with us; 'tis therefore neceſſary that at all times, when they are not thus preſent with us, and therefore cannot operate upon us, the holy Spirit ſhould either, by repreſenting to us from the Scriptures thoſe Divine Truths with which our Underſtandings have not been ſufficiently enlightned, inſtruct and guide us; or elſe by reviving, and impreſſing on our Spirits thoſe Motives and Inducements to reſiſt thoſe Temptations, and to perform thoſe Duties which are required at our hands, aſſiſt us ſo to do.

Prop. 3. I therefore humbly conceive this inward operation of the holy Spirit to conſiſt in theſe two things:

1ſt, In repreſenting Divine Truths more clearly to our Underſtandings, that we may have a fuller Evidence, ſtronger Conviction and Aſſurance of them, which is in Scripture ſtiled the illumination of the mind.

2ly, In bringing theſe Truths to our remembrance, that ſo they may be preſent with us, when this is requiſite to enable us to reſiſt Temptations, and to encourage us to the performance of our Duty. And upon ſuppoſition of theſe two things, that God acts with us ſutably to the nature of our faculties; (on our Underſtanding, by repreſenting the Light to it, and on our Wills by Motives to chuſe the Good and refuſe the Evil, and that the higheſt Motives and Inducements poſſible, when firmly believed, and preſent to the Mind, muſt be ſufficient to produce their ends;) it can be only requiſite to our Converſion and ſincere Obedience, that the good Spirit ſhould aſſiſt us in this work, by that illumination which is ſufficient to produce this ſtrong Conviction and Plerophory of Faith, and ſhould preſent thoſe Motives to our Memories, and make a deep impreſſion of them there, which being preſent, will move our Wills and our Affections to proſecute the ends for which they are ſufficient.

I am not ignorant that there be many, who beyond all this, require a phyſical and irreſiſtible Motion of the holy Spirit, in which we are wholly paſſive, to the Converſion of a Sinner, and I ſhall not diſpute with them, that Controverſie being ſo fully handled by Dr. Claget, but ſhall endeavour briefly to compound and ſtate the matter.

Firſt then, I ſay it muſt be granted, that in raiſing an Idea in my Brain by the holy Spirit, and the impreſſion made upon it there, the action is properly phyſical.

2*ly*, That in theſe Actions I am purely paſſive; that is, I my ſelf do nothing formally to produce theſe Ideas, but the good Spirit, without any Operation, doth produce them in me. And

3*ly*, That theſe Operations muſt be irreſiſtible in their production, becauſe they are immediately produced in me without my knowledge of them, and without my will, and ſo without thoſe Faculties by which I am enabled to act.

But then I add, that as far as they are ſo, they cannot be imputable to me, i. e. it cannot be praiſe-worthy in me, or rewardable, that I have ſuch Ideas raiſed in me; but only that, when they are thus raiſed in me, I attend to them, comply with, and improve them to the ends for which they were deſigned by the holy Spirit. To make this evident by an Example; It is on all hands granted, that Satan can ſo work upon the Brain, as to raiſe up in it impure and blaſphemous Ideas, but then it is as generally held, that the Thoughts they immediately produce, will never be imputed to us as our ſins, nor will God be diſpleaſed with us for them, if we do not after ſhew any good liking of them, or conſent to them, but manfully reſiſt, and riſe up into deteſtation and abhorrence of them; and that becauſe the raiſing theſe Ideas is the Devil's action, not our own; we are purely paſſive in them till we conſent to, or ſhew ſome liking of them; and they are alſo inevitable and irreſiſtible, it being in the power of no man to prevent or reſiſt them; i. e. to hinder them from being raiſed in his Brain, or any ways to ſuppreſs them, till he doth firſt perceive them raiſed there. And therefore for the ſame reaſons thoſe Ideas which are objectively good, being thus raiſed in us, cannot be imputed to us for reward, nor can God be well pleaſed with us for them, till we co-operate with them; becauſe the raiſing of them is properly God's, not our own action, and we are purely paſſive in it; nor is it in our power to prevent, or to reſiſt them; but then, God having planted in us a Principle of Reaſon and Diſcretion, we can attend to them being raiſed, and ſo improve them to the illumination of our Underſtandings, and to the Approbation of them in our Minds. He alſo having given us a will to chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil, we may conſent to the good Suggeſtions, and purſue the good Motions raiſed thus in us; for to what other ends can they be raiſed in us by the holy Spirit? As therefore our attendance and conſent to the Suggeſtions of the evil Spirit being free, and what we may avoid, is culpable, ſo our attendance to, and compliance with theſe Motions and Ideas of the holy Spirit, being things in which we are free and active, and that upon deliberation, and ſo in them we do perform the proper and free actions of a Man, doing that which we might not do, and refuſing to do that we have both power and temptations to perform, therefore theſe things muſt be praiſe worthy and acceptable in the ſight of God.

I alſo add, that theſe Ideas being thus raiſed up in us by God alone, and even the power of attending and conſenting to them, being, together with our Nature, entirely derived from God, and all the Inducements which we have to attend to them, and comply with them, being properly of Divine external Revelation, or ſuch Divine internal operation as if they had not intervened, we ſhould have had none of theſe good Effects produced upon us, theſe Effects are properly to be aſcribed to God, and all the Praiſe and Glory of them muſt be due to him alone, becauſe the Principle of acting, and the Inducement thus to act is ſolely from him.

To conclude, The greateſt Inſtance of powerful Converſion I can call to mind, is, that of perſecuting Saul. He is confounded by a light ſhining round about him brighter than the Sun; by this he is ſtruck down to the earth, and hears a dreadful voice from Heaven, ſaying, Saul, Saul, why perſeſecuteſt thou me? Now in all this he was purely paſſive, and the Action done upon him was phyſical and irreſiſtible; and therefore this Action being wholly Chriſt's, not his, there could be nothing in it on his part praiſe-worthy, or rendring him a better Man. But then, when he enquires of the holy Jeſus, Lord, what wouldſt thou have me to do? when he prays earneſtly for the forgiveneſs of his ſins, Acts 9. 11. when he ſubmits to that Baptiſm which was appointed by the Holy Jeſus for that end, and for the dedication of himſelf to his Service, when, being told what grievous things he was to ſuffer for the Name of Jeſus, he notwithſtanding was not diſobedient to the heavenly Viſion, but went, and preached up that Faith which he had formerly oppoſed; theſe being Actions of deliberation and free choice, proceeding from Reflections on the heavenly Viſion, and the Conviction it had wrought upon him, muſt be praiſe-worthy and acceptable in the ſight of God.

God; Though, being the Results of what our Lord had done upon him, he very properly aſcribeth the whole glory of them to the grace and favour of our Lord towards him. Hence, ſay St. Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius, he doth ſo magnifie the Grace of God in this matter, as μὴ λυμήνασθαι τὸ αὐτεξούσιον, not to invalidate man's free-will. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 12. And that there is a perfect Harmony betwixt the Operation of God's Grace, and the Co-operation of our Wills, we learn from two Examples recorded in one Chapter, viz. 2 Cor. 8. 1,3. where the Apoſtle advertiſeth the Corinthians of the Grace of God given to them of Macedonia; for, ſaith the Apoſtle, they were according to their power, yea, and above their power αὐθαίρετοι of themſelves willing to contribute to the Neceſſities of the Saints, viz. the Contribution was an act of their own free-wills, proceeding from their choice; but the Grace and Favour of God given to them, was the Spring and Motive of it. So again, *v.*16,17. Thanks be to God τῷ διδόντι, to him that gave this care in the heart of Titus, for he accepted the exhortation, and being more forward αὐθαίρετος ἐξῆλθε, he went to you of his own accord; i.e. the Exhortation was from St. Paul, that which gave the weight and vigour to it, and rendred him more forward in it, was the Grace and Favour of God to him; the reflection on both made this Journey the matter of his own choice, and ſo he became willing of his own accord: yea, this is evident even from the very words, by ſome thought to aſſert the contrary, Philip. 2. 12,13. Wherefore, beloved—not only as in my preſence, (when you had me to be your Monitor) but much more now in my abſence, (which God by the workings and inward teachings of his Spirit ſupplies,) work out your ſalvation with fear and trembling, v. 13. For it is God that worketh in you, both to will and to do of his own pleaſure; (i.e. ſometimes by outward, and ſometimes by inward means;) for if beyond theſe inward Suggeſtions and Perſwaſions, ſome phyſical and irreſiſtible Operations be required on God's part, which make it neceſſary for us, both to will and do, why are we then commanded to work out our own ſalvation; for can we act where we are purely paſſive? or can that be a reaſon why we our ſelves ſhould work, that another will effectually do that very thing without our co-operation? Is it not rather a manifeſt reaſon why we ſhould neither will, or work at all, ſince both is, and will be irreſiſtibly performed without us? Why, 2*ly*, are we ſaid to work out our Salvation with fear and trembling; for can there be any cauſe of fear and trembling leſt that Salvation ſhould not be wrought out, which God works in us irreſiſtibly? Surely if God works in us irreſiſtibly both to will and do, there can be no poſſibility of Miſcarrying, and ſo no ground for fear and trembling. Why 3*ly*, are the Philippians exhorted to do this much more in St. Paul's abſence, than in his preſence, if when he was preſent, God wrought in them irreſiſtibly to will and do, and could do no more in his abſence? 'Tis therefore evident from theſe Conſiderations, that God works in us both to will and do, by giving us our Wills and Faculties, and then ſtirring them up to put forth their own Acts.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle to the GALATIANS.

§ 1. THough in the Pure and Primitive Ages of the Church I find no Controverſie touching the Nature of Faith, or of Juſtification, they ſaying nothing of Juſtification, but as it is included in the Article of Remiſſion of Sins, yet ſeeing both this Faith, and the Juſtification which is aſcribed to it, have, in theſe latter Ages, miniſtred occaſion to many Queſtions and Diſputes, canvaſed with much Contention, and proſecuted with the greateſt Zeal, as being judged Matters of very high importance, and the Epiſtles to the Romans and Galatians are the Epiſtles which treat chiefly of this Subject, I therefore ſhall, by way of Preface to this Epiſtle, endeavour to ſhew

1. What is the import of the word Faith in Scripture, eſpecially as it relates to the Matter of Juſtification, or what the Scripture repreſenteth as true Chriſtian Faith.

2. What it is to be juſtified in St. Paul's acceptation of that word.

3. That this Juſtification is by St. Paul aſcribed to Faith alone, in oppoſition to Works of Righteouſneſs done either by the Jew or Gentile.

4. That it ſeems neceſſary, from the nature of the thing, and the ſtate and condition of the Perſons to whom the Goſpel was then preached, that it ſhould be ſo.

5. That though this Faith doth not include ſincere Obedience, and much leſs Perſeverance in it to the end, which yet are neceſſary and eſſential Conditions, even of the New Covenant; Yet

1. It lays the higheſt Obligations on us to perform them, under the penalty of forfeiting the Bleſſings of it. And

2. It tendreth ſufficient Motives to this Obedience, and, where it is ſincere and laſting, it will moſt certainly produce it.

§ 2. And (1.) as for the import of the word Faith in Scripture, I think ſcarce any thing is more evident throughout the whole New Teſtament, than that the Faith there mentioned is only a cordial and firm belief that Jeſus is the Chriſt, the Lord, the true Meſſiah or Prophet, ſent from God to reveal his Will to the World, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World. To make this manifeſt, Conſider (1.) That Divine Faith in general is only a firm aſſent to, or full perſwaſion of mind concerning the truth of what is teſtified, revealed, or reported by God himſelf, or Perſons commiſſionated by God to reveal, or to bear record to it. For ſeeing Humane Faith is only a perſwaſion of the truth of what is told us, or teſtified by Man, Divine Faith muſt be a firm perſwaſion of the truth of what is teſtified, or revealed to us by God. And this deſcription of Faith is clearly taught us by St. John, 1 Joh. 5. who having declared v. 4, 5. that the Faith by which we overcome the World, is the belief that Jeſus is the Son of God, proceeds to ſhew we have great reaſon to believe this Propoſition, that Jeſus is the Son of God; 1. Becauſe the Holy Spirit beareth witneſs to it, and he is the Spirit of Truth, v. 6. 2. Becauſe there are three that bear record in Heaven to it, viz. the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghoſt, v. 7. Now, ſaith he, if we receive the witneſs of Men; if we rely upon their teſtimony in any Courts of Judicature; if by the mouth of two or three humane witneſſes our weightieſt matters are determined, ſhall not the witneſs of God be greater? i. e. ſhall it not be of more validity for confirmation of our Faith in this particular, that Jeſus is the Son of God? v 9. Surely we cannot disbelieve this truth, but we muſt give the lie to him, ſaith the Apoſtle, v. 10. Becauſe we believe not the record which God hath given of his Son; but if we do receive this teſtimony on his authority, we ſet to our Seal that God is true, John 3.33.

This being then the nature of Divine Faith in general, Faith in our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, muſt be a full aſſent to, or firm perſwaſion of mind concerning the truth of what is teſtified, revealed, or reported by God himſelf, or by Perſons commiſſionated by him to reveal his Will, concerning our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Or briefly thus; It is a firm perſwaſion that he who ſuffered at Jeruſalem was the true Meſſiah, the Saviour of the World, the Prophet who was for to come, that Perſon who was conſtituted Lord of all things; or, which amounts to the ſame thing, that he was Chriſt the Son of God. For Explication of this Propoſition, Conſider (1.) That the Scripture mentions this as the great thing teſtified concerning him, by all the Witneſſes of the Meſſiah; as v. g.

1. By St. John the Baptiſt, who came for a Witneſs to teſtifie of the Light, *John.*1.7. and who ſaw, and bare record that this is the Son of God, *v.*34. Hence do St. John's Diſciples ſay, He to whom thou bareſt witneſs baptizeth, John 3.25. And Chriſt ſpeaks thus to the Jews, You ſent to John, and he bare witneſs to the truth, John 5. 33.

2. God the Father bare him record, and teſtified by divers methods, that he was the Son of God; ſo do we read expreſly, John 5. 32. There is another that beareth witneſs of me, and I know that the witneſs which he witneſſeth of me is true, the Father himſelf who hath ſent me, beareth witneſs of me. And again, Chap. 8. 17, 18. It is written in your Law, that the teſtimony of two men is true; i.e. it is to be received as ſuch: I am one that bear witneſs of my ſelf, and the Father which ſent me beareth witneſs of me. Now God the Father bore witneſs to his Son, 1. By a voice from Heaven, ſaying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed, Mark 1. 11. This voice was perſonally directed to Chriſt himſelf, as being that Commiſſion which was ſent him from Heaven to exerciſe the Office of God's Supreme Miniſter, or Legate in the World; but it was alſo prefaced with an ἰδὲ, Behold, directing the People to attend to it, Matth. 3. 17. 2*ly, By giving him the power of working Miracles for confirmation of his Doctrine, and his own teſtimony; and therefore he ſpeaks thus to the People,* I have a greater teſtimony than that of John, the works which my Father hath given me to do, they bear witneſs of me that the Father hath ſent me, John 5. 36.

3*ly,* The Holy Spirit beareth witneſs that Jeſus is the Son of God, 1 John 5.6. and this he did not only by his deſcent upon our Saviour at his Baptiſm, and by raiſing him from the dead, he being put to death in the Fleſh, but quickned by the Spirit, 1 Pet. 3. 18. but by enabling him to caſt out Devils, and to perform ſuch works as never any other perſon did, or could do. Whence he thus argues, If by the Spirit of God I caſt out Devils, then is the Kingdom of God come to you; i. e. then is it clear that I am the Meſſiah ſent from God to preach the Doctrine of his Kingdom to you, Matth. 12.28. Since my Commiſſion is confirmed by theſe Operations of his Spirit, and teſtified to by the Finger of God, as the phraſe is varied, Luke 11.20. and this, after our Lord's Aſcenſion, this Spirit was to do more fully: For when, ſaith Chriſt, the Comforter is come even the Spirit of Truth, he ſhall teſtifie of me, Joh. 15.26. and this he actually did; whence Chriſt is ſaid to be juſtified by the Spirit, 1 Tim. 3. 16. i. e. freed by his teſtimony from the ſuſpicion of being an Impoſtor, or falſe Pretender, when he declared he was Chriſt the Son of God.

4*ly, The* Apoſtles were Men choſen for this very end, Ye ſhall bear witneſs of me, ſaith Chriſt, becauſe ye have been with me from the beginning, John 15.27. Ye ſhall be witneſſes to me both in Jeruſalem and Judea, and in Samaria, and to the uttermoſt parts of the earth. Hence are they ſtiled Witneſſes choſen of God, Acts 10.41. Eye-witneſſes of what he did and ſuffered, Luke 1.2. Eye-witneſſes of his glory, 2 Pet. 1. 16. That which we have heard, and ſeen, and looked upon μαρτυρῦμεν we witneſs, and declare unto you, ſaith St. John, 1 John 1. 2.

5*ly,* Moſes alſo, and the Prophets, are produced as his Witneſſes, for unto him give all the Prophets witneſs, Acts 10. 43. All the Scriptures, Search the Scriptures, ſaith Chriſt, for they are they which teſtifie of me, John 5. 39. And Moſes in particular; For if you believed Moſes you would believe me, for he wrote of me, v. 46.

Conſider 2*ly, The things for which theſe Witneſſes are produced, the Evidence they give in concerning the* Meſſiah, and that will teach us what is Faith in Chriſt. Sometimes 'tis ſaid that they bare record that he is the Son of God, John 1. 34. 1 John 5.5=10. Sometimes they teſtifie that he was the Chriſt. Thus St. Paul confounded the Jews, teſtifying that he was the Chriſt, Acts 9.20,22. St. Peter teſtifying to all the Houſe of Iſrael, that God had made him Lord and Chriſt, Acts 2. 36. Sometimes they teſtifie that he was the Saviour of the World. So 1 John 4.14. We have ſeen, and do teſtifie that God hath ſent his Son to be the Saviour of the World; or that he was the Lamb of God that taketh away the ſins of the World, John 1. 29. that him God hath exalted to be a Saviour, to give repentance and remiſſion of ſins to them that believed in his Name, Acts 5. 31. & 13.38. Sometimes they teſtifie that he is Lord of all things, Acts 10. 36. and as a conſequent of this, that he by God's appointment was to be Judge of all Men; for he commanded us, ſaith Peter, to preach to the People, and to teſtifie that it was he who was ordained to be the Judge of the quick and the dead, Acts 10.42. Sometimes they are ſaid to bear witneſs of his Reſurrection, Acts 1. 22. ſaying, This Jeſus hath God raiſed up, whereof we are Witneſſes, Acts 23.2. for we have teſtified of God that he raiſed up Chriſt, 1 Cor. 15.15.

say he is the Christ, that Person by God anointed to be our Prophet. St. Matthew gives us the Confession of St. Peter thus, Thou art the Christ the Son of the living God, Matth. 16.16. St. Mark thus, Thou art the Christ, *Chap.*8.29. St. Luke, Thou art the Christ of God, Chap. 9. 10. And when our Lord forbids them to divulge this to the World, be only saith, Tell no man that I am Jesus the Christ, Matth. 16. 20. Art thou the Christ, the Son of God? saith the High-Priest to him, Matth. 26. 63. whereas St. Luke relates the question only thus, Art thou the Christ? Chap. 22 67. 2*ly*, To be the Son of God, is in effect to be the Lord of all things, the Person to whom all Power is given in Heaven and Earth; that every Knee should bow unto him, as their Soveraign Lord and King; And therefore, whereas Pilate is, in the other Evangelists, said only to ask, Art thou the Christ, the Son of God? St. John relates the question thus, Art thou the King of the Jews? 3*ly*, To be the Son of God, must also signifie to be the Saviour of the World; the Testimony of the Apostles being this, that God had sent his Son to be the Saviour of the World, 1 John 4. 14. to testifie that he was risen from the dead, was in effect to testifie he was the Son of God; for he was declared to be the Son of God with power by the Resurrection from the dead, Rom. 1.4. 'Twas in effect to testifie that he was made both Lord and Christ; and therefore Peter having proved Christ's Resurrection and Exaltation to the right hand of God, infers that we may all be hence assured, that God hath made him Lord, Acts 2. 36. and St. Paul tells us, it was a demonstration that God by him would judge the World, Acts 17.31. And since his Resurrection was performed by the Almighty power of God, it must be a sufficient demonstration of the truth of what Christ testified of himself, viz. that he was Christ, the Saviour of the World, and that he should hereafter sit at the right hand of Power, it being impossible that God should have employ'd so great power in raising him from the dead, had he not been his well-beloved Son, or that Messiah he declared himself to be.

This being then the thing which all these Witnesses were so concerned to attest, and to engage Men to believe, we may be sure this is, according to the tenor of the Holy Scripture, Faith in Christ; and that by heartily believing that Christ is the Messiah sent into the World to instruct us in the Will of God, the Saviour of the World, sent to redeem us by his Death from Death and Misery, and give Salvation to all his faithful Servants; that he is our Lord and King, by whose Laws we are to be govern'd, and by whose Laws we shall be judged and rewarded at the last day; We truly do believe in Christ; which yet will farther be apparent,

1*st*, From plain Texts which seem expressly to assert the same. We find Nathaniel saying, Rabbi, Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the King of Israel, John 1. 49. And Christ thus answering to him, Because I saw thee under the Fig-tree, believest thou? Whence it is evident, that to acknowledge Jesus to be the Son of God, the King of Israel, was to believe in him. This was the Faith of the Samaritan Woman, and her fellow Citizens, John 4. 26. for to this Woman our Saviour testifies he was the true Messiah, saying, I that speak unto thee am he, v. 29. Then the Woman goes into the City, and saith to the Men of it, Come, see a man that told me all things that ever I did, is not this the Christ? This being said, many of the Samaritans believed on him, because of the saying of the woman; and many more believed, because of his own words, v. 39. that is, they were perswaded, partly by what they heard her testifie, partly by what they heard our Saviour speak, to acknowledge he was the true Messiah, or the Saviour of the World; for so they do themselves explain the meaning of believing on him, saying to the Woman, Now we believe not because of thy word; for we our selves have heard, and know, that this is verily the Christ, the Saviour of the World, v. 42. This was the Faith of Martha, for Jesus having said to her, I am the Resurrection and the Life, he that believeth on me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; Believest thou this? She answers, Yea Lord, I believe thou art the Christ, the Son of God, who wast to come into the World, Joh. 11.25, 26. To believe this, was therefore to believe in Christ, if Martha did so. We find St. Paul opening and alledging that Christ must needs have suffered, and risen again from the dead, Acts 17.3. and that this Jesus, whom he preached, was the Christ; and then it follows, that some of them believed, v. 4. i. e. they were perswaded of the truth of what St. Paul had testified. Again it follows, that those of Berea searching the Scriptures, and finding that these things were so, believed, v. 11. i. e. they were perswaded of the truth of what St. Paul had taught, that Jesus was the Christ; that he had suffered, and was risen from the dead: This therefore must be to believe. Again, St. Paul was prest in spirit, and testifies to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ; Acts 18. 5. whereupon Crispus a chief Ruler of the Synagogue, and many of the Corinthians believed; i. e. they acknowledged the truth of St. Paul's testimony, that Jesus was the Christ. The word of faith which we preach, saith the same Paul, is this, that if thou confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and in thy heart believest that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved; Rom. 10.8, 9. And this he proves, because the Scripture saith, Whosoever believeth in him shall not be ashamed, v. 10. To confess therefore, and acknowledge that Jeſus is the Lord, and that God raiſed him from the dead, is to believe on him. Laſtly, This, ſaith St. John, is the victory over the World, even our Faith, 1 John 5.4. and then it follows, Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jeſus is the Son of God? to believe therefore that Jeſus is the Son of God, is Chriſtian Faith.

3*ly*, This was the Faith which the Apoſtles did require in order to Baptiſm; and where there was a due appearance of it, there Perſons were admitted into the number of Believers. For inſtance; St. Peter ſaith to the Jews. Let all the houſe of Iſrael know that God hath made this Jeſus, whom ye crucified, Lord, and Chriſt, Acts 2.36. This pricks them to the heart, and makes them to enquire, what ſhall we do? St. Peter anſwers, Repent you, and believe every one of you in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, for the remiſſion of ſins, *v.*38. and then it follows, that they who gladly received his word, were baptized; and there were added to the Church three thouſand ſouls, *v.*41. and v.47. The Lord daily added to the Church τὺς σωζομένους the ſaved, i. e. ſuch who were by this faith put into the way of ſalvation; and, if they perſevered in it, would obtain it. Again, Philip went down to the City of Samaria, and preached to them Chriſt, Acts 8.5. and when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the Kingdom of God, *v.*12. i. e. when they did heartily aſſent to them, they were baptized, both Men and Women. And when the Eunuch puts the queſtion to him, What hindreth me to be baptized? Philip returns this anſwer, If thou believeſt with all thy heart, thou mayeſt, *v.*37. And when the Eunuch anſwered, I believe that Jeſus Chriſt is the Son of God, then was he inſtantly baptized; ſo that the Faith required to Baptiſm, was only an hearty acknowledgment that Jeſus Chriſt was the Son of God.

§ 3. And becauſe there be many falſe, and in my apprehenſion dangerous deſcriptions of true Faith, which have obtained in theſe latter Ages, I will here briefly lay them down, and then proceed to other Confirmations of the Scripture notion of true Faith, by which we may abundantly diſcern the falſhood of them. Now they are ſuch as theſe, viz.

1. That (a) Faith is a firm aſſent, by which every true Believer is perſwaded, not only that Remiſſion of ſins is promiſed in the general, but to him in particular. So Calvin; and after him the generality of the French and Dutch Divines.

2*ly*, That Faith conſiſts in (b) application of Chriſt's Merits to our ſelves, in caſting our ſelves upon the Merits of Chriſt, in apprehending, relying, or laying hold upon Chriſt for Salvation; or, as others ſay, 'tis a recumbency on Chriſt for Salvation. Of all which Notions of juſtifying, or true Chriſtian Faith, this is a full confutation, that they are perfectly unſcriptural: For the firſt cannot be contained in Scripture, it being certain to a demonſtration, that Scripture no where ſaith, that Daniel, John, or Thomas, &c. have remiſſion of ſins. This therefore cannot be Divine Faith, or Faith built immediately on a Divine Revelation, or Record, but reſts upon our own Experience, or Knowledge of our ſelves; for the Argument muſt run thus, He that repenteth and believeth ſhall be ſaved, I Daniel and Thomas have done this; which may indeed be matter of their knowledge, but not of divine faith, as being not revealed in Scripture.

Nor are the other Opinions leſs unſcriptural, for we do not once read in Scripture any command to apply Chriſt's Merits to our ſelves, or to apprehend his Merits, or to lean and roll our ſelves upon him for Salvation; we find no Exhortation in Scripture ſo to do; no Reprehenſion of any Perſon for not reſting on, or not applying Chriſt's Merits to themſelves; no Promiſe made to any upon the application of Chriſt's Merits: In a word, the Scripture is wholly unacquainted with theſe Phraſes. And is that likely to be the duty on which our Juſtification, Adoption, and all our Happineſs depends, which hath no Precept, Promiſe, or Example in the Holy Scripture? But I ſhall add ſome farther Confirmations of the Scripture Notion of true Faith, by which all theſe unſcriptural Opinions will be at once confuted. And therefore

4*ly*, The Scripture frequently inform us, that the Miracles done by Chriſt are propounded as the great Motive to believe on him, and as the aggravation of their ſin, who ſtill continued in their infidelity, and alſo that the conſideration of them cauſed many to believe. On this account he requires to be believed; If you believe not me, believe the works, *Joh.*10.38. 14. 11. for the works that I do bear witneſs of me, that the Father hath ſent me, *Joh.*5.36. & 10. 25. On this account he pronounces the Infidelity of the Jews inexcuſable, ſaying, If I had not done among them the works that no other man did, they had had no ſin; but now they have no cloak for their sin, Joh. 15. 22,24. 'Twas this Consideration which induced many of them to believe; for many believed on his Name when they saw the Miracles which he did, John 2.23.& 7.30. Now what were all his Miracles designed to produce in them, but a firm belief that he was Christ the Son of God? so doth St. John expressly teach us, saying, There be many other Miracles which Jesus did, that are not written in this Book; but these are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Son of God, John 20. 30. If you imagine that Faith is a firm assent that Christ died for you in particular, and that you have remission of sins by him, that 'tis an application of Christ, or of his Merits to your selves, or a rolling your selves upon him for Salvation, How do his Miracles convince you that you should thus believe on him? But if you say it is a firm perswasion that he is the Christ, the Son of God, nothing can be more proper to convince us of the truth of what he thus declared, than these Miracles; then may you say with Nicodemus, We know thou art a Teacher sent from God, for no man can do such Miracles as thou dost, except God were with him, John 3. 2.

5*ly, This will be yet more evident from all those places which ascribe our Justification and Salvation to Faith in God, or in him that sent this Jesus into the World. So doth our Lord himself in these words,* Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation, but is passed from death to life, John 5.24. & 12.44. The Faith of Abraham is thus described, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for Righteousness, *Rom.*4.3. i.e. this Faith in God was imputed to him for righteousness; when therefore the Apostle adds, that he is the Father of them that believe, that righteousness might be imputed to them also, v. 9. must it not be imputed upon their believing in God, as he did? Doth not the Apostle hence infer, that unto him that worketh not, but believeth in him that justifieth the ungodly, his Faith is counted for righteousness, v. 5. Now to believe in him that justifieth the ungodly, is certainly to believe in God the Father, for it is God that justifieth, *Rom.*8.33. *To be justified by this Faith, must therefore signifie to be justified by Faith in God the Father, according to those words of St.*Peter, We through him believe in God, that our faith and hope might be in God, 1 *Pet.*1. 21. Now if Faith be supposed to consist in believing that our own sins are pardoned, in application of Christ's Merits to our selves, or in rolling our selves upon the Person of Christ, what affinity or connexion is there betwixt believing in God, believing the truth of his Promises, as Abraham did, and was justified, and believing that our own sins are pardoned, applying the Merits of Christ to our selves or rolling our selves upon him for Salvation? But then if justifying Faith doth primarily consist in a firm perswasion that Jesus is the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, the Prophet sent of God to shew us the way of Salvation, the Lord and King, by whose Laws we are to be governed if we would obtain it, then Faith in Christ, and Faith in God are one thing; for God having testified all this concerning his Son Jesus Christ, and also promised that every one that hath seen the Son, and believed on him, shall have eternal life, John 6.40. By thus believing we receive his Testimony, and set to our Seal that God is true.

6*ly, This may be argued from all those places which ascribe our Justification and Salvation to the belief of the Resurrection of* Jesus Christ, *or of God's power exercised in raising him from the dead. Thus doth St.*Paul in that very Chapter in which he professedly disputes of Justification by Faith; for he expressly declares, that to them that believe in him who raised Jesus from the dead, that Faith shall be imputed to Righteousness, Rom. 4. 24. as Abraham's Faith in him that quickned the dead, was imputed unto him for Righteousness. And again, If we believe with the heart, that God hath raised up the Lord Jesus from the dead we shall be saved, for with the heart man believeth to justification, Rom. 10. 9. Now what agreement is there betwixt my believing my own sins are pardoned, or my applying Christ's Merits to my self, or rolling my self upon him, and Christ's resurrection from the dead by the power of God? But then if we say that Faith is a firm perswasion that Jesus was the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, the Prophet that was to come into the World, the Lord and Ruler over all, this, as he testified of himself whilst living, and God the Father also testified, so was he declared to be the Son of God with power by this resurrection from the dead, Rom. 1.4. By this all Israel might know that God had made him Lord, and Christ, Acts 2.24—36. and that God had exalted him to the right hand, to be a Prince and a Saviour, to give repentance to Israel, and remission of sins, Acts 5.31. Hence the Apostle teacheth that Christ died for our sins, and rose again for our justification, Rom. 4. 25. and puts the question, Who is he that condemneth us? it is Christ that died, yea rather that is risen again, Chap. 8. 34.

7*ly, This appears farther from this consideration, that in all the* Scriptures of the New Testament there is not to be found one Exhortation to any Christian to believe in Christ, or to all Faith on Christ. When the Apostles preached to Jews, or Gentiles, Men not converted to the Christian Faith, they still exhort them to believe that Jesus was the Christ, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, or to believe in the Lord Jesus. And this was necessary ceſſary to be preached to them, to perſwade them to believe in, and to obey him; for till they did believe he was a Perſon ſent from God, and that they ſhould receive ſome benefit by doing ſo, they could have no inducement to own, and no encouragement to obey him. It was therefore neceſſary that this ſhould be firſt preached to Jew and Gentile, that Chriſt was a Perſon ſent from God to preach the Doctrine which he taught, and that remiſſion of ſins, and everlaſting life was to be obtained by his Name, and by obedience to this Teacher. But then, I ſay, the ſame Apoſtles in their Epiſtles directed to thoſe Perſons who are already Chriſtians, and who had teſtified their Faith by being baptized in the Name of Jeſus, have not one Exhortation to any of them to believe in Chriſt; but only to be ſtedfaſt in the Faith, to encreaſe and grow in Faith, and to repent of what they had done contrary to the Faith they had received. The Exhortations of our Lord to the ſeven Churches, and more particularly to that of Sardis, in which there were but very few who had not defiled themſelves, Rev. 3.1,2,3. and that of Laodicea which he threatned to ſpew out of his mouth for her luke-warmneſs, Luke 16.18. is only to repent, and renew their firſt works, not to believe in him, or to apply his Merits to themſelves. Now what account can be given of this thing by thoſe who are ſo zealous in their Sermons to exhort Chriſtians to believe in Chriſt, to roll themſelves upon him, and apply his Merits to themſelves, and are ſo full of Motives to perſwade them ſo to do? I ſay, what reaſon can they give why men, aſſiſted by the Holy Ghoſt, never exhorted any Chriſtian to believe, but only to ſhew forth their faith by their works, James 2.18. and to add unto their faith vertue? 2 Pet. 1.5,6,&c. But then if Chriſtian Faith be only a firm perſwaſion that Jeſus is the Chriſt, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, the reaſon is exceeding manifeſt why no Chriſtian ſhould be exhorted to believe, becauſe whoſoever is a Chriſtian, and only doth believe all this already, but hath profeſſed his belief of it by being baptized in the Name of Jeſus. There therefore needs no Exhortation to any Chriſtian to believe in Chriſt, but only to walk anſwerable to that Faith, to be ſtedfaſt in it, and to add to his faith vertue, knowledge, temperance, godlineſs, brotherly kindneſs, charity, 2 Pet. 1.5—8. that they may not be ſlothful, and unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Object. If it be here objected that St. John ſaith, Theſe things have I written to you that believe on the Name of the Son of God, that ye may know ye have eternal life (ἵνα πιστεύητε) and that ye may believe in the Name of the Son of God, 1 John 5. 13. I anſwer,

1. That the Alexandrian, and other Greek Manuſcripts, read not καὶ ἵνα πιστεύσητε, but οἱ πιστεύοντες, that ye may know ye have eternal life who believe in the Name of the Son of God. And this reading is confirmed by the Vulgar, the Syriac, and Æthiopick Verſions.

2*ly*, They who retain our Verſion interpret the words thus, That ye may continue to believe in the Name of the Son of God; or that ye may (c) more firmly, and certainly believe. Nor will the words bear any other meaning, unleſs you will ſuppoſe St. John ſhould ſeriouſly exhort Believers to begin to do, what he had told them in the immediate preceding words, was ſo effectually done by them already, that they might know they had eternal life.

In a word, Either it is true before we actually believe it, that our ſins are pardoned, that we have a right to apply Chriſt's Merits to us, and to roll our ſelves upon his Perſon for Salvation, or it is not: If it be true before we have believed, we muſt have Faith before, ſince nothing can procure this pardon of our ſins, or give us any right to apply his Merits to our ſelves, or depend on him for Salvation, but Faith in Chriſt: If it be not true, we muſt obtain the pardon of our ſins, and an intereſt in Chriſt's merits by believing a lie? And ſo much for the firſt Particular. To the next Enquiry,

§ 4. 2*ly*, What is it to be juſtified in St. Paul's acceptation of the word? I anſwer,

1. That this Juſtification which St. Paul ſpeaks of, is an act of God terminated upon Man. This the Apoſtle expreſly doth deliver in theſe words, Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? it is God that juſtifies, Rom. 8. 33. And again, It is one God who juſtifies the circumciſion by faith, and the uncircumciſion through faith, Rom. 3.30. It is God that juſtifieth the ungodly, Rom. 4. 5. He is juſt, and the Juſtifier of him that believeth in Jeſus, Rom. 3.26. Now according to the clear tenor of the Scripture,

2*ly*, God juſtifies the ſinner by abſolving him from the guilt of his paſt ſins, by a free act of grace, in pardoning his iniquities, or not imputing his ſins to him, and ſo his juſtification muſt import his abſolution from the guilt of ſin, and as a neceſſary and immediate conſequence of that, our being reconciled to God, and received into favour with him. This will be event if we conſider,

1. What the Baptiſt teſtified concerning him that all men might believe, viz. that he was the Lamb of God that taketh away the ſins of the world, John 1.29. and what Chriſt teſtified of himſelf, viz. that he that believeth in him ſhould not come into condemnation, Joh. 3.36. that his blood was the blood of the new Covenant, which was ſhed for the remiſſion of ſins, Matth. 26.28. even of that Covenant in which God promiſes to be merciful to our unrighteouſneſs, and to remember our iniquities no more, Hebr. 8.13.& 10.17. As alſo from what his Apoſtles promiſed to win Men to the Faith of Jeſus, viz. remiſſion of ſins. Thus when the Jews were pricked to the heart, and ſaid, What ſhall we do? St. Peter anſwers, Repent ye, and be baptized in the Name of Jeſus Chriſt, for the remiſſion of ſins, Acts 2. 37. And again, Repent you, and be converted, that your ſins may be blotted out, Acts 3. 19. For him hath God exalted to be a Prince and a Saviour to give repentance, and remiſſion of ſins, Acts 5 31. St. Peter begins his Sermon to Cornelius thus, The Word which God hath ſent us to preach is Peace by Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 10. 36 To him give all the Prophets witneſs, that through his Name whoſoever believeth on him ſhall receive remiſſion of ſins, Acts 13.23. St. Paul declares, that God had raiſed up to Iſrael a Saviour Jeſus; and then he adds, Known therefore be it to you, that through this Man is preached to you remiſſion of ſins; and in him every believer on him ſhall be juſtified from all things, from which they could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes, Hebr. 10.1,4. that Law being not able to take away ſins, Rom. 3.23. i.e. to free Men from the guilt of ſin. Seeing then the benefit propoſed to the Believer is the remiſſion of ſins to be obtained through Chriſt, through his Name, ſeeing we are ſaid to be juſtified through Chriſt, Chap. 5.9. through Faith in his Blood, Eph. 1.7. that Blood which is ſo often ſaid to be ſhed for the remiſſion of our ſins, Col. 1.14,20. and to procure our Peace, and our Redemption; Since, laſtly, we are ſaid by believing in Chriſt to be juſtified from ſin, Acts 13. 39. which Phraſe can only ſignifie exemption from the condemnation of it; I ſay, from theſe expreſſions it appears, that God's juſtification of a ſinner by Faith, or through Faith in the Blood of Jeſus, is chiefly the remiſſion of the Believer's ſins, and the exemption of him from the condemnation of the Law by virtue of Chriſt's Blood ſhed for the remiſſion of ſins.

2*ly*, This we may learn from the Reaſonings by which the Apoſtle confirms his Concluſion, or the Arguments by which he proves, that both Jew and Gentile are to be juſtified by Faith, without the works of the Law, or without works. His Concluſion is laid down Chap. 1.17. thus, The righteouſneſs of God (which proceeds) from faith, is revealed in the Goſpel, to (beget) faith in Jew and Gentile, v. 16. (See the Note there.) And this way of obtaining Righteouſneſs or Juſtification, he proves to be abſolutely neceſſary to them both, beginning firſt with the Gentiles, whom he pronounces ſubject to the wrath of God, for holding the truth (they by the Light of Nature knew) in unrighteouſneſs, v. 18. And this he proves to the end of that Chapter, which concludes thus, That they knowing the judgment of God, that they who did ſuch things were worthy of death, not only did the ſame, but had pleaſure in them that did them. In the ſecond Chapter he declares the Jews guilty of the ſame things the Heathens did, and ſo obnoxious to the ſame Condemnation, and alſo guilty of violating the Law of Moſes; and thence concludes, that as to this matter there was no difference between them, he having proved both Jews and Gentiles to be all under ſin, Chap. 3.9. and ſo both equally needing to be juſtified by Faith, or to be juſtified freely by an Act of Grace, pardoning their ſins through faith in Chriſt, v. 24. His Argument then is plainly this, both Jew and Gentile lie under the guilt of ſin, there being none of them that is righteous, Rom 3.9. i. e. free from ſin, no not one, v. 10. Neither of them can be juſtified by the Law, becauſe they by the Sentence of it are ὑπόδικοι τῷ Θεῷ, guilty before God, v. 19,20. and obnoxious to puniſhment, as being both Tranſgreſſors of it, Therefore, ſaith he, by the Law can no fleſh be juſtified, for by the Law is the knowledge of ſin, rendring us obnoxious to condemnation; where then there remains the guilt of ſin, there can be no juſtification; where therefore there is remiſſion of ſin, and ſo a freedom from being guilty of it before God, there is juſtification. Again, All have ſinned, ſaith he, and fallen ſhort of the glory of God, v. 23. that is, either of his approbation, as that phraſe ſignifies Joh. 12.43. or of the fruition of the glory of God, as it imports Rom. 5.1,2. Therefore abſolution from this ſin muſt be ſufficient to make us obtain this glory of God. We who have thus ſinned, ſaith he, are juſtified freely by his Grace through the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, v. 24. Now what is this Redemption? it is, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle twice, Remiſſion of our ſins, Eph. 1.7. Col. 1. 14. The Apoſtle argues to the ſame effect in the Epiſtle to the Galatians, That Juſtification cannot be by the Law, becauſe the Law cannot give life; and this it cannot do, becauſe the Scripture hath concluded all under ſin, Gal. 3. 21, 22. and ſo ſhut out that way of being juſtified. Our freedom therefore from the guilt of ſin, muſt be ſufficient for our juſtification to life. In his fourth Chapter to the Romans he deſcribes juſtification by the not imputing ſin, and the forgiveneſs of it, in theſe words, To him that worketh not, but believeth in him that juſtifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteouſneſs, v. 4. As David ſpeaks of the bleſſedneſs of the man to whom the Lord imputeth righteouſneſs without works, v. 5, 6. ſaying, Bleſſed are they whoſe unrighteouſneſs is forgiven, and whoſe ſin is covered, v. 7. Bleſſed is the man to whom the Lord imputeth not ſin, v. 8. Since then the bleſſedneſs of which the Apostle was discoursing, was that of justification, the justification of the ungodly, and since this blessedness is said to consist in the remission, covering, the not imputing his sins to him, it cannot reasonably be denied that the blessedness of a justified person is here described by the Blessedness of a pardoned person, as being one and the same thing.

3*ly*. This will be farther evident from the consideration of the phrases the Apostle useth as equivalent to justification, and interpretative of it. As

1. Reconciliation to God, that this is the same with justification, appears by these words, Much more being justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath by him; for if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life, Rom. 5. 9, 10. where to be justified by his blood, and reconciled by his death, seem plainly the same thing. Now that reconciliation is effected by the remission of sins, is evident from these words, God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them, 2 Cor. 5.19. and therefore justification also must be so obtained; for if upon the not imputing sin to us, God did not account us as righteous, he could not be reconciled to us, because he cannot be reconciled to any man continuing unrighteous, or under the notion of a sinner.

2*ly*, Justification stands directly opposed to condemnation, in these words, Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's Elect, or to Believers; τὶς ἐγκαλέσει κατὰ, who shall object a crime against them, it is God that justifieth, who is he that condemneth them? Rom. 8.33,34. And again, If the ministration of condemnation, i. e. the Law which chargeth us with guilt, and so rendreth us obnoxious to condemnation, was glorious, much more the ministration, ἡ δικαιοσύνης of justification doth exceed in glory, 2 Cor. 3. 9. Now what is it that mankind is accused of, and charged with by the Law, but sin? What is it that they stand condemned for at God's Bar, but the transgression of his Law? Justification therefore, which stands opposed to it, must be a clearing and discharging them from the guilt, or the condemning power of sin.

3*ly*, Justification is said to be from sin; By him all that believe are justified ἐκ πάντων from all those sins from which they could not be justified by the Law of Moses, Acts 13. 39. And again, The judgment was from one sin to condemnation, but the free gift to justification ἐκ πολλῶν ἁμαρτημάτων from many sins, Rom. 5.16. Now what can justification from sin signifie, besides our absolution from the guilt of sin?

4*ly*, The justifying the Believer, and the remission of his sins, are divers expressions of the same thing, as is apparent from these words, God hath set forth Christ Jesus to be a propitiation through faith in his blood: This he hath done, saith the Apostle, to declare his righteousness in the remission of sins, Rom. 3.25. viz. to those that have this faith, i.e. to manifest the way of justification by faith, which he alone admits of for the remission of sins. He did this, saith the next verse, to declare his righteousness, that he might be just, in requiring this propitiation for our sins, and the justifier of him that believeth in Jesus, v. 26. Is it not therefore manifest, that to justifie the Believer, and to remit his sins, must be the same thing?

5*ly*, We are justified, saith the Apostle, through the redemption that is in Jesus, through Faith in his Blood, Rom. 3. 24, 25. through his Blood, Rom. 5.9. Now what doth this Blood procure for us? forgiveness of sins, Eph. 1.7. Col. 1. 14. saith the Apostle, it being shed for the remission of sins, Matth. 26. 28. He appearing in the end of the world to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself, Heb. 9.26. What benefit have Believers by it? He hath loved them, and washed them from their sins in his blood, Rev. 1.5. He hath made peace for them by the blood of his Cross, Col. 1.20. with a God only angry for sin; He hath obtained eternal redemption from transgressions by it, Heb. 9.12, 15. By all these equivalent expressions it appears, that God's justifying the sinner, in St. Paul's sense of the expression, is his absolving him from the guilt of his past sins, from punishment, and condemnation by the law for them, by an act of grace and free pardon of them through the blood of Jesus, his being as fully reconciled to us, as if we never had offended against the former Covenant we were all under, till the new Covenant was established in the blood of Jesus.

§ 5. 3*ly*, I add, that this justification is, by St. Paul ascribed to faith alone, in opposition to works of righteousness done, either by the Jew or Gentile. This plainly follows from that notion of Justification which I have established as the true sense of the expression in St. Paul; for how could Jew or Gentile be justified by the works of that Law, whether Mosaical or Natural, which rendred them both obnoxious to condemnation for sin, and guilty before God? Could they receive remission of sins by compliance with that law which left them under condemnation for it? Can any man imagine, after the charge he lays against the Gentiles, Ch. 1. and against the Jews, Chap. 2 & 3. He could have any inclination to assert they should be justified, or absolved from the guilt of those offences by their Works, and not by Faith only? The mistake in this matter seems to lie here, that men look upon justification, not as looking backward only, and procuring an absolution from our past sins, but as looking forward to our whole Christian conversation, and importing our absolution from all our sins committed against the tenor of the Covenant of Grace, or the New Covenant; whereas it only doth consist ἐν τῇ πάρεσι τῶν γεγενημένων ἁμαρτημάτων, in the remission of our past sins, *Rom.*3.25. in the redemption of us from τῶν ἐπὶ τῇ πρώτῃ διαθήκῃ παραβάσεων, the sins committed against our former Covenant, *Hebr.*9.15. in the purgation of the Believer τῶν πάλαι αὐτοῦ ἁμαρτιῶν from his old sins, 2 *Pet.*1.9. And leaves us afterward to be absolved or condemned, as we obey, perform, or violate the Conditions of the New Covenant, and so to be judged hereafter, not according to our Faith, but Works. See the Note on Rom.3.25.

2*ly*, This is exceeding evident from the plain words of the Apostle, and by the Arguments by which he proves we must be justified by Faith, and not by Works. For, saith he, by the deeds of the Law shall no flesh be justified in his sight, for by the Law is the knowledge of (that) sin, (which renders us obnoxious to condemnation.) Now this knowledge of sin, being chiefly produced by the Moral Law, *Rom.*7.7. shews the Apostle excludes as well that, as the Ceremonial Law, from justification. And evident it is, that the Antithesis runs all along not between Ceremonial and Moral Works, or between Works done by the Law of Moses, or by the tenor of the Law of Nature, but between Works in general, and Faith, the Law of Works, and the Law of Faith. Again, We are, saith he, justified freely by his Grace, *Rom.*3.24. i. e. by a free act of Grace in pardoning our past sins, by which we had fallen short of the glory of God: Now a free act of Grace is still opposed to Works. Thus if our Election or Calling to the Faith of Christ, be of Grace, then is it not of Works, Rom. 11. 6. By Grace ye are saved through Faith, not of Works, 2 Eph. 8.9. See the Note there. Not by works of righteousness which he had done (before the goodness and loving-kindness of God our Saviour appeared to us,) but according to his mercy he saved us, *Tit.*3.5. See the note there. Moreover we reckon, saith he, that a man is justified by faith without the works of the Law, *v.*28. where 'tis on all sides granted, that the works of the Law of Moses are entirely excluded from justification by Faith, and then much more the works of the Gentiles; it being the same God who justifies the Circumcision by Faith, and the Uncircumcision through Faith, *v.*30. In the next Chapter he saith, To him that worketh not, but believeth in him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is reckoned for righteousness, *Rom.*4.5. Now how can the ungodly be justified by Works, and by what words can Works be more entirely excluded, than by not working?

3*ly*, That Evangelical Obedience, or Works of Righteousness done by us after faith in Christ, are excluded from that faith which justifies, is evident, because they follow the faith which justifies, i. e. procures the pardon of our past sins. For, saith the Apostle, we are saved (from the wrath due unto us for our past sins, Rom. 5.9. or we are put into the way or state of salvation) by grace through faith, not of works; for we are created in Christ Jesus to good works, which God hath ordained that we should walk in, *Eph.*2.8,9,10. So that we must be first in Christ by virtue of this faith, before we can be fitted to do works of Evangelical Righteousness. And this Argument may be confirmed from many instances of Persons who believed, and were immediately baptized the same day; for being baptized for the remission of sins, they must be justified. Thus at St. Peter's Sermon, three thousand believed, and were baptized the same day, Acts 2.41. Thus the Samaritans upon the hearing Philip preach concerning the Kingdom of God, and the Name of the Lord Jesus, were immediately baptized, Acts 8.12. So also was the Eunuch upon his preaching to him, v.38. So was Cornelius, and all that heard St. Peter's Sermon, Acts 10. 48. So was the Jaylor, and all his house straitway, Acts 16.33. See Acts 9.35,42. & 11.21. & 13.12,48,49. & 14.1. & 17.4,12,34. & 19. 18. Now what Evangelical Obedience could these men perform to render them justified by works?

4*ly*, This may be fairly argued from the example of Abraham's justification, and the passage whence St. Paul concludes it; Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for righteousness: For it deserves to be observed, that Abraham had faith, or was a Believer before this was said unto him, for by faith Abraham being called obeyed, and went forth, *Hebr.*11.8. And after by a strong faith he offered up his Son Isaac, believing that God was able to raise him from the dead, *v.*17. but neither of these instances are pitcht upon by the Apostle, as fit for his purpose, because in both Obedience was joyned with Faith, whereas here was a pure act of faith without works; and of this act of faith it is said, what is not said of either of the other, It was imputed to him for righteousness. If therefore thus it was in the example of the Father of the faithful, we may hence conclude, it was so also in the Children of faithful Abraham.

Lastly, The Scripture is express and frequent in this assertion, That Believers are justified by Faith; in which expression either Faith must include Works, or Evangelical Obedience, or it doth not; if it doth not, we must be justified by Faith alone. And that it doth not formally include Works of Evangelical Righteousness, appears

1. From the plain distinction which the Scripture puts between them, when it, informs us that Faith works by love; acts with our works, and is made perfect by them; when it calls upon us to shew forth our faith by our works; and to add to our faith vertue, knowledge, *Gal.*5. 6. Jam. 2.18, 22. 2 *Pet.*1. 5, 6. Rom. 16. 26. 1 *Thess.*1.3.

godlineſs, temperance, patience, brotherly kindneſs, charity; and when it ſpeaks of the work of faith, and the obedience of faith.

2*ly*, Faith in the nature of it is only an aſſent to a Teſtimony, Divine Faith an aſſent to a Divine Teſtimony, Faith in Chriſt an aſſent to the Teſtimony given by God of Chriſt. Now 'tis not reaſonable to conceive that Chriſt, and his Apoſtles, making uſe of a word which had this known and fixed import, ſhould mean more by the word, than what it ſignified in common uſe, as ſure they muſt have done, had they included in the meaning of the word the whole of our Evangelical Righteouſneſs; Though therefore Faith is the ſpring, and the foundation of that righteouſneſs, and, where 'tis cordial and laſting, will moſt aſſuredly produce it; yet is not that righteouſneſs included in the very nature, or contained in the import of it.

Object. But doth not St. James ſay expreſly, That a man is juſtified by works, and not by faith only? Chap. 2.24.

Anſw. In anſwer to this capital Objection, I ſhall firſt produce the words of the Apoſtle James, with a ſhort Paraphraſe, and then return a poſitive Anſwer to the Objection. The words I paraphraſe thus:

Ver. 14. [And let not any Jew or Chriſtian think his faith ſufficient to juſtifie and ſave him without thoſe works of charity and mercy here ſpoken of, v. 8——13. for] what doth it profit, my Brethren, if a man ſay he hath faith, [i.e. in words profeſs to have faith in God, v. 19. or in Chriſt, v. 1.] and have no works [to evidence the truth of that profeſſion,] can [ſuch a naked, fruitleſs] faith ſave him?

Ver. 15. If a brother or ſiſter be naked, or deſtitute of daily food,

Ver. 16. And one of you ſay unto them, depart in peace, be you warmed and filled, [making profeſſion of compaſſion for, and good will to them in your words, but] notwithſtanding ye give them not thoſe things which be needful for [the cloathing or feeding of] the body, what doth it profit [them to hear your kind words?]

Ver. 17. Even ſo faith [profeſſed with the mouth,] if it hath not works [anſwerable to that profeſſion, or conſequent upon it,] is dead [and fruitleſs as thoſe words,] being alone, [i.e. without works ſhewing the truth of it.]

Ver. 18. Yea, a man may ſay [to ſuch a Soliſidian,] thou haſt [in profeſſion] faith, and I have [real] works, ſhew me thy faith [which thou profeſſeſt] without thy works, [which thou canſt never do, faith being ſeated in the heart, and only diſcoverable by its effects,] and I will ſhew thee by my works my faith, [as the cauſe is demonſtrated by the effect.]

Ver. 19. Thou [being a Jew] believeſt there is one God, thou [in this] doſt well, [but doſt no more than the very devils, for] the Devils alſo believe and tremble, [and if thou haſt no better faith than they, thou haſt the ſame reaſon to tremble which they have.]

Ver. 20. But wilt thou know, oh vain man, [who makeſt profeſſion of ſuch a naked faith,] that faith without works is dead. [and ſo unable to juſtifie or ſave thee; ſee it in the example of that very Abraham, in thy Relation to whom thou ſo confideſt:]

Ver. 21. [For] was not Abraham [whom we ſtile] our Father, juſtified by works [proceeding from his faith,] when he had offered his ſon Iſaac upon the Altar? [counting that God was able to raiſe him from the dead, Hebr. 11. 17, 19.]

Ver. 22. Seeſt thou how [Gr. thou ſeeſt by this example that] faith wrought with his works [to produce them?] and by works was faith made perfect, [and advanced in him to the greateſt height.]

Ver. 23. And the Scripture was [again] fulfilled which ſaith, Abraham believed in God, and it [viz. that faith which produced theſe works,] was accounted to him for righteouſneſs, and [upon that account] he was called the friend of God.

Ver. 24. Ye ſee then how that by works [proceeding from faith] a man is juſtified, and not by faith only, [i.e. being alone, and without them.

Now in anſwer to the Objection from theſe words, I ſay,

That when St. Paul ſaith, we are juſtified by faith without the works of the Law, and that to him that worketh not, but believeth in him that juſtifieth the ungodly, faith is imputed for righteouſneſs, or to juſtification; Juſtification there aſcribed to faith without works, imports only our abſolution from condemnation by reaſon of our paſt ſins committed before faith in Chriſt, and our reconciliation to God by the pardon of them, or the not imputing them to thoſe who believe in him. This I have ſhewed already, and 'tis apparent from the chief Argument the Apoſtle uſeth to prove, that both Jew and Gentile ſhould be juſtified freely by his grace, and not by works, becauſe they were all under ſin, all become guilty before God, all having ſinned, and come ſhort of the glory of God, Rom. 3. 9, 19, 23. whereas faith be, being juſtified by faith, we have peace with God, and rejoice in the hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 1, 2. Therefore, Chap. 3. he muſt be ſpeaking of the condition both of Jew and Gentile before faith in Chriſt. So again, when the Apoſtle ſaith, The Scripture hath concluded all under ſin, that the promiſe [of juſtification] by [the] faith of Jeſus Chriſt might be given to them that believe [in him]. Wherefore the Law was [then] our School-maſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by faith [in him.] But now, after that Faith is come we are no longer under a School maſter, [i. e. under the pædagogy of the Law;] For ye are all the Children of God through Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, Gal. 3. 22, 23, 24, 25, 26. He plainly he inſinuates that we cannot be juſtified by

by the works of the Law, because the Law leads us to Christ for justification. And again, We are justified by grace, not of works; for we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to good works, Eph. 2.10. Where the Argument seems plainly to run thus, we cannot be justified by works preceding faith, because we do no good works till by faith we are interested in Christ Jesus. Whereas St. James speaks plainly of those works which follow faith, are wrought by it, and are the effects of it, and of their necessity in order to our continuance in a state of justification, and our freedom from final condemnation. St. James speaks of a mere profession of faith with the mouth, St. Paul of believing from the heart, St. James of a faith dead and fruitless, when we have it, St. Paul of a faith working by love when we have it, and of a person only justified without works, because he had no faith to produce them.

§ 6. 4ly, It seemeth necessary from the nature of the thing, and the state and condition of the persons to whom the Gospel was first preached, that they should be justified, or absolved from the guilt of their past sins, without new obedience, or without actual obedience to all the Commandments of Christ; though not without that faith which did engage them to it, and was sufficient to produce it. For

1. This was all that could be done by the convinced Jews or Gentiles, who at one Sermon or Discourse believed, and were baptized for the remission of sins. 'Tis manifest they then knew but little of the Commandments of Christ, and so could not be doers of them. Either then they were not justified, and then faith is not imputed to them for righteousness, nor did Baptism consign to them remission of sins; or they were justified by that faith which did not include actual obedience to all the Commandments of Christ, as the condition of that justification. And seeing perseverance to the end, and being faithful to the death, are by our Lord himself made the Conditions of Salvation, and of receiving from his hands the Crown of Life; if these be also the Conditions of the Justification promised to faith in Christ, no person is, or can be justified by faith till he dies. This faith therefore in Jew and Gentile, thus converted, could only import three things: (1.) By way of preparation for it, an owning the true God who gave this testimony to his Son, and so a turning from dumb Idols to serve the living God, and a sorrow for the sins committed against him in the time of their ignorance; and in the Jews, a sorrow for their past sins, and in particular for having crucified the Lord of Life; and in this sense repentance goes before faith: And Christ's Apostles preached to the Jews repentance for the remission of sins through faith in his Name, Acts 14.15. and to the Gentiles, to turn from these vain things to the living God, who made Heaven and Earth; and to both, repentance towards God, and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, Acts 20.21. (2.) As a means to obtain this remission of sins, faith in our Lord Jesus Christ. (3.) An engagement for the future to cease from sin, and to give up themselves to the Service of God, according to the Rules and Precepts delivered to them by his Son. Now this engagement was virtually contained in their repentance, and their faith in Christ, and was solemnly made by them at their Baptism, as will be proved hereafter. Now this being all that they could then do, it must be all they were obliged to do in order to their justification; and yet 'tis certain that a promise of obedience, is not obedience; and that even the New Covenant requires, in order to salvation, a sincere and constant performance of the obedience thus promised. So that the Conditions of Salvation, and of Justification from our past offences, can never be the same.

2ly, This will be farther evident, if we consider that no man can enter into Covenant with God, be reconciled to him, be admitted to his grace and favour, or be enabled to serve him acceptably, till his sins be pardoned; for God cannot be reconciled to sinners whilst they continue under the guilt of sin unpardoned; nor can he enter into Covenant with them, or receive them to his grace and favour, or accept their services, till he be reconciled to them. When God entred into Covenant with his own People, a Sacrifice was first offered to make atonement for their sins, and the Blood of it was sprinkled upon all the People, Hebr. 9.19. And the new Covenant, in which he promised to be merciful to our iniquities, and to remember our sins no more, was stablished in the Blood of Jesus shed for the remission of our sins. So that the sins of a Believer must be immediately pardoned upon his faith in Christ, or he can have no peace with God, no reconcilement to him, no interest in the New Covenant, and be in no capacity to do him any acceptable service. This is the import of those words Christ suffered for our sins, ἵνα ἡμᾶς προσαγάγῃ τῷ Θεῷ, that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3.18. For to bring us to God in all other places of the New Testament, in which this phrase is used, with respect to Christ, is to give us freedom of access to God, who by our sins were formerly excluded from it, and banished from his gracious presence; By him, saith the Apostle, we have προσαγωγὴν εἰς τὸν πατέρα admission to the Father, Eph. 2.18. by him we do obtain a freedom εἰς τὴν προσαγωγὴν of access to God with confidence, Eph. 3.12. This is obtained, saith the same Apostle, by virtue of Christ's Blood; for we who sometimes were afar off, are by the Blood of Christ brought nigh unto him, for he is our peace, v. 13, 14. and he hath reconciled both Jew and Gentile to God by his Cross. If then the Blood of Christ procured this freedom of access to God, 'tis certain we had no freedom of access to him without it; and 'tis as certain we must have it by that faith which giveth us an intereſt in the propitiation purchaſed by it.

To ſet this matter in the cleareſt light, and ſhew the reaſon why it was neceſſary that ſuch an act of grace in pardoning our paſt ſins upon our faith in Chriſt ſhould be vouchſafed, that ſo we might be reconciled to God, capacitated for his friendſhip, and fitted for his ſervice, let it be obſerved,

1. That to come to God, is to approach him in the way of worſhip, as in thoſe words, He that cometh to God muſt believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him, Hebr. 11. 6.

See Pſal. 42. 2. & 65. 2. 86. 9. 95. 26. Iſa. 1. 12.

2*ly*, That God being an holy God, none were to come into his preſence who had any pollution or defilement upon them, upon pain of death, till they were ſanctified, or cleanſed from it, by ſome purification or atonement made for them to God. He dwelt in the whole Camp of Iſrael, and ſo thoſe Lepers, who were ſo unclean as to pollute the Camp, were drawn from it, Lev. 13. 46. Numb. 5. 2, 3. 2 Kings 15. 5. And thoſe Sin-offerings which were polluted with the ſins of the whole Congregation, were carried out of the Camp, Lev. 16. 21, 22, 27. Hebr. 13. 11. God dwelt more eſpecially in the Temple, and therefore they who had leſſer impurities, i. e. who were defiled by the dead, or by an iſſue, and all menſtruous women, were not to come thither till they were cleanſed from thoſe defilements, Lev. 12. 4. & 15. 31. Moreover, he being a God of purer eyes than to behold iniquity, they who had committed any ſin of ignorance, or lay under the guilt of it, were not permitted to come into the Court of the Men of Iſrael, till they had brought their Offering of Atonement. See Ainſworth on Numb. 5. 3.

3*ly*, They who had no Ceremonial Defilement to be purged away, and no known ſin to make atonement for, were admitted to come near to God, as being holy, they had προσαγωγὴν τῷ Θεῷ, a freedom of acceſs to God in his Tabernacle, and in his Temple; whence they are ſtiled ὁ λαὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτῷ, the people that draw near to God, Pſal. 65. 4. & 148. 14. Lev. 10. 3. And God is ſaid to be ὁ Θεὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτοῖς, a God near to them, Deut. 7. 4. both by relation, as having owned them as his Children, and entred into Covenant to be their God, and by his more eſpecial preſence with them; for the Shechinah, or the glorious Preſence dwelt among them in the holy place, and ſo to them belonged ἡ λατρεία the privilege of coming to his Court to worſhip him, and a promiſe of his bleſſing if they ſincerely did it: Whereas the Heathens who by reaſon of their Idolatry were not permitted to ſerve him, are ſaid to be afar off, and ſo far without God in the World, as to have no freedom of acceſs to his Service, no ſuch converſe with him, or relation to him, Eph. 1. 12, 13, 17, 19.

Now God being ſtill as holy a God as ever, and ſtill of purer eyes than to behold iniquity, the Scriptures of the New Teſtament ſeem as plainly to make our freedom of acceſs to God to depend upon our being ſanctified in the ſacrifical ſenſe, i. e. our being purged, and delivered from the guilt of ſin by an atonement made for us by the Blood of Chriſt, that our ſins being thus pardoned through faith in his Blood, we may have peace with God, and an acceſs to his favour. This plainly ſeems to be the import of thoſe words, If the blood of Bulls and Goats, and the aſhes of an Heifer, ſprinkling the unclean, ſanctifieth to the purifying of the fleſh, (and by ſo doing procureth an admiſſion of the perſon cleanſed to ſerve God in the Sanctuary,) How much more ſhall the Blood of Chriſt, who through the Eternal Spirit offered himſelf without Spot to God [for us,] purge your Conſcience from dead works, Hebr. 9. 12. [or works expoſing you to death, the puniſhment of the perſon who came unclean into God's preſence, that ſo you may be admitted] to ſerve the living God? See the Notes there. So again, the Apoſtle having ſaid that the Covenant eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Chriſt, was this, that he would be merciful to our iniquities, and remember our ſins no more; and having thence inferr'd, that having thus obtain'd remiſſion for us, there was no need that he ſhould make himſelf again an offering for ſin, he adds, that therefore we may draw near to God with full aſſurance of Faith, that we ſhall be accepted through the beloved, as having our hearts ſprinkled by his Blood, and therefore cleanſed from all guilt of Conſcience, and our Bodies waſhed [by Baptiſm] with pure water, Hebr. 10. 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22.

1. 'That the Apoſtle in this diſcourſe implies, that no precedent diſpenſation had exhibited any manifeſt overture, or promiſe of pardon, and upon that account were in a main point defective; for the Light of Nature doth only direct to duty, condemning every man in his own judgment, and conſcience, who tranſgreſſeth; but as to pardon, in caſe of tranſgreſſion, it is blind, and ſilent; and the Law of Moſes rigorouſly exacteth punctual obedience, denouncing in expreſs terms a condemnation, and curſe to the tranſgreſſors of it in any part; and ſo it was a Law ὁ δυνάμενος ζωοποιῆσαι, not able to give Life, Gal. 3. 21. or ſave us from death. Hence doth the Apoſtle lay down this as the foundation of this whole Diſpute, that the Goſpel alone was the power of God through Faith to the Salvation both of Jew and Gentile, Rom. 1. 16, 17. becauſe in that alone was the righteouſneſs of God by faith revealed to beget faith in them, even the faith by which the juſt ſhall live, declaring that no precedent diſpenſation could

'justifie any man, and that a man is justified by 'faith, or hath an absolute need of such a justi- 'fication as that which the Gospel tendereth. 'Λογιζόμεθα γὰρ, We therefore collect, saith he, 'that a man is justified by faith without the 'works of the Law, whether Natural or Mosaical, which justification must therefore 'import their receiving that free pardon which 'the criminal and guilty world did stand in 'need of, and without which no man could have 'any comfort in his mind, or peace with God: 'For if the state of Man was a state of Rebel- 'lion, and so of heinous guilt, of having for- 'feited God's favour, and of obnoxiousness to 'his wrath, then that justification which he 'needed must be a dispensation of Mercy re- 'moving that Guilt, and restoring him to the 'favour of God.

And this may also strongly be argued from the Objections which the Jew and Gentile made against this Doctrine of Justification by a free Act of Grace, that it seemed to render it unjust in God to take vengeance on those sins which tended so highly to the glory of God's grace; see the Note on Rom. 3.5. and to encourage us to do evil that good may come. See the Note on v. 8. And more especially from the Objections which he answers, Chap. 6.1, 15. For thus they run, τί οὖν ἐροῦμεν; what do we say then? do we say this, Let us [who have received this grace] continue [still] in sin, that grace may abound [towards us?] And v. 15. What then shall we [go on in] sin, because we are not under the Law, [which condemns us to death for every transgression,] but under [that Covenant of] Grace [which allows the pardon, and promises the forgiveness of it?] That is, do we by declaring that we are justified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, Chap. 3.24. and that as sin abounded grace did more abound, give just occasion for these Inferences? Now if the faith to which St. Paul, in this Discourse ascribed our Justification, did not only oblige us to, but even comprehend and include Evangelical and constant Obedience, what colour could there be for these Objections? And therefore

2*ly*, The Doctor (p. 83.) proposes it as his Conjecture, That the Apostle in this Discourse designedly sets himself to answer this Objection of the Jew and Gentile against this Doctrine of Christianity, viz. that it did upon so slender a Condition or Performance as that of Faith, tender to all Persons indifferently, howsoever culpable their former lives had been, a plenary remission of their sins, and reception into God's favour. The Jews could not conceive or relish that any man so easily should be translated into a state equal, or superiour to that which they supposed they did enjoy. The Gentiles themselves could hardly digest it, that the Christians said, Believe, and ἡ πίστις σε σώσει σε, thy faith shall save thee; this is one of the Exceptions which Celsus makes against it. And (d) Zozimus having said, that the Heathen Priests having told Constantine that their Religion afforded no purgation for his Crimes, he was perswaded to embrace Christianity, as being told the Christian Doctrine would take away all sin; and had this promise annexed to it, That the ungodly, who would embrace it, should presently be absolved from all sins, intimates that he looked on this as a just Exception against the Christian Faith. This prejudice against the Gospel, saith he, St. Paul removes, by shewing that 'because of all mens guilt and 'sinfulness, such an exhibition of mercy, such 'an overture of acceptance and remission of 'sins was necessary in order to salvation, so 'that without it no man could be exempted 'from wrath and misery, and that consequently 'all other Religions, as not exhibiting such a 'remission, must be esteemed in a main point 'defective.

§ 7. Object. 1. But against this it may be objected, That our Justification seems to be connected with our Glorification, for whom he justifies them he also glorifies, Rom. 8. 30. Now it is certain that our future state of Glory, depends not only on our Faith, but Works; And by the same Apostle, in the same Epistle, is promised to him that worketh good, Rom. 2. 6, 7, 10. we being all to be hereafter recompensed according to our works.

Answ. 1. To this it may be answered in the words of the Reverend Dr. Hammond, (Pr. Catech. p. 89.) That whom God justifies, if they pass out of this Life in a justified state, them he will certainly glorifie. Or as in his Paraphrase, Whom he called to suffer after the example of his Son, them upon patience and perseverance under those Sufferings, he justifies, i. e. he approves of as sincere, and worthy, as they suffer for, so to be glorified with him, Rom. 8.17. 2 Tim. 2 11, 12. 1 Pet. 4. 13. and whom he thus justifies, them he will also glorifie. And according to this import of the words, Justification doth not signifie, as in the great dispute of the Apostle, the remission of our past sins committed before Faith in Christ, but rather our Justification at the great Day of our Accounts, as his sincere and faithful Servants. As it seems to import most clearly in those words of the same Apostle, I know nothing of my self (whereby to condemn my self of unfaithfulness in the discharge of my office) yet am I not thereby juſtified, but he that judgeth me is the Lord, 1 Cor. 4. 4. And in thoſe words of the Epiſtle to the Romans, Not the hearers of the Law only ſhall be δίκαιοι juſt before God, but the doers of the Law δικαιωθήσονται ſhall be juſtified, Rom. 2. 13. And ſo St. James, Abraham was juſtified by works, and he was called the Friend of God.

Anſw. 2. But 2*ly*, there is another ancient Interpretation of theſe words, which cuts off the whole force of this Argument, viz. Thoſe he glorified, by giving them that Spirit of Glory, and of God, who is the earneſt of their future Inheritance. He glorified them, ſay (f) St. Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, by the Spirit of Adoption, calling them Sons, and giving them the Grace of the Holy Spirit. To ſtrengthen this Interpretation, let it be conſidered that our Saviour is ſaid, whil'ſt he was on Earth, to have wrought his Miracles by the Spirit of God; and by theſe Miracles he is ſaid ſometimes to be δοξαζόμενος glorified, Luke 4. 15. ſometimes to ſhew forth τὴν δόξαν αὐτοῦ his glory, John 2. 11. and ſometimes it is ſaid that God ἐδόξασε glorified him, Joh. 8. 54. & 11. 4. & 13. 31, 32. & 16. 14. And when Chriſt gave to his Apoſtles and Believers the Holy Spirit to enable them to work the like Miracles, he expreſſes himſelf thus to his Father, The glory which thou gaveſt me I have given them, that the World may know that thou haſt ſent me, Joh. 17. 22, 23. Moreover, by reaſon of this Spirit given with the Goſpel, the miniſtration of Juſtification is ſaid to be ἐν δόξῃ with or in glory, 2 Cor. 3. 8, 9, 10, 11. as being the miniſtration of the Spirit; and Believers, by participation of this Spirit of the Lord, are ſaid not only to behold the glory of the Lord, but alſo to be changed into the ſame Image with him, from glory to glory, v. 18. and ſo to be conformed to the Image of his Son. And thus, ſaith Origen on this place (g), they may be ſaid to be glorified in this Life. Note alſo that when the Apoſtle ſpeaks of our final Glorification in this Chapter, he ſtill ſpeaks of it as a thing future, ſaying, We ſhall be glorified with him, v. 17, 18, 21. whereas here he ſpeaks of it as a thing paſt already, ſaying, οὓς δὲ ἐδικαίωσε, τούτους καὶ ἐδόξασε, whom he hath juſtified, them he hath alſo glorified; which confirms this Interpretation. And laſtly, Thus it connects well with the foregoing words, The Spirit which helpeth our infirmities, intercedeth according to the mind of God for the Saints; Οἴδαμεν δὲ, we know therefore that all things ſhall work together for good to them who love God, who are called according to his purpoſe [of making them the Sons of God by adoption, and giving them the Spirit of his Son in their hearts, Gal. 4. 6. Eph. 1. 5, 13.] For whom he [thus] foreknew, them he predeſtinated [or appointed] to be thus conformed to the image of his Son, and whom he [thus] predeſtinated, them he alſo called [to the Chriſtian Faith,] and whom he called, [upon their cordial embracing of that faith] he juſtified, [we being made the Sons of God through faith in Chriſt Jeſus, Gal. 3. 26.] and whom he [hath thus] juſtified, them he hath alſo glorified.

§ 8. Object. 2*ly*, It may be ſaid, that not only our Juſtification, but Salvation is by the Apoſtle aſcribed to Faith: As when he ſays, By grace ye are ſaved through faith, Eph. 2. 8, 9. and if thou believeſt with the heart, thou ſhalt be ſaved, Rom. 10. 9. Tit. 3. 5. whereas doubtleſs Salvation dependeth on our Works, which therefore muſt be included in this Faith.

Anſw. To this Objection I anſwer, That Salvation may very well in Scripture be aſcribed to Faith, upon theſe two accounts:

1. Becauſe Faith puts us in the way of Salvation; that way of owning the Saviour of the World, and ſubjecting our ſelves to his Government, which gives us a preſent right to Salvation, ſhould God take us hence ſoon after Baptiſm into this Faith, or a ſincere belief in Chriſt, as in the caſe of thoſe many Martyrs who believed, and ſuffered the ſame day; and if we live by, and ſuitably to this Faith, ſtill owning the Lord Jeſus, and ſtill ſubjecting our ſelves to his Laws and Government, will keep us in the ſtate of Salvation; for he that thus believeth in the Son hath Eternal Life, Joh. 3. 36: See v. 16. i. e. he hath a preſent right to it, and may rejoyce in the hope of the glory of God, and by continuing ſo to do, he ſhall receive the end of his faith in the ſalvation of his ſoul. It puts us in a preſent ſtate of freedom from condemnation, by procuring the pardon of all our paſt ſins; for he that thus believeth, ſhall not come into condemnation, but is paſſed from death to life, John 5. 24. & 3. 18. It doth at preſent ſave us from the wrath of God, he being only angry with us on the account of ſin unpardoned; for being juſtified, ſaith the Apoſtle, by faith in his blood, we ſhall be ſaved from wrath by him, Rom. 5. 9. Now this is all which very frequently is ſignified by the words Saved and Salvation: As when it is ſaid of Zachæus, This day is Salvation come unto this Houſe; and the Lord daily added to the Church τοὺς σωζομένους the ſaved, Acts 2. 47. And again, The word of the Croſs is τοῖς σωζομένοις ἡμῖν to us the ſaved, the power of God, 2 Cor. 1. 18. See this farther pro- ved in the Notes on Eph. 2. 8. Tit. 3. 5.

2*ly*, Salvation may be well aſcribed to Faith, not indeed in oppoſition to, or excluſion of works, but rather as the cauſe, and the producer of all Works of Piety and Righteouſneſs: And both the Wiſdom and the Excellency of this method for the procuring the great ends of Chriſtian Piety, of purity of Life, and of ſincere Obedience to the whole will of God, will be extreamly evident from theſe Conſiderations:

1. That this Faith, conſigned by Baptiſm, doth lay the higheſt Obligations on us to a Life of Holineſs and Obedience, under the pain of forfeiting all the Bleſſings of the New Covenant, or all the Privileges of Chriſtianity. For (1.) Faith in him as the true Meſſiah, the Prophet ſent from God to declare his Will, and make known his Precepts, and to lay down the terms on which we may expect ſalvation from him, muſt ſurely oblige us to perform that Will, and to ſubmit to the terms on which alone ſalvation is thus tendred to us, not only that we may not miſs of that ſalvation, but that we may not be condemned as Deſpiſers of ſo great Salvation.

Again, Faith in him as our Saviour, one who hath by his death purchaſed deliverance to us from death, and from the wrath to come, muſt ſure oblige us, as well in point of Duty, as of Gratitude, to live to him who died for us, 2 Cor. 5. 15. and being bought with ſuch a price, to glorifie him with our Souls and Bodies which are his, 1 Cor. 6. 20. eſpecially when we conſider that this was one great end of theſe his Sufferings; he having died for all, that they who live ſhould not henceforth live to themſelves, but to him that died for them, that he might redeem us from this preſent evil world, Gal. 1. 4. and purifie us to himſelf a people zealous of good Works, Eph. 5. 25, 26. and that we being dead to ſin, might live to righteouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2. 24. And ſurely, they cannot expect the Bleſſings of his Salutary Paſſion, who defeat the deſign, and fruſtrate the purpoſe of it.

Faith in him as our Lord and King, as it doth preſuppoſe his right to require Service from, and preſcribe Laws to us, ſo muſt it engage us to the honour and ſervice of this Lord; (for why, ſaith he, call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I ſay? Luke 6. 46.) to fear and to obey this King of Saints, as knowing he will ſay to all his diſobedient Subjects, Bring theſe mine enemies, which would not I ſhould reign over them, and ſlay them before me, Luke 19. 27.

Faith, laſtly, in him as our Judge and our Rewarder, muſt cauſe us herein to exerciſe our ſelves always to have Conſciences void of offence towards God and Man, Acts 24. 16. as we deſire to be found blameleſs at that day, and to be ſtedfaſt and abounding in the work of the Lord, which will ſo plentifully be rewarded, 1 Cor. 15. 58.

In a word, to what other end can we think an holy God was ſo concerned that we ſhould firmly be perſwaded of, and yield a free aſſent to theſe things? Can it be only this, that he ſhould fill our heads with Notions, but leave us ſtill at liberty to diſobey the Meſſage ſent us from Heaven by his only Son? why then ſaid he, This is my beloved Son, hear him? Matth. 17. 5. Can he ſuffer us to ſlight the terms on which alone ſalvation is thus tendred to us? Why then were they at all propounded? can he permit us to be diſobedient to this Lord, or rebels to this King of Saints? why then was this Authority conferred upon him? Hath he made him the Judge, and the Rewarder of all Men at the great Day? and will he not reward them all according to their works?

But then if we conſider further, this Faith, as it hath Baptiſm annexed to it, according to thoſe words of Chriſt, He that believeth and is baptized ſhall be ſaved; our obligation to Obedience by it will be ſtill more evident. For is not our Baptiſm in the Name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, an entire dedication of our ſelves to the ſervice of the bleſſed Trinity, a ſolemn entrance into Covenant that we will own no other God, will ſerve no other Lord, will not be led by the unclean, but by the conduct of the good and holy Spirit? Did not Chriſt command his Diſciples to teach them whom they baptized, to obſerve all things which he commanded? Matth. 28. 20. and muſt they not be obliged to obey what they were to be taught in his Name? What is it to baptize, but μαθητεύειν to make Diſciples to the holy Jeſus; and hath he not ſaid, Then only are you my Diſciples indeed, when you continue in my word? John 8. 31. What is it to be baptized, but to make the ſtipulation of a good Conſcience towards God? 1 Pet. 3. 21. and are not we obliged to be true to this ſolemn Promiſe made to God? or can we neglect to do ſo without mocking him, and taking his ſacred Name in vain? Are we not baptized into the Name of Chriſt? and are not they who name that Name engaged to depart from all iniquity? 2 Tim. 2. 19. Hath not St. Paul informed us, that as many as are baptized into Chriſt, are baptized into his death, Rom. 6. 3 and ſo are by that baptiſm obliged to die to ſin, v. 6. 11. not to obey it in the luſts thereof, not to yield their Members inſtruments of ſin to righteouſneſs, but to walk in newneſs of life, v. 12, 13. to live to God, and to preſent their Members inſtruments of righteouſneſs to God, v. 4. 10, 13. and to have their fruit to holineſs, that the end may be eternal life, v. 22. And that upon this conformity to Chriſts death and reſurrection depends our hope that we ſhall live with him? v. 8. So that 'tis evident to a demonſtration, that both our Faith and Baptiſm do lay upon us the ſtricteſt Obligations to depart from all iniquity, and yield ſincere Obedience to the Laws of God and Chriſt, as we expect the Bleſſings purchaſed purchased by him for, or promised to Believers. As then St. Peter saith on this account, that Baptism now saveth us, 1 Pet. 3. 21. so may salvation be on the same account ascribed to our Faith in Christ.

2*ly*, Faith is the Spring and the Foundation of all the Obedience we afterwards perform, and therefore may be well said to save as many as obtain Salvation, because it worketh in them that Obedience by which they are saved, and moves them to perform those Conditions on which their actual Salvation doth depend. Thus of Faith in God, the Apostle teacheth that it must be necessarily laid as the foundation of all the service we perform unto him; for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek [to please] him, Hebr. 11.6. And thus he shews it was with all the Patriarchs and holy People of God before the Revelation of the Gospel; they by that Faith, which was the expectation of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen, obtained testimony that they were righteous, Hebr. 11.4. and that they pleased God, v. 5, 8, 18, 19. obeyed his call in the most difficult instances; chose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; wrought righteousness, and suffered death, not accepting a deliverance, v. 25, 26, 33, 35. And so it is with Faith in Christ, 'tis the foundation of all our Obedience, which therefore is in Scripture stiled the obedience of faith, Rom. 1.5. & 16.26. and of all our good works, they being all the work of faith, 2 Thess. 1. 11. It is by virtue of this Faith that we are enabled

1 John 5.5. to overcome the world, to resist
1 Pet. 5.9. the Devil, and to quench all the
Eph. 6. 16. fiery darts of Satan. 'Tis faith that works by love to God, and to our Brother, which love we testifie to God by keeping his Commandments, and to our Neighbour by fulfilling the Laws of Justice and Charity. And this is very evident even from the nature of Faith; for can any man obey the Precepts this Prophet hath delivered in his Father's name, unless he believes he was that Prophet which was sent by him to reveal his will? and that King by whose Laws we must be governed? Can he submit to the terms of Salvation propounded by him, till he believes he is the Author of Salvation to all that obey him? Can he herein exercise himself to have always a Conscience void of offence towards God and Man, but by that Faith which doth assure him, that he will judge all men by these Laws, awarding glory and immortality to every man that worketh righteousness, Rom. 2.8. and punishing them with everlasting destruction from his presence that obey not his Gospel? 2 Thess. 1.8. And is not then this Faith the true Foundation of all Christian Piety? Thus doth the just man live by his faith, and doing so believeth to the salvation of his soul. As therefore we are said to be saved by hope, Rom. 8. 24. because it is the motive to stedfastness in our obedience, so may we be said to be saved by faith upon the same account. And

3*ly*, We may be well said to be saved by Faith, because where faith is hearty and constant, it will produce sincere Obedience, and Holiness will follow in the Life; And when it doth not follow, this is to be ascribed to the want of faith. This will be evident if we consider the material Objects of our Faith, the Blessings promised to the obedient, and the Evils threatned to the Disobedient; for it is certain, that the Blessings promised in the Gospel, do far exceed all other Blessings that we can enjoy; and that the Evils threatned there are far more lasting and intolerable than any other Evils we can suffer; and it is no less certain that these Blessings are by our Lord confined to the obedient; for not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter, saith he, into the Kingdom of Heaven, but he that doth the will of my Father which is in Heaven, Matth. 7.21. And 'tis as sure that these tremendous Evils are entailed upon the wicked, Christ having solemnly declared he will say to them at the great day, Depart from me, I know ye not, ye workers of iniquity, v. 23. And if we do believe our Saviour was a Prophet sent from God, we must believe those Revelations he hath made concerning both our future happiness and misery, and the conditions on which alone the one can be obtained, & the other is to be avoided. Now can a man at the same time believe these are the greatest Blessings which he can enjoy, and yet prefer a lesser Good before them? if not, whenever he doth this, he ceases in effect to have this faith. Can a Man fully be perswaded, that what he is about to do will render him obnoxious to the worst of Evils, and yet be mov'd to do it to avoid a lesser evil? if not, whenever he doth chuse to do what renders him obnoxious to the worst of evils, he ceaseth to believe they are so. When therefore we neglect to do that which is by our Lord declared absolutely necessary to obtain, and to secure our Eternal Interests, and venture upon that to which he threatneth everlasting Misery, 'tis certain that we have no lively, full perswasion of these Truths then present to our Minds, and therefore do not actually believe them then. So that although we may have still such an habitual assent to all that this great Prophet hath delivered, as that we do not doubt the truth of what he taught, yet doth not Christ dwell in our hearts by faith, nor have we any living sense, or permanent perswasion of these Truths on our Souls, but faith is at the present dead, and so no more deserves the name of faith, then a dead man can properly be called a man. Thus for example, when Christ saith to his Disciples, fearing to perish in the storm, how is it that ye have not faith? Mark 4.40. He lays this to their charge, not that they disbelieved his power to save ſave them, for this they teſtifie, by ſaying, Maſter, ſave us; but that they did not actually exert this Truſt by an entire Commiſſion of themſelves to the protection of his Providence. As therefore when we do what is contrary to our love to God, or to our hope, and our affiance in him, there always is a want of love, and hope, and truſt in God; ſo when we do what is oppoſite to the great Objects of our faith, there muſt be in us a like want of faith, and ſo when this is cuſtomarily done, there muſt be a defect as to the habit, or the grace of faith.

2*ly*, This will be ſtill more evident, if we conſider all the glorious things which are aſcribed in Scripture to this faith, and do compare them with other paſſages of the ſame Scripture: For inſtance, Whoſoever believeth that Jeſus is the Chriſt, is born of God, 1 John 5.1. ſaith the Apoſtle John; But then he adds in the ſame Chapter, Whoſoever is born of God overcometh the world, *v.*5. by virtue of this faith: And again, We know that whoſoever is born of God ſinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himſelf, and the wicked one toucheth him not, *v.*18. chap. 3.9. Whence it muſt follow, that he believeth not in the Apoſtle's ſenſe, that Jeſus is the Chriſt, who overcometh not by virtue of that faith, the temptations of the World, the Fleſh, and the Devil. Whoſoever confeſſeth, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, that Jeſus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God, 1 John 4.15. But then he alſo ſaith, He that abideth in him, ought alſo to walk as he walked, 1 *Joh.*2.6. that we do hereby know that we are in him, by keeping of his word, v. 5. that whoſoever abideth in him ſinneth not, and he that ſinneth hath not ſeen him, neither known him; that if we ſay we have fellowſhip with him, and walk in darkneſs, we lie. So that if this faith doth not preſerve us from ſin, and engage us to walk in the light, and as he walked, 'tis not that faith in the Son of God the Apoſtle ſpeaks of. We are not juſtified by the Works of the Law, but by the Faith of Jeſus, ſaith St. Paul to the Galatians, *Gal.*5.6.& 6.15. But then it is, ſaith he, that Faith which works by love, and renders us New Creatures. The ſame he ſaith in the Epiſtle to the Romans, declaring that his Goſpel was the power of God through faith unto ſalvation, *Rom.*1.16. *v.*5. But then 'tis the obedience of faith in the ſame Chapter, Obedience in word and deed, *Chap.*15.18. Obeying from the heart the Form of Doctrine delivered to them, Chap. 6.16. which makes this faith become the power of God to ſalvation. Whence it is evident that he eſteemed that alone true faith which was productive of Obedience, and ſo doth virtually, although not formally, include Obedience, as the effect is virtually contained in the cauſe. So that the difference between men of judgment, as to ſaving faith, is more in words than ſenſe, they all deſigning the ſame thing, that we cannot be ſaved by that faith which doth not produce in us a ſincere Obedience to the Laws of Chriſt.

CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. [I] Paul [who am] an Apostle, a not of man, neither by man, [for I received not my Call, or my Commission to that Office from Man, nor was I chosen to it by Man, as Matthias was,] but by Jesus Christ [appearing to me in Person for that end, that he might send me to the Gentiles, Acts 22. 21. & 26. 16, 17.] and God the Father [who chose me that I should know his will, and see that just One, and be his Witness to all Men, of what I had seen and heard, Acts 22. 14, 15. and revealed his Son to me, v. 13. even that God] who raised him from the dead;

2. b And all the Brethren which are with me, [and own the Doctrine which I preach, send greeting] to the Churches of Galatia;

3. [Wishing that] Grace [may be] to you, and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ,

4. Who gave himself [an expiatory Sacrifice] for our Sins, that he might deliver us from [the wrath and condemnation of] this c present evil world, c according to the will of God, and our Father [Gr. of our God, and Father.]

5. To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

6. I marvel that ye are so soon removed d e d from him that called you to e the grace of Christ, to another Gospel.

7. Which, [whatsoever some may suggest, who preach another thing under the specious title of the Gospel,] is not [indeed] another [Gospel, nor would be so esteemed by any of you,] but [that] there be some who trouble you [with false stories,] and would pervert the Gospel of Christ [by mixing with it the necessary observance of the Law of Moses.]

8. But [whatsoever they suggest to you of another Gospel, taught by Peter, James and John,] though we [Apostles,] or [even] an Angel from Heaven, [should] preach any other Gospel to you, than that which we [Paul, and Barnabas,] have preached to you, let him be accursed.

9. [And that ye may not think this proceeds rashly from me, but may the more regard it,] As we said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other Gospel to you, than that ye have received [from us] f let him be accursed. f

10. [But this you cannot reasonably suspect concerning me,] For do I now [in the execution of my Apostleship,] g persuade [obey, or seek to appease] men, or God? Or do I seek to please men? [no sure,] for if I yet pleased men, [if I made that my business,] h I should not be the servant of Christ [in that work of the Gospel which creates me so much hazard from them.] g h

11. But [however others may lessen my Gospel,] I certifie you Brethren, that the Gospel which was preached of me [i. e. by me to you, and others,] is not after man.

12. i For I neither received it of man, [as the Jews do their Traditions from their Fathers,] neither was I taught it, but by the [immediate] k revelation of Jesus Christ. i k

13. [And of this you may be further satisfied from my former Conversation, and my Deportment, since I began to preach the Faith of Christ;] For [doubtless] ye have heard of my my Converſation in times paſt in the Jews Religion, [which was ſuch] that beyond meaſure I perſecuted the Church of God, and waſted it. [Acts 8. 3. & 9. 1, 13, 14. & 22. 4. & 26. 10, 11.]

14. And profited in the Jews Religion above many my equals in mine own Nation, [or above many Jews of the ſame age with me,] being more exceedingly zealous [than they were] l of the Traditions of my Fathers.

15. [Thus, I ſay, was my Converſation in times paſt;] But when it pleaſed God, who ſeparated me from my mother's womb, [as he had formerly done Jeremiah, to be a Prophet of the Nations, Chap. 1. 5.] and [after] called me by his grace [to preach the Goſpel, Acts 22. 14.]

16. To reveal his Son m [to] me, that I might preach him among the Heathen, immediately I conferred not n with fleſh and blood, [i. e. with any man, ſo as to receive any Miſſion from them to that work, or any Inſtructions how to perform it.]

17. Neither went I up to Jeruſalem to them that were Apoſtles before me, [as, if I had wanted either Authority, or Inſtruction, I ſhould have done,] but I went from Damaſcus, [the place of my Converſion,] to o Arabia, and returned again to Damaſcus, [preaching the Goſpel there.]

18. Then after three years [of my Converſion,] I went up to Jeruſalem to ſee Peter, and abode with him fifteen days.

19. But p other of the Apoſtles ſaw I none, ſave James the Lord's Brother, [and therefore could not learn my Goſpel from them.]

20. Now [of the truth of] the things which I write to you, [you may reſt aſſured, for] q behold, before God I lie not.

21. Afterwards I came into the Regions of Syria, [i. e. to Cæſarea, Acts 22. 17, 18.] and [to Troas, Acts 9. 30. & 22. 3. in] Cilicia.

22. And was [all the while] unknown by face to the Churches of Judæa which were in Chriſt.

23. But they had heard only, that he which perſecuted us [Chriſtians] in times paſt, now preacheth the faith which once he deſtroyed.

24. r And they glorified God, [for the Converſion he had wrought] in me.

Annotations on Chap. I.

a Verſe 1. Ὅτι ἀπ' ἀνθρώπων, οὐδὲ δι' ἀνθρώπου, not of man, neither by man.] It is no objection againſt the truth of theſe words, that the Holy Ghoſt, ſaying by the Prophets at Antioch, Separate me Barnabas and Saul to the work of the Miniſtry to which I have called them, they faſted, and prayed, and laid their hands on them, and ſent them away, Acts 13. 2, 3. for that this was not a Miſſion to the Apoſtolical Office, appears, becauſe St. Paul, at leaſt nine years before, was immediately called to it by God, and ſent to exerciſe it by Jeſus Chriſt; and becauſe Barnabas is here equally ſeparated to this Office, and ſent with him, who yet was never an Apoſtle properly ſo called. This Separation, and Miſſion therefore of them was only by way of Prayer, and Benediction of them in their Miniſtry; or by way of ſpecial Commiſſion to preach in the Synagogues of the Jews, v. 5. And this Miſſion they preſently compleated, and then returned to Antioch, declaring to them what they had done in purſuance of it, Acts 14. 26, 27.

b Ver. 2. Καὶ οἱ σὺν ἐμοὶ πάντες ἀδελφοὶ, and all the Brethren that are with me.] It is the Conjecture of the Reverend Dr. Hammond, that the word Brethren here denotes, thoſe that accompanied St. Paul in his Travels, and aſſiſted him in preaching the Goſpel; in which ſenſe Soſthenes is called, a Brother, 1 Cor. 1. 1. as alſo Apollo, 1 Cor. 16. 12. Timothy, 2 Cor. 1. 1. Titus, Chap. 2. 12. Tychicus, Eph. 6. 23. Epaphroditus, Philip. 2. 25. Oneſimus, Col. 4. 9. Sylvanus, 1 Pet. 5. 12. St. Paul, 2 Pet. 3. 15. And in this ſenſe the word Brethren ſeems to be diſtinguiſhed from that of Saints, Philip. 4. 21. and mention is made of the Brother whoſe praiſe is in the Goſpel, 2 Cor. 8. 18. of Titus, Paul's fellow worker, of the Brethren, who are the Apoſtles of the Church, v. 25. and of the Brethren, who for his Name's ſake, went forth to preach the Goſpel, taking nothing of the Gentiles, 3 John 3—7. Or elſe it may be ſaid that the Apoſtle writes according to the form of Epiſtles uſed in the beginning of Chriſtianity, when Biſhops ſent to other Churches, not in their own names only, but in the name of the whole Church where they reſided: So (a) Clemens begins his Epiſtle to the Church of Corinth thus, The Church of God in Rome, to the Church of God at Corinth; and ſo this Epiſtle being writ from Rome, ſhews the conſent of that Church with him in his Doctrine.

Ver. 4. Κατὰ τὸ θέλημα τοῦ Θεοῦ, according to the will of God.] Theſe words may refer to our deliverance from the evil manners of this world, this being the will of God, even our c Sanctification, 1 Theſſ. 4. 3. and the great end of our Lord's Salutary Paſſion, who gave himſelf for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purifie to himſelf a peculiar people zealous of good works, and bare our ſins in his body on the Tree, that we being dead to ſin, might live to righteouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2. 24. 2 Cor. 5. 15. Eph. 5. 25, 26. whence it is evident that Chriſt's inherent Righteouſneſs is not imputed to us; for ſure he died not to this end, that we might do our ſelves what he already had done for us, and ſo what he had made it needful for us to do. Or elſe theſe words may be connected thus, Chriſt gave himſelf for us according to the will of God, viz. that he ſhould die for our ſins; and then the Apoſtle here aſſerts, in oppoſition to the Judaizing Chriſtians, that our Juſtification by Faith in Chriſt's Death is according to the will of God, and that he died in purſuance of his Decree to eſtabliſh that New Covenant in his Blood by Faith, by which we are tranſlated from that Wrath, and ſtate of Alienation from God, in which the World lies, and have obtain'd Peace with God, and are become his Church and People.

d Ver. 6. Ἀπὸ τῦ καλέσαν]Θ ὑμᾶς, from him that called you;] i. e. from God: For the Apoſtle ſcarce ever aſcribes this work to himſelf, but conſtantly to God the Father. See Rom. 9. 24. 1 Cor. 7. 15. Gal. 1. 15. 1 Theſſ. 2. 12. & 4. 7. & 5. 24. 2 Theſſ. 2. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 9.

e Ibid. Ἐν χάριτι Χριτῦ, to the grace of Chriſt.] Or rather, by, or through the grace of Chriſt offered you in the Goſpel. For though ἐν be often put for εἰς, yet ἐν χάριτι, where it is elſewhere uſed, doth either ſignifie, in the grace, or through the grace, as Rom. 5. 15. 2 Cor. 1. 12. 2 Theſſ. 2. 16. 2 Tim. 2. 1. nor do I find where it is ever uſed in the Epiſtles for εἰς χάριν.

f Ver. 9. Ἀνάθεμα ἔτω, let him be Anathema.] Hence it follows (1.) That the Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith, as it ſtands oppoſed to the contrary Doctrine of the Neceſſity of the obſervance of the Moſaical Law to Juſtification, is a Fundamental Doctrine, to which he that oppoſeth himſelf, maintaining the Neceſſity of obſerving the Law of Moſes to that end, deſerveth an Anathema, as introducing another Goſpel. Whence Commentators here obſerve, that the Apoſtle calls not the Galatians, Saints, becauſe they had begun to decline from the Goſpel, by ſeeking thus to be juſtified by the Law; but ſpeaks of them as thoſe who had Chriſt yet to be formed in them; and who were to be born again, Chap. 4. 19.

2*ly*, Hence it appears that a man may err fundamentally, not only by rejecting a fundamental Article of Faith, but alſo by maintaining, and teaching in the Name of Chriſt, things unneceſſary to be neceſſary, ſo as to ſay Salvation cannot be obtained without them: And herein conſiſts the great Guilt of the Church of Rome, and particularly of the Trent Council, that they have added many unneceſſary Articles to the true Chriſtian Creed, and have defined them to be ſo neceſſary to be believed by all Chriſtians, that no Salvation can be obtained without the belief of them: And ſo they ſeem plainly to have fallen under the Anathema of St. Paul, more dreadful than all the vain Anathema's they have thundred out againſt the Proteſtants.

Mr. Walker, and Grotius note, that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here only of Doctrines contrary to his Goſpel. But this Expoſition is (1.) contrary to the very words of the Apoſtle, who ſaith not, againſt, but παρ' ὅ, beſides what I have delivered. And it is contrary to the Expoſition of the (b) Fathers, St. Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, among the Greeks, and St. Auſtin among the Latins, whoſe note is this, He ſaith not, if they preach things contrary, but if they preach things never ſo little different from the Goſpel which I have preached to you. 'Tis very true, as Eſthius ſuggeſts, that the Apoſtle doth not pretend to propound an Anathema againſt any man who ſhall ſuggeſt any thing farther in confirmation of Chriſt's Goſpel, as St. John after did, or give any further Rules purſuant to the Precepts of it, by the ſuggeſtion of that Spirit by which the Goſpel was endited, for then he would have pronounced an Anathema upon all that writ after him, and even upon himſelf who writ many Epiſtles after this; but yet he pronounceth an Anathema upon all thoſe who preach a Goſpel which differed from the Goſpel which they preached, to whom alone it was by Chriſt committed to propound the terms of Salvation, and this is that of which we do accuſe the Church of Rome, that they propound terms of Salvation no where delivered by Chriſt, or his Apoſtles.

2*ly*, This Expoſition of Mr. Walker will not free them from the Anathema of the Apoſtle; for by this very thing, that they add any thing to the Goſpel of Chriſt as neceſſary ceſſary to be believed, or done to Salvation, they do no leſs oppoſe the Doctrine of the Apoſtle, than they did who joyned the obſervation of the Law of Moſes, as neceſſary to the Faith of Chriſt; for therefore did they oppoſe his Doctrine, becauſe they teaching this was needful to Salvation, did thereby teach that what the Apoſtle had taught as ſufficient to Salvation, was not ſo without their Additions, which is the very thing the Papiſts do by their New Articles, and Traditionary Doctrines; for if they be indeed neceſſary to Salvation, what is delivered in the Goſpel, in which confeſſedly ſome of their Doctrines are not, cannot be ſufficient to Salvation. Moreover, it is extreamly evident, that Prayer in an unknown Tongue is plainly contrary to the Apoſtle's Doctrine, 1 Cor. 14. and that Communion in one kind is oppoſite both to Chriſt's Inſtitution, and to St. Paul's Diſcourſe upon the Sacrament, 1 Cor. 11.

g Ver. 10. Πείθειν, to perſwade.] The Criticks here obſerve, that the word πείθειν ſignifies to pacifie, and appeaſe any one incenſed againſt us. So when David's Soldiers, hunted and haraſſed by Saul, were earneſt, when they found Saul in the Cave, that they might have liberty to ſlay him, ἔπεισε Δαβὶδ τοὺς ἄνδρας αὐτῦ ἐν λόγοις, David pacified his men with words, 1 Sam. 24. 7. So to induce the Soldiers to own that Chriſt's Body was ſtoln away by his Diſciples from the Sepulchre whilſt they ſlept, the chief Prieſts and Elders promiſe, that if this come to the Governour's ear, πείσομεν αὐτὸν, we will appeaſe him, Matth. 28. 14. And Menelaus promiſed Ptolomy to give him much Money, ὡς τὸ πεῖσαι τὸν Βασιλέα, if he would pacifie the King towards him, 2 Macc. 4. 5. Or (2.) the word may ſignifie to obey; for ſo the word is uſed by St. Paul in this Epiſtle, when he ſays, Who hath bewitched you, τῇ ἀληθείᾳ μὴ πείθεσθαι, that you ſhould not obey the truth? Chap. 3. 1. and, ye did run well, who hindred you τῇ ἀληθείᾳ μὴ πείθεσθαι, that you ſhould not obey the truth? Chap. 5. 7. and elſewhere: So τοῖς ἀπειθοῦσι μὲν τῇ ἀληθείᾳ, πειθομένοις δὲ τῇ ἀδικίᾳ, to thoſe who obey not the truth, but obey unrighteouſneſs, Rom. 2. 8. πείθεσθε τοῖς ἡγουμένοις, obey your Governours? Heb. 13. 17. See alſo Acts 5. 36, 37. James 3. 3. And ſo is the word often uſed by Heathen Authors when they treat of Moral Subjects: So (c) Plato ſaith, Philoſophy compels the Irrational Affections to obey Reaſon, and introduceth (d) Socrates ſaying, πείσομαι τῷ Θεῷ μᾶλλον ἢ ὑμῖν, I will obey God rather than you. (e) Plutarch ſaith, It is the ſame thing ἕπεσθαι Θεῷ, καὶ τὸ πείθεσθαι λόγῳ, to follow God, and obey reaſon. So (f) Arian; This is to be placed among the higheſt pleaſures, ὅτι πείθῃ τῷ Θεῷ, that thou obeyeſt God; I am free, and the friend of God, ἵν' ἐκὼν πείθωμαι αὐτῷ, that I might willingly obey him. I know to whom I ought to be ſubject τίνι πείθεσθαι, τῷ Θεῷ καὶ τοῖς μετ' ἐκεῖνον, and to obey God, and thoſe that are next to him. So then the import of theſe words is this, Do I in preaching the Goſpel act in obedience to Men, who every where perſecute me, and oppoſe me for it, or in obedience to that God who called me to be an Apoſtle of the Gentiles? v. 15, 16. And this ſenſe is confirmed by the Verſe following.

Mr. Cl. here is poſitive that πείθω ſignifies only to perſwade; whereas the (g) Lexicographers ſay expreſly, tria ſignificat, pareo, morem gero ſuadeo, perſuadeo. So Heſychius, πείθω σε τὸ ὑπακῦσμα, I obey thee in this thing; and πείθομαί σοι τῦτο, ſaith Stephanus, ought to be rendred, pareo tibi in hac re, or pareo conſilio tuo in hac re. And whereas he fancies an Ellipſis of μὴ ἀγανακτῆν μοι, not to be diſpleaſed with me, making the ſenſe to run thus, For do I now perſwade Men, or God, not to be diſpleaſed with me? he is ſtill out; for who can ſee either any Connection of theſe with the former words, or any force in the Apoſtle's reaſon, according to this ſtrained ſenſe? If any man, ſaith he, preach any other Goſpel than that which ye have received from us, let him be Anathema, v. 9. for do I in preaching this Goſpel obey Men, or God? ſaith our Interpretation, making both the Connection clear, and the Reaſon ſtrong; ſeeing God could not command him to preach one Goſpel, and others another; let him be Anathema, ſaith Mr. Cl. for do I now perſwade God, not to be diſpleaſed with me? where, let him that can, ſhew either Reaſon, or Connection. 2*ly*, How could St. Paul ſay, he did not perſwade Men not to be diſpleaſed with him, when in this Epiſtle he ſo often doth it? ſaying, Brethren, I beſeech you be as I am, Chap. 4. 12. am I therefore become your Enemy, becauſe I tell you the truth? v. 16. From henceforth let no man trouble me, Chap. 6. 17. See Chap. 5. 11. And 3*ly*, why ſhould he tell the Galatians, he perſwaded God not to be diſpleaſed with him, when he was ſo honeſtly diſcharging his Office, that he knew nothing of inſincerity by himſelf in the execution of it, 1 Cor. 4. 4. and ſurely had no mind to give them any reaſon to ſuſpect he had diſpleaſed him.

Judaiſm to embrace Chriſtianity; i.e. I ſhould not have quitted Honour, Friends and Kindred, for Dangers, Perſecutions, and Diſhonours, which I continually ſuffer for the Cauſe of Chriſt. And this Expoſition is confirmed from thoſe words, If I preach Circumciſion, why do I yet ſuffer Perſecution, ſince then is the offence of the Croſs ceaſed? Chap.5.11. and from his account that others preached up Circumciſion only, leſt they ſhould ſuffer Perſecution for the Croſs of Chriſt, Chap. 6. 12.

i Ver. 12. Οὐ παρ' ἀνθρώπου, I received it not by man.] In the firſt Verſe he ſaith, He was not an Apoſtle by Man, but by Jeſus Chriſt; Here, that he was not taught his Goſpel by Man, but by Jeſus Chriſt; whence Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, St. Jerom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact conclude that our Lord was not only Man, but God; and ſo Novatian (cap. 13.) argued before the Nicene Council, if St. Paul was not conſtituted an Apoſtle of, or by Man, and yet was conſtituted ſuch by Jeſus Chriſt, Meritò Chriſtus eſt Deus, Chriſt muſt be God; for though the Scripture ſometimes calleth Magiſtrates, and Judges Gods, as Crellius here notes, it never ſaith that what was done by them, was not done by Man. Crellius adds further, That our Lord being the only begotten Son of God, and having now obtained his Celeſtial Kingdom, was exempted from the common rank of Men; and from the ſtate of mortal Men, ſaith Grotius; And ſo the Apoſtle might ſpeak of him not as a Man, as Sampſon ſaith of himſelf, If they bind me with Wreaths, I ſhall be as a Man, Judges 16.7,11,17. But there it is not ſaid, I ſhall be as a Man, but באחד האדם as one Man, i.e. as weak as one Man only, or having no more ſtrength than another Man. Crellius therefore hath not ſaid any thing appoſite in anſwer to this Argument. Nor doth the Apoſtle here oppoſe Man to Man, or Mortal Man to thoſe Bleſſed Spirits who are Immortal, but only to Jeſus Chriſt, and God the Father.

k Ibid. Δι' ἀποκαλύψεως, by Revelation.] At what time this Revelation was made to him is uncertain, but it is probable it muſt be before he went to preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles; for the words following, I conſulted not with fleſh and blood, but preached at Damaſcus, ſeem plainly to imply this Revelation was made to him before he preached there, or went to Jeruſalem.

l Ver. 14. See Note on Mark 7. 3. Acts 28.17. Now there is reaſon to believe, that a Man ſo exceeding zealous for the Religion of the Jews, and ſo full of hatred to that of Chriſtians, would not have renounced the Religion he had ſo great a Reverence for, to embrace that he was ſo incenſed againſt, without ſome more than Humane Motive.

2*ly*, That James the Lord's Brother was an Apoſtle in the ſtrict and proper ſenſe of the word, ſince Peter, who is mentioned with him, was doubtleſs ſo, and Barnabas who brought him to Peter and James, is ſaid to bring him to the Apoſtles; and Peter, James, and John, who are here called the Men of Reputation, and Pillars of the Church, Chap.2. 6, 9. ſeem plainly to be the ſame Perſons, who in his ſecond Epiſtle to the Corinthians, are called λίαν Ἀπόστολοι, the chief of the Apoſtles; And (h) Origen ſaith expreſly of James the Juſt, This is that James, whom Paul in his Epiſtle to the Galatians ſaith he ſaw, citing thoſe very words for the proof of it. See this confirmed in the Preface to the Epiſtle of St. James. Note

3*ly*, That the Apoſtle's Argument is to this effect, Having therefore preached the Goſpel ſo long before I ſaw them, and ſtaying ſo little while with them, and going then only to ſee, not to learn of them, it cannot be conceived I ſhould receive my Inſtructions how to preach the Goſpel from them.

Ver. 20. Ἰδοὺ ἐνώπιον τοῦ Θεοῦ, behold before God.] Hence it is evident that the Apoſtle, when it was neceſſary to confirm the truth of the Goſpel, or of his Commiſſion to, or his Sincerity in preaching it, i. e. when the q

a Verſe 1. THen a fourteen years after my [firſt journey thither,] I went up again to Jeruſalem with Barnabas, and took Titus with me alſo [though uncircumciſed, to ſhew the liberty I took of converſing with Perſons not circumciſed.]

b 2. And I b went up by Revelation, and communicated to them [at Jeruſalem,] that Goſpel which I preach [every where] among c the Gentiles, but [this I did] c privately to them which were of reputation, [or the chief Men there, not that I diſtruſted my Doctrine, or needed their Inſtructions, but] leſt by any means, [or falſe ſuggeſtions of the Judaizers, that my Doctrine was contrary to what they who were called before me, preached, and ſuch as they would not own,] I ſhould run [hereafter,] or had run [hitherto,] in vain.

3. But [even then was nothing done by me which ſhewed any change in my Doctrine or Practice, or any oppoſition made by them to it, for,] neither Titus who was [then] with me, being a Greek, was [upon that account] compelled to be circumciſed, [as they would have contended he ſhould, had they thought Circumciſion neceſſary to the Gentiles.]

4. And that [which concerns the bringing, and retaining Titus with me uncircumciſed, d was done] d becauſe of falſe Brethren, [who came down to Antioch, Acts 15.1.] unawares brought in [Gr. introduced into the Aſſembly, Acts 15.5. or inſinuating themſelves into the Church of Antioch, v. 1.] who came in privily to ſpy out, [Gr. to enſnare us in] our liberty [from the obſervance of the Jewiſh Law,] which we have in [and through] Chriſt Jeſus, that they might bring us into bondage [to it, they pleading for the neceſſity of circumciſing the Gentiles, and commanding them to keep the Law, Acts 15.1.]

5. To whom we gave place by ſubjection, no not for an hour, [by ſubmiſſion to their Demands, but continued firm to our Reſolution, not to ſubject the Gentiles to this yoke of bondage,] that the truth of the Goſpel [of Chriſt, which frees the Gentiles from the Obligation of the Law,] might continue with [or among] you.

6. But of thoſe who ſeemed to be ſomewhat, whatſoever they were, [or, but whatſoever they were who ſeemed to be ſomewhat,] it maketh no matter to me, [their ſeeming, or their real greatneſs affects not my Doctrine,] God accepteth no man's perſon; for they who ſeemed to be ſomewhat, in conference added nothing to me, [or to my Doctrine, nor corrected any thing in it, and ſo neither am I concerned for their greatneſs, nor doth God reſpect them the more upon that account.]

7. [They added, I ſay, nothing to my Doctrine,] but contrariwiſe [they approved of it, for] for when they ſaw that the Goſpel of the Uncircumciſion was committed to me, [and I was authorized to preach to the Gentiles,] as the Goſpel of the Circumciſion was to Peter, [he being appointed to preach to the Jews:]

8. [As evidently it was,] For he who wrought effectually in [with] Peter, the Apoſtleſhip of the Circumciſion, the ſame was mighty in me, [Gr. wrought alſo with me] towards the Gentiles, [*Rom.*15.19.]

9. e And when James, Cephas and John, e who ſeemed to be Pillars [of the Church,] perceived the grace [of God] that was given to me [for the Apoſtolick Office,] they gave to me, and Barnabas the right hand of fellowſhip, [concluding] that we ſhould [ſtill] go [on to preach] to the Heathen, and they [ſhould ſtill continue preaching] to the Circumciſion.

10. f Only they would that we ſhould re- f member the poor [Chriſtians in Judea,] the ſame which [Gr. which ſame thing] I alſo was forward to do.

11. But when Peter was come to Antioch, g I withſtood him to the face, becauſe he was g to be blamed.

12. For before that certain [Brethren of the Jews] came from James, he did [freely] eat with the Gentiles, but when they were come, he withdrew, and ſeparated himſelf [from them,] fearing [to exaſperate, or ſcandalize] them which were of the Circumciſion.

13. And the other Jews diſſembled likewiſe with him, inſomuch that [even] Barnabas alſo was carried away with their diſſimulation.

14. But when I ſaw that [in this matter] h they walked not uprightly, according to h the truth of the Goſpel, I ſaid to Peter before them all, If thou being a Jew, [one of that Nation to which alone the Law of Moſes was given,] liveſt after the manner of the Gentiles, [converſing freely with them, and eating of their Meats, as , ſince the Viſion which thou ſaweſt , thou haſt done,] and not as do the Jews, [abſtaining from their Meats, and Perſons as unclean,] why [now] compelleſt thou the Gentiles, [by thy Example,] to live as do the Jews ?

i 15. We who are Jews by [birth, or] nature, and not i ſinners of the Gentiles, [not idolatrous Heathens,]

16. Knowing that a man is not juſtified by the works of the Law, but [only] by the faith of Jeſus Chriſt, even we have believed in Jeſus Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by the Faith of Chriſt, and [thereby have teſtified our own Conviction, that we could] not [be juſtified] by the works of the Law, [as indeed we cannot be,] for by the works of the Law ſhall no fleſh be juſtified.

k 17. k But if while we [thus] ſeek to be juſtified by Chriſt, we our ſelves alſo are found ſinners, [as we muſt be , if we be ſtill obliged to obſerve that Law we have renounced as unable to juſtifie us] is therefore Chriſt [who taught us thus to renounce the Law, and to ſeek Juſtification by Faith in him,] the miniſter of ſin ? God forbid [that we ſhould charge this on him.]

18. [And yet we by aſſerting the neceſſity that the Gentiles ſhould obſerve the Law, and ſo much more the Jews, do in effect ſay that Chriſt hath taught us to be ſinners,] for if I [thus] build again the things that I deſtroyed, [urging the neceſſity of obſerving that Law to Juſtification, which I declared unable to juſtifie, and therefore renounced for faith in Chriſt,] I make myſelf a Tranſgreſſor [by not obſerving it to that end.]

19. [But whatſoever others may think fit to do, far be it from me to imitate them ;] for I through the Law, [teaching me that it condemns all men to death, and bearing witneſs to the Juſtification which is of God by Faith, Rom. 3. 21.] am [become] dead to [the obſervance of] the Law, that I might [for the future] live to God, [Rom. 7. 4.]

20. I am crucified with Chriſt, [and ſo dead to the Law, Rom. 6. 4.] nevertheleſs I live, yet not I [as formerly a Jew, and an obſerver of the Law,] but Chriſt liveth in me, [and I am acted by his Spirit, Rom. 7. 6.] and the life that I now live in the fleſh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himſelf for me.

21. I do not fruſtrate the grace of God, [as I ſhould do, did I ſeek for Righteouſneſs by the Law ;] for if Righteouſneſs come by the Law, then Chriſt is dead in vain, [there being then no neceſſity that he ſhould die to purchaſe Juſtification for us, and no ſufficient Virtue in his Death to procure it.] a Verſe 1. Διὰ δεκατεσσάρων ἐτῶν, fourteen years after.] I cannot aſſent to thoſe Criticks, who for δεκατεσσάρων, fourteen, would read τεσσάρων, four years after ; for not only all the Manuſcript Copies and Verſions read fourteen, but Irenæus l. 3. c. 13. doth confirm this reading in theſe words, Then after fourteen years I went up to Jeruſalem , &c. if any man carefully examine by the Acts of the Apoſtles, the time mentioned of his aſcent to Jeruſalem for the queſtion aforeſaid, he will find the years agreeing with thoſe mentioned by St. Paul. Now theſe years muſt be reckoned from the time of his Converſion mentioned here Chap. 1. 18. which hapned in the year of our Lord 35. and then between that and the Council of Jeruſalem, aſſembled Anno Chriſti 49. will be fourteen intervening years ; for whereas ſome reckon theſe fourteen years from the third year of his Converſion to the Council met at Jeruſalem, and ſo make that Council meet Anno Domini 52. becauſe it is ſaid here ἔπειτα, afterwards, and πάλιν ἀνέβην, I went up again ; it may be anſwer'd that the word ἔπειτα, afterwards, doth not connect theſe words with the three years mentioned Chap. 1. 18. as is evident, becauſe there follows another ἔπειτα, afterwards, v. 21. nor doth πάλιν ἀνέβην, I went up again, relate to his firſt Journey to Jeruſalem, mentioned Chap. 1. 18. for he had been twice at Jeruſalem ; three years after his Converſion, to ſee Peter, and nine years after that, to carry Alms to the Brethren at Jeruſalem, Acts 11. 30. though, ſeeing then none of the Apoſtles, he makes no mention of that Journey here, as being nothing to his purpoſe ; See Dr. Pearſon Annal. Paulin. p. 8, 9. So that whereas he had ſaid, Chap. 1. 18. that three years after my Converſion, I went up to Jeruſalem, to ſee Peter, he ſaith here, and fourteen years after it, I went up again. Now that the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of the Journey to Jeruſalem mentioned Acts 15. will appear,

1. From the agreement of what he here relates, with what then hapned, as that he communicated to them the Goſpel, which he preached among the Gentiles, v. 2. as he then did Acts 15. 4. That Circumciſion was not then judged neceſſary to the Gentiles, v. 3. as we find Acts 15. 24. That when they ſaw the Goſpel of Uncircumciſion was committed to him, they gave to him and Barnabas the right hand of fellowſhip, v. 9. as then they did, ſending their very Decree, with one conſent to the Gentiles, by the hands of Paul and Barnabas, Acts 15. 22, 25. who were received by the whole Church, v. 4. and ſtiled beloved, v. 25.

2*ly*, It ſeems not likely that the Apoſtle writing this Epiſtle about nine years after the decree of that Council, ſhould make no mention of a thing ſo advantagious to the Cauſe he is pleading here, and ſo proper to confute the Pretences of the Adverſaries he diſputes againſt: And

3*ly*, James, Peter, and John being all the Apoſtles that were preſent at the Council then held at Jeruſalem, the mention of their Conſent to his Doctrine and Practice, was all that was neceſſary to his Purpoſe to be mentioned concerning that Council. It is no objection againſt this Opinion that we find no mention Acts 15. of Titus's being with him, for he is not mentioned in the whole Book of the Acts, during which interval this journey muſt have hapned.

b Ver. 2. Ἀνέβην κατὰ ἀποκάλυψιν, I went up by Revelation.] Made to the Apoſtle, ſaith Dr. Hammond, to comply with this Determination of the Church of Antioch; made to the Prophets of the Church of Antioch, to ſend them, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, which I do not gainſay. But the Apoſtle doth not ſay he went up δι' ἀποκαλύψεως by Revelation, but κατὰ ἀποκάλυψιν according to Revelation. Now he had ſaid before, he received not his Doctrine or Goſpel by Men, or of Men, but by the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt; and here he may be ſuppoſed to add, that in his journey he acted ſuitably to the Revelation which conſtituted him the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, telling the Church of Jeruſalem what things he had done among the Gentiles in purſuance of it, not enquiring what they did, but declaring what God did by him; not permitting Titus a Greek to be circumciſed; not giving place for an hour to the falſe Brethren, &c.

c Ibid. Κατ' ἰδίαν δὲ τοῖς δοκοῦσι, privately to them of Reputation.] Not that his Doctrine might be confirmed by the Concurrence of St. Peter. or others with him in it, as Eſthius from St. Jerom, and St. Auſtin, here ſuggeſts; for ſure that Doctrine which he received by immediate Revelation from Jeſus Chriſt, and God the Father, needed no farther confirmation from the Authority of Man; but only to obviate the Cavils of thoſe who laboured to hinder the effect of his Goſpel, by ſuggeſting that it was contrary to, or diſowned by thoſe Apoſtles who were called before him.

d Ver. 4. Διὰ τοὺς ψευδαδέλφους, becauſe of falſe Brethren.] Theſe falſe Brethren, ſaith (a) Epiphanius, were Cerinthus, and thoſe of his Party.

Ver. 9. Note, That the beginning of this e Verſe from the Greek runs thus, And James, Cephas and John, who ſeemed to be Pillars of the Church, knowing the grace, &c.

Ver. 10. Note, That from theſe four Ver- f ſes, the Supremacy of Peter over the reſt of the Apoſtles, and the whole Church, may be by many Arguments refuted. For

1. James is here mentioned firſt among the Apoſtles of the Circumciſion, according to the common Doctrine of the Ancients, who ſtile him, (b) the firſt Biſhop, Archbiſhop, Prince, and Biſhop of Biſhops, τὸν τῆς νέας Ἱερουσαλὴμ Ἀρχιεπίσκοπον, καὶ τῶν Ἱερέων ἡγεμόνα, καὶ τῶν Ἀποστόλων τὸν ἔξαρχον, καὶ ἐν κεφαλαῖς κορυφὴν, the Chiefſtain of the New Jeruſalem, the Leader of the Prieſts, the Prince of the Apoſtles, the Top of the Heads. And this agrees with the Eccleſiaſtical Tradition mentioned by (c) Euſebius, That the Brethren and Kinſmen of our Lord, whilſt they lived, were preferred before other Apoſtles, and Biſhops, and that therefore Peter and John contended not with James the Lord's Brother, but choſe him Biſhop of Jeruſalem, and after his death judged Simeon his Coſin German worthy of that See, ὡς ἀπὸ γένους ὄντα τοῦ Κυρίου, as being of the Kindred of our Lord.

2*ly*, He puts no difference betwixt theſe Pillars, or chief of the Apoſtles; which no more agrees with the ſuppoſed Supremacy of Peter, than it would with the Pope's Supremacy to be reckoned among, or after ſome of the Cardinals, which as it is never done by them, who own the Pope's Supremacy, ſo neither would this have been done by St. Paul, had he owned the Supremacy of Peter.

3*ly*, He ſays the Goſpel of the Uncircumciſion was committed to him, as was that of the Circumciſion to Peter, by which words (d) he ſhews himſelf equal to Peter, ſay the Scholiaſts. By theſe words, ſaith Hilary the Deacon, Plena authoritas Petri in prædicatione Judaiſmi data dignoſcitur, & Pauli perfecta authoritas in prædicatione Gentilium invenitur.

Laſtly, It makes no matter to me, ſaith he, what they were; which ſure could not fitly be ſaid of him whom Chriſt had conſtituted to be his Head and Judge.

i Ver. 15. Ἁμαρτωλοὶ, ſinners of the Gentiles.] This word in the Scripture phraſe ſignifies a great and habitual ſinner; and becauſe the Gentiles were by the Jewiſh Nation ſtil'd eſteemed ſuch, and generally were ſo, therefore the word is uſed to denote the Gentiles that knew not God. So what is ἐθνικοὶ, the the Heathens, in many Copies, Matth. 5. 46, 47. is ἁμαρτωλοὶ, ſinners, Luke 6. 32, 33, 34. And to be delivered εἰς χεῖρας τῶν ἁμαρτωλῶν, into the hands of ſinners, Matth. 26. 45. Mark 14. 41. is to be delivered τοῖς ἔθνεσι, to the Gentiles, Matth. 20. 19. Mark 10. 33. Luke 18. 32.

Ver. 17, 18. This Expoſition of theſe two Verſes, which I have taken from Hilary, and all the Greek Scholiaſts, ſeems much better than that of late Commentators, who make the Seventeenth Verſe to be an Objection againſt St. Paul's Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith, and the Eighteenth an Anſwer to it; for which I ſee no ground in the Apoſtle's words. k a b Verſe 1. a O Fooliſh Galatians, b who hath bewitched you, [or envied your happineſs, and ſo endeavoured] c that you ſhould not obey the truth, c before whoſe eyes Jeſus Chriſt hath been evidently ſet forth, crucified among you?

2. This only would I learn of you, Received you the Spirit [in his gifts and powerful operations] by [obedience to] the works of the Law, or by the hearing of Faith? [i. e. the belief of the Goſpel; if by the latter, this is a manifeſt token, that your juſtification and acceptance with God, was the fruit of your faith, and not of your obedience to the Law, ſince God by giving you his Spirit whilſt uncircumciſed, as well as to believing Jews, bare witneſs to this very thing, that he put no difference betwixt you and them, on that account, Acts 15. 8, 9.]

3. Are ye [then] ſo fooliſh? having [thus] begun in the Spirit, [as to receive his miraculous Gifts by Faith, without the Works of the Law,] are ye now [ſeeking to be] made perfect by the fleſh [by Circumciſion, and obſerving the Carnal Ordinances of the Law?]

4. Have ye ſuffered ſo many things [from the perſecuting Jews, Acts 17. 5.] in d vain? d if it be yet [or even] in vain.

5. [To re-aſſume my Argument,] He therefore that miniſtreth the Spirit to you [in his c extraordinary Gifts] and c worketh Miracles among you, doth he it by [virtue of your obedience to] the works of the Law, or by the hearing of Faith? [i. e. that Faith which taught you to believe in a crucified Saviour.]

6. [For we muſt be juſtified,] Even as Abraham [the Father of the faithful was, who] f believed in God, and it was accounted to him for righteouſneſs. f

7. Know ye therefore, that they who are of Faith [and ſeek juſtification by it,] the ſame are the [true] Children of [faithful] Abraham.

8. And the [Holy Ghoſt in] Scripture foreſeeing that God would juſtifie the Heathen through Faith, preached before [the giving of the Law, and before his Circumciſion,] the Goſpel to Abraham, [by] ſaying [Gen 12. 3] g in thee ſhall all Nations be g bleſſed.

9. So then they which are of faith, [and ſeek juſtification by it, Rom. 9. 32.] are bleſſed with faithful Abraham, [and as he was,]

10. [And not by the works of the Law;] For as many as are of the works of the Law, [and ſeek to be juſtified by them,] are under the curſe [of it, and ſo uncapable of juſtification by it;] for it is written [there,] Curſed is every one that continueth not in all things that are written in the Book of the Law to do them, [Deut. 27. 26. Now this being perfectly done by none, all that are under the Law are under the Curſe of it.]

11. But that no man is juſtified by [obſervance of] the Law in the ſight of God, it is [farther] evident, for [the Prophet Habakkuk ſaith, Chap. 2. 4.] h the juſt ſhall live by h faith.

12. And [now, or whereas] the Law is not

not of faith, but [ſaith,] the man that doth them, [i.e. that perfectly obſerves what is required by the Law,] ſhall live in [or by] them.

13. [This being ſo,] Chriſt hath redeemed us from the curſe of the Law, [by] being made [according to the Sentence of the Law, a curſe for us; for [there] it is written, i i Curſed is every one that hangeth on a tree, [as you know he did upon the Croſs.]

14. [And this he ſuffered,] That the bleſſing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through [faith in] Jeſus Chriſt, that we [Gentiles believing in him] might receive the k promiſe of the Spirit k through Faith, [for we are all the Sons of God through faith in Chriſt Jeſus; and becauſe we are Sons, God hath ſent forth the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, Gal.4.5.]

15. Brethren, I ſpeak after the manner of men, [uſing an Example taken from the common practice of all men, and ſpeaking what is owned in all civilized Nations; See Note on 1 *Cor.*9.8.] though it be but a man's covenant [that is made,] yet if it be [legally] confirmed, no man diſanulleth [it,] or addeth any thing thereto.

l 16. Now to Abraham, and his l Seed were the promiſes made; He [God] ſaith not, And to Seeds, as of many; but as [*ſpeak-*m ing] of one, and m to thy Seed, which is Chriſt.

17. And this I [farther] ſay, that the Covenant which was confirmed before of God in Chriſt, [i. e. the Covenant made in Chriſt the promiſed Seed, and confirmed by God to Abraham before the Law was given,] the Law n which was [given] n four hundred and thirty years after, cannot diſanul, [ſo] that it ſhould make the promiſe [be] of none effect, [as it muſt have done, were juſtification to be obtained by the Law, for then none could be bleſſed in, and by, the promiſed Seed only, or without the Law.]

18. For if the Inheritance [of the bleſſing promiſed to Abraham,] be [to be obtained by obſervance] of the Law, it is no more [the effect] of [the] promiſe; but [that cannot be ſaid, for] God gave it to Abraham by promiſe.

19. [But you will enquire,] Wherefore then ſerveth the Law? [I anſwer,] it was o added [after the promiſe made,] o becauſe of tranſgreſſions, until the Seed ſhould come to whom the promiſe was made, and it was ordained, [or delivered, not as the Promiſe, immediately by God himſelf to Abraham, but] by Angels, [it being the word ſpoken by Angels, Heb.2.2. not as the Promiſe, without a Mediator betwixt God giving, and Abraham receiving it, but] in the hand of a Mediator, [even Moſes, who ſtood between them, and the Lord at that time, to ſhew them the word of the Lord, Deut. 5. 5. and ratifie the Covenant on the Peoples part.]

20. Now [But the Promiſe required no Mediator, for] p a Mediator is not of one p [party only,] but God [who made the Promiſe to Abraham] is one [only.]

21. Is the Law then againſt the Promiſes of God? [as it muſt be, if it condemns them to whom the promiſe doth aſſign a bleſſing: Or is it againſt thoſe Promiſes, which ſay the juſt ſhall live by faith, and the Bleſſing of Abraham ſhall come upon us by faith? as it muſt be, provided we are to be juſtified not by faith, but by the works of the Law: But] God forbid [it ſhould be thought he had given a Law which diſanulled his Promiſes; as it muſt have done, had juſtification to life depended on the obſervance of it:] For if there had been [ſuch] a Law given which could have given life, verily righteouſneſs [i. e. juſtification to life, Rom.5.18.] ſhould have been by the Law, [whereas it ſubjecting us to death, we may be ſure God never did intend it for that end.

22. But the Scripture hath concluded all [men of all Nations] under ſin, [and ſo under condemnation by the Law Moral, and Ceremonial, and ſentenced not to life, but death by it, and thereby ſhew'd the neceſſity] that the promiſe [of juſtification] by faith of Jeſus Chriſt, [the promiſed Seed,] might be given to them that believe [in him; and thus the Law is not contrary, but ſubſervient to the Promiſes of living by Faith.]

23. But before faith came [to be revealed,] we were kept under [the Diſcipline of] the Law, q ſhut up unto the Faith which ſhould q afterwards be revealed.

24. r Wherefore the Law was [then] our r School-maſter to bring us to Chriſt, [and cauſe us, thus condemned by the Law, to fly to him who is the end of the Law for Righteouſneſs, Rom.10.3.] that we might be juſtified by faith [in him.]

25. But [now] after that faith is come, we are no longer under a School-maſter, [being no longer Children in minority, Rom. 7.3.]

26. For ye are all the [adult] s Children of s God, [and ſo heirs of God] by faith in Chriſt Jeſus.

27. For as many of you as have [believed in Chriſt, and upon that faith have] been baptized into Chriſt, have put on Chriſt, [and ſo are become Sons of God; for to as many as believed in him, he gave power to be the Sons of God, John 1.12.]

28. There is [under the Goſpel Diſpenſation,] neither [diſtinction made of] Jew, nor Greek; there is neither [of] bond, nor free; there is neither [of] male, nor female; [as under the Jewiſh Oeconomy, the Male only bearing the ſign of the Covenant,] for ye are all one, [as to the privileges of the Goſpel] in Chriſt Jeſus.

29. And if ye be Chriſt's, then are ye [indeed] Abraham's Seed, [not from Iſmael, but Iſaac,] and [therefore] heirs t according to the promiſe. t a Verſe 1. Ὦ ἀνόητοι, O fooliſh, &c.] The Apoſtle by calling the Galatians, fooliſh, doth not contradict our Saviour's Precept, becauſe he doth it not εἰκῇ raſhly, and without cauſe, ſaith Theophylact, nor out of anger, and ill will to them, but from an ardent deſire to make them ſenſible of their folly.

b Ibid. Τὶς ὑμᾶς ἐβάσκανε, who hath bewitched you?] Τὶς ἐφθόνησε, who hath looked upon you with an evil, or envious eye, as envying you the Bleſſings of the Goſpel? ſo the Greek Scholiaſts. The word alſo ſignifies, oculis præſtigia imponere, to put Deluſions, or as we ſay, Miſts before the Eyes, which import ſuits beſt with the following words. The Reverend Dr. Hammond obſerves here, that this Seduction may refer to the Ebionites, if the time would permit, as doubtleſs it will, for they were only a Branch of the Nazarens, or Cerinthians, who were contemporary with St. Paul; and all his Epiſtles ſhew that then there were many who maintained, and eagerly promoted among the Gentile Converts the chief Doctrine of thoſe Sects, viz. that they were obliged to obſerve the Legal Conſtitutions, (a) as being not capable of Salvation only by Faith in Chriſt, and a Life agreeable to it. And if this once be granted, there will be no need of his Gnoſticks in this, and perhaps not in any other of St. Paul's Epiſtles.

I cannot ſufficiently wonder at Mr. le Clerc's wild Conjecture, That the Ebionites were Samaritans, eſpecially after he had given us the words of Origen, in which he twice ſaith, they were οἱ ἀπὸ Ἰουδαίων εἰς τὸν Ἰησοῦν πεπιστευκότες, thoſe of the Jews that believed in Jeſus, l. 2. contr. Celſ. p. 56. Had he not read in Irenæus that they did Prophetica curioſius exponere, & Judaico charactere vitæ uti, & Hieroſolymam adorare, quaſi domus ſit Dei, lib. 1. c. 26. And could the Samaritans do this? Doth not St. Jerom ſay of them, Dum volunt Judæi eſſe, & Chriſtiani, nec Judæi ſunt, nec Chriſtiani? Ep. ad Auguſt. yea, even his own Epiphanius informs us, (Hær. 10. Anaceph. p. 240.) that Ἰουδαῖοι ὄντες being Jews, they uſed the Goſpel.

c Ibid. Οἷς κατ' ὀφθαλμοὺς Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς προεγράφη ἐν ὑμῖν ἐσταυρωμένος.] Theſe words may bear this Conſtruction, Before whoſe eyes Jeſus Chriſt crucified, hath been evidently ſet forth to, or among you, viz. in, and from the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament; for the words ἐν ὑμῖν, are not in the Alexandrian Manuſcript, and ſo may be here omitted, or conſtrued with the word προεγράφη, and ſo they accord both with the Context, and with the way of preaching uſed by the Apoſtles, whoſe cuſtom it was to prove out of the Old Teſtament, that Jeſus was the Chriſt, and that Chriſt ought to have ſuffered for us according to the Scriptures, Acts 17. 3. And then the Argument runs thus, If he died to procure the pardon of our ſins, and ſo our Juſtification, why do we render his Death upon the Croſs vain, by ſeeking to be juſtified by the Law? He having by his Sufferings blotted out the hand-writing which was againſt us, and nailed theſe Ordinances to the Croſs, why is it that you who are dead with Chriſt, from theſe Elements of the World, are ſtill ſubject to Ordinances? Eph. 2. 15, 16. Col. 2. 14, 20, Ver. 4. Εἰγε καὶ εἰκῇ, if it be in vain.] As d it muſt be upon your Hypotheſis of the Neceſſity of the obſervance of the Law, for then is the ſcandal of the Croſs ceaſed, Chap. 5. 11. and all neceſſity of ſuffering Perſecution is removed; theſe Deceivers themſelves doing, and urging others to theſe things only, leſt they ſhould ſuffer Perſecution for the Croſs of Chriſt, Chap. 6. 12. For the firſt Perſecutions which the Church ſuffered, were either from the Jews in Perſon, or by the incitation of the Jews, who being every where diſperſed, ſent choſen men from Jeruſalem to all places, where they, and the Chriſtians were, to ſtir up the Heathen Governours againſt them, as (b) Juſtin Martyr teſtifies. Note alſo, That they were chiefly ſcandalized at the Doctrine of the Croſs, 1 Cor. 1. 23. not only as it contradicted their pleaſant Dream of a Temporal Meſſiah, under whom they ſhould live gloriouſly, and triumphantly, but as being that which put an end to the Jewiſh Ceremonies, and taught Men to expect Juſtification, not by obſervance of the Law, but by Faith in the Blood of Chriſt ſhed for us, upon which account they were incenſed againſt all who thus taught, or thus believed it.

Note alſo hence, That all the good Actions we have done, will be done in vain, if we perſevere not in well-doing to the end.

e Ver. 5. Ἐνεργῶν δυνάμεις, he that worketh Miracles among you.] This is the Obſervation of all the (c) Ancients that comment upon this and the ſecond Verſe, That to commend the beginnings of the Chriſtian Faith, the Gift of Tongues, Prophecy, and working of Miracles, were vouchſafed to Believers, as to the Apoſtles at the beginning, according to our Lord's prediction, Mark 16. 17, 18.

And let thoſe that queſtion the truth of Chriſtianity obſerve, that this was the chief Argument which carried the Cauſe in the Council at Jeruſalem, that the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, were equally vouchſafed, to the uncircumciſed Gentile, and to Jews, Acts 15. 8, 9. and that this is here urged by St. Paul, as a thing undeniable to confirm the Galatians, and to confute thoſe who endeavoured to prevail on them to admit of Circumciſion, and the obſervance of other Legal Rites. This Confirmation therefore of the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, was ſuch as none, concerned to do it then, were able to gainſay, much leſs can any now find reaſon to doubt of it.

f Ver. 6. Ἐπίστευσε τῷ Θεῷ, believed God.] Hence it is evident, that 'tis the Act of Faith, and not the Object of it, which doth juſtifie, for Abraham believed God וַיַּחְשְׁבֶהָ & imputavit eam fidem, and he imputed that faith to him for righteouſneſs, Gen. 15. 6. The bleſſed God, ſaith R. Salom, imputed this to Abraham for Righteouſneſs, for the Faith by which he believed in him.

g Ver. 8. Ἐν σοὶ, in thee.] That is, in thy Seed, v. 16. So Acts 3. 25. Ye are the Sons of the Prophets, and of the Covenant which God made with your Fathers, ſaying, And in thy Seed ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed; that is, in Chriſt; for ſo it follows, v. 26. To you firſt, God having raiſed up his Child Jeſus, ſent him to bleſs you. And this confutes them who, with the Jews, interpret theſe words as a Form of Benediction thus, God make thee like to Abraham.

h Ver. 11. Ὁ δίκαιος, &c. the juſt ſhall live by faith.] Thus do the Jews themſelves expound theſe words of Habakkuk, Faith is the cauſe of bleſſedneſs, as it is the cauſe of eternal life, according to theſe words, The juſt ſhall live by his faith, Sepher Ikkarim l. 1. c. 21.

i Ver. 13. Ἐπικατάρατος πᾶς, curſed is every one.] When all were obnoxious to the Curſe of the Law, ſaith Theodoret, he undertook that Death which by the Law was accurſed, to free us from the Curſe. To reſtrain the words, he redeemed us from the curſe of the Law, to the Jews only, is in effect to ſay, Chriſt only ſuffered for the Jews, ſeeing he only ſuffered by hanging on the Croſs, the Tree on which he did expire. The Gentiles were not indeed ſubject to the particular Maledictions contained in the Law of Moſes, becauſe that Law was not given to them, but only to the Jews; But they were ſubject to that Death which was the general Puniſhment threatned to the Violaters of the Law, and was the Curſe denounced againſt Adam, and his Seed. And ſince it was by virtue of Chriſt's hanging on the Croſs, that the bleſſing of Abraham came upon the Gentiles, he muſt have been thus made a Curſe for them alſo, and not for the Jews only.

Now here ſeems to be a plain Evidence that our Lord ſuffered in our ſtead, by way of Surrogation, the Puniſhment the Law denounced againſt us for ſin, for we were obnoxious by the Law to a Curſe, he, that he might redeem us from it, did for our ſakes, and in our ſtead, willingly ſubmit himſelf to that Death which by the Sentence of the Law did render any Man accurſed, for he bare our ſins, in his own body on the tree. Now the Law expreſly ſaith, Curſed is every one that hangeth on a Tree; and Crellius here is forced to own a double Commutation, both of the Perſon ſuffering, and of the Evils ſuffered; for whereas we ought to have ſuffered, Chriſt, ſaith he, ſuffered for us; and whereas we ought to have ſuffered a Curſe, Chriſt ſuffered a Curſe for us. But then he adds, that we ought to have ſuffered a real Curſe, Chriſt only ſuffered a Curſe improperly ſo called for us. The Curſe threatned by the Law to us was Death eternal, the Curſe Chriſt ſuffered for us was only Temporal Death. But

1*ſt*, If the Curſe threatned to us was only the Curſe of the Law, and Chriſt ſuffered the Curſe of the Law, both which things the Apoſtle here affirms, what ground hath Crellius to put theſe differences betwixt the Curſe Chriſt ſuffered, and the Curſe threatned by the Law? Or does he not hereby ſeem to make the Apoſtle's Argument ſophiſtical, and unconcluding?

2*ly*, The ſins to which the Curſe is threatned, Deut. 27. were either ſuch to which God elſewhere threatned death, or cutting off, or ſuch as he required them to abſtain from, that they might live, and not die. Now ſeeing the Socinians ſo ſtifly do contend that the Life promiſed to the obſervers of the Law, was only Temporal, why ſhould they ſay that the Death threatned to the Violation of it is Eternal Death? 'Tis true, all Death muſt be Eternal to them that cannot raiſe themſelves, and have no promiſe of a Reſurrection; upon which two accounts our Saviour's Death was not Eternal, becauſe he had power to revive himſelf, and had a Promiſe that he ſhould not ſee Corruption; but the Death threatned by the Law, in its own Nature, being only the Separation of the Soul and Body, this our Lord did as truly ſuffer, as they could do who ſhould never live again.

The diſtinction therefore which the Caſe requires, is only that which reſults neceſſarily from the difference of the Perſon; i. e. we ſhould have ſuffered the Curſe of the Law for our own ſins, and conſequently ſhould alſo have been accurſed, in the ſight of God; Chriſt actually ſuffered the Legal Curſe to obtain Pardon for the Sins of others, and therefore only was accurſed in the Eye of the Law, and in the ſight of Men; but being in his own Perſon wholly innocent, he could not be accurſed in the ſight of God. And thus it is, and muſt be in all Vicarial Sufferings, the Perſon ſinning, and he that undertakes to ſuffer for him, are both guilty in the Eye of the Law, and ſuffer the Puniſhment the Law requires, but one of them alone is guilty in the ſight of God. Chriſt therefore was ſo made a Curſe, as he was made ſin for us, 2 Cor. 5. 20. not by contracting the Guilt, but by ſuffering the Puniſhment of our Sins, by being numbred with Tranſgreſſors, and condemned with them to the Death which the Law ſtiles accurſed.

k Ver. 14. Διὰ τῆς πίστεως, through Faith.] It ſeems to follow from theſe words, and from 2 Cor. 2. 7, 8. that the miniſtration of the Spirit belonged not to the Law, but to the Goſpel, the Law being rather the miniſtration of Death; hence the Apoſtle here oppoſes to the Curſe of the Law, the bleſſing of Abraham, which, ſaith he, is the promiſe of the Spirit through faith.

l Ver. 16. Αἱ ἐπαγγελίαι, the Promiſes] Made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 3. and repeated Gen. 22. 18. and to Iſaac, Gen. 26. 4.

m Ibid. Καὶ τῷ σπέρματί σου, and to thy Seed, which is Chriſt.] This Interpretation is owned by the (d) Jews, who obſerve that it is not written here, thy Son, but thy Seed, that is, the King Meſſiah. And, as Theodoret obſerves, the words are capable of no other ſenſe; for by Chriſt only was the Promiſe fulfilled, and in him alone did the Gentiles receive this bleſſing. He therefore in whom alone this Promiſe was verified, muſt be the Perſon of whom it was chiefly, if not only intended. And ſo St. Peter, aſſiſted by the Holy Ghoſt, interprets theſe words, ſaying, You are the Children of the Prophets, and of the Covenant which God hath made to your Fathers, ſaying, And in thy Seed ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed; To you firſt God having raiſed up his Child Jeſus, ſent him to bleſs you; This Child therefore is the Seed: We need not the Gloſs of Mr. Cl. that St. Paul here argues according to the Allegorical Interpretation of that Age; but if it be conſidered in it ſelf, it cannot be thought of any force by thoſe who have other Sentiments, becauſe the Hebrew Zerah is a collective Name; for this is the very Objection of R. Iſaac, that great Enemy of the Chriſtian Faith, and is anſwered by the Reverend Biſhop of Bath and Wells, by ſhewing that the Hebrew word is uſed of one, Gen. 3. 15. & 4. 25. & 15. 3. & 38. 8, 9. and that the Jews themſelves ſo expound it. Demonſtrat. of the Meſſias, part 2. p. 256. Nor his other corrupt Gloſs, that by Chriſt is meant Chriſt's Diſciples; for is this ſenſe, In thy Seed, i. e. in Chriſt's Diſciples, ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed? Is not this to aſcribe that to Chriſt's Diſciples which belongs to him alone? and to make them the Saviours of the World? And why does he ſay that nothing was promiſed to Chriſt, when the Apoſtle tells us, that in thee, and in thy Seed, ſignifies Chriſt, who was to be the Bleſſing both of Jew and Gentile? For though indeed the Promiſe was to Abraham, the firſt ſubject of it was Chriſt, which is all the Apoſtle here intends.

Ver. 17. Μετὰ ἔτη τετρακόσια καὶ τριάκοντα, four n hundred and thirty years after.] Hence it is evident, that the Apoſtle here refers primarily to the Promiſe made, Gen. 12. 3. ſince from that only are the four hundred and thirty years to be computed, for then Abraham was ſeventy five years old, Gen. 12. 4. from thence to the birth of Iſaac, which happened when Abraham was a hundred years old, Gen. 21. 5. is five and twenty years; from his birth to the birth of Jacob was ſixty years, for Iſaac was ſixty years old when Rebeccah bare him, Gen. 25. 26. from Jacob's birth to his deſcent into Egypt, were one hundred and thirty years, as he ſaith to Pharaoh, Gen. 47. 9. the abode of him, and his Poſterity in Egypt, was two hundred and fifteen years; for that, with their ſojourning in Canaan, was four hundred and thirty years, Exod. 12. 40. according to the Septuagint.

'ples, and Altars, ſhould be 'built to him alone, theſe Sa-'crifices offered to him only, and theſe Prieſts 'ſhould be conſecrated to his Service. And the like is ſaid, by (f) Cedrenus, of their Feſtivals, Separations, Purgations, Oblations, Decimations, that God enjoyned them, that τὸ πολυθέϊ πλάνης ἐκκόπτοι, being employed in doing theſe things to the true God, they might abſtain from Idolatry. And thus, ſaith Dr. Spencer, were they kept, or guarded under the Diſcipline of the Law, and ſhut up from the Idolatrous Rites and Cuſtoms of the Heathen World, by the ſtrictneſs of theſe Legal Obſervations, and the Penalties denounced againſt the Violaters of them. And it is well known that all the Ancient Fathers were of this Opinion, That God gave the Jews only the Decalogue, till they had made the golden Calf, and that afterwards he laid this yoke of Ceremonies upon them to reſtrain them from Idolatry. Thus when God firſt brought them out of Egypt, and commanded them not to defile themſelves with the Idols of Egypt, Ezek. 20.7. he is ſaid to have given them his Statutes, and ſhewed them his Judgments, which if a man do, he ſhall live in them, v.11. But, ſaith he, ſtill their hearts were after their Father's Idols, the Egyptian Apis, &c. wherefore I gave them Statutes which were not good, and Judgments whereby they ſhould not live, v.24,25. that is, that Law of Carnal Commandments, which, ſaith the Apoſtle, was aboliſhed for the weakneſs and unprofitableneſs of it, Heb. 7. 16, 18. And thoſe words of Maimonides give us a clear Reaſon why theſe Rituals were called by St. Paul στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου, the Rudiments of the World, Gal. 4.3. Col. 2. 28. namely, becauſe for Matter they were the ſame which Heathens uſed before to their falſe Gods. This is a very ancient Expoſition, and is partly true, but it containeth not the whole truth. For the Apoſtle, in the Epiſtle to the Romans, which is the beſt Expoſitor of this, informs us that the Law entred that Sin might abound, Rom. 5. 20. i. e. that it might appear to abound unto Death, that Sin might appear, ſin worketh death in us, Chap.7.13. and that the Law worketh wrath, Chap.4.15. & 3.20. by giving us the knowledge of that Sin which deſerveth it: And this anſwers to that which the Apoſtle here ſaith, That the Law was added becauſe of Tranſgreſſions, viz. to diſcover them, and their Puniſhment; that the Scripture hath concluded all men under ſin, viz. by virtue of the Law, that as many as are under the Law, are under the Curſe, v. 10. and that upon theſe accounts, the Law is our Schoolmaſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we may be juſtified through faith in him, who are condemned by the Law, v. 24. Chriſt being the end of the Law for juſtification to every one that believeth, Rom.10.3.

Ver.20. Ὁ δὲ μεσίτης.] Perhaps theſe words may better be expounded thus, (g) But this Mediator, (viz. Moſes) was only the Mediator of the Jews, and was only the Mediator of one Party, to whom belonged the Bleſſing of Abraham, v.8,14. But God who made the Promiſe, That in one ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed, is One, the God of the one Party, the Gentiles as well as of the Jews, and ſo as ready to juſtifie the one as the other, ἐπείπερ εἷς ὁ Θεὸς, ſeeing he is one God who will juſtifie the Circumciſion by Faith, and the Uncircumciſion through Faith, Rom. 3.30. To ſtrengthen this Expoſition, let it be noted that the ancient Jews thought, that in thoſe words, The Lord thy God is one God, Deut.6.4. was contained this Myſtery, That God ſhould be owned and celebrated not by the Jews only, but by all the Gentiles, that he ſhould be King over all the Earth, and in that day, the Lord ſhould be One and his Name One. So Jarchius on theſe words, the Lord our God is one God, ſays, it is intimated that Jehovah, who is now our God, and not the God of the Gentiles, ſhall hereafter be one God, as it is written Zeph.3.9. then will I turn to the Nations a pure lip, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord; and *Zech.*14.9. The Lord ſhall be King over all the Earth, and in that day ſhall the Lord be One, and his name One. See *Campegius Vitringa de Synag. Vet. l.3. part.2. c.17. p.*1084,1085.

ving ſaid in the foregoing Verſe, συνέκλεισεν, the Scripture hath ſhut up all, both Jew and Gentile, under ſin, it ſeems moſt reaſonable to interpret the word here, of Men ſhut up as Priſoners, condemned by the Law to death, the puniſhment of ſin, till that Faith came to be revealed, by which we obtain an happy freedom from Condemnation to Death.

And having thus explained the Apoſtle's Argument, it ſeemeth neceſſary a little to conſider what Mr. le Clerc here offers in his Notes upon this Chapter, from v. 10. to the end.

1. Therefore when he ſays, It was very difficult indeed to obſerve all the Rites of Moſes, yet he ſuppoſes his Law might be obſerved, and that it did not require a degree of Holineſs above humane ſtrength. I anſwer with the diſtinction mentioned, Note on v. 24. This is all true, as to ſuch a ſincere performance of it as God would accept of; but 'tis not true as to the moſt exact, perfect, and unſinning obſervation of it in the higheſt import of the words.

Object. But doth then God command what is impoſſible? Is it not abſurd to make Laws that cannot be kept, and to puniſh men for what they cannot do?

Anſw. God never commands what is naturally impoſſible, and which when we offend againſt, we can juſtly plead, that had we uſed our utmoſt ſtrength and diligence, we could not have avoided the doing what was forbid, or leaving undone what was commanded; for of what is ſo impoſſible no man can rationally repent, nor can his Conſcience condemn him for it; but he may require what, through the weakneſs of the fleſh, is morally impoſſible to be always done or avoided; v. g. an infinitely holy God cannot but command, that we ſhould not ſin againſt him, ſin being a trangreſſion of his Law: But though there be no particular ſin of which we can truly ſay it is impoſſible we ſhould have avoided it, yet, through the Infirmity of Humane Nature, we have too much cauſe to ſay, that it is morally impoſſible we ſhould live without, or always free from ſin.

2*ly*, When he ſays, The Laws of Moſes are not ſo ſevere, as not to pardon the leaſt ſin, God having inſtituted Sacrifices for ſome ſins. This alſo I grant, according to the diſtinction mentioned, viz. That God for the ſake of thoſe Sacrifices cleanſed them from Ceremonial Defilements, and freed them from the Civil and Eccleſiaſtical Puniſhments, which by the Law of Moſes they would have been ſubject to, had no ſuch Sacrifice been offered for them. God alſo fully pardoned the ſins of the upright Jews, and freed them from the puniſhments of the other life, but not by virtue of the blood of Bulls and Goats, for the Reaſons there alledged, but by virtue of their Faith in the Meſſiah, owned by them to be Meſſiah their Righteouſneſs.

3*ly*, When he ſays, That the Jews in St. Paul's time had got quite another Notion of it, than the Law of Moſes, as it is ſet down in the Pentateuch had, and boaſted it to be the moſt complete and perfect Pattern of Sanctity imaginable, as appears by ſeveral places in Joſephus, and particularly in his Books againſt Appio.

Anſw. I anſwer, That neither is Joſephus in this matter of much credit; neither ſaith he more than Moſes had ſaid before him in theſe words, What Nation is there ſo great that hath Statutes and Judgments ſo righteous as all the Law which I ſet before you this day? Deut. 4. 8. and much leſs than David, when he ſaith, the Law of the Lord is perfect, Pſal. 19. 8. Beſides, our Saviour ſeems to give us a contrary account of this matter in his Sermon on the Mount, where, though it be diſputed whether he added to the Law it ſelf, yet no man queſtions but that he added to the groſs Senſes the Jews had then of it, and had put upon it.

4*ly*, When he adds, That the Rabbins uſed (as appears by the Verſion of the Septuagint, and the Citations of St. Paul in this place,) to interpret Deut. 27. 26. as if the meaning of Moſes was there, that God required of them the moſt perfect holineſs, which if they did not perform, they muſt expect to be curſed by him; but in reality, all that Moſes ſays, is only, that the People were to curſe him that did not confirm the words of the Law to do them.

Anſw. In all this there is ſcarce one word of truth; For 1. The Rabbins were ſo far from expounding this, or any other Text of Moſes in ſo high a ſenſe, that they thought it ſufficient to exempt them from God's curſe, that they were of the Seed of Abraham, and had him for their Father, Matth. 3. 8, 9. that they ſhould be accepted for the Merit of Circumciſion, and that 'twas enough to be hearers of the Law, though they were not doers of it, James 1. 22. and that the obſervation of ſome Precepts of the Law, would excuſe their neglect of the reſt. See Note on Rom. 2. 13. and James 2. 10, 11. and the Note there.

(2.) Whereas he ſaith, This appears by the Verſion of the Septuagint; if that way of arguing be of any force, then the contrary appears from the Targum of Onkelos, and B. Uziel, who have added nothing to the words. Moreover, What hath the Septuagint here added, which is not neceſſarily contained in the ſenſe of the words as they lie in the Hebrew? For (1.) whereas they add, πᾶς ἄνθρωπος, every man, do not all Interpreters add, he, and is not that the ſame in ſenſe? ought ought not every man, who committed the ſins againſt which any of theſe Curſes were denounced, to think himſelf ſubject to theſe Curſes? 2*ly*, Whereas they add ἐν πᾶσι to the Hebrew, doth noth the Context plainly lead them to that addition? when it ſaith, v. 3. and v. 8. Thou ſhalt write כל דברי all the words of this Law, were not the Jews, obliged to do all the words of the Law, i. e. all things commanded by the Law of Moſes? Deut. 19.9. Yea, are not the Bleſſings in the next Chapter, promiſed to them only who obſerve to do all the Commandments, v.1. and the Curſes denounced againſt them who do not obſerve to do all his Commandments, and Statutes? v.15. Doth not the Holy Ghoſt, aſſiſting the Sacred Pen-men, warrant this Addition in other places? See that thou make according to the Pattern, ſaith the Hebrew and the Septuagint, Exod. 25.43. See that thou make πάντα all things according to the Pattern, ſaith St. Paul, Heb. 8.5. At the mouth of two or three Witneſſes ſhall a word be eſtabliſhed, ſaith the Hebrew, תקום כל דבר, ſhall every word be eſtabliſhed, ſay the Septuagint and St. Paul. Nor (3*dly*,) hath St. Paul added any thing to the ſenſe of the words; for all the words of the Law being written by Moſes in the Book of the Law, it is plainly the ſame thing to ſay, All the words of the Law, and all the words written in the Book of the Law.

4*ly*, When he ſaith, Doubtleſs St. Paul would never have altered any thing in the words of Moſes, nor followed the Septuagint at all, but rendred the Hebrew himſelf exactly, if he had reaſoned from the bare Authority of the Prophet, and not from the Opinion of the Jews. I anſwer,

1*ſt*, That he caſts the vileſt imputation on St. Paul, by ſaying here, that he argues only upon the falſe Suppoſition of the Jews: For St. Paul lays down this general Propoſition, As many as are under the Law are under the Curſe; this is falſe, ſaith Mr. Cl. For in reality all that Moſes ſays is only, that the People were to curſe him that did not confirm the words of the Law to do them. It is ſo, ſaith St. Paul, γέγραπται, for it is written; By your good leave, St. Paul, you are out again, there is no ſuch thing; but you are guilty of adding to the Word of God; if you underſtand your ſelf, you do not, and if you underſtand the words of Moſes, you cannot in this Argument depend upon what is written, but only on the falſe and rotten Notion of the Jews touching theſe words: So le Clerc.

2*ly*, Through the ſides of St. Paul here he wounds our bleſſed Saviour, and all the Sacred Penmen; for if it be true of St. Paul, it muſt be alſo true of them; that if they had reaſoned from the bare Authority of the Prophets, and not from the Opinion of the Jews, (not grounded on the true ſenſe of the Prophets,) they would have rendred the Hebrew exactly, and never have altered any thing in the words of Moſes, nor followed the Septuagint at all; which ſeeing Ocular Demonſtration ſhews, that both our Lord, and his Apoſtles have often done, you muſt not think, ſaith Mr. Cl. that they have given us the true ſenſe of the Prophets, but only ſome corrupt Opinions which the Jews had of them. And let Mr. Cl. ſay as dogmatically as he pleaſes, that it is common with St. Paul to cite the old Teſtament, ſo as it was uſually alledged by the Doctors of the Jews, whom they call Darſchanim, that is to ſay, with little regard to the Circumſtances of the Place, or the proper ſignification of the words, and to argue from them ſo alledged, I cannot but look upon it as a very bad ſuggeſtion.

Ver. 24. Note, for the right Explication of theſe words from v. 21. to this Verſe,

1*ſt*, That it cannot be denied that good and holy Men under the Law were juſtified, and obtained the pardon of their ſins; ſince otherwiſe they could not be accepted by God here, or ſaved hereafter.

2*ly*, It alſo ſeemeth evident from the Diſcourſe of the Apoſtle in this, and the Epiſtle to the Romans, that they could not be juſtified by the Obſervance of the Law; for he lays down this as the foundation of his Diſcourſe, that by the works of the Law no man is juſtified, Rom. 3.20. and no fleſh ſhall be juſtified, Gal. 2. 16. The Proofs he offers to confirm this Poſition do equally concern all Times and Perſons, from the giving of the Law to the revealing of the Goſpel: As v. g. (1.) Becauſe by the Law is the knowledge of ſin condemning us to death, Rom. 3.20. & 7. 9,10,11,13. Gal. 3.22. (2.) Becauſe the juſt, ſaith the Prophet Habakkuk, ſhall live by his faith, Rom. 1.17. whereas the Law is not of faith; whence he infers, that no man is juſtified in the ſight of God by the works of the Law, Gal. 3. 11. (3.) Becauſe as many as are under the Law are under the Curſe, v.10. (4.) Becauſe it was impoſſible, through the weakneſs of the fleſh, that the Law ſhould juſtifie, Rom. 8.3. or that it ſhould give life, Gal. 3. 21. and ſo it never was deſigned for that end. It had indeed its Expiatory Sacrifices, but they procured only pardon of that Guilt which rendred them obnoxious to the violent Death threatned by the Law to ſuch and ſuch Offenders, but gave no remedy againſt Natural Death by the Promiſe of a Reſurrection to Eternal Life, and ſo exempted no Man from the Puniſhment of Adam's Sin: Or they only releaſed Offenders from the Obligation to Civil and Eccleſiaſtical Puniſhments, but could not free them from the Puniſhments of the other Life; for the Apoſtle aſſures us, that the blood of Bulls and Goats could not take away ſin, Heb 10 4. and that they did only ſanctifie to the puriſying of the fleſh, Heb. 7. 13. See the Note there.

Now (3.) hence it follows, That they alſo muſt be juſtified by faith, from all thoſe ſins by which they could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes, Acts 13.39.

Object. But are not the Jews ſtiled Righteous before God, by virtue of their Obedience to the Law of Moſes? as in theſe words of David, The Lord rewarded me according to my righteouſneſs, Pſal. 18. 20. for I have kept the ways of the Lord, and have not wickedly departed from my God, v. 21. For all his judgments were before me, and I did not put away his ſtatutes from me, v. 22. I was alſo upright before him, and kept my ſelf from mine iniquity, v.23. Therefore hath the Lord recompenſed me, according to my righteouſneſs, v. 24. Is it not ſaid of Zachariah and Elizabeth, that they were both righteous before God, walking in all the Commandments and Ordinances of the Lord blameleſs? Luke 1. 6. Yea, doth not our Apoſtle ſay, Not the hearers of the Law are δίκαιοι juſt before God, but the doers of the Law δικαιωθήσονται ſhall be juſtified? Rom.2.13.

Anſw. Now to this I anſwer, That there is a double Juſtification of which the Scripture ſpeaks: (1*ſt*,) That which conſiſts in the Abſolution of a Sinner from the Guilt of Sin, by God's free Pardon or Remiſſion of it, or his not imputing it to the Sinner. And thus no Man is, or can be juſtified by the Law, either Ceremonial, or Moral, ſince neither of them do contain any Promiſe of the Pardon of it. Now all Men being Sinners, this Juſtification muſt be neceſſary to all Men, to put and keep them in a ſtate of Favour with God. And this is that Juſtification which St. Paul aſcribes to Faith, and which, ſaith he, could never be obtained from the Works of the Law. But

2*ly*, There is a Juſtification to be undergone by all Men at the great Day of their Accounts, and this is only the Pronouncing them ſincere in the performance of their Covenants, Legal, or Evangelical, or in compliance with the Laws of Nature, Moſes, or of Grace, the Providence of God had placed them under; and in this ſenſe we find mention of Men working Righteouſneſs under the Law of Nature, Job 1. 1. Acts 10.35. under the Law of Moſes, Luke 1.6. Pſal.18.20=24. and under the Law of Grace, 1 John 3. 7. Rev.22.11. And thus all pious Perſons, who made it their ſincere endeavour to obey the Law of Moſes, were righteous before God; though ſtill the Imperfections which cleaved to their Obedience were pardoned through Faith. To explain this, note,

1*ſt*, That the whole Nation of the Jews believed in the promiſed Meſſias, or the Meſſiah that was to come, and that in the Seed of Abraham ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed; this being one of their fundamental Articles.

2*ly*, They believed that this Meſſiah ſhould confer upon them not only Temporal, but Spiritual, yea Eternal Bleſſings; they expected Spiritual Bleſſings from him, even Remiſſion of Sins. So Zacharias ſpeaks of the Baptiſt, that he ſhould go before the Lord to prepare his way, to give knowledge to his People of ſalvation through the remiſſion of ſins, Luke 1.76,77. To him, ſaith Peter, give all the Prophets witneſs, that through his Name all that believe in him ſhould receive remiſſion of ſins, Acts 10. 43. So the Jews ſay, that the (h) Meſſias was to remove הרע כולל the general ſin of mankind, or the ſin of the firſt man. 2*ly*, They expected by him Juſtification, he being ſtiled by the Prophet, The Lord our Righteouſneſs, and by the Jews משיח צדקנו Meſſiah our Juſtification. Now this, ſay the Ancient Fathers, might be a juſtifying Faith in them without explicitly believing that Chriſt ſhould die for their ſins; though we have no reaſon to think that they who were ſo plainly taught this by the Prophet Iſaiah, by the Type of Iſaac, the lifting up of the Serpent, and by their Sacrifices, ſhould be wholly ignorant of it.

Ver. 26. Υἱοὶ διὰ τ πίστως, the Sons of God through faith.] Hence, ſaith the Antipædobaptiſt, it appears that Infants cannot be made the Sons of God by Baptiſm, becauſe we are all made the Sons of God by faith in Chriſt Jeſus; Now Infants have no Faith. Anſ. They might as well argue thus, By grace you are ſaved through faith, Eph.2.7. but Infants have no faith, therefore they cannot be ſaved. Or thus, He that believeth not ſhall be damned, Mark 16.16. No Infants do believe, ergo all Infants ſhall be damned. The Apoſtle plainly ſpeaks here of Perſons converted from Heatheniſm to Chriſtianity, who were therefore baptized being adult Perſons, as he doth in the Goſpel of St. Mark, and the Epiſtle to the Epheſians. This place can therefore, with no more reaſon be applied to the caſe of Infants, than the places cited from St. Mark, and that Epiſtle.

Ver. 29. Κατ' ἐπαγγελίαν κληρόνομοι, Heirs according to the Promiſe.] It is to be obſerved for the Explication of many places in theſe Epiſtles, that there is frequent mention in the New Teſtament of the Promiſes in the Plural Number, To the Iſralites belong the Promiſes, Rom.9.4. Jeſus Chriſt was a Miniſter of the Circumciſion to confirm the Promiſes, Rom. 15.8. To Abraham and his Seed were the Promiſes made, Gal. 3. 16. & v. 21. Is the Law then againſt the Promiſes? Thoſe all died in faith, not having received the Promiſes, Heb. 11. 13, 17. & v. 39. They all having obtained a good report through faith, received not the Promiſes.

Now there is mention made in the New Teſtament of three ſorts of Promiſes:

1*ſt*, The Promiſe of a Seed in which all the Families of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed, viz. in Chriſt, Acts 3.25. & 12.23,33. & 26. 6. Rom. 4.13,14,20. & 9.9. Gal. 3.21,22. See the Note there.

2*ly*, The Promiſe of the Holy Spirit in his Extraordinary Gifts and Operations, Acts 2. 33,39. by which Believers were then ſealed up to the day of redemption, Eph. 1. 13. and this is called the Promiſe of the Father, Luke 24.49. Acts 1.4. And this Promiſe was not immediately made to Abraham, but was the conſequent of the Bleſſing which God had promiſed to his Seed; the Bleſſing of Abraham being firſt to come upon the Gentiles, that they might receive the promiſe of the Spirit, i. e. that being made the Sons of God through faith in Chriſt Jeſus, the Seed promiſed, God might ſend the Spirit of his Son into their hearts, crying, Abba, Father, Chap. 4. 6.

3*ly*, The Promiſe of a Future Reſt, and an Eternal Inheritance; there being a Promiſe made of entring into reſt, Heb. 4. 3, 9. (See the Note there) peculiar to Believers, and to the People of God, after the Reſt which God had given them in Canaan, and a Promiſe of an Eternal Inheritance, Heb. 9. 15. & 10. 36. For that the Patriarchs did by Faith expect a City having foundations whoſe builder and maker was God, and an heavenly Country, we learn from Hebr. 11.9, 14,15. yea, they expected to obtain a better Reſurrection, v. 35. viz. by virtue of their Meſſiah, this being their common ſaying, (i) The Meſſiah ſhall raiſe up thoſe that ſleep in the duſt; and one of their fundamental Articles is this, That the Meſſiah will come ויחיי אמותא and will raiſe the dead, and bring them into Paradiſe. This Faith generally obtained among them before our Saviour's Advent, as we learn, not only from the Book of the Maccabees, but from St. Paul's plain words, Acts 24. 15. & 26.7,8. If you enquire where any ſuch Promiſe was made to Abraham or others? I anſwer, That ſuch a Promiſe was made to him and to the Patriarchs, we are aſſured from this, that they by Faith expected ſuch things, all Faith being built upon a Promiſe; this Promiſe therefore might be made to Abraham, Gen. 17. 7. where God ſaith, I will eſtabliſh my Covenant betwixt thee and thy Seed after thee in their generations, for an everlaſting Covenant, to be thy God, and the God of thy Seed after thee; for that to be the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, is to be the God that will raiſe them up from the dead, we learn from our Saviour's Argument, Matth. 22.32. See the Note there. And that he therefore was called their God, becauſe he had prepared for them a City, from Heb. 11:15. And in reference to this future Recompence it is that the Apoſtle ſaith, Theſe all died in faith, not having receiv'd the Promiſe, God having provided ſome better thing for us, that they without us ſhould not be made perfect, Heb. 11.39,40. See the Note there. Now this ſeems to be the promiſe mentioned here, of which Chriſtians are ſaid to be the Heirs, they being heirs of God, joint-heirs with Chriſt, Rom. 8.15. Gal. 4.7.

CHAPTER IV.

Verſe 1. NOW I ſay, [to ſhew how you, who are Heirs of the Promiſes, ſhould be kept in bondage under a Schoolmaſter, Chap. 3.23,25.] that the Heir, as long as he is a Child, differeth nothing [as to the poſſeſſion, and free uſe of his Eſtate,] from a Servant, though he be [by right of Inheritance] Lord of all [his Father left:]

2. But is under Tutors and Governors until the time appointed by the Father [in his laſt Will and Teſtament.]

3. Even ſo we [the Seed of Abraham,] when we were Children, [as till Faith came we were,] were in bondage under the a Elements of the World.

4. But when the fulneſs of the time [appointed for the appearance of the Meſſiah for the benefit of Jew and Gentile, that they might be made Sons by him,] was come, God ſent forth his Son made of a Woman, made under [ſubjection to] the Law.

5. To redeem them that were under the Law [from the bondage of it,] that we [together with them,] might receive the Adoption of Sons.

6. And becauſe ye are [now made] Sons [of God by faith, Chap. 3.25.] God hath ſent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts crying, Abba, Father, [i.e. witneſſing to your ſpirits that ye are the Sons of God, and that he is your Father, Rom. 8.15,16. and enabling you to uſe the language, not of Servants, but of Sons.

7. Wherefore thou art [after this redemption wrought,] no more a Servant [b] but a Son, and if a Son, then an Heir of God through Chriſt.

8. [I ſay thou art no more a Servant,] Howbeit, then when ye knew not God, [c] ye did ſervice [d] to them which by nature are no Gods:

9. But now after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, [being made his Sons by Adoption,] how [after this freedom purchaſed by Chriſt,] turn ye [e] again to the weak and beggerly Elements [of the Law,] whereunto you deſire again to be in bondage?

10. [For] ye obſerve [the Jewiſh Sabbath] [f] days and months, [the new Moons,] and times [of their ſolemn Feſtivals] and [Sabbatical] years.

11. [g] I am afraid of you, leſt I have beſtowed on you labour in vain, [in preaching the Goſpel to you.]

12. Brethren, I beſeech you, be as I am, for [h] I am as you are, ye have not injured me at all.

13. Ye know how [that] through infirmity of the fleſh I preached the Goſpel to you at the firſt.

14. And [notwithſtanding] [i] my temptation which was in my fleſh, ye deſpiſed [me] not, nor rejected [me,] but received me [rather] as an Angel of God, even as Chriſt Jeſus, [thinking your ſelves very happy in having ſuch an Apoſtle.]

15. Where is then the bleſſedneſs ye ſpake of? [in having me for your Apoſtle, who taught you no ſuch thing as this, that you were to be juſtified by the obſervance of the Law;] for I bear you record [you had once ſuch a great affection to me,] that, if it had been poſſible, you would have pluckt out your own eyes, and have given them to me.

16. [And after this] am I therefore become your Enemy, [or look'd upon as ſuch,] becauſe I tell you the truth?

17. They [who ſeduce you, do indeed] zealouſly affect you, but not well, [and in a due manner,] yea, they would exclude us [from your affection,] that you might affect them [only.]

18. But it is good [for you] to be zealouſly affected always in a good thing, [as your affection to me, and to the truth I preached, is,] and not only when I am preſent with you.

19. My little Children, of whom I travail in birth again, [to renew you in the faith from whence ye are fallen,] till Chriſt be [fully] formed in you, [as the Child is in the Womb.]

20. I deſire to be preſent with you now, and to [k] change my voice, for I ſtand in doubt of you.

21. Tell me ye that deſire to be under the [l] Law, do ye not hear [what is contained in the Pentateuch, the Book of] the Law?

22. For it is [there] written, That Abraham had two Sons, the one [to wit, Iſmael] by [Hagar] a Bondmaid, the other [to wit Iſaac, by [Sarah] a Free woman, [a Lady or Princeſs,] as her name imports, ſaith Philo.]

23. But he that was of the Bond-woman [m] was born after the fleſh, [and ſo was not to be accounted for the Seed,] but [whereas] he of the Free-woman was by promiſe, [and ſo was only to be accounted for the promiſed Seed, Rom. 9. 8.]

24. Which things are an Allegory, [expreſſing one thing, and by that hinting another to us,] for theſe [two, Hagar and Sarah] are [intended typically to repreſent to us] the two Covenants, the one [viz. that of the Law given] from Mount Sinai, [is that Covenant] which gendereth to bondage, [i.e. ſubjects its Children to bondage, and is the Covenant] which is [typified by] Hagar [the Bond-woman.]

25. [n] For this Hagar, [whoſe name ſignifies a Rock,] is [in the Allegory] Mount Sinai in Arabia, [whence the Law was given,] and [ſo ſhe] anſwereth to [that] Jeruſalem which now is, [they living long in that Wilderneſs, and receiving the Law from Mount Sinai in Arabia,] and is in bondage with her Children [to the Law given there.]

26. [Thus it was, and is with the Terreſtrial Jeruſalem,] but [the] [o] Jeruſalem which is [from] above, [and is ſignified by Sarah, the Type of the Second Covenant] is free, [is the Free-woman, and ſo her Children cannot be in bondage to the Law, as the Jews were, and it is this Jeruſalem] which is the Mother of us all.

27. For [of this Jeruſalem, Iſa. 54. 1.] it is written, Rejoice thou barren which bear-eſt not, break forth, and cry, thou that travaileſt not, [and ſo in this art like to Sarah,] for [now] the deſolate hath many more Children than ſhe that hath an Husband, [the Gentile, than the Jewiſh Church.]

28. Now [to apply theſe things to us,] we Brethren, as Iſaac was, are the Children of the Promiſe, [as being born, not of the fleſh, but of the ſpirit by virtue of the Promiſe, in thy Seed ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed.]

29. But as then he that was born after the fleſh, [i.e. Iſmael,] [p] perſecuted him that was born after the Spirit, [i.e. Iſaac, the Seed produced by the Spirit of God, and the Repreſentative of us who are born of the ſpirit, John 3. 3,5.] even ſo it is now, [the Jews, the Seed of Abraham according to the fleſh, every where perſecuting us Chriſtians, 1 Theſſ. 2. 14, 15, 16.]

30. Nevertheleſs, what ſaith the Scripture? [i.e. What is contained in the Scripture, even even theſe words approved by God, Gen. 21. 12.] caſt out the Bond-woman and her Son; for q the Son of the Bond-woman q ſhall not be Heir with the Son of the Free woman.

31. So then Brethren, we [being Children of the Promiſe, v. 28.] are not Children of the Bond-woman, [and ſo in ſubjection to the Law,] but of the Free [woman, and therefore at liberty from the obligation, or bondage of it.] a Verſe 3. Στοιχεῖα τῦ κόσμυ, the Elements of the World.] i. e. The Jewiſh Rites ſo called; becauſe, as was obſerved Chap. 3. 19. they were for matter moſtly the ſame which had before obtained in the World, only they were directed to a better object, and a better end.

b Ver. 7. Ἀλλ' υἱὸς, but a Son.] That the Notion of Adoption includes a ſtate of Immortality, and that the Sons of God were to be Sons of the Reſurrection, I have ſhewed upon the parallel place, Rom. 8. 16——23. And that the Jews were not ignorant of this import of the Phraſe, we learn from the Author of the Book of Wiſdom, Chap. 2. 12. who introduceth the wicked Atheiſts ſpeaking thus, Let us lay in wait for the righteous, for he calleth himſelf a Child of God. He maketh his boaſt that God is his Father. Let us ſee if his words be true —— for if the juſt man be the Son of God, he will help him—— Let us condemn him to a ſhameful Death, for by his own ſaying he ſhall be reſpected. Thus, ſaith he, were they deceived, neither hoped they for the wages of Righteouſneſs, nor diſcerned a Reward for blameleſs Souls. For God created man to be immortal, and made him an Image of his own Eternity.——The Souls of the Righteous are in the hands of God, and their hope is full of immortality. Having been a little chaſtiſed, they ſhall be greatly rewarded, for God tried them, and found them worthy of himſelf. And Chap. 5. he introduceth the ſame wicked perſons, ſaying, We fools counted his life madneſs, and his end to be without honour; how is he numbred among the Children of God, and his lot is among the Saints? Where

1. The Righteous are repreſented as the Sons and Children of God; And it is farther ſaid

2. That as ſuch they are to be rewarded in their Souls, which are to be received into the hands of God, and to be at reſt; and in their Bodies, which are to be immortal.

3. That, at the Day of Recompence, they ſhall ſtand in great boldneſs, and ſhall, as being the Sons of God, have their Lot and Portion with the Saints, ἐν ἁγίοις ὁ κλῆρος αὐτῦ, that is, he ſhall be ὁ κληρονόμος, an Heir with the Saints.

Ver. 8. Ἐδουλεύσατε, ye did Service.] Hence c we learn how frivolous is the diſtinction of the Papiſts, that Latria is indeed Service proper to God, but Dulia is ſuch Worſhip, as may be paid to Saints and Angels; for ſeeing Saints and Angels are by Nature no Gods, the giving Dulia to them muſt be the thing condemned here in the Heathens, that being only this, that they did δουλεύειν, give Dulia to them which by Nature were no Gods.

Ibid. Τοῖς μὴ φύσει οὖσι Θεοῖς, to them which d are not Gods by nature.] Hence we learn the Conſequence of the Socinian Hypotheſis, That Jeſus Chriſt is not by Nature God, and yet is to be honoured with the ſame Worſhip which all Chriſtians give to him who is by Nature God, ſeeing it teacheth us to do what St. Paul here condemneth in the very Heathens: And ſurely it muſt be abſurd to make that an Article of Chriſtian Faith, and a part of Chriſtian Worſhip, which the Apoſtle here makes a great Crime of the Heathen World, and a certain Evidence of their Ignorance of the true God. That the Socinians cannot anſwer this Objection, appears from what they here return to it, viz. That (a) Gods by Nature, is not here oppoſed to Gods by Grace, or to thoſe who have received their Divinity from the one true God; for to ſerve and worſhip ſuch a God, by reaſon of the Empire which he hath received from God, is not prophane and wicked, but pious and neceſſary. Now in anſwer to this, I ſay, 1ſt, That it is very evident from the Text, that thoſe who are not God's by Nature, are oppoſed to him who is God by Nature, viz. to him whom the Heathens knew not, and to him whom the Galatians, being Chriſtians, knew, and by whom they were known. Since then the Socinian's God by Grace is not a God by Nature; ſince he is not the God intended in theſe words, ye know not God; he muſt be ranked among thoſe which are here oppoſed to him.

2ly, I have elſewhere ſhewn that the Heathens had the very ſame Sentiments with

(a) Naturâ Dii non opponuntur Diis ex Gratiâ, qui Divinitatem habent ab illo uno Deo acceptam, Tali enim Deo, pro ratione imperii quod à Deo accepit, ſervire, eumque colere, non eſt profanum & impium, ſed pium, & neceſſarium. Crellius in locum.

Indeed, there is ſcarce any Plea they uſe for the Worſhip of Jeſus Chriſt, as a made God, which was not before uſed by the (b) Philoſophers for the Worſhip of their inferiour Deities.

2*ly*, Hence alſo it appears to be a miſtake to ſay that the Galatians, to whom the Apoſtle here writes, before they received the Goſpel, were, as to the greateſt part of them, Proſelytes of the Gate, or alſo of Righteouſneſs: ſeeing 'tis plain that they were Heathens, not knowing the true God, but ſerving them which by nature were no Gods, Chap. 4. 8,9. and by the Goſpel were to be delivered ἐκ τῦ ἐνεςῶτ⊙ αἰῶν⊙ πονηρῦ, from the preſent evil Age, Chap. 1. 4. from which they who were made Proſelytes of the Gate, and worſhipped the true God, were in a great meaſure delivered. (2*ly*,) The great endeavour of the Judaizers that crept in among them, was to perſwade them to be circumciſed, Gal. 5. 2. & 6. 12. whereas all the Proſelytes of Righteouſneſs, all the Gentiles which had before been ſubject to the Jewiſh Rites, muſt be circumciſed when they were admitted to be Proſelytes of Righteouſneſs, they being made ſuch by Circumciſion, and a Promiſe of Obedience to the Law of Moſes.

Object. It is the Jewiſh Law which is ſtiled the Elements of the World to which they were in bondage, Chap. 4. 3.

Anſw. The Jewiſh Law is indeed ſo called, but it was for this reaſon, that it was made up of Ceremonies, which for the Matter were the ſame with thoſe which had been uſed by other Nations of the World, the Object of them only being changed. See the Note on Chap. 3. 19. and they are no where called Elements of Piety, as Mr. Clerc ſuppoſes.

c Ver. 9. Πάλιν ἐπὶ τὰ ἀσθενῆ ϗ πτωχὰ στοιχεῖα, again to weak and beggerly Elements.] Here Interpreters find great difficulty to ſhew, how the Galatians, who were never under the Law, can be ſaid to be again, and anew, in bondage to theſe Elements. But the Obſervation made on Chap. 3. 19. that the Rites of the Jews and Heathens were for the matter moſtly the ſame; removes that difficulty, and ſhews that they are ſaid to return to theſe Elements, not becauſe they before obſerved the Jewiſh Ceremonies, but becauſe the Ceremonies of the Law, being for the matter moſtly the ſame with thoſe the Gentiles uſed to their Heathen Deities, by returning to them, they returned to thoſe Elements. Theſe Rites are alſo weak and beggerly Elements in compariſon of the Riches of the Holy Goſpel, and the Power of the Holy Ghoſt; they are weak, as having no power to cleanſe the Soul; and beggerly, as not being able to confer upon us the Spiritual Riches of the Goſpel, Pardon of Sins, Adoption, the Gifts and Graces of the Spirit, Eternal Redemption.

Ver. 10. Ἡμέρας ϗ μῆνας, days and months.] f That this Verſe is to be interpreted of the Jewiſh Solemn Times, and the Feſtivals obſerved by them, as far as they could be obſerved out of Judæa, the whole driſt of this Epiſtle ſhews, which is to bring off the Galatians from thinking they were obliged to obſerve the Rites and Ceremonies of the Law. For that the Jews did ἑορτάζειν keep their Feaſts in Egypt and Alexandria, and wherever they were ſetled among the Heathens, we learn from (c) Philo, in his Oration againſt Flaccus. That they were very numerous in Aſia minor, of which Galatia was a part, ſee the Note on James 1. 1. That in thoſe places where they dwelt they had converted a great many to the Jewiſh Worſhip, and made them as it were a part of themſelves, Joſephus teſtifies; See Note on 1 Pet. 1. 1. and if it were ſo at Galatia, this might make them ſo ready to relapſe to their old Jewiſh Rites.

Ver. 11. Φοβοῦμαι ὑμᾶς, I am afraid of you.] g As well he might, for by this practice they muſt revolt again from Chriſt to the Jewiſh Synagogues, for it belonged only to their great (d) Sanhedrim to ſtate the certain times of their New Moons, and other Feſtivals; ſo

h Ver. 12. Ὅτι κἀγὼ ὡς ὑμεῖς, I am as you are.] That is, ſay the Fathers, I was once zealous for the Law as you are; but now I live as do the Gentiles, and not as do the Jews; do you who are not Jews but Gentiles, live in like manner, as Men exempted from the Law: But this Expoſition ſeems not to cohere with theſe words, Ye have not injured me at all. They may therefore be thus interpreted; Brethren, be ſtill as affectionate to me as I am to you, and count me not your enemy, becauſe I tell you the truth; for I am ſtill as affectionate to you, as ever you were to me, v. 14. I do not look upon you as Perſons who have done any thing with an intent to injure me; And though your falſe Teachers have done you this Injury by their pernicious Doctrines, yet have they not prevailed on you to ſpeak evil of me, or act injuriouſly towards me.

i Ver. 14. Τὸν πειρασμόν μου ὃ ἐν τῇ σαρκί, my temptation which was in the fleſh.] It is the Opinion of the Greek Commentators, and of the Reverend Dr. Hammond, that the ἀσθένεια ἡ σαρκὸς, the infirmity of the fleſh, v. 13. and the temptation in the fleſh, here, only ſignifie the Perſecutions the Apoſtle ſuffered for preaching the Goſpel; But that this cannot be the full import of the words, is evident from theſe Conſiderations, (1.) That the Perſecutions which he ſuffered for the Cauſe of Chriſt could miniſter no reaſon to the Galatians ἐξουθενῆσαι καὶ ἐκπτύσαι, to contemn, vilifie, deſpiſe him as nothing, and even to ſpit upon him who preached the Goſpel with ſuch great demonſtration of the Spirit, and ſuch power of Miracles under all his Perſecutions. Moreover, the Apoſtle in the Epiſtles to the Corinthians repreſents theſe Sufferings as a Vindication of the Truth of his Apoſtleſhip; yea, as an Argument of the Life and Power of that Jeſus who did ſuch mighty things by his Apoſtles under all their Sufferings, and as that which ſhould create the greater Reſpect to him; and gives them a large Catalogue of them, confirming it with an Oath, 2 Cor. 11.31. which ſhews, that though he ſometimes feared the greatneſs of his Tribulations might make them faint, or ſhake them who were taught that they muſt alſo be Partakers of the like Sufferings, yet did he not conceive himſelf more contemptible, or vile in his own Perſon for his Perſecutions: And therefore as he mentions this to the Theſſalonians as a proof of his ſincerity, that having before ſuffered, and been ſhamefully entreated at Philippi, he was ſtill bold to preach the Goſpel to them, 1 Theſſ. 2. 2. As he mentions his Sufferings to the Epheſians, as their glory, Chap. 3. 13. ſo here he declares to his Galatians, that he ſtill ſuffered Perſecution; and he concludes his Epiſtle thus, From henceforth let no man trouble me, for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jeſus, Gal. 5. 11. inſinuating that theſe Sufferings were ſo far from giving any perſon a juſt reaſon to deſpiſe him, that they were rather an inducement to a more honourable treatment of him.

2*ly*, Though ἀσθένεια and πειρασμὸς, infirmity and temptation, abſolutely put, do ſometimes ſignifie Afflictions or Perſecutions; yet do we never elſewhere read that ἀσθένεια σαρκὸς, πειρασμὸς ἐν σαρκὶ, σκόλοψ ἐν σαρκὶ, an infirmity, temptation, or thorn in the fleſh, is uſed in that ſenſe. Nor was it only the Sufferings he endured in his Body, but the very Preſence of his Body, which was weak; See Note on 2 Cor. 12. 7, 8, 9. having therefore in that place proved, that beſides his Perſecutions, he had a Weakneſs, and Imperfection in his Body, which rendred both his Perſon, and his Speech contemptible, I think it reaſonable to refer theſe words to it.

Ver. 20. Ἀλλάξαι δὲ φωνῶ.] To temper my Voice to you as your Affairs require, lamenting the fall of ſome, and ſtriving to recover them, and commending the ſtedfaſtneſs of others in the Faith. k

Ver. 21. Τὸν νόμον οὐκ ἀκούετε, Do not you hear the Law?] i. e. Do not you, Chriſtians, to whom the Law and the Prophets are read every Lord's day, and which you have the liberty to read at all times, hear what the Law ſpeaks? Here, ſaith Mr. Cl. it is to be noted, that St. Paul argues from ſome received Midraſch vulgarly known; for if that Allegory whereof he here ſpeaks, had not been before heard of, he would have had no reaſon to wonder that the Galatians had never collected any ſuch thing from the ſtory which he refers to. l

Anſw. 1. To this I anſwer; That no ſuch Interpretation of this Paſſage was vulgarly known among the Jews, is apparent from the Silence of all the Jewiſh Paraphraſts upon the place, and of all thoſe Interpreters who have converſed moſt in the Writings of the Jewiſh Rabbins, and yet produce not the leaſt hint of any ſuch thing, nor can Mr. Clerc do it. It is true indeed that the Jews had this Canon, that Proles ſequitur Matrem, and ſo allowed that the Off-ſpring of a Bond-woman muſt be born in Bondage, the Off-ſpring of a Free-woman muſt be free, but it is not true that they ever deemed Hagar the Repreſentative of thoſe under the firſt, or Legal Covenant, and Sarah only of thoſe who were under the new, and Goſpel Covenant.

2*ly*, This ſuppoſed Midraſch is contrary to their known and avowed Principle, That their Law was to be Eternal, and ſo that there was no New Covenant to ſucceed for the aboliſhing of it, as is plain from the Apoſtle's diſpute diſpute againſt them, both here, and in the Epiſtle to the Romans, and in that to the Hebrews. Moreover, doth not Mr. Clerc tell us in his Annotations on the former Chapter, that the Law, and a perfect Pattern of Holineſs, was the ſame in the Opinion of the Jews? and muſt this perfect Pattern of Holineſs here, in the Opinion of the ſame Jews, be only a Covenant gendring to Bondage, and repreſented by Hagar a Bond-woman?

3*ly*, The Apoſtle doth not wonder that the Galatians had collected no ſuch Allegory from the ſtory referred to, but only asks if they had not heard the words he doth thus allegorically expound to them. He proceeds thus:

Object. Farther, Seeing this Interpretation could not be urged againſt thoſe who might deny that the Scripture ought to be ſo underſtood, and the Apoſtle doth not make uſe of his Authority to confirm it, it is evident, that he argues here from what was generally allowed, which kind of things it is not material ſhould be true, or well grounded, as long as they contain nothing prejudicial to true Piety, and are believed by thoſe againſt whom we diſpute. So that from St. Paul's uſing ſuch an Allegory againſt the Judaizing Galatians, it does not follow that we in this Age are bound to admit it as a Secret revealed from Heaven to the Apoſtle.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, (1.) That it is too confidently ſaid that the Apoſtle doth not make uſe of his Authority to confirm this Interpretation, for is it not, Paul an Apoſtle, not of Man, but of Jeſus Chriſt, and of God the Father, Chap. 1. 1. who writes thus to the Galatians? and had not the Apoſtles from the Holy Ghoſt the Word of Wiſdom, and of knowledge to direct them in underſtanding the Myſteries of the Old Teſtament? Does he not declare they ſpake the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery? 1 Cor. 2. 7. that Wiſdom which God had revealed to them by his Spirit, v. 10. that they had received the Spirit which is of God, that they might know the things which are freely given us of God, which things they alſo ſpake not in the words which Man's wiſdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghoſt teacheth, comparing ſpiritual things with ſpiritual; See the Note on v. 12, 13. there. And is not this a ſufficient Confirmation of all which they declared they writ as the Apoſtles of Jeſus Chriſt?

2*ly*, I add, That it cannot reaſonably be ſaid he argues here from what was generally allowed, not only becauſe I have proved, that nothing of this nature either was, or could be allowed by the Jews, but alſo becauſe no one Inſtance can be produced where the Apoſtle uſeth any ſuch Argument ad hominem, or from their own miſtaken Principles, but where it is evident from his own words and declarations that he doth ſo. Had the Apoſtle ſaid, as he is forced in his Paraphraſe to make him ſpeak, Theſe things uſe to be allegorically explained by the Jews, and may be interpreted ſo as to ſignifie what I a little before ſaid; or as he begins his Chriſtian Allegoriſt, We take you at your word, O Jews: there might have been ſome probability in this phanſie, but the Apoſtle having not given us the leaſt hint of any thing of this Nature, it muſt paſs for mere Romance. And the other things he adds, can be no better than a Reflection on the Authority, and Writings of the Apoſtles; for do you not hear the Law? ſaith the Apoſtle: No, ſaith Mr. Cl. that they do not, yea, they cannot in this caſe, it being not at all neceſſary that the words of Scripture ſhould have any ſuch allegorical Interpretation, as that which is ſuppoſed (here) to belong to them. Do you not hear the Law, For it is written? ſaith the Apoſtle: What then ſaith Mr. Cl. you groſly impoſe upon us in theſe words, connecting them to the former by a γὰρ for, and ſaying gravely, It is written, when indeed you argue not from what is written, but from ſome Whimſeys of the Jews, perhaps neither true, nor well grounded. Theſe things are an Allegory, ſaith the Apoſtle; ſo you ſay, St Paul, quoth this Critick; but if we throughly conſider it, we ſhall find that moſt that hath been ſaid by learned Men againſt this way of interpreting Scripture in the general, may be objected againſt this particular Allegory. Theſe are the two Teſtaments, ſaith St. Paul; You are very dogmatical St. Paul, ſaith Mr. Cl. but we of this Age are not bound to admit this as a Secret revealed from Heaven to you; and by your good leave, this Interpretation cannot be urged againſt thoſe who deny that the Scripture ought to be ſo underſtood.

To conclude, What ſhall we ſay to the unbelieving Jew objecting thus from this Interpretation? 'Finding that your Apoſtle 'hath produced againſt us a weak Argu-'ment, falſe and ill-grounded, you pretend 'to help him out by ſaying, 'tis a Jewiſh 'Midraſh vulgarly known: This we muſt 'take for an officious lie, till you can ſhew 'that either we, or our Fathers, or Philo 'the Allegoriſt, who ſpeaks of Hagar and 'Sarah in a quite different way of Allegory, 'had any ſuch Sentiments. And if your A-'poſtle hath impoſed upon you here with 'ſuch ill-grounded Arguments and Interpre-'tations, without giving you the leaſt hint 'that he was arguing only from our Con-'ceſſions, how know you that he hath not 'often done the like in all his other Wri-'tings?

n Ver. 25. Τὸ γὰρ Ἄγαρ Σινᾶ ὄρος ἐστὶν, for this Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia.] i. e. She repreſents it (1.) in her Name; for הגר in the Arabian Language ſignifies a Rock, as Mount Sinai is called. (2.) And (3.) by her Station, for there dwelt the Poſterity of Iſmael, called from her name Hagarens, as the Oriental Writers witneſs; See *Bochart. Georg. Sacr. l.*4.*c.*11.*p.*255.*cap.*27.*p.*312. and Grotius here.

o Ver. 26. Ἡ ἄνω Ἰερουσαλὴμ, the Jeruſalem which is above.] As the ſtate of the Church under the Goſpel is ſtiled by the Evangeliſts, the Kingdom of Heaven, ſo here the Jeruſalem which is from above, the Goſpel State, or New Kingdom being erected by the Holy Ghoſt ſent down from Heaven, and leading us to it, is ſtiled the heavenly Jeruſalem. Note alſo that the (e) Jews tell us, that the inferiour Jeruſalem is a type of that which is above.

Ver. 27. Note that the Jews themſelves interpret theſe words, cited from *Iſa.*54.1. of the times of the *Meſſiah. Midraſh ſhir Haſhirim ad Cant.*1.5.

Ver. 29. Ἐδίωκε, perſecuted.] St. Jerom here ſaith Iſmael ſtruck Iſaac, but the Text, *Gen.*21.9. ſaith only, that he mocked him. This Deriſion therefore muſt be reputed as a perſecuting him with the Tongue. p

CHAPTER V.

Verſe 1. STand faſt therefore in the liberty wherewith Chriſt hath made us [Chriſtians] free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage [to the Law, Acts 15.10.]

2. Behold, I Paul ſay unto you [Galatians,] that if ye be circumciſed [in order to your juſtification,] Chriſt ſhall profit you nothing, [*Chap.*2. 1,3,4.]

a 3. For a I teſtifie again to every man that is circumciſed, that he is a debtor [by virtue of that Circumciſion,] to do the whole Law.

4. Chriſt is become of none effect to you, whoſoever of you are [ſeeking to be] juſtified by the Law, [and not by faith in him only,] ye are fallen from [juſtification by] Grace.

5. For we [Chriſtians] through the Spirit b [which we have received,] wait for b the hope of righteouſneſs by faith.

6. [We expect it, I ſay, by that Faith which miniſters this Spirit, and not by Circumciſion;] For in [the Oeconomy of] Chriſt Jeſus, neither circumciſion availeth any thing, nor uncircumciſion, [as to our acceptance with God, c and our reward from him,] but c faith which worketh by love.

7. Ye did run well, [in the beginning of your Chriſtian race,] who did hinder you that ye ſhould not [continue to] obey the truth?

8. This perſwaſion [of the neceſſity of your being circumciſed, and obeying the Law of Moſes,] cometh not of him, [i. e. that God] that calleth [Gr. called] you [to the faith of Chriſt.]

9. [Nor ought this Circumciſion to ſeem a little thing to you, nor are theſe Judaizers to be diſregarded, becauſe they are few, for they are like to leaven; now ye know] a little leaven leaveneth, [and ſo corrupteth] the whole lump; [See the Note on 1 Cor. 5. 6.]

10. [But] I have confidence in you through the Lord, that [after conſideration of what I have written,] you will be no otherwiſe minded [than I exhort you to be,] but he that troubleth you ſhall bear his judgment, [τὸ κρῖμα, the condemnation due to him on that account] whoſoever he be.

11. And [whereas ſome of theſe Judaizers have ſuggeſted that] I [elſewhere preach up that Circumciſion I oppoſe in you,] Brethren, [you may learn the falſhood of that ſuggeſtion from my Sufferings, for] d if I yet preach d Circumciſion, why do I yet ſuffer Perſecution [from the Jews, ſince] then is the offence [they take at preaching] of the Croſs ceaſed?

e 12. e I would they were even cut off [from the Communion of the Church] that [do thus] trouble [and unſettle] you.

13. For, Brethren, ye have been called [by Chriſtianity] to liberty [from the Jewiſh yoke,] only [be careful that ye] uſe not [your] f liberty f for an occaſion to the fleſh, but by love ſerve one another.

14. For all the [Moral] Law [reſpecting our Neighbour] is fulfilled in one word, even in this, Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf.

g 15. But g if you [in contradiction to this Law,] bite [calumniate] and devour one another, [as the falſe Teachers did thoſe they ſeduced, 2 Cor 11.12] take heed that ye be not [in the iſſue] conſumed one of another.

h 16. h This I ſay then [to prevent theſe Miſcarriages,] walk in the Spirit, [i. e. according to the Motions of the Holy Spirit, Rom. 8.1,2,9,12,13,14.] and ye ſhall not fulfil the luſts of the fleſh, [i. e. theſe Carnal Motions, v. 13. and theſe uncharitable Contentions, v. 15.]

17. For the fleſh [indeed] luſteth againſt the ſpirit, [and ſo incites you to theſe things,] and [but] the ſpirit [luſteth] againſt the fleſh, and theſe [two Principles] are contrary one to the other; ſo that ye [who are led by the ſpirit,] cannot do the things ye would [according to the fleſh, nor ye who are led by the fleſh, the things that you would according to the ſpirit.]

18. But if ye are led by the [conduct of the holy] Spirit, ye are not under the Law, [and ſo ſin ſhall not have dominion over you, Rom. 6. 14.]

19. i Now the works of the Fleſh are ma- i

20. Idolatry, Witchcraft, Hatred, Variance, Emulation, Wrath, Strife, Sedition, Hereſie,

21. Envyings, Murthers, Drunkenneſs, Revellings, and ſuch like; of the which I tell you before, as I have alſo told you in times paſt, that they who do ſuch things, ſhall not inherit the Kingdom of God.

22. But the fruit of the Spirit is Love, Joy, Peace, Long ſuffering, Gentleneſs, Goodneſs, Faith.

23. Meekneſs, Temperance; againſt ſuch k there is no Law, [that can condemn, or ren- k

24. And they that are Chriſt's have crucified the Fleſh, with the Affections and Luſts [of it.]

25. If [then] we [pretend to] live in [and by] the Spirit, let us alſo walk in the Spirit, [according to the Motions, not of the Fleſh, but of the Spirit.]

26. Let us not be deſirous of vainglory, [Gr. vain-glorious,] l provoking one l another, envying one another.

a Verſe 3. Μαρτύρομαι πάλιν, I teſtifie again.] These words muſt not be thought to import that he had teſtified this before in this Epiſtle, and now did it again, there being nothing ſaid before of this matter, but thus, I Paul ſay to you, that if ye be circumciſed Chriſt ſhall profit you nothing; And again, I teſtifie that you are debtors, by admitting this Circumciſion, to yield obedience to the whole Law of Moſes: For as by Baptiſm we Chriſtians do oblige our ſelves to obſerve all the Inſtitutions of the Chriſtian Faith, ſo did the Jews by Circumciſion oblige themſelves to yield Obedience to the whole Law of Moſes. This the Apoſtle elſewhere intimates, by ſaying to the Jew, Circumciſion verily profiteth if thou keep the Law, Rom. 2.25. to which thou art obliged by it; and by objecting to them, who were ſo zealous for the Circumciſion of others, that they acted inſincerely in that Zeal, becauſe they themſelves did not keep the Law, Gal. 6.13. When any one became a Proſelyte of Juſtice, or turned from Heatheniſm to Judaiſm, they firſt inſtructed him in the Law of Moſes, and when he declared himſelf reſolved to obey it, then they circumciſed him, and ſo admitted him into the Congregation, and he became as one of them. For Circumciſion being the Sign by which they entred into Covenant with God when the Moſaical Law became the Covenant betwixt God, and the Seed of Abraham, that Circumciſion by which they entred into Covenant with him, muſt lay an Obligation on them to obſerve the Law of Moſes. And hence the Judaizing Chriſtians, who held that the Law of Moſes was an Everlaſting Covenant, thought that the believing Gentiles were to be dealt with as their Proſelytes, that is, unleſs they were circumciſed, and obſerved the Law, they could not be ſaved, Acts 15.1.

But ſtill it remains a great Enquiry, Whether the words contained in the ſecond, third, and fourth Verſes are to be taken generally, ſo as to exclude all believing Jews from any Benefit by Chriſt, or by the Covenant of Grace, who ſought for Juſtification by the Works of the Law? or whether they are to be reſtrained only to the believing Gentiles?

Now

Now in anſwer to this Queſtion, let it be noted,

1. That it is not the being Circumciſed which is here ſaid to exclude from Grace and Salvation, but the being circumciſed to obtain Juſtification and Salvation by it, as is apparent from theſe words, Chriſt is become of none effect to you, whoſoever of you are juſtified by the Law. Had the bare uſe of Circumciſion rendred Chriſt unprofitable to the Jew and Gentile, or put them under the Curſe of the Law, St. Paul would not have circumciſed Timothy, nor have owned the believing Jews as Chriſtian Brethren, who were ſtill zealous for the Law.

2*ly*, Obſerve that the Law of Moſes being given to the Jews, and ſome of its Precepts being ſtiled Everlaſting Covenants, and Commandments, and they having all engaged to obſerve it, might think themſelves obliged ſtill to be circumciſed, and obſerve the Law by virtue of God's Precept, till it was more ſolemnly by God declared to be abrogated, though they expected not to be juſtified by it; for ſo we find it was with the believing Jews, they all continued zealous of the Law, Acts 21.20. and thought all Jews obliged to obſerve it, v. 24. but then they thought to be ſaved, not by the Law, but by the Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 15.11. as the believing Gentiles were, and they believed in Chriſt, that they might be juſtified by faith in Chriſt, and not by the Works of the Law, Gal. 2. 16. But now the Gentiles being not under the Obligation of the Law of Moſes, they having firſt believed in Chriſt, and received upon that Faith, the Holy Ghoſt, they could not afterwards ſubmit to the obſervance of the Law, but by ſo doing, they muſt teſtifie they thought not Faith in Chriſt ſufficient to Juſtification, or Acceptance with God, without the obſervation of the Law, and therefore muſt ſubmit to it for theſe ends, and ſo muſt in effect deny that Faith in Chriſt would juſtifie them; or that the Giving of the Holy Ghoſt was a ſufficient Evidence of their Acceptance with God, which was a tempting, or diſtruſting of God, after ſo full a demonſtration of his Grace, and Favour of them, Acts 15. 8, 9, 10.

I therefore think theſe words concern as well thoſe Jews as Gentiles, who ſought for Juſtification ſtill not by their Faith in Chriſt, but through the Works of the Law, *Rom.*9.31,32. and held Circumciſion neceſſary to all, not by way of Precept only, but as a neceſſary means of Salvation; for by theſe things, ſaith the Apoſtle, they in effect declared that Chriſt was dead in vain, and fruſtrated the Grace of Chriſt, Gal.2.21. and ſo fell from it. Nor is it eaſie to perceive how they ſhould have Juſtification and Salvation from him, from whom, after the Revelation of him, they did not expect it, or have Faith in him to Juſtification, by whom they thought not that they ſhould be juſtified.

Ver. 5. Ἐλπίδα δικαιοσύνης, the hope of Righteouſneſs.] Or Juſtification, i. e. the hope of Glory, the conſequent of our Juſtification; for being juſtified by faith we have peace with God, and rejoyce in hope of the glory of God: Tis through this Spirit that we wait for, and expect this glory, for he is the pledge and earneſt of it, by him we are ſealed up to the day of Redemption, and wrought up to the expectation of it, and therefore are not aſhamed of our hope, becauſe the love of God is ſhed abroad into our hearts by the Spirit that he hath given us; and thus do we, who have the firſt fruits of the Spirit, wait for the redemption of our bodies, and the glorious liberty of the Sons of God, Rom.8.21,23. b

*Rom.*5. 1,2. *Eph.*1.14.2 Cor. 1.22. *Eph.*4.33. 2 *Cor.*5.5. Rom. 5. 5.

Ver. 6. Πίστις δι' ἀγάπης ἐνεργουμένη, faith working by love.] There be great Diſputes about, and divers Interpretations of theſe words, which I think may be rendred, Faith working, or made active by love, or excited to perform our Duty to God, and to our Neighbour for his ſake, by that love which we bear to him, or from Conſiderations of his great love to us, according to thoſe words of the Apoſtle, the love of Chriſt conſtraineth us, 2 Cor.5.14. And here, the life I now live in the fleſh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himſelf for me, Gal.2.20. c

Ver. 11. Εἰ περιτομὴν ἔτι κηρύσσω, If I yet preach Circumciſion] All the Greek Interpreters ſay this Verſe returns an Anſwer to the Suggeſtions of the Patrons of the Law, viz. That (a) he was an Hypocrite, in ſome places preaching up Circumciſion, in others not. See the Note on *Chap.*3.4. d

Ver. 12. Ὄφελον καὶ ἀποκόψονται, I wiſh they were even cut off.] The Interpretation of all the Greek Fathers, and of St. Ambroſe, Auſtin, and Jerom on this place is this, Utinam non ſolum circumcidantur, ſed etiam abſcindantur, I wiſh not only they were circumciſed, but even made like the Prieſts of the Mother of the Gods, worſhipped formerly by you of Galatia, who had that Member cut off. But if this Interpretation ſeem too light to be affixed to the words of the Apoſtle, I rather chuſe to interpret them as a wiſh, that they were cut off from the Communion of the Church, becauſe this e ſeems agreeable to a like paſſage, 1 Cor. 5. 6,7. where having ſaid, as here, a little leaven leavens the whole lump, he adds, purge out therefore the old leaven, i.e. put away from your ſelves the wicked Perſon, which he himſelf here would not do alone, becauſe he ſaw his Authority among them was impaired, and he feared this rather might exaſperate, than cure their Diſtemper. See Note on 2 Cor. 10. 16. That ὄφελον is ſometimes joined with an Aoriſt, and ſometimes with an Imperfect of the Indicative Mood, we learn from theſe Examples, ὄφελον ἐν ᾅδῃ μὲ ἐφύλαξας, I wiſh thou wouldſt hide me in the grave, Job 14.13. ὄφελον γὲ ἐβασιλεύσατε, I wiſh you did reign, 1 Cor. 4.8.

f Ver. 13. Εἰς ἀφορμὴν τῇ σαρκὶ, for an occaſion to the fleſh.] This is done, (1.) by a Carnal uſe of it to gratifie the motions of the Fleſh, as they who turned the grace of God into laſciviouſneſs; and thought they might ſin more freely, becauſe they were not under the Law, but under Grace, Rom. 6. 1, 15. Or, (2.) by an uncharitable uſe of it, to the Scandal of their weak Brethren, or the Contempt of thoſe who did not fully underſtand their Liberty, or by contending with, or biting one another, v. 16. which was an Evidence that they were Carnal, 1 Cor. 3.3. Or laſtly, by refuſing Obedience to their Maſters, (See Note on 1 Tim. 6.1,2.) and Subjection to Superiors; See Note on 1 Pet. 2. 16. the Remedy of which Diſtempers is true Chriſtian Love; for (b) he that loves ſincerely, will not refuſe to ſerve him whom he loves.

g Ver. 15. Εἰ δὲ ἀλλήλους δάκνετε, if ye bite, &c.] Theodoret here notes, That the Contentions and Quarrels which aroſe betwixt them that ſtood firm, and thoſe who warped to the Legal Obſervances, gave occaſion to theſe words: And as I have obſerved, that the Zeal of the Jews would not ſuffer an uncircumciſed Perſon to live among them, ſo might it be alſo with theſe zealous Judaizers.

h Ver. 16, 17. Note that I have interpreted theſe Verſes, as moſt Commentators do, but I conceive they may be beſt interpreted from Romans 7. thus:

Ver. 16. But this I ſay [to take you off from this Bondage to the Law,] walk in the Spirit, [in newneſs of the Spirit, and not in the oldneſs of the Letter, Rom. 7. 6.] and ye ſhall not fulfil the luſts of the Fleſh, [i. e. the Motions of the Fleſh ſhall not have Dominion over you, and bring you captive to the Law of Sin, as it doth in them, becauſe ye are not under the Law, but under Grace, Rom. 6.14.]

Ver. 17. For [in them] the fleſh luſteth againſt the ſpirit, [or the inward man not renewed, v. 23, 25.] and the ſpirit luſteth againſt the fleſh, [v. 19—22.] and theſe two are contrary; ſo that ye [who are under the Law, and walk not in newneſs of ſpirit,] cannot do the things that ye would; [for the good that ye would ye do not, v. 19.]

Ver. 19. Τὰ ἔργα τῆ σαρκὸς, the works of the fleſh.] That ſome of theſe may very properly be called Works of the Fleſh, cannot be doubted; but ſeeing ſome of theſe Sins ſeem chiefly to conſiſt in Errors of the Mind, as Hereſie and Idolatry, and others of them to derive from evil diſpoſitions of the Spirit, as Envy, Malice, Witchcraft, it ſeems not eaſie to perceive with what propriety they are here called Works of the Fleſh. But i

1. That Striſe, Contentions, bitter Zeal, are indeed Works of the Fleſh, we may diſcern from a Reflection on the uſual Objects of them; for we do not uſe to contend with, or envy Men on the account of things truly Spiritual, becauſe they bring forth the Fruits of the Spirit, or have the Pleaſures of an upright Conſcience; but our Contentions generally are about Worldly, Carnal Things, the Pleaſures, Honours, or Enjoyments of the preſent World: For whence come Zeal and Envy, ſaith St. James, come they not from your luſts which are in your Members? James 4.1,2.

Moreover, Murther and Witchcrafts, or φαρμακεῖαι, as that word imports, thoſe poiſonous Ingredients which are uſed to deſtroy Humane Life, are the Fruits of Hatred, Envy, Malice, and ſo muſt have their riſe from the ſame Senſual Luſts.

The Idolatry of the Heathens, not only as it was attended with Revellings and Uncleanneſs, but as it repreſented God to Corporeal Eyes in Images, and brought him down unto the Senſes, may well be deemed a Senſual Crime.

And laſtly, Hereſie, according to the Scripture Notion, being not a pure miſtake of Judgment, but an eſpouſing a falſe Doctrine out of Diſguſt, Pride, or Envy, or from worldly Principles, or to avoid Perſecution or Trouble in the Fleſh, may well be ranked among Carnal Luſts. Hence are ſuch men ſaid, not to ſerve God, but their own belly, Rom. 16.17,18. to teach what they ought not for filthy lucres ſake, Tit. 1.11. to account Gain for Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6.5. and through Covetouſneſs, with feigned words, to make merchandize of others, 2 Pet. 2.3. And therefore the Apoſtle doth not adviſe us to convince, but only to admoniſh, and reject the Heretick, as knowing that he ſins, being convinced of his own Conſcience. See Note on Tit. 3.10.

k Ver. 23. Οὐκ ἔστι νόμος, there is no Law.] The Expoſition of thoſe who ſay ſuch Perſons had no Law, is not to be approved, becauſe it ſuits not with the words κατὰ τούτων againſt ſuch there is no law. Moreover, the Law of Liberty they are under, was given to oblige them to the practice of theſe Virtues, and ſo was needful to the end.

l Ver. 26. Ἀλλήλους προκαλούμενοι, provoking one another, &c.] Theodoret here obſerves, that they who ſtood firm in the Faith, and ſo enjoyed their Spiritual Gifts, might be apt to contemn, and glory over the Weak on that account, and others might envy their Gifts; and this ſhews the ſeaſonableneſs of this Exhortation, and Connects theſe words with the beginning of the following Chapter, where the Apoſtle condemns them who had high Thoughts of themſelves, and upon that account were apt to overlook, and to neglect their fallen Brother.

CHAPTER VI.

Verſe 1. BRethren, if any man be overtaken with a a fault, b you that are ſpiritual, [endowed with thoſe Spiritual Gifts which enable you for the Publick Miniſtrations in the Church,] reſtore ſuch a one c in the ſpirit of meekneſs [to a right underſtanding of his duty, and a ſuitable practice,] d conſidering thy ſelf, d leſt thou alſo be tempted, [and ſo fall as he did.]

2. Bear ye one anothers burthens, [infirmities in Judgment or in Manners,] and ſo fulfil the Law of Chriſt, [which requires you by love to ſerve one another, Chap. 5. 13.].

e 3. e For if a man think himſelf to be ſomething, when [wanting Charity, 1 Cor. 13. 2, 3.] he is nothing, he deceiveth himſelf.

f 4. But [to avoid this deceit] f let every man prove his own work, and then ſhall he have rejoycing in himſelf alone, and not [only] in [comparing himſelf with] another.

g 5. For every man ſhall bear g his own burthen.

[The Apoſtle having thus inſtructed their Teachers, or Spiritual Men, not to deſpiſe, or under-value their Chriſtian Brethren, proceeds now to inſtruct theſe Brethren how to behave themſelves towards their Teachers; ſaying,]

6. Let him that is taught in the word, h communicate to him that teacheth in all good things [he ſtands in need of, as God's bleſſing may enable him.]

7. Be not deceived [by your falſe Teachers;] God is not mocked, for whatſoever a man ſoweth, [of] that [kind] ſhall he alſo reap.

8. For he that ſoweth to the fleſh, [by denying the works of the fleſh, Chap. 5. 20, 21.] ſhall of the fleſh reap corruption; but he that ſoweth to the ſpirit, [by bringing forth the fruits of the ſpirit, mentioned v. 22, 23. ſhall of the ſpirit, [raiſing him up to it, Rom. 8. 11.] reap life everlaſting.

9. And [but then] let us not be weary of well-doing, [or of exerciſing theſe fruits of] i the ſpirit,] for i in due ſeaſon we ſhall reap [the rewards of them] if we faint not, [but hold out unto the end.]

10. As we have therefore opportunity [and ability,] let us do good [and charitable offices] to all men, eſpecially to them who are of the houſhold of faith.

11. k Ye ſee how large a Letter I have k written unto you with my own hand.

12. As many as deſire to make a fair ſhew in [things concerning] the fleſh, [endeavouring to gratifie men, and avoid their diſpleaſure,] they [would] conſtrain you to be circumciſed; only leſt they ſhould ſuffer perſecution [from their hands] l for the Croſs l of Chriſt.

13. [I ſay, 'tis upon this account, and not out of regard to the Law, that they ſo zealouſly plead for Circumciſion, and the Obſervation of it;] m for neither do they themm- ſelves who are circumciſed, keep the Law, but deſire to have you circumciſed, n that n they may glory in your fleſh.

14. But [whatſoever they may glory in,] God forbid that I ſhould glory, ſave in the [knowledge, and in the profeſſion of the] Croſs of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom the world is crucified to me, and I unto the world, [Chap. 2. 20. as being dead to ſin, Rom. 6. 3, 4. to the fleſh, Gal. 5 24. to the Law by the Body of Chriſt, and ſeparated from the World to live unto God.]

15. For in [the Oeconomy of] Chriſt Jeſus, neither circumciſion availeth any thing, nor uncircumciſion, but a new Creature, [one dead to ſin, the fleſh, and the world, but living unto God.]

16. And as many as walk according to this Rule, [being chiefly concerned that the new Creature may be formed in them,] Peace [ſhall] be upon them, and Mercy, and upon the Iſrael [not of the Fleſh, but] of God.

17. From henceforth let no man trouble me [with their Contentions againſt my Office, becauſe I renounce Circumciſion, and my Legal Righteouſneſs,] for I bear in my body the marks of [a Servant, not of the Law, but of] the Lord Jeſus, [theſe wounds and ſtripes which teſtifie me to be a faithful a Verſe 3. Παραπτώμαλι, with a fault.] They ſeem not well to have conſidered the uſe of this word in Scripture, who ſay it is Lapſus hominis ex improviſo impingentis, a fault committed unawares, or for want of circumſpection, ſince the Apoſtle applies it to all the ſins of the Heathen world, ſtyling them νεκροὶ ἐν τοῖς παραπτώμασι, dead in treſpaſſes, Eph. 2.1,5. Coloſſ. 2.13. and to all the ſins forgiven us through Faith in Chriſt, Rom. 4.25. & 5.16. 2 Cor. 5.19. Eph. 1.7. the word προλημφθῇ ſeems rather to import ſuch a ſurprize.

b Ibid. Ὑμεῖς οἱ πνευματικοὶ, you that are ſpiritual.] I have noted on 1 Cor. 14.32. that in the beginnings of Chriſtianity, when Churches were firſt converted, they had for a time no ſettled Church Governours, but all their Church Offices were performed by Men who had Spiritual Gifts, and by them are ſaid to Propheſie in the Church to their Edification, Exhortation, and Comfort, v. 2. So I conceive it was when St. Paul writ to the Galatians, for here is no direction of this Epiſtle to any ſtated Church Governours, no Salutation of any in the cloſe, no Charge againſt any for ſuffering theſe great Miſcarriages in the Church; No Exhortation to them to take heed of their Miniſtry, and to oppoſe themſelves to theſe Deceivers; and then the Spiritual Men here mentioned, muſt be the Prophets who then performed all Spiritual Offices among them.

c Ibid. Ἐν πνεύματι πραΰτητος, in the ſpirit of meekneſs.] 2 Tim. 2. 24. That ſo they may not provoke them to fly off to Judaiſm, Chap. 5.26. whom they ſhould reſtore to a right underſtanding of their Chriſtian Liberty, and to a freedom from that yoke of Bondage.

d Ibid. Μὴ καὶ σὺ πειρασθῇς, leſt thou alſo be tempted.] i. e. Leſt thou fall by Temptation; for to ſtand firm againſt Temptation, when it aſſaults us, is not a proper conſideration to engage us to pity thoſe that fall by it. This is the import of the word, when we are taught to pray, that we enter not into Temptation, Matth. 6. 13. when the Apoſtle bids the married Perſons live together, that Satan tempt them not for their incontinence, 1 Cor. 7.5. when he is ſolicitous for the Theſſalonians, leſt the Tempter ſhould have tempted them, and rendred his labours vain, 1 Theſſ. 3. 3. and when S. James ſaith, Every man is tempted when he is led away by his own luſts, James 1.14.

e Ver. 3 Εἰ γὰρ δοκεῖ τις εἶναί τι, μηδὲν ὤν, if a man thinks himſelf ſomething, being nothing,] Of himſelf, but by the grace of God being what he is, 1 Cor. 15.10. 2 Cor. 12.11. So ſome truly, but not ſo pertinently to the ſcope of the Text; ſay others, Being nothing in the ſight of God; who regards him not for his Knowledge but his Charity, 1 Cor. 13.2, 3. i. e. If upon this account he overlooks, and deſpiſeth his weak offending Brother, not ſympathiſing with him, v. 2. or endeavouring to reſtore him, v. 1. but rather glorying in this, that he is a ſtrong Chriſtian, in compariſon of others, he is then nothing in the ſight of God.

f Ver. 4. Δοκιμαζέτω ἕκαστος, let every man prove.] i. e. Let him approve his actions to God, and his own Conſcience, and then he may take comfort ſimply in himſelf, that he is a Good Man, and not in this only, that he is better than others. So the word ſignifies, Rom. 1. 28. οὐκ ἐδοκίμασαν they approved not of God, Rom. 2. 18. Δοκιμάζεις, thou approveſt the things which are moſt excellent, Rom. 12.2. Be transformed by the renewing of your mind, εἰς τὸ δοκιμάζειν, that you may approve the good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. And Chap. 14. 22. Happy is the man who doth not condemn, or act againſt his Conſcience, ἐν ᾧ δοκιμάζει, in that which by his actions he approves of. See Eph. 5.10. Philip. 1.10. 1 Theſſ. 2.4. 1 Tim. 3. 10. and Note on 1 Cor. 11.28.

g Ver. 5. Τὸ ἴδιον φορτίον, his own Burthen.] i. e. This every man is concerned to do, viz. to make his own work good, and approved in the ſight of God; for another man's greater ſins, will not excuſe thee from bearing the burthen of thy own.

h Ver. 6. Κοινωνείτω, let him communicate.] This he elſewhere ſtiles Communication, εἰς λόγον δόσεως καὶ λήψεως, by giving their good things, and receiving his good inſtructions, Philip. 4.15. by ſowing ſpirituals, and reaping of them carnal things, 1 Cor. 9.11. And if this was their duty towards ſuch Teachers as had no need of Books or Study to fit themſelves for the work, they being enabled for it by the immediate Aſſiſtance and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, how much more towards them who ſpend much time and money to fit themſelves for that work, and muſt be ſtill employed in ſtudying and reading to make themſelves ſuch Workmen as need not to be aſhamed?

i Ver.9. Καιρῷ ἰδίῳ, in due ſeaſon.] i.e.In the proper time of Recompence; for the incouragement Chriſt gives unto the Works of Charity is this, Thou ſhalt be recompenſed at the reſurrection of the juſt, Luke 14. 14.

k Ver. 11. Ἴδετε πηλίκοις γράμμασιν ἔγραψα τῇ ἐμῇ χειρί, See how large a letter I have written to you with my own hand.] It is true that γράμματα ſometimes ſignifies Epiſtles, as when the Jews ſay to Paul ὅτε γράμματα περὶ σοῦ ἐδεξάμεθα, we have received no Letters concerning thee, Acts 28. 21. but then it is alſo true that St. Paul elſewhere uſes ſeventeen times the word ἐπιστολαὶ, but never the word γράμματα, when he ſpeaks of his Epiſtles. Though therefore it be true that St. Paul wrote his other Epiſtles by an Amanuenſis, Rom.16.22. adding only in the cloſe of them the Salutation with his own hand, as an Indication that he indited the Epiſtle, ſee Note on 2 Theſſ. 3. 17. whereas this whole Epiſtle was written with his own hand for their greater Aſſurance, and as a Teſtimony of his great Affection and Concernment for them, yet πηλίκα γράμματα what kind of Letters may not refer to that, but as the Greek Scholiaſt conceives, to the largeneſs or inelegancy of the Characters in which it was written, this accurateneſs in writing, or forming the Greek Characters being the moſt probable account why all his other Epiſtles were written by another hand.

Ver.12.Τῷ σταυρῷ, &c. for the Croſs of Chriſt.] l I have ſhewed, Note on *Chap.*5.11. that this was the great ſtumbling block of the Jews, partly becauſe their Law pronounced a Curſe on thoſe that hanged on a Tree; See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 23. partly becauſe the Croſs, and Sufferings of Chriſt on it, was the Foundation of the Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith in his Blood, of the Ceſſation of the Ceremonial Law, and the Removal of the Partition Wall betwixt the Jew and Gentile, Col. 2.14,16. on which account chiefly they were ſcandalized at it, and perſecuted thoſe who thought that this was the Reſult of our Lord's Death, and Sufferings.

Ver. 13. Οὐδὲ γὰρ οἱ περιτεμνόμενοι φυλάσσουσιν, for neither do they keep the Law.] m This was unqueſtionably true of theſe Judaizing Chriſtians: For how, ſaith Theodoret, could they in Galatia regularly obſerve the Jewiſh Feaſts, or offer Sacrifice, or cleanſe themſelves from their Defilements, by touching any thing that was unclean?

Ibid. Ἵνα ἐν τῇ ὑμετέρᾳ σαρκὶ καυχήσωνται, that they might glory in your fleſh.] i. e. Might boaſt of this among the Jews, that they promoted Circumciſion even among the Gentiles, and by that pretence might avoid Perſecution from them. n

THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE EPHESIANS.

§ 1. THAT this Epistle to the Ephesians was indeed written by St. Paul, and directed to them, and not to any other Church, we cannot doubt, if we believe either the Epistle, or St. Paul himself. For

1. It begins thus, Paul an Apostle (writeth these things) to the Saints that are at Ephesus. And in this Reading all the Versions and all the Manuscripts agree.

2. In the Close of this Epistle he speaks thus to them, That you may know my Affairs, and how I do, Tychicus a beloved Brother, and faithful Minister in the Lord, shall make known to you all things, whom I have sent unto you, Chap. 6. 21, 22. And in the second Epistle to Timothy, he saith, Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus, 2 Tim. 4. 12.

Moreover, all Antiquity agrees in this, that this Epistle was written by St. Paul: (a) Ignatius is express for it in his Epistle to the Ephesians. (b) Irenæus, Clemens of Alexandria, (c) Tertullian, and (d) Origen in divers places of their Works. We learn indeed from the Argument of this Epistle in Oecumenius, and more fully from (e) Theodoret, that some of the Ancients thought this Epistle was writ by St. Paul before he had seen the Ephesians, or at least before his three years converse with them: But not any of the Ancients, excepting Marcion, ever thought that this Epistle was not written, among other Churches, to that of Ephesus, but of Laodicea; and therefore (f) Tertullian takes notice of it, as a thing proper to those Hereticks; though indeed both might be true; for this Epistle being writ, not only to the Saints at Ephesus, but also to the Faithful in Christ Jesus, might be writ also to the Colossians, the Laodiceans, and others, who had not seen his Face, Colos. 2. 1. See Note on Colos. 4. 16. And this Observation gives a sufficient Answer to the Arguments, from Chap. 1. 15. chap. 3. 2. from which some have conjectured, that this Epistle could not be writ to them after St. Paul had staid Three years in Asia, though they more fully are considered in their respective places.

St. Paul was Priſoner at Rome, is evident from Chap. 3. 1. where he is ſtiled, Paul the Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt; and Chap. 4. 1. a Priſoner in the Lord. Now it muſt be at ſooneſt in the Third year of Nero that he was ſent Priſoner to Rome: For Felix was made Procurator of Judea by Nero in his Firſt year, ſaith (g) Joſephus; and after Two years, he left Paul Priſoner at Cæſarea, Acts 24. 27. Portius Feſtus ſucceeds him, and after ſome time hears him twice at Cæſarea, and ſends him afterwards to Rome, which interval if we conſider how long it was e're he reached Rome, may very well be ſuppoſed to take up another year. He therefore could not write this Epiſtle till the Fourth or Fifth of Nero. He did not write it, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, till the Eighth of Nero, A.D. 62.

§ 3. That this Epiſtle was writ againſt Simon Magus and his Followers, as Eſthius hints, none of the Ancients ſay. More probable is the Conjecture of Grotius, That the Apoſtle rather deſign'd by it to arm them againſt the Doctrines of the Philoſophers, and of thoſe Jews who endeavoured to bring them to the obſervation of their Rites; for that there were then many Jews at Epheſus, and throughout Aſia, we learn both from the Acts of the Apoſtles, which inform us that Paul being at Epheſus, entred into a Synagogue of the Jews, Acts 18. 19. & 19. 8, 9, 10. and diſcourſed with them, till by their perverſneſs he was forced to ſeparate from them; and that by his preaching, all that were in Aſia heard the Word of the Lord, both Jews and Greeks. As alſo from (h) Philo, who informs us that the Jews inhabited the moſt and beſt Cities in the Provinces and Iſlands both of Europe and Aſia. And that theſe Jews were diſturbers of the Churches of Aſia, and of Epheſus in particular, and ſticklers to introduce a mixture of Judaiſm with Chriſtianity, we learn from both the Epiſtles to St. Timothy. Againſt their Doctrine of the Neceſſity of the Obſervance of the Law of Moſes to Juſtification and Salvation, he ſeemeth to oppoſe theſe words, By Grace ye are ſaved, not of Works, leſt any man ſhould boaſt, Chap. 2. 8, 9. which manifeſtly anſwer to his Diſcourſe upon that Subject, Rom. 3. where he aſſerts, that we are juſtified freely by his Grace, v. 24. and not by the Works of the Law, v. 20. and that all boaſting is excluded, not by the Law of Works, but of Faith (i). Againſt that other Notion of theirs depending on the former, That the Gentiles ſhould be admitted into the Church only as Proſelytes, and not aſſumed to the ſame Privileges with the Jews, he declares himſelf more largely Chap. 2. from v. 12. to the 20*th.* Chap. 3. 6——10.

CHAPTER I.

Verſe 1. PAUL an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, by the will of God, a [calling me to that Office,] a to the Saints
b that are at Epheſus, b and [that is] to the faithful in Chriſt Jeſus [throughout all Aſia.]
c 2. c Grace be [given] to you, and Peace from God our Father, and [from] the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

3. Bleſſed be [that] God and [who is] the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who hath d bleſſed us with d all ſpiritual bleſſings in heavenly places [or things,] in [and through] Chriſt.
e 4. According as he hath e choſen us [Gentiles, Chap. 3. 6.] in him before the foundation of the World, [Chap. 3. 11. deſigning] that we [thus choſen] ſhould be holy, and without blame before him in love, [by virtue of our faith in Chriſt, and love to one another, Chap. 3.17. Gal.5.6.]

5. Having predeſtinated [or fore-appointed] f us to the f adoption of Children by [through] Jeſus Chriſt unto himſelf, [Gr. εἰς ὑοθεσίαν εἰς αὐτὸν, unto the adoption of Sons to him through Chriſt Jeſus, we being all the Sons of God, through Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, Gal. 3. 26. John 1.12.] according to the good pleaſure of his will.

6. [And this he hath done] To the praiſe of the glory of his grace, wherein he hath made us accepted, [or, with which he hath favoured us, ἐχαρίτωσεν ἡμᾶς] in [and through] the beloved.

g 7. In whom we have g redemption [from the Curſe of the Law, Gal.3.13. and from the condemnation due to us for ſin, Rom.3.24,25.] through his blood, [the Blood of Atonement ſhed for] the forgiveneſs of ſins, according to the riches of his grace.

8. Wherein [or in which diſpenſation] he hath abounded to us in h all wiſdom, and h prudence.

9. Having made known to us the myſtery of his will, according to his good pleaſure, which he hath purpoſed in himſelf, [viz. his ſecret purpoſe to chuſe us Gentiles to be fellow-heirs of the ſame body, Chap. 3.6.]

10. That [ſo] in the diſpenſation [which was to be accompliſhed by ſending of Chriſt] in the fulneſs of time, he might i gather i together in one all things in Chriſt, both which are in Heaven, and which are in Earth, even in him.

11. In whom alſo we [believing Jews] have k obtained an Inheritance, [or, are be- k come his Portion,] being predeſtinated [or fore-ordained to it,] according to the purpoſe of him who worketh all things after the counſel of his own will.

12. That we ſhould be to the praiſe of his glory, who firſt truſted in Chriſt, [the glorious gifts he hath beſtowed upon us, and the eminent graces he hath wrought in us, tending highly to the glory of his grace, v. 6. and Philip.1.11.]

13. In whom ye alſo [truſted] after that ye heard [or hearing] the Word of Truth, the Goſpel of Salvation, in whom alſo, after that ye believed, [or believing,] were ſealed with that holy Spirit of Promiſe, [i.e. the Spirit promiſed to the Sons of God; for becauſe ye are Sons, God hath ſent the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, Gal.4.6.]

14. Who is the earneſt of our Inheritance, until until the 1 redemption of the purchaſed Poſſeſſion, [for the procuring this ſalutary Redemption] to the praiſe of his glory.

m 15. Wherefore I alſo, m after I heard [Gr. having heard] of your [ſtedfaſt] faith in the Lord Jeſus, and [your increaſing] love to all the Saints, [i. e. that the faith and love wrought in you continues ſtedfaſt, and aboundeth;]

16. Ceaſe not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers,

17. [Praying] That the God of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Father of Glory, may give n unto you [in greater meaſures] n the Spirit of Wiſdom and Revelation in the Knowledge, [or to the farther acknowledgment] of him.

18. The eyes of your underſtanding being enlightned, [or that he would give you underſtandings enlightned,] that you may know what [i. e. how glorious] is the hope of his Calling, [i. e. to which he hath called you,] and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the Saints, [i. e. how great is the Inheritance he hath deſigned for the Saints.]

19. And what is o the exceeding greatneſs of his power [which he will exert] towards us who believe, [by raiſing us up to the enjoyment of this Inheritance.] according to the working of his mighty power. o

20. Which [power] he [hath already] wrought in Chriſt [our Head,] when he raiſed [Gr. raiſing] him from the dead, and ſet him [whom he hath ſet] at his own right hand in heavenly places.

21. Far above all Principalities and Powers, and Might and Dominion, and every Name that is named, p not only in this p world, but alſo in that which is to come.

22. And [he] hath put all things under his feet, and hath given him to be the Head over all things to [the benefit of] the Church.

23. Which is his Body, [and ſo] the fulneſs of him, [even that Jeſus,] who filleth q all in all. q

c Ver. Χάρις, Grace.] This Grace is given by the Communication of the Holy Ghoſt from the Father, and the Son, to the Church, John 14.23. which is the Reaſon that the Holy Ghoſt is not mention'd in theſe Salutations.

d Ver. 3. Ἐν πάσῃ εὐλογίᾳ πνευματικῇ ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις.] Theſe words ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις, in heavenly places, may probably refer to the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt then conferred upon the Church, and ſtiled by the Prophet εὐλογίαι Θεοῦ, the bleſſings of God; Fear not Jacob my Servant, and Iſrael whom I have choſen, for I will put my Spirit on thy Seed, καὶ τὰς εὐλογίας μου, and my bleſſings on thy Children, Iſai. 44.2,3. where the word in the Hebrew and Chaldee is וברכתו and my Benedictions, and ſo well correſpondeth with the words of the Apoſtle, God hath bleſſed us with all Spiritual Bleſſings. The ſame Apoſtle ſtiles theſe Gifts εὐλογία τοῦ εὐαγγελίου, the Bleſſing of the Goſpel; for having ſaid to the Romans, I long to ſee you that I may impart unto you χάρισμά τι πνευματικόν, ſome ſpiritual Gift to the end you may be eſtabliſhed, Chap. 1. 11. he adds, when I come to ſee you, I ſhall come in the fulneſs τῆς εὐλογίας of the bleſſing of the Goſpel, Chap. 15.29. And the Promiſe of the Spirit is ſtiled εὐλογία τοῦ Ἀβραάμ, the bleſſing of that Abraham in whom all the Families of the Earth were to be bleſſed, in theſe words, That the bleſſing of Abraham might come upon the Gentiles through Jeſus Chriſt, that we might receive the Promiſe of the Spirit through Faith, Gal. 3. 14. Theſe Gifts are alſo called ἐπουράνια heavenly things; thus when our Saviour had diſcourſed of the Spirit to be received in Baptiſm, he ſaith, he had told them τὰ ἐπουράνια heavenly things, John 3.12. and they who were made partakers of theſe Gifts, were ſaid to have taſted τῆς δωρεᾶς τῆς ἐπουρανίου, of the heavenly Gift, Heb. 6.4. Or, (2.) God's bleſſing us ἐν ἐπουρανίοις, with heavenly things in Chriſt Jeſus, may ſignifie his exalting us to a bleſſed ſtate of Immortality in the Heavens through him; his giving us an houſe not made with hands eternal in the Heavens, 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2. and cloathing us with an houſe from Heaven, his giving us an Inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, reſerved in the Heavens for us, on the account of which incorruptible, and immortal Bodies, we are ſtiled ἐπουράνιοι heavenly, as Chriſt is, 1 Cor. 15. 48. and the Apoſtle ſaith, that as we have born the Image of the Earthy Adam by our Mortal Bodies, ſo by our Bodies made immortal we ſhall bear εἰκόνα τοῦ ἐπουρανίου, the Image of the Heavenly Adam, v. 49. and hence we are ſaid to be partakers κλήσεως ἐπουρανίου of our heavenly Calling. In a word, Chriſt having delivered us from that Death and Mortality which came upon us by the Sin of Adam, hath bleſſed us with this heavenly Bleſſing, having made us ſit together with him in heavenly places, Eph. 2.6. And this is the hope of our Calling, v. 18. of this Chapter.

on of the Jews, that God in framing the World had a particular regard for them, and that the World was made for their ſakes, Eſdr. 2.55,59. and that the Meſſiah being created before the World, God entred into Covenant with him that he ſhould redeem the World, and them eſpecially, (a) The holy bleſſed God, ſay they, began to covenant with the Meſſiah when he created him, and ſaid unto him, The ſins of thoſe who are laid up in ſecret with thee, will make thee to come under an Iron Yoke, and make thee like to this young Heifer, whoſe Eyes are dim, and fill thy Spirit with Anguiſh; and becauſe of their Iniquity, thy Tongue ſhall cleave to the roof of thy Mouth; Wilt thou undergo their Condition for them? The Meſſiah ſaid, I undertake it with joy, and exultation of heart, on this Condition, that not one of Iſrael may periſh; and that not only they may be ſaved who live in my days, but alſo they who are dead from the days of the firſt Man to this very day. And again, (b) When God created the World, he held forth his hand under the Throne of Glory, and created the Soul of the Meſſiah and his Company, and ſaid to him, Wilt thou heal, and redeem my Sons after ſix thouſand years? He anſwered, Yes; God ſaid to him, If ſo, wilt thou bear Chaſtiſement to expiate their Iniquities? According to what is written Iſa.53.4. Surely he bare our griefs. He anſwered, I will endure them with Joy. Now becauſe the Jews held that God thus elected them from the beginning of the World, and ſent the Meſſiah that none of them ſhould periſh, the Apoſtle to take from them all cauſe of boaſting againſt the Gentiles upon that account, declares the Gentiles were thus elected in Chriſt Jeſus, even before the Foundations of the World, i. e. that he deſigned then to chuſe them to be his Church and People, i. e. an holy People to the Lord.

f Ver. 5. Εἰς υἱοθεσίαν, to the Adoption of Children.] This in the Scripture Phraſe imports Adoption to a bleſſed Reſurrection, and a ſtate of Immortality both of Soul and Body; for being Sons of God, ſaith St. Luke, Chap. 20.36. we are Sons of the Reſurrection, and if Sons, ſaith the Apoſtle, then Heirs of God, Joynt heirs of Chriſt, Rom. 8, 16, 17. The Revelation of the Sons of God is their future Glory to be revealed at Chriſt's appearing, *v.*18,19. See *Col.*3.4. Their Adoption is the Redemption of their Bodies from Corruption, *v.*23. This being ſo, God's electing us in Chriſt before the foundation of the World, is his purpoſe before the World was made, or from the fall, to give to thoſe that ſhould believe in Chriſt, this Adoption, (i. e.) the Redemption of their Bodies from that Mortality to which the Fall of Adam had ſubjected them, Gen. 3. 15. whence he is here ſaid to have elected us, προορίσας ἡμᾶς εἰς υἱοθεσίαν, fore-ordaining us to this Adoption, κατὰ τὴν εὐδοκίαν, according to the good pleaſure of his will, or his free grace and favour, there being nothing in us, or even in our Faith, that could deſerve this glorious Adoption.

Ver. 7. Τὴν ἀπολύτρωσιν, Redemption.] All g Mankind lying under a Sentence of Condemnation on the account of Sin, all having ſinned, and fallen ſhort of the glory of God upon that account, Rom. 3. 23. 'twas neceſſary that ſomething ſhould be done to take away the Guilt of Sin, and Reconcile us to a God diſpleaſed with us for it, that ſo we, as to our Perſons and Performances, might find acceptance with him: This could not be done by any Righteouſneſs of our own before Faith in Chriſt, we being in Chriſt Jeſus created to good works, Eph. 2. 10. and therefore was neceſſary to be done by an Act of Grace on God's part, accepting us as Righteous through Faith in Chriſt, and juſtifying us freely through Faith in his Blood. Hence do the Scriptures of the New Teſtament ſeem plainly to make our Reconciliation, and ſo our Acceſs to God, depend on our being purged from the Guilt of Sin by an Atonement made by the Blood of Chriſt for our Iniquities, that ſo, they being pardoned, we may have peace with God, and freedom of acceſs to him; Chriſt ſuffered, ſaith St. Peter, ἵνα ἡμᾶς προσαγάγῃ τῷ Θεῷ, that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3. 18. i. e. to give us freedom of acceſs to God, for by him we have προσαγωγὴν admiſſion to the Father, Eph. 2. 18. See the Note there. And God was in Chriſt reconciling the World to himſelf, not imputing their Treſpaſſes to them, 2 Cor. 5. 18,21. and this Reconciliation was effected by making Chriſt ἁμαρτίαν a Sin-offering for us, though he knew no ſin, that we might be made the Righteouſneſs of God, (or Righteous with that Righteouſneſs which God only will accept through Faith) in him; See the Note on that Verſe; And the Author to the Hebrews having ſaid, that the Covenant eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Chriſt was this, that he would be merciful to our Iniquities, and remember our Sins no more, Heb. 10. 16,17. and having thence inferred, that having thus obtained Remiſſion for us by his Blood, there was no need that he ſhould again make himſelf an Offering for ſin, v. 18. he adds, that therefore we may draw near with full aſſurance of faith, that we ſhall be accepted through this beloved, as having our hearts ſprinkled by his blood, v. 19, 20, 21,22. and therefore cleanſed from any Guilt of Conſcience on that account. And this Remiſſion was alſo neceſſary that we might obtain that Adoption of Sons to which Believers were afore apointed, becauſe into the New Jeruſalem can nothing enter that is defiled, or unclean: nor can there be any enjoyment of God till the blood of Chriſt hath cleanſed us from all ſin, and therefore, ſaith the Apoſtle, he became the Mediator of the New Covenant, that having ſuffered Death for the Redemption of us from the Sins we formerly had committed under the Old Covenant, they that were called might receive the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Heb. 9. 15.

h Ver. 8. Ἐν πάσῃ σοφίᾳ καὶ φρονήσει, in all wiſdom and prudence] That is, ſay ſome, in the Spiritual Gifts of Wiſdom and Prudence; but though σοφία be reckoned among Spiritual Gifts, I find not that φρόνησις is ſo. Moreover he hath thus abounded towards us in all wiſdom and prudence, ſaith the Apoſtle, by making known to us the myſtery of his will, which leads to the other Expoſition, which refers this to the manifold Wiſdom of God, ſhewed in contriving this Diſpenſation, Chap. 3. 10. and his Prudence in executing the Counſel of his Will by this means, viz. by ſending of his Son to be our Saviour. And whereas the Deiſts ſeem to ſide with the Socinians, in denying the Wiſdom of this Diſpenſation of God in ſending his Son into the World to ſuffer for our Sins, and by his Sufferings to make an Atonement for them, it ſeemeth eaſie to demonſtrate, as well the manifold Wiſdom, as the rich Grace and Favour of God to us in this Diſpenſation. For,

1. It ſeemeth abſolutely requiſite, either that the ſubſtitution of another to ſuffer in our ſtead ſhould be admitted, or that we our ſelves ſhould ſuffer the Reward of our Iniquities, or that a full Remiſſion, and free Pardon of our Sins ſhould be vouchſafed us without any Suffering: Now the admiſſion of another to ſuffer in our ſtead, is the thing pleaded for; if therefore that be granted, the Wiſdom of that God who acteth all things according to the counſel of his Will, muſt alſo be acknowledged in this Diſpenſation: If we our ſelves muſt ſuffer the Reward of our Iniquity, that being Death eternal, or Death without recovery from it by a bleſſed Reſurrection, all Mankind muſt inevitably be ſubject to that Puniſhment, all having ſinned, and fallen ſhort of the Glory of God, Rom 3. 23. And 3*ly*, ſhould God have iſſued out a free Pardon, and given us a full Remiſſion of our Sin, without any thing required by way of Reparation for the Violation of his Law, he muſt have pardoned Sinners without any thing required to ſhew his hatred of Sin, and his Reſolution not to let it go unpuniſhed, and ſo without ſufficient Motive to deter us from it for the future, which ſeems not well conſiſtent with his Holineſs and Juſtice, and the Relation of a Governour, which ſeemeth plainly to require the Vindication of his Honour, and the Preſervation of the Laws he hath eſtabliſhed from Contempt: 'Twas then an Act of Grace not to require we ſhould perſonally ſuffer the Reward of our Iniquities: It was an Act of Wiſdom not to afford a full Remiſſion of our Sin, without requiring any thing by way of Reparation for the Violation of his Law; It muſt be therefore an Act of Wiſdom alſo to admit another to ſuffer in our ſtead, eſpecially if we conſider

2*ly*, That by the Obedience of our Lord Chriſt to the Death in our ſtead, all the great Ends of Puniſhment deſigned by Governours were very ſignally obtained, and that with more advantage to God's Glory, than if the Puniſhment of our Offences had been inflicted upon us, and ſo God by it may be truly ſaid to have been ſatisfied; ſeeing that Juſtice, which conſiſts in puniſhing for the Tranſgreſſion of a Law, is truly ſatisfied, when all thoſe Ends for which the puniſhment of the Offenders could be deſired are obtained. Now the Ends of Puniſhment are,

1. Παράδειγμα, that they who ſuffer may be exemplary to others; and may by what they do endure, deter others from the Commiſſion of the Offences for which they ſuffer.

2. Νουθεσία, that the Offender may learn Wiſdom by the Rod; that the Remembrance of what he ſuffered for it, might prevent the Repetition of his Sin, and that he may be fitted to embrace the Counſel of our Saviour, Sin no more, leſt a worſe thing come upon thee.

3. Τιμωρία, The vindication of the Prince's Honour, and the Preſervation of the Laws he hath eſtabliſht from Contempt.

Now (1.) God by this Diſpenſation hath given us the moſt effectual Example to deter us from Sin. For 1. by what our Saviour ſuffered in our ſtead, we ſee that God is certainly in earneſt when he threatneth Death to Sinners; that he is thorowly reſolved upon the Puniſhment of Sin, ſince he inflicted ſo great Puniſhment on the beloved of his Soul, when he became our Surety; for if on this account God ſpared not his only Son, Rom. 8. 32. we may be ſure he will not ſpare his ſtubborn Enemies. But let us ſay with the Socinians, that Chriſt ſuffered all his bitter Agonies, his ignominious and painful Death, not as the Puniſhment of Sin, or to make an Atonement for it, but from a pure Act of God's Dominion, how will it follow hence that God will ſurely puniſh Sin, and with Severity avenge the Tranſgreſſions of his Law, if he laid none of theſe Sufferings on Chriſt for the Puniſhment of Sin? Seems it not ſtrange to ſay that Severities rities laid on Chriſt without reſpect to ſin, ſhould be deſigned as an Inſtance of God's Severity againſt Sin; This ſhews, ſaith (c) Crellius, that he who laid ſuch bitter Sufferings on his innocent and well beloved Son, will inflict the ſevereſt Puniſhments on wicked men.

I anſwer; This will indeed follow in reſpect to Sufferings for the ſame cauſe; for if the Righteous be recompenſed upon Earth, much more the Sinner, and the Wicked, Prov. 11. 31. If good Eli, and holy David, ſuffered ſo great Puniſhments for their Sins, much more ſhall a wicked Cain, and prophane Eſau. But will it follow, that becauſe holy Job ſuffered ſo much by way of Trial, or St. Paul for propagation of the Chriſtian Faith, that therefore Sinners ſhall be obnoxious to greater Puniſhments? (d) Crellius himſelf ſaith Chriſt's Sufferings cannot be an exemplary Puniſhment, becauſe abundè fuerint à Deo compenſatæ, they were ſo abundantly rewarded by God; and doth not the ſame reaſon ſhew they could not be a warning to us, if he only ſuffered with reſpect to the Recompence of Reward? for are the light Afflictions which Chriſtians ſuffer here in proſpect of an Eternal Recompence, ever made an inſtance of God's Severity againſt Sin? Moreover, this Example ſhews how inſupportable the Puniſhment will be which Juſtice will inflict upon the Sinner; for if the Apprehenſion of it produced ſuch Agonies, and Conſternations in the Soul of Chriſt, that God ſaw need to ſend an Angel to ſupport him, Luke 22. 43. how muſt the Sinner ſink under the Burthen when it is laid upon his Shoulders? If he, who was the well-beloved Son of God, found it ſo dreadful to lie under the Burthen for ſome hours, to lie expoſed for ever to it muſt be far more intolerable.

2*ly*, Whereas inevitable Ruine muſt have followed upon the Execution of the deſerved Puniſhment on the offending Perſon, God by this Method hath taken a fit way for the Reformation of the Sinner which was the ſecond End of Puniſhment; for what can be a more effectual Motive to abſtain from Sin than this Example, which repreſents the greatneſs of the Provocation in the greatneſs of the Puniſhment, and ſhews it is impoſſible the guilty Perſon ſhould avoid the ſtroke of God's vindictive Juſtice, or bear the weight of his Almighty Arm. But the Socinian Tenet which denies that God was angry with us on the account of Sin, or that he did require any Puniſhment, or Satisfaction in order to the pardon of it, ſo far obſtructs this Reformation, as it affords the Sinner hopes that he may not hereafter be angry with him on that account, or require any Puniſhment or Satisfaction in order to the pardon of his future ſins.

3*ly*, God by this Diſpenſation hath ſufficiently conſulted the Preſervation of his Honour, and ſecured the Reverence and Obſervation of his Laws; which was the third great End of Puniſhment: He by declaring that he would not pardon our Offences without a Satisfaction made for the Violations of his Law, hath fully vindicated his Inſtitutions fron contempt, ſeeing by this Example, he hath let all Men know, That though he be a God of Mercy and Long-ſuffering, he will by no means clear the Guilty, or let the Tranſgreſſor of them go unpuniſhed.

Again, God by this Diſpenſation hath vindicated his Honour more than if he had deſtroyed the Sinner, having more evidently ſhew'd his hatred of, and great diſpleaſure againſt Sin, by puniſhing it ſo ſeverely in his own Son; for the greater is the Inducement to remit the puniſhment of Sin, the greater muſt be his hatred of it who inflicts it; that therefore this Conſideration, that he who ſuffered was his only beloved Son, would not induce him to remit the Puniſhment, muſt be the ſtrongeſt Demonſtration of his moſt perfect hatred of all Iniquity.

But now remove this Suppoſition, and ſay, with the Socinians, That God pardoned all Mens ſins againſt him without any valuable Conſiderations, and with an abſolute freedom forgave Men all the Puniſhments his Law had threatned to them, and ceaſed from all his Anger and Diſpleaſure againſt Sinners, without any Atonement made unto, or required by him, and how will it appear God was at all concerned to vindicate the Honour of his Laws, or ſhew his hatred againſt Sin? Hence (e) Crellius ſaw it neceſſary to own that the Sufferings of Chriſt are a demonſtration of God's hatred of Iniquity, becauſe our Sins were the cauſe of them; but then he means not that they were the meritorious, but only that they were the final cauſe of his Sufferings; not that he ſuffered to prevail with God to pardon Sinners, but only to prevail with Sinners to break off their ſins. Now hence indeed we may conclude, that God is very deſirous that Sinners ſhould deſiſt from ſin; but it follows not hence, that they muſt certainly expect the moſt heavy Puniſhments if they do not; for if God could freely pardon the ſins of the whole World without any Satisfaction made to his offended Juſtice, if there be nothing in God, as Rector of the Univerſe, that requires he ſhould puniſh ſin, or ſhew his diſpleaſure againſt it, if the puniſhment of ſin depends purely upon his Arbitrary Will, why may not ſinners hope, notwithſtanding all that Chriſt had ſuffered for their good, for a like act of his free Grace hereafter in the remiſſion of their ſins without a reformation, and that God may be reconciled to them again whilſt they continue in their ſins?

Since then no Laws require the puniſhment of the Offender himſelf, rather than of another who is willing to be his Surety, and ſuffer for him, on any other account than this, that the puniſhment of the Offender, and not another for him, will only anſwer the forementioned Ends of puniſhment, when that can equally be done by what another ſuffers, the Law it ſelf muſt equally be ſatisfied, becauſe the Ends of the Law are equally obtained.

i Ver. 10. Ἀνακεφαλαιώσασθαι, to gather together in one.] i. e. God hath now by the Goſpel accompliſhed the ſecret purpoſe of his Will, to make the Gentiles fellow-heirs of the ſame Body, and Privileges with the Jews, having reconciled both Jew and Gentile to him in one Body on the Croſs, *Eph.*2.14,16. and ſo gathered together in one all things on Earth, and by procuring for us that Adoption which is the Redemption of the Body from Mortality, *Rom.*8.23. and making us like to the Angels by being Children of the Reſurrection, he hath ſumm'd up in one all things in Heaven; for they being ſtiled the Sons of God, Job 1. 6. & 2. 1. & 38. 7. becauſe they live already in their Father's houſe, and are an Image of his Immortality, when the Reſurrection hath put us into that happy ſtate that we can die no more, but are equal to the Angels, and are the Children of God, being the Children of the Reſurrection, Luke 20.35,36. then ſhall we be made one with them. The Interpretation of the Ancient Fathers ſeems to give this ſenſe, That God hath by this Diſpenſation gathered under one Head, viz. Chriſt, the Head of the Church, all things on Earth, i. e. Jews and Gentiles; and all things in Heaven, Chriſt being the Head over Angels and Principalities, they being all miniſtring Spirits to him. And this ſenſe ſeems agreeable to the like words, *Coloſſ.*1.20. See the Note there.

k Ver. 11. Ἐκληρώθημεν, we have obtained an inheritance.] The Jews were before choſen of God to be a People of Inheritance, Deut. 4. 20. and a Peculiar People, Exod.19.5. and as ſuch, God provided for them an Habitation and Inheritance in the Land of Canaan; but the Jewiſh Church being now to be diſſolv'd, the Jews being to be baniſh'd from their own Land, and the unbelieving Jews cut off from their Relation to God as his People, the believing Jews were through Faith in Chriſt to be choſen again to be God's Portion, and Inheritance, and his peculiar People, 1 Pet. 2. 9. Tit. 2. 14. and to be admitted to a better Inheritance, εἰς μερίδος τὸν κλῆρον τῶν ἁγίων ἐν τῷ φωτί, viz. to the Portion of the inheritance of Saints in light, Coloſſ. 1. 12. And to this, ſaith the Apoſtle, they believing were appointed, God having foreordained that this Inheritance ſhould be the Portion of Believers, and the Conſequent of Faith in Chriſt, by virtue of which we become the Sons of God.

Ver. 14. Εἰς ἀπολύτρωσιν τῆς περιποιήσεως, till the l
redemption of life.] There is a twofold ἀπολύτρωσις, redemption, mentioned here, and in other places of the New Teſtament. The firſt conſiſts in the Remiſſion of Sin, or our Redemption from the Guilt of it; and of this we have mention, *v.*7. Rom. 3.24. Col. 1. 14. The ſecond in the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, that it may be partaker of Eternal Life; And of this the Apoſtle ſpeaks *Rom.*8.23. calling it the Adoption, and ἀπολύτρωσιν τοῦ σώματος, the Redemption of the Body, or the glorious deliverance of the Sons of God from the Bondage of Corruption, v. 21. Thus 1 *Cor.*1.30. Chriſt is made to us Juſtification, καὶ ἀπολύτρωσις, and Redemption; where Redemption being diſtinguiſhed from, and following Juſtification, and Sanctification, it muſt import the Redemption of the Body from Corruption. And Epheſ. 4. 30. where we are ſaid to be ſealed by the Spirit εἰς ἡμέραν ἀπολυτρώσεως, to the day of Redemption; the firſt delivers us from the Guilt which condemns us to death; the ſecond confers the Promiſe of Eternal Life on them who are thus delivered. Heb. 9. 15. περιποιεῖν is to ſave alive, and περιποίησις is Preſervation. So *Gen.*12.12. they will kill me, σὲ δὲ περιποιήσονται, but they will ſave thee alive. Numb. 22. 33. I had killed thee, ἐκείνην δὲ περιεποιησάμην, but him I had ſaved alive. Joſh. 6. 17. As for Raab περιποιήσασθε αὐτὴν ye ſhall ſave her alive. Go ſlay Amalek, καὶ περιποιήσεσθε ἐξ αὐτῶν, you ſhall ſave none of them alive, 1 Sam. 15. 3. but Saul περιεποιήσατο ſaved Agag alive, v.9,15. 2 Chron. 14. 13. The Æthiopians were overthrown ὥστε μὴ εἶναι ἐν αὐτοῖς περιποίησιν, ſo that none of them were left alive. So Phavorinus περιποιήσασθαι ἀντὶ τοῦ διασώσασθαι. See alſo *Pſal.*79.11. Exod. 1.16. Whence it appears that ἀπολύτρωσις τῆς περιποιήσεως is fitly rendred, the Redemption of Life, or the Redemption of thoſe who are to be preſerved from Death.

Ver. 15. Ἀκούσας, having heard.] Hence m ſome infer that St. Paul could not write this to the Church of Epheſus, where he abode about three years, Acts 20. 31. and had converted many to the Faith throughout moſt parts of Aſia, Acts 19. 26. He therefore could not need to hear of their Faith.

To this it is anſwered by the Reverend Dr. Hammond, that the word ἀκήκοα, as the Hebrew שָׁמַע not only ſignifies to hear, but to underſtand and know, and therefore ſhould be rendred here cum ſciverim, knowing, or having known your faith. And indeed the word bears this ſenſe undoubtedly in thoſe words, 1 Cor. 14.2. He that ſpeaketh in an unknown Tongue, ſpeaketh not to man, οὐδεὶς γὰρ ἀκούει, for no man underſtands him. So Gen. 11.7. Let us confound their Language, ἵνα μὴ ἀκούσωσιν, that they may not underſtand one anothers ſpeech. And Chap. 42.23. They knew not ὅτι ἀκούει that Joſeph underſtood them, for he ſpake to them by an Interpreter; See Deut. 28.49. 2 Kings 18.26. Jer. 5.15. Ezek. 3.6. But

2*ly*, I anſwer that this Epiſtle was writ not only to the Metropolis of Epheſus, but to the faithful in Chriſt Jeſus in the general, and more eſpecially to thoſe of the leſſer Aſia, among whom many might have been converted by Apollo, and others, and St. Paul might have only heard of it; yea, he inſinuates that this Epiſtle was read at Laodicea, and gives order for the Reading of it at Coloſs, Coloſſ. 4.16. See the Note there; at both which places he had never been, Coloſſ. 2.1. And

3*ly*, From the Epiſtle of St. Paul to Timothy it appears, that a dangerous and almoſt Epidemical Apoſtacy from the Purity of the Chriſtian Faith hapned among the Jewiſh Churches in Aſia, which verified St. Paul's Prediction concerning them, that after his Departure, not only grievous Wolves ſhould enter in among them, but that among themſelves ſhould ariſe men ſpeaking perverſe things, to draw away Diſciples after them, Acts 20.29,30. and made it proper for him to give thanks to God for the ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith which he had heard of in the reſt. See 1 Theſſ. 3.6.

n Ver. 17. Πνεῦμα σοφίας, the Spirit of Wiſdom.] St. Paul having aſſerted the Neceſſity of the Revelation of the Spirit, that we may know the things that are freely given us of God, they being not naturally to be perceived, 1 Cor. 6.2 —— 12. doth therefore pray that the Spirit of Wiſdom, Knowledge, and Revelation may be imparted to Chriſtians for that end.

Ver. 19. Τὸ ὑπερβάλλον μέγεθος ἡ δύναμις αὐτοῦ, the exceeding greatneſs of his power.] o Some interpret theſe two Verſes of the Power of God working Faith in Believers, making it equal to that which effected the Reſurrection of our Lord, and thence concluding that we are merely Paſſive in the whole Work of our Converſion; but as this Power is not conſiſtent with Perſwaſion, and a rational Choice, and if it were exerted, would not render it praiſe-worthy in us to turn to God, nor could it truly, and properly be ſaid that we turned, but only that we were turned to God, ſo is not this Expoſition agreeable to the words; for the Apoſtle ſpeaks not of the Power exerciſed on us, to render us Believers, but of the Power which ſhall be exerciſed on us who believe already; not of the Power exerciſed upon our Souls to raiſe them from a Death in Sin, but of the Power to be exerciſed upon our Bodies to give them a glorious Reſurrection to Eternal Life.

Ver. 21. Οὐ μόνον ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι τούτῳ, not only in this World.] p By comparing theſe words with Coloſſ. 2.10. where Chriſt is ſaid to be the Head of all Principality and Power; and with Philip. 2.9. where God is ſaid to have given him a Name above every Name; I am inclined to think theſe words only ſignifie that our Lord Chriſt is exalted above all Power that is, or ever ſhall be; for not to be done in this World, nor in the World to come, Matth. 12.32. is never to be done, Luke 12.32. See Note on Matth. 12.32.

Ver. 22. Πάντα ἐν πᾶσι, all in all.] q For he aſcended up on high, that he might fill the Members of his Church with all Gifts neceſſary for the Edification of his Saints, till they came to the fulneſs of the meaſure of the ſtature of Chriſt, Chap. 4.10, 11, 12. In him all fulneſs dwells, and we are πεπληρωμένοι filled full in him who is the Head of Principalities and Powers, Coloſſ. 2.9,10.

CHAPTER II.

Verſe 1. AND you [alſo] hath he [raiſed, and] quickned [with, and by Chriſt, Chap. 1.20. & 2.5.] who were a [a] dead in treſpaſſes and ſins.

Wherein [in which ſins] in time paſt b ye walked, [living] [b] according to the courſe c [and faſhion] of this [evil] world, [c] according to [the ſuggeſtions of] the Prince of the power of the Air, the Spirit which [even] now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience, [the Heathen World.]

3. as others of the Gentiles were.]

4. [This, I ſay, was our former ſtate,] But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love, wherewith he loved us [Gentiles;]

5. Even when we were [thus] dead in ſins, e hath quickned us together with Chriſt, [through his rich grace, for] by grace ye are ſaved, [i. e. are brought into a ſtate of Salvation.]

6. And hath raiſed us up together, [not only by a ſpiritual conformity to his Reſurrection, Rom. 6. 5, 11. but alſo by an Aſſurance of a like Reſurrection, 1 Pet. 1. 3. he being riſen as the firſt-fruits, 1 Cor. 15. 20. and the firſt-born from the dead, Coloſſ. 1. 18.] and made us ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus [our Head thus raiſed and exalted, and thus aſcended into Heaven as our Fore-runner, Heb. 6. 20. & 10. 13, 14.]

7. That in [and through] the Ages to come he might [by this means] ſhew the exceeding riches of his grace, in [this] his kindneſs to us through Chriſt Jeſus.

8. [I ſay, the riches of his grace,] For f by grace are ye ſaved through faith [in Chriſt,] and that [faith is] not of [and from] your ſelves, it is the gift of God, [the objects of our faith being only made known by Divine Revelation, 1 Cor. 2. and only confirmed, and ſo made credible to us by the Teſtimony which God hath given to them.]

9. Not of works [done before faith by us,] leſt any man ſhould boaſt, [as doing any thing which might antecedently deſerve, or make him meet to be acquainted with, and made partaker of this ſaving grace.]

10. [Not of works, for this Reaſon alſo,] For we are his Workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus to good works, which God g hath before ordained [οἷς προητοίμασεν (ſub ἡμᾶς) ὁ Θεὸς,) to which God hath before prepared us,] that we ſhould walk in them.

11. Wherefore, remember that ye being [were] in times paſt Gentiles in the fleſh, who are called the uncircumciſion, by that [Nation of the Jews] which is called the Circumciſion, [by reaſon of their Circumciſion] made with hands.

12. [And] That at that time ye were without [the knowledge of] Chriſt, being Aliens from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, [to whom the Meſſiah primarily belonged,] and ſtrangers from the Covenants of Promiſe, [made to their Fore-fathers,] h having no [firm and lively] hope [of ſpiritual, and future bleſſings,] and [being] i without [the knowledge of the true] God in the world.

13. But now in Chriſt Jeſus, ye who ſometimes were afar off [from God, and from the bleſſings imparted to the Jews,] are made k nigh [to God, as they were] by the blood of Chriſt.

14. For he is our peace [maker,] who hath made both [Jew and Gentile] one [as to the Privilege of the Goſpel, John 10. 16. Gal. 4. 28.] and hath broken down the l middle wall of Partition betwixt us, [i. e. aboliſhed the Ceremonial Law, which was a Partition-wall betwixt Jew and Gentile.]

15. Having aboliſhed in [or by] his [own] fleſh [that which made] the enmity [betwixt Jew and Gentile,] even the Law of Commandments [conſiſting] in Ordinances [peculiar to the Jews,] for to make in himſelf [or create] of two, m one new man, [to whom as their Head, they are both united into one body, thus] making n peace [betwixt both.]

16. And that he might reconcile both unto God in one Body by the Croſs, having ſlain the enmity [betwixt both to God] thereby, [or upon it; for when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, Rom. 5. 10. 2 Cor. 5. 18. Col. 1. 21. Or, having ſlain, that is, aboliſhed by his Croſs thoſe Ordinances which were ἐναντία ἡμῖν, contrary to us, Coloſſ. 2. 14. as excluding us from the Society of God's People, and cauſing the Enmity betwixt the Jews and Gentiles, v. 15.]

17. And [having procured this Reconciliation, he] came, and [ἐλθὼν εὐηγγελίσατο, he coming by his Apoſtles] preached peace to you [Gentiles] which were afar off, and to them that were near [i. e. the Jews.]

18. For through him [thus reconciling us to God] o we both [Jew, and Gentile,] have acceſs by one Spirit [of Adoption conferred upon us] to the Father, [and are enabled to come unto him as our Father, Rom. 8. 15.]

19. Now therefore ye [Gentiles] are no more [to be reckoned as] p ſtrangers and foreigners, but [as] fellow-Citizens with the Saints, and of the houſhold of God.

20. And are built upon the foundation of the Apoſtles [of the New,] and the Prophets [of the old Covenant,] Jeſus Chriſt himſelf being the chief Corner-ſtone [who ſupports, and cements the whole Building, both of Believing, Jews and Gentiles, and unites both into one Body by his Spirit, Pſal. 117. 22.]

21. In whom all the building [being thus] fitly framed together, [or compacted,] groweth into one holy Temple in the Lord. [They then belong not to this building, whoſe Bodies are not an holy Temple to the Lord.]

22. In whom ye [Epheſians] alſo are builded together for q an habitation of God through the Spirit.

a Verſe 1. Νεκρὸς τοῖς ἁμαρτίαις, dead in ſins.] They who interpret this Phraſe thus, You who are dead to ſins by baptiſm, ſeem not to have looked to the fifth verſe, where they who are here ſaid to be dead in treſpaſſes and ſins, are ſaid to be quickned; or to the parallel place, Col. 2.13. where it is ſaid, you who were dead in ſins, and the circumciſion of the fleſh he hath quickned; nor indeed to the Phtaſe which is never uſed in the Plural Number in that ſenſe, but only in the Singular, viz. Rom 6. 2. & & 10.11.

b Ver. 2. Κατὰ τὸν αἰῶνα, according to the courſe of this world.] That is, according to the Life which Men of this World, deſtitute of Faith in Chriſt, do live; for as Phavorinus ſaith αἰων, the word Age, is ἡ ζωὴ, καὶ ὁ βίος, the life of man, or τὸ μέτρον τῆς ἀνθρωπίνης ζωῆς, the meaſure of humane life. Thus τὸν αἰῶνα διάγειν in Iſocrates and Zenophon, is to paſs the time of life, τελευτῆσαι τὸν αἰῶνα in Herodotus and Sophocles, is to end this life, or to die.

c Ibid. Κατὰ τὸν Ἄρχοντα τῆς ἐξουσίας τοῦ ἀέρος, according to the Prince of the Power of the Air.] It was the Opinion both of Jews and Heathens, τὸν ἀέρα ψυχῶν ἔμπλεων, that the Air was full of Spirits, called Demons, as (a) Diogenes ſaith in the Life of Pythagoras; and the Jews in the Pirk Avoth teach, à terrâ uſque ad firmamentum omnia eſſe plena turmis, & præfectis, that from the Earth to the Firmament all things were full of theſe Companies, and Rulers; and that there was a Prince over them who was called ὁ Κοσμοκράτωρ, the Governor of the World, as of the Darkneſs of it; See Note on Chap. 6. v. 12. This Evil Spirit is here ſaid ἐνεργεῖν, inwardly to work in the Children of Diſobedience, and elſewhere, to lead them captive at his will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. and their Converſion is ſtiled a Recovery of them from the power of Satan, Acts 26.18. And hence we may rationally conclude, that the good Spirit doth alſo inwardly work in pious Perſons, enabling them to will and to do, it being unreaſonable to conceive the evil Spirit ſhould have more power over thoſe wicked men in whom he dwells, than the good Spirit hath in thoſe pious Perſons in whoſe hearts he is ſaid to dwell.

d Ver. 3. Καὶ ἦμεν τέκνα φύσει ὀργῆς, and were by nature Children of Wrath.] The Ancient Fathers generally affirm, That Sin cannot owe its Original purely to that Nature in which we were born, but only τῇ αὐτεξουσίῳ, i. e. to the choice or conſent of the Will, and that they who make us to be Sinners, merely by the Derivation of our Natures from our Progenitors, do make God, the Author of our Nature, to be the Author of our Sin. The ſame they ſeem to do, who ſay that Sin is propagated by Generation, and that an Infant is therefore properly by Birth a Sinner, it being God who hath eſtabliſhed that Order in the Generation of Mankind, which neither he that begets, nor he that is begotten can correct; and by whoſe Benediction Mankind encreaſe and multiply, and reaſon will inſtruct us, that to be born or not, is not in our power; and that what is not in our power to avoid can never be our Crime, nor render us obnoxious to the Eternal Wrath of God.

Moreover, The Circumſtances of the Text demonſtrate that the Apoſtle here intendeth no ſuch thing, becauſe he ſpeaks of Perſons dead in [actual] treſpaſſes and ſins, in which in times paſt they had walked, according to the courſe of the [Heathen] World, and the Suggeſtions of Satan; of Men, who had their converſation in times paſt in the fleſh, fulfilling the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind, and were, on that account, the Children of Wrath, as well as other Heathens. And therefore Suidas, agreeable to the Context, ſaith, That Nature is here put for cuſtomary Practice, according to the frequent import of that word in Prophane Authors; in (b) Philo, in whom Cuſtom is ἐγθρὰ φύσις ἀληθείας, a Nature oppoſite to Truth; and in our common Proverb, That Cuſtom is a ſecond Nature. His words are theſe; (c) When the Apoſtle ſaith, We are by Nature the Children of Wrath, he ſaith not this according to the proper acceptation of the word Nature, for then he had caſt the blame on the Author of Nature; but he underſtands by it a long, and evil Cuſtom. And (d) Didymus Alexandrinus ſaith, the Apoſtle intends by it τὸ παρεπόμενον τῇ φύσει, καὶ τὸ κατὰ φύσιν, not that which is according to Nature, but that which is acceſſory to it.

here the ſame as to be (e) truly and indeed ſo; And that the Epheſians, and other Nations are ſtiled ſuch here, becauſe in that eſtate they continually provoked God to Wrath by their Idolatries, and fleſhly Luſts; and ſo they are here ſtiled, ſay they, Children of Wrath, partly as being born in Heatheniſm, and therefore indole Idololatræ, (f) and ſo out of Covenant with God, (in which eſtate the whole Body of the Heathens are repreſented as having no hope of the Bleſſings promiſed to thoſe who were in Covenant with God,) and without (the favour and protection of) God in the world. And Perſons ſo abandoned by him, are in Scripture ſtiled, the Objects of his hatred, comparatively to thoſe who are in covenant with him; as in theſe words, Jacob have I loved, and Eſau have I hated, Mal. 1. 2. And when God determined to reject, and to forſake his People, he ſtiles them, the Generation of his Wrath, Jer. 7. 29. as being worthy of his Wrath, as wicked Perſons are ſtiled Sons of Death, and of Perdition, as having done thoſe things which rendred them worthy of Death and Deſtruction, i. e. not for Original Sin, but for a long Series of Actual and Habitual Tranſgreſſions. And whereas Eſthius ſaith that the word τέκνα, Children, ſhews that this Phraſe relates to what they were from their Nativity, this may be eaſily confuted from theſe following Expreſſions, ſome of them frequent in the Holy Scripture; viz. τέκνα Θεῦ, the Children of God, Joh. 1. 12. τέκνα σοφίας, the Children of Wiſdom, Matth. 11. 19. τέκνα ὑπακοῆς, Children of Obedience, 1 Pet. 1. 14. τέκνα τῆς ἐπαγγελίας, Children of the Promiſe, oppoſed to Children of the Fleſh, Rom. 9. 8. Gal. 4. 28. κατάρας τέκνα, accurſed Children, 2 Pet. 2. 14. for we are not Sons of God, of Wiſdom, of Obedience, of the Promiſe, or Curſe, by Nativity, but by our own good or evil Actions. And whereas he adds, that the Apoſtle writes this in the Perſon of the Jews, this is moſt plainly falſe, the Jews being not under the Prince of the Power of the Air, i. e. the Conduct and Government of Satan, as were thoſe Heathens, whoſe Gods were Demons, and who ſacrificed to Devils, and not to God. Moreover, they who are here ſaid to be quickned, when they were dead in treſpaſſes, are ſaid Coloſſ. 2. 13. to be quickned when dead in treſpaſſes, and the uncircumciſion of the fleſh, which cannot poſſibly agree to the Jews. We all, here therefore, is only all the Gentiles, whatſoever Mr. Cl. ſays to the contrary; nor is there any thing more common than for St. Paul to ſpeak thus. So Tit. 3. 3. We our ſelves alſo were ſometimes fooliſh, diſobedient, deceived, ſerving divers luſts and pleaſures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another; not we Apoſtles, or we Jews, but we Gentiles. And this is here evident to a Demonſtration; for what is here we, v. 2. & 5. is ye v. 8. what is we v. 10. is again ye, v. 11, 12, 13. what is we v. 18. is ye v. 19.

Ver. 5. Συνεζωοποίησε τῷ Χριστῷ, hath quickned us together with Chriſt.] Not only by giving us a new Birth, or Renovation of Life, but an Aſſurance alſo of Eternal Life; for becauſe I live, ſaith Chriſt, you ſhall live alſo, John 14. 19. we ſhall be ſaved by his life, Rom. 5. 10. e

Ver. 8. Τῇ γὰρ χάριτί ἐστε σεσωσμένοι, for by grace ye are ſaved.] That we may underſtand aright how we are here, and in other places, ſaid to be ſaved by grace and mercy, and not by works, it may deſerve to be obſerved, f

1. That though the Apoſtle here ſaith, by grace ye are ſaved, not of works, yet leſt any man ſhould hence be tempted to infer, that Chriſtians may be ſaved without doing Works of Righteouſneſs, when they have time and opportunity to do them, he expreſly adds, and that by way of Reaſon of what he had aſſerted, that, We are his workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus to good works, which God hath ordained that we ſhould walk in them. Since then to walk in Righteouſneſs according to the import of that Phraſe in Scripture, implies, that the Tenor of our Lives be ſpent in Works of Righteouſneſs, ſurely we cannot reaſonably hope to be accepted by God, if we neglect the very End for which we are created in Chriſt Jeſus, or decline that way in which God hath ordained us to walk. Hence the Apoſtle tells the ſame Epheſians, that if they had been taught the Chriſtian Faith, as the truth was in Jeſus, they knew themſelves obliged to put off the old man, and to put on the new, which after God is created in righteouſneſs and true holineſs, and that it was their duty to walk as Children of Light, proving what is acceptable to the Lord, and bringing forth thoſe Fruits of the Spirit, which are in all goodneſs, righteouſneſs and truth, Chap. 4. 21, 22. Chap. 5. 8, 9.

Note 2*ly*, That when the Apoſtle ſaith we are ſaved not by works, his meaning is not to exclude all Works from having any Influence on our Salvation, but only to exclude thoſe Works which are done antecedently to Faith, and to the Renovation of the Holy Ghoſt, or antecedently to their being called by the Goſpel to Salvation; this is apparent from the Reaſon here aſſigned, why we are not ſaved by Works, viz. becauſe we were not fitted or prepared to do good Works till we were firſt in Chriſt; which as it does exclude Good Works performed before Faith in Chriſt, ſo doth it as effectually eſtabliſh thoſe which are afterwards to be performed by virtue of the New Nature given to us, and the Renewing of the Holy Ghoſt.

Object. And whereas ſome object againſt this Anſwer, That the Apoſtle ſaith we are ſaved by grace, not of works, leſt any man ſhould boaſt, which boaſting doth not ſeem to be excluded, if our Salvation doth any way depend on Works done by us, whether they be Legal, or Evangelical, done before, or after Faith.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, That though Salvation doth depend upon Good Works, or on ſincere Obedience to be performed by us after Faith, yet is all boaſting utterly excluded, (1.) Becauſe the good Works we do, proceed not from our ſelves, but purely from the Grace and Spirit of God; for it is God that worketh in us both to will, and to do of his good pleaſure. As therefore the Apoſtle ſaith of the Gift of Tongues, and Healing, and the like, which were ſo frequent in the Church of Corinth, and were occaſions of their boaſting, who maketh thee to differ in theſe things from others? or what gift haſt thou which thou haſt not received? and if thou haſt received it, wherefore doſt thou boaſt, as if it were thine own, and thou hadſt not received it? 1 Cor. 4.7. So may we here: What good work doſt thou which thou haſt not received grace, and the good Spirit to perform? and if thou haſt received ſtrength from God for the Performance of them, wherefore doſt thou boaſt? This being the Apoſtle's Rule, that we can boaſt of nothing, but that which we have not received, or which is purely from our ſelves.

2*ly*, Though God is pleaſed to make the doing good Works a neceſſary Condition of Salvation, ſo that without them we ſhall not obtain it, yet is all boaſting utterly excluded, becauſe it is of grace that our imperfect Works are counted good, and that they are at all rewarded by God. For 'tis alone through that New Covenant which God hath ſtabliſhed in Chriſt Jeſus, that all the Imperfections which adhere to our beſt Performances are pardoned, ſeeing the Covenant of Works requires perfect Obedience, and tendreth no pardon to the leaſt offence. Now upon what account can any of us boaſt of doing that which in it ſelf deſerveth condemnation, though through grace it finds acceptance? Boaſting, ſaith the Apoſtle, is not excluded by the Law of Works, Rom. 3. 27. & 4.4. becauſe to him that worketh the reward is not reckoned of grace, but of debt, Rom. 11.6. Grace and Works that deſerve Juſtification and Salvation, being perfectly oppoſite one to another. Where therefore the Reward is ſtill of Grace, and not of Debt; where it is given on the account of Works imperfect, which deſerve nothing from God, there boaſting is excluded. Note

3*ly*, That when the Apoſtle ſaith, we are ſaved by grace, there the word ſaved doth not ſignifie the final and compleat Salvation which we ſhall enjoy in Heaven, but only our being placed in the way of Salvation, and put into that eſtate, in which if we continue grounded and ſettled in the Faith, and be not moved from the hope of the Goſpel, Col. 1.23. we ſhall undoubtedly be ſaved. That this may be the ſenſe of theſe Expreſſions, We are ſaved by grace, and according to his mercy he ſaved us, Tit. 3. 5. cannot be doubted, if we conſider that this is frequently the import of this Phraſe in other Places, as when 'tis ſaid at the Converſion of Zachæus, This day ſalvation is come to this houſe, Luke 19.3. that Baptiſm doth ſave us, 1 Pet. 3.21. that there were added to the Church οἱ σωζομένοι the ſaved, Acts 2.47. See John 4.22. Rom. 8.24. 1 Cor. 1. 18. that this muſt be the proper import of it in theſe places, is evident from this Conſideration, That the Perſons to whom the Apoſtle here ſpeaks, were not actually and completely ſaved, but only by embracing the Goſpel, which is ſtiled the Word, the Goſpel of Salvation, the Power of God through Faith to Salvation, were placed in that way which leadeth to Eternal Life, and which is called the Way of Salvation. It being therefore of God's free grace and mercy that any Church, or Nation, is called to the Knowledge of Salvation, and hath the Word of Life revealed to them, it being by that Faith, which is the gift of God, that they are juſtified, and ſo placed in the way of Salvation, and by his free gift that they enjoy the Holy Spirit, by which they are enabled to work out their Salvation, they may well be ſaid to be ſaved by Grace through Faith, according to thoſe words of the ſame Apoſtle, 2 Tim. 1. 9. He hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy Calling, not according to our works, but according to his purpoſe, and grace which was given us in Chriſt. But then this hinders not our complete Salvation at the great day from being conferred upon us, with reſpect to our works, by him who hath declared he will render to every one according to his works: Glory, honour and immortality to every one that worketh good, and that by patient continuance in well-doing ſeeketh for it, Rom. 2.6,7.

Ver. 10. προητοίμασεν, he hath before prepared us.] i. e. Before we do them, by giving us the knowledge of his Will, and the aſſiſtance of his Spirit to perform them, i. e. our intire Renovation, or new Creation, by which alone we are enabled to do works good and acceptable in his ſight, is from God, who by Chriſt Jeſus hath given us the knowledge of our duty, and by his Grace g and Spirit hath enabled us for the performance of it. They miſlead men who extend this to our whole Salvation, from the beginning to the end, which though it be ſo of grace, as to be carried on from the beginning of the New Nature, to the end of our life, by the aſſiſtance of God's Grace and Holy Spirit, yet is not ſo of Grace, as to exclude thoſe Works of Righteouſneſs God hath prepared us to walk in, they being the Conditions requiſite to make Faith ſaving, the Terms on which alone we are to enter into Life, Matth. 7.21. Luke 10. 25,28. Rom. 2. 6, 7,10. 2 Pet. 1. 5——11. Rev. 22. 14. and according to which we ſhall receive our future Recompence, Rom. 2. 6. 1 Cor. 3. 8. 2 Cor. 5.10. Gal. 6. 4,5.

i Ibid. Ἄθεοι, without the true God.] For then not knowing God, they ſerved τοῖς μὴ φύσει οὖσι Θεοῖς, thoſe which by nature were not Gods, Gal. 4. 8. even their Wiſe-men changed the truth of God into a lie, and worſhipped the Vulgar Deities, Rom. 1.25. they were Heathens, carried about to dumb Idols, 1 Cor. 12. 2. Hence at their Converſion they are ſaid to turn from Idols to ſerve the living and true God, 1 Theſſ. 1. 9.

k Ver. 13. Ἐγγὺς, nigh.] Thoſe Jews who had no Ceremonial Defilement to be purged away, and who had made an Atonement for their known ſins, were admitted to come near to God, as being holy; they had a freedom of acceſs to God, in his Tabernacle and Temple, whence they are ſtiled ὁ λαὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτῷ, the People that draw near to God, Lev. 10.3. Pſal. 65.4. & 148.14. and God is ſaid to be ὁ Θεὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτοῖς, a God near to them, Deut. 7.4. both by Relation, as having owned them as his Children, and Family, and entred into Covenant to be their God, and by his more eſpecial Preſence with them, for the Schechinah, or the glorious Preſence, dwelt among them in the Holy Place. Now all theſe Privileges, ſaith the Apoſtle, are equally conferred upon the Gentiles, they are now made near to God, v. 13. have acceſs to him, v. 18. are fellow Citizens of the Saints, and of the Family of God, v. 19. The Schechinah dwells in them as in a Temple, and they are made an habitation of God through the Spirit, v. 21,22.

l Ver. 14. Τὸ μεσότοιχον, the middle-wall.] This refers to that Partition-wall in the Temple, which ſeparated the Court of the Gentiles from that into which the Jews entred, on which was written that no Alien might go in to it, it being, ſaith (g) Joſephus, a Sanction of Antiochus, μὴ δεῖν ἀλλόφυλον ἐνδὸς τῆς ἁγίας περιέναι, that no Alien ſhould enter into the Court of the Sanctuary, which was encloſed with the Sept; And this Inſcription was writ in Greek and Latin.

Ver. 15. Εἰς ἕνα καινὸν ἄνθρωπον, into one new Man.] As being both to walk in newneſs of life, and by the new Law of Chriſtianity, and by Chriſt's new Commandment of Love. m

Ibid. Εἰρήνην, Peace.] This Peace Chriſt hath made between Jew and Gentile, by aboliſhing the Ceremonial Law which made the Enmity; and with God, by Reconciling both to him by his Death. n

Ver. 18. Οἱ ἀμφότεροι, we both.] Hence we learn, (1.) That Chriſt not only reconciled Jews and Gentile to one another, but that he reconciled both to God, for by him we have προσαγωγὴν acceſs to the Father, a freedom of acceſs to God, v. 18. and Chap. 3.12. Now where this Phraſe in the New Teſtament is uſed, with reſpect to Chriſt, it ſtill imports the freedom of Acceſs vouchſafed to them who formerly were by their ſins excluded from God's gracious Preſence; this is obtained, ſay theſe words, by virtue of his blood making our Peace by him, reconciling us to God by his Croſs, and bringing them near to God who were afar off. How is he our Peace? becauſe the Chaſtiſement which procured our Peace was upon him, Iſa. 53.5. How did he reconcile us to God? but by the Croſs; i. e. by bearing our ſins in his body on the Croſs, 1 Pet. 2.24. By virtue of this Blood the Gentiles, who formerly were Aliens, are made near to God; they who were Strangers, were made God's Domeſticks; they who emphatically were Sinners, Gal. 2.15. were made fellow Citizens of the Saints, they who were Children of Wrath, v. 2. to them is God reconciled; and after all this, can it be reaſonably denied, that Chriſt hath pacified God to the Gentiles by his blood? Or doth not all this import a Reconciliation on God's part to them? o

To ſhew the Reaſon of this Reconciliation, let it be noted, That God being an holy God, none were to come into his Preſence who had any Pollution or Defilement on them upon pain of Death, till they were ſanctified or cleanſed from it by ſome Purification, or Atonement made for them to God. He dwelt in the Camp of Iſrael; and ſo thoſe Lepers which were ſo unclean as to pollute the Camp, were driven from it, Lev. 13.46. Numb. 5.2,3. 2 Kings 15.5. and thoſe Sin-offerings which were polluted with the ſins of the whole Congregation, were car- ried out of the Camp, Lev. 16. 21, 22. Heb. 13. 11.

God dwelt more eſpecially in the Temple, and therefore they who had leſſer Impurities, i. e. who were defiled by the Dead, or by an Iſſue, or a Menſtruous Woman, were not to come thither, till they were cleanſed from thoſe Defilements, Lev. 12.4. 15. 31.

Moreover he being a God of purer Eyes than to behold Iniquity; they who had committed any Sin of Ignorance, and lay under the guilt of it, were not permitted to come into the Court of the Men of Iſrael, till they had brought their Offering of Atonement. Ainſworth on Numb. 5. 3.

Now God being ſtill the ſame holy God, of purer Eyes than to behold Iniquity, the Scriptures of the New Teſtament ſeem as plainly to make our freedom of acceſs to God, to depend upon our being ſanctified, or purg'd from our defilement, and our being delivered from the guilt of Sin by an Atonement made by the Blood of Chriſt for our Iniquities, that ſo they being pardoned, we may have peace with God, and an acceſs to his favour. This plainly ſeems to be the import of theſe words, Heb. 9. 13. If the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Aſhes of an Heifer ſprinkling the unclean, ſanctifieth to the purifying of the Fleſh, and by ſo doing procureth an Admiſſion of the Perſon cleanſed to ſerve God in the Sanctuary, Numb. 19. 9, 12, 17. How much more ſhall the Blood of Chriſt, who thro' the Eternal Spirit offered himſelf without ſpot to God, purge your Conſcience from dead Works [or Works expoſing you to Death, the Puniſhment of the Perſon who came unclean into God's Preſence, that ſo you may be admitted] to ſerve the living God?

Ver. 19. Ξένοι, Strangers.] The Proſelytes p who joined themſelves to the God of Iſrael, were by the Jews, and by the Scriptures, ſtiled Strangers. He that only took upon him to worſhip the true God, and obſerve the Precepts of Noah, was Ger Toſhab, a Stranger permitted to dwell among them and to worſhip in the Court of the Gentiles, He that was circumciſed, and became obedient to the Law of Moſes, was Ger Tzedek a Proſelite of Righteouſneſs, but both were called Strangers, according to that Maxim of the Jews, All the Nations of the World are called נכרים Strangers before the God of Iſrael; but the Jews are ſaid to be קריבים near to him. But now, ſaith the Apoſtle there is no ſuch difference, the believing Gentile being equally admitted with believing Jews, to the Privileges of the New Jeruſalem, and equally related to God as part of his Family.

And why, after he came to Rome, the Jews preached Chriſt not ſincerely, but out of envy to him, to add affliction to his bonds, Philip. 1. 15, 16.

b Ver. 2. Εἴγε ἠκούσατε, if ye have heard.] Hence ſome raiſe a ſecond Objection againſt this Epiſtle's being written by St. Paul to the Epheſians; for, ſay they, to them with whom he had ſo long converſed, there could be no doubt, whether they had heard of the Diſpenſation of the Grace of God given him towards them. But indeed this is no Objection to them who will conſider, that this Epiſtle was not written to the Epheſians only, but alſo to all the faithful in Chriſt Jeſus, many of whom had never ſeen his Face, nor heard his Voice. And 2ly, If we conſider, that he ſpeaks here particularly of the manner of his receiving this Diſpenſation, viz. by immediate Revelation from Chriſt Jeſus; of which the Galatians, among whom he had alſo preached, were ignorant; and therefore the Apoſtle, in his Epiſtle to them, ſaith, γνωρίζω ὑμῖν, of this I certifie you, confirming his Aſſertion with an Oath, Gal. 1. 11, 12, 16. Add to this, 3ly, That the Particle εἴγε, is not here a Particle of doubting, but of affirmation, and is to be rendred as Theophylact doth ἐπειδή, ſince; ſo the Hebrew, אם is often rendred quandoquidem; and ſo Philo uſes this Particle in theſe words, (a) Εἴγε τὰ ἀκούσια, ἢ τὰ κατ' ἄγνοιαν ἐπὶ ἀδικημάτων λόγον ἔχειν φασί τινες, ſeeing ſome ſay of things done involuntarily, and out of ignorance, that they are not to be accounted Sins; and when he ſays, Abel yet lives (b), εἴγε ἔτι ἐκείνης ἦν Θεῷ ἡ φωνὴ χρώμενος ἀνειστικὴ, Seeing that he had ſtill a Voice to cry to God. And that Sarah is repreſented by Moſes, both as barren and very fruitful (c), Εἴγε τὸ πολυανθρωποτάτων ἐθνῶν ἐξ ἀτεκνίας ὁμολογεῖ γένεσθαι. ſince

c Ver. 5. Ὡς νῦν ἀπεκαλύφθη, As it hath been now revealed.] It was in the general made known, that in Abraham ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed; and that Chriſt ſhould be a Light to the Gentiles; of which ſee Note on v. 10. But it was not made known to the Jews, that the Gentiles ſhould be Fellow heirs with them of the ſame Salvation, and Celeſtial Inheritance. For that this was matter of admiration to the firſt Jewiſh Converts, we learn from theſe words, Then hath God alſo given to the Gentiles repentance unto life, Acts 11. 18. They did not know, or believe, that the Gentiles ſhould be made Members of the ſame Body, and admitted to the ſame Privileges, and made Partakers of the ſame Spirit with them. Hence the believing Jews, ἐξέστησαν, were in an Extaſie, when they ſaw that the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt was poured on the Gentiles, Acts 10. 45. Gal. 3. 14. and much leſs did they know, that the Partition-Wall, which made the diſtance and enmity between them, ſhould be taken away by the Meſſiah, as the Apoſtle here teacheth, v. 14, 15. that the hand-writing of Ordinances was to be blotted out on this account, Coloſſ. 2. 14. and that theſe Privileges were to be conferr'd upon them without Circumciſion, or Obſervation of the Law of Moſes. They rather thought they were either firſt to be made Jews, and then Chriſtians, or only were to come as Slaves and Drudges to them who were the Children of the Kingdom. And hence the Apoſtle ſpends a great part of the Epiſtles to the Romans, and Galatians, to aſſert this Privilege of the Gentiles, againſt the Judaizing Chriſtians. In a word, to the Jews anciently belonged υἱοθεσία, the Sonſhip, and ſo the Inheritance, (for if Sons, then Heirs, Rom. 8. 17.) and Promiſes, Rom. 9. 4. and they conceived that none were even to be admitted into their Body, or to partake of thoſe Privileges, unleſs they were circumciſed, and became obedient to the Law of Moſes, Acts 15. 1. which they thought never was to ceaſe, or to be antiquated. And therefore, ſay the Greek Fathers, the Apoſtle here declares, that God now under the Goſpel-Diſpenſation, equally admitted the believing Gentiles to theſe Privileges by Faith, without Circumciſion, or Obedience to the Law of Moſes.

d Ibid. Καὶ προφήταις, And to the Prophets.] That the Apoſtle here underſtands the Prophets of the New Teſtament, or thoſe who in the firſt Ages of the Church received the Prophetical Grace, and by it underſtood all Myſteries, 1 Cor. 13. 2. the words ὡς νῦν, as now it is revealed under the Goſpel to the Prophets, will not ſuffer us to doubt. And this fully anſwers all the Objections of Eſthius, againſt the Expoſition I have given of the former words.

Ver. 7. Κατὰ τὴν δωρεὰν τ χάριτ⊖, According to the Gift of Grace.] That the Apoſtolate is by St. Paul oft ſtiled Grace; See the Note on Rom. 1. 5. And that in this ſenſe he underſtands the Gift of Grace here, is evident from the following words. e

Ver. 9. Τῷ πάντα κτίσαντι, Who created all things.] The Ancients commonly ſay, that God the Father is, ὁ πρώτ⊖ δημιουργὸς, the prime, and chief Creator of the World, as being the Original of all creating Power, and he as it were commanding, and the Son executing his Command, who is hence ſtiled (d) ὁ μεσοτάτος δημιουργὸς, the immediate Creator, or αὐτουργὸς τ κόσμ, the Artificer of the World. Hence (e) Irenæus ſo often ſaith, Patrem omnia feciſſe per verbum, or verbo virtutis, and that the Son and Holy Spirit are (f) quaſi manus, as it were the Hands of God, by which he made all things, and to both which all the Angels are ſubject. f

Ver. 10. Ταῖς ἀρχαῖς κ ταῖς ἐξουσίαις, To the Principalities and Powers.] This Phraſe, tho' uſed of evil Spirits, ch. 6. 12. may be underſtood of good Angels, the Myſtery of Godlineſs, being then ſeen of Angels, 1 Tim. 3. 16. and the things which the Apoſtles preached by the Holy Ghoſt, being ſuch as the Angels deſired to look into, 1 Pet. 1. 12. But whereas from thoſe words, v. 6. Was not made known, &c. Mr. Le Clerc ſaith thus, The ſame thing which is there ſaid in other Ages, not to have been made known to the Sons of Men, is ſaid here to have been unknown alſo to Angels; which being ſo, I confeſs I do not well underſtand, how they who are neither Prophets, nor Angels, can find out ſo many places in the Prophets, in which the calling of the Gentiles is manifeſtly and directly foretold; for certainly if it was revealed to the Prophets, they underſtood it; and if it could be gathered from the literal ſenſe of any Prophecies, the Angels might have underſtood it by thoſe Prophecies. Whereas, I ſay, he deſcants thus: What would he have? Would he deny, againſt the plain and frequent Sayings of St. Paul, That the Calling of the Gentiles was revealed to, and plainly foretold by the Prophets, as his words do import? Let him, if he can, confute St. Paul proving it againſt him, That the Lord had commanded the Gentiles ſhould be called in theſe words of the Prophet Iſaiah, I have ſet thee to be a Light to the Gentiles, and to be for Salvation to the g

Ends of the Earth, Acts 13.46,47. And his four other Proofs from the Prophets, Moſes, David, and Eſaias, that the Gentiles were to glorifie God for his mercy to them in Chriſt Jeſus, that Root of Jeſſe, who was to riſe up to govern the Gentiles, and in whom the Gentiles were to truſt, Rom.15. 9,10,11,12. Yea, let him confute the Apoſtle James, ſaying, Simeon hath declared how God at firſt did viſit the Gentiles, to take out of them a People for his Name, and to this agree the words of the Prophets; After this I will build again the Tabernacle of David, &c. that the reſidue of men might ſeek after the Lord, and all the Nations upon whom my name is called, Acts 15. 14——17. Nor doth the Apoſtle any where hint, that the Calling of the Gentiles was not revealed to, or by the Prophets, but only that it was not ſo made known in all the Particularities of it, ὡς νῦν, as it is now diſcovered by the Apoſtles and Prophets of the New Teſtament; See the Note on v. 6. 2ly, It was alſo known to, and preached by the Angels, declaring the glad tydings of great Joy which ſhould be to all Nations through Chriſt, Luke 2. 10, 11. he being as well a light to lighten the Gentiles, as the glory of his People Iſrael. Nor does the Apoſtle here ſay, as he ſuggeſts, rhat this was unknown to the Angels, but only that what was before made known to them by Prophecies, was now made known to them by the Church, i. e. the Gentiles actually called; though all the Circumſtances mentioned Note on v. 6. might not be fully known before even to them.

h Ver. 11. Κατὰ πρόθεσιν τῶν αἰώνων, according to the fore-diſpoſing of the Ages.] In the firſt of the Ages his Wiſdom ſeeing fit to give the Promiſe of a Saviour to a fall'n Adam; in the ſecond Age to typifie, and repreſent him to the Jews in Sacred Perſons, Rites, and Sacrifices, and in the Age of the Meſſiah, or the laſt Age, to reveal him to the Jews, and preach him to the Gentiles.

i Ver. 15. Πᾶσα πατριὰ, the whole Family.] It is frequent with the Jews to make mention of the Angels as the Family in Heaven, and of Men, eſpecially thoſe that are in covenant with God, as his Family on Earth; as when they ſay, God doth nothing but he firſt conſults with his Family שלמעלה above, that is, with the Angels. And that he that addicts himſelf to the ſtudy of the Divine Law for the ſake of the Law, conciliates to himſelf Peace with the Family above, and with the Family below, that is, with Angels in Heaven, and Men on Earth. They are alſo called קדישי עלאי the Saints above, Targ. in Job 15.15. and the Sons of God, as in theſe words of Job 1.6. & 2.1. And on a day came Ἄγγελοι Θεῦ, the Sons of God, and *Chap.*38.7. Where waſt thou when ἄγγελοί μου, all the Sons of God ſhouted for joy? and ſo are all true Believers ſtiled, for to as many as believed, he gave power to be the Sons of God, 1 John 1.12. and they at the Reſurrection ſhall be like the Angels, and be the Sons of God, Luke 20.36.

Ver. 18. Τὸ πλάτος καὶ μῆκος, the breadth, length, depth, and height.] By the breadth of this love ſome of the Fathers underſtand the great extent, and generality of Chriſt's Affection, his Death being deſigned for the Benefit of all Perſons, Jew and Gentile, through all Ages from Adam to the end of the World, and in all places, he having by it reconciled things in Heaven, and things in the Earth, Chap.1.10. By the depth of it, ſay they, is ſignified the greatneſs of his Humiliation; Love to Mankind having induced him to change the form of God, for that of a Servant, humbled the Lord of Life to an ignominious and painful Death, and brought him from the higheſt Heavens to the loweſt Hell, into which, they conceive, he deſcended for our ſakes. The length of it imports, ſay they, his love to us from the beginning of the World, we being choſen in Chriſt from the beginning, Chap.1.4. & 3.11. The height of his Affection is manifeſted, ſay they, in that being now exalted to the right hand of Majeſty, he is ſtill there imployed in Acts of greateſt Kindneſs to us, uſing his whole Power in Heaven and Earth for the Benefit of his Church. But it ſeems more natural to ſay, that the Apoſtle by enumerating theſe Dimenſions, only intends to ſignifie the exceeding greatneſs of the Love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledge. Thus Job ſpeaking of the unſearchable Wiſdom of God, and his unfathomable Perfections, puts theſe Enquiries; Canſt thou ſearch him out to perfection? It is higher than the Heaven, what canſt thou do? deeper than Hell, what canſt thou know? The Meaſure of it is longer than the Earth, and the breadth of it than the Sea, Job 11. 7, 8. And the Son of Syrac ſaith, The height of Heaven, and the breadth of the Earth, the Abyſs and Wiſdom who can ſearch out? Eccluſ.1.3. And the Apoſtle cries out, O the depth of the Wiſdom and Knowledge of God, how unſearchable are his Judgments, &c. Rom. 11. 33. And in this ſenſe theſe four Dimenſions will chiefly be deſigned to import what the Apoſtle ſtiles, *v.*8. the unſearchable riches of the love of Chriſt. It therefore ſeems unreaſonable to think, that the love of Chriſt paſſing knowledge, ſhould import only the love of Chriſt paſſing, i. e. excelling the knowledge or skill in myſtical Interpretations, which the Gnoſticks pretended to. For as the word γνῶσις put abſolutely, hath no ſuch import, that I know of, in the Holy Scripture; ſo after the mention of all theſe Dimenſions, and the unſearchable riches of it, v. 8. it ſeems a very faint expreſſion, to ſay it ſurpaſſed that vain and insignificant knowledge to which the Gnosticks pretended, their mystical Interpretations, recorded by Irenæus, being above measure vain and impious, even a Mystery of Iniquity. And as for the Phrase ὑπερέλλοσα ἡ γνῶσις, it is justified by (g) Aristotle, who hath it twice in one Chapter, viz. ὑπερέλλειν ἡ συμμετρίας, to exceed the measure, ὑπερέλλειν τῶν πλωτήρων, to excel other Navigators.

CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. I Therefore the Prisoner of the Lord, [ἐν Κυρίῳ, in bonds for Christ,] beseech you that you would walk worthy of the Vocation wherewith ye are called.

a 2. a With all lowliness and meekness, with long suffering, [and so] forbearing one another in love.

3. Endeavouring [thus] to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

4. [For you know that] there is one body b [of the whole Church,] and b one Spirit [which animates the whole Body,] even as you are called in one hope of your Calling, [i.e. and you know also, that you are all called to the same hope of eternal life.]

5. [There is also to us Christians] one c Lord, c one Faith [in this Lord,] one Baptism [by which we do profess this Faith.]

d 6. d One God and Father of all, who is above all [by his Essence,] and through all [by his Providence,] and in you all [by his Spirit.]

7. But [though the Body is but one, yet] unto every one of us [who are Members of e this Body,] e is given grace [enabling us to serve this Body,] according to the measure of the Gift of Christ.

f 8. f Wherefore [to manifest this] he [the Psalmist] saith, when he [Christ] ascended up on high, he led captivity [Satan, and Death,] captive, [*Heb.*2.14. *Judg.*5.12.] and g g gave gifts unto men, [i. e. received them, Psal.68.19. to give to them.]

9. Now that he ascended, what is it but [a demonstration] that he also descended first h into the lower parts of the Earth?

10. He that descended [thus into the lower parts of the Earth,] is the same also who [after his Resurrection,] ascended up i far above all Heavens, that he might fill all things, [with his Gifts, according to his Promise, that when he was ascended, he would send the Spirit upon his Apostles and Disciples, John 14. 17. & 15. 26. & 16. 7. Luke 24.49.]

11. And [accordingly] he gave some Apostles [to reveal his Will,] and some Prophets [to explain the Mysteries of Faith,] and some Evangelists [to propagate this Faith to other Nations,] and k some Pastors, and Teachers k [to instruct others in it.]

12. l [And this variety of Gifts was conferred upon them] for the perfecting [Gr. compacting] of the Saints [into one Body,] for the work of the Ministry, [that they who had them might minister to the Temporal Necessity, as did the Deacons; and the Spiritual Concerns of others, as did the Apostles, Prophets, Evangelists, Pastors and Doctors.] for the edifying of the Body of Christ [in faith and love.] l

13. Till we all come in the unity of the Faith, and of the knowledge [or acknowledgment] of the Son of God unto a perfect man, [i. e. to perfection in knowledge of the Faith, and of the Will of God, Coloss. 1.28.] unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ; [i.e. so as to be Christians of a full maturity, and ripeness in all the Graces derived from Christ Jesus to the Body.]

14. That [so arriving to this Perfection in Faith and Knowledge] we henceforth [may] be no more children tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of Doctrine by the slight of Men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive, [Gr. by the subtilty of Men, through their craftiness for the managing of deceit.]

15. But speaking [or keeping] the truth in love, may grow up into, [or increase in,] him in all things, who is the Head, even [into] Christ.

16. m From whom the whole Body fitly m joyned together, and compacted by that which every joynt supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, [Gr. compacted and cemented together gether by every joint of ſupply, according to its power in proportion of every part,) maketh increaſe of the Body to the edifying of it ſelf in love.

17. This I ſay therefore, and teſtifie in the Lord, that ye [who have theſe aſſiſtances in Faith and Piety,] walk not henceforth, as n other [unconverted] Gentiles, n in the vanity of their [own] mind;

18. Having the underſtanding darkned, o [and] being o alienated from the life of p God, p through the ignorance that is in them, becauſe of the blindneſs of their heart;

19. Who being paſt feeling, [inſenſible of the vileneſs of their actions,] have given r themſelves up to work all uncleanneſs r with greedineſs;

20. But ye have not ſo learned [the Doctrine of] Chriſt;

21. If ſo be [or ſince] that ye have heard him [by our preaching,] and have been taught by him, [Gr. inſtructed in him,] as the truth is in Jeſus.

22. [To wit,] That ye put off concerning the former Converſation [in Heatheniſm]
s s the old man, [i. e. the Luſts which deceive you, promiſing that Pleaſure and Satisfaction which they cannot yield; or which you practiſed whilſt Heathens, being deceived by your Heathen Prieſts, declaring they were acceptable to the Gods, and the Philoſophy and vain Deceit of thoſe Men who allowed them.]

23. And be renewed in the Spirit of your Mind.

24. And that ye may] put on the new man, which after [the image of] God is created in righteouſneſs, and true holineſs.

25. Wherefore putting away t lying, [a vice too common among Heathens, and oppoſite to Truth, and Righteouſneſs,] ſpeak every man truth with his Neighbour; for we are Members one of another; [Now lying tends to diſſolve Societies, and hurt the Members of the ſame Body.]

26. [If you] u be angry, [take heed,] and ſin not, w let not the Sun go down upon your wrath.

27. x Neither give place to the [temptation of the] Devil.

28. y Let him that ſtole, [before his Converſion,] ſteal no more, but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he z may have to give to him that needeth.

29. Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouths, but that which is good to the uſe of edifying, a a that it may miniſter grace unto the hearers.

30. b b And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are ſealed to the day of Redemption, [Chap. 1.13,14.]

31. [And to this end,] let all bitterneſs and wrath, and anger and clamour, and evil ſpeaking, be put away from you, with all malice.

32. And be ye kind one towards another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Chriſt's ſake hath forgiven you.

a Verſe 2,3. NOte here from the Fathers, That ἐὰν ἡ ἀγάπω ἔχωμεν ἀνεξόμεθα ἀλλήλων, where love is retained there will be mutual forbearance; And from Zanchy, That Peace cannot be preſerved without that mutual Forbearance, and that Humility which excludes, and that Meekneſs which is oppoſite to Anger and Contention.

b Ver. 4. Ἓν Πνεῦμα, one Spirit.] From theſe, and the former words, the unity of the Spirit, it ſeems plain to me that the Union of the Myſtical Body of the Church Catholick conſiſts in this, that they all have the ſame Spirit communicated to them from their Head Chriſt Jeſus. For the whole Body of Chriſtians is here ſaid to have one Spirit, and their Unity is ſtiled the Unity of the Spirit. The Body is one, ſaith the Apoſtle 1 Cor. 12. 12. for by one Spirit we are all baptized into one Body, v. 13. And to the whole Body of the Church of Corinth he ſpeaks thus, Know ye not that you are the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? 1 Cor. 3. 16. Know ye not that your Body is the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt that is in you? Chap. 6. 19. Chriſt, ſaith the Apoſtle here, Chap. 2. 16, 17, 18. hath reconciled both Jew and Gentile into one Body unto God, and hath made Peace between them, for by him we have both acceſs by one Spirit to the Father; ἄρα ἕν, and therefore having thus one Spirit, by which we are made one Body, and Sons of the ſame Father, we are all fellow-Citizens of the Saints, and of the Family of God: and are built up all together into an habitation of God through the Spirit. Now hence it follows, 1ſt, That only ſincere Chriſtians are truly Members of that Church Catholick of which Chriſt Jeſus is the Head, ſince the whole Body is united to him by the Communication of the Holy Spirit, whom the wicked of the World cannot receive, John 14.17. they being Senſual, having not the Spirit, Jude 19.

2ly, That nothing can unite any Profeſſor of Chriſtianity to this one Body, but the participation of the Spirit of Chriſt; and therefore nothing elſe can make him a true Member of that Church which is his Body. Hence the Apostle doth inform us negatively, That if any Man have not the Spirit of Christ dwelling in him, he is none of his, Rom. 8. 9, 11. and affirmatively, That by this we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit that he hath given us, 1 John 3. 24. And again, by this we know that he abideth in us, and we in him, because he hath given us of his Spirit, chap. 4. 13. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God, Rom. 8. 14. and because we are Sons, God hath sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, Gal. 4. 6. It therefore must be owned as a certain truth, that nothing can unite us to that Church and Body, of which Christ Jesus is the Head, but the participation of the Spirit.

3ly, That no Error in Judgment, or Mistake in Practice, which doth not tend to deprive a Christian of the Spirit of Christ, can separate him from the Church of Christ.

4ly, Hence it demonstratively follows, That no Church-Governours jointly, or severally, can be by God appointed to be the living Judges, or the infallible Directors of our Faith. For since in Matters of Faith we must have a Judgment of Certainty, we cannot own them as such by virtue of that assistance of the Holy Ghost, which alone can make them such, till we are certain they belong to that Church of which Christ Jesus is the Head, and to which only the Promise of the Spirit doth belong, i. e. till we are certain they are sincere and upright Christians. Since therefore God hath given us no certain Rule to know this by, we may rest satisfied, that he designed no such Magisterial Guides should be continued in his Church.

c Ver. 5. Μία πίστις, One Faith.] It plainly is asserted in the Holy Scriptures, that there is one common Faith, Tit. 1. 4. one like precious Faith, 2 Pet. 1. 1. of all that bear the Name of Christians. An Unity of Faith, and of the Knowledge of the Son of God, to which we must all arrive, Eph. 4. 13. A Faith once delivered to the Saints, Jude 3. for which we must strive earnestly, and in which we must build up our selves; a Faith of the Gospel, for which we are exhorted to contend as for one Soul, Philip. 1. 27. But in vain is hence the Inference of the Papists, That this one Faith must be either theirs, and then we cannot be saved without it; or ours, and then they cannot be saved; for this one Faith, into which all Christians were baptized, contains neither the Doctrines in which they differ from us, nor we from them, but only the Apostles Creed, which the whole Church of Christ, for many Centuries, received as a perfect System of all things necessarily to be believed in order to Salvation; as I have fully proved, Treatise of Tradition, Part. II. Chap. 7. § 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

Ver. 6. Εἷς θεὸς, One God.] Here, say the d Socinians, that God who is stiled One, is also stiled the Father, and to him is ascribed this Epithete so common among the Philosophers, to denote the Supreme Deity, that he is, ὁ ἐπὶ πᾶσι, God over all. But to this it is answered,

1*st*, That we deny not that God the Father is One God over all, or that there is one who is both One God, and the Father, only we add, that there is also One, who is One God of the same Essence, and the Son, and so also say we of the Holy Spirit: And that as the One Lord, and the one Spirit here, do not exclude the Father from being both Lord, and Spirit, so neither doth the One God, and Father, exclude the Son, or Holy Spirit, from being God, but only from being God the Father. It also is to be noted, that the Primitive Fathers before the Nicene Council, did not scruple to distinguish Christ from God the Father, by stiling him another God from the Maker of all things, ὑπὲρ ὃν ἄλλος θεὸς οὐκ ἔστι, above whom there is no other God. (a) Justin Martyr twice describes the Father by this distinctive Character, that he is God, ὑπὲρ ὃν ἄλλος θεὸς οὐκ ἔστι, above whom there is no other God; saying, that Christ did nothing but what, ὁ τοῦ κόσμου ποιήσας ὑπὲρ ὃν ἄλλος οὐκ ἔστι θεὸς, the Maker of the World, above whom there is no other God, would have him do; and yet he at least twenty times asserts, that Christ is God and Lord, and that he is the Person, (b) δι' οὗ ἐποίησε τὸν οὐρανὸν καὶ γῆν, by whom he made the Heaven and Earth, and by whom he will renew them; the Word of God, δι' οὗ ἐγένετο οὐρανὸς καὶ γῆ, καὶ ἡ πᾶσα κτίσις ἐγένετο, by whom the Heaven and the Earth, and the whole Creation was made. So (c) Irenæus often saith, that the Father is only to be called God and Lord; and yet he adds, that this is not said to exclude the Son, who is in the Father, and hath the Father in him, and hath his Principality in all things.

f Ver. 8. Διὸ λέγει, Wherefore he ſaith.] That this Pſalm relates to the Meſſiah, we learn from the Jews themſelves, who interpret this Pſalm of him, for the words, v. 32. are by them thus Paraphraſed, All Nations ſhall bring Gifts to the King Meſſiah, Schemoth Rabbah. § 15. Let it be alſo noted, that Chriſt triumphed over Death, and Satan, on the Croſs, Coloſſ. 2. 15. but he led Satan Captive more gloriouſly, when, after his Aſcenſion, he poured his Holy Spirit on his Apoſtles and Diſciples, and by that Spirit enabled them to caſt out Devils in his Name, and turn Men from the Power of Satan to God, Acts 26. 18. He alſo then triumphed over Death moſt ſignally, when thus aſcending he became Lord over the Dead, and had the Keys of Death, and Hades, in his hands, Rom. 14. 9. Rev. 1. 18. Note alſo, that to lead Captivity captive, is a Phraſe common in the Old Teſtament, to ſignifie a Conqueſt over Enemies, eſpecially over ſuch as formerly had led them captive; ſo Judg. 5. 12. Ariſe Barak, αἰχμαλώτευον αἰχμαλωσίαν, Lead Captivity captive. See 1 Kings 8. 46. 2 Chron. 28. 5, 11, 17.

g Ibid. Καὶ ἔδωκε δόματα, And gave Gifts.] That is, ſaith Dr. Hammond, He received Gifts to give to Men, from the nature of the Hebrew לקח which ſignifies both to give, and to receive, and thus it is rendred by the Targum, Syriac, and Arabic. But ſaith Mr. Cl. When the word ſignifies to give, there follows a Dative Caſe, Exod. 25. 2. whereas the Hebrew here hath באדם which has made learned Men conjecture, that St. Paul read לאדם to Man. But firſt this is not always true, for Hoſ. 14. 2. we read thus, take away iniquity, וקח טוב and give good; and where a Dative Caſe is added, an Accuſative either goes before it, as, thou haſt received מתנות Gifts for Men; and Judges 14. 2. קחו אותה לי Gave her to me; and v. 3. or elſe follows after it, as 1 Kings 3. חרב קחו לי Give me a Sword; See Chap. 17. 10. Exod. 18. 12. & 25. 2. and as for ב in באדם who knows not that it ſometimes ſignifies pro, for, and ſometimes only is the ſign of the Dative Caſe? See Naldius de Partic. Hebr. p. 158, 163.

h Ver. 9. Εἰς τὰ κατώτερα μέρη τῆς γῆς, Into the lower parts of the Earth.] That is, into the Grave. So Pſal. 63. 9. They that ſeek my Soul to deſtroy it, ſhall go into the lower parts of the Earth, i. e. They ſhall fall by the Sword, v. 10. Iſa. 44. 23. Sing O Heavens, ſhout the lower parts of the Earth.

Ver. 10. Ὑπεράνω πάντων τῶν οὐρανῶν, Far above all Heavens.] He being made higher than the Heavens, Heb. 7. 26. that is, than the Airy and the Starry Heavens, and aſcending above them into the Preſence of God, who hath ſet his Glory above the Heavens, Pſal. 8. 1. and is exalted above them, Pſal. 57. 5, 11. & 108. 4, 5. i

Ver. 11. Τοὺς δὲ ποιμένας καὶ διδασκάλους, And ſome Paſtors and Teachers.] That theſe Paſtors and Teachers were in the firſt Ages, Men of extraordinary Gifts, is evident from this very place; for the preceding words, He gave Gifts unto Men, ſome Apoſtles, ſome Prophets, &c. ſhew that all the Perſons mentioned here were Partakers of the Gifts which Chriſt, aſcending up on high, and ſending down the Holy Spirit, gave to Men. Hence, among the different χαρίσματα, Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, are reckoned διδασκαλία, teaching, Rom. 12. 6, 7. and among the Gifts exerciſed in their Aſſemblies διδαχὴ, Doctrine, 1 Cor. 14. 6, 26. among the Perſons who had received the διαιρέσεις χαρισμάτων, Diverſities of Gifts, are reckoned after Prophets διδάσκαλοι, Teachers, 1 Cor. 12. 28. Rom. 12. 6, 7. and here. And ſo (d) Tertullian makes mention of them, as Perſons endued with the Grace of Knowledge. The Paſtors ſeem probably the ſame with the κυβερνήσεις, Governments, 1 Cor. 12. 28. and the προϊστάμενος, Rom. 12. 8. And it is evident from both thoſe places, that they were alſo Men endued with thoſe Spiritual Gifts there mentioned. Hence it is obſervable of theſe Doctors, that when the extraordinary Gifts of the Church ceaſed, their very Names grew out of uſe, they being very rarely mentioned in the ſucceeding Ages of the Church. k

Ver. 12—15. Note, from theſe five Verſes the Papiſts argue for an infallible Guide thus, 'Chriſt gave Apoſtles, Paſtors, and 'Teachers, that Chriſtians might not be toſſed to and fro with every Wind of Doctrine; this end could not be compaſſed 'by giving us ſuch Guides and Inſtructors 'in Belief, as were merely fallible, and 'who might lead us into Circumvention of 'Error. Moreover, God gave ſuch Paſtors 'to his Church, till we all come to the Unity of the Faith, which will not be till 'the laſt Days of all; wherefore, till the 'end of the World, the World ſhall be provided of them, and by them be ſecured 'from being like Children toſſed to and 'fro. l

Anſwer. I anſwer, That this Text is ſo far from proving a Succeſſion of infallible Guides, in Matters of Faith to the World's end, that it ſeems rather to eſtabliſh the Doctrine of the Proteſtants, touching the fulneſs and perſpicuity of the Holy Scripture, in all neceſſary Articles of Chriſtian Faith, and to overthrow the pretended neceſſity of Infallible Guides in order to that end: For, 1ſt, To come to a perfect Man, as to the Unity of Faith, and Knowledge of the Son of God, is, in the Scripture Language, to be ſufficiently inſtructed in the Articles of the Chriſtian Faith and Knowledge. Thus when our Lord ſaith to the young Man, If thou wilt be perfect, ſell all that thou haſt, Matth. 19. 21. by comparing theſe words with thoſe in St. Mark and St. Luke, Mark 10. 21. One thing is lacking, or is wanting to thee, Luke 18. 22. it is evident, that to be perfect there, is, not to be wanting in the Knowledge or Practice of any thing to be done, that this young Man might have Eternal Life.

When St. Paul ſaith, We ſpeak Wiſdom, ἐν τοῖς τελείοις, among them that are perfect, 1 Cor. 2. 6. the meaning is, ſay the Greek Commentators (e), παρὰ τοῖς τελείαν παραδεξαμένοις πίστιν, among thoſe who are perfectly inſtructed in the Faith; and when he ſaith, As many as are perfect let us mind the ſame thing, he ſpeaks of Perſons fully inſtructed in their Chriſtian Liberty; and when he ſaith, Leaving the Principles of the Oracles of Chriſt, let us go on to perfection, he calls us to advance to a more full Inſtruction in the Faith and Knowledge of Chriſt; See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6.

2ly, Note, That the Apoſtles, and firſt Preachers of the Goſpel, were made Miniſters of his Church, πληρῶσαι τὸν λόγον τοῦ Θεοῦ, to teach fully the Word of God, Col. 1. 25, 26. To teach every man in all wiſdom, that they might preſent every man perfect in Chriſt Jeſus, v. 28. and accordingly, departing from the Churches planted by them, they commended them only to the Word of Grace, which was able to build them up, and give them an Inheritance among all that are ſanctified, Acts 20. 32.

4ly, Obſerve that theſe Apoſtles, Prophets, Evangeliſts, Paſtors, and Teachers, endued with theſe ſupernatural Gifts for the Work of the Miniſtry, for the edifying of the Body of Chriſt into a perfect Man, not doing all, or any of theſe things in Perſon ſince their Death, and yet being given for the accompliſhing theſe ends, muſt be acknowledged to have done all theſe things, as far as they were needful, by ſome other way. Now there being no other way in which they could do it, but by their Writings left behind them as a Rule of Faith, and by which, they being dead, yet ſpeak; it follows, that theſe Writings duly attended to, muſt be ſufficient for theſe Ends, and conſequently they muſt, both with ſufficient fulneſs, and perſpicuity, inſtruct us in all the neceſſary Articles of Chriſtian Faith and Knowledge. Hence (f) Chryſoſtom informs us, that they writ the Goſpel, πρὸς καταρτισμὸν τῶν ἁγίων, for the perfecting the Saints, for the Work of the Miniſtry, for the edifying of the Body of Chriſt. In a word, 'tis evident this Text doth as much prove a neceſſity of Apoſtles, Prophets, and Evangeliſts, in all future Ages of the Church, to keep her Members fixed in the Truth, as of Paſtors and Doctors, theſe Apoſtles, Prophets, and Evangeliſts, being here placed in the firſt rank of thoſe whom God hath given for this end: Since therefore theſe Apoſtles, Prophets, and Evangeliſts, were only given in the firſt Ages of the Church, it evidently follows, that the Perſons mentioned in this Text, were not given them to do this perſonally to the World's end, but only to do it by the Doctrine they then taught.

Ver. 16. Ἐξ οὗ, From whom.] That is, from m which Head, the whole Body of Chriſtians duly compacted together, ſome ſuſtaining the Office of an inferiour Head, ſome of an Eye, ſome of an Hand, ſome of a Foot, 1 Cor. 12. 15, 16, 17. by the aſſiſtance which every of theſe Parts thus united together gives to the whole, according to the particular proportion of its Gifts, increaſeth, or grows in love, and ſo each Member edifies one another.

Ver. 17. Ἐν ματαιότητι τοῦ νοὸς, In the Vanity n of the Mind.] The Heathen Idols are frequently in the Old Teſtament ſtiled μάταια, vain things, and the Apoſtles preached to the Gentiles to abſtain, and turn ἀπὸ τῶν ματαίων τούτων, from thoſe vain things, Acts 14. 15. by compliance with which they became vain in their Imaginations, and their fooliſh Hearts were darkned, Rom. 1. 22. And this ſeems to be the vain Converſation, from which, ſaith St. Peter, they were redeemed, 1 Pet. 1. 18. and the Vanity of the Mind here mentioned.

o Ver. 18. Ἀπηλλοτριωμένοι, Alienated from the Life of God.] i. e. Not only from that way of Life which God approves of, but which reſembles him in Purity, Righteouſneſs, Truth, and Goodneſs.

p Ibid. Διὰ τὴν ἄγνοιαν τὴν οὖσαν ἐν αὐτοῖς, By the Ignorance that is in them.] This ſeems to refer to their Ignorance of the Nature, the Attributes, and the Providence of God, and of a future State of Happineſs and Miſery.

The hardneſs of their Hearts here mentioned, they had contracted by wicked Habits and Cuſtoms, the frequency of vile Examples, and by thoſe corrupt Principles which made them inſenſible of their Impurity and Laſciviouſneſs; for they committed Whoredom and Adultery, ſaith (g) Origen, Διδάσκοντες μὴ πάντως παρὰ τὸ καθῆκον τοῦτο γίνεσθαι, Teaching that in theſe things they did nothing contrary to Good Manners.

r Ver. 19. Ἐν πλεονεξίᾳ, With Greedineſs.] Hoc totum fecerunt in avaritiâ, dum nunquam luxuriando ſaturantur, nec eorum terminum habet voluptas. Hieronymus in Locum.

ſ Ver. 22. Τὸν παλαιὸν ἄνθρωπον, The Old Man,] ſignifies thoſe evil Habits they ſo long practiſed in the State of Heatheniſm; the New Man, that Divine Life, that Life of Righteouſneſs and Holineſs which Chriſtianity requires; and it is called Holineſs of Truth, or Inward Holineſs, in oppoſition to the Outward and Ceremonial Holineſs of the Jews.

t Ver. 25. Τὸ ψεῦδος, Lying.] Which the Heathen Philoſophers thought lawful, when it was good, or profitable for them; as owning that Rule of Menander, Κρεῖττον ἢ ἑλέσθαι ψεῦδος, ἢ ἀληθὲς κακόν, A Lie is better than an hurtful Truth: And that of Proclus, Τὸ γὰρ ἀγαθὸν κρεῖττον ὂν τῆς ἀληθείας, Good is better than Truth: And that of Darius in (h) Herodotus, Ἔνθα γάρ τι δεῖ καὶ ψεύδος λέγεσθαι, λεκτέον, When a Lye will profit, let it be uſed: And that of (i) Plato, He may lye who knows how to do it, ἐν δέοντι καιρῷ, in a fit Seaſon: For there is nothing decorous in Truth, ſaith (k) Maximus Tyrius, but when it is profitable: Yea, ſometimes, ſaith he, καὶ ψεῦδος ὄνησιν ἀνθρώπῳ, καὶ τ' ἀληθὲς βλάψειν, Truth hurts, and a Lye profits Men. And to countenance this Practice, both (l) Plato, and the (m) Stoicks, ſeem to have framed a Jeſuitical Diſtinction, between lying in words, and with aſſent to an Untruth, which they called, Lying in the Soul: The firſt they allowed τὸ an Enemy in proſpect of advantage; and for many other Diſpenſations of this Life; That is their Wiſe Men may tell a Lye craftily, and for gain, but he muſt not embrace a Falſhood, through Ignorance, or aſſent to an Untruth.

u 26. Ὀργίζεσθε καὶ μὴ ἁμαρτάνετε, Be angry and ſin not.] Theſe words, tho' ſpoken imperatively, are not a Command to be angry, but a Caution to avoid ſinful Anger; as when the Prophet ſaith to Nineveh, Fortifie thy Strong-holds, the Sword ſhall cut thee off, Nah. 3. 14. i. e. tho' thou doſt fortifie them it ſhall do ſo. And the Son of Syrach, Cocker thy Child, and he ſhall make thee afraid, Chap. 30. 9. i. e. this will be the iſſue of it So Iſa. 8. 9, 10.

w Ibid. Ὁ ἥλιος μὴ ἐπιδυέτω, Let not the Sun go down upon thy Wrath.] This Precept, ſaith (n) Plutarch, the Scholars of Pythagoras obſerved, who when they had been angry, and reproached one another, πρὶν ἢ τὸν ἥλιον δῦναι, Before the Sun went down, they ſhook Hands, and embraced one another. This muſt the Chriſtian do, before he offers up to God his Evening Sacrifice, that ſo he may lift up to God pure hands without wrath, 1 Tim. 2. 8.

x Ver. 27. Note, Let a Man be always careful that he be not angry, ſay the (o) Jews; for whoſo is angry, omnes ſpecies Gehennæ ei dominantur, is ſubject to the Dominion of the infernal Fiends.

z Ibid. Ἵνα ἔχῃ μεταδιδόναι, that he may have to give.] This Charity the Primitive Chriſtians expected even from them that laboured with their own hands. So (1) Hermas ſaith, It is good to give liberally to all that are in need, out of the labours of our own hands.

a a Ver. 29. Ἵνα δῷ χάριν, that it may miniſter Grace.] That is, ſaith Theodoret, that it may be acceptable to, as well as good for the Hearers; See the Note on Coloſſ. 3. 16.

b b Ver. 30. Καὶ μὴ λυπεῖτε, and grieve not the Holy Spirit.] The Holy Spirit being a Divine Perſon, it is certain that he cannot properly be grieved, or vexed as we are. We therefore muſt remove from this Expreſſion, when it is applied to him, all turbulent Motions, all real Pain, Diſquiet, Diſcontent, and look upon it as ſpoken ἀνθρωποπαθῶς, i. e. ſo as to intimate we do that to him, which when 'tis done to Men, creates Grief to them. As (1.) when we refuſe to hearken to his Counſels, rebel againſt his Government, and do that which is oppoſite to his Holy Nature. (2.) He is ſaid to be grieved by a Metonymy of the Effect, when he acts ſo towards us, as Men are wont to do when they are grieved by us, and diſpleaſed at us, withdrawing their wonted Kindneſs, flying our Company, and abandoning us to our Enemies.

CHAPTER V.

Verſe 1. BE ye therefore followers of [this love of] God, as [becomes his] dear Children.

2. And walk in love, as Chriſt alſo [hath given an example, who] hath loved us, and a hath given himſelf for us a an Offering and a Sacrifice to God, for a ſweet ſmelling ſavour.

3. But Fornication and all Uncleanneſs, or Covetouſneſs, [inordinate deſire,] let it not be once named among you, [that you may b walk] b as becometh Saints.

c 4. Neither [Gr. καὶ, and let not] c filthineſs, nor [and] fooliſh talking, nor jeſting, which are [things] not convenient [to your calling, be uſed among you,] but rather [let your employment be that of] giving of Thanks.

5. For this ye know that no Whoremonger, nor unclean Perſon, nor covetous Man, who is an Idolater, hath any Inheritance in the Kingdom of Chriſt, and of God [the Father.]

d 6. d Let no man deceive you with vain words, [as if theſe things might be conſiſtent with the favour of God,] for becauſe of theſe things cometh the wrath of God upon the Children of Diſobedience.

7. Be not ye therefore partakers with them [in thoſe ſins.]

e 8. For ye were e ſometimes [Children of] darkneſs, [being ſubject to thoſe deeds of darkneſs, Chap. 2. 1, 2, 3. Chap. 4. 18, 19.] but now are ye [Children of the] light [by your faith] in the Lord; walk [therefore] as children of the light.

f 9. For the fruit f of the [Holy] Spirit, [by which you are enlightned,] is in all goodneſs, righteouſneſs, and truth, [and ſo inſtructs you to avoid thoſe deeds of wickedneſs.]

10. [Walk then as Children of the Light,] proving [δοκιμάζοντες, approving] what is acceptable to the Lord.

11. And have no fellowſhip with the unfruitful works of darkneſs, [committed by the Heathens,] but g rather reprove them. g

12. [They being ſuch as deſerve to be refuted;] For it is a ſhame even to ſpeak of thoſe things which are h done of them in h ſecret.

13. But all things that are reproved, are made manifeſt by the light, [or being diſcovered by the light, are made manifeſt,] for whatſoever doth make [any thing] manifeſt, is light.

14. Wherefore [to ſhew that Chriſtians are light, and ſo obliged to avoid theſe deeds of darkneſs,] i he [the Lord] ſaith, Awake i thou that ſleepeſt, and ariſe from the dead, and Chriſt ſhall give thee light.

15. See then that ye walk Circumſpectly, [or how exactly you walk,] not as fools, [running your ſelves into unneceſſary dangers by an indiſcreet zeal,] but as wiſe, [to manage your affairs ſo as to avoid them by all lawful means.]

16. k Redeeming the time, [i. e. uſing all k prudent means to prolong your lives,] becauſe the days [in which you live] are evil, [and therefore perillous, and ſuch as will require much wiſdom to preſerve you from dangers.]

17. Wherefore be ye not unwiſe, [in managing this, and other affairs,] but [act as] underſtanding what the will of the Lord is, [viz. that in ſuch Caſes he requires you to be wiſe as Serpents, and not to caſt Pearls before Swine, who will tear you for them; and ſemblably not to ſacrifice your lives by an indiſcreet Zeal in diſcovering thoſe Myſteries, but to ſhew the vileneſs of them with ſuch Pru-

l 18. l And be not drunk with wine, [as the Heathens uſe to be in the Feſtivals of their Gods, and eſpecially in their Bacchanalia,] m wherein is exceſs, [Gr ἀσωτία, diſſoluteneſs,] but be [ye] filled with [the Holy] Spirit, [*as Chriſtians uſe to be in their Aſſemblies. See Prov.*23.30. & 20.1.]

n 19. Speaking to your ſelves n in Pſalms, and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, [with which the Chriſtians were inſpired in their Aſſemblies, 1 Cor. 14. 15, 26.] ſinging [them with the mouth,] and [alſo] making melody in your hearts to the Lord.

o 20. Giving thanks o always for all things unto God, and [or, who is] the Father [of us all, Chap.4.6.] in the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

21. Submitting your ſelves one to another, [according to the Divine Ordinance,] in the fear of God, [who is the Author of that Order.]

22. [And therefore] Wives ſubmit your ſelves to your own Husbands, as unto the [Ordinance of the] Lord, [the Husband of his Spouſe the Church.]

23. For the Husband is the Head of the Wife, even as Chriſt is the Head of the Church; and [this] he is [as being] the Saviour of the Body.

24. Therefore, as the Church is ſubject to Chriſt, ſo let the Wives be to their own Husbands in every [lawful] thing.

25. [And ye] Husbands [alſo, ſee that you] love your Wives, even as Chriſt alſo loved the Church, and gave himſelf [up to the death] for it.

26. That he might ſanctifie [or conſecrate, and fit it for his Service,] and cleanſe it, [Gr. having cleanſed it,] by the waſhing of water, [i. e. by that Baptiſm which is the Laver of Regeneration, Tit.3.5.] and [by] the Word [of his Grace, which is able to ſanctifie us, Acts 20. 32. John 17.17.]

27. That [ſo] he might preſent it to himſelf a glorious Church, p not having ſpot or wrinkle, or any ſuch thing, but that it ſhould be holy, and without blemiſh. p

28. So ought Men to love their Wives q as their own Bodies, [they two being made one fleſh, ſo that] he that loveth his Wife, loveth himſelf. q

29. For no Man ever yet hated his own fleſh, but nouriſheth it, and cheriſheth it, even as [doth] the Lord the Church, [which is his Spouſe.]

30. For we are Members of his Body, r of his Fleſh, and of his Bones. r

31. For this cauſe [was it ſaid at the Production of Eve, and her being given for a meet-help to Adam, Gen. 2. 24. that] ſhall a Man leave his Father and Mother, and ſhall cleave to his Wife, and they two ſhall be one Fleſh.

32. s This is a great Myſtery, but [when I repreſent it as ſuch,] I ſpeak [chiefly of the myſtical ſenſe of it] concerning Chriſt, and the Church. s a Verſe 2. Προσφορὰν καὶ θυσίαν, an Offering, an Oblation.] That the Death of Chriſt is here ſtiled an Oblation offered up to God for us, cannot be denied: But Crellius ſaith, That the Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of an Expiatory Oblation, becauſe the Oblation here mentioned is ſaid to be offered for a ſweet ſmelling Savour, which Phraſe is ſcarce ever uſed concerning Expiatory Sacrifices, but chiefly of Burnt-offerings, which were not of themſelves Expiatory, and are by Moſes diſtinguiſhed from Sacrifices for Sin.

33. Nevertheleſs [on the other account alſo] let every one of you in particular ſo love his Wife even as himſelf, and [let] the Wife ſee that ſhe reverence her Husband.

Annotations on Chap. V.

But (1.) That Sacrifices of a ſweet ſmelling Savour were uſed to make Atonement for, and to Expiate the Sin of Men, is proved from the Sacrifices of Noah: For whereas in the Greek we read, that when that Sacrifice was offered God ſmell'd ὀσμὴν εὐωδίας, a Sacrifice of a ſweet Savour, in the Hebrew he is ſaid to ſmell Eth Ruach Hannicha, a Savour of Reſt, that is, which made God's Anger to reſt, ſay the Jewiſh Writers. (a) Joſephus informs us, that Noah by this Sacrifice entreated that God would now be atoned, and would no more conceive ſuch diſpleaſure againſt the Earth, i. e. the Inhabitants of it. And by the Syriac Verſion it is rendred an Odor of Placability, becauſe, as Vatablus and Munſter on the place obſerve, God then ceaſed from his Anger, and was appeaſed: So that the firſt time this Phraſe is uſed, it is taken for an Expiatory Sacrifice, and is deſigned to appeaſe the Wrath of God. The Sacrifices which Job offered for his Sons and Daughters, and for his three Friends, were Burnt offerings, as the Phraſe והעלה עלות ſhews, and yet they were offered, the one to Expiate for the Sin of his Children, Job 1.5. the other to Appeaſe the Wrath of God kindled againſt his three Friends, Chap. 42.7. Moreover, it is evident from Scripture, that this Phraſe ὀσμὴ εὐωδίας, a ſweet Savour, is uſed, not only of Burnt-offerings, but of Sacrifices for Sin; thus, If any People of the Land ſin through ignorance—when his ſin comes to his knowledge, the Text ſaith, he ſhall bring his Offering, a Kid of the Goats, a Female without blemiſh, περὶ τ ἁμαρτίας, a Sacrifice for the Sin he hath ſinned, and the Prieſt ſhall burn it upon the Altar, εἰς ὀσμὴν εὐωδίας, for a ſweet Savour to the Lord; and the Prieſt ſhall make Atonement for him, and it ſhall be forgiven him. To this importance of the Phraſe doth David manifeſtly allude, when he ſaith to Saul, If the Lord hath ſtirred thee up againſt me, ὀσφραν-θείη ἡ θυσία, let him ſmell an Offering. And when this ὀσμὴ εὐωδίας, Sacrifice of a ſweet ſmelling Savour is applied to Burnt-offerings, they are declared to be favourably accepted to make Atonement for him that offers them. This the Son of Syrac ſeems plainly to ſay of their Sacrifices of ſweet Savour in the General, when he ſpake thus of Aaron, (b) He choſe him out of all the People to offer Sacrifices to the Lord, Incenſe and a ſweet Savour, for a Memorial, to make Reconciliation for his People. Thus of the Burnt-offerings in Leviticus it is ſaid, That he that brings them ſhall put his hand upon the head of the Burnt-offering, and it ſhall be accepted for him to make atonement for him, Lev. 1.4. Now as the (c) Hebrew Doctors tell us, That this Impoſition of Hands was always joined with Confeſſion of Sins over the Sacrifice, which Confeſſion ſtill concluded with a Prayer, That the Sacrifice might be an Expiation for them; ſo the Phraſe, It ſhall be accepted to make atonement for him. Lev. 14. 20. uſed here, and elſewhere, concerning Holy Things, is as much as is ever ſaid of Expiatory Sacrifices. Nor is it any Objection to the contrary, that Burnt-offerings are uſually diſtinguiſhed from Sin-offerings; the reaſon of that being this, ſaith (d) Ainſworth, that Burnt-offerings were for the Atonement of general Sins, and ſuch as often were unknown to Men, whereas for ſpecial Sins there was appointed a ſpecial Sacrifice, and Sin-offering. This, ſaith (e) Dr. Outram, was the Opinion of the Jews, that Burnt offerings were intended for the Expiation of Sin. And this, ſaith (f) Mr. Selden, was their Practice, to offer theſe as Expiatory Sacrifices for Strangers.

Ver. 3. Καθὼς πρέπει ἁγίοις, as becometh Saints.] Worthy of obſervation is the Note of St. Jerom here, Ex quo Sanctus non poteſt appellari quicunque, extra Fornicationem, in aliquâ immunditiâ, & avaritiâ voluptatum quâ ſe delectaverit, invenitur. b

Ver. 4. That the words μωρολογία and εὐτραπελία, are to be interpreted to an impure ſenſe, may probably be gathered from the words join'd with them, Fornication, Uncleanneſs, Filthineſs, and more probably from the reaſon rendred for the abandoning them all, viz. That no fornicator or unclean perſon, hath any inheritance in the Kingdom of God or of Chriſt. Μωρολογία is in the Rabbinical Phraſe נבול פה turpitudo oris, of which they (g) proverbially ſay בל המנבל פיו quicunque fœdè loquitur, perinde eſt, ac ſi introduceret Porcum in Sanctuarium. To commit נבלה folly in Iſrael, is to commit Whoredom, or Adultery: And the word by the Septuagint is ſometimes rendred τὸ ἀσχημον, indecency, ſometimes ἀφροσύνη, ſometimes μωρία, folly, and ſometimes ἀκαθαρσία, filthineſs. And the ſoliciting a Woman to Fornication by filthy words, is in the Targum expreſſed thus לא תנבל non deturbabis verbum oris, Thou ſhalt not ſpeak impurely with thy mouth, to cauſe thy fleſh to ſin, Eccleſ. 5.5. c Εὐτραπελία is by Suidas rendred μωρολογία, ῥᾳθύμης, ſcurrility, levity, by Phavorinus Βωμολοχία. Now Βωμολόχος is a filthy, ſcurrillous Man; and in Ariſtophanes Βωμολόχοις ἔπεσι χαίρειν, is to be pleaſed with filthy ſcurrillous words. Hence Oecumenius and Theophylact reckon them both as ὀχήματα τ πορνείας, the forerunners or incentives to Fornication.

As for the word πλεονεξία, that it hath ſometimes an impure ſenſe, ſee Note on 1 Theſſ. 4.6. though being here ſtiled Idolatry, it ſeems more naturally to relate to the love of Riches, which renders us moſt truly guilty of that ſin. Though it be alſo true, that he who loveth Pleaſures more than God, is guilty of that ſin, and this Impurity was a frequent, and almoſt general Appendix of Idol-worſhip.

That the Epheſians ſtood in need of theſe Inſtructions we learn from (h) Democritus Epheſius, who ſpeaking of the Temple of the Epheſian Diana, hath much περὶ τ χλιδῆς αὐτῶν of the ſoftneſs and luxury of the Epheſians;

d Ver. 6. Μηδεὶς ἀπατάτω, let no man deceive you] Among the Heathens, ſimple Fornication was held a thing indifferent, the Laws allowed, and provided for it in many Nations; whence the grave Epictetus counſels his Scholars, only to whore ὡς νόμιμον ἔστι, according to Law: And in all places they connived at it. He that blames young Men for their meritricious Amours, ſaith (l) Cicero, does what's repugnant to the Cuſtom and Conceſſions of our Anceſtors, for when was not this done? when was it not permitted? This was ſuitable both to the Principles and Practiſes of many of their grave Philoſophers, eſpecially of the (m) Stoicks, who held it lawful for others to uſe Whores, and for them to get their living by ſuch Practiſes. Hence even in the Church of Corinth, ſome had taught this Doctrine. See Note on 1 *Cor.*6.13.

e Ver. 8. Ποτὲ σκότος, ſometimes Darkneſs.] That the ſtate of the Gentile World, both in the Old and the New Teſtament, is repreſented by a ſtate of Darkneſs, and that of Chriſtians by a ſtate of Light, ſee Note on *Rom.*13.12.

f Ver. 9. Τῦ πνεύματος, of the Spirit.] Many Greek Copies, and all the Latin, and the Syriac read τῦ φωτὸς, the fruits of the Light, with which you are enlightned; And ſo doth St. Jerom here, taking no notice of the other Reading.

g Ver. 11. Ἐλέγχετε.] Refute them, make them aſhamed of them, by bringing them to the light, ἐλέγχειν γὰρ ἀντὶ τῦ αἰσχύνειν, ἐλέγχω τὸ κεκρυμμένον ἀτόπημά τινος εἰς φῶς ἄγω. Phavorinus.

Hence even the word μυστήριον hath its name, ſay Grammarians, from μύειν τὸ στόμα, to ſtop the mouth. The Eleuſinia Sacra were performed in the Night, agreeably to the Deeds of Darkneſs committed in them; ſo were the Bacchanalia, hence called Nyctelia; and they were both full of dereſtable Iniquity; and upon that account ſaith (n) Livy, were baniſhed by the Roman Senate out of Rome and Italy; * ἀκόλυθα γὰρ τὰ Διονυσιακῶ, πόλῳ τὰ Ἀφροδίσια.

i Ver. 14. Λέγει, he ſaith.] (o) Epiphanius ſaith theſe words were ſpoken by Elias; and Georgius Syncellus, that they were taken from the Apocryphal Books of Jeremiah; others think they are cited from *Iſai.*60.1,19,20.

k Ver. 16. Ἐξαγοραζόμενοι τὸν καιρὸν, Redeeming the time.] Here note

1*ſt*, That the Times of Peril and Sadneſs are ſtiled evil days; In this ſenſe Jacob ſaith his days were evil, πονηραὶ ἡμέραι, by reaſon of the Troubles he met with from Laban and his brother Eſau, Gen. 47.9. The Pſalmiſt, that the Righteous ſhall not be aſhamed ἐν καιρῷ πονηρῷ, in the evil day, Pſal.77.19. The wiſe Man ſhall be ſilent, ſaith Amos, in that time, for it is καιρὸς πονηρὸν, an evil time, Amos 5.13. i. e. a time of Lamentation, v. 16. of Darkneſs, v.18. and that is by the Prophet Micah ſtiled ὁ καιρὸς πονηρὸς, an evil time, Micah 2.2. which brought thoſe Judgments on them which they could not eſcape. And in the cloſe of this Epiſtle, to ſtand ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῇ πονηρᾷ, is to ſtand in the times of fiery Trials, and ſevere Perſecutions, by the Inſtruments of Satan, Chap.6.13.

Ἐξαγοράζειν τὸν καιρὸν, to redeem the time.] Is by all honeſt ways, and prudent methods to endeavour to avoid the Dangers, and to eſcape the Perſecutions to which theſe perillous Times may render us obnoxious. So when King Nebuchadnezzar had threatned that the Chaldæans and Magicians ſhould be cut in pieces, if they declared not his Dream, and they ſtill put him off with this Anſwer, Let the King tell the Dream, and we will tell him the Interpretation; the King replies, Of a truth I know, ὅτι καιρὸν ὑμεῖς ἐξαγοράζετε, that you would gain the time, i. e. you hope by theſe Anſwers to delay the time of your Puniſhment, and to contrive ſome way to eſcape it. So the Scholiaſt upon the place expounds it, καιρὸν ὑμεῖς ἐξαγοράζετε, τοῦτέστιν, ζητεῖτε διατρίβειν, διατείνοντες τῇ ἀναβολῇ τὸν καιρὸν σκοπεῖτε τὸ παρ' ὑμῶν ζητούμενον, You hunt after delays, ſeeking by the protracting of the time to make me forget what I asked of you. And Theodoret expounds it thus, You prolong the time, ἐν ἐλπίσιν τοῦ καιρὸν ἀναμένοντες, hoping for time to eſcape. So alſo *Col.*4.5. Walk in wiſdom towards thoſe that are without, i. e. your Heathen Gover-

l Ver. 18. Μὴ μεθύσκεσθε οἴνῳ, Be not drunk with Wine.] The Heathens, who held Drunkenneſs unlawful at other times, thought it a Duty at the Solemnity of Bacchus, and of other Gods. (p) Plato ſaith, That no Man ſhould be allowed to be drunk, but at the Solemnities of the God that gave them Wine. And when Megillus the Lacedemonian had told the Athenians, That he ſaw their whole Cities drunk at the Solemnities of Bacchus, and that the Inhabitants of Terentum did the ſame, Marvel not at that, ſaith the Athenian, for the Law with us requires it. And (q) Plutarch ſaith, That ὀργιάζοντες ἢ θυσίαις πάρουσι, ἢ τελεταῖς, When they celebrated the Orgia of Bacchus, or were preſent at their Sacrifices, or Sacred Myſteries, they allowed themſelves to be delighted, μέχρι μέθης, even to Drunkenneſs. This was the uſual Appendix of their Sacrifices, they thinking this a Duty, ſaith (r) Athenæus, in the Service of their Gods. Hence Ariſtotle, and others ſay, that Drunkenneſs had its Name from the Intemperance they uſed after they had offered Sacrifice.

m Ibid. Ἐν ᾧ ἐστιν ἀσωτία, In which is exceſs.] That ἀσωτία ſignifies Luxury, is proved from the Prodigal, of whom it being ſaid, that he lived ἀσώτως, Luke 15. 13. this is interpreted, v. 30. by devouring his Living with Harlots; and from Heſychius, who interprets ἀσώτως by the word ἀσχρῶς, filthily. Phavorinus ſaith the ἄσωτος is the ἀκόλαστος, ἀσελγὴς, luſtful, and unchaſt Perſon, and hence ἀσώτιον ſignifies a Stew or Brothel-Houſe. Now that this Drunkenneſs miniſters to this Laſciviouſneſs, as the Poets often teach, ſo the Practice and Experience of the Heathens found it true, their Compotation and Banquetings, ſeldom concluding without the Introduction of lewd Women, and their Bacchanalia ending in Whoredom and Adultery, ἀκόλαστον οἶνος, Prov. 20. 1.

n Ver. 19. Ψαλμοῖς καὶ Ὕμνοις, In Pſalms and Hymns, &c.] In their Bacchanalia they ſung their drunken Hymns to Bacchus, ſaying, Εὐοῖ Σαβοῖ, Εὐοὶ Βάκχε, and had their φαλλικὰ ἄσματα: In oppoſition to which drunken and impure Songs, the Apoſtle here exhorts the Chriſtians to ſing the Pſalms of David, or the Hymns compoſed by Spiritual Men, ſuch as Zacharias, and Simeon, or by the Afflatus of the Spirit vouchſafed to them, 1 Cor. 14. 15.

Ver. 27. Μὴ ἔχουσαν σπίλον, ἢ ῥυτίδα, Not having ſpot or wrinkle.] This ſeems to refer p to the accuracy of the Jewiſh Baptiſm, who thought not the Perſon well baptized, if there were any wrinkle which kept the Fleſh from the Water, or any ſpot, or dirt, which was not thoroughly waſhed by it. Annotations on Chap. VI.

a Verſe 1. Ἐν Κυρίῳ, In the Lord.] That is, ſay Oecumenius and Theophylact, as far as their Commandments are conſiſtent with the Will of God.

b Ver. 2. Ἐν ἐπαγγελίᾳ, With Promiſe.] i.e. A ſpecial Promiſe; for that which is annexed to the Second Commandment, is rather a general Aſſertion, than a ſpecial Promiſe.

c Ver. 3. The Apoſtle doth not add theſe words, Which the Lord giveth thee; becauſe they particularly belonged to the Iſraelites, who were to be excluded from their own Land, and he would give them no ground to think they ſhould continue in it. Note alſo hence, that the Goſpel hath its temporal Promiſes, as well as ſpiritual, Matth. 6. 33. 1 Tim. 4. 8. 1 Pet. 3. 10, 11, 12. That this Promiſe did not at all concern the Epheſians, is Mr. Cl.'s miſtake; for God is not the God of the Jews only, but alſo of the Gentiles, and will reward Moral Duties performed by them, as well as by the Jews.

d Ver. 4. Ἐκτρέφετε, Bring them up in the nurture.] This, ſaith Oecumenius, is the way to make them obedient; and if you furniſh them with Spirituals, temporal Things will follow: Make them read the Scriptures, ſaith Theophylact, which is the Duty of all Chriſtians; for is it not a ſhame to inſtruct them in Heathen Authors, whence they may learn bad things, and not to inſtruct them in the Oracles of God?

e Ver. 9. Εἰδότες, Knowing;] (1.) That you with reſpect to God, are Servants, and that as you mete to your Servants, he will mete to you. (2ly.) That his Compaſſion and readineſs to forgive your Treſpaſſes, ſhould make you alſo ready to remit the Treſpaſſes of your Servants. (3ly.) That the Relation of Servants doth not make God leſs ready to ſhew kindneſs to them, and own them as his Children, and therefore ſhould not induce us to deſpiſe, and deal ſeverely with them.

Ver. 11. Τὰς μεθοδείας, The Wiles.] That f is, ſaith Phavorinus, ἐπιβουλὰς, ἐνέδρας, δόλους, the Deceits he puts upon us, the Snares he lays for us, the Machinations he contrives againſt us.

Ver. 13. Τὴν πανοπλίαν τῆς Θεοῦ, The whole g Armour of God,] here, & v. 10, 11. which makes us ſtrong in the Lord, and in the power of his might, conſiſts of ſuch things as either are in us, as Truth, Faith, Righteouſneſs, Peace, the hopes of Salvation; or are to be uſed by us, as Prayer, and Attendance on the Word of God, and not in any immediate influx of the Power of God without the uſe of theſe. Yea, this is here ſtiled, the whole Armour of God, nothing more being requiſite to enable us to come off Victors in this Combat; ſo that in theſe things doth conſiſt the Power of his Might; or by theſe it is certainly to be obtained.

That the Evil Day, is the Day of Trial and Perſecution, ſee Note on Chap. 5. 16.

Ver. 14. Ἐν ἀληθείᾳ, With Truth.] That h the Goſpel is throughout the Epiſtles emphatically ſtiled the Truth, ſee Note on Rom. 2. 8. And this ſeems to be the truth here mentioned, viz. a full perſwaſion of the truth of that Religion we profeſs, or that ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith, by which we are enabled to reſiſt the roaring Lion, 1 Pet. 5. 8, 9. See 1 Theſ. 3. 5. James 1. 6. The Breaſt-plate of Righteouſneſs is an exact obſervance of our Duty to God, and a righteous deportment towards Men, in all the Offices of Juſtice, Truth, and Charity, which will beget in us that good Conſcience which will ſupport us in the Day of Temptation, and procure Honour, and Eſteem, Love, and Compaſſion from Men. The Phraſe is taken from Iſa. 59. 18.

Ver. 15. Ὑποδησάμενοι τοὺς πόδας, And your i Feet ſhod, &c.] For explication of this Phraſe, obſerve firſt, That Shoes were anciently a part of Military Armour; for in the Story of of Goliah, there is mention of his Greaves of Braſs upon his Legs, 1 Sam. 17. 6. and in the Story of the Trojan Wars, χαλκοκνημίδες ἀχαιοὶ, the Græcians which were ſhod with Greaves of Braſs, are the armed Græcians. Note, Secondly, That to be ſhod doth ſignifie our being ready for the Work we go about, thus the Iſraelites were commanded to eat the Paſſover ſhod, i. e. ready for their Journey out of Egypt; and the Apoſtles are required to be ſhod with Sandals, that they might be ready to go whither their Maſter ſhould be pleaſed to ſend them, Mark 6. 8. The Goſpel of Peace is either that Goſpel which proclaims Peace with God through Faith in Chriſt, or which lays upon us the higheſt Obligations to live peaceably with all Men: So that the meaning of theſe words ſeems to be this, That ye may be ready for the Combat, be ye ſhod with the Goſpel of Peace, i. e. endeavour after that peaceable and quiet Mind the Goſpel calls for, be not eaſily provoked or prone to quarrel, but ſhew all gentleneſs, and all long-ſuffering to all Men, and this will as certainly preſerve you from many great Temptations and Perſecutions, as did thoſe Shoes of Braſs the Soldiers from thoſe ſharp Sticks and Gall-traps, which were wont to be laid privily in the Ways, to obſtruct the marching of the Enemy.

k Ver. 16. Τὸν θυρεὸν τῆς πίστεως, The Shield of Faith.] That Faith which is the confident expectation of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen, Heb. 11. 1. for this is the Victory over the World, even our Faith, 1 Joh. 5. 4.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

IT is the observation of Theodoret, Oecumenius, and others, that Philippi was a City of Macedonia, under the Metropolis of Thessalonica, which is confirmed Note on Verse the first.

This Epistle is by the same Greek Scholiasts said to be written by St. Paul when he was in bonds at Rome. That he had been in bonds some time before, we may gather from Ch. 1. 12,14. from the Philippians sending Epaphroditus to him with relief, and his return to them with this Epistle, after a dangerous sickness, and from his hopes to come quickly to them, Chap. 2. 24. and therefore he is supposed by the most exact Chronologers to have writ this Epistle in the eighth year of Nero, and the sixty second of our Lord.

That the Apostle here warns them against the Gnosticks, or that these Gnosticks joined with the Judaizing Christians to persuade the Gentiles to Judaize, I have not read in any of the Ancients; but the Greek Scholiasts agree in this, that he warns them against (a) ἡ ἐξαπάτην τῶν ἐξ Ἰουδαίων καὶ φαρισαίων, the deceit of the believing Jews, who endeavoured to corrupt them πείθοντες ἡμᾶς τῷ νόμῳ, καὶ περιτομῇ, by imposing on them Circumcision, and the Shadows of the Law, and saying that without these they could not be justified, Chap. 3. 18, 19. And this is abundantly confirmed from the whole third Chapter, where the Apostle declares he judges it for their safety to write to them to beware of Dogs, of evil Workers, and of the Concision, and by his stiling them the Enemies of the Cross of Christ, v. 18,19. See Note on Chap. 3. v. 2,3,15,16.

And lastly, It is noted by Theodoret, and others of the Fathers, that Epaphroditus mentioned in this Epistle as their Messenger, Chap. 2.15. & 4. 18. was also their Bishop, (b) ὃς τῶν ψυχῶν αὐτῶν ὅπερ δὴ ὁ ἐπίσκοπος, or the Person to whom the Care of their Souls had been committed; though, I confess, the words ὑμῶν ἀπόστολον, your Apostle, do not prove it.

CHAPTER I.

Verſe 1. [a] PAUL and Timotheus the Servants of Jeſus Chriſt, to all the Saints in Chriſt Jeſus, which are at [Gr. in] Philippi, [b] with the Biſhops and Deacons [there.]

2. [I wiſh] Grace to you, and Peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

3. [And] I [Paul] thank my God upon every remembrance of you [in my Prayers.]

4. Always in every prayer of mine for you all, making requeſt with joy.

5. [Which joy I have] For your [c] fellowſhip in the Goſpel, from the firſt day until now: [i.e. for your continuance in the Faith, and the profeſſion of the Goſpel.]

6. [d] Being confident of this very thing, that he who hath begun a good work, [the good work of faith] in [or among] you, will perform it to the day of Jeſus Chriſt.

7. Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, [Gr. τοῦτο φρονεῖν, to have this care for you all, which I ſhew in my prayers, and my continual remembrance of you, v. 4.] [e] becauſe I have you in my heart, [or you have me in your heart,] inaſmuch as in my bonds, and in the defence, and confirmation of the Goſpel, you all are partakers of my grace, [Gr. as thoſe who are all my Copartners of grace in my bonds, &c.].

8. [And of this my care for you I can call God to witneſs;] For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jeſus Chriſt, [or the moſt paſſionate degree of Chriſtian love.]

9. And this I pray [for you] that your love abound yet more and more, in knowledge, and all [f] judgment.

10. That ye may approve [the] things that are excellent, that ye may be ſincere, and without offence till the day of Chriſt.

11. [g] Being filled with the fruits of Righteouſneſs, which are [taught] by Jeſus Chriſt to the glory and praiſe of God.

12. But [to proceed to my own affairs, about which you have been ſo ſolicitous, v. 7.] I would ye ſhould underſtand, Brethren, that the things which have hapned to me, [thro' the malice of my Adverſaries,] have fallen out rather to the furtherance, [than the hindrance] of the Goſpel.

13. So that my bonds in [and for the cauſe of] Chriſt, are manifeſt in the Palace, and in all other places, [i.e. 'tis manifeſt not only in the Palace, but throughout all Rome, that I am in bonds for the Faith of Chriſt.]

14. [h] And many of the Brethren of the Lord waxing confident by my [patience, and courage in my] bonds, are [become] much more bold to ſpeak the word [of God] without fear.

15. Some indeed [there are who] preach Chriſt even of envy and ſtrife, and ſome alſo of good will, [and kind affection to me, and to the Goſpel.]

16. The one [party] preach Chriſt of contention, not ſincerely, [not from love to him, but diſaffection towards me,] ſuppoſing [by this means] to add affliction to my bonds, [or to bring further tribulation on me now in bonds.]

17. But the other [party preach Chriſt ont] of love [to him, and me his Servant.] knowing that I am ſet up [or lie in bonds] for the defence of the Goſpel.

18. What then [ſhall this afflict me? no, ſince] notwithſtanding every way, whether in pretence, or in truth, Chriſt is [ſtill] preached; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice.

19. For I know that this ſhall [be ſo far from accompliſhing their end of adding tribulation to my bonds, that it ſhall] turn to my ſalvation, [i. e. my deliverance] through your prayers [for me,] and the ſupply of the Spirit of Jeſus Chriſt, [enabling me to plead ſo as ſhall tend to my enlargement, v. 25.]

20. According to my earneſt expectation, and my hope, that [through the aſſiſtance of the Spirit of Courage which God hath promiſed, and given to us, 2 Tim. 1. 7.] in nothing I ſhall be aſhamed, but [that] with all boldneſs, as always [hitherto,] ſo now alſo, i Chriſt ſhall be magnified in my body, whether it be by [my] life [now,] or by [my] death [hereafter.]

21. For [the motive] to me to live is [the ſervice of] Chriſt, and to die [for him] is [my greateſt] gain.

22. But if [it happen that] I live in the fleſh, this is the fruit of my labour, [Gr. is worth my labour,] yet what I ſhall chuſe I know not, [i. e. were it left to my choice, I ſhould be in a ſtrait, which of the two Conditions to chuſe.]

23. For I am in a ſtrait between [theſe] k two, having a deſire k to depart, and to be with Chriſt, which is far better [for me than continuing here, were I only to reſpect my own Intereſt.]

24. Nevertheleſs [for me] to abide in the fleſh is more needful for you.

25. And having this confidence, [that you will receive this advantage, by my abiding in the fleſh,] I know that I ſhall abide, and continue with you all for your furtherance [in] and joy of Faith.

26. That your rejoycing may be more abundant in Jeſus Chriſt, by [or through] my coming to you again.

27. Only let [this be your care, that] your converſation be as becometh the Goſpel of Chriſt, that whether I come and ſee you, or elſe be abſent, I may hear [a comfortable account] of your affairs, that you ſtand faſt l in one ſpirit, with one mind ſtriving together for the faith of the Goſpel. l

28. And [being] in nothing terrified by [the threats, or perſecutions of] your adverſaries, which is to them an evident token of [your] Perdition, [viz. that you are an obſtinate people, bent on your own ruine,] but to you [it is a token] of Salvation, and that of God, [it being righteous with God to recompence tribulation to them that trouble you, but to you reſt, 2 Theſſ. 1. 5.]

29. For unto you it is given [by God as an eſſential favour,] in the behalf of Chriſt, not only to believe in him, but alſo to ſuffer for his ſake.

30. Having the ſame conflict [with the Enemies of the Faith,] which you ſaw in me, [when I was among you, Acts 16. 23. 1 Theſſ. 2. 2.] and now hear to be in me, [v. 16.]

a Verſe 1. NOte that Timothy is here joined with Paul in the Salutation, not in the Writing this Epiſtle; See v. 3.

b Ibid. Σὺν Ἐπισκόποις καὶ Διακόνοις, with the Biſhops and Deacons.] Various are the Expoſitions of theſe words, and great are the Contentions about the true import of them. For,

1. Some, with the Pſeud-Ambroſius, interpret theſe words thus, Paul and Timothy the Servants of Jeſus Chriſt, with the Biſhops and Deacons that are with us, to the Saints in Philippi. But as none of the Greek Fathers thought fit to take any notice of this ſtrain'd Expoſition, ſo may the harſhneſs of it appear by comparing it with the like Prefaces to ſome of the other Epiſtles; v. g. 1 Cor. 1. 1, 2. Paul an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt to the Church of God that is in Corinth, σὺν πᾶσι τοῖς ἐπικαλουμένοις τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ Κυρίου, with all that call upon the Name of the Lord. 2 Cor. 1. 1. Paul an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, to the Church of God that is at Corinth, σὺν τοῖς ἁγίοις τοῖς οὖσι ὅλῃ τῇ Ἀχαΐᾳ, with all the Saints that are in all Achaia; are places exactly parallel to theſe words, Paul and Timothy the Servants of Jeſus Chriſt to all the Saints that are in Philippi, with the Biſhops and Deacons: and yet can any Man think that Paul the Apoſtle, with all that called upon the Name of the Lord Chriſt, or with all the Saints that were in all Achaia, writ to the Church of Corinth, which was part of that Achaia? (2.) When the Apoſtle takes in thoſe that were with him, as Copartners in writing to another Church, he doth it thus, Paul an Apoſtle, καὶ οἱ σὺν ἐμοὶ πάντες ἀδελφοί, and all the Brethren that are with me write to the Churches of Galatia, Gal. 1. 1, 3. Had he then intended to greet the Philippians in the like manner, he would have writ in the like ſtile, Paul and Timothy, καὶ οἱ σὺν ἐμοὶ Ἐπίσκοποι καὶ Διάκονοι, and the Biſhops and Deacons that are with me, to the Church in Philippi.

The learned Dr. Hammond ſaith, That Philippi

lippi was a Metropolis which had many Bishops under it, on which account it is stiled Πρώτη τῆς μερίδος τῆς Μακεδονίας πόλις, the chief City of that part of Macedonia, Acts 16.12. and by Photius τῆς Μακεδόνων ἐπαρχίας Μητρόπολις, the Metropolis of the Province of the Macedonians. And by this, saith he, it appears that in Philippi there might be more Bishops than one, even as many as there were Cities under that Metropolis. But this Solution was

First, Unknown to the ancient Fathers, Chrysostom, Theodoret, St. Jerom, who all contend that Bishops here must signifie Presbyters, because there could not be more Bishops than one, properly so called, in one City; whereas had they known this to have been a Metropolis, they must have known that this had been a satisfactory Answer to that Objection.

2*ly*, They tell us that Philippi was then under the Metropolis of Thessalonica, which was the Metropolis of all Macedonia. Thus (a) Theodoret in his Preface to this Epistle, saith, Φιλιππήσιοι τῆς Μακεδονίας ὄντες ὑπὸ Μητρόπολιν Θεσσαλονίκην, the Philippians were Inhabitants of Macedonia under the Metropolis of Thessalonica: And Theophylact, that they were, ὑπὸ Μητρόπολιν τότε Θεσσαλονίκην τελοῦντες then, when the Apostle writ this to them, under the Metropolis of Thessalonica. That Thessalonica was then the Metropolis of Macedonia, is plain from Antipater the Thessalonian Poet, who flourished in the times of Augustus Cæsar, and calleth Thessalonica (b) the Mother of all Macedonia. It is called also the Metropolis of Macedonia, by Socrates; And in the Ecclesiastical sense it is so called by (c) Ætius, the Bishop thereof in the Council of Sardica. And so say all the Notitiæ Antiquæ at the end of Carolus Paulus, who saith that Philippi was no Metropolis for the first six Centuries, but after that Macedonia was divided into prima and secunda, it came to have the Honorary Title of the Metropolitan City, and therefore might be stiled so by Photius who lived in the ninth Century; but by St. Luke 'tis not stiled the first City τῆς ἐπαρχίας of the Province, but τῆς μερίδος of that part of Macedonia, which they that came from Thrace thither, touch'd at, as appears by (d) Dion's Description of it, and chiefly from (e) Diodorus Siculus, who saith ἦν πόλις αὕτη πεμπόντων καὶ τῶν Θρᾳκίων, that this City being taken by Philip, was very serviceable to him, as lying near Thrace, and other places very conveniently.

3*ly*, The Greek and Latin Fathers do with one consent declare, that τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους ὅτους ἐκάλεσεν, The Apostle here calls their Presbyters their Bishops. So Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius and Theophylact among the Greeks, and among the Latins (f) St. Jerom, (g) Pseud-Ambrosius, Pelagius and Primasius; and that not only for the forementioned reason, that there could be but one Bishop, properly so called, in one City; but for another alledged by them all, that τότε ἐκοινώνουν τοῖς ὀνόμασι, then the names were common to both orders, the Bishops being called Presbyters; and the Presbyters, Bishops. And this saith Theodoret, is manifest in this place, because he adds here (h) Deacons to the Bishops, making no mention of their Presbyters. The Learned Dr. Pearson therefore seems δικαίως τῇ ἀληθείᾳ too much to favour his own Hypothesis, when against all these Testimonies both of Greek and Latin Fathers he saith, 'tis not yet proved that there were then at Philippi any Presbyters of the second order, for surely this is proved from the Authority of all these Fathers. He therefore saith, (1.) That before the converted Jews and Gentiles did unite into one Church, there were two Bishops of the same Church. This he proves from those words of (i) Epiphanius, Alexandria never had two Bishops at a time, ὡς αἱ ἄλλαι Ἐκκλησίαι, as other Churches had, but if I am not much mistaken, this relates not to the Primitive and Apostolick times, but to the Times of the Meletians, who founded Bishops, Presbyters and Deacons, and by them Ἐκκλησίας ἰδίας, private Churches, calling them Churches of the Martyrs; whereas those of Peter's party called theirs Catholick Churches. But though this Schism continued long, and even in the time of Theodoret prevailed in Egypt, and, as Daneus notes, infected almost all Christian Regions; yet, saith Epiphanius, it never so prevailed in Alexandria as in other Churches, there being never there two Bishops, one of the Catholick, another of the Meletian Churches, as there were in many other places: And if this be the true import of these words, 'tis easie to discern how impertinent they are to the true Expositon of this place. He adds also from the same Epiphanius, that Paul and Peter were both Apostles and Bishops of Rome, as doubtless they also were at Antioch, and wherever they met, but they were only Bishops there, because Apostles there, one of the Jews, the other of the Gentiles, and in this they had no Successors. St. (k) Jerom indeed takes notice of this Evasion, but then he lays the Cenſure of contentious Perſons upon them that made it.

The ſame Learned Biſhop adds, That were it true that there were but one Biſhop in one City, it would not follow, that the word Biſhops here could not be taken in the proper ſenſe, becauſe the Apoſtle doth not here call them Biſhops of the Church, or City of Philippi, but only ſaith they were then at Philippi, he might write therefore to them whom he knew to be then at Philippi, tho' they were Biſhops of other Churches. But, (1.) As none of the Ancients have ever ſaid one word of any other Biſhops then met at Philippi, ſo the Words ſeem not well conſiſtent with this Evaſion; for writing τοῖς ὖσιν ἐν Φιλίπποις, he doubtleſs writes to the Saints dwelling in Philippi, writing therefore to them with the Biſhops and Deacons, he muſt be ſuppoſed to write alſo to the Biſhops and Deacons dwelling at Philippi.

I therefore acquieſce in the Opinion of Theodoret, who ſays that St. Paul then writ to the Presbyters and Deacons of that City, becauſe their Biſhop Epaphroditus, whom he ſtiles his Brother and Companion in Labour, and Fellow-Soldier, and their Apoſtle, was then with him at Rome, chap. 2. 25. and that he therefore mentions them becauſe they were ſo inſtrumental in ſending the Contributions to him, mentioned Chap. 4. 15.

c Ver. 5. Κοινωνία.] That Fellowſhip, or κοινωνία here, doth not ſignifie their Liberality towards the Propagation of the Goſpel, but their Communion with the Apoſtles in the Goſpel, as it doth 1 John 1. 3, 7. I gather (1.) From the Phraſe ἔργον ἀγαθὸν, which is emphatically put to ſignifie τὸ ἔργον πίστεως, the Work of Faith; as when we are ſaid, καθ' ὑπομονὴν ἔργου ἀγαθοῦ, By patient continuance in the good work to ſeek for Glory, Rom. 2. 7. that being the Work of God that we ſhould believe in his Son, John 6. 29. (2ly.) From the Phraſe, He that hath begun the good work in you, will perform it to the Day of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that being ſtill uſed by the Apoſtle to teſtifie his hopes, that they would continue ſtedfaſt in Faith and Obedience, till they received their Crown, 1 Cor. 1. 8. 1 Theſ. 3. 13. & 5. 23.

d Ver. 6. Πεποιθὼς αὐτὸ τοῦτο, Being confident, &c.] This the Apoſtle ſpeaks, not out of any Opinion of the Election of all the Philippians to Eternal Life, or of the Certainty of their Perſeverance to the end by virtue of that Election, for why then doth he exhort them to work out their Salvation with fear and trembling, ch. 2. 12. To ſtand faſt in the Lord, ch. 4. 1. And to retain the Word of Life, that he might have joy in the day of Chriſt, that he had not run in vain, or laboured in vain among them? Chap. 2. 16. He ſpeaks this therefore from a Judgment of Charity, becauſe, ſaith he, it ſeems juſt, or fit for me to conceive this good hope of you, by reaſon of that great Affection you retain to me, and your Patience in enduring the like Afflictions: Now he that only gives theſe Reaſons of his Confidence, gives us juſt Reaſons to conceive, he knew nothing of the neceſſity of their Perſeverance by virtue of any abſolute Election to Salvation.

Ver. 14.—18. For Explication of theſe h four Verſes, let it be noted in the general, that they who preached Chriſt, ἐξ ἐριθείας, out of contention, did not preach Chriſt, or the Goſpel in truth, and out of love to it, v. 17, 18. but only in pretence, or upon this occaſion, from ſtrife and envy againſt St. Paul, being grieved that he had free liberty of preaching Chriſt to all that came to him for two Years, Acts 28. 30. and alſo, that they did not acknowledge St. Paul to be ſet up, or by God appointed for the defence and propagation of the Goſpel. Whence it appears, that they could not be Perſons, who only did contend with St. Paul for the Glory of being the moſt diligent and ſucceſsful Promoters of the Goſpel, or as ſuch, envying the Apoſtle's Glory, ſet up for themſelves, boaſting as if they were the only Publiſhers of the Goſpel. But yet 'tis difficult to aſſign the Perſons here intended by St. Paul; Oecumenius and Theophylact ſay, they were the unbelieving Jews, who by divulging every-where about Rome, what was the Doctrine of Chriſtianity which Paul preached; how oppoſite it was to the Roman Gods, and their Worſhip; what Tumults it had cauſed; how many it had turn'd from their Old Religion to the Faith of Chriſt; and who he was in whom the Chriſtians did believe; thought to enrage the Emperor againſt St. Paul, the great Promoter of this Doctrine. And in this, ſay they, might St. Paul rejoyce, as giving occaſion to others to enquire into the Chriſtian Faith, and ſo to come unto it; for ſaith Tertullian, Deſinunt odiſſe, quod deſinunt ignorare; when they once know, they ceaſe to hate it; but ſuch cannot be ſaid to preach Chriſt without an intolerable Catachreſis; nor can St. Paul be ſuppoſed to rejoice in ſuch a repreſentation of the Chriſtian Faith, as they made. Others therefore ſay, with a greater likelihood, theſe were the Judaizing Chriſtians, who with the Goſpel taught the obſervation of the Law, for from theſe aroſe ἔριδες καὶ διχοστασίαι, ſtrife and diſſenſions, 1 Cor. 1. 11. & 3. 3. Zeal, animoſities, and contentions, 2 Cor. 12. 20. and that on the account of this Apoſtle, whom they would ſcarce own as an Apoſtle of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 7. 2. but rather look'd upon as one that walked according to the Fleſh, chap. 10. 2. and would have excluded him from the Churches, Gal. 4. 16, 17. And yet at their preaching Chriſt, tho' not ſincerely, the Apoſtle may be ſuppoſed to rejoyce, becauſe he knew the time was near, when the Hay and Stubble they built on the Foundation ſhould be revealed, and the Deſtruction of the Temple and City of Jeruſalem, would ſufficiently confute their vain Additions to the Faith.

i Ver. 20. Ἐν τῷ σώματί μου, Chriſt ſhall be magnified by me in my Body.] For if I live in the Body, the Power of Chriſt will be magnified in delivering me out of ſo great danger: But if I be put to Death for his ſake, that Power will be magnified, which enables me ſo chearfully to die for the Faith, as I am ready to do.

l Ver. 23. Πολλῷ μᾶλλον κρεῖσσον, To depart, and to be with Chriſt, which is much better.] Becauſe, ſaith Crellius, the time betwixt Death and the Reſurrection is not to be reckoned, therefore the Apoſtle might ſpeak thus, tho' the Soul hath no ſenſe of any thing after Death. But could St. Paul think a State of Inſenſibility much better than a Life tending ſo much, as his did, to the Glory of God, to the Propagation of the Goſpel, and the Furtherance of the Joy of Chriſtians? Could he call ſuch an inſenſate State, a being with Chriſt, and a walking by ſight, in oppoſition to the Life of Faith? 2 Cor. 5. 7, 8. Others ſay, The Apoſtle ſpeaketh thus, becauſe he expected that the general Reſurrection, and the Day of Judgment ſhould be in his time: But the words will not bear this ſenſe; for the Apoſtle ſaith, he is in a Conſtraint betwixt theſe two, whether he ſhould chuſe that Life which would enable him to gain many to Chriſt, and miniſter greatly to the Neceſſities of his Church, or that which would cauſe him to live with Chriſt, viz. as to his better part, i.e. whether his Body and Soul ſhould be diſſolved, or he ſhould ſtill live in the Fleſh? Now 'tis impoſſible that the ſame Man, at the ſame time, ſhould expect the Reſurrection, and the Day of Judgment, and yet expect to live in the Fleſh, and to abide with the Church in the Fleſh, and yet expect that none of the Members of the Church ſhould abide in the Fleſh, but ſhould enjoy that Reſurrection, which would place them with Chriſt, as well as himſelf; that he ſhould deſire his Soul ſhould be diſſolved, or ſeparated from the Body, that he might be preſent with the Lord, and yet at the ſame time expect that Day, when he ſhould be clothed upon with his Celeſtial Body. Moreover, he himſelf informs us, that the Apoſtles expected only the Reſurrection, when other Chriſtians ſhould ariſe at the Great Day; for thus he ſpeaks, He that raiſed up the Lord Jeſus from the dead, will raiſe us alſo by him, and will preſent us with you, 2 Cor. 4. 14. And this confutes their Gloſs, who ſay the Apoſtle expected to be with Chriſt as an eſpecial Privilege belonging to him as an Apoſtle, or a Martyr for Chriſt; See the Note on 2 Cor. 5. 8.

Ver. 27. In one Spirit, with one Mind.] That is, with Love and Concord, ſaith Oecumenius; See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 10, 11. or with full conſent; ſo ψυχῇ μιᾷ, 1 Chron. 12. 38. l

CHAPTER II.

Verſe 1. IF there be therefore any Conſolation [παράκλησις, any force of Exhortation,] in [beſeeching you in the Name of] Chriſt; if [there be] any comfort of [mutual] Love; if [there be] any Fellowſhip of the Spirit [of Love exciting you to it;] if [ye have] any Bowels and Mercies [for me the Priſoner of Chriſt;]

2. Fulfil ye my joy [in this,] that ye be [all] like minded, having the ſame Love [one to another,] being of one accord, of one mind, [or minding the ſame thing.]

3. Let nothing be done [among you] thro' ſtrife, [who ſhall be the greateſt,] or [thro' deſire of] vain glory, but in lowlineſs of a mind, [a] let each eſteem [an] other better than himſelf.

4. Look not every man on his own things, [or concernments only,] but every Man alſo on the things of others, [being concerned for their welfare.]

5. Let this mind be in you, [with reſpect to theſe matters,] which was alſo in Chriſt Jeſus.

b 6. Who being [b] in the form of God, [when c he appeared to the Patriarchs,] [c] thought it
d no robbery to be [d] equal with God, [Gr. did not covet to appear as God.]

7. But [diveſting himſelf of his former glory,] made himſelf of no reputation, and e took upon him the [e] form of a ſervant, [by f miniſtring to others,] and [f] was made in the likeneſs of Man, [Gr. being in the likeneſs of man.]

8. And being found in faſhion as a [an ordinary] man, he humbled himſelf [yet more,] and became obedient to death, even the death of the Croſs.

g 9. Wherefore [g] God alſo hath highly exalted him, [even as to his Manhood,] and given him a Name, [a Dignity and Majeſty] which is above every Name [of Majeſty, Eph. 1. 21. Heb. 1. 4.]

10. That at the Name of Jeſus every knee ſhould bow, [humbly acknowledging his Authority; even thoſe] of things in Heaven, [i. e. the holy Angels,] and things in Earth, (i. e. Men,] and things under the Earth [the dead, who being raiſed by him, ſhall acknowledge his power; for to them the Apoſtle doth apply theſe very words of the Prophet Iſaiah, Rom. 14. 11, 12. Rev. 5. 13. Iſa. 45. 23.]

11. And that every Tongue, [i. e. Men of all Nations and Languages, Rev. 7. 13.] ſhould h confeſs that Jeſus Chriſt is Lord, [h] to the Glory of God the Father.

12. Wherefore my Beloved, [remembring the dignity of Chriſt, and your ſubjection to him,] as ye have always obeyed, not as in my preſence only, [when you had me to be your Monitor;] but now much more in my abſence, [which God by the workings of his i holy Spirit ſupplies,] work out your own ſalvation with fear and trembling.

13. For it is God who [in my abſence, by his inward teachings,] worketh in you, both to will, and to do of his own good pleaſure.

14. [And] do all things without murmurings and diſputings; [i.e. obey the Precepts of the Chriſtian Faith, and of your Spiritual Monitors cheerfully, and without grudging, and readily, without exacting a reaſon of every Command they lay upon you]

15. That ye may be blameleſs and harmleſs [as becomes] the Sons of God, [being] without rebuke, in the midſt of a crooked and perverſe Nation, among whom ye ſhine as Lights in the World.

16. Holding forth [ἐπέχοντες holding faſt] the Word of Life, [under all Perſecutions and Temptations,] that I may rejoyce in the Day of Chriſt, that I have not run in vain, neither laboured in vain.

17. [And as for me a Priſoner, if I not only ſhould continue abſent from, ἀλλ' εἰ καὶ] But if I be [alſo] [k] offered upon the Sacri- k
fice, and Service of your Faith, [i. e. that I may preſent you Gentiles an acceptable Sacrifice to God through Faith, and the Sanctification of the holy Spirit, Rom. 15. 16.] I joy and rejoyce with you all, [I count theſe ſufferings the matter, not of my ſorrow, but my joy.]

18. [And if this come to paſs,] For the ſame cauſe, [or in the like manner,] alſo do ye joy and rejoyce with me.

19. But [though I ſpeak thus.] I truſt in the Lord Jeſus, [that he will work ſuch a deliverance for me, ch. 1. 19, 25. As that not needing him ſo much here, I may be able] to ſend Timotheus ſhortly to you, that [whatever be my condition here,] I alſo may [or I may yet] be of good comfort, when I know your State, [i.e. your ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith, and your Charity to one another.]

20. [To ſend Timothy, I ſay.] For I have no Man [with me] like-minded, who will [ſo] naturally, [and with like affection] care for your Eſtate.

21. For all [here] ſeek their own [intereſts and ſafety, and] not the things which are Jeſus Chriſt's; [that is, comparatively to Timothy and Epaphroditus, mentioned v. 25. for I find others too generally more concerned for their own ſafety, than for advancing the Kingdom of Chriſt with the hazard of their own Lives and Fortunes.]

22. But ye know the Proof, [ye have had experience] of him, that as a Son with the Father, he hath ſerved with me in the Goſpel;

ſpel; [yielding honour and obedience to me, and with the like Spirit labouring to promote the Affairs of the Goſpel.]

23. Him therefore I hope to ſend [to you] preſently, ſo ſoon as I ſhall ſee how it will go with me, [i. e. what will be the iſſue of my bonds.]

24. But I truſt [or I truſt alſo] in the Lord, that I alſo my ſelf, [being ſet at liberty] ſhall come ſhortly [to you.]

25. Yet [being not hitherto able to come my ſelf, or to ſend Timothy,] I ſuppoſed it neceſſary to ſend to you Epaphroditus my Brother and Companion in Labour, and Fellow-Soldier, but your Meſſenger, and he that miniſtred to my wants.

26. For he longed after you all, [i. e. deſired much to ſee you,] and was full of heavineſs, becauſe that ye had heard that he had been ſick, [as knowing your Affection to him would render you full of Sorrow upon his account.]

27. m For [and] indeed he was ſick, nigh unto death, but God had mercy upon him, and not on him only, but on me alſo, leſt [by his death,] I ſhould have ſorrow upon ſorrow. m

28. I ſent him therefore the more carefully, that when you ſee him again [recovered,] ye may rejoyce [on the account of it,] and that I may be the leſs ſorrowful, [finding your ſorrow for him turned into joy.

29. Receive him therefore in the Lord, [and for his ſake,] with great gladneſs, and hold ſuch [as ſtand thus affected to his Service] in Reputation.

30. Becauſe for the Work of Chriſt, [i. e. the promotion of his Goſpel, and the miniſtration to me the Priſoner of the Lord,] he was nigh unto death, n not regarding [but freely hazarding] his [own] Life, to ſupply your lack of ſervice towards me. n a Verſe 3. LET each eſteem, &c.] This refers not to Judgment, it being not in our power always thus to eſteem of others; but to practice; as if he ſhould have ſaid, Be as ready to aſſiſt and help others, as if you were their Subjects and Inferiours, ſo the Example of Chriſt requires, and ſo the Precept runs, That he who is the greateſt ſhould be as a Servant to others.

b Ver. 6. Ἐν μορφῇ Θεοῦ, In the form of God.] By this Expreſſion moſt Interpreters do underſtand, that the Apoſtle doth intend Chriſt was eſſentially and truly God; but tho' this be a certain truth, yet I conceive this cannot be the import of this Expreſſion in this place.

1*ſt*, Becauſe the Apoſtle exhorteth his Philippians to Humility, after the Example of our Lord; now Humility conſiſts not in the change of Nature, but of Condition; and therefore this Exinanition of the Form of God, ſeems rather to reſpect our Lord's Condition, than his Nature.

2*ly*, There is no more Reaſon to ſay, the Form of God ſignifies the Eſſence of God, than that the Form of a Servant ſignifies the Eſſence of a Servant; but evident it is, that the Form of a Servant doth not ſignifie the Eſſence, but the State, and the Condition of a Servant, which is a mere Relation; nor doth his Manumiſſion change his Nature, but his State.

3*ly*, According to this import of the Phraſe, it cannot well be ſhewed how he did empty himſelf of, or lay aſide this Form; for tho' by taking of a Body, he conceal'd, yet could he not be ſaid to empty himſelf of, or lay aſide the Godhead, eſpecially when in that Body he gave ſuch numerous and ſignal Demonſtrations of Divine Power and Wiſdom, both in his Miracles, his Doctrine, and Knowledge of the Hearts of Men.

4*ly*, This word μορφὴ, Form, both in the Old and New Teſtament, doth often ſignifie the external ſhape: As when 'tis ſaid of (a) Belteſhaſar, Dan. 5. 6, 10. and of Daniel, ch. 7.28. That their (b) Forms were changed: Of Nebuchadnezzar, That (c) his Form returned to him, Dan. 4. 36. Of Chriſt, that he appeared to two of his Diſciples, Ἐν ἑτέρᾳ μορφῇ, in another Form, Mark 16. 12. and that μετεμορφώθη, he was transfigured before three of them, Mat. 17. 2. but it no where ſeems to ſignifie the Eſſence of a Man either in the Old or the New Teſtament.

Grotius, and the Socinians ſay, That Chriſt is ſaid to be in the Form of God, by reaſon of the Miracles he wrought on Earth, they being Indications of the Power of God reſiding in him. But this Interpretation cannot ſtand. For,

1*ſt*, Chriſt is here plainly ſaid to have been in the Form of God, before he took upon him the Form of a Servant, or the Similitude of Man; for as theſe words, Being found in the faſhion of a Man, he humbled himſelf, and became obedient to the Death, do ſhew, that he was found in the faſhion of a Man, before he humbled himſelf to become obedient to the Death; ſo, by parity of Reaſon, theſe words, Being in the Form of God, &c. he emptied himſelf, and took upon him

the Form of a Servant, being found in the Likeneſs of Man, do ſhew that he was firſt in the Form of God, before that being found in the Likeneſs of Man, he took upon him the Form of a Servant.

2*ly*, 'Tis plainly here aſſerted, that Chriſt emptied himſelf of this Form of God at his Humiliation; whereas he never laid aſide his Power of working Miracles, but did continue to exert it to his Death.

3*ly*, This Power of Miracles is never in the Scripture ſtiled the Form of God; and were this all that was intended by that Phraſe, both Moſes and Elias, and our Lord's Apoſtles, might upon that account be ſaid to have been in the Form of God, ſeeing both Moſes and Elias wrought many Miracles on Earth, and Chriſt declared concerning his Diſciples, that they ſhould work greater Miracles than thoſe which he had done, Joh. 14. 12.

I therefore by this Form of God, do underſtand that glorious Form in which God on his Throne is repreſented, that Majeſty in which he is ſaid to appear in Scripture, and in which the Λόγος, or the Word, did ſhew himſelf of old to Moſes, and the Patriarchs. For Explication of this ſenſe, I ſhall ſhew, (1.) How God in the Old Teſtament is repreſented as appearing, ſhewing his Form and Glory to the Sons of Men. (2*ly*,) That Chriſt did in this Form appear to Moſes and the Patriarchs of old. (3*ly*,) That ſince our Lord's Aſcenſion he hath been inveſted with this Form of God, he hath appeared in it, and hath declared it belongs to him, tho' for the time of his Humiliation, he was pleaſed to depoſe, or put it off. And,

1*ſt*, The Appearance, or Similitude of God is repreſented in the Old Teſtament in a bright ſhining Cloud, or Light, a Flame of Fire, or the Attendance of an Hoſt of Angels. Thus in that Viſion of the Prophet Daniel, The Ancient of Days did ſit; his Throne was like the fiery Flame, and his Wheels as burning Fire, a Stream of Fire did iſſue from before him, thouſands of thouſands miniſtred unto him; and ten thouſand times ten thouſand ſtood before him, Dan. 7. 9, 10. Thus God appeared on Mount Sinai, where his Preſence was attended with an Hoſt of Angels, according to that Saying of the Pſalmiſt, The Chariots of God are twenty thouſand, even thouſands of Angels, and the Lord is among them as in Sinai, Pſal. 68. 18. where the Targum adds, The Word of the Lord deſired to place his Majeſty upon it, Jehovah dwelleth לחוד only in the Heaven of Heavens for ever. He appeared there alſo in a bright ſhining Cloud, or Flame of Fire; for the Glory abode upon Mount Sinai, and the Cloud covered it ſix days, and the ſight of the Glory of the Lord, was like devouring Fire, Exod. 24. 16, 17. And ſeeing of theſe Majeſtick Symbols is to ſee God, v. 12. to ſee the God of Iſrael, v. 10. that is, ſay Onkelos and Jonathan, the Glory of God. And when Moſes doth again repeat the Decalogue, he adds theſe words, Deut. 5. 22, 24. The Lord ſpake to all your Aſſembly in the Mount, out of the midſt of the Fire of the Cloud: And you ſaid, Behold, the Lord God hath ſhewed us his Glory, and we have heard his Voice out of the midſt of the Fire. We have ſeen this day that God doth talk with man, and he liveth. The Word of the Lord our God ſhew'd the Divine Majeſty of his Glory, ſaith the Targum of Jonathan; and we heard the Voice of his Word, ſaith Onkelos. And the Prophet Habakkuk in his Song of God, ſaith thus, His Glory covered the Heavens, his Brightneſs was as the Light, and bright Beams came out of his ſide, Hab. 3. 3, 4. There he diſcovered שבנחוה his Shecinah, i. e. his glorious Majeſty, ſaith the Targum. When Jacob had a Viſion of Angels aſcending and deſcending, he preſently cries out, This is no other than the Houſe of God, this is the Gate of Heaven, ſurely Jehovah is in the place, and I knew it not, Gen. 28. 17. שכינתא דיי The Glory of the Lord is here, ſay the Targums. And when God ſhewed himſelf to the People in the Cloud, then did the Glory or Similitude of God appear, as the Expreſſion is, Numb. 12. 8. Τῶ δόξα Κυρίε, The Glory of the Lord, ſaith the Septuagint, ſo 1 Kings 8. 11. Thus doth the Scripture repreſent, that God who dwelleth in Light inacceſſible, before whoſe Face the Angels do continually ſtand as miniſtring Spirits: And this alſo is the Rabbinical Expoſition of the כבוד יי (d) the Glory of the Lord; that is, either a Ray of Divine Light, or a Guard of Angels.

2*ly*, That Chriſt was in the Form of God, even before he took upon him Humane Nature, will be apparent, if we conſider that even before he purged our Sins, he was the Brightneſs of his Father's Glory, Light of Light, Heb. 1. 3. and in the Language of the Book of Wiſdom, A pure Stream flowing from the Glory of the Almighty, the Brightneſs of the everlaſting Light, Wiſd. 7. 25-26. And that he at the Concluſion of his Humiliation prays, that God would glorifie him with the Glory, which he had with him, before the Foundation of the World, John 17. 3. 2. That it was the Opinion, both of the ancient Jews, and of the Chriſtians from the beginning, that it was the λόγος, or the Meſſiah, who appeared to the Patriarchs of old in Light and Splendor, and ſometimes with the Attendance of Holy Angels. And 3. that we have great Evidence of this Matter, both in the Old and New Teſtament: In the Books of Exodus and Numbers we read, that the Children of Iſrael tempted the Lord, ſaying, Is the Lord among us, or not? Exod. 17. 7. Numb. 21. 6. and that the Lord ſent therefore fiery Serpents among them; but in the 10th Chapter of the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, we are informed that they tempted Chriſt, and were deſtroyed of Serpents. See this Reading juſtified, Note on 1 Cor. 10 9. Chriſt therefore, as to his Divine Nature, was then preſent with, and tempted by them. God alſo ſaith to his People thus, Exod. 23. 20, 23. Behold, I ſend an Angel before thee, to keep thee in thy way, and to bring thee to the place which I prepared; beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not; he will not pardon your Tranſgreſſions, for my name is in him. Now the ancient (e) Rabbins ſay, this was the Angel, the Redeemer; or an uncreated Angel, in whom was Jehovah: And the words plainly ſeem to intimate this to us, ſeeing the Power of Remitting Sins, aſcribed here to him, belongeth only to that God againſt whom they are committed. Moreover, when God being incenſed againſt Iſrael for making the Golden Calf, had threatned to withdraw himſelf, and only ſend an Angel before them to drive out the Inhabitants of Canaan before them, Exod. 33. 2. this ſeems an evil word to the People, and they mourn becauſe of it, viz. of thoſe words, I will not go up in the midſt of thee; that is, ſay Onkelos and Jonathan, I will not cauſe שכינתי my glorious Preſence to go up with thee. Nor doth Moſes himſelf reſt in this Anſwer, but ſpeaks thus to God, If thy Preſence go not with me, carry us not up hence, v. 15. If the Schechinah go not with us, ſaith Onkelos; εἰ μὴ αὐτός σου, If thou thy ſelf go not with us, ſay the Septuagint, R. Salomon and Eben Ezra: which ſenſe the following words require, viz. For wherein ſhall it be known that I and thy People have found grace in thy ſight, is it not in that thou goeſt with us? v. 16. Whence it is evident, that they were not contented with the Promiſe of a created Angel, but required God's Preſence to go with them; and that God granted this Requeſt, v. 17. Thus (f) Philo Judæus often informs us, That the Angel who went before them, was no created Angel, but the Divine Word, or God himſelf; for, ſaith he, Moſes prays to God himſelf to be his Governour in the way that leadeth to himſelf, ſaying, If thou go not with us, carry us not up hence. And again, He uſes the Divine Word for a Guide, for ſo ſpeaks the Oracle, Behold, I will ſend my Angel before thy face to lead thee in the way, Exod. 23. 20, &c.

3*ly*, That after his Aſcenſion to the Right Hand of Majeſty and Glory, the Lord Chriſt did again reaſſume this Form, and appear in this Majeſtick Splendor, is evident from the New Teſtament: Thus he appeared to Stephen, who looking up ſtedfaſtly to Heaven, ſaw the Glory of God, and the Son of Man ſtanding at the Right Hand of God, Acts 7. 55. Thus he appeared to a perſecuting Saul, in a Light from Heaven above the brightneſs of the Sun, ſaying to him, I am Jeſus whom thou perſecuteſt, Acts 26. 13. Thus in the Viſion of St. John, Rev. 1. 14, 16. His eyes were as a flaming fire, and his countenance as the Sun ſhining in his ſtrength. Thus he declared he would appear at the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem to puniſh that rebellious People; The Son of Man, ſaith he, will come in the glory of his Father with his holy Angels, Mat. 16 27. Luke 9 26, 28. And his ſecond Advent ſhall be with the ſame tremendous Glory, for he ſhall be then revealed from Heaven, with his mighty Angels in flaming fire, 2 Theſſ. 1. 7, 8.

4*ly*, Seeing then this Splendor, and this Attendance of Holy Angels, is repreſented in Scripture as the Similitude, the Shape, the Face, and Majeſtick Preſence of God, ſeeing it is evident, that before the Incarnation the λόγος, or Divine Word, had this Glory, and in it did appear to Moſes and the Patriarchs, and that in order to the exerciſe of a Regal Power over his Church; ſeeing it is certain from the New Teſtament, that after his Aſcenſion he again reaſſumed this form and power, 'tis highly probable this was the form of God here mentioned; this was the likeneſs to God in which, at his Humiliation, he did not covet to appear, but rather choſe to lay aſide, that ſo he might appear amongſt us, not as the Lord of Heaven, attended with an Hoſt of Angels, or in the dazling brightneſs of his Father's Glory; but in the faſhion of a Man.

Writer it plainly ſignifies, to covet earneſtly, or look upon a thing as much to be deſired, and ſnatched at. Thus when Cybele went about to allure Theagenes to the luſtful Embraces of Arſace, finding him out of the Temple, in a by Apartment, ſhe did (g) ἁρπαγμα ποιεῖν ἢ ξωῆυχίαν, i.e. ſhe ſnatched at the occaſion, or lookt upon it as a thing deſirable for her purpoſe; and when none of her Propoſals or Allurements would prevail with Theagenes to gratifie the Queen's deſires, ſhe brake forth into this admiration, (h) What averſneſs from Love is this! A young man in the flower of his Age thruſts from him, or refuſes a Woman like unto himſelf, and deſirous of him, ᾗ οὐκ ἁρπαγμα ἐδὲ ἴρμαιον ἡγεῖται τὸ φεῦγμα, and does not look upon this as a great offer, and a thing very deſirable: And when ſhe had found out that his Affection to Chariclea was the cauſe of this averſneſs, ſhe propoſes to Arſace the death of Chariclea, as an Expedient to gain his Affection, and (i) ἁρπαγμα τὸ βίαιον ἐποιήσατο ἡ Ἀρσάκη, Arſace embraces the motion as a thing very deſirable, or to be coveted. So that ἁρπαγμα ἡγεῖσθαι, ſaith Scvidius, is, rem optatam perſequi, & ſtudioſiſſimè occupare.

d Ibid. Τὸ εἶναι ἴσα θεῷ,] Is to be, or to appear as God, or in the likeneſs of God: So the word ἴσα is adverbially uſed frequently in the Septuagint, anſwering to the Hebrew Caph, Job 5. 14. They grope in the noon-day, ἴσα νυκτὶ, as in the night, Chap. 10. 10. Haſt thou not cruddled me ἴσα τυρῷ as Cheeſe, Chap. 11. 12. Man is born ἴσα ὄνῳ ἐρημίτῃ like a wild aſſes colt, Chap. 13. 12. your remembrance is ἴσα κονδῷ like unto aſhes, and v. 20. he conſumeth ἴσα ἀσκῷ as a bottle, Chap. 15. 16. Man drinketh in iniquity ἴσα πόσει as drink, Chap 24. 20. Wickedneſs ſhall be broken ἴσα ξύλῳ as a Tree, Chap. 27. 16. He prepareth Raiment ἴσα πηλῷ as the Clay, Chap. 28. 2. Braſs is molten out of the Stone ἴσα λίθῳ as the Stone, Chap. 29. 14. I put on judgment ἴσα διπλοΐδι as a Robe, Chap. 40. 15. He eateth Graſs ἴσα βοῒ as an Ox, Iſa. 51. 23. Thou haſt laid thy Body ἴσα τῇ γῇ as the Earth, Wiſd. 7. 1. I my ſelf am a mortal man ἴσον πᾶσι like to all men; And the firſt voice I uttered was πᾶσιν ἴσα κλαίων, weeping as all others do, v. 3. So that the ſenſe of theſe words ſeems to me to be this, That though Chriſt in his former Appearances ſtill repreſented himſelf in the form, and likeneſs of God, yet coming now into the World for the Salvation of Mankind, he did not covet or deſire to appear in that Majeſtick Splendor and Authority, but rather choſe to come in the ſimilitude of a Man, and in the form of a Servant. Nor doth this Expoſition give any advantage to the Socinians, but equally confutes their Hereſie, and gives a better Anſwer to their Arguments than the uſual Expoſition can give. For,

1. Hence the Præ-exiſtence of Chriſt, before his being born of the Bleſſed Virgin, is proved to a Demonſtration.

2. Hence alſo it is evident that there muſt be two Natures in Chriſt; that of the Λόγος which appeared from the beginning to the Patriarchs; and that which he received, when as Man he was conceived in the Virgin's Womb.

3. Hence it appears that this Nature, in which he appeared before his Conception in the Virgin's Womb muſt be Divine. For what other Nature could appear in the form of God, and challenge to it ſelf the Glory which by the Jews was ſtill eſteemed a certain Indication of the Divine Preſence, and in the New Teſtament is ſtiled the Glory of the Father? Eſpecially if we conſider, that he who thus appeared hath the incommunicable Name Jehovah ſo oft aſcribed to him, is ſtiled the Judge of the whole Earth, and either challengeth to himſelf the Divine Attributes, and Offices, or never doth refuſe them when they are offered to him by Men. Moreover, where is the Humiliation, or the Exinanition here mentioned, in that Chriſt would not be, or appear as God in the World, if, having only an Human Nature, he could not do ſo without being guilty of the Blaſphemy the Jews laid to his charge, that he being a Man made himſelf God? whereas he differed in nothing from an ordinary Man, but only in the extraordinary Gifts conferred by God upon him. And if his Nature was Divine, it of neceſſity muſt be Eternal, ſince the Divine Nature can have no beginning of Exiſtence.

Ibid. Μορφὴν δούλου λαβὼν, he took upon him e the form of a Servant.] This Phraſe cannot import only his taking of the Humane Nature, that being ſufficiently expreſſed, by ſaying that he was made in the likeneſs of Man; beſides, he ſtill retains the Humane Nature, but doth not now retain the form of a Servant, but of the Lord of all things. Nor are we to underſtand by it his outward Poverty, which equall'd him to Servants, ſaith the Learned Grotius, as having nothing of his own; for that is not the ſtate of a Servant only, but of a Son in his Minority, and of many unfortunate Perſons who were never Servants. Nor (3*ly*,) muſt we underſtand by it, as the Socinians do, his Submiſſion to be uſed as a Slave or Servant, by being whipt, and bound, and crucified; for that is the Humiliation which he ſuffered after he had taken upon him the form of a Servant, as thoſe words plainly ſhew, He took upon him the form of a Servant, and being found in the faſhion of a Man, he became obedient to the death. Nor is this proper to a Servant, but to a Malefactor; for a Servant is not leſs a Servant when he is not whip'd, or ſcourged: He therefore may be rather ſaid to have taken upon him the form of a Servant by miniſtring to Men, and being among them as one that ſerved, for as the buſineſs of a Servant is to do nothing for himſelf, but for the good of others, and to ſpend himſelf in miniſtring to their Advantage; ſo the Son of Man came not to be miniſtred to, but to miniſter; and at the cloſe of that Miniſtry, to give his Life a Ranſom for many.

f Ver. 7. Ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἀνθρώπων γενόμενος, and being in the likeneſs of Man.] That our Lord had the Real Nature, and not only the outward Shape or Reſemblance of a Man; that he had a Body conſiſting of Fleſh, Blood and Bones; a Soul and Spirit; and ſo all the conſtituent parts of a Man, the Scripture plainly teſtifies. Nor doth this Phraſe ἐν ὁμοιώματι, in the likeneſs of Man, contradict it, it being uſed of a real likeneſs by the Participation of the ſame Nature as to kind. Thus Adam is ſaid to beget a Son, ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἰδίῳ, in his own likeneſs, who yet was certainly of the ſame Nature with him. And Chriſt is ſaid ὁμοιωθῆναι to be made like to his Brethren by the participation of the Nature of Abraham, and his Communion with them in the ſame Fleſh and Blood, Heb. 2.14, 16, 17. And 'twas both proper and elegant for the Apoſtle to uſe this Expreſſion here, by reaſon of the Oppoſition he deſigned to ſhew, betwixt Chriſt's former glorious, and his then preſent humble ſtate, he being then ἐν μορφῇ θεοῦ, in the form of God, now ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἀνθρώπου in the likeneſs of a Man.

g Ver. 9. Αὐτὸν ὑπερύψωσε, God hath exalted him.] The Fathers on this place adviſe us, εἰς τὸν ἄνθρωπον, καὶ μὴ εἰς τὸ θεῖον ταῦτα διανοεῖν, to refer theſe things, not to the Divine, but to the Humane Nature, the Apoſtle not ſpeaking here of the Exaltation of the Divine Nature of Chriſt by the Manifeſtation of his concealed Glory and Power, but of the Exaltation of that Nature which had ſuffered; for this Exaltation is in Scripture repreſented as the Reward of our Lord's Salutary Paſſion; for we ſee him, ſaith the Apoſtle, who was made a little lower than the Angels for the ſuffering of death, crowned with glory, and honour, Heb. 2.9. And again, the Elders about the Throne ſay, Worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain to receive power, and riches, and wiſdom, and ſtrength, and honour, and glory, Rev. 5.12. & 4.11. Moreover, St. John declares that this Dominion and Power was given to the Son of Man, becauſe he was ſo, John 5.17. though it was given to the Man Chriſt Jeſus, becauſe the fulneſs of the Godhead dwelled in him.

Ver. 11. Εἰς δόξαν, to the Glory.] He does h not ſay, as the Socinians contend, that Chriſt is exalted to the Glory of God the Father, though that be true of the Advancement of his Humane Nature; but he ſaith, that being thus exalted, he is to be acknowledged of all Tongues and Nations as their Lord, to the Glory of the Father; nothing more tending to his Glory, than that all Perſons owning Chriſt as their Lord, and yielding Obedience to him, ſhould abound in theſe Works of Righteouſneſs which are through Jeſus Chriſt to the Glory of God the Father, Chap. 1.11. Eph. 1.12. Moreover, ſeeing the Father thus exalted the Humanity of Chriſt, ſince he united the Λόγος to the Humane Nature, for it pleaſed the Father, that in him ſhould all fulneſs dwell, what hinders that this Exaltation ſhould be ſaid to be to the Glory of God the Father, from whom he received even the Divine Nature?

Ver. 12. Ἐν τῇ ἀπουσίᾳ μου, in my abſence.] i i. e. When I was preſent with you, I by my Counſels and Exhortations ſtirred you up to deſire, and do what was according to the Mind of God: He, in my abſence, is more immediately preſent with you by the inward Motions of his Holy Spirit, to excite you both to will, and do what is well pleaſing to him. Having therefore now all things adminiſtred more immediately by God, which are requiſite to make you willing, and able to perform your Duty, it doth more highly concern you to work out your Salvation. Thus (k) Ignatius ſaith, That he being now in Chains, and going to Rome to receive the Crown of Martyrdom, the Church of Syria had God, inſtead of him, to be her Paſtor, and that Chriſt alone was Biſhop over her: This Senſe I gather from theſe words, much more in my abſence, for what other Reaſon can be offer'd of theſe words than that which this Interpretation gives?

Hence it is evident that God worketh in us to will and to do, not by a Phyſical Operation, which makes it neceſſary for us to will, and to do what he would have us do; for why then doth the Apoſtle admoniſh his Philippians to work out their Salvation with fear and trembling? for what is more abſurd than to exhort another to do himſelf, what God doth for him without his concurrence; or to require him to will, what he cannot but will and do, for this reaſon, becauſe another renders it neceſſary for him ſo to will? and what ground of fear can there be, leſt God ſhould fail in his work? That the word ἐνεργεῖν doth not require this ſenſe, is evident, becauſe in Scripture it occurs very often, where it muſt be underſtood, not of a Phyſical, but only of a Moral Operation; as when Satan is ſaid ἐνεργεῖν to work in the Children of Diſobedience, Eph. 2. 2. and of the Myſtery of Iniquity, that ἐνεργεῖται it now works, 2 Theſſ. 2.7. (2*ly*,) When it is attributed to thoſe Cauſes which produce not their Effects by any Phyſical, but only by a Moral Operation, as when the word is ſaid to be ἐνεργὴς, powerful, Heb. 4. 12. The Word, ὁ ἐνεργεῖ, which effectually works in them that believe, 1 Theſſ. 2.13. that Faith worketh by Love, Gal. 5. 6. that Charity is ἐνεργὴς, effectual, Philem 6. and of Concupiſcence, that ἐνεργεῖτο, it worketh in our Members, Rom. 7. 5. (3*ly*,) When it is aſcribed to God ſending upon Men ἐνέργειαν πλάνης the Efficacy of Deceit; for ſurely God worketh no Evil Phyſically. In a word, did God thus work in us to will and do, the Work could no more be aſcribed to us, than the Motion which was impreſſed on the Body of Lazarus, when he came out of the Grave, or upon Paul when wrapt up to the third Heavens, could be aſcribed to them; and the Will, would not deſerve that Name, as being neither free, nor praiſe-worthy.

k Ver. 17. Εἰ σπένδομαι, If I be offered.] The Apoſtle here hath an elegant Alluſion to the Jewiſh Sacrifices: They were prepared for the Altar on which they were to be offered, by the Levites and the Prieſts, and this was their λειτουργία Service, and there was poured upon the Sacrifice Oil or Wine, which was the σπονδὴ, or libation; if then, ſaith the Apoſtle, whilſt I am thus λειτουργῶν, wholly employed in rendring you Gentiles an acceptable Sacrifice to the Lord, my blood ſhould be the libation to be poured out upon this Sacrifice; I ſhould rejoice even thus to die in your Service, and for the confirmation of your Faith; See Rom. 15.16.

l Ver. 25. Ὑμῶν δὲ Ἀπόστολον, your Apoſtle.] So they were uſually ſtiled who gathered Sacred Money, and carried it up to Jeruſalem. And ſo, ſay ſome, he calls Epaphroditus, becauſe he brought the Contributions of the Philippians to him at Rome. But the word Apoſtle is never uſed in the New Teſtament, but either of thoſe who were in the ſtrict ſenſe Apoſtles of the Lord, or elſe were eminent Miniſters and Preachers of the Goſpel: Thus Titus, and the Brother of St. Paul, (which is the uſual Appellation of St. Timothy, ſee Note on Heb. 13.23.) are ἀπόστολοι, the Apoſtles of the Churches, 2 Cor. 8. 22, 23. and Andronicus and Junia, who had long preached the Goſpel, are ſtiled ἐπίσημοι ἐν τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις, eminent among the Apoſtles of Chriſt. I therefore conclude with (l) Theodoret upon the place, and upon Chap. 1. 1. That the Epiſcopal care of this Church was committed to him: And that this is the import of the word Apoſtle here.

Ver. 27. Note. Here we find that Epaphroditus was not recovered by the Gift of Healing, then frequent in the Church, that Gift being not exerciſed, by them to whom it was imparted, at their own pleaſure; but as God was pleaſed by a ſpecial Inſtinct, and a ſtrong Faith to incite them to the Exerciſe of it: Theſe Gifts being therefore given for the ſake of Unbelievers, to convince them of the truth of the Chriſtian Faith, God thought not fit that it ſhould be ordinarily exerciſed upon Believers, leſt it ſhould be look'd upon, not as a Gift, but as the Effect of Art or Skill, or a thing done among them by Confederacy. m

Ver. 30. Παραβολευσάμενος, not regarding his life.] Or, as others read, παραβολευσάμενος, or παραβολησάμενος, hazarding his life; that is, ſay the Greek Commentators, εἰς κίνδυνον ἔρριψεν ἑαυτὸν, he brought himſelf in danger of death; not by venturing on the Emperor's Diſpleaſure, but by labouring ſo as to contract a dangerous Diſeaſe, (which he did, ſaith the Apoſtle, to ſupply your lack of ſervice towards me,) which is not ſo to be underſtood, as if he charged them with any want of Service, or Affection to him, (See Chap. 4. 10.) but thus, that Epaphroditus did this, being preſent with him, to ſupply that Service, which they, being abſent, were not in a capacity to perform. n

CHAPTER III.

Verſe 1. FInally [τὸ λοιπὸν, henceforth] my Brethren, rejoyce in the Lord: To write the ſame things [which I have delivered] to you [by word of mouth,] to me a is not grievous, but [for] to you a it is ſafe.

2. [I therefore exhort you again, to] beb ware b of dogs, beware of c evil workers, c beware of the d Conciſion.
d 3. For we are the [true and ſpiritual] Circumciſion, which worſhip God in the Spirit [of our Mind, Eph. 4. 23.] and rejoyce in e Chriſt Jeſus, and have e no confidence in the [Circumciſion of the] Fleſh, [as if that would commend us to God.]

4. Though [were this any proper ground of confidence,] I might alſo have confidence in the Fleſh, [as well as they who boaſt of this; for] if any other Man think that he hath whereof he might truſt in the Fleſh, I [have] more [reaſon ſo to do.]

f 5. [For I was] f circumciſed the eighth day, [the very day preſcribed by the Law, Gen. 17. 12.] of the Stock of Iſrael, [my Parents and Anceſtors being all of Iſrael,] of the Tribe of Benjamin, [that Tribe which cleaved to Judah, and revolted not with Jeroboam to the worſhip of the Calves, 1 Kings 12. 21.] an Hebrew of the Hebrews, [both by Nation and Language, 2 Cor. 11. 22. Acts 21. 40.] as touching [the obſervance of] the Law, a Phariſee, [one of the ſtricteſt Sects of our Religion, Acts 26. 5.]

6. Concerning zeal [for the Jewiſh Religion, I have ſhew'd that above others, in] perſecuting the Church [of Chriſt, Acts 22. 3, 4. & 26. 11.] touching the Righteouſneſs which is in [and by] the Law, [I have lived] blameleſs [as to that, Acts 23. 1.]

7. But what things [of this nature] were [then reputed] gain to me, thoſe I [have] accounted [as] loſs, for Chriſt['s ſake.]

8. Yea doubtleſs, and I count all things [of this World,] but loſs, for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord, for whom I have ſuffered the loſs of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Chriſt, [i. e. obtain an Intereſt in him, and the Bleſſings purchaſed by him.]

9. And be found in him, not having my own Righteouſneſs, which is of the Law, [which cannot juſtifie me, but leave me ſtill under the Curſe of it, Rom. 3. 20. Gal. 3. 10.] but that which is thro' the Faith of Chriſt, g [viz.] g the Righteouſneſs which is [approved] of God, [i. e. the Righteouſneſs which is] by Faith [in Chriſt.]

10. That I may know him [to be the Meſſiah and the Saviour of the World, which knowledge is neceſſary to life eternal, John 17. 3. 1 Cor. 2. 2.] and the h Power of his Reſur- h rection, and the i Fellowſhip of his Suf- i ferings, being made conformable to his Death.

11. If by [theſe, or] any [other] means, I might attain to the Reſurrection of the dead, [promiſed by him to all his faithful Servants and Sufferers.]

12. k [For I can] not [look upon my ſelf,] k
as tho' I had already attained, [or caught hold of the prize of my high calling, v. 14. the reſurrection of the dead, v. 11.] or were already perfect, [i. e. crowned with it,] but I follow after [or purſue it,] if that I may appprehend, [or reach] that [prize] for [the obtaining of] which alſo I am apprehended of Chriſt Jeſus. [For when I fled from him he caught hold on me, converted me to the Faith, that believing in him I might obtain life everlaſting, 1 Tim. 1. 15, 16. εἰ καὶ, if that, or that alſo; See Note on 1 Tim. 5. 10.]

13. Brethren, I count not my ſelf to have apprehended, [i. e. caught hold of the prize,] but this one thing I do, forgetting [not looking after] thoſe things which are behind, and reaching forth to thoſe things which are before.

14. I preſs toward the mark [the Goal,] for the [obtaining the] prize of the high calling of God in Chriſt Jeſus.

15. Let us therefore, as many as be l per- l fect [or throughly inſtructed in our Chriſtian Duty,] be thus minded [as I have told you I am, i. e. ſo as to believe the circumciſion of the Spirit, not that of the fleſh, and the righteouſneſs which is of God by faith, are the things eſpecially to be regarded for the obtaining of this prize.] And if in any thing ye be otherwiſe minded, [imagining the Judaical performances may alſo commend you to God,] God ſhall [in due time] reveal even this unto you. (i. e. He will convince you of the no neceſſity of theſe things in order to his favour.]

16. Nevertheleſs, [in the mean time] whereto we have already attained [i. e. as far as we have attained to the knowledge of it,] let us walk by the ſame Rule, [viz. that circumciſion availeth nothing, but a new creature, Gal. 6. 15, 16.] let us mind the ſame thing.

17. Brethren, be [ye] followers together of me, [in this matter, who have renounced all my Jewiſh Privileges,] and mark them [for your patterns,] who walk ſo as ye have us for an example, [of the ſpiritual circumciſion, and of minding the prize of our high calling.]

18. For many [Zealots for the Law, ſo] walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the Enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt.

m 19. m Whoſe end is deſtruction, whoſe God is their belly, and whoſe glory is in their ſhame, who mind earthly things.

n 21. [Imitate us, I ſay,] For n our Converſation, [or our City] is in Heaven, from whence alſo we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

21. Who ſhall change o our vile body, o [now ſubject to corruption, paſſions, and ſorrows,] that it may be faſhioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to ſubdue all things to himſelf.

Annotations on Chap. III.

a Verſe 1. Ἀσφαλὲς, It is ſafe.] viz. Becauſe things only delivered by word of mouth, may ſlip out of memory, Litera ſcripta manet. Here is St. Paul's Judgment againſt Oral Tradition.

b Ver. 2. Τὺς κύνας, Dogs.] It is the Obſervation of the (a) Fathers, that the Name of Dogs was anciently given to the Gentiles, as being without the Covenant, according to thoſe Words of Chriſt, It is not meet to take the Childrens Bread, and give it to Dogs: But with the Things, the Names are now changed, they being now without the Covenant, Rev. 22. 15. and the believing Gentiles admitted to it, and therefore they are called the Children, but the Jews Dogs. And 'tis well noted by Dr. (b) Lightfoot, that our Lord uſed this Language, Mat. 15. 26. Not to expreſs his own Sentiments of the Gentiles, but in compliance with the common Language of the Jews, who proverbially ſaid, the Gentiles are likened to Dogs, whereas we are God's peculiar People, even his Sons and Daughters. Where alſo is obſerved by the ſame worthy Perſon, That even the Talmudiſts ſay of the Generation in which the Meſſiah, or the Son of David ſhould come, that the Synagogues ſhould become Stews, and the Faces of that Generation ſhall be as Dogs.

c Ibid. Evil Workers.] For they labour only to pull down God's Building, and to deſtroy the Church of Chriſt. Elſewhere he ſtiles them deceitful Workers, 2 Cor. 11. 13. not ſpeaking of the Gnoſticks, as ſome imagine, but of the Jews; for ſo it follows, Are they Hebrews? Are they Iſraelites? So am I, v. 22.

d Ibid. Τὴν κατατομὴν, The Conciſion.] For Circumciſion being no longer a Rite of entring into Covenant with God, it is no better than a cutting off the Fleſh; and they who ſtill inſiſted on it as a thing neceſſary to Juſtification and Salvation, cut themſelves off from Chriſt, Gal. 5. 2, 3.

e 3. No confidence in the Fleſh.] That the Jews had a great confidence in the Merit of Circumciſion, ſee Note on Rom. 2. 13.

f Ver. 5. Περιτμηθὲις ὀκταήμερος, Circumciſed the eighth day.] The Jews themſelves ſay, that Circumciſion before that time was no Circumciſion, and after that time it was of leſſer value; See Buxtorf. Synag. Jud. cap. 4. p. 109. And (c) Origen informs us, That the Jews held that the Circumciſion performed on the eighth day was that which was chiefly intended, and that the performing it on any other day, was only allowed in caſe of ſickneſs. Hence they thought it neceſſary to circumciſe a Child on the Sabbath-day, tho' all manner of Work was forbidden on that day, rather than defer Circumciſion a day beyond the time, John 7. 22. and made it a Rule, That (d) the Reſt of the Sabbath gives place to Circumciſion. And this Opinion, as it agrees with the Text, Gen. 17. 12. ſo it ſeems to have obtained long before our Saviour's time, for the Septuagint, and the Samaritan Verſion, read thus, The uncircumciſed Male, who is not circumciſed, τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῇ ὀγδόῃ, the eighth day, ſhall be cut off, he hath broken my Covenant, Gen. 17. 14.

h Ver. 9. Τὴν ἐκ Θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην, The Righteouſneſs of God.] That the Righteouſneſs of God, in St. Paul's Stile, doth always ſignifie the Righteouſneſs by Faith in Chriſt Jeſus dying for us, ſee Note on Rom. 1. 17. And hence it is evident, that the Apoſtle cannot here ſpeak of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed to us: For, (1.) He does not oppoſe to his own Righteouſneſs, which is of the Law, the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, imputed to him, but his own Faith in Chriſt imputed unto him for Righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 5. (2*ly*, He ſpeaks of his Faith in Chriſt

i Ibid. Τὴν κοινωνίαν, &c. The Fellowſhip of his Sufferings.] By being conformed to his Death: (1.) Spiritually, by dying unto Sin, as knowing that if we be thus conformed to him in the likeneſs of his Death, we ſhall be like unto him in his Reſurrection, and ſhall live with him, Rom. 6. 5, 8. And (2*ly*,) By ſuffering and taking up the Croſs for his ſake, as knowing that if we thus ſuffer with him, we ſhall be alſo glorified with him, Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. 1 Pet. 4. 13.

k Ver. 12, 13, 14. Ὡς ἐπὶ δρόμου τὰ πάντα λέγει, He in theſe Verſes makes a continual alluſion to the Race run in the Olympian Games, where he that ran was ſtill ἐπεκτεινόμενος, upon the ſtretch and preſſing forwards, without looking back to thoſe whom he had left behind, and purſuing the Goal, that coming firſt to it, he might catch hold of the Prize, and ſo be crowned with it. And two things are here noted by the Fathers worthy of our obſervation:

(1.) That if this great Apoſtle who had ſuffered ſo many things, and was in Deaths oftен, and who had laboured ſo abundantly, ὅτου ἐλπίδα ἔχει ἡ ἀναστάσεως ἐκείνης, was not yet confident of a bleſſed Reſurrection, but only ſtriving, if ſo be he might attain unto it, ſuch as we muſt have leſs ground of confidence.

(2.) What continual diligence and labour this purſuit requires; for your know, ſaith Chryſoſtom, with what great ſtretch the Purſuer runs, he looks upon no Man, he throws out of the way every thing that might hinder him; he employs his Body, Eye, Strength, Soul, and Mind upon the Work, πρὸς ἕτερον μὲν οὐδὲν ὁρῶν, πρὸς ἓν δὲ τὸ βραβεῖον μόνον, looking to nothing elſe, but only to the Prize.

l Ver. 15. Τέλειοι, Perfect.] That to be perfect, is to be ſufficiently inſtructed in the true Grounds and Principles of Chriſtian Faith, hath been ſhewed, Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6. and on Matth. 19. 21. And by comparing this Paſſage with the Diſcourſe of the ſame Apoſtle in his fifth and ſixth Chapters to the Galatians, we may learn what it is, τῷ αὐτῷ στοιχεῖν κανόνι, to walk by the ſame Rule; for as there he ſharply inveighs againſt the Galatians, for hearkning to the Teachers of the neceſſity of Circumciſion, ſo here he warns his Philippians to beware of them and their Doctrine, from v. 2. to the 7th; as there he oppoſeth to Circumciſion the Croſs of Chriſt, in which alone he gloried, Gal. 6. 14. ſo here he oppoſeth to it the fellowſhip of his ſufferings, v. 8, 9. As there he ſays he is perſwaded of his Galatians, that οὐδὲν ἄλλο φρονήσουσιν, they will be no otherwiſe minded, Gal. 5. 10. ſo here he exhorts his Philippians, τὸ αὐτὸ φρονεῖν, to mind the ſame thing, v. 16. As there he teaches them by his own Example, not to yield to thoſe who urged on them Circumciſion, Gal. 2. 14, 20. ſo here he exhorts the Philippians, to walk in this caſe, as they had him for an Example, v. 17. which Example he had laid before them, v. 4, 9. And as there he promiſeth Mercy and Peace, τῷ κανόνι τούτῳ στοιχήσουσιν, to them that walked by the Rule or Canon he had laid there down, Gal. 6. 15, 16. ſo here he admoniſheth the Philippians, τῷ αὐτῷ στοιχεῖν κανόνι, to walk by the ſame Rule: This Rule muſt therefore be that which he there lays down, That in Chriſt Jeſus neither Circumciſion availeth any thing, nor Uncircumciſion, but a new Creature. Thoſe who are fully perſwaded of this, he ſtiles the perfect, requiring of them a Life exactly conformed to this Rule, from others only as far as they had attained to the knowledge of it, informing them that the time was at hand, when God, by deſtroying the Jewiſh Temple, and diſſolving the Jewiſh Church and Oeconomy, would farther reveal this Truth to them, and convince them of the Vanity of theſe Judaical Performances.

Ver. 19. Ὧν τὸ τέλος, Whoſe end is deſtruction.] That the Deſcription here given of theſe Men, agrees well with the Manners of the Gnoſticks, cannot be denied; but yet that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of them, but of the Jews, moſt ancient and modern Commentators do aſſert. And there ſeems reaſon to prefer this latter Expoſition, (1.) Becauſe he ſaith, he had told his Philippians often of theſe Men; now v. 1. he informs them, that he then writ to them of the ſame things which he had before ſpoken to them by word of mouth, viz. that they ſhould beware of thoſe Jews whom he there ſtiles Dogs, Evil Workers, the Conciſion. (2.) He oppoſes his own Example, who had renounced all his Jewiſh Privileges, and the Example of thoſe who worſhipped God in the Spirit, and rejoyced in Chriſt Jeſus, and had no confidence in the Fleſh, v. 3, 17. to the Example of theſe Men. And, (3.) The Deſcription he gives of them is agreeable to what he elſewhere ſaith of the ſame Jews. For,

1*ſt*, They

1*ſt*, They were Enemies to the Croſs of Chriſt; That being not only a Stumbling-block to the unbelieving Jews, 1 Cor. 1. 23. but being alſo overthrown by them who preached up the neceſſity of Circumciſion, and of Legal Obſervations to Salvation; for hence, ſaith the Apoſtle it follows, that Chriſt is dead in vain, Gal. 2. 21. and that then the Scandal of the Croſs is ceaſed, Gal. 5. 10. and that Chriſt would profit them nothing, who were upon this account circumciſed, Gal. 5. 2. and that they were faln from grace, v. 4. And from the Apoſtle's Diſcourſe in the beginning of this Chapter, it appears, ſaith Eſtbius, that he here ſpeaketh of theſe Men.

2*ly*, That their end was to be deſtruction, the Apoſtle teacheth in theſe words, Such are falſe Apoſtles, deceitful Workers, whoſe end ſhall be according to their Works, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 15. and this he ſpeaks of them who were Hebrews and Iſraelites, v. 22. as alſo here, v. 4.

3*ly*, That their God was their Belly; i. e. That they chiefly had regard to that, as we learn from the ſame Apoſtle ſaying, Theſe ſerve not the Lord, but their own Belly; which, ſaith Theodoret, he ſpeaks of the evil Defenders of the Law. See Note on Rom. 16. 18. and that they were γαστέρες ἀργαὶ, ſlow Bellies, or luxurious People, Tit. 1. 12. See Note there; and that they devoured thoſe they perverted, 2 Cor. 11. 20. Their Glory was in their Shame; that is, ſay the ancient Fathers, in the Circumciſion of the ſhameful Member: Say others, in thoſe evil Works, v. 2. which ought to be the matter of their Shame, they being ſuch as blaſphemed the Name of God among the Gentiles, Rom. 2. 24. they minded earthly things, counting gain godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 5. Tit. 1. 11.

n Ver. 20. Ἡμῶν γὰρ τὸ πολίτευμα ἐν οὐρανοῖς, Our Converſation is in Heaven.] So (e) Philo repreſents God's Prieſts and Prophets; for having ſaid of Men, οἱ μὲν γῆς, οἱ δ' οὐρανῦ, ſome are of the Earth, ſome of Heaven, he adds, that of the latter ſort are Prieſts and Prophets, who tranſcending all ſenſual things, would not be called κοσμοπολῖται, Citizens of the World; but tranſlating themſelves into the Intellectual World, dwell there, ἐγγραφέντες ἀφθάρτων ἀσωμάτων ἰδεῶν πολίτευμα, being enrolled in the Polity of incorporeal and incorruptible Beings. They, ſaith the Apoſtle, mind earthly things, and ſo are κοσμοπολῖται, Men who have this World for their City, Nos autem Civitatem Cœlum habemus; but we have Heaven for our City, (as Budæus renders the Words) as living in expectation of a City whoſe Builder and Maker is God, Heb. 11. 10.

Ver. 21. Τὸ Σῶμα τῆς ταπεινώσεως ἡμῶν, Our vile Body.] The Body of our Humiliation; o that is, ſaith Methodius, our Body which ταπεινῶται ἀπὸ σφάλματος, is humbled by the Fall, and become mortal. That Body, ſaith (f) Irenæus, which is humbled by falling into the Earth, and which ſhall be transform'd from a mortal and corruptible, into an immortal and incorruptible Body.

Note here, (1.) What a Value is put upon the Reſurrection, and Redemption of the Body from Corruption, as if it were the chief thing which Chriſtians waited for, and expected from our Saviour at his coming, Rom. 8. 23.

2*ly*, Note the Divine Power in Chriſt, to whom is here aſcribed that Reſurrection, which is frequently made an Indication of the Godhead, it being God who raiſeth from the dead, Rom. 4. 17. Acts 26. 8. and which is aſcribed to the exceeding greatneſs, and to the energy of his mighty Power, Eph. 1. 19. and yet is here aſcribed to the energy of Chriſt. And,

3*ly*, Note the pious Obſervation of the Fathers, That their Folly can never be ſufficiently lamented, who deprive themſelves of ſuch a glorious Reſurrection. So Oecumenius and Theophylact.

Note, (4.) That (g) Philo and the Platoniſts ſo call theſe Bodies, ὡς ταπεινοῦσιν ἐπάρσεις τὴν ψυχήν, becauſe theſe earthly Tabernacles do humble and depreſs the Soul.

CHAPTER IV.

Verſe 1. THerefore my Brethren, dearly beloved, and longed for, my joy, and crown, ſo ſtand faſt in the Lord, my dearly beloved, [as thoſe who do expect his coming to confer theſe bleſſings on you, 1 Cor. 15. 58. or ſo ſtand faſt in the liberty wherewith Chriſt hath made you free, as I have taught you, Gal. 5. 1.]

2. I beſeech Euodius, and beſeech Syntache, that they be of the ſame mind a in [the concerns of] the Lord.

b 3. And I entreat thee alſo, true b yokefellow, help thoſe Women who laboured with me in the [promotion of the] Goſpel, with Clemens alſo, and others my fellow-c labourers, c whoſe names are written in the Book of Life.

4. Rejoice in the Lord always, and again, I ſay, rejoice.

d 5. Let d your Moderation be known unto all men, [for] the e Lord is at hand.

6. Be careful [anxiouſly ſolicitous] for nothing, but in every thing by Prayer and Supplication [Gr. deprecation] with Thankſgiving, let your Requeſts be made known [i. e. preſented] unto God.

f 7. And f the peace of God which paſſeth all underſtanding, ſhall keep your hearts and minds [ſtedfaſt] in Chriſt Jeſus.

g 8. g Finally, Brethren, whatſoever things are true, whatſoever things are honeſt, whatſoever things are juſt, whatſoever things are pure, whatſoever things are lovely, whatſoever things are of good report; if there be any vertue, if there be any [thing] praiſe [worthy,] think on theſe things [to do them.]

9. Thoſe things which you have both learned, and received and heard [from me,] and ſeen in me, do; and the God of peace, [the giver of internal peace,] ſhall be with you.

h 10. But h I rejoiced [ἐχάρην δὲ, for this cauſe I rejoiced] in the Lord greatly, that now at the laſt your care of me [i. e. to ſupply my wants] hath flouriſhed again, i wherein you were alſo careful, but you lacked opportunity.

11. Not that I ſpeak [this] in reſpect of [any deſire in me that you, or others ſhould ſupply my] wants, for I have learnt in whatſoever ſtate I am, therewith to be content.

12. I know both how to be abaſed, and I know how to abound; every where, and in all things I am inſtructed both to be full, and to be hungry, both to abound, and to ſuffer need.

13. k I can do all [theſe, and other] k things [required by Chriſtianity,] through Chriſt that ſtrengthens me.

14. [But] notwithſtanding [this my proficiency,] ye have well done, that ye did [thus] communicate with [me in] my affliction;

15. Now, ye Philippians, know alſo [for your honour,] that in the beginning of [my preaching] the Goſpel, when I departed from Macedonia, no Church communicated with me, as concerning giving, and receiving, but you only, [i. e. I have received Supplies from no other Church but yours.]

16. [You indeed kindly did it;] For even [when I was] in Theſſalonica, ye ſent once, and again to [ſupply] my neceſſities.

17. [And of this I remind you,] not that I deſire a [further] Gift [for my own benefit,] but [becauſe] I deſire fruit that may abound to your account [in the day of the Lord, who will not then forget your labour of love, in miniſtring to his Saints; Heb. 6. 10.]

18. [I ſay, not that I deſire more,] For I have [received] all [that can be needful for me,] and abound, I am full, having received of Epaphroditus the things which were ſent from you, [which are] an odor of a ſweet ſmell, l a Sacrifice acceptable, well l pleaſing to God.

19. But [and] my God ſhall ſupply all your need, according to his riches in glory, [i. e. his glorious Riches,] by Chriſt Jeſus, [i. e. he ſhall return you a ſupply of your ſpiritual wants, for your Charity to me in Temporals.]

20. Now unto God, and [i. e. who is] our Father, be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

21. Salute every Saint in Chriſt Jeſus; the Brethren which are with me, greet you.

22. All the Saints ſalute you, chiefly they that are of Cæſar's houſhold.

23. The Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, be with you all. Amen.

Annotations on Chap. IV.

a Verſe 2. Τὸ αὐτὸ φρονεῖν, to mind the ſame thing,] Here, is not to be of the ſame Judgment in all things, for no Man can become of the ſame Judgment with another by intreaty, but only by conviction: The Exhortation therefore is, (1.) to have the ſame love to one another, Chap. 2. 2. with the ſame ſoul and ſpirit to promote the Goſpel of Chriſt, Chap. 1. 27. to walk by the ſame Rule, as far they have attained to the knowledge of it, Chap. 3. 16.

b Ver. 3. Σύζυγε, yoke-fellow.] That this Yoke-fellow cannot be St. Paul's Wife, is certain; Becauſe he declares himſelf an unmarried Man, 1 Cor. 7. 7. i. e. either a Virgin, or a Widower. (2*ly*,) Becauſe a Woman cannot be ſtiled γνήσιε, but γνησία σύζυγε. It is unlikely he ſhould mean Epaphroditus, he being not then at Philippi, but with him at Rome, v. 18. It may be therefore one of the Rulers of the Church whom he ſaluted in the front of this Epiſtle.

c Ibid. Ἐν βίβλῳ ζωῆς, whoſe names are written in the Book of Life.] This is a Judaical Phraſe, viz. they are written for life, Iſa. 4. 3. See the Targum there; And they ſhall not be written in the Book of Eternal Life, which is written for the Juſt of the Houſe of Iſrael, Targum in Ezek. 13. 9. and it doth not ſignifie the abſolute Election of any to Eternal Life, but only their preſent Right to that Inheritance by virtue of the Obedience of Faith, Rev. 20. 15. & 21. 7. For (1.) the Apoſtle declares of all the Jews to whom he writ, that they were come to the general Aſſembly of the Firſt-born, who were written in Heaven, Heb. 12. 23. and yet he in the following Verſe ſaith to them, See that ye refuſe not him that ſpeaketh. (2.) Chriſt threatneth to ſome, that he would blot out their Names out of the Book of Life, Rev. 22. 19. and promiſeth to him that overcometh, that he would not blot his Name out of the Book of Life, Rev. 3. 5. And God himſelf ſaith to Moſes, Whoſoever hath ſinned againſt me, him will I blot out of the Book which I have written, Exod. 32. 32, 33. that is, out of the Book of the Juſt, ſaith the Targum of Jonathan.

d Ver. 5. Τὸ ἐπιεικὲς, your Moderation.] Your Meekneſs and Patience under all your Trials. Be ye patient, ſaith St. James, for the coming of the Lord is at hand, Chap. 5. 8. See Heb. 10. 36, 37. This is almoſt the conſtant ſenſe of the Greek word in the Septuagint, where it anſwers to חנן and סלח and ſignifies to be gracious and propitious, 1 Sam. 12. 22. Ezra 9. 4. Pſal. 85. 4. Ἐποίησας εἰς ἡμᾶς κατὰ πᾶσαν ἐπιείκειαν σου, Thou haſt dealt with us according to all thy goodneſs and thy great mercy. So Cant. puer. v. 18. Let us torture the juſt man, that we may know τὴν ἐπιείκειαν αὐτοῦ, his meekneſs, Wiſd. 2. 19. Thou judgeſt ἐν ἐπιεικείᾳ, with mildneſs, Chap. 12. 18. He will yield to your deſires ἐπιεικῶς καὶ φιλανθρώπως, favourably and kindly, 2 Macc. 9. 27. So the Syriac and Arabick, who render it, manſuetudo veſtra. So Phavorinus, ἐπιείκεια, πραότης, καθὸ τὸ εἴκειν, τὸ συγχωρεῖν.

Ibid. Ὁ Κύριος ἐγγύς, the Lord is at hand.] e So the Apoſtles thought, ſaith Grotius upon the place; tacitly inſinuating that they were miſtaken in this matter: But this Expoſition reflecting very injuriouſly upon the Authority of the Apoſtles, and the Spirit by which they ſpake; and that of the Fathers ἡ κρίσις ἤδη ἐπίσης, the Day of Judgment is at hand, being found by Experience falſe, we of neceſſity muſt have recourſe to ſome other Expoſition of their words, when they ſo often tell the Chriſtians to whom they write, That the Lord is at hand; that he ſtands even at the door, James 5. 9. that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh, v. 8. that the end of all things is at hand, 1 Pet. 4. 7. that the Day of the Lord is near, Heb. 10. 25. that it is but a little while, and ὁ ἐρχόμενος, he that is coming will come, and will not tarry. I ſay, we muſt of neceſſity, for expoſition of theſe places, have recourſe to ſome other Advent of our Lord, for it is by no means to be granted, that the Apoſtles were miſtaken in their Apprehenſions of this Matter, and that they confidently aſſerted that the great Day of Judgment was then at hand, when after Sixteen hundred years it is yet far off, the Deſtruction of Antichriſt, the Calling of the Jews, and the Millennium, ſucceeding theſe great Epochas, being to precede that Day. For this bold Conjecture ſhakes the Foundations of the Chriſtian Faith, it imputes not only fallibility, but actual falſhood to the Writers of theſe Epiſtles, and makes them guilty of Falſhood in the Promiſes of the New Teſtament, and in the Motives which they uſed to encourage Believers to a Chriſtian Patience under the Preſſures they endured, and renders them Deceivers of their Hopes. Let it be therefore noted, piſtle to the Hebrews, that is, in the Epiſtles directed to the Jewiſh Churches, who were no Strangers to theſe Phraſes, and who were well acquainted with a tremendous advent of the Lord to puniſh the Rebellions and Infidelity of that Nation: So for Inſtance, Joel 2. 1. All the Inhabitants of the Land (of Judah) ſhall be confounded, ὅτι πάρεστιν ἡμέρα Κυρίου ὅτι ἐγγύς, becauſe the Day of the Lord is at hand, a Day of Darkneſs and Gloomineſs; a Day of Clouds and of thick Darkneſs. And v. 11. The Day of the Lord is great and very terrible, who can abide it? and v. 31. The Sun ſhall be turned into Darkneſs, and the Moon into Blood, before the great and terrible Day of the Lord come, Zach. 14. 1, 2. Behold the Day of the Lord cometh, and I will gather all Nations againſt Jeruſalem to Battle. Mal. 3. 2. Who may abide in the Day of his coming, and who ſhall ſtand when he appeareth? And Chap. 4. 1. Behold, the Day cometh that ſhall burn as an oven.

2*ly*, There is alſo frequent mention of this Time and Day in the New Teſtament, when the Lord would come to deſtroy the unbelieving Jews, and alſo of the nearneſs of that Time; for the Baptiſt calls them to Repentance from this very Motive, that the Ax was then laid to the Root of the Tree, Matth. 3. 10. That one was coming whoſe fan was in his hand, v. 12. Our Saviour ſpends a whole Chapter in ſpeaking περὶ ἡμέρας ταύτης of that Day, Matth. 24. 36. and of the Coming of the Son of Man to the deſtruction of that Nation, v. 27, 37. of the coming of the Lord, v. 42. of the Age in which he would thus come, v. 34. of the Signs when his coming was ἐγγὺς near at hand, καὶ ἐπὶ θύραις, at the door, (which are the very words, both of St. Paul, and St. James) when there would be a τέλος, an end of all things belonging to the Jewiſh Temple and Conſtitution, v. 14. Now to this Coming of the Lord, foretold by his own ſelf in the very Expreſſions of the Prophets, and in the words uſed here by the Apoſtles in their Writings to the Jewiſh Converts, we may very well refer the words forecited, and if there be any other of like nature.

And the fitneſs of theſe Exhortations to Meekneſs and Patience, on the account of the nearneſs of this Day, and the Advent of the Lord to puniſh the unbelieving Jews, will be apparent from this Conſideration, that they were the chief Perſecutors of thoſe of their own Nation, who embraced the Chriſtian Faith, Rom. 15. 31. 1 Theſſ. 2. 14. And they alſo ſent out their Meſſengers to other Nations to repreſent the Chriſtians to them as the worſt of Men, and to excite them to join with them in the Perſecution of them, as Juſtin Martyr doth inform us, and therefore it muſt be very acceptable to the poor perſecuted Chriſtian Jews, to hear that theſe Enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt, theſe Inſtigators of the Heathen to perſecute them, ſhould by the coming of the Lord to deſtroy their Church and Nation, be diſabled from doing them any farther miſchief; and alſo that thoſe deceitful Workers of the ſame Nation, who troubled the Churches with preaching the Neceſſity of Circumciſion, and the Obſervation of the Law of Moſes, ſhould not be able long to inſtil thoſe Doctrines, their Church and Temple being to be ſhortly ruined, and they themſelves being no longer able to obſerve the Law.

Ver. 7. Εἰρήνη Θεοῦ, the peace of God.] As ἀγάπη Θεοῦ, and χάρις Θεοῦ, do generally ſignifie the Love and Favour of God to us, ſo εἰρήνη Θεοῦ, the Peace of God, moſt naturally imports the Peace and Reconciliation which we have with God through Faith in Chriſt, for being juſtified by Faith, we have peace with God. Hence is the Goſpel, which proclaims this Pardon and Juſtification to Believers, ſtiled the Goſpel of Peace, Eph. 6. 15. the preaching Peace by Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 10. 36. Eph. 2. 17. who is our peace, v. 14. and in the Preface to all the Epiſtles, the Apoſtle wiſheth to the Chriſtians χάριν καὶ εἰρήνην Grace and Peace through God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; And this Peace is ſtiled εἰρήνη ψυχῆς, the Peace of the Soul, Hag. 2. 9. So that the ſenſe of theſe words ſeemeth to be this, the Senſe and Experience of the Divine Favour, and the inward Peace and Security which ariſeth from it, ſhall be ſufficient to keep you ſtedfaſt in the Faith of Chriſt. He promiſeth not deliverance from Calamities, but inward Peace and Tranquility of Mind under them, and that, as the effect of conſtant Prayer, and a ſenſe of the Divine Favour to them. f

Ver. 8. Hence two things may be noted; 1. That there are things naturally honeſt, juſt, lovely, and praiſe-worthy. 2. That there is no vertue, nothing praiſe-worthy, but what falls under the compaſs of this general Precept. g

Ver. 10. I rejoiced in the Lord.] i. e. in your Liberality, not as a thing tending only to ſupply my wants, but as a thing highly acceptable to the Lord, v. 8. and as a fruit of your affection to him, which he will reward, v. 17. h ſtom, Theophylact, though Oecumenius and Phavorinus render it, with our Tranſlation, καιρὸν οὐκ εἴχετε, you lacked opportunity.

k Ver. 13. Hence the Fathers obſerve three things; (1.) That the Art of Contentment requires much Learning, Exerciſe, and Meditation. (2.) That it is as difficult to learn how to be full, as to be hungry; Abundance having deſtroyed more than Penury; and expoſed them to more pernicious Luſts. (3.) That our Proficience in this, or any other Vertue, is to be aſcribed, not to our ſelves, but to the Divine Aſſiſtance.

Ver. 18. Θυμίαν εὐωδίας, a Sacrifice acceptable.] There were two Altars, ſaith Dr. Hammond, in the Temple of the Jews, the Altar of Incenſe within the Temple, and that of Sacrifice without in the Court; on theſe two were offered all things that were offered to God, and under theſe two Heads, an Odor of Incenſe, and a Sacrifice, are Works of Charity here repreſented, as being the prime things now under the Goſpel to obtain God's Favour and Acceptation. 1

THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle to the COLOSSIANS.

THAT St. Paul writ this Epistle to the Colossians, when he had not yet seen them, is the Opinion of most of the Ancient Scholiasts; This is confessed even by Theodoret, though he saith this doth not follow from the words cited to confirm this Opinion, but the contrary. The words are these: I would have you know what great solicitude I have for you, and for them of Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen my face in the flesh, Col. 2. 1. which he renders thus, Not for you only, and for them of Laodicea, but also for them that have not seen my face in the flesh: But the connective Particle being not ἀλλὰ, or ἀλλα γε, but also, but only γε, and, seems to favour our Translation, and the Opinion of the (a) Ancients. He adds, that the Apostle went from Phrygia, of which Coloss was the Metropolis, whence he collects he must have preached there. But this will not follow; since the first time he only went through Phrygia en passant, Acts 16. 6. and the second time, Chap. 18. 23. he only staid to confirm the Brethren already converted, but that he came to Coloss is not said. The Arguments offered to prove he had not then seen them, seem stronger, as appears not only from the words now cited, but from other Expressions in the same Epistle; for he intimates, Chap. 1. 4. that he had only heard of their Faith in Christ; and v. 7. that they had learned the Faith, not from him, but Epaphras, whom he stiles to them a faithful Minister of Jesus Christ.

Note also, That this Epistle was writ at the same time with that to the Philippians, and so A. D. 62.

As for the occasion of it (b) Theodoret informs us, that it was writ against those Jewish Christians who endeavoured to impose the Observation of the Law upon the Gentile Converts, as is apparent from his Caution to them, to beware of them who spoiled them after the Rudiments of the World, chap. 2. v. 8. and that because they were circumcised in Christ, v. 11. and he had blotted out the hand-writing of ordinances which was against them, v. 14. and from the Inference thence made, Let no Man judge you therefore in Meat, or in Drink, or in respect of an Holy-day, or of the New Moons, or of the Sabbath-days, which are a shadow, v. 16, 17. The rest say that it was written against them who sow'd among them (c) Jewish and Heathenish Doctrines; and in particular against them who endeavoured to bring in (d) the Worship of Angels; of the Gnosticks here mentioned by Esthius they have not one word to say.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Epistle to the COLOSSIANS.

CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. PAUL an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, and Timotheus our Brother.

a 2. [a] To the Saints and faithful Brethren in Christ, which are at Colosse [writeth thus,] Grace be unto you, and Peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

b 3. We give thanks to God, [b] and [who is] the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you.

c 4. Since [c] we heard of your Faith in Christ Jesus, and of the Love which ye have to all the Saints, [which Love is still the fruit of a true Faith, 1 Cor. 13. 2. Gal. 5. 6.]

5. [We give thanks, I say] for the hope [of an eternal Inheritance, 1 Pet. 1. 3.) which is laid up for you in Heaven, whereof ye heard before [from Epaphras,] in the Word, of the truth of the Gospel, [preached by him.]

6. Which [Gospel] is come to you, as it d is [also heard of] [d] in all the World, and bringeth forth fruit [in them,] as it doth also in you, since the day ye [first] heard of it, and knew [ἐπιγνῶτε, acknowledged] the Grace [and Favour] of God [to you] in truth [and sincerity.]

7. As ye [have] also learned of Epaphras our dear Fellow-Servant, who is for you a faithful Minister of Christ.

8. Who also declared to us your love [to me] in the Spirit, [your spiritual and affectionate Love to me, wrought in you by that Spirit, whose fruit is Love.]

9. For this cause we also, since the day we heard of it, [i. e. this your affection to us,] do not cease to pray for you, and to desire [of God,] that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will, [advancing], [e] in e all [the gifts of] wisdom, and spiritual understanding.

10. That [having thus attain'd to the knowledge of the things of God.] ye might walk worthy of the Lord, to all pleasing [i. e. so as to please him in all things.] being fruitful in every good work, and increasing [still more] in the knowledge of God.

11. [That knowing the hope of your calling, and the riches of the glory of the inheritance of the Saints, Eph. 1. 19. Rom. 15. 13. ye may be] strengthned with all might, according to his glorious Power, unto all patience, and long suffering with joyfulness, [Eph. 3. 16. i. e. That through the Spirit of glory and power, 1 Pet. 4. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 7. given to you, you may be enabled constantly to suffer all afflictions you endure for the sake of Christ, and of the glory he hath promised, with patience and joy.]

12. Giving thanks to the Father, [f] who f hath [thus prepared and] made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the Saints in light, [for which we suffer, 2 Thess. 1. 5.]

13. Who hath delivered us from the [g] power g of darkness, and hath translated us into the Kingdom of his dear Son, [or the Son of his Love.]

14. In whom we have redemption thro' his Blood, even the forgiveness of [our] sins. [See Note on Eph. 1. 7.]

15. [h] Who h

h 15 h Who is the image, [and repreſentation to us] of the inviſible God, i the firſt-i born [or Lord] of every Creature.

k 16. For k by him [who is the firſt-born of every Creature,] were all things created that are in Heaven, and that are in Earth, viſible [the Sun, Moon, and Stars,] and inviſible [the whole Hoſt of Angels,] whether they be [named] Thrones or Dominions, Principalities, or Powers, all things were created by him [as the cauſe,] and for him [as the end of their Creation.]

17. And he is before all things, [as to his being,] and by him all things conſiſt.

18. And he is the Head of the Body the Church, [Gr. of the Church, as to Government and cauſal Influence,] who is the beginning [of the Chriſtian Church,] the Firſt-born from the Dead, that in all things he might have the Pre-eminence.

l 19. l For it pleaſed the Father, that in him ſhould all fulneſs [of Divine Power] dwell, [all fulneſs of power to create, redeem, preſerve, and raiſe the Church, which is his Body.]

20. And having made peace through the m Blood of his Croſs by him to m reconcile n all things n to himſelf, [Gr. and by him to make all things friendly in him, making peace betwixt them by the Blood of his Croſs.] By him, I ſay, [did he thus reconcile all things,] whether they be things in Earth, or things in Heaven.

21. And you [Gentiles,] that were ſometimes alienated [from the life of God, Eph. 4. 18.) and Enemies in your Mind [to him] by wicked Works, yet now hath he reconciled [to the Father.]

22. In the Body of his Fleſh thro' death, to preſent you [to the Father] holy and unblameable, and unreprovable in his ſight, [Eph. 1. 4. & 5. 7.]

o 23 o [As you will be,] if you continue in the Faith grounded and ſetled [in it.] and be not moved away [by the floods of affliction, or by the blaſts of perſecution which may come upon you, Mat. 7. 24, 25.] from the hope of the Goſpel, [i. e. the hope laid up for you in heaven, v. 5.] which you have heard [of from Epaphras, viz. the hope] which was preached to every Creature under Heaven, [i.e. Gentile as well as Jew,] whereof I Paul am made a Miniſter.

24. Who now rejoyce in my ſufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the p afflictions of Chriſt in my fleſh, for p his body's ſake, which is the Church.

25. Whereof I am made a Miniſter according to the Diſpenſation of God, which is given to me for you [Gentiles,] to fulfil [πληρῶσαι, fully to preach] the Word of God.

26. Even the myſtery [of the calling of the Gentiles to the ſame hopes and privileges with the believing Jews, Eph. 3. 3, 4, 5, 6] which hath been hid from [paſt] Ages, and from [former] Generations, [v. 5.] but now is made manifeſt [by the Apoſtles, and Prophets] to his Saints.

27. To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this myſtery among the Gentiles, [Eph. 3. 8 9.] which is Chriſt [preached to, and received] in [i. e. among] you [as] the hope of glory.

28. Whom we preach, warning every Man, and teaching every Man in all [ſpiritual] Wiſdom, that [ſo] we may preſent every Man perfect, [i. e. fully inſtructed; See Note on Epheſ. 4. 13.] in Chriſt Jeſus.

29. Whereunto [εἰς ὅ, for which thing] I alſo labour [earneſtly,] ſtriving according to his working, who worketh in me mightily, [i. e. according to the mighty power of God aſſiſting me, to confirm the Doctrine of Chriſt by Signs and miracles, and mighty deeds, Rom. 15. 19.)

Annotations on Chap. I.

Verſe 2. a TO the Saints.] See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 1. Note alſo, that the Holy Ghoſt is not mention'd in theſe places, becauſe he is the Fountain of this Grace, and by him God the Father, and the Son dwell in us, John 14. 23. So that praying for this Grace, is praying for the Communion of the Holy Ghoſt.

Ver. 3. Καὶ.] As the Hebrew ו, hath oft

c Ver. 4. Ἀκούσαντες, Hearing.] From this Verſe, and from Chap. 2. 1. it is evident that St. Paul did not in Perſon preach to the Coloſſians, and indeed that he never had ſeen them, they being converted by Epaphras, Chap. 1. 7, 23. and perhaps alſo by the means of Timothy, who therefore is mentioned in the beginning of this Epiſtle, as ſaluting them together with Paul.

d Ver. 6. Ἐν πάντι τῷ κόσμῳ, In all the World.] And which is preached to every Creature under Heaven, v. 23. This by an uſual Hyperbole is to be underſtood of the moſt noted parts of the World, from which the reſt might hear of it. In which ſenſe Cyrus ſaith, that God had given him all the Kingdoms of the Earth, Ezra 1. 2. And God, ſaith Jeremiah, will call for a Sword upon all the Inhabitants of the Earth, Jer. 25. 29. i. e. of the whole Kingdom of Babylon, and the ſlain of the Lord ſhall be from one end of the Earth to the other, over all the Kingdoms of the World, v. 26. And the Romans, Aſiaticks, and Egyptians, &c. are ſtiled devout Men of every Nation under Heaven, Acts 2. 5.

e Ver. 9. Ἐν πάσῃ σοφίᾳ, In all Wiſdom.] Among the Spiritual Gifts vouchſafed for the edification of the Church, are reckoned the Word of Wiſdom, and of Knowledge, 1 Cor. 12. 8. whereby they were enabled through the Spirit, to know the things which were given them of God, 1 Cor. 2. 12. and to compare ſpiritual things with ſpiritual, v. 13. For the abundance of theſe Gifts vouchſafed to the Churches he ſometimes give thanks, as 1 Cor. 1. 4, 5, 7. Eph. 1. 3. And for the increaſe of them he ſometimes prays, as here, and Eph. 1. 17.

f Ver. 12. Ἱκανώσαντι ἡμᾶς εἰς τὴν μερίδα τοῦ κλήρου τῶν ἁγίων ἐν φωτί, Who has made us meet to be Partakers of the Inheritance of the Saints in light.] The other Reading, viz. καλέσαντι, who hath called you, for ἱκανώσαντι, who hath made you meet, is contrary to all the old Verſions, the Syriack, Arabick, and Vulgar, and all the Greek Scholiaſts, and therefore not to be admitted as a various Lection, but only as the miſtake of ſome Copyiſt. Note alſo, that here is an alluſion to the Inheritance of the Jews in Canaan, ſtiled ſo of the Land of their Inheritance; for it was divided into ſo many μερίδες, or places meaſured out by Line, to be poſſeſſed by the ſeveral Tribes, excepting that of Levi, and then by Lot aſſign'd to every reſpective Tribe, Joſh. 13. according to God's Commandment, Numb. 26. 55. & 33. 54. and that Diviſion which thus came to any of them by Lot, was his μερὶς κλήρου, The Portion which by Lot befel him; but ſaith the Apoſtle, we are made meet not for an earthly Inheritance, as that was in Canaan, but for that heavenly Portion God hath allotted us in Heaven, the Region of Light and Happineſs, we being already tranſlated into the Kingdom of his Son Chriſt, become his Subjects, and ſo under his Care and Conduct, and Protection, ruled by his Word, which is the Word of Life, and by his Spirit, the Earneſt of this Inheritance, and ſhall hereafter be advanced by him into his heavenly Kingdom.

Ver. 13. Ἐκ τῆς ἐξουσίας τοῦ σκότους, The Power of Darkneſs.] That Darkneſs ſignifies the State of Heathen Ignorance, ſee Note on Rom. 12. 2. The Power of it is that Power which Satan the Prince of Darkneſs had over the Heathen World to keep them in Idolatry, and brutiſh Luſts, Eph. 2. 2. Hence the Apoſtle ſaith he was ſent unto the Gentiles, to turn them from Darkneſs to Light, and from the Power of Satan unto God, Acts 26. 17. See Luke 22. 53. g

Ver. 15. Εἰκὼν τοῦ Θεοῦ, The Image of the inviſible God.] The Socinians contend that Chriſt is here ſtiled the Image of the inviſible God, becauſe he by his Goſpel hath made known the Will of God unto us; in this ſenſe, ſay they, he is ſtiled the Image of God, 2 Cor. 4. 3. and in this ſenſe he ſaith to Philip, He that hath ſeen me, hath ſeen the Father. Schlichtingius notes, that he is called the Image of God, now that he is in Heaven, and ſo not according to any thing appertaining to him, which is inviſible, but according to ſomething by which he may be ſeen and known, i. e. ſaith he, as he hath made himſelf known to us in the Goſpel. h

But the more natural import of the Phraſe ſeems to be this, That Chriſt is the Image of God, as making him who is inviſible in his Eſſence, conſpicuous to us by the Divine Works he wrought, they being ſuch as plainly ſhewed, that in him dwelt the fulneſs of the Godhead bodily; for an inviſible God can only be ſeen by his Effects of Power, Wiſdom, and Goodneſs, by which, ſaith the Apoſtle, from the Creation of the World, the inviſible things of God, to wit, his Power and Godhead, have been made known by the things that are made, Rom. 1. 20. He therefore who in the Works both of the Old and New Creation, hath given us ſuch clear Declarations of the Divine Power, Wiſdom, and Goodneſs, is upon this account as much an Image of God as any thing can be; to this ſenſe the Image of God here ſeems neceſſarily reſtrained by the connective Particle ὅτι, he is the Image of God, for by him all things were created. Moreover, that this place is paralliel to that in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, the words ſufficiently declare; here he is the Image of God, there the Brightneſs of his Glory, and the expreſs Image of his Perſon; here he is the Firſt-born, or

Lord of every Creature, there, the Heir of all things; here it is ſaid, that all things were created by him, there, that he made the World; here, that by him all things do conſiſt, and there, that he ſupporteth all things by the Word of his Power; now that there he is ſtiled, the Image of God's Glory, and the Character of his Perſon, by reaſon of that Divine Power, Wiſdom, and Majeſty, which ſhined forth in his Actions, Schlictingius is forced to confeſs It is not therefore to be doubted, that he is here ſtiled the Image of God in the ſame ſenſe; and it is highly probable, that he is called the Image of the inviſible God, as appearing to the Patriarchs, and repreſenting to them that God, who lives in Light inacceſſible, to which no mortal Eye can approach, according to theſe frequent Deſcants of the (a) Ante Nicene Fathers, That God the Father being inviſible, one whom no Man hath ſeen, or can ſee, he appeared to the Patriarchs by his Son. And that in this ſenſe Chriſt ſaith to Philip, He that hath ſeen me, hath ſeen the Father, he himſelf intimates by adding, That the Father abiding in him, did the Works he performed, John 14. 9, 10, 11. and that they ought to believe he was in the Father, and the Father in him for the Work's ſake. And in the Epiſtle to the Corinthians he is plainly ſtiled, the Image of God, for the like Reaſon, viz. becauſe that God, who at firſt created Light out of Darkneſs, had ſhined upon the Gentiles, to make known to them the Glory of God, in the Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt. Now this Glory of God is Chap. 3. thoſe miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, by which the Goſpel was confirm'd, and Chap. 4. 7. ἡ ὑπερβολὴ τῆς δυνάμεως τοῦ Θεοῦ, The Excellency of the Power of God.

Ibid. Πρωτότοκος πάσης κτίσεως, The Firſt-born of every Creature.] Since, ſay the Socinians, the Firſt-born is of the order and number of thoſe things of which he is the Firſt-born, Chriſt therefore being here ſtiled the Firſt-born of every Creature, muſt be in the order, and of the number of Creatures. But this Inference is neither conſiſtent with their own Principles, nor with the Words of the Apoſtle. Not with their own Principles, for in what Rank of Creatures will they place Chriſt? If among the Old, then they muſt allow him an Exiſtence before the beginning of the World, which yet they peremptorily deny; if among the New, they muſt confeſs he had a Nature which wanted to be renewed, chang'd, and reformed; that in him, as well as in us, tho' in him before us, all old things paſſed away, and all things became new; ſince otherwiſe he cannot be of the order and number of them, who underwent this change.

2*ly*, This Opinion cannot conſiſt with the Words of the Apoſtle, who ſtiles Chriſt the Firſt-born of every Creature, becauſe by him all things were created, ὅτι ἐν αὐτῷ ἐκτίσθη τὰ πάντα: Now he who is therefore the Firſt-born of the whole Creation, becauſe he created all things, cannot himſelf be any part of the Creation, either in Heaven or Earth, or be numbred amongſt his Creatures: Chriſt therefore, ſaith our excellent Primate, is here ſtiled ὁ πρωτότοκος, the Firſt-born, as being the Lord of all things. For firſt, 'tis reaſonable to conceive, that ὁ πρωτότοκος πάσης κτίσεως, The Firſt-born of every Creature, ſhould be the ſame in ſenſe with that of the ſame Apoſtle in the parallel place, where he is ſtiled, ὁ κληρονόμος πάντων, Heir of all things. Now thus it will ſignifie in this ſenſe, according to that of Juſtinian, To act as an Heir is to act as Lord; for the Ancients uſed the word Heir for a Lord. Pro Hærede ſe gerere, eſt pro Domino gerere; veteres enim Hæredes pro Dominis appellabant. Inſtit. L. 2. Tit. 19. § 6.

In this ſenſe alſo is the word primogenitus uſed in the Scriptures, for becauſe the Dominion and Principality, anciently followed the Primogeniture, according to thoſe words, He gave the Dominion to Joram, ὅτι αὐτὸς ὁ πρωτότοκος, Becauſe he was the Firſt-born, 2 Chron. 21. 5. it came in common uſe to ſignifie that Dominion. So of David, ſaith God, I will give him to be בכור, πρωτότοκον, the Firſt-born, high above the Kings of the Earth, I will give him, τῶν βασιλέων ἁπάντων τὴν ἐξουσίαν, Power over all Kings, ſaith (b) Aquilas, I will ſet him, ἀνώτατον τῶν βασιλέων τῆς γῆς, the Supreme over the Kings of the Earth; ſo Symmachus. No, ſaith Mr. Cl. this doth not ſignifie a Lord over other Kings, but a moſt excellent and glorious King. But for this we ſhall not acquieſce in his bare word againſt the Opinion of all the ancient Commentators on the place, ſeeing the foregoing words, v. 26. I will ſet his Hand in the Sea, and his Right Hand in the River, are equivalent to theſe, I will give him power over the Kings of the Philiſtines, on the one hand; See 2 Sam. 8. 12. and over the Syrians on the other, v. 6, He ſhall have, ſaith the Chaldee שול מנוהי his Empire over the Kings of the Earth, I will elevate him over them, ſaith the Syriack; and ſo accordingly we find he did; exalting him over the Syrians, who were Tributaries to him, 2 Sam. 8. 6. and over all the Kings, which were Servants to Hadareſer, 2 Sam. 10. 19. And this was neceſſary to be done, to render him a fit Type of that Son of David, who was to be King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. And thus he is alſo πρωτότοκος ἐκ τῶν νεκρῶν, the Firſt-born from the Dead, v. 18. as being Lord over the Dead, ſince for this cauſe he died, and roſe again, ἵνα κυριεύσῃ, that he might be Lord over the Dead, and over the Living, Rom. 14. 9. and ſo might be ἐν πᾶσιν πρωτεύων, primas tenens, imperium habens in omnibus, præ-eminent in all things. Since then the Firſt-born is naturally the Heir, and ſo the Lord of the Family, and therefore the word Heir, amongſt the Ancients did ſignifie Lord; ſeeing St. Paul, who here ſtiles him the Firſt-born, doth in a place parallel to this, ſtile him the Heir of all things, why may we not conceive the Perſon of whom David was a Type, may be alſo here ſtiled the Firſt born, as being Prince over, and high above all Creatures, they being all the Work of his hands? For ſo the Reaſon follows.

k Ver. 16. Ἐν αὐτῷ ἐκτίσθη τὰ πάντα τὰ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, καὶ τὰ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, All things were created by him, that are in Heaven, and that are in the Earth.] The Gloſs of (e) Grotius, and the Socinians, (d) runs thus: That to Chriſt is here aſcribed, not the Creation of the old World, and all things that are in it, but only the Creation; that is, the Renovation of all things under the Goſpel State, or the Reformation of Mankind by Jeſus Chriſt, and the Goſpel preached to them, and the Reconciliation of Angels to Men. But this Interpretation is ſo forced, and remote from the moſt uſual ſenſe of the words, and 'tis ſo flat and mean to ſay, that Jeſus Chriſt was before every new Creature, that is to ſay, before the Renovation made by himſelf, or rather by his Apoſtles, after his Exaltation, and to prove this by that very Renovation, that even Mr. Cl. is forced to reject it as evidently falſe, which it will certainly appear to be from theſe Conſiderations.

1*ſt*, That the Apoſtle ſpeaks here of the Creation of ſuch things as are not capable of this Moral Creation, viz. the Creation, πάντων τῶν ὁρατῶν ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, Of all things viſible upon Earth. Now the τὰ ὁρατὰ, Rom. 1. 20. and τὰ βλεπόμενα, Heb. 11. 31. i.e. The things which are made and ſeen, compriſe the whole viſible Creation, all things without Life, Metals, Stones, Elements, all Vegetables, and all Beaſts, and did the Goſpel come to make a Moral Renovation among theſe? Did Chriſt, and his Apoſtles preach to Stones and Trees? 2*ly*, Under all things in Heaven, and all things inviſible, muſt be compriſed all the good Angels, which are therefore elſewhere ſtiled κυριότητες, ἀρχαὶ, καὶ ἐξουσίαι, Eph. 1. 21. & 3. 10. 1 Pet. 3. 22. Now they cannot be proper Subjects of this New Creation, or Moral Renovation; for of this New Creation the Scripture never ſpeaks, but in relation to an Old, which was to be aboliſhed, changed, and done away by it; for in them who are made καινὴ κτίσις, a New Creation, all old things are paſt away, and all things are become new in them, 2 Cor. 5. 17. They put off the old man, and put on the new, which is created after God in righteouſneſs and holineſs, Eph. 4. 22, 24. Col. 3. 9, 10. Now it is manifeſt, that nothing of all this can agree to the good Angels, and much leſs to the evil Angels, who are ſtill Creatures, and therefore not to be excluded from Expreſſions ſo general as theſe are.

2*ly*, The words in this ſenſe were far from being true when the Apoſtle ſpake them, for a very ſmall Remnant of the Jews were then converted to the Chriſtian Faith, and of the Gentiles few, in compariſon of thoſe multitudes which afterwards embraced the Faith, and yet the Apoſtle plainly ſpeaks of a Creation wholly paſt already, uſing the Aoriſt in theſe words, ἐν αὐτῷ ἐκτίσθη τὰ πάντα, by him have all things been created; and the Perfect Tenſe in theſe words, δι' αὐτοῦ πάντα ἔκτισται, by him all things were created.

3*ly*, Tho' the Socinians may be able to produce ſome few Inſtances where the word κτίσις and κτίζειν, are to be taken in a moral ſenſe, yet cannot they ſhew one inſtance, where the Creation of all things in Heaven, and in Earth, viſible, and inviſible, is ever uſed in a moral ſenſe, or concerning any other Creation than that of which Moſes ſpeaks, ſaying, Thus the Heaven and the Earth were made, and all the Hoſt of them, Gen. 2. 1.

4*ly*, The Apoſtle afterwards begins his Diſcourſe of this Moral Creation or Reconciliation of the World to God by Chriſt, and the Renovation of his Church in theſe words, v. 18, 19, 20. And he is the Head of the Body the Church, &c. For it pleaſed the Father —by him to reconcile all things to himſelf, whether they be things in Earth, or things in Heaven, v. 21. And you that were ſometimes alienated, and Enemies in your Minds by wicked Works, yet now hath he reconciled you in the Body of his Fleſh by Death, to preſent you holy and unblamable, and unreprovable in his ſight. Now theſe things being thus connected, by the Particle γὰρ, to what he had before ſaid of the Creation of all things by Christ, demonstratively shew that he was not then speaking of that Renovation, which he begins to speak of in these following words.

5*ly*, This Exposition of this place touching a true and proper Creation of all Things by Jesus Christ, is by the (e) Fathers, from the beginning, laid down as a Rule, to which the Orthodox keeping close, might easily shew that the Heretieks who held the World was created by Angels, deviated from the Truth. Now this was the Heresie of (f) Simon Magus, and Cerinthus; as Irenæus there informs us.

Ver. 19. For Explication of these words it is to be noted, That the great End of our Saviour's Sufferings was to rescue our Bodies, condemned for Sin unto Death, from that Mortality, and to bestow on all, whom God should give him, Eternal Life, by raising of their Bodies to a State of Incorruption; for because the Children were partakers of Flesh and Blood, and thereby subject to Mortality, he also took part of the same, that through Death, he might destroy him, that had the Power of Death, that is, the Devil, and might deliver them, who through the fear of Death, were all their lives time subject to Bondage, Heb. 2. 14, 15.

That therefore the Church, which is his Body, is represented as the Church of the First-born, enrolled in the Heavens, Heb. 12. 23. a Church against which the Gates of Hades, or of Death, shall not prevail to hinder their Enjoyment of this Resurrection to a Life of Happiness; they are the Sons of God, and therefore Children of the Resurrection, Luke 21. 36. therefore Heirs of God, Joint-heirs with Christ, who shall be glorified with him, Rom. 8. 17. shall be delivered from the Bondage of Corruption, into the glorious Liberty of the Sons of God, v. 21. shall have the Adoption, to wit, the Redemption of the Body, v. 23. and they are also represented as Persons fore-ordained to be conformed to the Image of Christ, by having their vile Bodies changed into the likeness of Christ's glorious Body, v. 29.

Note 2*ly*, That to this end was Christ raised, that he the First-born from the dead, might raise up his whole Body from the dead, he being raised from the dead as the first fruits of them that slept, 1 Cor. 15. 20. for to this end Christ both died and rose again, that he might be Lord both of the dead, and of the living, Rom. 14. 9. and God hath therefore exalted him, That at the Name (i. e. the Power) of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in Heaven, in the Earth, and under the Earth, Phil. 2. 10. that is, the Bodies of the dead; for by this Argument, and from these very words, the Apostle proves the Resurrection, and a future Judgment, Rom. 14. 10, 11, 12. He is therefore so the first-born of the dead, as to be the Lord of them, according to our former Interpretation of the word first-born, and as to have power to raise them up who sleep in him, and bring them with him, 1 Thess. 4. 14 to give Eternal Life unto them, and raise them up at the last day, John 5. 28, 29. & 17. 2. And thus hath he the Preheminence in all things, being Lord of all Creatures dead and living, and giving both their First and their New Being to them, and rendring his Members conformable to his glorious Image, that so they may be Joint-heirs with him in Glory. And this is the constant Doctrine of (g) Irenæus, who informs us that Christ died, that he might be the first-born from the dead, and the Prince of Life. (h) That the Death of this just Man gave him the Principality of Things under the Earth; he having before the Principality in Heavenly Things; that they who denied the Resurrection of the Flesh, contradicted the Salvation of that for which the whole Dispensation of the Son of God was designed, that he died that exiled Man might be delivered from Condemnation, and might return without fear to his Inheritane.

Ver. 20. Ἀποκαταλλάξαι, to reconcile.] This word, say Hesychius, Suidas, and Phavorinus, signifies φιλοποιῆσαι, to make friends; or to reduce Persons to their former Amity. This by the (i) Fathers is thus explained, That whilst Man continued in his Obedience to God, Angels and Men were in a perfect Friendship; but when became Men Diſobedient to their Soveraign Lord, the Angels became averſe to them, becauſe their Lord was diſhonoured by them. But God being reconciled to us by the Death of his Son, they alſo became Friends and miniſtring Spirits to us, and we became of the ſame Church and Body with them, under the ſame Head Chriſt Jeſus, Heb. 12. 22. And ſo all things in Heaven and Earth were gathered into one in Chriſt, Eph. 1.10.

n Ibid. Εἰς ἑαυτὸν, to himſelf.] This I would render, in him, for ſo the parallel place requires, where it is ſaid, that God did recapitulate all things ἐν Χριστῷ in Chriſt, Eph. 1.10. and ſo εἰς frequently imports, it being uſually put with an Accuſative Caſe, inſtead of ἐν with a Dative; So Pſal. 16.10. Thou wilt not leave my Soul εἰς Ἅιδου in Hell, Matth. 2. 23. He dwelt εἰς πόλιν in a City, Chap. 10.14. εἰς ὄνομα προφήτου, in the name of a Prophet. So εἰς τὸ ἄγρον ὄν he that is in the field, Mark 13. 16. is Matth. 24. 18. Luke 17. 31. ἐν τῷ ἀγρῷ. o Ver. 23. Note. Hence it follows, That they who have true Faith, and juſt ground of Hope, may fall away from them.

Ver. 24. Τῶν θλίψεων τοῦ Χριστοῦ, the Afflictions of Chriſt.] Chriſt having told us, that what was done to his Members is done to him, Matth. 25. 40, 45. the Afflictions of his Members are ſtiled the Perſecutions and Afflictions of Chriſt, Acts 9. 4, 5. Now the Jews ſpeak much of the Afflictions of Chriſt and his Diſciples, comprehending both under the name of חבלי משיח (k) the Afflictions of the Meſſiah, dividing them into three parts, of which, ſay they, the Fathers, and the preceding Generation ſuffered one part; another part was ſuffered by the Generation of Deſtruction, or by the Jews deſtroy'd by Titus; and a third by the Generation of the Meſſiah, or by his Diſciples. Of theſe Afflictions of Chriſt, I, ſaith the Apoſtle, have already had a ſhare, and I go on to fill up the reſidue of theſe my Sufferings in the Fleſh, which I am to bear in the Diſcharge of my Miniſtry, for the benefit of his Church. And ſuitable to this Interpretation is that of Lyranus on the place, Paſſiones Chriſti dupliciter accipiuntur, uno modo pro illis, quas ſuſtinuit in corpore proprio, & ſic nihil ibi reſtat adimplendum, alio modo quas in finem uſque ſeculi patietur in corpore myſtico, & ſic reſtant multarum paſſionum reliquiæ adimplendæ. p b Ibid. Τὸ μυστήριον τὸ Θεοῦ, the myſtery of God, even the Father, and of Chriſt.] i. e. The Diſpenſation of the Divine Grace of God in offering Salvation to the Gentiles by Chriſt, and conferring on them, equally with the Jews, the Bleſſings of the Goſpel. This is the Myſtery which, ſaith he, in the former Ages was hid, but now is manifeſted to the Saints, to whom God would make known what was the riches of the glory of this Myſtery among the Gentiles, which is Chriſt (preached) among you (as) the hope of glory, v. 26. 27. Thus, ſaith he, is the Myſtery which from the beginning hath been hid in God, Eph. 3. 9. the Myſtery of God, and of Chriſt, v. 3, 4, 5. That the Gentiles ſhould be fellow-heirs (with the believing Jews,) and of the ſame body, and partakers (with them) of his promiſes in Chriſt by the Goſpel, v. 6. See alſo Rom. 16. 25, 26. Col. 4. 3. And that the Gentiles might have a perfect knowledge of this Myſtery, and of the Riches of Divine Grace, and love to them in it, is the Apoſtle's Prayer, Eph. 3. 16, 17, 18, 19. But whereas Crellius, and Schlichtingius here note, that the Particle καὶ, and, added to the word Chriſt, diſtinguiſhes him as well from God, as from the Father: It doth no ſuch matter, but only diſtinguiſheth the Myſtery of the Father ſending his Son into the World to be a Saviour to the Gentiles, from the Myſtery of Chriſt, procuring this Salvation for them by his Blood. Heaven and Earth, and in one Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God, incarnate for our Salvation, our Lord, God, Saviour, and King. And ſo theſe words may be conſtrued the Myſtery of both the Father and Chriſt. See Note on Chap. 1. 3.

c Ver. 3. Ἐν ᾧ, in whom.] Some make theſe words relate to the Myſtery mentioned in the foregoing Verſe. But it ſeems rather to reſpect the Perſon of Chriſt as Mediator, the knowledge of whom, ſaith the Apoſtle, hath an excellency beyond all other knowledge, Philip. 3. 8. for ἐν ᾧ καὶ κατηλλάγητε, in whom you are reconciled, v. 11. and ἐν ᾧ, in whom you are riſen again, v. 12. plainly relate to Chriſt's Perſon and his Performances as Mediator; and the whole following Chapter ſpeaketh of him, and of the Benefits we have received ἐν αὐτῷ by him. The Apoſtle alſo doth apply this to him by ſaying, v. 8. as you have received the Lord Jeſus Chriſt ſo walk in him; and by warning us againſt the deceit of vain Philoſophy, becauſe in him dwelleth all the fulneſs of the Godhead. But yet ſeeing theſe hid Treaſures of Chriſt's Wiſdom are revealed to us by his Goſpel only, and thence alone we obtain all our knowledge of him as Mediator, and of all the Offices he ſuſtains as ſuch, there ſeemeth to be no great difference betwixt referring this to his Perſon, and referring it to his Doctrine.

d Ver. 5. Τὴν τάξιν ὑμῶν, your order.] As to walk diſorderly, in the Apoſtle's ſtile, is not to walk according to the Traditions they had received from the Apoſtles, or Preachers of the Goſpel, 2 Theſſ. 3. 6. So their order may import their compliance with them in Manners, Diſcipline and Union.

e Ver. 8. Διὰ τῆς φιλοσοφίας, by Philoſophy, &c.] What is the πλάνη λογία, the enticing ſpeech, v. 4. and the Philoſophy and vain Deceit, which the Apoſtle warns them againſt, is not ſo eaſie to determine. Some good Interpreters refer what follows in this Chapter to the Hereſie of Simon Magus and the Gnoſticks, to which many paſſages in this Chapter may be well applied. Others refer them to the Jewiſh Doctors, who had then mixed the Philoſophy of the Heathens with their Ceremonial Worſhip, and had thence learned to allegorize it, and others divide the matter betwixt Jew and Gentile. And that the Jewiſh Doctors are very much concerned in this Chapter, we learn from v. 14, 15, 16. and the Rudiments of the World relate to their Legal Obſervations, as being common to them with the Gentile World; See Note on Gal. 4. 8 The Commandments of Men, or their Traditions, may alſo have reſpect to them who were the zealous Aſſertors of them, Matth. 15. Acts 21. 21. And indeed this Verſe ſeems to be the Key to, or the Foundation of all that follows in this Chapter, ranking the Diſcourſe of the Apoſtle under theſe two Heads, viz. Cautions againſt the Seductions of the Jews, zealous for obſervation of their Rites and Ceremonies, and againſt the Seductions of Heathens by their vain Philoſophy dreſs'd up by them anew, both as to its Doctrines and Morals, and ſet off with the moſt ſpecious Pretences, ſtiled here πλάνη λογία, enticing Speech.

Ver. 9. Πᾶν τὸ πλήρωμα τῆς θεότητος, all the fulneſs of the Godhead.] This fulneſs, according to the Gnoſticks, was made up of their thirty Æones. The Heathens, beſides the Supreme God, owned many other local Gods preſiding over Nations, and ſo made up the Plenitude of the Godhead of them all, as of ſo many partial Deities. Againſt ſuch Opinions the Apoſtle here aſſerts, that the whole fulneſs of the Godhead dwelt in Chriſt, and that bodily, i. e. in his Body, as its Temple; And, ſay the Fathers, as the Soul dwelleth in the Body, ſay others, bodily, that is, eſſentially. The Apoſtle doth not roundly ſay, that Chriſt is God, but expreſſes his Divine Nature thus, partly to repreſent to the Jews the Divinity of Chriſt, with alluſion to the God of Iſrael dwelling in the Temple; partly to oppoſe him to the πλήρωμα of the Gnoſticks, and to the partial Deities of the Heathens. Here therefore it is to be obſerved, f

1*ſt*, That the Apoſtle doth not here ſay that the Divinity is aſſiſtant to Chriſt, but that the fulneſs of it doth κατοικεῖν reſide in him, which is never ſaid in Scripture, of any other Perſon, but of him alone, who having ſtiled his body a Temple, John 2. 19, 21. the fulneſs of the Deity may be properly ſaid to dwell in him bodily, as it dwelt ſymbolically in the Ark.

Note 2*ly*, That Chriſt is not here ſaid to be filled with the fulneſs of God, as the Church is, by reaſon of the Gifts with which ſhe was repleniſhed, and the Doctrine ſhe had received from God, Eph. 1. 23. But the whole fulneſs of the Godhead is here ſaid to reſide in him. Now θεότης and τὸ θεῖον do never ſignifie the Gifts of God, or the Doctrine of the Goſpel, but the Divine Nature only; nor can the Will, or Revelation of God, be ſaid to dwell bodily in any Perſon. I conclude therefore, that (b) the Body born of the Virgin, receiving the whole fulneſs of the Godhead bodily, was immutably united to the Divinity, and Deified, which made the ſame Perſon, Jeſus Chriſt, both God and Man.

g Ver. 10. Κεφαλὴ πάσης ἀρχῆς καὶ ἐξουσίας, The Head of all Principality and Power.] (c) Epiphanius informs us, that Simon Magus deviſed ſome Names of Principalities and Powers, ſaying, That none could be ſaved who learn'd not the Sacred Diſcipline, and how to offer his Sacrifice to the Father of all things, by theſe Principalities and Powers: In oppoſition to theſe things, ſay ſome, the Apoſtle aſſerts that Chriſt created all theſe Principalities and Powers, ch. 1.15. and was the Head and Lord of them, and ſo in him, without their aſſiſtance, the Coloſſians were complete, and fully inſtructed to Salvation.

Or elſe theſe things may be referred to Cerinthus and his Followers. For,

1*ſt*, He lived in the Apoſtles times, and was a great Oppoſer of the Truth of the Goſpel, and particularly an Enemy to St. (d) Paul, becauſe he contended it was not neceſſary for the Jews, nor lawful for the Gentiles to obſerve the Law of Moſes, for which Cerinthus was a Zealot. And he, ſaith the ſame (e) Epiphanius, reproved St. Peter for going into the Uncircumciſed, and raiſed the Tumult in Antioch about Circumciſion.

2*ly*, He lived long in (f) Egypt, and was inſtructed in Philoſophical Sciences, and from thence went and ſet up his Sect in Aſia the Leſs, and Syria, ſay (g) Theodoret and Epiphanius. Being therefore skilled in Philoſophy, and ſetting up his Hereſie in Aſia Minor, where Coloſs was, he may well be here reflected on by St. Paul, eſpecially if we conſider how much his Opinions agreed with thoſe which are here cenſured by him. For,

3*ly*, He was zealous for Circumciſion, and other Obſervances of the Law of Moſes, and ſo concern'd in what is here ſaid, v. 11, 14, 15, 16, 17. (2*ly*,) He ſaid (h) the World was made by Angels, or inferiour Vertues, and not by the Supreme God; and that he himſelf received his Doctrine by the Revelation of Angels. (3*ly*,) He held Jeſus to be born of Joſeph and Mary, as other Men, and Chriſt to have deſcended upon him, and at his Paſſion to have return'd to his Pleroma.

And St. John refuted him, ſaith Irenæus, by eſtabliſhing the Principle of one God Omnipotent, who made all things viſible and inviſible by his Word; which is the very thing the Apoſtle in this Chapter doth aſſert.

h Ver. 11. Τῇ ἀπεκδύσει, &c. The putting off the Body of the Sins of the Fleſh.] Thus (i) Philo informs us, that Circumciſion imports the cutting off our ſinful Pleaſures and Paſſions, and our impious Opinions. See Rom. 2. 28, 29.

The Apoſtle here plainly diſcourſeth againſt thoſe Hereticks, or falſe Apoſtles, who laboured to introduce the neceſſity of Circumciſion. Now that Cerinthus was one who pleaded for the neceſſity of it, Epiphanius, St. Auſtin, and others do inform us, but that Simon Magus did ſo, I find not in Church Hiſtory. (k) The Apoſtolical Conſtitutions ſpeak of ſome falſe Apoſtles, who held it neceſſary περιτμηθῆναι νομίμως, to circumciſe Men according to the Law; but then they are diſtinguiſhed from the impure Hereſie of Simon Magus, who was ſo far from contending for the Obſervation of the Law and Prophets, that he taught his Followers, (l) νόμῳ καὶ Προφήταις μὴ χρῆσθαι, not to regard them, (m) μηδὲ φρίττειν, nor to fear the Threats of the Law, as being not the Law of God, ἀλλ' ἀσεβεῖς δυνάμεως, but of ſome evil Power, ſaith Theodoret; and declaring,

ſaith (n) Epiphanius, that whoſoever believed the Old Teſtament incurred Death. Note,

2*ly*, That the Apoſtle ſpeaking here of the Circumciſion made without hands, and of the Circumciſion made in Baptiſm, and conſiſting in the putting off the Sins of the Fleſh, cannot, by the Circumciſion of Chriſt, mean his own perſonal Circumciſion which was made with Hands, but that which he hath inſtituted in the room of it, viz. Baptiſm. Note, 3*ly*, That Baptiſm therefore is a Rite of Initiation to Chriſtians, as Circumciſion was to the Jews; for by Virtue of our Spiritual Circumciſion in Baptiſm, he proves we have no need of the outward Circumciſion to be a Type of the Purity obtained by Baptiſm.

4*ly*, Hence I infer, that Baptiſm is Chriſt's Ordinance for Infants of believing Parents, as Circumciſion was of old for the Infants of the Jews; for if it had been otherwiſe, and Infants under Chriſtianity, had not been received by any Fœderal Rite into Covenant with God, the Objection of the neceſſity of Circumciſion as to them, would have ſtill held, they entring into Covenant by no other Rite, and ſo remaining Strangers from the Church, and as much Aliens from the Adoption, the Covenant, and Promiſes, as the Gentiles were; which ſure the Jews would have objected, if truly they could have done it to the Reproach of Chriſtianity. That Inſtitution therefore muſt, for the Comfort and Satisfaction of their Parents, afford ſome way of ſanctifying theſe Infants, or of admitting them among the number of God's Children, which being confeſſedly no other than that of Baptiſm, it muſt be ſuppoſed to allow that to them, that by it, in the Phraſe of (o) Irenæus, Infantes & parvuli renaſcantur in Deum, Infants and little Children may be regenerated.

i Ver. 13. Καὶ τῇ ἀκροβυστίᾳ τῆς σαρκὸς, And the Uncircumciſion of the Fleſh.] By the defect of Circumciſion, they being, ſaith the Parallel place, on that account without Chriſt, being Aliens from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, and Strangers from the Covenant of Promiſe, Eph. 2. 11, 12.

k Ver. 14. Χειρόγραφον τοῖς δόγμασιν, The Handwriting of Ordinances.] Δόγμα is a Reſcript, or Ordinance, concerning any thing, a Royal or Imperial Decree, Dan. 2. 13: & 3. 10, 12, 29. & 6. 8, 10, 13, 15, 26. Luke 2. 1. Acts 17. 7. Hence Ritual Preſcriptions are called δόγματα, Ezek. 20. 26. The Handwriting of Ordinances, in the parallel Epiſtle, Eph. 2. 15. is the Law of Commandments, ἐν δόγμασι, in Ritual Ordinances, or the Ceremonial Law; and it is ſaid here to be againſt, and contrary to the Gentiles, as being a Middle-wall of Partition, hindring them from coming to God, and putting an Enmity betwixt them and God's People, v. 14, 15. which Chriſt hath taken away by aboliſhing and diſſolving the Obligation of it, and admitting the Gentiles Fellow Heirs of the ſame Promiſes, and Bleſſings with the Jews without it; or it is contrary to us, as being the Miniſtration of Death and Condemnation, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 9.

l Ver. 15. Τὰς ἀρχὰς καὶ ἐξουσίας.] The Principalities and Powers here mentioned, are the Powers of Wickedneſs, the Spirits of Satan, who is ſtiled ἡ ἐξουσία τοῦ σκότους, the Power of Darkneſs, Luke 22. 53. and of the Air, Eph. 2. 2. ὁ ἀρχὼν, the Prince of this World, John 12. 31. & 14. 30. whoſe Emiſſaries are the Principalities and Powers, the Rulers of the Darkneſs of this World, the Spiritual Wickedneſſes in high places, againſt which we wreſtle, Eph. 6. 12. Theſe Powers Chriſt deſtroyed by his Croſs, becauſe as the Apoſtle ſaith, Thro' Death he deſtroyed him that had the Power of Death, that is, the Devil, and delivered them who thro' the fear of Death were all their Lives ſubject to Bondage, Heb. 2. 14, 15. Moreover, the Heathens lay under two great Infelicities, (1.) That they were Aliens from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, and Strangers from the Covenant of Promiſe, and without God in the World; the Remedy which Divine Wiſdom found out, and our Lord's Salutary Paſſion effected with reſpect to this, is diſcourſed of in the preceding Verſe. (2*ly*,) That they were Subject to the Power and Deluſions of Evil and Apoſtate Spirits, walking according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience. Theſe Principalities and Powers Chriſt diſpoiled on the Croſs, by the Name of a crucified Jeſus, and by the very Sign of the Croſs, caſting out the Prince of the World from his Dominions, Temples, and Oracles, and from thoſe Human Bodies he poſſeſſed, and ſo openly convincing the Heathens, that the Deities they ſo long had worſhipped, were evil Spirits, and by the Miracles wrought in his Name, drawing them from their Heathen Worſhip to him: And this Expoſition is confirm'd from theſe words, He made a ſhew of them openly, which plainly ſeemeth to refer to this Conqueſt over them. Moreover, it may be noted, that Simon, and Cerinthus held (q) τὸν δὲ αἰῶνα ὑπὸ ἀρχόντων, τόπων καὶ ἐξουσιῶν τῆς κακίας κατασκευασμένον, That the World was made by theſe evil Spirits, and Men were ſubject to the Power of them;

and were (p) per eum & Helenam ſuam ex illis Angelicis poteſtatibus liberandos, to be delivered by Simon and his Hellen from them. This, ſaith the Apoſtle, our Lord hath fully done upon the Croſs, and ſo we need no aſſiſtance of Simon, or Cerinthus, to perform this work; and much leſs need we the aſſiſtance of thoſe Dæmons, which the Heathens worſhipped as good Angels, who had the Government of the inferiour World committed to them, Chriſt having triumphed over them, and wholly ſpoiled them of that Power. And from theſe Heathen Deities he paſſes on again to the Rudiments of the Jews, making that Inference from what had been diſcourſed from v. 11. to the 14th, which we ſee in the following Verſes.

m Ibid. Ἐν αὐτῷ, In it.] 'Tis certain that (r) Origen, and others of the Ancients read, ἐν ξύλῳ, on the Wood; ſo did the Arabick Verſion; others read, ἐν ἑαυτῷ, in himſelf; but ſeeing that Reading, as St. Jerom teſtifies, is only of the Latin Copies, and ſince Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, read as we, and moſt Copies do, without taking notice of any other Reading, we may rely ſecurely on it.

n Ver. 17. Σκιὰ τῶν μελλόντων, A ſhadow of things to come.] Dr. Spencer well obſerves, that there is no neceſſity from theſe words, of aſſerting that theſe, and all the Ritual Conſtitutions of the Law of Moſes, ſhadowed forth ſome Chriſtian Myſtery, but only that they were but as mere ſhadows, compared to that ſolid and ſubſtantial Truth Chriſt by his Goſpel hath diſcovered to us; as Joſephus ſpeaking of Archelaus, who exerciſed the Kingly Power without the Title of it, ſaith, ἦκει παρὰ τὸν Δεσπότην σκιὰν αἰτησόμενος βασιλείας, ἧς ἥρπασεν ἑαυτῷ τὸ Σῶμα, He came to requeſt of Cæſar the Shadow of that Kingdom, the Body of which he had uſurped, or ſnatch'd to himſelf before. De Bello Jud. L. 2. C. 4. p. 777.

Note 2*ly*, That ἐν μέρει ἑορτῆς, is well rendred in reſpect, or on account of a Feaſt; as when the Apoſtle ſaith, That which was made glorious, was not glorious, ἐν μέρει τούτῳ in this reſpect, 2 Cor. 3. 10. and, I have ſent the Brethren, leſt our boaſting of you ſhould be found vain, ἐν τούτῳ μέρει, in this reſpect, chap. 9. 3. And when St. Peter ſaith, If any Man ſuffer as a Chriſtian, let him glorifie God, ἐν τούτῳ μέρει, on this account. So 2 Mac. 15. 18. The care they took for their Wives and Children, was ἐν ἥττονι μέρει, of no account with them, their chief care being for the Temple. Now hence to make out the Argument againſt the Sabbatarians, Note,

1*ſt*, That the Hand-writing of Ordinances here mentioned reſpecteth Ceremonial Ordinances; for of them only can it be truly ſaid, they were againſt us, and were contrary to us, they were blotted out, and nailed to the Croſs of Chriſt, and were Shadows of, or in reſpect of things to come.

2*ly*, That when it is ſaid, Let no Man judge you in reſpect of thoſe things; the meaning is, let no Man cenſure, or condemn the Chriſtian, for not obſerving theſe New Moons, Feaſts, or Sabbaths.

3*ly*, That the Apoſtle here by Sabbaths does not mean the firſt and laſt Days of the great Jewiſh Feaſts, which were by them obſerved as Sabbaths, or the Sabbath of the Seventh Year, or of the Year of Jubilee, but only, or chiefly, the Weekly Sabbaths of the Jews.

1*ſt*, Becauſe the Apoſtle having ſaid before, Let no Man condemn you for not obſerving the Jewiſh Feſtivals, or any part of them, cannot be rationally ſuppoſed in the words following, to condemn only the ſame thing.

2*ly*, In the New Teſtament the word Sabbath, or Sabbaths, is uſed above ſixty times, and in fifty ſix of thoſe places, it doth unqueſtionably ſignifie the Jewiſh Weekly Sabbaths, and in the other the whole Week; ſince then the Sabbath in the New Teſtament is never uſed for the firſt or laſt Days of the Jewiſh Feaſts, but is there ordinarily uſed for their Weekly Sabbath, we ought in reaſon to conclude, it here imports that Seventh-day Sabbath, which it doth uſually import in other places, and not thoſe Solemn Days of the Jewiſh Feaſts, thoſe Jubilees, or Seven Years Sabbaths, which it doth never elſewhere ſignifie in the New Teſtament.

3*ly*, Where-ever the word Sabbath is mentioned in the Old Teſtament, in conjunction with New Moons, or Jewiſh Feaſts, it doth import the Seventh-day Sabbath diſtinctly from all others, as will appear from the peruſal of all the places where theſe things are jointly mentioned, as 2 Kings 4. 23. Iſai. 1. 13. & 66. 23. Lam. 2. 6. Ezek. 45. 17. & 46. 1. Hoſ. 2. 2. Amos 8. 5. being then here mentioned with New Moons and Jewiſh Feaſts, it is reaſonable to conceive it ſignifies the Seventh-day Sabbath.

4*ly*, The Sabbath-day in the Old Teſtament is often contra-diſtinguiſhed to all other Solemn Feaſts, and more particularly to New Moons, and Anniverſary Feaſts, and therefore being here mentioned with them, we may preſume it cannot ſignifie them, or any Portion of them, but rather that it doth import, that Jewiſh Sabbath, which in other places is put in oppoſition to them, as 1 Chron.

23. 31. 2 Chron. 2. 4. & 31. 3. Neh. 10. 32, 33. Seeing then the word Sabbath, wherever it is uſed in conjunction with New Moons, or Feaſts in Scripture, ſtill ſignifies the Jewiſh Weekly Sabbath, we cannot doubt, but in conjunction with them here, it ſignifies the ſame thing; ſeeing the word is often put in oppoſition to New Moons and Solemn Feaſts indefinitely taken, what Reaſon have we to conceive, that in this place it ſhould be taken for any part or portion of them? Hence then I argue thus:

No Man ought to condemn the Chriſtian for not obſerving the Jewiſh Sabbath, becauſe Chriſt hath blotted out the Hand writing of Ceremonial Ordinances which was againſt them; therefore the Jewiſh Sabbath was a Ceremonial Ordinance, therefore 'tis blotted out, therefore the Chriſtian is not obliged to obſerve it. Again that which is joyned with Meats and Drinks, and with New Moons, which are things confeſſedly Ceremonial, no difference at all being obſerved by the Apoſtle, as to their being named Hand-writings, things cancell'd, ſhadows, and the like, that muſt be Ceremonial: Laſtly, That which is a ſhadow of, or in reſpect of things to come, of which Chriſt by his Advent exhibited the Body, that muſt be ceremonial, that muſt be cancell'd, and aboliſhed by Chriſt, and then the Jewiſh Sabbath muſt be ſo.

o Ver. 18. Καταβραβεύετω, Let no Man beguile you of your Reward.] So Suidas, Παραλογιζέτω, Let no Man put a Cheat upon you. So Phavorinus, Ἐπηρεαζέτω, Let no Man damage you; So Chryſoſt. and Theophylact.

p Ibid. Θέλων ἐν ταπεινοφροσύνῃ, Pleaſing himſelf in his Humility.] Or affecting it, and ſo not addreſſing to God immediately, but by Angels; for ſo the word θέλειν anſwers to the Hebrew Chaphetz, which imports pleaſing or delighting our ſelves in any thing. So 1 Sam. 18. 12. Θέλει ἐν σοὶ ὁ Βασιλεὺς, The King is pleaſed with thee, 2 Sam. 15. 26. If he ſay, οὐκ ἐθέλησα ἐν σοὶ, I am not pleaſed with thee, Mat. 20. 26, 27. ὃς ἂν θέλῃ ἐν ὑμῖν, Who among you affects to be great, or firſt? And Chap 27. 43. Let him deliver him, εἰ θέλει αὐτὸν. if he delighteth in him. As for the Perſons here referred to, Note, 1ſt, That the Greek Commentators affirm generally, that the Apoſtle doth through this whole Epiſtle oppoſe himſelf to ſome falſe Chriſtians, who held, δεῖν σωίζεσθαι ἡμᾶς πρὸς τὸν Πατέρα διὰ τῶν ἁγίων Ἀγγέλων, That we ought to addreſs to the Father by the Holy Angels. But then ſome of them add, That the Pretence of Humility was this, (f) That it was too much for us to come to God immediately by Chriſt, this being above our Infirmity. But this, tho' it agrees well with the Humility here mentioned, it ſeems not to accord either with the Principles of Simon Magus, who held himſelf to be both the Father and the Son; or of Cerinthus, who held Chriſt was only a Man, born after the common way of Generation, and ſo could not exalt himſelf thus above the Angels; and much leſs doth it accord with the Sentiments of the Heathens. Oecumenius ſaith, The Apoſtle ſpeaketh here of them who did, τὰς νομικὰς παρατηρήσεις τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ ἐπιμιγνύειν, Mix legal Obſervances with the Goſpel; and Theophylact, that he ſpeaks, περὶ τῶν Ἰουδαιζόντων, of the Judaizers. And (t) Theodoret explains this more fully thus, They who were zealous for the Law, perſwaded Men to worſhip Angels, becauſe, ſay they, the Law was given by them; this they adviſed Men to do, pretending Humility, and ſaying, that the God of all things was inviſible, and inacceſſible, and incomprehenſible, and that it was fit we ſhould procure the Divine Favour by the means of Angels. Now if this be ſo, this paſſage cannot well agree to Simon Magus, and his Followers, for tho' they worſhipped Angels, as (u) Irenæus, (x) Tertullian, (y) Epiphanius, and (z) Theodoret note, and held, that their Proarche, or Propater, was ſo inacceſſible, and incomprehenſible, yet did they not ſeem to worſhip God by Angels, but rather to perform their Magical Operations by invoking them. He alſo, and his Followers, as hath been ſhewn, were great Enemies to the Law, and ſo could not introduce the Worſhip of good Angels upon this account, that the Law was given by them.

But then as for Cerinthus, and other falſe Apoſtles of the Jews, they owned Chriſt Jeſus as the Meſſiah, and yet were ſtiff Aſſertors of the Obligation of the Law, and they by their Philoſophy had introduced the Worſhip of Angels, after the Heathen manner. For Epiphanius informs us of Cerinthus, rinthus, that he ſaid, (a) The Law and the Prophets came from the Angels, and that he who gave the Law was one of the Angels that made the World. They had imbibed the Philoſophy of (b) Plato, which ſaith, The Demons are of a middle Nature betwixt Gods and Mortals, that they brought our Prayers and Offerings to them, and their Commands to us, and were to be worſhipped and invoked upon that account. That God had no immediate commerce with Men, but all his Converſe with us was by the Mediation of theſe Dæmons. And ſuitably to this Philoſophy, we find the Angel, Tobit. 12. 12, 15. ſaying, that he was one of the ſeven Angels οἱ προσαναφέρουσι τὰς προσδυχὰς τῶν ἁγίων, who offered up the Prayers of the Saints. And that when Tobit and Sarah prayed, he brought the Memorial of their Prayer before the Holy One. And (c) Philo in ſeveral places declares, that as the Philoſophers ſaid of their Demons and Heroes, ſo Moſes introduces the Angels πρεσβευομένας, doing the Office of Ambaſſadors, καὶ διαγγέλλοντας τὰ τε ἀγαθὰ τοῦ ἡγεμόνος τοῖς ὑπηκόοις ἀγαθὰ, καὶ τῷ βασιλεῖ ὧν εἰσιν ὑπήκοοι χρεῶν, and being Meſſengers of good things from God to his Subjects, and carrying back to God their needs. In his Book of the (d) Gyants, he ſtiles them Ambaſſadors of good Communications of Men to God, and of God again to Men. And in his Book (e) de Somniis, he repreſents them as the Ears and Eyes of the great King, ſeeing and hearing all things; for, ſaith he, they bring the Commands of the Father to his Children, and the Needs of the Children to the Father; not that God needs their Miniſtry, but that it is very needful and beneficial for us frail Men, to have ſuch Mediators, as being unable, not only to receive God's Chaſtiſements, but even his very Benefits, ſhould he immediately confer them on us by himſelf. If Cerinthus had imbibed this Philoſophy which had then obtained among the Jews, and was ſo well known in the World, that one ſo much inſtructed in it, as Theodoret ſaith he was, could not well be ignorant of it, here is a ſufficient Foundation for his introducing the Worſhip of thoſe Angels which gave the Law under pretence of Humility, (f) Philo declaring that when the Law was firſt given, the People deſired it might be ſo, and requeſted of God theſe Mediators; ſaying, Speak thou to us, and let not God ſpeak to us, leſt we die.

Ibid. ἃ μὴ ἑώρακεν ἐμβατεύων, intruding into thoſe things he hath not ſeen.] This did the Philoſophers, and thoſe Chriſtians which embraced their Sentiments, in all their Inducements to worſhip theſe Angels, and inferiour Spirits; As v. g.

1ſt, In their pretence that (g) the Divine Nature could not immediately be converſed with, but that all the intercourſe betwixt God and Men was by the intermediation of theſe Dæmons, it being a debaſing of the Divine Nature to think we could converſe with him without their intervention.

2ly, In ſaying that they were to be worſhipped χάριν τῆς εὐφήμου διαπορείας, for their laudable Interceſſion, and διὰ τὴν ἐνεργασίας for the (h) Benefits of common life we receive from them.

3ly, As having from the Supreme Deity their Power and Authority, and preſiding over us, καθὰ τάξιν ἣν ἕκαστος ἐτάχθη, according to the order appointed to them, and being therefore worſhipped θείῳ νόμῳ καὶ θείᾳ βουλήσει by the Divine Law and Counſel; and only, ſaith Celſus, as he will have them to be honoured; Plato in Phædro p. 246. Hierocles in Carm. Pythag. p. 9, 18. Celſus apud Orig. l. 8. p. 381.

4ly, Becauſe by worſhipping theſe Miniſters of his, we do a thing φίλον ἐκείνῳ grateful to him, ſaith (i) Celſus. Now in all theſe things they did manifeſtly ἐμβατεύειν intrude into things of which they neither had, nor could have any knowledge from the Light of Nature. And ſo do alſo the Romaniſts, in ſaying, That Saints and Angels ſee all things, or perceive our Prayers by ſeeing him who ſeeth all things; that they are worſhipped by the Divine Law and Counſel; and that by invoking them, we do a thing grateful to him, it being certain that nothing of this Nature can be proved from Scripture, or from Primitive Tradition.

Moreover Theodoret and Oecumenius here obſerve, that this Worſhip of Angels continued long in Piſidia, Phrygia, and Laodicea near to Coloſs, where they had (k) εὐκτήρια τῦ ἁγίυ Μιχαὴλ, Oratories of St. Michael, the Captain of the Lord's Hoſt, as he is called Joſh. 5.14. which leads us to the very riſe of this Worſhip, both among Jews and Chriſtians. For the Jews generally held, that he who is ſtiled the Captain of the Lord's Hoſt, was the Angel Michael. See Note on Heb. 2. 5. and his Office, ſaith (l) Origen, is, Mortalium preces, ſupplicationeſque curare, to preſent the Prayers of Men, and in the Book of the Paſtor we read, ſaith he, that Chriſtians ἅμα τὸ πιςεῦσαι ὑπὸ τὴν Μιχαὴλ γίνονται, as ſoon as they believe, are under the Government of Michael. (m) The good Meſſenger, ſaith Hermes, being Michael, qui Populi hujus habet Poteſtatem, & gubernat eos, who hath the government over this People. Whence by (n) Nicephorus he is ſtiled, ὁ τῶν χριςιανῶν πίςεως ἔφορος, the Preſident or Overſeer of the Chriſtian Faith.

r Ver. 19. Καὶ ὐ κρατῶν τὴν κεφαλὴν, and not holding the head.] Hence it appeareth, (1.) That the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of ſuch Perſons as had embraced Chriſtianity, owning Chriſt Jeſus to be the Head of the Church, and being by Profeſſion dead with Chriſt from the Rudiments of the World, v. 20.

2*ly*, That the fault they were guilty of was not the worſhipping of Angels, as Mediators of Redemption, but of Interceſſion only, i. e. as Mediators to bring us to God, and to preſent our Prayers to him, as appears from the foregoing Note.

3*ly*, That Jeſus Chriſt is repreſented in the Holy Scripture, as he by whom we have προσαγωγὴν πρὸς τὸν θεὸν acceſs to God in Prayer with confidence, Eph. 2. 18. & 3. 12. Heb. 10. 19—22. And ſo having acceſs to him by Prayer through any other Mediator of Interceſſion, muſt be intrenching on the Office of the Head of the Church, and ſo not holding the Head: And that the Practice of the Church of Rome in praying to Angels, is here condemned, I have fully proved in a full Diſcourſe of the Idolatry of the Church of Rome, Chap 11.

Ibid. Ἐπιχορηγούμενον, by joints and bands having nouriſhment miniſtred;] i.e. From which Head communicating the Gifts of the Spirit to his Myſtical, as the Head doth its Spirits to the Natural Body, the whole Body of Chriſtians duly compacted together by the Aſſiſtance which every part of it gives to the whole; ſome ſuſtaining the Office of inferiour Heads, ſome of an Eye, ſome of an Hand or Foot, 1 Cor. 12. 15, 16, 17. increaſeth in that love which proceedeth from the God of Love, which he requires and approves, and which tends to his Glory, and is therefore ſtiled the Increaſe of God, as that Righteouſneſs which he approves, and accepts of, is ſtiled the Righteouſneſs of God, Rom. 1. 17. 2 Cor. 5. 21. Philip. 3. 9. Jam. 1. 20. See the Note on Eph. 4. 15, 16. s

Ver. 20. Ἀπὸ τῶν ςοιχείων τῦ κόσμυ, from the Rudiments of the World.] That theſe Rudiments ſignifie the Moſaical Inſtitutions, as being for Matter moſtly the ſame with the Rites uſed by the Heathens, is proved Note on Gal. 4. 3. And this is alſo evident from the Argument here uſed to reſtrain the Coloſſians from being ſtill in Bondage to them, viz. that they are blotted out, cancell'd, and done away by the death of Chriſt, to which we profeſs to be conformed, v. 14. to live in the world, is to live after the Preſcripts of the Men of the World, by whom theſe Rites were uſed. t

Ibid. Δογματίζεσθε, are ye ſubject to Ordinances.] Δογματίζεσθαι, is to make Rules and Conſtitutions concerning theſe things. Thus of the Feaſt of Dedication of the Temple purged from Defilement, ἐδογμάτισαν μετὰ κοινῦ πρωτάγματος, they ordained by a common Statute and Decree, that every year thoſe days ſhould be kept, 2 Macc. 10. 8. So when Judas had ſlain Nicanor, ἐδογμάτισαν πάντες μετὰ κοινῦ ψηφίσματος, they ordained all with a common Decree, in no caſe to let that day paſs without Solemnity, Chap. 15. 36. See Eſth. 3. 9. 3 Eſdr. 6. 34. And ſo it may be rendred here, why, as living yet in conformity to the World, are ye ſubject to the Decrees and Conſtitutions about them? Such as are u y Ibid. Μηδὲ γεύσῃ, taſt not.] This doubtleſs refers to Meats and Drinks, either Fleſh and Wine, which ſome of the Philoſophers, particularly the Pythagoreans, would not taſt of. And ſome falſe Apoſtles, mentioned by the (p) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions, forbad Marriage, and required Men to abſtain from Fleſh, and Wine, repreſenting Marriage, and the Procreation of Children, and the eating of Fleſh, as things abominable.

Ver. 21. lexandria ſaith, the Jews were not allowed to touch.

x Ibid. Μηδὲ θίγῃς, handle not] Any thing which may pollute you by touching it.

aa Ibid. Ἅ ἐστι πάντα εἰς φθόραν τῇ ἀποχρήσει, all which things periſh in the uſing.] The word φθόρα is uſed often by St. Peter ſpeaking of ſuch Men, not for a Natural, but a Moral Corruption; as when he ſaith, they were partakers of the Divine Nature, who have eſcaped τὴν φθορὰν the pollution which is in the world through luſt, 2 Pet. 1. 4. and that they as natural brute Beaſts, made to be taken and deſtroyed, ſpeak evil of the things they underſtand not, and ſhall periſh ἐν τῇ φθορᾷ αὐτῶν in their own Corruption, 2 Pet. 2. 12. and v. 19. whilſt they promiſe them liberty, they themſelves are the Servants τῆς φθορᾶς, of Corruption. And ſo the meaning of theſe words may be, that when theſe things are obſerved in compliance with the Commands and Doctrines of Men, as things neceſſary, they corrupt Men who uſe them thus. But I prefer the other ſenſe, which ſaith, that theſe Meats periſh in the uſing, according to that (q) Aphoriſm of the Civil Law, We uſe thoſe things which remain after the uſe of them, his verò abutimur quæ nobis utentibus pereunt.

bb Ver. 23. Ἅτινά ἐστι λόγον μὲν ἔχοντα τῆς σοφίας, which things have a ſhew of wiſdom.] Theſe words plainly refer to the former Verſes; the ἐθελοθρησκεία, will-worſhip, to the θέλων ἐν θρησκίᾳ τῶν Ἀγγέλων, pleaſing themſelves in the worſhipping of Angels; and ſo it muſt be as bad as that; the ſhew of Humility, to the doing this from a pretence of Humility, v. 18. the neglecting of the Body, and making no proviſions for it, to the ſatisfying of the fleſh, to the abſtinence from Fleſh, Wine, and Women, and from things offered to Idols.

It remains only to conſider who were the Perſons here intended; That they were not the Gnoſticks, or followers of Simon Magus, is evident; for they, ſaith (r) Irenæus, were Men who indulged to the Fleſh, and who privily corrupted the Women whom they taught; they were carefully to meditate upon the Myſtery of Wedlock, and upon that account enticed other mens wives to themſelves: And (s) Epiphanius adds, That they participated of all manner of Fleſh, that they indulged to Drunkenneſs and Venery, execrating them who were uſed to Faſtings; they therefore could not be the Men who neglected the Body by abſtaining from Meats, and made no proviſion for the Fleſh. They therefore ſeem to me to have been partly the Eſſens, and partly the Pythagorean Philoſophers. For,

1. Of the Eſſens, Joſephus ſaith, That οὔτε γαμετὰς εἰσάγονται, &c. (t) they neither would have Wives nor Servants, as thinking Servitude an Injury to our common Nature, or tending to Injuſtice, and Marriage to Sedition. And again, (u) γάμου μὲν ὑπεροψία παρ' αὐτοῖς, they contemn Marriage, not becauſe they would have Marriage taken away, or the Succeſſion of Mankind to ceaſe; but to avoid the intemperance of Women, and becauſe they think none of them can keep their Faith to one. (x) Philo ſays, they have Women with them, but they are only ſuch as are γηραιαὶ old Women, or παρθένοι τῆς ἁγνείας, Virgins as to their Chaſtity, not out of Neceſſity, but διὰ ζῆλον καὶ πόθον σοφίας, from their zeal to, and deſire of Wiſdom. He adds, σιτεῖσθαι δὲ πολυτελὲς οὐδὲν ἄλλα ἅλα ἕως ἐυτελῆ καὶ ὄψον ἅλες, &c? (y) They eat nothing that is delicate, having only mean bread, and ſalt for their Meat; and if they be delicate, and hyſſop for their ſauce, and river water for their drink. (z) They uſe no Wine in their Feaſts, οἶνον μὲν καὶ ἀφροσύνης φάρμακον, for Wine, ſay they, is the incentive to madneſs. He goes on, τραπέζα καθαρὰ τῶν ἐναίμων, Their Table is pure from all things that have blood in them, or from the Fleſh of living Creatures; for ſuch things, ſay they, irritate Concupiſcence. And of this Abſtinence from certain Meats they are ſo tenacious, ſaith (a) Joſephus, that they will rather endure all ſorts of Torments, ἢ φαγεῖν τι τῶν ἀθεμίτων, than eat any thing they were not accuſtomed to eat. Moreover, there were ſome things they muſt not touch, as (b) Oil, for

κηλίδα ὑπολαμβάνουσιν τὸ ἔλαιον, They look on Oil as a defilement; ſo that if any of them be unwillingly anointed with it, he muſt waſh it off from his Body. The younger amongſt them muſt not touch the Elders, (c) ὥστε εἰ ψαύσειαν αὐτῶν ἐκείνους ἀπολούεσθαι καθάπερ ἀλλοφύλῳ συμφέρηται, And if they touched them the Elders waſhed themſelves, as if they had touched an Alien. They were ſuch ſtrict Obſervers of the Sabbath, that they would provide no Meat for themſelves, nor go to ſtool on that Day. They had alſo (d) τὰ τῶν Ἀγγέλων ὀνόματα, certain Names of Angels which they held in Veneration; and alſo proper δόγματα, Opinions or Decrees, which they ſwore never to deliver to others, otherwiſe than as they had received them. And thus they dogmatized. And laſtly, All this was the effect, τῆς περὶ φιλοσοφίας ὁρμῆς, of their Paſſion for Philoſophy, of which (e) Philo ſo often ſpeaks in his Deſcription of them. So great Reaſon is there to conceive they may be concerned in this Chapter.

2*ly*, Theſe things being introduced as the Rudiments of the World, and living according to theſe δόγματα, Preſcriptions, being living as in the World, I chiefly incline to refer theſe things to the Abſtinence from touching and taſting Fleſh and Wine, and handling Women, and from all the Objects which gratifie the Senſes, the Taſte, the Eye, the Touch, taught by the Followers of Pythagoras and Empedocles, and defended with ſuch variety of Learning by Porphyry, the very Title of whoſe Book is, De abſtinentia ab eſu Animalium, Of Abſtinence from eating the Fleſh of any living Creature. This he founds upon this Principle, that τὸ ζῆν κατὰ τὸν, (f) To live the Intellectual Life, and to enjoy the Contemplation of the moſt perfect Being, it is neceſſary we ſhould abſtract our Minds as much as is poſſible, from all ſenſual Objects; from the Pleaſures which ariſe διὰ γεύσεως, from the Taſt, particularly of Wine; and from the Touch; for, ſaith he, ἁφαὶ the ſenſual Objects which we touch, are not only σωματῶσαι τὴν ψυχὴν ſuch as transform the Soul into the Body, but alſo ſuch as ſtir up Swarms of Luſts and Paſſions in it. Hence he infers, that all theſe things are τὰ ἀισχρὰ, filthy and polluting, and ſuch as hinder, τὰς ψυχῆς καθαρὰς ἐνεργείας, the pure Operations of the Soul, therefore he that would live the intellectual Life, muſt abſtain (g), not only from the uſe of Women, but from all ſenſual things, they being ſuch as do defile the Soul. Moreover, what the Apoſtle ſpeaks of the Deceit of Philoſophy, exactly agrees with the Sentiments of thoſe Men. Doth he ſay that it is καλὰ τὴν παράδοσιν ἀνθρώπων, i. e. according to the Tradition of Men? This Abſtinence is ſtiled by Porphyry, (h) νόμον ἄγραφον καὶ θεῖον, a divine, but unwritten Law. Doth he ſay of them, δογματίζονται, they make Decrees and Ordinances? This Opinion is by Porphyry ſtiled, (i) δόγμα παλαιὸν καὶ θεοῖς φίλον, an ancient Decree, and acceptable to the Gods; and τὸ διορίζόμενον, a Conſtitution, or a thing defined. Doth the Apoſtle ſtile it ἐθελοθρησκεία, Will-worſhip? 'Tis alſo by (k) Heraclides Ponticus ſtiled, δεισιδαιμονία, Superſtition, and ſaid by Porphyry eſpecially to be done on the account of Wiſdom, and the ſubduing of the Body; ſo full an agreement is there betwixt this Philoſophy, and that which the Apoſtle hath here ſaid concerning it.

CHAP.

CHAPTER III.

Verſe 1. IF ye then be riſen with Chriſt [through Faith, chap. 2. 12. and by newneſs of life, Rom. 6. 4, 5.] [a] ſeek thoſe things which are above, where Chriſt [now raiſed from the dead,] ſitteth on the right hand of God.

2. Set your Affections on things above, not on things on the earth.

3. For ye are dead [to Sin, Rom. 6. 6, 7, 8. and to the World, Gal. 6. 14. and from the Rudiments of it, chap. 2. 20.] [b] and your [future] Life is hid with Chriſt in God.

4. [c] When Chriſt, who is [the Author and Purchaſer of] our Life ſhall appear, then ſhall ye alſo appear with him in Glory.

5. [d] Mortifie therefore [in order to the enjoyment of this Life with God,] your Members that are upon the Earth, [i. e. your earthly, carnal Members,] Fornication, Uncleanneſs, inordinate Affection, evil Concupiſcence, and [e] Covetouſneſs, which is Idolatry.

6. For which things ſake [done by them,] the Wrath of God cometh upon [Men, as being] the Children of Diſobedience [or, upon thoſe who obey not the Commands of God, to abſtain from them.]

7. [f] In the which you [of Coloſs] alſo walked ſometimes, when ye lived in them.

8. But now alſo put off all theſe [following Vices, viz.] Anger, Wrath, Malice, Blaſphemy, [i.e. Evil ſpeaking,] [g] filthy Communication [or reproachful Words, which ariſe from Wrath,] out of your mouth.

9. [And] [h] lie not one to another, ſeeing ye have put off the old Man with his deeds. [See Note on Eph. 4 21.]

10. And have put on the new Man, which is renewed [i] in knowledge, [or by the acknowledgment of the truth, Eph. 4. 22.] after the Image of him that created him, [in righteouſneſs, and holineſs of truth, Eph. 4. 24.]

11. Where [or under which Oeconomy,] there is neither [reſpect had to any Man, as being] Greek, nor Jew, [of the] Circumciſion, nor Uncircumciſion, [as being] Barbarian, Scythian, Bond, or Free, but [his belonging to] Chriſt is all in all.

12. Put on therefore, as [becometh new Creatures, and] [k] the Elect of God, [or Perſons choſen to be his Church and People,] holy and beloved [of him,] Bowels of Mercy, Kindneſs, Humbleneſs of Mind, Meekneſs, Long-ſuffering.

13. Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any Man have [ground of] quarrel againſt any, even as Chriſt [freely] forgave you [the greateſt Sins out of mere Grace and Mercy,] ſo alſo do ye [to others.]

14. And above all theſe things put on Charity, which is the bond of perfectneſs, [i. e. the moſt perfect bond of union among Chriſtians, Eph. 4. 15, 16. the end, and the perfection of the Commandment, 1 Tit. 1. 5. that which fulfils the reſt, Rom. 13. 8. Gal. 5. 14. And that which renders us perfect, and unblameable in Holineſs before God, 1 Theſſ. 2. 12, 13.]

15. And let the Peace of God, rule [or be the Umpire] in your hearts to which you are called in one Body, [by being all made Members of one Body, Eph. 4. 4.] [l] and be ye thankful [unto him that hath called you to peace, 1 Cor. 7. 15.

16. [m] Let the word of Chriſt dwell in you richly, in all wiſdom, [ſo that you may be employed in your Aſſemblies by virtue of this gift of wiſdom, in] teaching and admoniſhing one another, in Pſalms and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, [n] ſinging with grace in your Hearts to the Lord.

17. And whatſoever you do in word or deed, do all [o] in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, giving thanks to God, and [or, who is] [p] the Father by him.

18. Wives ſubmit your ſelves, [or be ſubject] to your own Husbands, [in the offices belonging to that relation,] as it is fit [for them to do that are] in the Lord, [that the name of the Lord may not be blaſphemed by your pretending a Chriſtian liberty from the obſervances of the Duty of a Wife, Tit. 2. 5. But that by your greater exactneſs in it, you may commend Chriſtianity to others, 1 Pet. 3. 5. [or, in obedience to the Lord requiring this ſubmiſſion, Eph. 6. 6.]

19. Husbands [q] love your Wives, and be not [r] bitter againſt them, [in the aſperity of words, the ſeverity of your actions, to the alienations of your affections from them.]

20. Children obey your Parents in all [lawful] things, for this is well pleaſing to the Lord, [And in all things to which the power of the Parent reaches; for if he commands him not to marry, when he cannot contain, or to marry one he cannot love, he exceeds his Paternal Authority.]

21. Fathers [whoſe names ſpeak clemency and kindneſs,] provoke not your Children to anger, [irritate them not with ſowerneſs, and hard uſage, immoderate, or undeſerved ſtripes,] leſt they be diſcouraged, [i. e. deſpair of pleaſing you.]

22. [s] Servants obey in all [lawful] things [thoſe who are] your Maſters according to the Fleſh, not only [as thoſe who do buſineſs] with eye-ſervice, as [being] Men-pleaſers, but but in ſingleneſs of heart, [as perſons] fearing God. [See the Reaſon of this Precept, Note on v. 25.]

23. And whatſoever you do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto Men, [having reſpect to his glory, and his recompence.] [See the Notes on Eph.6. from *v.*1. to v. 9.]

24. t Knowing that of the Lord you ſhall receive the reward of the Inheritance, for ye ſerve the Lord Chriſt. t

25. But he [of you] that doth wrong [to his Maſter,] ſhall receive [of the Lord puniſhment] for the wrong which he hath done, and [ἐν, for] there is no u reſpect of Perſons with him. u

a Verſe 1, 2. Τὰ ἄνω ζητεῖτε, v. 1. φρονεῖτε, v. 2.] Theſe Phraſes ſeem to import, (1.) That we ſhould put the higheſt eſtimate and value on things above. (2) That we ſhould have them fixed on our Spirits, and familiarly occurring to our Thoughts by fervent Meditations, and ſerious Reflections on them. (3.) That we ſhould have our Wills inclined to them, and our Affections poſſeſs'd with frequent Love, and paſſionate Deſires of them; for φρονεῖν is, ſaith Phavorinus, λογίζεσθαι, ἐνθυμεῖσθαι, σέβειν καὶ ἀποδέχεσθαι. (4.) That we ſhould employ our Faculties and Members in purſuit of them with diligence and conſtancy; for ζητεῖν is niti, curare, ſummo ſtudio quærere, as ζητῶ ποιῆσαι, in Demoſthenes, ζητῶ ἀφελεῖσθαι, niter auferre. Plutarch, ζητεῖν δὲ πολυπραγμονεῖν. Schol. Ariſtoph. p. 289.

b Ver. 3. Ἡ ζωὴ ὑμῶν ἐν τῷ Θεῷ.] i. e. Your true Life, which conſiſts in fruition of God, and which you ſhall live for ever with him, is hid with Chriſt, who is now removed from your ſight, and placed at the right hand of God; for it doth not yet appear what we ſhall be, 1 John 3. 2.

c Ver.4. Note, Hence we learn that Chriſtians are not to expect to Reign with Chriſt on Earth a thouſand Years, becauſe they are not to mind or ſeek, τὰ ἐπὶ γῆς, the things upon Earth, but only thoſe above, where Chriſt ſitteth at the right hand of God. Whereas, were this Life on Earth a Bleſſing and Reward which God had promiſed to them for their Sufferings, they might mind it, and ſet their Affection on it; as alſo from all thoſe places where the Hope, Reward, Inheritance of Chriſtians, is ſaid to be reſerved in the Heavens, for them; for, as Oecumenius notes, εἰ ἐν οὐρανοῖς ἡ κληρονομία, μυθώδης ἡ χιλιόετης ἀποκατάστασις, if our Inheritance be in Heaven, the ſuppoſed Millennium on Earth muſt be but a Fable; Great is your Reward in Heaven, ſaith Chriſt to the Chriſtian Sufferer, Mat. 5. 12. Luke 6. 23. Your hope is laid up for you in Heaven, Coloſſ. 1. 5. See 1 Pet. 1. 4.

d Ver. 5. Νεκρώσατε οὖν, Mortifie therefore your earthly Members.] There being in us naturally the old Man, v. 9. Eph. 4. 22. and the Body of Sin; the inordinate Affections and Luſtings of it, are ſtiled the Members of that Body; partly becauſe they exert themſelves by the Members of the Natural Body; and partly, becauſe, as the Members of the Body are employed to fulfil, and accompliſh the Deſires of the Natural Body, ſo theſe Affections are employed to gratifie the Deſires of the Body of Sin; theſe Members are ſtiled earthly Members, becauſe they reſpect only earthly things; they fix our Hearts upon, and employ our Minds about them; to mortifie them is to reſiſt, and to ſuppreſs their Motions that we do not obey them, or gratifie them in their inordinate Deſires and Affections, but carefully ſhun all the occaſions of ſin, and uſe thoſe means which tend to the ſubduing of it. And this Exhortation being directed to Believers ſhews, that as they are by Profeſſion, and by Baptiſmal Obligation, dead to Sin, ſo have they continual need to proceed in the Practice of this Duty, that they be not overcome by the deceitfulneſs of Sin, by their fleſhly Luſts, which tend to Fornication and Uncleanneſs; their Deſires of Worldly Honours, and Vain-Glory, which are evil Concupiſcences, and by the inordinate Love of the World, which is ſtiled Covetouſneſs.

Ibid. Ἥτις ἐστὶν εἰδωλολατρεία, Covetouſneſs, which is Idolatry.] Becauſe as Heathens place their Confidence in Idols, even ſo the avaricious Man doth place his Confidence in Gold and Silver, which are the Matter of their Idols, he chiefly doth purſue them, and for their ſakes only doth other Matters. And that ſuch Actions do partake of the true Nature of Idolatry, Reaſon as well as Scripture will evince; for Reaſon ſhews, that Love, Hope, Truſt, Obedience, are parts of that internal Worſhip which we owe to God in the moſt excellent degrees, and which he more regards than building Temples, or erecting Altars, the bending of the Knee or Body, or any Act of outward Worſhip, and therefore in thoſe Acts doth more eſpecially conſiſt God's Worſhip; wherefore he that confers them upon any Creature in that degree, or in thoſe Actions in which they only ought to be aſcribed to God, muſt be as truly an Idolater, as he that payeth to a e Creature, any outward Act of Religious and Divine Worſhip; and as the Covetous Perſon, tho' he doth not indeed believe his Riches or his Money to be a God, yet by ſo loving, and ſo truſting in them, as God only ought to be loved, and truſted in, he is as truly guilty of Idolatry, as if he ſo believ'd. So tho' the Roman Catholicks do not believe their Saints and Angels to be God, yet by addreſſing to them even (a) mental Prayers, and giving to them the inward Worſhip of the Soul, which, as St. (b) Auſtin well obſerves, The Catholick Church always reſerved to God, they are as guilty of Idolatry, as if they did believe them to be Gods, ſince thereby they aſcribe to them the knowledge of the Heart, and of the inward Motions of the Soul, which only doth belong to God.

f Ver. 7. The Coloſſians dwelling in Phrygia celebrated the Sacra of (c) Bacchus, and of the Mother of the Gods, called therefore Phrygia Mater, and doubtleſs complied with all the Luxury of Aſia Minor, of which they were a part.

g Ver. 8. Αἰσχρολογίαν, Filthy Communication.] This is uſually referr'd to obſcene and impure words. But Heſychius, Phavorinus, and J. Pollux, l. 2. c. 4. have informed us, that the word ſignifies reproachful Words, ſuch as tend to put a Man to ſhame; and to this ſenſe the words preceding make it moſt proper to refer it, Wrath, Anger, Malice, or evil Machinations of the Heart, being the inward Diſpoſitions which render us diſaffected to, and prone to do evil to others; Railing, and opprobrious Speeches, which tend to render our Brother infamous to others, being the uſual Effects of theſe evil Diſpoſitions.

h Ver. 9. Hence it appears, that to be addicted to Lying, is an Evidence that we have not yet put off the Old Man.

i Ver. 10. Εἰς ἐπίγνωσιν, In Knowledge.] The Chriſtian Faith being the knowledge of the truth which is after godlineſs, Tit. 1. 1. it being that by which we eſcape the pollutions of the world thro' luſt, 2 Pet. 2. 20. and recover out of the ſnare of Satan, 2 Tim. 2. 25, 26. that by which we have all things given us which appertain to life and godlineſs, 2 Pet. 1. 3. and that, ſaith the Apoſtle here, by which we are enabled to walk worthy of the Lord unto all well-pleaſing, being fruitful in every good work, and increaſing in them, as we increaſe εἰς ἐπίγνωσιν τοῦ Θεοῦ, in the knowledge of God; The being renewed in this knowledge, may well import our being renewed in righteouſneſs and true holineſs, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Eph. 4. 24. eſpecially if we conſider, that whilſt the Judgment ſtill continues to approve the things which are moſt excellent, the Will ſtill chuſes, and the inferiour Faculties will be employ'd in proſecution of them.

Ver. 12. Ὡς ἐκλεκτοὶ τοῦ Θεοῦ, As the Elect of God.] That the Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of any abſolute Election of ſome particular Perſons to Eternal Life, but of their being choſen out of the Heathen World to be his Church and People, is evident, becauſe he ſpeaks to the Church in general; and yet to theſe Elect he promiſeth the Bleſſings of Chriſtianity, only if they continue in the Faith rooted and grounded, and be not moved away from the hope of the Goſpel, chap. 1. 23. chap. 2. 2, 4, 18. expreſſing his care and fear, leſt they ſhould be deceived, and robb'd of their Rewards. k

Ver. 15. Βραβεύετω, Rule.] Μεσιτεύετω ἰθυνέτω, ſaith Phavorinus, i. e. Let that peaceable Diſpoſition, which God requires from all Chriſtians, be the Umpire and Director to compoſe all Differences among you, for Peace hath God for its Author. He hath called us to it, he hath made us all one Body, and nothing is more unſeemly or pernicious, than that the Members ſhould be at diſcord with each other. In (d) Joſephus it ſignifies, Let him have the chief place; thus of Jehoſaphat he ſaith, he did, βραβεύειν, ἅπασι ἴσοις, excel, as being equal to them all. l

Ver. 16. Ὁ λόγος τοῦ χριστοῦ, The Word of Chriſt.] The Word dictated by the Holy Spirit is therefore the Word of Chriſt, becauſe the Spirit is the Spirit of Chriſt, 1 Pet. 1. 11. as proceeding both from the Father, and the Son. m of which one is the Word of Wiſdom; and this Expoſition is confirmed by the parallel place, Eph. 5. 18, 19. Be ye filled with the Spirit, ſpeaking to one another in Pſalms and Hymns and Spiritual Songs. Now theſe Gifts being chiefly exerciſed in their Aſſemblies, where eſpecially they did ψάλλειν τῷ πνεύματι, ſing in the Spirit, 1 Cor. 14. 15, 16. and every one had his Pſalm, and his διδαχὴ, Doctrine, v. 26. I conceive theſe Spiritual Songs, in which they were to teach, and to admoniſh one another, may refer chiefly to their Aſſemblies, then managed by their Prophets, in which they met together for that end. So Pliny doth inform us, that the Chriſtians uſed to meet together on a certain Day, Carmenque Chriſto quaſi Deo dicere ſecum invicem, and ſing an Hymn to Chriſt as God. Lib. 10. Ep. 97.

But 'tis eſpecially to be noted, that all the Greek Interpreters here obſerve, that this is ſpoken againſt the Worſhip of Angels, or Dæmons, which the Philoſophers, and eſpecially the Platoniſts, had introduced, as thinking them the Perſons who carried up all our Prayers and Praiſes to God, and conveyed down all his Bleſſings to us. Becauſe they, ſaith Theodoret, commanded us to worſhip Angels; he on the contrary commands us to adorn all our Words and Actions with the Memory of our Lord Chriſt, and to offer up our (e) *Thankſgivings by him to God the Father, and not by the Angels. him. Now, ſaith Chriſt, thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him only ſhalt thou ſerve, Mat. 4. 10. and God alone is worthy of Religious Invocation from all Chriſtians, as being only Omniſcient, Omnipreſent, and the Searcher of all Hearts, Chriſt therefore muſt be truly God. Moreover, the Apoſtle reckons it part of the Idolatry of the Heathen, that they ſerved or paid Religious Worſhip to them which by Nature were no Gods, Gal. 4. 8. The Socinians therefore either muſt confeſs Chriſt is by Nature, as well as by Office, God, or elſe acknowledge that they are guilty of Idolatry, in giving this Religious Worſhip to him.

u Ver. 25. Προσωποληψία, Reſpect of Perſons.] Chriſt in judging Men at the laſt Day, will have no reſpect to the Quality, or external Condition of any Man's Perſon; but whether he be bond or free, he ſhall receive recompence for the good that he hath done in obedience to him; whether he be Maſter or Servant, he ſhall be puniſhed for the wrong that he doth in thoſe relations. It being certain from the Second Chapter, that the Judaizers were got into the Church of Coloſs; and that many of them denied that the Jews ought to be Servants to any, and the Eſſenes judging all Servitude unlawful; [See Note on 1 Pet. 2. 15. 1 Tim. 6. 1, 2.] This might be the Reaſon why here, and Titus 2. the Apoſtle is ſo large in charging this Duty upon Servants.

a Verse 1. Τὸ δίκαιον, What is just and equal.] Hence it is evident, that Justice is to be observed towards Servants, and that there be Offices of Humanity and Charity due to them: As, (1.) That we do not look upon them as vile Persons, but as Partakers of the same Grace and Nature with us; and so not only as Servants, but as Brethren, Philem. 16. (2.) That we do not always punish all their Miscarriages, but sometimes do remit the Punishments which in Anger we threatned to inflict, Eph. 6. 9. (3.) That we do not make them serve with rigour, ἐ κατ]αλεγεῖς αὐτὸν ἐν τῷ μόχθῳ, Thou shalt not oppress, afflict, or wear him out with Labour, but shalt fear the Lord, Lev. 25. 43. (4.) That we permit them to plead their Cause, and to defend their Right, provided they do it with humility, not contradicting or speaking against the Commands of their Masters, Tit. 2. 9. If I did despise the Cause of my Man-servant, or Maid-servant, when they contended with me, what then shall I do when God riseth up, and when he visiteth, what shall I answer him? Job 31. 13, 14. (5.) That to well deserving Servants we give something even above their Wages, and after a long and profitable Service, we do not suffer them to go empty from us: When thou sendest him out from thee, thou shalt not let him go away empty; thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy Flock; and out of thy Floor, and out of thy Wine-press, of that wherewith the Lord thy God hath blessed thee, thou shalt give unto him, Deut. 15. 13, 14. These things the Lord commanded under the Old Testament, because their Servants were his Servants also, redeemed by him out of Egypt, Lev. 25. 15. Deut. 15. 15. And therefore they seem as strongly to oblige under that Oeconomy where we are all the Servants of Christ, our common Lord, and redeemed by his precious Blood, Eph. 6. 6. 1 Cor. 7. 22, 23.

b Ver. 3. Προσευχόμενοι ἅμα καὶ ἡμῶν, Praying for us.] That this Apostle who so passionately writes to Christians, desiring that they would strive together with him in their Prayers to God, Rom. 15. 30, 31. That they would always with all perseverance pray for him; that they would continue in Prayer, that God would open to him a door of utterance to speak the mystery of Christ, Eph. 6. 18, 19. Col. 4. 2, 3. and that he might be delivered from unreasonable and wicked Men, 1 Thess. 5. 25. 2 Thess. 3. 1, 2. should never pray to the Virgin Mary, and to Angels, or to Saints departed, for any of these things, is an Evidence that he approved not of those Prayers.

c Ver. 6. Ἐν χάριτι, With Grace.] i. e. With sweetness and courteousness, saith Theodoret, that it may be acceptable to the Hearers, ἵνα αὐτοὺς καταφιλοφρονουμένους ἐργάζητο, that it may render you gracious to, and favoured by them; so Theophylact; seasoned with Salt; Salt is the Symbol of Wisdom, and in this sense the word is used, Mat. 5. 13. Mark 9. 15. Have, saith Theodoret, σύνεσιν πνευματικὴν, spiritual Wisdom, that ye may know, &c.

d Ver. 7. Τυχικὸς.] That this Epistle was written at the same time with that to the Ephesians, is pleaded from this, that it was sent by the same Person Tychicus, with the very same words contained in this, and the following Verse, Eph. 6. 21, 22.

e Ver. 9. Onesimus.] Of whom St. Jerom saith, we read, that of a Servant he was made a Deacon.

f Ver. 10. Μάρκῳ.] It seems evident hence, that St. Paul's Displeasure against him, mentioned Acts 15. 38. lasted not long; for he desires Timothy to bring him with him, as being profitable to him for the Ministry, 2 Tim. 4. 11. and stiles him his Fellow-Labourer, Philem. 24.

g Ver. 12. Ἐπαφρᾶς.] That Epaphras was about this time Prisoner at Rome, is concluded very probably from Philemon 23. where he is stiled by St. Paul, his Fellow-Prisoner; for that the Epistle to Philemon, and this were written at the same time, may be conjectured by the naming Timothy at the beginning, and all the same Persons, save only Justus, viz. Epaphras, Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, at the end of both of them; but that he was Bishop of Colosse, is not said by any of the Greek Commentators on the place; he might have this Zeal for them mentioned in these two Verses, either as being one of them, v. 12. or as being employed in preaching the Gospel to them.

h Ver. 15. The Church which is in his House.] i. e. His Christian Houshold, for all the Brethren are mentioned before. So Theodoret, Oecumenius, St. Chryſoſtom, and Theophylact note, that ἡ ὅλον πάντα πιστὸς εἶχεν, ὥστε καὶ ἐκκλησίαν καλεῖσθαι, He had made his whole Family Chriſtians, ſo as to be called a Church.

i Ver. 16. Καὶ τὴν ἐκ Λαοδικείας. And that from Laodicea.] Some ſay, that the Epiſtle here mentioned, as from Laodicea, was the firſt Epiſtle of St. Paul to Timothy, becauſe the Poſtſcript ſaith it was written from Laodicea; but that Subſcription is eaſily confuted, both from this Conſideration, that the firſt Epiſtle to Timothy was written two or three Years after this, (ſee the Preface to it,) and from this very Epiſtle, in which the Apoſtle mentions them of Laodicea among thoſe who had not ſeen his Face in the Fleſh, chap. 2. 1. St. Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, underſtood by it ſome Epiſtle writ by them of Laodicea to St. Paul; but the Apoſtle doth not ſay, read the Epiſtle ſent to me from Laodicea; nor doth he mention one word of ſuch an Epiſtle ſent from them to him here, or elſewhere; nor is it to be doubted, but he would have anſwered their Epiſtle, had they ſent any, as he did that which the Church of Corinth ſent to him. Others underſtand this of an Epiſtle ſent by St. Paul to them, which is now loſt; but all the Ancients are not only ſilent in this matter, but ſome of them expreſly do explode this Imagination, obſerving that the Apoſtle propoſes to their reading, not τὴν πρὸς Λαοδικέας, ἀλλὰ τὴν ἐκ Λαοδικείας γενομένην, An Epiſtle writ to the Laodiceans, but only from Laodicea to be ſent to Coloſs. I therefore acquieſce in their Opinion, who underſtand this of the Epiſtle to the Epheſians, ſent by the Admonition of St. Paul, from Epheſus, the Metropolis of Laodicea ſubject to it, as the Epiſtles to the Church of Corinth, belonged to all the Churches of Achaia, 2 Cor. 1. 1. For (b) Tertullian witneſſeth, that this Epiſtle to the Epheſians was by Marcion ſtiled the Epiſtle to the Laodiceans; and the place which Marcion cites in (c) Epiphanius, as from the Epiſtle to the Laodiceans, is in the Epiſtle to the Epheſians, chap. 4, 5, 6. viz. There is one Lord, one Faith, one Baptiſm, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. Moreover, the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians, as I have ſhewed, and as Theodoret notes, was writ ſoon after that to the Epheſians, and ſent to them both by the hands of Tychicus; and there is a great reſemblance obſervable betwixt them, both in the Doctrines and Exhortations, and in the very Expreſſions, ſo that it is not to be wondred that the Apoſtle would have that Epiſtle alſo read to the Coloſſians, to let them ſee that he writ the ſame Doctrine, and gave the ſame Inſtructions to other Churches of the Saints.

Ver. 17. Ἀρχίππῳ, Archippus.] That this k Archippus ſhould be then Biſhop of Coloſs, as St. Jerom on the Epiſtle to Philemon thinks, and that St. Paul ſhould not write one Word, or ſend one Salutation to him, but ſend to the People of Coloſs to admoniſh him of his Duty, is not very credible in it ſelf, nor do the Ancients teſtifie that he bore that Character.

THE PREFACE TO THE First Epiſtle of St. PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

THAT St. Paul laid the Foundation of the Goſpel among the Theſſalonians, (a) ἀντιλεγόντων μὲν Ἰουδαίων, the Jews contradicting, and openly contending againſt it, we learn from the Hiſtory of the Acts; and this Church conſiſting, as (b) Oecumenius notes, partly of Jews, and partly of Gentiles, they were perſecuted both by the unbelieving Jews and Gentiles; the Jews exciting the Gentiles to this Perſecution, Act. 17. 5. The Apoſtle therefore writes to confirm them in the Faith, and to prevent their being ſhaken by theſe Perſecutions, informing them that it was nothing ſtrange they ſhould thus ſuffer from thoſe Jews, who had killed the Lord Jeſus, and had perſecuted both the Apoſtles, and their own Prophets, or that they ſhould ſuffer from their own Country-men, as the Jews in Judea did from theirs, chap. 2. 14.

Moreover, concerning this Epiſtle, the firſt note of the Fathers is this, (c) Theſſalonica was the Metropolis of Macedonia, whence we may certainly conclude that Philippi was not ſo.

This Epiſtle muſt be written after the Council held at Jeruſalem, *A. A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE First Epistle of St. PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. [1] Paul [the Apostle of Jesus Christ,] and Sylvanus and Timotheus, [my Fellow-labourers, write] a to the Church of the Thessalonians, [established] in [the knowledge and worship of] God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ: [Wishing] Grace be to you, and Peace from God our Father, and [from] the Lord Jesus Christ;

2. [And advertising you, that] we give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our Prayers.

3. b Remembring without ceasing your work of faith, and labour of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, [v. 10. when we appear] c in the sight of God, and [even] our Father.

4. [As] knowing Brethren, beloved [by your proficiency in these Christian Vertues,] d your election of God.

5. For our Gospel came not to you in word only, but also in [the] power [of Miracles,] and in, [or with] the [distributions of] the Holy Ghost, and in much assurance, [or full conviction both to you of the truth of our Doctrine and to us, that God hath chosen you to be his Church and People,] as you know what manner of men we were among you for your sake, [or how we were enabled by these things to give full proof of our Ministry.]

6. And ye became followers of us, and of the Lord, [in your sufferings for his sake] having received the word in much affliction, [Acts 17. 5. and yet] e with joy of the Holy Ghost.

7. So that ye were examples [of Faith and patience] to all that believe in Macedonia, and Achaia.

8. For from you sounded out the Word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, [and so they could not be ignorant of your good works,] but also in every place [the Fame of] your Faith to God-ward is spread abroad, [or hath gone forth,] so that we need not to speak any thing, [to others of the Grace of God given us towards you, Eph. 3. 7. Col. 1. 25.]

9. f For they themselves shew of us what manner of entring in we had unto you, [i.e. with what power, and assistance of the Holy Ghost we preached the Gospel to you, v. 5.] and how [thereupon] ye turned to God from Idols, to serve the living and true God.

10. And to wait for [the coming of] his Son from Heaven [to be glorified in his Saints, 2 Thess. 1. 10.] whom he [hath already] raised from the dead, even Jesus, who [by his death hath] delivered us from the wrath to come.

Annotations

a Verſe 1. Τῇ Ἐκκλησίᾳ Θεσσαλονικέων, To the Church of the Theſſalonians.] He names not the Presbyters and Deacons, ſaith Grotius, becauſe the Church was newly planted, and had not received its full form. And yet in his Note on thoſe words, Chap. 5. 12. I entreat you, Brethren, know them that labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, he ſaith, οἱ κοπιῶντες, the Labourers, are the Princes of the Aſſembly called Biſhops; οἱ προϊσάμενοι, they that are over you, are the Presbyters; but againſt this, ſee the Note there.

b Ver. 3. Ἀδιαλείπτως μνημονεύοντες, Remembring without ceaſing.] i. e. As often as we appear before God our Father, thankfully remembring your Faith, fruitful in Good Works, your love to the Saints making you laborious to promote their good, and your hope in the Lord Jeſus, v. 10. rendring you patient in all Tribulations for his ſake, chap. 5. 17. See the Note there.

c Ibid. Ἀπὸ Θεῷ Πατρὸς, From God the Father, v. 1. and before God even our Father, v. 3.] The Spirit of God vouchſafed under the Goſpel, enables us to cry Abba Father, i. e. to come to God with the aſſurance of his Fatherly Affection to us, as being now the Sons of God through Faith in Jeſus Chriſt, on which account is God our Father, or the Father of us Chriſtians, Eph. 3. 15. ſo often mentioned for their Conſolation in thoſe times of peril.

d Ver. 4. Τὴν ἐκλογὴν ὑμῶν, Your Election of God.] The Goſpel came to ſome in word only, i. e. they heard the Sound of it, but did not believe and obey it, and ſo the Word did not profit them, not being mixed with Faith in them that heard it, Heb. 4. 2. and theſe were only κλητοὶ called, but not ἐκλεκτοὶ choſen, Mat. 22. 14. To others the preaching of the Apoſtles was attended with a greater Power of Miracles, and extraordinary Effuſions of the Holy Ghoſt, prevailing on many to embrace it as the Word of God; ſo that from hence the Apoſtles had full aſſurance, that it was the good pleaſure of God to gather a Church of Believers, and faithful People there; and theſe were called the Elect, ἐκλογὴ Θεῦ, the Election of God, the Election of Grace, i. e. Men choſen to be Partakers of the Bleſſings of the Goſpel, and to be God's peculiar Church and People. For the Apoſtle doth not here ſpeak of any abſolute Election of the whole Church of the Theſſalonians to eternal Life, becauſe he could have no certain knowledge of it; or if he had, he could not have been under any juſt grounds of fear, as we find he was, leſt by ſome means the Tempter ſhould have tempted them, and his labour be in vain among them, chap. 3. 5. Moreover, the Reaſon of his Knowledge here aſſigned, viz. the Miracles, and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, with which his preaching was attended, gave him a certain knowledge that God deſigned to gather there a Church of Chriſtians; but 'twas no certain Indication of their Election to Eternal Life, ſeeing the Apoſtle informs us, that they who had taſted of theſe Powers of the World to come, and received theſe Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, might fall away, ſo as not to be renewed to Repentance, Heb. 6. 4, 5, 6. and many of the converted Jews actually did ſo afterwards.

e Ver. 6. Μετὰ χαρᾶς, With Joy of the Holy Ghoſt.] In the foregoing Verſe he lays before them the outward Teſtimonies of the Truth of Chriſtianity from the Miracles wrought, and the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt exerciſed among them; here he appeals alſo to the inward Teſtimonies they had received of it, even a ſtrong ſpiritual Joy wrought in them by the Holy Ghoſt, under the ſharpeſt Sufferings, according to thoſe words of St. Peter, If ye ſuffer for the ſake of Righteouſneſs, and be reproached for Chriſt's ſake, happy are ye, for the Spirit of Glory and of God, reſts upon you, 1 Pet. 4. 14.

f Ver. 9. Theſe words, ſaith (a) Theodoret, inſtruct us how to expound our Saviour's Words, This is Life eternal, to know thee the only true God, teaching us that he is ſo ſtiled, in oppoſition not to Jeſus Chriſt, but to Idols only.

(a) Οὐ γὰρ τῷ υἱῷ συγκείναν, ἀλλὰ πῶς ἂν ἦσι Θεοὶς, τὸν ὄντα Θεὸν, Θεὸν ζῶντα, καὶ ἀληθινὸν αὐτὸν ἀποκηρύττει.

CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. [WE need not, I say, speak any thing farther of the effectual working of God with us in our entrance in unto you;] For your selves, Brethren, know our entrance into you, that it a was not a in vain, [i. e. not without demonstration of divine assistance, chap. 1. 5.]

2. But [we had such assurance of God's call to preach to you, that] even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully entreated, as ye know, at Philippi, [Acts 16.23.] we were [still] bold in [the strength of] our God to speak unto you the Gospel of God, [though this we did] with much contention, [and opposition from the unbelieving Jews, Acts 17. 5.]

3. For our Exhortation [made to you to embrace the Gospel] was not of deceit, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile, [as are the Exhortations of the Philosophers among you, and the deceitful workers of the Jewish Nation, who endeavour to corrupt you.]

4. But as we were allowed [Gr. have been approved] of God [as Persons fit] to be put in trust with the Gospel, even so we speak [the truth sincerely,] not as pleasing Men, but [as approving our selves to that] God who trieth our Hearts, [Gal. 1. 10.]

b 5. For neither at any time used we b flattering words, as ye know, nor a Cloak of Covetousness, God is witness, [2 Cor. 2. 17.]

6. Nor of men sought we glory, [or high estimation,] neither of you, nor yet of others
c [provisions,] c when we might [not only with a fair pretence, but with just reason] have been [thus] c burthensome, as being the Apostles of Christ.

7. [I say, we sought not high esteem, or d rich provisions,] But we were d gentle [meek, and unburthensome] among you, even as a Nurse cherisheth her Children, [bearing her self the burthen of them, and giving them her milk, as we dispence to you the sincere milk of the word freely.]

8. So [and] being [thus] affectionately desirous of you [r good,] we were willing to have imparted to you, not the Gospel of e God only, but also our e own Souls [i. e. to have spent our Lives in your Service] because ye were dear to us.

9. [And of this affection you cannot well be
f ignorant,] f For ye remember, Brethren, our labour and travel; for labouring night and day, because we would not be chargeable to any of you, we preached to you [freely the] Gospel of God.

10. Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily [towards God,] and justly and unblameable we behaved our selves [whilst we conversed] among you that believe.

11. As [and likewise] you know how we exhorted, and comforted, and charged every one of you, as a Father doth his Children, [Gr. how we loved every one of you as a Father doth his Children, exhorting you to the performance of your duty, comforting you under your tribulations, and testifying,]

12. That ye would [ought to] walk g worthy of God, who hath called you to his g Kingdom and Glory.

13. For this cause also [or, and for this thing,] thank we God without ceasing, because when you received the word of God, which you heard from us, ye received it not as the word of men, [speaking from their own humane wisdom,] but, as it is in truth, the word of God h which effectually work- h eth also in you that believe [the fruits of Christian patience.]

14. For ye, Brethren [in this] became followers of the Churches of God, which in Judea are in Christ Jesus, for ye also have suffered [patiently] like things of your own Country-men, even as they have of the Jews, [their Country-men.]

15. Who both killed the Lord Jesus, and [before him] their own Prophets, and have [since] persecuted us [his Apostles,] and they please not God, and are i contrary to all i
Men, [who are not of their own Nation, or Religion.]

16. [And this they shew in] forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles, that they might be saved [by the preaching of the Gospel,] k to k fill up their sins always [i. e. which they are given up to do, to fill up the measure of their sins, which being thus disposed, and thus deserted by God, they will do;] for [the] wrath [of God] is come upon them to the uttermost.

17. But we, Brethren, being [by their impatient malice] taken from you for a short time, [Acts 17. 5, 10. and this] in presence [only,] not in Heart, endeavoured the more abundantly to see your face [again] with great desire.

18. Wherefore we would have come to you [even I Paul,] once and again, but l Sa- l tan [by his Ministers still] hindred us.

19. For what is our hope, or joy, and crown of rejoycing, are not even ye [Gr. ἢ οὐχὶ καὶ ὑμεῖς, will it not among others be you also, when we stand] in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?

20. For ye are [even at present] our glory and joy.

a Verſe 1. Ὅτι κενὴ, Not vain.] I grant that the Apoſtle doth not intend to ſignifie by this Phraſe only, that his word was not ineffectual among them, but alſo to declare the reaſon why it was not ſo, to wit, becauſe it wanted not a Demonſtration of Divine Authority, and Power to confirm them in the Faith that heard it, and thoſe that preached it in their Expectations of ſucceſs, and their aſſurance that the Theſſalonians were by God deſigned to receive the Faith; as it would have been, had it come to them in word only, and not in power, and the Holy Ghoſt, and much aſſurance. For the word vain, when it is applied to God's Meſſage, ſignifies the not accompliſhing the great ends for which it was deſigned; ſo Iſa. 55. 11. The word that goeth out of my mouth ſhall not return to me in vain, but it ſhall accompliſh that which I pleaſe, and it ſhall proſper in the things whereto I ſent it: And Jer. 8. 8. How do ye ſay, we are wiſe, and the Law of the Lord is with us? No certainly, in vain made he it, the Pen of the Scribes is in vain. And Jer. 2. 30. In vain have I ſmitten your Children, they have received no correction. Our entrance therefore to you was not in vain; that is, it was not without ſuch Divine Aſſiſtance as was ſufficient to work Conviction in you, and to engage you to embrace the Truth delivered to you.

b Ver. 5. Ὁ λόγῳ κολακείας,] Here ſignifies flattering Words, or Words that are Flattery, as λόγῳ ἀκοῆς, v. 13. is the Word heard, and λόγῳ ἀληθείας, the Word which is the truth, 2 Cor. 6. 7. Col. 1. 5. and προφάσει πλεονεξίας, is a pretence to gratifie their Covetouſneſs; for that the Apoſtles never were under a Defamation, or Accuſation of theſe things, neither could the Theſſalonians know, nor was it a thing proper to call God to witneſs to; but that no ſuch Guilt could truly be charged upon them, the Theſſalonians might know, and that they inwardly deſigned no ſuch thing, God only could be witneſs, as being alone the Searcher of the Heart.

c Ver. 6. Ἐν βάρει εἶναι, Be burthenſome.] This ſeems not to refer to the Cenſures of the Church, but to the Apoſtles living at the Charge of their Converts; for he ſaith, v. 9. That he, and his Companions, laboured night and day, πρὸς τὸ μὴ ἐπιβαρῆσαι, that they might burthen none of them. So 2 Cor. 11. 9. Other Churches ſupplied my wants, ſo that in all things I have kept my ſelf, ἀβαρῆ, unburthenſome to you. And 1 Tim. 5. 16. If any Man or Woman that believeth hath Widows, let them relieve them, καὶ μὴ βαρείσθω ἡ Ἐκκλησία, and let not the Church be burth'ned with them.

Ver. 7. Ἤπιοι, Meek.] If the various Lection noted by Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, who here read νήπιοι, Children, were the Original, the ſenſe would run thus, But we, O Children, were among you as a Nurſe that cheriſheth her Children. See v. 11. d

Ver. 8. Τὰς ἑαυτῶν ψυχὰς, Our own Souls.] i. e. Our own Lives; as when Chriſt is ſaid to give, τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ, his Life a Ranſome for many, Mat. 20. 28. To lay down, τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ, his Life for the Sheep, John 10, 11, 15, 17. & 15. 13. 1 John 3. 16. And when we are bid to lay down, τὰς ψυχὰς, Our Lives for the Brethren, 1 John 3. 16. or ſaid to loſe, or gain, τὴν ψυχὴν, our Life, Luke 9. 24. John 12. 25. See Acts 20. 10. Rom. 11. 3. & 16. 4. 2 Cor. 12. 15. Philip. 2. 13. 1 Pet. 4. 19. e

Ver. 9. It is the Opinion of Dr. Hammond, that the Apoſtle here from the third to the fourth Verſe, refers to the Gnoſticks, and clears himſelf from the vile Arts they uſed, and ill Deſigns they had in promoting their Deluſions. But this Epiſtle being writ ſaith the ſame Reverend Perſon, about the Year Fifty, and whilſt Simon Magus was yet living, it cannot be proved that theſe Gnoſticks were then in being, much leſs that they ever were at Theſſalonica. f

We read in Scripture of ſome Teachers of the Law, who gave heed to Fables, 1 Tim. 1. 4, 7. and who counted gain godlineſs, chap. 6. 5. of ſome Jews who were deceitful Workers, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 22. 1 Cor. 4. 2. and had their πανουργίαι, Subtilties, 2 Cor. 11. 3. and who were given to uncleanneſs, Rom. 2. 22. and taught unclean Doctrines, 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17. 8. Chap. 6. 13—19. 2 Cor. 12. 21. See the Note there. And it is likely the Apoſtle might in theſe words reſpect thoſe Deceivers.

Or we may refer theſe things to the Philoſophers of thoſe times, who did συλαγωγεῖν, make a prey of Men by Philoſophy, and vain deceit, Coloſſ. 2. 8. who were ſaith the Poet in (a) Athenæus, μισηδονιεξαπάται, deceivers of young Men, and φιλοδοξοσοφοι, deſirous of vain glory, whoſe buſineſs it was (b) χαριτογωνεῖν, to ſpeak to pleaſe Men, who taught only for Stipends, or ἐργολαβίας ἕνεκεν, as g Ver. 12. Ἀξίως τοῦ Θεοῦ, worthy of God.] i.e. That you would walk, 1. So as is best pleasing to him. 2. As becomes them who are called to enjoy a glorious Kingdom. 3. As most conduceth to his Glory. And, 4. So as to resemble his imitable Perfections in your Conversation.

h Ver. 13. Ὃς ἐνεργεῖται, which effectually worketh in you.] For, saith Theodoret, Περιπτικῆς μετέσχον χάριτος ἀπολαύσαντες, καὶ προφήτευον, καὶ γλώσσαις ἐλάλουν, καὶ δυνάμεσιν ἐπετέλουν παραδόξοις, They partaking of the Prophetical Grace, both prophesied and spake with Tongues, and did great Miracles; for to those who in those times embraced the Gospel were granted χαρίσματα καὶ ἐνεργήματα, The Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghost, 1 Cor. 12. 6, 10, 11. Eph. 3. 20. So that as Satan was πνεῦμα ἐνεργοῦν, a Spirit working in the Children of Disobedience, Eph. 2. 2. and they that were possessed by him were stiled ἐνεργούμενοι; so they who had the Afflatus of the Holy Spirit found him effectually working in them, James 5. 16. And as the Antichrists, or Adversaries of the Truth, wrought lying Wonders, κατ' ἐνέργειαν τοῦ Σατανᾶ, according to the deceitful working of Satan in, and by them, 2 Thess. 2. 9, 11. so had the Christians from the Holy Spirit, their ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, miraculous Operations, by which they were enabled to confirm the Faith; and these Spiritual Gifts were to them strong Confirmations of the Faith, the Seals and Earnest of the Blessings promised, and that which did enable them not only to suffer patiently, but also to rejoyce in Tribulations, Rom. 5. 3, 4, 5. 1 Thess. 1. 6. 2 Tim. 1. 7, 8. 1 Pet. 4. 14.

i Ver. 15. Contrary to all Men.] (h) Thus Tacitus saith of them, Apud ipsos fides obstinata, misericordia in promptu, sed adversus omnes alios hostile odium: They have great fidelity and kindness towards Men of their own Nation, but as great hatred to all others. But that which the Apostle chiefly here respects, was their fond Imagination, that God would grant no Salvation to the Gentiles, upon any other Terms than their being circumcised, and obedient to the Law of Moses; Acts 15. 1. on which account they became Enemies to the Gospel, and the Preachers of it; because they offered Salvation to the Gentiles thro' Faith in Christ, without observation of their Law, Rom. 11. 28. Gal. 4. 16. Hence also note, That none are greater Enemies to the Good of Mankind, than they who do obstruct the preaching, and the propagating of the Gospel thro' the World.

k Ver. 16. Ἀναπληρῶσαι, To fill up the measure of their Sins.] Our Lord had said to them, Fill ye up the measure of your Fathers, by adding to the Murther of the Prophets, the Murther of me, and of those Prophets and Wise Men I shall send to you, Mat. 23. 32—35. that upon you of this Generation may come all the Blood shed from Abel to this present time, Luke 11. 49, 51. This Prediction, saith the Apostle, is now fulfilled, and they by fulfilling it, have filled up the measure of their Sins, and God's Wrath is so incensed against them, that it will now destroy their Church and Nation, εἰς τέλος, to the uttermost; so that it shall not be now as formerly, when they were sometimes in bondage, and again in freedom from their Enemies; sometimes were Captives, and then returned again after Seventy Years to their own Land; found God for a while angry, and anon reconciled to them; but this Wrath shall now remain upon them to the uttermost, till the times of the Gentiles are come in, Luke 21. 24. See Note on Rom. 11. 25. or εἰς τέλος, till they be consumed; so the Phrase is used often in the Old Testament, as εἰς τέλος ἀποθανώμεθα, shall we be consumed with dying? Numb. 17. 13. They fell by the Sword, εἰς τέλος, till they were consumed Jos. 8. 24. slaying them, εἰς τέλος, till they were consumed; and Chap. 10. 20. i.e. God's Wrath hath begun to fall upon them, and they will still continue under it, till they be consumed by it.

Ver. 18. Ὁ Σατανᾶς, Satan.] Hence note, That they who obstruct the progress of the Gospel, and persecute the Promoters of it, are the Ministers of Satan, and therefore bear his Name. So Chap. 3. 5. 2 Cor. 11. 15. Rev. 2. 10.

CHAPTER III.

Verſe 1. WHerefore when we could no longer forbear, [μηκέτι στέγον-τες, no longer enduring to want the certain knowledge of your affairs, tho' we had given commandment to Timothy to come quickly to us to Athens, Acts 17. 15. yet as for me, and Silas,] we thought it good to be left at Athens alone, [rather than to continue ignorant of the ſtate of your Faith, v. 5.]

2. And [therefore] ſent Timotheus our Brother [in Chriſt, Philem. 16. Heb. 13. 23.] and [the] Miniſter of God, and our Fellow-labourer in [advancing] the Goſpel of Chriſt, a to a ſtabliſh you [in,] and to comfort you concerning your Faith.

3. That [ſo] no Man ſhould [might] be moved [from his ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith] by theſe Afflictions, [and not you eſpecially,] for your ſelves know [from us,] that we [Chriſtians] are appointed thereunto, [for hereunto are we called, 1 Pet. 2. 21.]

4. For verily, when we were with you, we told you before [it came to paſs,] that we ſhould ſuffer tribulation, even as it [ſhortly after] came to paſs, [Acts 17. 5—10.] and ye know [it did ſo.]

5. For this cauſe, when I could no longer forbear, I ſent [διὰ τοῦτο κἀγὼ μηκέτι στέγων ἔπεμψα, I alſo not bearing longer the uncertainty of your affairs, have ſent] to know [the ſtedfaſtneſs of] your Faith, leſt by ſome means b the b Tempter [may] have tempted you, and [ſo] our labour [among you ſhould] be in vain.

6. But now when Timotheus came from you to us, and brought us good tidings of your Faith and Charity, and [in particular] that you have [ſtill a] good remembrance of us always, deſiring greatly to ſee us, as we alſo [do to ſee] you;

7. Therefore [διὰ τοῦτο, by this] Brethren, we were comforted over you, [ἐφ' ὑμῖν, concerning you, or in you] in all our affliction and diſtreſs, by [reaſon of] your [conſtancy in the] Faith.

Ver. 8. For c now we live [joyfully,] if c ye ſtand faſt in the Lord.

Ver. 9. d For what [ſufficient] thanks can d we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your ſakes before our God.

10. Night and day [alſo] praying exceedingly that we might ſee your Face, and might perfect that which is [yet] lacking in your Faith, [by reaſon of our very ſmall ſtay with you, Acts 17. 1—10.]

11. e Now God himſelf, and [or, who is] e our Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, direct our way unto you.

12. f And the Lord make you to increaſe, f and abound in love one towards another, and g towards all Men, even as we do [a- g bound in love] towards you.

13. To the end he may eſtabliſh your hearts unblameable in holineſs before God, h even our Father, [τῷ Θεῷ καὶ Πατρὶ ἡμῶν, our God and Father,] at the [glorious] coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, with all his Saints.

Annotations on Chap. III.

a Verſe 2. Στηρίξαι ὑμᾶς, To ſtabliſh you] In it, by conſideration of that miraculous Power, and thoſe Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt which accompanied our preaching, and your receiving of it, 1 Theſſ. 1. 5, 6. and which are ſtill exerciſed among you, chap. 5. 19, 20. to comfort you concerning it, by conſideration of the Joys of the Holy Ghoſt, which you have found already under your Afflictions, chap. 1. 6. by the Salvation you are to obtain by Chriſt, the Life you ſhall for ever live with him in Glory, chap. 4. 17, 18. chap. 5. 9, 10, 11. the eternal Reſt you ſhall have, when the Lord Jeſus Chriſt ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, and of which your Conſtancy in the Faith under theſe Sufferings will make you to be accounted worthy, 2 Theſſ. 1. 5, 6, 7, 10.

b Ver. 5. ὁ πειράζων.] Here note, 1. That the Perſecutions of the Saints are aſcribed to Satan the Tempter, who by his Miniſters endeavours to hinder the progreſs of the Goſpel, chap. 2. 18. and by their Perſecutions to terrifie Men, and ſeduce them from the Profeſſion of it. See Rev. 2. 10.

2*ly*, That πειράζειν here doth ſignifie not barely to tempt, but to ſucceed in his Temptation, for otherwiſe the labour of the Apoſtle could not be rendred vain among them. See Note on Gal. 6. 1.

3*ly*, Note, That it is hence evident that the Apoſtle did not think them ſecure, (by the election of them mentioned, chap. 1. 4.) from falling ſo, as that his Labour might have been in vain among them.

Note, 4*ly*, From Eſthius, That a faithful Perſon truly juſtified, may ſo fall from the Faith, as that it ſhall become in vain to him.

c Ver. 8. Νῦν ζῶμεν, Now we live.] Ζῆν, saith Suidas, is to live μετὰ τρυφῆς καὶ πολυτελείας, with delight and magnificence, according to that of Horace, Vivendum hodie, which is the frequent import of the Hebrew word Chajah; as in that Wish, Let the King live, 1 Sam. 10. 24. 1 Kings 1. 25. 2 Kings 11. 12. i. e. let him have a prosperous and happy Reign: And in the words of the Psalmist, Psal. 16. 11. Thou wilt shew me the way of life, in thy presence is fulness of joy, Psal. 34. 13. He that would live, i. e. see good days. So Psal. 22. 26. & 38. 19. Eccles. 6. 8. & 7. 12. Our Masters teach, saith (a) Maimonides, that the just are called living even in their death, the wicked dead while they live, because the first are happy in their death, the second miserable in their life.

d Ver. 9. Estbius observes from the Ninth Verse, that both the Apostle's Joy, and their Faith and Constancy, were the Gift of God, Nam gratiarum actio non est nisi de beneficiis acceptis: He might also have observed with others the excellent Pattern the Apostle here gives to all the Bishops and Pastors of the Church, to be continually solicitous to know of the welfare of their Flock, incessantly praying for it, blessing God daily for it, and looking upon it as the very Felicity of their own Lives.

e Ver. 11. Here the Note of Slictingius runs thus, You see that our Lord Jesus takes care of our Affairs and Actions, and therefore we deservedly invoke him in our Necessities, as the Apostle again doth, v. 12. But since this Invocation of him by all Christians, in all places, must suppose him Omniscient, Omnipresent, and the Searcher of the Heart, and these are the Properties of God alone; it also must suppose him to be truly God.

Ver. 12. Τμᾶς δὲ ὁ Κύριος πλεονάσαι καὶ περισσεύσαι.] These are Optative Aorists, which signifie transitively; μεταβατικῶς, say the Grammarians; and therefore are well rendred by our Translation, The Lord make you to increase, and make you to abound. See Note on 2 Cor. 9. 8. Ecclus. 45. 5. f

Ibid. And towards all Men.] This, saith (b) Theophylact, is the Character of Divine Love to comprehend all, whereas Humane Love hath respect to one Man, and not to another. g

Ver. 13. Ἀμέμπτους, That he may stablish your Hearts unblameable in holiness.] Hence note, That a general, and abounding Charity to all Men, being that by which we become most like to God, and that which tends to cover our own Sins, 1 Pet. 4. 8. especially if it be Charity to the Souls of Men, James 5. 20. tends to stablish our Hearts unblameable before God in Love, and to procure our acceptance with him at the Great Day of our Accounts, Mat. 25. 35, 36. h

Note also, That to establish our Hearts unblameable at Christ's coming, is so to confirm us in holy Living, that we may be found unblameable by him at that Day. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 8. 1 Thess. 5. 23. 2 Pet. 3. 14.

CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. FUrthermore then we beseech you, Brethren, and exhort you by the Lord Jesus, that as you have received of us [Directions] how ye ought to walk, and to please God, so ye would abound more and more [in your care to conform your selves to them.]

2. [In which thing you need no farther Instructions,] For ye know what [holy] Commandments we gave you a by the Lord Jesus. a

3. For [we have already told you, that] this is the Will of God, even your Sanctification, [and this Sanctification requires,] that ye should abstain from Fornication.

b 4. b [And] that every one of you should know, how [much it is your duty] to possess his [Body, which is the] Vessel [of the Holy Spirit,] in sanctification, and in honour, [i. e. free from those Lusts which are πάθη ἀτιμίας, Rom. 1. 26. Dishonourable Passions.]

c 5. Not in the lusts of concupiscence, c even as the Gentiles [do] which know not God:

d 6. That d no man go beyond [the bounds of Matrimony,] or defraud his Brother in any matter, [Gr. or exceed towards his Brother in this matter,] because the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we have also forewarned you, and testified.

7. [He is, I say, the avenger of all such Christians, as acting oppositely to their holy calling,] for God hath not called us [Christians] to uncleanness, but unto holiness.

8. He

8. He therefore that deſpiſeth [this Command,] deſpiſeth not Man [only] but God, e who hath alſo given e to us his Holy Spirit.

9. [This I thought neceſſary to ſay to warn you againſt that uncleanneſs, which ſo reigneth in the Heathen World, and to which you ſo ſtrongly were addicted, whilſt you were without the knowledge of God in the World.] But as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write [ſo fully] to you, for ye your f ſelves are f taught of God to love one another.

10. And indeed ye do it to all the Brethren which are in all Macedonia; but we beſeech you Brethren, that ye increaſe more and more [in this Chriſtian Vertue.]

g 11. And that ye ſtudy to be quiet, and g to do your own buſineſs, [not medling with other men's matters,] and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you.

12. That [ſo] ye may walk honeſtly, [εὐσχημόνως, decently, and in good behaviour] towards them that are without, and that ye h may have h lack of nothing.

13. But [eſpecially] I would not have you to be ignorant, Brethren, concerning [the ſtate of] them that are aſleep, that ye ſori row not [for them] i even as others [other Gentiles do,] which have no hope [of a Reſurrection of the Body.]

14. For if we believe that Jeſus died, and roſe again, [as the firſt fruits of them that ſlept, 1 Cor. 15. 20.] even ſo [are we to believe, that] k them alſo which ſleep in Jeſus k will God bring with him, [when he comes to judge the world, and reward all his faithful ſervants.]

15. For this we ſay unto you, [not from our ſelves, but] by the word of the Lord, that l we who are [then] alive, and remain l unto the coming of the Lord, ſhall not prevent them which are aſleep, [ſo as to receive our happy change before their Reſurrection.]

16. For the Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from Heaven with a Shout, with the Voice of the Archangel, and with the Trump of God, and [then] the Dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt.

17. Then we which are alive, and remain [on the earth,] ſhall be caught up together with them in the Clouds, to meet the Lord in the Air, and ſo ſhall we ever be m with m the Lord.

18. Wherefore comfort one another [concerning your deceaſed Friends,] with theſe words.

Annotations on Chap. IV.

a Ver. 2. Διὰ τῦ Κυρίυ, By the Lord.] Note hence, That the Inſtructions and Commandments which the Apoſtles gave to the Churches, are to be looked upon as the Commandments of the Lord, and as the Will of God, they being dictated by his Spirit, v. 8. and delivered by his Authority, who ſaid, He that heareth you, heareth me, and he that heareth me, heareth him that ſent me, Luke 10. 16.

b Ver. 4, 5. Here note, 1. That theſe Inſtructions were very neceſſary for the Theſſalonians, ἐκεῖ γὰρ πλείστη ἀταξία, καὶ ἀκαθαρσία; for there was all manner of diſorder and impurity, ſaith (a) Socrates. And (b) Athenæus informs us, ἐκ τύτων τρυφῶν, that their Luxury invited the Perſians into Greece; that it was their Cuſtom in their Banquets to bring in their (c) Wenches dancing naked, and afterwards they enjoyed them at their pleaſure.

2*ly*, Note alſo, that having mentioned Fornication, v. 3. he ſeems v. 4. & the 5th to advance to other Heatheniſh Luſts, deſiring them to keep their Veſſels in Sanctification and Honour: 1. By preſerving their Bodies from unnatural Luſts, which are by the Apoſtle ſtiled πάθη ἀτιμίας, diſhonourable Paſſions; and their Matrimonial Bed from defilement by the uſe of other Women, Heb. 13. 4. Accordingly theſe things in Scripture are expreſſed by ignominy and vileneſs; by the Septuagint by τὸ ἄσχημα, things indecorous and diſhonourable; which word the Apoſtle applies to unnatural Luſts, Rom. 1. 26. and in the Language of the Targum, and the Rabbins, they are ſtiled קלנא ignominy and vileneſs. Thus Sychem is ſaid to have wrought קלנא ſaith the Chaldee, τὸ ἄσχημον, the Septuagint, i. e. Ignominy in Iſrael, by knowing Dinah. This is the Name the Chaldee gives to the Adultery committed by the Men of Benjamin upon the Levite's Concubine, Judg. 19. 24. the Inceſt committed by Amnon, on his Siſter Thamar, 2 Sam. 13. 12. and in the (d) Rabbinical Language, to abuſe Boys בקלון is to uſe them to the ſatiſfying of unnatural Luſts.

and by whom they were allowed. For Whoredom was esteemed no Crime, (e) they taught, μὴ πάνυ παρὰ τὸ καθῆκον τοῦτο γίνεσθαι. Their (f) Orator speaks thus, Si quis est qui etiam meretriciis amoribus interdictum juventuti putet——abhorret non modo ab hujus seculi licentiâ, verum etiam à majorum consuetudine atque concessis, quando enim hoc non factum est? Quando reprehensum? Quando non permissum, quando denique fuit, ut quod licet, non liceret? (g) Epictetus advises them who cannot abstain, to use it only ὡς νομιμὸν ἔστι, as the Laws allowed it. Now that, saith (h) Plato, was τῶν ἐλευθέρων γυναικῶν μὴ ἅπτειν, not to meddle with free Women, but only Libertines and Servants, and those that sold themselves to it. And (i) Demosthenes declares of all the Grecians thus: Τὰς μὲν ἑταίρας ἡδονῆς ἕνεκα ἔχομεν, τὰς δὲ παλλακὰς τῆς καθ' ἡμέραν παλλακείας, τὰς δὲ γυναῖκας τοῦ παιδοποιεῖσθαι γνησίως.

The τὸ παρὰ φύσιν πλημμα, as Plato stiles it, obtain'd in Greece without blame, saith (k) Bardesanes; amongst the Grecians, and many Barbarians, saith (l) Plato; amongst the Cretians and Lacedemonians, saith the same Plato. How prone the Romans, and other Nations were to it, Plautus, Petronius Arbiter, Aristophanes, and (m) Athenæus sufficiently inform us, as also that it was the Sin of the Philosophers especially.

d Ver. 6. Μὴ ὑπερβαίνειν καὶ πλεονεκτεῖν, Not to go beyond or defraud.] It is the Opinion of all the Greek Scholiasts, that this Verse contains a Prohibition of Adultery, Πλεονεξίαν ἐνταῦθα τὴν μοιχείαν ἐκάλεσε, By the word πλεονεξία, he denotes Adultery, say Theodoret and Theophylact. God hath put bounds to this Appetite, say Oecumenius and Theophylact, by tying us to one Wife, ὥστε ἡ πρὸς ἑτέραν μίξις παράβασίς τις, καὶ πλεονεξία ἔστιν, so that to be familiar with another is Excess and Covetousness; and when this is done to another Man's Wife, it is to exceed to the Injury of his Brother. And as (n) St. Jerom hath observed, the words preceding, which speak of abstaining from Fornication, and keeping our Vessels in Sanctification and Honour, and not in the Lusts of Concupiscence; and the words following, which give this Reason of the Precept, that God hath not called us to Uncleanness, but to Holiness, seem also plainly to inforce this sense, which the Greek, in the Judgment of the fore-cited Fathers, will bear. For,

1. The words ὑπερβαίνειν, and ἐπιβαίνειν, bear this sense in other Authors. Thus (o) Philo speaking of unnatural Lusts committed by Men, saith, ἄνδρες ὄντες ἄῤῥητον ἐπιβαίνουσι. And (p) Plutarch saith of the Egyptians, that they call that Land which Nile ascends, mixing and engendring with it, the Body of Isis. And when Nile is thus ὑπερβαλὼν καὶ πλεονάσας, filling and ascending, they call this the joyning of Osiris with Nephthe. So the Hebrew word בוא from which Βῶ and Βάω, and from them βαίνω is derived, hath this signification, as Josh. 23. 12. If you contract Affinity with the Heathens, ובאתם בהם and go in unto them, Ἐὰν δὲ γαμίας ποιήσητε, καὶ συγκαταμιγῆτε αὐτοῖς, If you marry and mix with them, saith the Septuagint, the Lord will not drive them out. And in the Misnah הבא על אחותו is, He that reveals the Nakedness of his Sister, and may be rendred ὑπερβαίνων τὴν ἀδελφὴν αὐτοῦ.

2. The word πλεονεξία bears the same sense in that Verse, in which Venus promises to him that finds, and brings her Cupid to her, not a bare Kiss, but something more; saying, ἐὰν γυμνὸν τὸ φίλαμά τοι ξένῃς, καὶ πλέον ἕξεις. And when (q) Socrates tells Callicles pleading for those pleasures, That Men ought not to be ἀπλήστους ἀκολάστους, of unbounded Lusts, σὺ δὲ πλεονεξίαν οἶει δεῖν ἀσκεῖν, But thou, saith he, thinkest that a Man may exceed in these matters. And in the Scholiast of (r) Aristophanes these are put as words equivalent, ὑπερπαίειν, ὑπερβαίνειν, πλεονάζειν.

And whereas against this Interpretation it is objected, That the words following, viz. in any matter, being general, will not admit of this restrained sense.

I answer, That in the Greek the words are ἐν τῷ πράγματι, and may be rendred in this matter; or in the matter, viz. forementioned; or absolutely in the matter; it being observed by (s) Phavorinus and Suidas, that the word πρᾶγμα is used by the Ancients in an evil sense. And the Apostolical Constitutions complain, that the younger Widows marrying again, under pretence that e Ver. 8. Εἰς ἡμᾶς, To us.] To us Apostles, to enable us to give you these Commandments; and to us Christians, to render us the Temples of the Holy Ghost, which Temples we corrupt by our uncleanness, 1 Cor. 3. 15, 16. ch. 6. 15, 16, 17. & 11. 19. 2 Cor. 6. 16.

f Ver. 9 Θεοδίδακτοι, Taught of God.] By this new Commandment, that we love one another, 1 John 3. 11, 23. & 4. 21. Matth. 22. 39. Θεοδίδακτοι γὰρ ἡμεῖς ἐσμεν ἐκ ὄντως γράμματα παρὰ τοῦ ἁγίου τοῦ Θεοῦ παιδαγόμενοι, saith (x) Clemens of Alexandria, We are taught by God having the holy Scriptures; and by the Example of that God who loved us, and gave his Son for us, Eph. 5. 2. Hence they who are taught of God, are said to hear (his Commands, and learn (by his Example,) John 6. 45.

g Ver. 11. Τὰ ἴδια, To do your own business.] I follow here the sense of Dr. Hammond, and other Interpreters; tho' the following words to work with your own hands, seem to lead to the doing their own business themselves, and not to leave all to Slaves and Servants, as the idle and luxurious of old were wont to do. See Athenæus, l. 12.

h Ver. 12. Καὶ μηδενὸς χρείαν ἔχητε, And that ye may have lack of nothing.] i. e. From the Heathens. So the Greek Scholiasts: For, say they, if Christians, seeing a Christian beg when he is able to live by his Work, are scandalized, how much more will Heathens be so? And indeed, this was one Objection of the Heathens against Christians, that they were (y) infructuosi in negotiis, useless Creatures. The Apostle therefore doth exhort them so to provide for their Necessities by their honest Labour, that they may not need the help of Infidels, and never may be forced by their Wants to ask it of them.

i Ver. 13. Καθὼς οἱ λοιποὶ, As do others.] Tho' many Heathens believed the Immortality of the Soul, none of them had any expectation of the Resurrection of the Body. This the Philosophers, who stiled the Body the Prison of the Soul, and thought it the great hindrance of Knowledge and of Vertue, represented as a very despicable thing, (z) τὸ σφόδρα μιαρὸν, καὶ ἀποπλυσον ἅμα καὶ ἀδύνατον. So Celsus; 'Tis vile, saith he, abominable and impossible, σκωλήκων ἢ ἐλπὶς, a hope fitter for Worms than Men. And he confutes the possibility of it, not only from the repugnancy of the thing to Nature, but also from the vileness of it, declaring God therefore cannot do it. (a) because as he will not do what is against Nature, so he cannot do what is vile. Plotinus saith, that such a Resurrection would only be ἀνάστασις εἰς ἄλλον ὕπνον, a Resurrection to another Sleep. And all the other Heathens held it a thing impossible, and without Example, and therefore made it matter of their sport; It being, saith Origen, μυθικὸν γελώμενον ὑπὸ τῶν ἀπίστων. See Justin M. Apol. 2. p. 57. C. D. Theophilus ad Autol. l. p. 77. D. Minuc. p. 11. Arnob. l. 2. p. 51. Lact. l. 7. c. 22.

Ver. 14. Τοὺς κοιμηθέντας διὰ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, Those that sleep in, or thro' Jesus.] That the Martyrs are not here excluded, is certain; but I see no reason to grant, that this Expression should peculiarly respect them. All the Greek Scholiasts interpret the words generally; Chrysostom and Theophylact say, That they who sleep in Jesus are the Faithful in general: Oecumenius, Those that sleep in the Faith of Jesus. The Apostle treating of this Subject, calls all the Dead, τοὺς κοιμηθέντας ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ, those that sleep in Christ, 1 Cor. 15. 18. and the Context here requires this sense; for the Apostle speaks, v. 13. of them that sleep in general, and of the hope of the Resurrection in the general. And when Christ comes to Judgment, he will not bring the Martyrs only, but all the faithful with him. See v. 15, 16. where the same Persons are the Dead with Christ. k

Ver. 15. Ἡμεῖς οἱ ζῶντες, We who are alive.] 'Tis well observ'd by the Greek Scholiasts, that the Apostle speaks these words, οὐκ ὑπὲρ ἑαυτοῦ προσώπου, ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ τῶν κατ' ἐκεῖνον τὸν καιρὸν ἀθανάτων ἀνθρώπων, not of himself, but of the Christians that were to remain alive at the Day of Judgment: So Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact; for he well knew he was not personally to live till the Resurrection; yea, he himself expected a Resurrection; saying to the Corinthians, He that raised up the Lord Jesus, shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you, 2 Cor. 4. 14. He laboured, that he might attain to the Resurrection of the dead, Philip. 3. 11. Yet there are some Divines who from this, and some other places in the Epistles, conceive that the Apostles sometimes thought, and declared to other Christians, that they themselves might live until the Resurrection; and that St. Paul afterward changed this k Opinion, and admonished the Thessalonians of it, 2 Thess. 2. This I conceive to be a dangerous mistake, and highly prejudicial to the Christian Faith, and the Authority of the Apostles; for if the Churches of Christ had once received this Doctrine from them, and afterwards had understood, even from their own Confession, that it was a mistake, this would have naturally led them to conceive, that they might have been mistaken also in any other Doctrine contained in their Epistles, and to suspect the Certainty and Truth of all that was contained in them. And this the Apostle seemeth to insinuate in these words, 2 Thess. 2. 1, 2. I beseech you, Brethren, that you be not soon shaken in mind, or troubled either by word, or letter, as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand: For these words seem plainly to import, that in the Apostle's own Judgment, the belief that the Apostles had taught by Word, or by Epistle, this Doctrine, would tend to the unsetling of their Minds in the Faith.

Opinion,

But that St. Paul taught no such Doctrine in any of his Epistles to the Thessalonians, will be exceeding evident,

1. From the following words in that Chapter: For there, saith he, v. 3. Let no man deceive you by any means; declaring them Deceivers, who either taught this Doctrine, or imposed it on them, as spoken or indited by them; there also having said in opposition to that vain imagination, that Day was not to come till there was a falling away first, and the man of sin was revealed; He adds, Remember you not that when I was yet with you, I told you these things, v. 5. He therefore had taught them the contrary, before he had indited either of these Epistles, and therefore in them cannot rationally be supposed to contradict himself.

2*ly*, From the very words used for proof of this Opinion; for they are introduced with this Solemnity, This we say unto you by the Word of the Lord, that we that are alive; in which words he most plainly voucheth the Authority of Christ Jesus for the truth of what he saith; and therefore if he were mistaken, either our Lord himself must err with him, or the Apostle must vouch Christ's Word, and his Authority, when Christ had spoken no such Word, and given him no Authority to speak this Doctrine in his Name; both which Assertions overthrow the certainty and truth of all St. Paul's Epistles. Now hence it follows, that the Apostle could not deliver this Assertion in any other of his Epistles; for all the Learned do agree in this, that these Epistles to the Thessalonians were the first Epistles St. Paul wrote; whence it must follow, that he could not deliver in his following Writings to that Church, or any other Churches, that Doctrine which he had so industriously before confuted, and declared very dangerous, in his Epistle to the Church of Thessalonica.

The truth seems therefore to be this: That as our Lord had told them, it was not for them to know the Times, and Seasons, Acts 1. 7. so were they left still in the dark, touching the time of the General Judgment; and therefore they continually speak of it as a Day that was to come upon Men, as a Thief in the Night, Ipsis insciis, as here, Chap. 5. 1. They perhaps did not know the contrary, but it might happen in an Age or two; but they say nothing at any time dogmatically, but only ἐνδοιαστως, and disjunctly, if we shall be found cloathed, and not naked; and here, Chap. 5. 10. Whether we sleep or wake. Nor are these Sayings to be taken personally, as meant of the Apostles, but rather as spoken by them in the Person of Christians in the general, some of which would be then surviving.

Ver. 17. Σὺν Κυρίῳ, With the Lord.] From which words it may be probably collected, that even the Souls of the Faithful were not ever with the Lord, or in his Cœlestial Presence, before the Resurrection. m

CHAPTER V.

Verse 1. a But of the [exact] times, and [critical] Seasons, Brethren, [when the coming of the Lord shall happen] you have no need that I should write unto you. a

2. For [you] your selves know perfectly, [from what I taught when present with you,] that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night, [of the time of whose coming the master of the house can have no certain knowledge, Matth. 24. 42, 43. & 25. 13. Mark. 13. 33. Luke 12. 39, 40. & 21. 36.]

3. b For when they [they of the Jewish Nation then, and the wicked at the great day of wrath,] shall say peace and safety, [expecting no such thing as wrath and judgment,] then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child, and they shall not escape [it.] b

4. But ye, Brethren, are not [as formerly] in [a ſtate of] darkneſs, that that day ſhould overtake you as a Thief, [or come upon you unexpected, or unprepared for it.]

5. Ye are all [by virtue of your faith, and knowledge, and your profeſſion of Chriſtianity,] the Children of light, [as having the light and believing in it, John 12. 36. Eph. 5. 8.] and the children of the day [of Grace, Rom. 13. 12, 13. and of Salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2.] we are not of the night, nor of darkneſs, [as the Jewiſh Nation at preſent is, upon whom the darkneſs is come, John 12. 35. and who are caſt out into utter darkneſs; See Note on Matth. 8. 12. and as the Heathens always were; See Note on Rom. 13. 12.]

6. Therefore let us not ſleep as do others, [ſecurely in their ſin, without expecting Judgment, or preparing for it, Matth. 28. 38. Luke 17. 26—30.] but let us watch, and be ſober, [that that day do not come upon us unawares, nor finding us overcharged with ſurfeiting and drunkenneſs, Luke 21. 34, 36. this being only proper to them who are of the night.]

7. For they that ſleep, ſleep in the night, c and they that are drunken [c] are drunken in the night.

8. But let us, who are [Children] of the day be ſober, [and vigilant, 1 Pet. 4. 7. & d 5. 8.] putting on the [d] breaſt-plate of faith and love, [that firm aſſurance of faith, which will not ſuffer us to doubt of the Divine aſſiſtance, and that love which caſts out fear of any thing we may ſuffer for the Cauſe of Chriſt,] and for an helmet [to your head,] the hope of ſalvation.

9. [Which hope of ſalvation we Chriſtians have,] for God hath not appointed us unto wrath, [as he hath done the Heathen World, who are Children of wrath, Eph. 2. 3. and the unbelieving Jews, who are veſſels of wrath fitted for deſtruction, Rom. 9. 22. and upon whom wrath is coming to the end, 1 Theſſ. 2. 16.] but to obtain ſalvation through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

10. Who died for us, that whether we e [e] wake or ſleep, [i. e. whether he come in the night, and ſo find us taking our natural reſt; or in the day, when we are waking,] we may live together with him, [when he comes.]

11. Wherefore comfort your ſelves toge-f ther [with this hope,] and [f] edifie one another, even as alſo you do.

12. And we beſeech you Brethren, to know [and reverence] them which labour among you, and [g] are over you in the Lord, g and admoniſh you.

13. And to eſteem them very highly in love for their work's ſake, and be at peace among your ſelves.

14. Now [παρακαλοῦμεν δὲ, and] we exhort you, Brethren, warn them that are unruly, [as walking not according to the Doctrine they have received from us, 2 Theſſ. 3. 6, 14.] comfort the feeble-minded, [who are of a wounded ſpirit under afflictions, ὀλιγόψυχοι, Prov. 18. 14. that are of a fearful ſpirit under them, Iſa. 35. 4. of a grieved ſpirit, Iſa. 54. 6. whoſe ſpirit fails under them, Iſa. 57. 16. whoſe hands hang down, and whoſe knees are feeble, Heb. 12. 12.] ſupport the weak [in faith, who are ſoon ſcandalized, and apt to periſh by it, Rom. 14. 1, 2, 21. 1 Cor. 8. 7. & 9. 10, 11, 12.] be patient toward all men.

15. See that none render evil for evil unto any man, [whatever the provocation may be, Rom. 12. 27.] but ever follow that which is good, both among your ſelves, and to all Men, [even them that hate you, Matth. 5. 44.

16. [h] Rejoice evermore. h

17. Pray [i] without ceaſing. i

18. [k] In every thing give thanks, for this k is the will of God in Chriſt Jeſus concerning you.

19. [l] Quench not the Spirit. l

20. [m] Deſpiſe not Propheſies. m

21. [n] Prove all things [by the Spirit of Diſcretion which is in the Church, and the conſonancy of their pretended Propheſies and Interpretations, with what we have delivered to you, and then hold faſt that which is good;] n

22. [And] [o] abſtain from all appearance of o evil.

24. [q] Faithful is he who calleth you [to q this holineſs,] who alſo will do [his part towards] it.

25. Brethren, pray for us. [See Note on Coloſſ. 4. 4.]

26 Greet all the Brethren with an holy kiſs.

27. [r] I charge you by the Lord, that this r
Epiſtle be read to all the holy Brethren.

28. The Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you. Amen.

Annotations on Chap. V.

a Verse 1, 2. THat all this to the 12th Verse, doth evidently belong only to the destruction of the persecuting Jews and Gnosticks, at the time of Christ's coming to destroy the Jewish Church and Nation, is confidently asserted by a Reverend and Learned Commentator on this place, but is not once hinted by the Ancients, who all interpret these words περὶ τ κοινῆς σωτηρίας of Christ's general Advent. Nor do his Arguments prove his Assertion. For,

Arg. 1. First, Whereas he saith ἡμέρα Χριστοῦ, the day of Christ, here mentioned, is without question the same which is so often called the coming of Christ for the destroying of the Enemies of Christianity.

Answ. 'Tis certain that this day of Christ in the Epistles, doth almost generally signifie the Day of our Lord's coming to the final Judgment; as in the following words; He shall confirm you to the end, that you may be blameless in the Day of our Lord Jesus Christ, 1 Cor. 1. 8. That the spirit may be saved in the Day of the Lord Jesus Christ, 1 Cor. 5. 5. You are our rejoycing in the Day of the Lord Jesus, 2 Cor. 1. 14. He that hath begun a good work in you, shall perfect it to the Day of the Lord Jesus, Philip. 1. 6. That ye may be sincere, and blameless, until the Day of Jesus Christ, v. 10. That I may rejoice in the Day of Christ, Philip. 2. 16. See 2 Tim. 1. 12, 18. & 4. 8.

Arg. 2. Secondly, whereas he adds, That this cannot belong to the last coming of Christ to Judgment, because the Apostle had made that the subject of his former Discourse, Chap. 4. and enters upon this as a distinct matter, with a περὶ δὲ, &c.

Answ. It is granted that the time when this Judgment shall be, is a distinct matter from the Judgment it self, which is all that this Argument proves.

Arg. 3. Thirdly, Whereas he argues this from the end of this Discourse, which is to comfort the Christians which were under Persecution, and give them Patience and Constancy, for which this was a fit Consideration, that this Judgment of God would come suddenly, and when it was least expected, and so would surprize them if they were not watchful, all which belong'd peculiarly to this doom upon the Jews, and not to the General Judgment which those who then lived were not concerned in.

Answ. First, It is certain that the Apostle, both in this Epistle, Chap. 4. 18. and in his other Epistle, Chap. 1. doth comfort his Thessalonians under their Persecutions from the Consideration of Christ's coming to reward them at the Day of Judgment.

Secondly, It is also certain, that Christ, and his Apostles, exhort Christians to be watchful, that they may not be surprized at the Day of Judgment; so doth Christ Matth. 25. 13. Luke 12. 35=40. so doth St. Paul, 2 Cor. 5. 9, 10. So doth St. Peter, 2 Pet. 3. 11, 12, 14. as being that which all Men, who must die, and after that be judged according to what they have done in the flesh, must be as well concerned to prepare for by watchfulness, as if it were to come while they were living, and upon this account it is that the Apostle in this Chapter, v. 23. and in the forecited places, prays so oft that Christians may be confirm'd, and kept blameless to the Day of the Lord Jesus.

Let it be then observed, That the Apostle had spoken, Chap. 1. 10. of their waiting for the coming of the Lord from Heaven, Chap. 3. 13. Of his coming with all his Saints, Ch. 4. 16. Of his coming with the voice of the Archangel, and of the Trump of God. He had also hinted, Chap. 2. 16. that the unbelieving Jews were, by their opposition to the Gospel preached to the Gentiles, and by their Persecutions of them who had embraced it, filling up the measure of their sins, and drawing down that Day of Wrath upon them, which is mentioned, Matth 24. I therefore shall descant on these words, as relating to both these Days of Judgments.

b Ver. 3. (a) Josephus informs us, that when the Tumults foretold by our Saviour were begun, the Jews were expecting σημεῖα ἐλευθερίας signs from God of their liberty; and that after all the clear signs God had given them of their approaching Ruine, and when it was even accomplished, they were confidently expecting (b) ἀπὸ Θεοῦ βοήθειαν, the Divine Aid: And which is more remarkable, that the Promise of a Messiah, which their Sacred Books declared, was to come κατὰ τ καιρὸν ἐκεῖνον, about that time, was (c) τὸ ἐπάρατον αὐτοὺς μάλιστα πρὸς πόλεμον that which chiefly incited them to the war.

c Ver. 7. Note. O the sad dissoluteness of the manners of the Christians of our Age, who frequently are guilty of that drunkenness in the day time, which Heathens only practised in the night.

d Ver. 8. Θώρακα, the breast-plate of faith, &c.] This Metaphor, relating to our Christian warfare, is taken from Soldiers who anciently watched, or kept ſentinel in their Armour, having eſpecially their Helmet and Breaſt plate on; for as (d) Livy notes, Scuto præ ſe erecto ſtabant Galeati, they ſtood with their Shield before them, and their Helmet on their heads. Whence he ſays of Paulus Æmilius, that Milites novo more ſcutum in vigiliam ferre vetuit, after a new manner he forbad the Soldiers to wear their Shield when they watched. Now the Head and Heart being the two chief Fountains of Life and Senſation, the preſerving them ſafe, is in effect the preſerving the whole Man.

e Ver. 10. Εἴτε γρηγορῶμεν εἴτε καθεύδωμεν.] That is, ſay ſome, whether we live or die. And true it is, that Chriſtians dying are ſaid to fall aſleep: So 1 Cor. 11. 30. κοιμῶνται ἱκανοὶ, ſome are fallen aſleep, Chap. 15. 51. πάντες μὲν οὐ κοιμηθησόμεθα, we ſhall not all ſleep. So here Chap. 4. 13. I would not have you ignorant περὶ τῶν κεκοιμημένων, concerning them that are fallen aſleep; and v. 14. τοὺς κοιμηθέντας, them that ſleep in Jeſus will God bring with him. But becauſe in all theſe places the Greek word is never καθεύδω, but always κοιμάομαι, I prefer the Expoſition of the Paraphraſe.

But then that the hope of Salvation, v. 8. the περιποίησις σωτηρίας, the obtainment of Salvation by Chriſt Jeſus, v. 9. the living with him, v. 10. ſhould refer chiefly to the Purchaſe of Deliverance from Jewiſh Perſecutions, and the Enjoyment of this preſent Life, I can by no means grant; for the Chriſtians hope is the hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 3. the hope of the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, Chap. 8. 23, 24. the hope which is laid up for us in Heaven, Col. 1. 5. the hope of glory, v. 27. a bleſſed hope, Tit. 2. 13. the hope of eternal life, Chap. 3. 7.

The Salvation purchaſed for us by Chriſt's death, is not Deliverance from Perſecutions, for all that will live godly in Chriſt Jeſus muſt ſuffer Perſecutions, 2 Tim. 3. 12. In theſe we are to be conformed to his death, Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 12. he having ſuffered, leaving us an example that we ſhould follow his ſteps, 1 Pet. 2. 21.

And to live with Chriſt is to live in a ſtate of Glory with him, and be conformed to his Reſurrection, Rom. 6. 8. 2 Tim. 2. 12. Col. 3. 3, 4. 1 Pet. 4. 13. And this is the Comfort which the Apoſtle had given them, Chap. 4. 18. and to which he now proceeds.

f Ver. 11. Οἰκοδομεῖτε εἷς τὸ ἕνα, Edifie your ſelves into one body,] By your mutual love to one another, as being Members of the ſame body, Eph. 4. 16. and by your ſtrict Union, and peaceable Converſation with one another, which is the Edification of one of us unto another, commanded, Rom. 14. 19. See Note on Rom. 15. 2.

Ver. 12. Καὶ προϊσταμένους ὑμῶν.] That the g Perſons here mentioned as labouring among them, as being over them, in the Plural, ſhould be the Biſhops of the Metropolis of Theſſalonica, ſeems very improbable, there being ſcarcely any ordinary fixed Officers then placed in the Church, Anno Chriſti 49 or 51. when this Epiſtle was written; and therefore the Learned (e) Mr. Dodwell, notwithſtanding theſe words ſaith, Quod nulla ſit Rectorum mentio in utravis Epiſtolâ ad Theſſalonicenſes, That there is no mention of any fixed Rulers in either of the Epiſtles to the Theſſalonians. And (1.) we find no notice taken of them in the front of theſe Epiſtles, as there is of the Biſhops and Deacons, Philip. 1. 1. No Salutation of them in the cloſe of theſe Epiſtles, the words of Salutation being only theſe, Salute all the Brethren with an holy kiſs. (2.) We find no Directions given to them in particular, but only to the Brethren in general, touching ſuch Matters as muſt have related to their Office only, or chiefly, had they been ſettled Rulers in the Church. The Charge in the very next Verſe runs thus, We exhort you, Brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feeble minded, ſupport the weak. In the ſecond Epiſtle, Chap 3. 6. thus, We command you, Brethren in the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that ye withdraw your ſelves from every Brother that walks diſorderly, and not according to the Tradition which ye received from us. And v. 13 and 14. And ye, Brethren,—if any man obey not our word by this Epiſtle, note that man, and have no company with him, that he may be aſhamed; yet count him not as an enemy, but admoniſh him as a Brother. And laſtly, to theſe Brethren the Adjuration is here directed, v. 27. charging them by the Lord, that this Epiſtle be read to all the holy Brethren. 'Tis therefore to be noted, that the Apoſtles, Prophets, Preachers, Evangeliſts, who were all extraordinary Offices, are reckoned among thoſe whom God had ſettled in the Church, 1 Cor. 12. 24. and Chriſt aſcending up on high, had given for the Edification of his Body, Eph. 4. 11, 12. Some of theſe Prophets, and Teachers, were in moſt Churches, as at Antioch, Acts 13. 1. and officiated in them, v. 3. at Rome, Chap. 12. 6, 7. at Corinth, 1 Cor. 14. at Galatia; See Note on Chap. 6. 1. Some of them were Itinerants, ſent by the Apoſtles, or Prophets, to teach other Churches, and by the Holy Spirit ſeparated to that work, Acts 13. 2, 3, 4. Exhorting and confirming the Chriſtians where they came, as being Prophets authorized ſo to do, Acts 16. 32. and travelling up and down for the Converting and Eſtabliſhing of the Gentiles, 3 Epiſt. of St. John,

v. 7, 8. See Note on 1 Cor. 12. 28. Of one of these two kinds of Prophets, and Teachers, and Spiritual Men, the Apostle may here be understood.

h Ver. 16. Κὰν εἰς πειρασμὸς, κὰν εἰς λύπας ἐμπέσητε, Oecumenius, tho' you fall into manifold Temptations and Afflictions, James 1. 2. and be brought into a very low Condition in this World, yet rejoice in the Lord always, Philip. 4. 4. Rejoice in the hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 3. and of that great Reward you shall receive for all your Sufferings, Mat. 5. 11, 12. Heb. 10. 34. and in the spiritual fruits they work in you, Rom. 5. 4. James 1. 3.

i Ver. 17. Ἀδιαλείπτως, Without ceasing.] To give once for all the true sense of those Injunctions, so frequent in the Scripture, to pray, and to give thanks always, and without ceasing, observe,

1. That these Phrases do in the mildest sense import, that these should be the Employment of every Day, our Morning and Evening Sacrifice, that so beginning and ending the Day with them, we may be, in the Scripture Language, said to do them always. Thus St. Luke tells us, chap. 24. 53. That the Apostles were continually in the Temple, διαπαντὸς, praising God; that is, they were καθ' ἡμέραν, daily in the Temple, Acts 2. 46, 47. resorting thither at the third Hour of the Morning, and at the ninth of the Evening Sacrifice, Acts 3. 1. The Sacrifice which was appointed to be thus offered daily at Morning and Evening, is in the Hebrew התמיד the continual Sacrifice, Dan. 8. 11. and accordingly is rendred by the Septuagint, ἡ θυσία διαπαντὸς. Thus the Minchah, which the High-Priest offered every Day, half of it in the Morning, and half in the Evening, is stiled by them ἡ θυσία διαπαντὸς, the continual Sacrifice, Lev. 6. 20. The Burnt-offering which was offered without intermission twice a Day, is in the Hebrew עולת תמיד and in the Seventy ὁλοκαύτωμα τὸ διαπαντὸς, the continual Sacrifice, Numb. 28. 24, 31. And in allusion to it, the Author to the Hebrews saith of our High-Priest, By him let us offer up the Sacrifice of Praise to God continually. This therefore is the prime import of the Phrase.

2*ly*, These Phrases do import, that we should be employed in the performance of these Duties, as Providence doth minister occasion for them. In this sense is the word always used twice, when our Lord saith, I was always in the Temple, whether the Jews always resort, John 18. 20. for neither did the Jews always resort unto the Temple, but only at the Hours of Prayer; nor did Christ always teach in it, but only when he went up to Jerusalem. And thus the Holy Ghost in Scripture leads us to expound these Phrases, enjoyning us to abound always to every good work, 2 Cor. 9. 8. and elsewhere to do good, ὡς καιρὸν ἔχομεν, as we have occasion, Gal. 6. 10. So to pray always, Luke 18. 1. is to pray ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ, in every Season, chap. 21. 36. and to pray without ceasing here, is to pray ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ, in every opportunity, Eph. 6. 18. So 1 Maccab. 12. 11. ἡμεῖς ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ ἀδιαλείπτως, we at all times, without ceasing, both in our Feasts, and other convenient Days, do remember you in the Sacrifices which we offer, i. e. we do it as oft as we have occasion to offer Sacrifice.

3*ly*, In reference to our Prayers particularly, it imports, that we should not grow faint and weary, when Providence seems for a season to defer the Blessing we implore, Luke 18. 1. but should still, προσμένειν, abide in supplication, 1 Tim. 5. 5. and ἀγρυπνεῖν, watch unto it with all perseverance, Ephes. 6. 18.

Ver. 18. Ἐν παντὶ, In every thing.] For sparing and preventing, for common and extraordinary, general and special, past and present, temporary and spiritual Mercies; not only for prosperous and grateful, but also for afflicting Providences, for Chastisements, and seasonable Corrections, πάντα γὰρ ὁρᾷς τὸ συμφέρον ποιεῖ ὁ Θεὸς, κὰν ἡμεῖς ἀγνοῶμεν ἀκριβῶς τὰς οἰκονομίας, for God designs them all for our good, tho' we at present see not how they tend unto it. k

Ver. 19. Quench not the Spirit, Τοῦτο, χάρισμα μὴ ἐκφεύγετε καὶ κωλύετε, τῷ ἀποτρέφεσθαι καὶ μὴ ἐᾶν λαλεῖν, that is, Hinder not the Gifts of the Spirit, by turning away from them that have them, and not suffering them to speak. These Gifts were quenched by Strife, Emulation, Schisms, and Contention about them, 1 Cor. 3. 1, 3. 2*ly*, By a disorderly use of them, not to the Edification of the Church, but to vain Ostentation, Confusion in the Church, and the Scandal of Heathens, 1 Cor. 14. by a neglect to exercise them, 1 Tim. 4. 14. and by the Prohibition of them; Forbid not to speak with Tongues, 1 Cor. 15. 39. l

Ver. 20. Προφάσει τῶν ψευδοπροφητῶν, καὶ τῆς ἀληθοῦς διάπτυον, Oecumenius. Some of these false Prophets had crept into the Church of Thessalonica, as is hinted in those words, Be not troubled by (them who pretend a Revelation from the) Spirit, as if the day of Christ were at hand, 2 Thess. 2. 2. which made them less regardful of what was delivered by Men pretending to this Gift, and made it necessary for St. John to say, Believe not every Spirit, but try the Spirits, whether they be of God, for many false Prophets are gone out into the World, 1 John 4. 1. And to prevent the mischief the Thessalonians might receive from them, the Apostle here adds, Try all things, &c. v. 21. m n Ver. 21. Δοκιμάζετε, Try.] Note, That the Apoſtle doth not here bid the Guides of the Church try all things, and the People hold faſt that which they delivered to them; but gives an Injunction common to all Chriſtians, having their Senſes exerciſed to diſcern betwixt good and evil; to all who are obliged to hold faſt that which is good, and not to believe falſe Prophets; which is a ſtrong Argument for the perſpicuity and the ſufficiency of holy Scripture for this work, and againſt the neceſſity of a living Judge; for he that muſt try all things, muſt alſo try the Doctrine of this living Judge; and therefore till he hath made this Trial, muſt not admit his Doctrine as an Article of Chriſtian Faith; for theſe words plainly teach, that what we muſt hold faſt muſt firſt be tried. Hearers, ſaith St. Baſil, who are inſtructed in the Scriptures, ought to try the things ſpoken by their Teachers, Καὶ τὸ μὴ σύμφωνα ταῖς γραφαῖς δέχεσθαι, τὰ δ' ἀλλότρια ἐκβάλλειν, and receive thoſe Doctrines which are conſonant, and reject thoſe which are alien from the holy Scriptures, becauſe St. Paul hath ſaid, Try all things, hold faſt that which is good. See Clem. Alex. Strom. 1. p. 354. Strom. 6. p. 655. Orig. in Joh. Tom. 19. Ed. Huet. p. 268, & Hom. 2. in Ezek. F. 135. G. St. Jerom in Ep. ad Eph. l. 3. c. 5. p. 101. Cyril of Alex. in Joh. l. 4. p. 374, 407. & l. 1. Adv. Neſtor. p. 2.

o Ver. 22. Ἀπὸ παντὸς εἴδους πονηροῦ, From all kinds, or ſorts of evil.] So the Syriack doth render theſe words. So Chryſoſtom and Theophylact upon this place. St. Baſil and Leontius, cited by Dr. Hammond, who deſcant thus upon the words. Fly not from this, or that only, but from every Sin. Or, 2*ly*, If the Apoſtle here exhorts us to abſtain from all appearance of evil, his meaning cannot be this, that we ſhould abſtain from what appears evil to others, it being in many Caſes impoſſible to know what appears ſo, and impracticable to act by ſuch a Rule, becauſe it would deſtroy our Chriſtian Liberty in things indifferent, and create in our Minds continual Perplexities, there being ſcarcely any thing which may not appear evil to ſome or other of thoſe numerous Sects which ſwarm among us; he therefore only muſt enjoyn us to abſtain from that, which, after trial, ſeems evil to our ſelves, and is judged by us ſo to be; for the Apoſtle makes theſe two things the holding that which is good, and the abſtaining from all appearance of evil, the Conſequent of trying all things. Now we try all things, that after trial we may hold that which ſeemeth to us good, and abſtain from that which ſeemeth to us evil, not to abſtain from that which ſeemeth ſo to others only.

Ver. 23. Ὁλόκληρον ὑμῶν τὸ πνεῦμα, καὶ ἡ ψυχὴ, καὶ τὸ σῶμα, Your whole Spirit, and Soul, and Body.] Here the Apoſtle juſtifies the ancient and true Philoſophy; That Man is, as Nemeſius ſtiles him, τριμερὴς ὑπόστασις, a compound of three differing parts. This was the Doctrine of the Pythagoreans, as we learn from (f) Iamblicus, who having told us, that Man conſiſts of Soul and Body, adds, That the Soul conſiſts of two parts, one endued with Reaſon, and one without Reaſon. This alſo was the Philoſophy of the Platoniſts, as we learn from Nemeſius and (g) Saluſt, who informs us, That there is in Man a Soul irrational, which follows the Affections of the Body, and a Mind which uſeth the Body as its Inſtrument, and fights againſt it. This alſo was the Doctrine of the Stoicks, whence Antoninus ſaith, The three conſtituent Parts of Man are σῶμα, ψυχὴ, νοῦς, the Body, Soul, and Mind. And (i) Clemens of Alexandria, and (k) Origen, ſay the ſame. Mr. Cl. here is very poſitive that this Philoſophy is falſe, and that there is nothing in Man but his Body, and his reaſonable Soul. But he ſaith nothing to ſuſtain this Confidence againſt thoſe two excellent Philoſophers, (l) Gaſſendus and (m) Dr. Willis, who have eſtabliſhed this Philoſophy beyond all reaſonable contradiction: Nor can the Conflict betwixt the Mind and Spirit, and the Fleſh, mentioned Rom. 7. from v. 14, to the 25th, and Gal. 5. 16, 17. be explained; nor can any Man tell what the τὸ ἡγεμονικὸν, or ruling Principle in us, is to govern, without admitting this inferiour Soul, as the Fountain of all our ſenſual Appetites, or even tell us what it is to die, unleſs it be to make this inferiour Soul, which conſiſts in the Motion of the Animal Spirits, and the Senſitive Appetites they produce in us, to ceaſe to act, or move as formerly. He will have ψυχὴ here to ſignifie Life, as indeed it doth in other places, but never where the conſtituent Parts of a Man are enumerated, as here they are; and ſeeing the Spirit and the p

Body, are unquestionably the constituent Parts of a Man, 'tis reasonable to conceive, that the ψυχὴ mentioned here must be so also, especially since 'tis divided from the Spirit and the Body by the Particle καὶ. Moreover, by following the Motions of this Brutish Appetite is a Man stiled ψυχικὸς, the Animal Man, and by being animated and informed by this ψυχὴ is the Body called σῶμα ψυχικὸν, an Animal Body, 1 Cor. 15. 44, 45. and by conveying of this ψυχὴ, or inferiour Soul, to his Posterity, is the first Adam said to be made εἰς ψυχὴν ζῶσαν, to convey this Animal Life to his Posterity; tho' this at last may be only a strife about words, the Animal Spirits being included in the Body.

Ver. 24. Πιστὸς ὁ καλῶν ὑμᾶς, Faithful is he q that calleth you.] Who therefore will not be wanting in what is requisite on his part towards it; I say his part, for if the Fidelity of God required that he should sanctifie and preserve us blameless to the end, and without our Care and Industry should work in us absolutely and certainly that care, and the Apostle believed this, how could he fear lest the Thessalonians should be so overcome by Satan's Temptations, as that his Labour with them might have been in vain, 1 Thess. 3. 5. this being in effect to fear that God might be unfaithful to his Promise?

r Ver. 27. Ὁρκίζω ὑμᾶς. I adjure you by the Lord. In Judicial Oaths the Custom among the Jews was, not for the Person, who came under the Obligation of an Oath, to pronounce the Words of Swearing with his own Mouth, but an Oath was exacted from him by the Magistrate, or Superior, and so he became bound to answer upon Oath, by hearing the Voice of Adjuration, φωνῇ ὁρκισμοῦ, so the Septuagint, Lev. 5. 1. So Gen. 50. 15 thy Father ὥρκισεν, made us swear before he died, Josh. 6. 26. ὥρκισεν Ἰησοῦς ἐναντίον Κυρίου, Joshua adjured them, saying, Cursed be the Man before the Lord, that riseth up and buildeth Jericho; 1 Sam. 14. 24. Saul had adjured the People, ὁρκίσας ὥρκισεν ὁ Λαὸν, saying, Cursed be the Man that eateth any Food; that is, he charged the People with an Oath; 1 Kings 22. 16. Ποσάκις ὁρκίζω σε, How oft shall I adjure thee? So in the New Testament, the High-Priest saith to Christ, ὁρκίζω σε κατὰ τοῦ Θεοῦ ζῶντος, I adjure thee by the living God. Now hence two things are evident, 1. That St. Paul did not judge all Judicial Oaths unlawful, for then he would not have laid this Oath upon his Thessalonians. (2.) That Christ did not forbid Judicial, but only Voluntary Oaths, because it was not in the power of the Jews, to whom he spake, to avoid Judicial Oaths; nor would he then have answer'd to the Adjuration of the High-Priest.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epiſtle of St. PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

HAving offered a new Interpretation of the Second Chapter of this Epiſtle, which treateth of the Man of Sin, commonly called Antichriſt, there mentioned, I ſhall here give the Reaſons why I could not acquieſce in any of the Expoſitions already given either by Proteſtants or Papiſts, and anſwer ſome Objections againſt the Expoſition I have put upon the words of the Apoſtle in that Chapter. And

§ 1. Firſt, Whereas Mr. Obadiah Walker hath taken a great deal of pains to apply all that the Apoſtle ſaith to Mahomet and his Followers, that vain Conceit will be demonſtratively confuted from theſe Conſiderations.

1. That the Apoſtle here exhorts the Theſſalonians, Not to be ſhaken in Mind, or troubled either by Spirit, or by Letter, or by Word, as from us, (the Apoſtles,) as if the Day of the Lord were at hand, v. 2. Now what day doth the Apoſtle mean? Surely that Day when the Lord ſhall conſume the wicked one by the breath of his mouth, and by the brightneſs of his coming, v. 8. Now ſure it is that Mahomet came not till 567. years after the writing this Epiſtle, viz. A.D. 608. nor is our Lord yet come to conſume him with the breath of his mouth, nor know we when he will do ſo. How therefore could it be, that they who were foretold ſo punctually of the Apoſtacy which ſhould introduce the Man of Sin, and what yet hindred the Revelation of him in his Seaſon, as the Theſſalonians were, v. 5, 6. ſhould think the Day of the Lord's coming to deſtroy Mahomet and his Followers was at hand? or that they ſhould be led into this apprehenſion by any Word, Epiſtle, or Revelation, made, ſpoken, or written by the Apoſtles or Prophetick Men concerning him? Could they then know from the mouth of St. Paul, that this Man of Sin was one Mahomet, who was not to appear till 567 years after his ſpeaking of him, and when he did appear was to continue above a thouſand years before the coming of our Lord to conſume him, and yet by any of his words be induced to conceive the Day of the Lord was at hand?

Moreover, If the coming of our Lord, here mentioned, was to conſume the Beaſt or Roman Antichriſt, ſeeing this Beaſt was to ariſe out of the Ruins of the Roman Empire, and if St. Paul had told them any thing from Daniel of this matter, he muſt have let them know that this was ſo; and alſo that this Antichriſt, when riſen out of the Ruins of the Empire, was to continue for a time and times, and half a time, that is, 1260 years before the coming of our Saviour to deſtroy him; It is as difficult to conceive how, after this, the Theſſalonians could think Chriſt's coming to conſume the Beaſt could be then inſtant when this Epiſtle was indited.

§ 2. Arg. 2. I argue, ſecondly, againſt this Opinion, from thoſe words, Remember ye not that when I was with you, I told you of theſe things, v. 5, 6, 7. that is, I told you of the Apoſtacy that was to precede the Man of Sin; how he ſhould exalt himſelf above all that is called God, &c. and what it was that hindred his being revealed in his Seaſon? Now can any one believe that the Apoſtle, who was not with the Theſſalonians long enough to perfect what was lacking in their Faith, 1 Theſſ. 3. 10. ſhould yet employ his time in telling them a long ſtory of the Apoſtacy of the Arians and Neſtorians, ſaith Mr. W. and of one Mahomet who ſhould thus exalt himſelf, and what then hindred his being revealed? Could he ſay that very Myſtery of Iniquity, this Mahomet was to bring into the World, then wrought, only becauſe there were ſome Hereticks already already come, who confeſſed not that Jeſus Chriſt was come in the Fleſh, though Mahomet confeſſed this very freely? As well may it be ſaid, That the Myſtery of Quakeriſm wrought in the ſecond and third Centuries, becauſe ſome Hereticks of thoſe times taught Doctrines like thoſe they now profeſs.

And ſince 'tis equally improbable the Apoſtle, in that little time, ſhould ſpeak to them of the Apoſtacy of the Church of Rome from the Faith, and how the Biſhop of Rome ſhould Lord it over Chriſtian Emperours, and over the Laws of God and Chriſt, and wear out the Saints of the moſt High for 1260 years; and is ſtill more improbable, that he ſhould ſay all this then to them, and here again bring the ſame thing to their remembrance, and yet that not the leaſt intimation of any thing of this nature ſhould appear in any Chriſtian Writers, on this Subject, for ſix following Centuries: Since, I ſay, this is ſo, this Argument muſt be of equal ſtrength againſt thoſe who conceive the Papal Antichriſt ſhould primarily and chiefly be intended here.

§ 3. Arg. 3. Thirdly, I argue againſt this Opinion from thoſe words, And then ſhall that wicked one be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall conſume with the breath of his mouth, &c. v. 8. For hence it ſeems plain, this wicked one was to be deſtroyed by the coming of our Lord ſoon after the time of his Revelation, and not above a thouſand years after; as both the Opinion of thoſe Papiſts, who ſay that he is Mahomet, and of thoſe Proteſtants who ſay he is the Pope and his Clergy, muſt make the interval betwixt his Revelation, and Deſtruction be; for the ſame thing that hindred his Revelation, hindred the coming of our Lord to deſtroy him thus revealed; and theſe two things ſeem to be thus connected, The Day of the Lord will not come, till there come firſt an Apoſtacy, and by that a Revelation of the Man of Sin; when therefore this Apoſtacy, and this Revelation of the Man of Sin happeneth, then will Chriſt come to conſume him. And otherwiſe the Chriſtians of after Ages might have been ſubject, from the Apoſtle's words, to a like Miſtake to that here mentioned, ſeeing, to tell them they had no reaſon yet to expect this Day of the Lord, becauſe it was not to come till the Man of Sin was revealed, and to add, when that which hindred the Revelation of him in his Seaſon, was once taken away, then ſhould he alſo be revealed, whom the Lord ſhould conſume with the brightneſs of his coming, muſt fairly lead them to expect this Day ſoon after his Revelation, and not after he had been thus revealed above a thouſand years.

§ 4. Theſe Arguments are ſuch as equally confute the Opinion of thoſe Proteſtants who conceive the Apoſtle primarily to characteriſe the Pope and his Clergy, and of thoſe who apply theſe words to Mahomet.

Arg. 4. But fourthly, I argue againſt them who ſuppoſe Mahomet to be the Man here intended, from theſe words of the Apoſtle, That the coming of this wicked one ſhall be according to the working of Satan in all power, ſigns, and lying wonders, v. 9. for the words δυνάμεις, σημεῖα, τέρατα, powers, ſigns, and wonders, are never uſed in Scripture for any wonderful things done by God upon Men, or any Extaſies or Conferences of Angels with them, but always for outward ſigns done by them upon other Things, or Perſons; ſuch as were the healing of the Sick, and Lame, the caſting out of Devils, the raiſing the Dead. See Note on Hebr. 2. 4. Now Mahomet every where profeſſeth that he came not with any ſuch Miracles, and therefore he could not be the Perſon here deſigned. For his Oppoſers demanded of him ſuch Miracles, ſaying, 'Moſes and Jeſus, according to thy own Doctrine, wrought Miracles to prove their 'Miſſion from God; and therefore if thou be a 'Prophet, and greater than any that were ever 'ſent before thee, as thou boaſteſt thy ſelf to 'be, do thou the like Miracles to manifeſt it 'to us; do thou make the Dead to riſe, the 'Deaf to ſpeak, the Dumb to hear, &c. and 'then we will believe in thy Word. 'This Ob'jection, ſaith (a) Dr. Prideaux, he endeavoured 'to evade by ſeveral Anſwers; One while he 'tells them, he is only a Man ſent to preach 'to them the Rewards of Paradiſe, and the 'Puniſhments of Hell: At another time, that 'their Predeceſſors contemned the Miracles 'of Saleh, and the other Prophets, and that 'for this Reaſon God would work no more a'mong them: And a while after, that thoſe 'whom God had ordained to believe, ſhould 'believe without Miracles; and thoſe whom 'he had not ordained to believe, ſhould not be 'convinced, though all theſe Miracles ſhould 'be wrought in their ſight; which they required. But this not ſatisfying, as being a 'plain Confeſſion that he wanted that power of 'Miracles which all other Prophets had to 'prove their Miſſion, ſeveral of thoſe that 'were his Followers departed from him. Having therefore got the Sword into his Hand, 'and an Army to back his Cauſe, his Doctrine 'then was, that God had ſent Moſes and Jeſus with Miracles, and yet Men would not 'be obedient to their Word, and therefore he 'had now ſent him in the laſt place without 'Miracles, to force them by the power of the 'Sword to do his Will.

'However, ſaith he, it is not to be denied, 'that there are ſeveral Miracles reckon'd up 'which Mahomet is ſaid to have wrought; as

'that he did cleave the Moon in two; that 'the Trees went forth to meet him; and that 'the Stones saluted him; which are the Miracles here mentioned by Mr. Walker. But then he adds, That 'they who relate them are 'only such as are reckoned among their fabu'lous, and legendary Writers; their learned 'Doctors renounce them all, as doth Maho'met himself, who in several places of his 'Alchoran, owns that he wrought no Mira'cles.

§ 5. Against the Opinion of Grotius, that Caius Caligula was the Man of Sin, it is superfluous to say much, it being grounded upon an Error in Chronology, that St. Paul writ this Epistle A. D. 40. when Cajus appeared; whereas 'tis certain from 1 Thess. 1. 5. that Paul had been at Thessalonica before this Epistle was writ; for St. Paul went up to Jerusalem, say the best Chronologers, A.D. 49. and it is evident that then he had not been at Thessalonica, and so had writ no Epistle to them, it being writ after his entrance in to them, v. 9. after he had spoken to them the Gospel of God, Chap. 2. 2. after he had been taken from them for a short time, v. 17. Now that he had not been at Thessalonica before his going up to the Council at Jerusalem, appears from the History of the Acts, which saith, that after this Council he went to Antioch, Chap. 15. 30. then through Syria and Cilicia, v. 41. then to Derbe and Lystra, Chap. 16. 1, 2. then through Phrygia, Galatia, and Mysia, and so to Troas, v. 6, 7, 8. then to Samothracia, Neapolis, and Philippi, v. 11, 12. and having passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, he came to Thessalonica, Chap. 17. 1. He therefore coming only thither eight years after the death of Cajus, and not writing this Epistle till after he had left them, could not then write of Cajus as the Man of Sin to be yet revealed.

1. 'That the Man of Sin, the Son of Perdi'tion, was Simon Magus, together with his 'Followers the Gnosticks, designed for destruction; Paraph. on v. 3.

2. 'That Simon Magus setting himself in 'the head of them, Christ should destroy him 'by extraordinary means, the Preaching, and 'the Miracles of St. Peter, and the Gno'sticks that adhered to him at the destruction of the unbelieving Jews; Paraph. on v. 8.

3. 'That the falling away first, must be a 'great departure, or defection from the Faith 'to the Heresie of the Gnosticks, or the Christians breaking off their compliance with the 'impenitent Jews, leaving them as obdurate, 'and departing avowedly to the Gentiles; Paraph. on v. 3.

4. 'That which with-holdeth, and he that let'teth, was the Apostles not giving over 'preaching to the Jews as hopeless and refra'ctory, and going to the Gentiles, Paraph. on 'v. 6. and the Christians walking warily, and 'doing nothing contrary to the Mosaical Law.

5. 'That the Mystery already working was 'this sort of Men already formed into a Sect, 'under their Ring-leaders Simon and Carpo'crates, Paraph. on v. 7.

Now against this Opinion I argue,

1. From the Day of the Lord here mentioned v. 1, 2. for that indeed doth often signifie in Scripture the Day of the Lord's coming to the destruction of the Temple, City, and Nation of the Jews, which, saith the Reverend Dr. Hammond, is the true import of the Phrase here, but it never signifies his coming to destroy Simon Magus. Moreover, it's plain from the eighth Verse, that this coming of the Lord is to destroy the Man of Sin, he being to be destroyed by the brightness of his coming; how then can this Day be the time appointed for the destruction of Simon Magus, who perished some years before Christ's coming to the destruction of Jerusalem? For according to (b) Valesius, Eusebius, and Symeon Metaphrastes, Simon perished in the Reign of Claudius; he coming then to Rome, and St. Peter then also coming after him, to detect his Frauds, whence he well argues, that (c) it it is not probable he should long there insult over the Christian Faith, St. Peter being then present to oppose him. Now if this be true, he perished at the least 16 years before the destruction of Jerusalem, and Christ came to destroy him within four years after the writing this Epistle. If he perished, as others will have it, in the fourth of Nero, he must die twelve years before Christ came to destroy Jerusalem; or if he continued till the twelfth of Nero, opposing Christianity twelve years at Rome, under the very Nose of the two chief Apostles, which is not very probable, yet must he die four years before Christ's coming to the destruction of Jerusalem, and therefore could not be destroyed by the brightness of his coming.

Must we refer this then only to the destruction of his Followers the Gnosticks? That they were then in being, I could never yet see proved, and much less that any of them perished at the destruction of Jerusalem. I know the Doctor cites (d) Eusebius, as saying that the Gnosticks, λέγε διὰπαν εἰς τὸ παντελὲς ἀπισβήκαιν, in a moment were utterly extinct; whereas it is manifest Eusebius says this, not of the Gnosticks, but the Nicolaitans; nor could he say it of them who flourished chiefly in the second Century, whence it is stiled Sæculum Gnosticum. Moreover, It is a plain flaw in this, or any like Interpretation, to make the Head of any Party, with his Followers, to be the Man of Sin to be consumed by the coming of our Lord, and yet to make the Ante-signanus perish before his coming, and his Followers only at it.

Add to this, that the whole Foundation of this Opinion depends upon the (e) Tale of Simon Magus's flying in the Air at Rome, and his falling down and breaking his Bones at the Prayer of (f) St. Peter, which is a thing not only uncertain, but in the judgment of many learned Persons, absolutely false. Cotelerius, a Romanist, is forced ἐπίχειν, to suspend his judgment about it: 1. By reason of the Original of the Story, which, saith he, had its rise è libris Apocryphis & Pseudepigraphis, from (g) Apocryphal and Spurious Authors.

2ly, By reason of the great discrepancy to be found among them in their Relations of divers Circumstances of this Story. Some of them saying, that Simon Magus made himself (h) Wings to fly; some, that he was held up by (i) two Devils; others, that he made himself a (k) Chariot, or ascended in a fiery Chariot, drawn by four Horses; and all, that he did this by the Art of Magick.

Again, They differ equally as to the Effects this Fall had upon this Magician; some saying that he died by it, and was (l) seen dead upon the spot, that it (m) dasht out his Brains, (n) broke his whole Body; yea, brake it into (o) four parts. Others, that (p) Peter prayed he might not die, and so he only broke his Thigh, say some; or his Hands and Feet, as others.

Some tell us this was done in the Reign of Claudius; and others, that it was done in the Reign of Nero; some, that it was done by (q) Peter only; others, that it was done by (r) Peter and St. Paul; some, that it was done by (r) Prayer; and others, that they added Fasting to their Prayers; so little Agreement is there amongst them in any Circumstance of this Action. And 3ly, The Story may deserve to be suspected, by reason of the Silence of all the Ancients of the three first Centuries, who speak much of his being at Rome, and of his being honoured with a Statue there, but say nothing of his Flight, or Fall by virtue of the Prayers of St. Peter, though they had just occasion to speak of it, had they believed the Story. For (s) Justin Martyr, in his Apology, speaks twice of this Statue, and desires the Emperor and Senate, that, learning the truth, they would abolish that Statue; but he saith not one word of this illustrious Combat, which was so admirable a Conviction of his Fraud. Clemens of (t) Alexandria, saith, That Simon heard St. Peter preach a little while, but addeth not one word of what he suffered by St. Peter's Prayers. (u) Tertullian having noted, that after the coming of the Gospel Magicians were always punish'd, speaks only of Simon Magus, as ejected out of the Church, though he observes that Elymas *was struck blind. (y) Origen proves that there was οὐδὲν θεῖον. nothing Divine in Simon from the Nature of his Doctrine, which made Idolatry a thing indifferent, and from the Success of it, it being in his time almost extinct, and that he perished with his Silver; but adds not a hint of his perishing by the Prayers of the Apostles, which was the strongest proof against his pretensions that he was the power of God. (z) Eusebius declares how the Devil raised up Simon as the great Adversary to the Apostles, and how the Divine Grace, by their appearance and presence, extinguished that flame; and how the Providence of God sent Peter after him to Rome in the days of Claudius, to set himself against him, and how he prevailed by causing the Light of the Gospel to shine there; but gives not the least hint of his being thus overcome, or thrown down by the Prayers of Peter. The Bishops of Rome, who, saith Cotelerius, sua tacere non solent, use not to be silent in matters relating to themselves, say nothing of it. Nor is it credible, saith (a) Hornius, Scriptores Romanos tam memorabilem rem præterituros fuisse, that all the Roman Writers of those times, Suetonius, Tacitus, Pliny, &c. should pass over so memorable a thing in silence; especially if Simon was so honoured by Claudius, and beloved by Nero, as some Authors of this Story say he was. It seems inconsistent, saith Valesius, with that other Story of Simon's being honoured at Rome as a God by the Emperor, Senate, and the People, and the continuance of his Statue there in Justin Martyr's days; which sure it would not have done, had he been so remarkably defeated, or destroyed, before their Eyes. And lastly, (b) St. Austin freely owns, that at Rome this Story was by most People deemed false. And is such a Tale fit to be laid as the Foundation of the Interpretation of this Chapter?

§ 7. Arg. 2. This Opinion may also be confuted from those words, This day shall not come unless there be an Apostacy first, and the Man of Sin be revealed. For,

1. It is intolerable to think that Act, which was so necessary for the promotion of the Gospel among the Gentiles, viz. the not imposing on them Circumcision, and the Jewish Yoke, and the ceasing to preach in the Synagogues of the Jews, was the Apostacy intended by the Apostle in these words. The Zealots among the Jews might say of Paul, Thou teachest Apostacy from the Law of Moses; for afterwards the (c) Ebionites rejected all his Epistles, Ἀποστάτην αὐτὸν τοῦ νόμου, calling him an Apostate from the Law; but that St. Paul himself, speaking to the Gentiles, should call this his own practice an Apostacy, is incredible.

Moreover, What advantage would it do them in this matter, to tell them of an Apostacy which had happened before their Conversion, Acts 13. 46. Lo we turn unto the Gentiles, for so hath the Lord commanded us, and happened again about the time of writing this Epistle, Acts 19. 9. and finally, saith the Doctor, was completed when St. Paul came to Rome, about five or seven years after at the most? Might not the coming of the Lord be at hand, though an Apostacy so near to be compleated, were to go before it? See James 5. 8, 9. 1 Pet. 4. 7.

2ly, As for the Apostacy of a considerable part of Christians to the abominable impiety of the Gnosticks, I have all along in the Interpretation of these Epistles considered that, and find no reason to assert it, nor any thing that favours it, till we come to the 2 Pet. 2. 20, 21. 'Tis true indeed, as (d) Justin Martyr and Eusebius testifie, that most of the Samaritans worshipped Simon as the chief God; but ὀλίγοι ἐν ἄλλοις ἔθνεσιν, few in other Nations, say they, did it; but that one single Person fell off from Christianity to him they say not.

2ly, This Man of Sin was yet to be revealed, v. 3. and there was yet a ſeaſon to come, in which he was to be revealed, v. 6, 8. whereas by the Confeſſion of Dr. Hammond, Simon Magus was revealed as an Oppoſer of Chriſt, and an Ἀντίπαλος, or Antagoniſt, to the Apoſtles long before: For, he ſaith, that (f) being denied the power of working Miracles, which he would have bought of the Apoſtles, ſoon after he ſet up, and oppoſed himſelf againſt Chriſt, and accordingly is here called ὁ Ἀντικείμενος, the Adverſary, or he that oppoſeth himſelf. Now the time when he would have bought of them this power of working Miracles was A.D. 35. that is, fourteen years before S. Paul wrote this Epiſtle; if then ſoon after he ſet up, and oppoſed himſelf againſt Chriſt, he muſt diſcover himſelf ſoon after the Year 35, and ſo before the writing this Epiſtle. He adds in the ſame Note, That Simon Magus came to Rome in the beginning of Claudius his Reign, and there did ſuch Miracles by the help of the Devils, that he was taken for a God, and accordingly had a Statue erected to him with this Inſcription, Simoni Deo Sancto. Euſebius there adds, That the Devil had ſet him up as the Great and Equal Antagoniſt of the Divine Apoſtles. (g) St. Jerom alſo ſaith, That in the ſecond year of Claudius St. Peter came to Rome to oppoſe him. He therefore who was then ſet up as the great Adverſary of the Apoſtles, and as ſuch oppoſed by them in the ſecond Year of Claudius, that is A.D. 42. muſt be diſcovered then, that is, 9 Years before the writing this Epiſtle. Euſebius there adds, that the flame he had there raiſed, by the appearance and preſence of the Apoſtles, i. e. of Peter, as the words following ſhew, ὃ τάχ' ἐσβέννυ, was ſoon extinguiſhed; which ſeems to prove that Simon Magus's oppoſition to Chriſt was not only diſcovered, but even extinguiſhed with his Perſon before the writing this Epiſtle. And indeed Irenæus, and almoſt all the Ancients agree in this, with Dr. Hammond, that Simon Magus having ſuffered this repulſe from Peter at Samaria, began (h) to ſearch ſtill more into the depths of Magick, that he might be more able to contend with the Apoſtles; and that by this means he aſtoniſhed many, was honoured by Claudius with a Statue, and glorified by many as a God: He ſoon returned, ſaith Theodoret, to his former Arts. Now, can we think that a Man, who deſigned to be reckoned μέγάς τις, ſome great one, and to ſeem glorious in the World, ſhould purſue that deſign, by hiding, and not diſcovering himſelf about fifteen Years?

In a word, It cannot reaſonably be thought that almoſt all Samaria ſhould worſhip him; that he ſhould be honoured in the days of Claudius as a God at Rome, by the Emperor, the Senate, and the People; and that the Devil ſhould ſet him up as the Great Adverſary of the Apoſtles long before this time; and that the ſeaſon of his being revealed ſhould be yet to come.

§ 8. Arg. 3. 3ly, I argue againſt this Opinion from theſe words, he ſitteth in the Temple of God, v. 4. for whether we interpret this of the Temple of Jeruſalem, or of the Church of God, which are all the Interpretations known to the Ancient Fathers, or applied by them to theſe words, it is certain that neither Simon Magus, nor his Followers, ſat in any of them. The (k) Doctor therefore is forced to ſay, this agrees to Simon, as being worſhipped at Samaria, in thoſe places which had been ſet apart to the worſhip of the True God, they worſhipping him there θυμιάμασι καὶ θυσίαις, καὶ σπονδαῖς, with all ſorts of Sacrifices. But would St. Paul ſtile the Samaritan Temple, had it been then ſtanding, as it was not, the Temple of God? Would he have done this after our Lord's declaration made againſt them that they worſhipped they knew not what? The truth is, that the Temple built upon their holy Mountain, was long before deſtroyed by Hircanus, and that which Herod built them, they regarded not, as ſtanding not upon that Mountain. Where therefore was the Temple in which they offered all kind of Sacrifices to this Magician? Indeed, the Doctor uſeth too much Artifice in thus connecting theſe things; for that almoſt all the Samaritans did worſhip Simon Magus as the firſt or principal God, Euſebius doth ſay from Juſtin Martyr Hiſt. Eccl. 2. 13. but that they then worſhipped him with any kind of Sacrifices, he doth not ſay: But only that ſome of his Followers, who (l) pretended to embrace the Chriſtian Religion, (which Simon Magus then profeſſedly oppoſed,) fell back to the worſhip of Dæmons, and had got Images of Simon and Helen, which they thus worſhipped with Sacrifices.

§ 9. Arg. 4. Remember you not, ſaith the Apoſtle, that I told you of theſe things? Now is it probable, that in the ſhort time he ſtayed with them, he ſhould tell them how Simon Magus ſat in the Temple of God, and that Chriſt's coming was to deſtroy him; and that ſo ſoon as S. Paul ſhould leave off preaching in the Jewiſh Synagogues, S Magus and his Followers would be revealed? Credat Judæus Apella: For the Myſtery of Iniquity doth already work, *v.*7. that is, ſaith Dr. H. this ſort of Men are already formed into a Sect under their Ring-leaders, Simon and Carpocrates. Wonderful that Carpocrates, who, ſay (m) Clemens of Alexandria, Euſebius, and Theodoret, appeared only in the time of Hadrian, that is, A. D. 107. at the ſooneſt, ſhould be the Ring-leader of a Sect at the writing of this Epiſtle, that is, at leaſt, 56 Years before he began his Hereſie.

It follows, v.8. And then ſhall that wicked one be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall conſume with the ſpirit of his mouth, &c. that is, ſaith D. Hammond, then immediately ſhall ye ſee the Sect of the Gnoſticks ſhew it ſelf, joyn with, and ſtir up the Jews, and bring heavy Perſecutions upon the Chriſtians, and having this opportunity to calumniate them to the Jews, behave themſelves as their profeſſed Oppoſers. And Simon Magus ſhall ſet himſelf forth in the Head of them, whom, as a profeſs'd Enemy of Chriſt, Chriſt ſhall deſtroy by extraordinary means, by the Preaching and Miracles of St. Peter; and for all the Apoſtatizing Gnoſticks that adhere to him, they ſhall be involved in the deſtruction of the Unbelieving Jews, with whom they have joyned againſt the Chriſtians. In which long Paraphraſe there is nothing certain, and nothing which can be confirmed, either from Scripture or Antiquity. That there were then any Gnoſticks in being, that they ever then did, or were in a capacity to perſecute the Chriſtians, that any ſingle Perſon of them periſhed at the fatal time of the deſtruction of the unbelieving Jews, I never yet ſaw proved. That Simon Magus ſhould ſet himſelf in the Head of theſe Gnoſticks, or of any other of his Followers, who was extinct before they bore that name, 'tis not credible. That his Followers, who pretended that Simon himſelf was the chief, or principal God, who worſhipped him, and the very Images of Simon and Helena, with all kind of Sacrifices, who held the Law and Prophets were not to be regarded, ſhould ingratiate themſelves, and joyn with the Jews, is ſtill more incredible. And laſtly, that Simon Magus periſhed by the Miracles of St. Peter, I have ſhewed to be improbable. And this I think ſufficient to be offered againſt this Interpretation.

§ 10. I ſhould proceed to thoſe Conſiderations which ſeem to lie againſt that Opinion, which holds that the Apoſtle primarily intends the Papal Antichriſt, but I have already done this, both in this Preface, and in the following Annotations; and therefore ſhall at preſent only add, that this Man of Sin is to ſit in the Temple of God, and probably to do it then when the Apoſtle writ; for he gives it as a Character, by which the Theſſalonians, to whom he writ, might know him, and then he could be no other than the Jewiſh Doctors. Moreover, this Temple of God muſt either be the Temple of God, properly ſo called, which was deſtroyed by Titus, A. D. 70. and then again, The Man of Sin, who was to ſit in it, muſt denote the ſame Perſons, or as ſome of the moſt Ancient Fathers, (n) Irenæus, (o) Hippolitus, (p) St. Cyril, and (q) St. Ambroſe thought, either the Ruins of that Temple, or another to be built by Antichriſt in behalf of the Jews, and then as it is not reaſonable to think the Apoſtle would abſolutely ſtile that the Temple of God which had never been ſo, and which was only built by one who magnified himſelf againſt, and openly blaſphemed the true God; ſo is it more unreaſonable to think the Pope and his Clergy ſhould ſit in it. They therefore who think that they are here eſpecially intended, embrace the Sentiments of the Fathers of the Fifth, and the following Centuries, viz. of (r) Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, St. Auſtin, and St. Jerom, that by the Temple of God, we are to underſtand the Chriſtian Church. But this Interpretation is liable to this Objection, That 'tis not reaſonable to conceive the Holy Spirit, without any mark of diſtinction, would give that name to the Apoſtate Church, in which the Beaſt and the falſe Prophet did preſide, ſhe being by the ſame Spirit, when he ſpeaks more unqueſtionably of her, ſtill repreſented as Spiritual Sodom and Ægypt, Myſtical Babylon, and the Mother of Fornications and Abominations, Rev. 11. 8. 17. 5. Hence (s) Bellarmine makes this Inference from the Interpretation of the Proteſtants, That, if it be true, the Roman Church, in which the Pope preſides, muſt be the Church of God. To this our Writers anſwer, That this Name was given to the Church of Rome becauſe ſhe once was ſo. But when was that? Was it not before the Man of Sin ſat in her, and exalted himſelf above God and Chriſt? and can he properly be ſaid to ſit in the Church of God, who whilſt he ſitteth in it, is not the Man of Sin, nor does thoſe things which belong to him; and when he is the Man of Sin, ſitteth no longer in the Church of God, but in Spiritual Egypt, the Oppreſſor of God's People, in Myſtical Babylon the Mother of Idolatry, and the Great Enemy of the Church of God, and in the Synagogue of Satan?

But that I may not wholly differ from my Brethren in this matter, I grant theſe words may, in a ſecondary ſenſe, be attributed to the Papal Antichriſt, or Man of Sin, and may be ſignally fulfilled in him, in the deſtruction of him by the Spirit of Chriſt's Mouth, he being the Succeſſor to the Apoſtate Jewiſh Church, to whom theſe Characters agree, as well as to her; and therefore in the Annotations I have ſtill given a place to this Interpretation alſo.

§ 11. Laſtly, As for the Objections which may be raiſed againſt the ſenſe which I have put upon theſe words, I have already anſwered moſt of them in the Annotations, only two ſtill remain to be more fully anſwered, viz.

Object. 1. That all the Fathers and ancient Interpreters, ſeem not only ſilent as to this import of theſe words, but generally ſeem to refer the τὸ κατέχον, that which with-held this Revelation of the Man of Sin to the Roman Empire.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, (1.) That this Objection may be retorted upon all the other Opinions with equal ſtrength; for what is there ſaid by any of the Fathers, or Eccleſiaſtical Writers, for ſix hundred Years, whence it may be concluded that either Mahomet, or the Pope of Rome, were the Man of Sin here mentioned? What hint hath any Commentator, Greek or Latin, in his Notes upon this Chapter, for a thouſand Years, given, that the Pope and his Clergy were the Perſons here intended?

If it be here replied, That they do conſequentially overthrow this Opinion, by making the Roman Empire to be the τὸ κατέχον, that which with-held. I anſwer, That they more fully overthrow the Opinion, which ſaith the Papal Government is Antichriſt, or the Man of Sin.

1. By ſaying that (t) Antichriſt was coming, and at hand, long before the appearance of the little Horn, which ſprung up only from the Ruines of the Roman Empire, which happed A. D. 475.

2ly, By teaching, ſo generally as they did, that Antichriſt being once revealed, was to continue not 1260 Years, but only three Years and an half. See Note on v. 8.

3ly, That he was to be of the Jewiſh Extract, one (u) of the Tribe of Dan, who alſo was to be circumciſed. And 4ly, That he ſhould be an Enemy to (x) Idolatry and Image-Worſhip, as Irenæus, Hippolytus, Cyrillus Hieroſ. St. Chryſoſtom, and Theodoret ſay.

In a word, they generally held, as I have ſhewed Note on v. 10. that Antichriſt was to come with Signs and Wonders to deceive the Jews, that they might be puniſhed for their Infidelity. All which things muſt be manifeſtly inconſiſtent with the common Notion, that the Pope's Hierarchy muſt be the Man of Sin here primarily intended by St. Paul.

3ly, I anſwer, That though the Fathers do not expreſſly ſay the Jewiſh Nation was the Man of Sin which the Apoſtle here intended, yet many of them have ſaid thoſe things on which this our Interpretation doth depend; as v. g. that this Man of Sin was to be of Jewish Extract, that he was to sit in the Temple of Jerusalem, and that he was to come chiefly to deceive the unbelieving Jews, that so they might be punished for their Infidelity. And

Lastly, As to the τὸ κατέχον, or rather ὁ κατέχων, he that letteth, I only in this differ from them, that whereas they refer this to the Roman Empire, I do refer it to a Roman Emperor; and as some of them held that (y) Nero was this Antichrist, and Man of Sin, and others that he was (z) Domitian, so do I hold that Claudius, the Predecessor of that Nero, was the Person that with-held.

§ 12. Object. 2. It farther is objected, That the Jews were long before revealed to be the great Opposers of Christianity, and the Scribes and Pharisees had long sat in the Temple of God; wherefore the Revelation of the Man of Sin, being only to take place for some considerable time after the writing this Epistle, the Jewish Nation cannot be reasonably deemed the Man of Sin.

Answ. I have already answered this Objection in the Paraphrase, by shewing that these are the Descriptions of the Man of Sin, by which the Thessalonians, and others, might then know him; and that they were all spoken in the Present Tense, shewing what he already did; and that he was yet more fully to be revealed, either by his actual Apostacy from the Roman Government, which happened in the Twelfth of Nero, or by the great Apostacy of the Believers of that Nation from the Faith.

2ly, I add, That the Jewish Nation not only had a great Opinion of their dearness to the God of Heaven, but were also look'd upon by their Proselytes, and others, as God's peculiar and beloved People, and therefore such a change of Providence as made it appear to all Men, they were become the Generation of his Wrath, must also be a Revelation of them as the greatest of Sinners. And since this came upon them after they had rejected our Messiah, and crucified the Lord of Life, it must be a discovery that they became Sons of Perdition upon this account; and in this sense the removing that which letted, must make way for the Revelation of that wicked one whom the Lord would consume with the breath of his Mouth. As then the Roman Church, though she is thought by us to be the Antichrist here spoken of, and the Beast mentioned in the Revelations, is yet by many other Christian Churches in the West, thought to be the true Catholick Church of Christ, and her Bishop to be the Vicar of Christ, the Successor of Peter, and the Head of the Universal Church, and so will only be revealed to them to be what we now deem her, when she shall go into destruction, and be destroyed by the Sword of Christ, and by the breath of his Mouth, so was the Church of Jerusalem then only fully revealed to Jew and Gentile, and to the Judaizing Christians, to be not what they did erroniously think her, but what the Apostle here doth represent her, when our Lord did thus consume her by the breath of his Mouth, and God so signally demonstrated she was a Vessel of his Wrath fitted for destruction.

This Epistle seems to be written soon after the first, and as Bishop Pearson probably conjectures, in the same Year, Sylvanus and Timotheus being still with him when he writ it, as they were at the writing of the first Epistle, 2 Thess. 1. 1. Now St. Paul staid at Corinth only a Year and six Months, Acts 18. 11. and there he had preached a considerable time, every Sabbath day, before they came to him, Acts 18. 45. and so before he writ his first Epistle, it being written after that Timothy was come to him, 1 Thess. 3. 6. and they seem to be gone from him before he left Corinth, to go to Syria, for then he had only with him Priscilla and Aquila, Acts 18. 18. so that the Interval betwixt these two Epistles could not be above a Year.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Second Epistle of St. PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. PAUL and Sylvanus and Timotheus [write] to the Church of the Thessalonians [established] in [the knowledge and worship of] God the Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ.

2. [Wishing] grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3. We are bound to thank God always for you, Brethren, as it is meet [for us to do,] because that your Faith groweth exceedingly, and the Charity of every one of you all towards each other aboundeth.

4. So that we our selves glory in you, [or boast of you] in the Churches of God, for your patience, and [for your] faith [which produceth this patience] in all your persecutions, and tribulations which you endure.

5. Which [Dispensation of Divine Wisdom appointing you to suffer, 1 Thess. 3. 3. and permitting others thus to persecute you,] is a manifest token of the [a] righteous judgment of God, [these Sufferings befalling you] that you may be accounted worthy of the [Celestial] Kingdom of God, for which you also suffer, [and so are an assurance of a day when God will thus reward you.]

6. Seeing it is a righteous thing with [that] God [to whom belongeth recompence, Rom. 12. 19. and who will avenge his Elect that cry unto him day and night, Luke 18. 7.] to recompence tribulation to them that trouble you.

7. And to you who are troubled [as we are,] rest with us, [which rest we both compleatly shall enjoy] when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from Heaven, [attended] with his mighty Angels, [as he shall be at the last day, 1 Thess. 4. 16. when he will come to give every one according to his works, Matth. 16. 27. Mark 8. 38. and gather all the Nations of the World before him, Matth. 25. 32. Jude 14, 15.]

8. [When he shall come, I say,] in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them [among the Heathens] who know not God, and [of those Jews and Gentiles] who [having heard] obey not the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9. Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, [from whose blissful Presence they shall for ever be excluded, Matth. 25. 41, 46.] and [shall find that destruction inflicted on them] [b] by the glory of his power, [that being the time when God will make known his power, on the vessels of wrath fitted for destruction, Rom. 1. 23.]

10. [And it is also a righteous thing with him, then to recompence to you eternal rest] when he shall come to be glorified in [his dealings with] his Saints, and to be admired [for his great love] in [and by] all them that believe, [and particularly by you,] becauſe our teſtimony among you was believed in that day.

11. Wherefore alſo we pray always for you, that our God would count you worthy [ἀξιώσῃ ὑμᾶς κλήσεως, would make you worthy, v. 5.] of this calling [to his Kingdom and Glory,] and fulfil all the good pleaſure of his goodneſs [in you,] and the work of faith with power.

12. That the name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt may be glorified in you, [by your continuance in your faith,] and ye in him, [or by him,] according to the grace of our God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, [by which you are enabled to continue in the faith, and fulfil the good pleaſure of his will.]

a Verſe 5. Τῆς δικαίας κρίσεως, of the righteous judgment of God, &c.] This place, ſaith (a) Eſthius, proves againſt the Hereticks, that Life Eternal is not ſo to be aſcribed to the grace of God, as not to be attributed alſo to the worth and merits of men, proceeding from the grace of God.

But the true import of theſe words will be ſufficiently contained in theſe following particulars:

1. That the Juſtice of God obligeth him to recompence the Obedience, and Sufferings of his faithful Servants, either in this, or in the world to come; ſince were it otherwiſe, we could have no ſufficient Motive to Perſeverance in Obedience to him, or ſuffering for his ſake; and therefore this, by the Apoſtle, is laid as the foundation of all the Service which we pay unto him, even the firm belief that God is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him, Heb. 11. 6.

2*ly*, That ſince God doth not, and according to the nature of the thing he cannot recompence them in this Life, who ſuffer all Calamities and Loſſes they can endure here, and even Death it ſelf for his ſake, his Juſtice will oblige him to do it in the next. Hence the Apoſtle ſaith of himſelf, and all his Fellow-ſufferers, If in this life only we have hope in Chriſt, we are of all men the moſt miſerable, 1 Cor. 15. 19. and puts the queſtion thus, If the dead riſe not at all—— why ſtand we in jeopardy every hour? v. 29, 30. But

3*ly*, That this Reward ſhould be for kind ſo excellent, as is the Beatifick Viſion, the being heirs of God, joint-heirs with Chriſt, the being like to him in glory; and for duration ſhould be eternal; can never be on the account of that ſtrict Juſtice which rendreth to every one his due, ſeeing there can be no Proportion betwixt a finite Action, or Paſſion, and an infinite Reward; and therefore the ſame Apoſtle who ſaith here, ἀξιωθῆναι ὑμᾶς, we for theſe Sufferings are accounted worthy of this Kingdom, doth elſewhere poſitively declare the Sufferings of this preſent Life, οὐκ ἄξια, not worthy of the Glory which ſhall hereafter be revealed, Rom. 8. 18. Nor can the Grace of God, vouchſafed to enable us thus to perſeverance in Sufferings, enhance the Merit of thoſe Sufferings, or make the Reward in Juſtice due unto us; ſince if it be of Grace that we thus ſuffer, then it is not of Debt that we are thus rewarded; God being not in ſtrict Juſtice obliged to reward his own free Gifts and Graces he confers upon us. But

4*ly*, Even this Eternal Recompence being promiſed to thoſe who ſuffer for the ſake of Chriſt, by him who hath ſaid, Be thou faithful to the death, and I will give thee a Crown of Life, Rev. 2. 10. and propounded this as the chief Encouragement, thus to endure with Patience to the end, that great is our reward in Heaven, Matth. 5. 12. it may be ſaid, by virtue of that Promiſe to be in juſtice due to them, who do thus ſuffer for it, it being a part of juſtice to perform our Promiſes, and be faithful to our Words. This therefore is a faithful ſaying, If we ſuffer with him, if we endure, we ſhall live, and reign with him, 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. And we may reſt aſſured, That God the righteous Judge will give this Crown of Righteouſneſs to us at that day, 2 Tim. 4. 8. that being approved, we ſhall receive that Crown of Life which the Lord hath promiſed to them that love him, James 1. 12. But then God being not obliged in ſtrict juſtice to promiſe ſo great a Recompence, he cannot be ſaid to confer it, ex dignitate, merito, aut æqualitate Rei, by reaſon of the dignity or worth of theſe our Sufferings, or becauſe the Reward is only to equal the Merit of them, but only ex juſtitia pacti, becauſe his Promiſe hath made it juſt and equal for him ſo to do.

b Ver. 9. This Phraſe, καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς δόξης τῆς ἰσχύος αὐτοῦ, and from the glory of his power, is taken from Iſaiah 2. 19, 21.

CHAPTER II.

Verſe 1. NOW we beſeech you, Brethren, by [or concerning] [a] the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and by our gathering together to him, [mentioned, Mat. 24. 31.]

2. That ye be not ſoon ſhaken in mind, [ἀπὸ τῆς φωνῆς from the Sentence you formerly received from me,] or be troubled neither by ſpirit, [i. e. by any pretended Revelation,] nor by word [ſpoken by us, and by others miſunderſtood, 2 Pet. 3. 15, 16.] nor by letter, as from us, [i. e. by any thing contained in our former Epiſtle, Chap. 4. 15. & 5. 2. or rather in thoſe words, Chap. 2. 16. Wrath is come upon them εἰς τέλος to the uttermoſt, ſo] as [to conceive] that the day of Chriſt [b] is at hand.

3. Let no man deceive you [by theſe pretences] by any means, for that day ſhall not come, except there come [c] a falling away firſt [of the Jews from the Roman Empire, or from the Faith,] and [by that means] the [d] Man of Sin be revealed, [who is] the Son of Perdition.

4. Who [e] oppoſeth [himſelf now to the Chriſtian Church,] and [f] exalteth himſelf above all that is called God, or that is worſhipped [Gr. ἢ σέβασμα, or worſhip;) ſo that he, as God, [g] ſitteth in the Temple of God, ſhewing himſelf that he is God.

5. Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, [h] I told you [of] theſe things, [viz. of the man of ſin to be revealed, and of theſe Characters of him.]

6. And now ye know [i] what witholdeth, that he might be revealed [k] in his time.

7. For the [l] myſtery of iniquity doth already work, (i. e. the Jews are already making ſome efforts towards this Apoſtacy,] only he [m] who now letteth will let, [or, only there is that witholdeth as yet, and will continue ſo to do] [n] until he [or it] be taken out of the way.

8. And then ſhall [o] that wicked one be [p] revealed, whom the Lord ſhall [q] conſume with the ſpirit [or breath] of his mouth, and ſhall [r] deſtroy with the brightneſs of his coming.

9. Even him whoſe coming is after the working of Satan, with [s] all power, and ſigns, and lying wonders.

10. And with all deceivableneſs of unrighteouſneſs in them that periſh, [t] becauſe they received not the love of the truth that they might be ſaved.

11. And for this cauſe [u] God ſhall ſend [among] them ſtrong deluſions [which will have this effect upon them,] that they ſhould [ſhall] believe a lie.

12. That they all might be damned, [Gr. judged and condemned] who believed not the truth, [the Goſpel preached to them; See Note on Rom. 2. 8.] but had pleaſure in unrighteouſneſs, [or Falſhood; See Note on 1 Cor. 13. 6.]

13. But we are bound to give thanks always to God for the Brethren beloved of the Lord, becauſe God hath from the beginning [of our preaching to you ſhew'd, 1 Theſſ. 1. 4, 5. that he had,] choſen you to Salvation through Sanctification of the Spirit, [which gives the earneſt of it, and makes us meet for it,] and belief of the truth, [which promiſeth it.]

14. [x] Whereunto [i. e. to which Faith, and Sanctification,] he hath called you by [the preaching of] our Goſpel [y] to the obtaining of the Glory, [Gr. to the glorious Salvation] of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

15. Therefore, Brethren, ſtand faſt [in the Faith,] and [z] hold the Traditions which you have been taught, whether by Word, [v. 5, 6.] or [by this] our Epiſtle.

16. Now our Lord Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, and God, even our Father [through him] who hath loved us, and hath given us everlaſting Conſolation, and good hope, through Grace;

17. Comfort your hearts, and ſtabliſh you in every good word and work.

Annotations on Chap. II.

[a] Verſe 1. Ὑπὲρ τῆς παρουσίας τοῦ Κυρίου, By the coming of the Lord.] That ὑπὲρ with a Genitive Caſe ſignifies de, or circa, about, or concerning, cannot be doubted. It is rendred concerning Rom. 9. 27. See 2 Cor. 12. 5, 8. It is thrice rendred, of, in the ſame import, as 2 Cor. 1. 8. our hope ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν, of you is certain; Chap. 8. 23. Whether any enquire, ὑπὲρ Τίτου, of Titus; and v. 24. our boaſting ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν, i. e. concerning you. Philip. 1. 7. It is meet for me to think thus, ὑπὲρ πάντων ὑμῶν, of you all. Hence Phavorinus ſaith 'tis uſed, ὑμῶν τῆς σῆς. See 2 Cor. 7. 4. & 9. 3.

The coming of Chriſt is by the Reverend Dr. Hammond, referred to Chriſt's coming to deſtroy the unbelieving Jews, and throw down their Temple, and their Worſhip which depended on it. This is the παρουσία τῦ υἱῦ τῦ ἀνθρώπυ, the coming of Chriſt, or of the Son of Man, ſo often mentioned in our Lord's Prediction of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and of the Temple, Mat. 24. 3, 27, 37, 39. This is moſt certainly the import of the Phraſe in St. James twice, when he exhorts the Brethren to be patient, ἕως τ῀ παρουσίας τῦ Κυρίυ, till the coming of the Lord; adding that this παρουσία τῦ Κυρίυ, coming of our Lord was at hand, and the Judge ſtood before the door, James 5. 7, 8, 9.

As for the Phraſe, Our gathering together to him, it ſeems parallel to the Words of Chriſt, Mat. 24. 31. ἐπισυνάξυσι τὺς ἐκλεκτὺς αὐτῦ, his Angels ſhall then gather his Elect. And to apply it to the Theſſalonians, let it be noted, that they were partly Converts of the Jews and Proſelytes. For the Converts made by St. Paul's preaching to them, were of the believing Jews, and the devout Greeks, Acts 17. 4. who, in expectation of our Lord's Prediction, as well as from their Obſervation of the Jewiſh Feſtivals, might be inclined to go up to Jeruſalem. Moreover, till the writing of this Epiſtle, if not long after, even till the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, the Jewiſh Converts kept up their Synagogue-Worſhip, and many Proſelites, and other Chriſtians, did not ſcruple to aſſemble with them; the Jewiſh Converts thought themſelves obliged to do it, they being all zealous of the Law, Acts 21. 20. and many of the Gentile Chriſtians complied with it at Corinth, Galatia, and Philippi; but after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, there was an end of this Synagogue-Worſhip, the Day having revealed that God was no longer pleaſed with it, and then they met together ſtill as Churches of Chriſt; and this might be their ἐπισυναγωγὴ πρὸς αὐτὸν, the gathering together to him here ſpoken of.

But yet, conſidering that this παρουσία, or coming of Chriſt in the former Epiſtle is uſed four times, with relation to Chriſt's coming at the Day of Judgment, viz. Chap. 2. 19. & 3. 13. & 4. 15. & 5. 23. it may be thought more reaſonable to refer this paſſage to the ſame Advent, and Paraphraſe it thus, I beſeech you Brethren, by (the Bleſſing you expect at) the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and at our gathering together to him.

b Ver. 2. Ἐνέστηκε is, or hath been inſtant.] To conceive that ſignal Day of the Deſtruction of their Enemies the Jews, and the Deliverance of the Chriſtians mentioned, Joel 2. 31, 32. Mal. 4. 1, 2. come, and find themſelves deceived in that Conception, might cauſe great trouble to them, and even ſhake their ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith.

Ver. 3. Ἀποστασία πρῶτον, a falling away firſt.] c The Rebellion of the Jews againſt the Chaldeans was always ſtiled Apoſtacy, and the Jews upon that account Apoſtates. So Jeruſalem is repreſented as πόλις ἀποστάτις, a City that rebell'd againſt Kings; and in which ἀποστάσεις γίνονται, Rebellions were found, Ezra 4. 12, 15, 19. Thus Ezra 3. 2, 18, 22. they are ſtiled Ἰουδαῖοι ἀποστάται, rebellious Jews; and v. 27. it is ſaid that they were given to Rebellion and War. See Neh. 2. 19. & 6. 6. 1 Mac. 13. 16. 2 Mac. 5. 11. And in like manner their Revolt from the Roman Government, is by Joſephus generally expreſſed by the ſame word, (a) Coming from Rome, ſaith he, in the time of Nero, when Felix was Procurator of Judæa, I found then the beginnings of Innovations, οἱ πολλοὶ ἐπὶ τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἀποστάσει μέγα φρονοῦντας, and many much addicted to Apoſtacy from the Roman Government. (b) One Juſtus, ſaith he, provoked the People, εἰς ἀποστασίαν, to Rebellion; but John the Son of Levi ſeeing ſome of them, διὰ τὴν ἀποστασίαν τὴν ἀπὸ Ῥωμαίων μέγα φρονοῦντας, prone to Apoſtacy from the Roman Government, endeavoured to keep them to their Duty.

But if any like not this Notion of Apoſtacy, they may underſtand theſe words, of the great Apoſtacy of the Jews foretold by Chriſt, Mat. 24. 11, 12. and which hapned not only in Judea, and Paleſtine, but throughout Aſia, 2 Tim. 1. 15. and in all other places where they had embraced the Goſpel. Of which Apoſtacy, note, 1ſt, That when the Apoſtle writ this Epiſtle it was yet to come; for tho' the Myſtery of Iniquity was already working in the Seductions of the falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers of the Jewiſh Nation, endeavouring to corrupt the Minds of the Gentile Converts, from the ſimplicity that was in Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 3. and to bring them into Bondage to the Jewiſh Law, Gal. 2. 4. and ſo deprive them of that liberty wherewith Chriſt had made them free; yet the great defection of the Jewiſh Converts to their old Judaiſm, ſeems to have had its riſe about ten Years after the writing this Epiſtle. For it is certain, that A. D. 63. when the Apoſtle writ the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, it was begun already, and many of the Jewiſh Converts then were in great danger of falling back unto Perdition, as appears from the vehement Admonitions, and Exhortations of the Apoſtle to them to beware, leſt there ſhould be in any of them an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God, and to exhort one another daily to this ſtedfaſtneſs, as knowing we are only partakers of Chriſt, if we hold the beginning of our confidence firm to the end, chap. 3. 12, 13, 14. To labour to enter into that reſt Chriſt had prepared for them, leſt any Man fall after the ſame example of unbelief, chap. 4. 11. Not to forſake the aſſembling of themſelves together, as the manner of ſome was, chap. 10. 25. Nor to caſt away their confidence, v. 35. To lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees, and make ſtrait paths for their feet, leſt that which is lame be turned out of the way, and to look diligently leſt any Man fall from the Grace of God, chap. 12. 12, 13, 15. As alſo from the Repreſentation of the dreadful State of all who ſhould Apoſtatize after this manner, that 'twas impoſſible to renew them to Repentance, chap. 6. 4, 6. that they were nigh to Curſing, and their end was to be burned, v. 8. that there was no more ſacrifice for their ſin, but a fearful looking for of deſtruction, and fiery indignation, chap. 10. 26, 27. and Vengeance from the living God, v. 30, 31. that it would certainly be a falling back to perdition, v. 38, 39. that there would be no eſcaping for them who turned away from him who ſpake to them from Heaven, ch. 12. 25. The ſame we learn from the like Exhortations of St. James to Joy, and Patience, under their Afflictions, chap. 1. 1, to the 12th, chap. 5. 7, to the 12th: Of St. Peter, 1 Pet. 3. 14, 15. chap. 4. 12. to the 19th, chap. 5. 8, 9, 10. And from St. John's frequent Exhortation, to hold to that which they had received from the beginning, and to continue walking in the truth. Now the Occaſions of this great Apoſtacy ſeem to have been theſe three.

1*ſt*, Their Zeal for the Obſervation of the Law, which they conceived to be of Eternal Obligation, eſpecially to the Jews to whom particularly it was given; and for the Covenant of Circumciſion, which they eſteemed highly meritorious, (See Note on Rom. 2. 13) that which made them perfect, gave them Life, and delivered them from Hell, according to theſe Sayings of theirs, (c) He that is circumciſed is perfect: He that is circumciſed ſhall not go to Gehinnom: And I ſaid unto thee in thy Blood, live, Ezek. 16. 6. This is the Blood of the Circumciſion. This they endeavoured to impoſe upon the Gentile Converts. And all the Myriads of Jewiſh Converts were all zealous for the obſervation of it by the Jews, and look'd upon it as downright Apoſtacy for them to forſake Moſes, and not to circumciſe their Children, and walk according to their Cuſtoms received from Moſes, or from their Traditions, ἐξουσίαν διδάσκειν ἀπὸ Μωσέως, Acts 21. 21. And this ſeems to be the reaſon why St. Paul, in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, diſcourſeth ſo largely of the neceſſity of the change of the Law, viz. that by eſtabliſhing that Truth, he might put a ſtop to the Apoſtacy occaſioned by their contrary Perſwaſion.

2*ly*, Their beloved Dream of a Temporal Kingdom to be erected by their Meſſiah at his coming, the Halcyon Days that were then expected by them, and the Dominion they ſhould then have over the Nations, who were not, according to their Sentiments, to come into the Meſſiah, otherwiſe than as their Slaves or Servants. How deeply this Imagination was fixed even in the Hearts of Chriſt's Apoſtles, we learn, as from many other things, ſo eſpecially from their Queſtion to him after his Reſurrection, Lord, wilt thou at this time reſtore the Kingdom unto Iſrael? Acts 1. 7. And becauſe our Lord gave this Anſwer to it, viz. It is not for you to know the times and ſeaſons which the Father hath put in his own hands, but ye ſhall receive power, the Holy Spirit coming upon you, and ye ſhall be my Witneſſes in Jeruſalem, and all Judea, and Samaria, and to the ends of the Earth, v. 7, 8. They were prone to think that at leaſt, after the Apoſtles had done this, they might expect our Lord ſhould come in the Clouds of Heaven, to ſet up this Kingdom, they therefore believed in him rather as a Temporal, than a Spiritual King; they own'd him rather as a true Prophet, to perſwade them to be righteous, than as a Saviour to procure to them Remiſſion of Sins, and a New Covenant eſtabliſhed in his Blood. Hence Origen ſpeaking of thoſe words of Chriſt, If I ſay the truth, why do you not believe? Which he conceives were ſpoken to thoſe Jews which believed, he ſaith, they might be ſaid to believe in one ſenſe, and not to believe in another. So, v. g. (d) they that believe in Jeſus Chriſt crucified in the Days of Pontius Pilate, but believe him not to be born of the Virgin Mary, (i. e. the Ebionites] believe in him, and do not believe in him. And again, (e) They who believe in Jeſus, who did in Judæa the Signs and Wonders which were written of him, but believe him not to be the Son of that God who made Heaven and Earth, believe in him, and believe not in him; and this relateth to others of the Jews. And hence it ſeems to be, that the Apoſtle is ſo large in treating of the Sacerdotal Office of our Lord, and of the new Covenant eſtabliſhed in his Blood. Moreover, the Jews were generally poſſeſs'd with this Opinion, that (f) about that time their Meſſiah ſhould ſet up this Temporal Kingdom, and they generally expected, not a Meſſiah to ſuffer for their Sins, of whom they ſeem then to have had no Notion, Joh. 12. 34. but a great King to ſubdue their Enemies under them. And this was their great Stumbling-block, that (g) our Jeſus appeared not to be ſuch a one; and this was the great thing that animated them to the War. When therefore the Goſpel had been preached to the World, and there was no appearance of Chriſt's coming in the Clouds to be their King, and their Deliverer, but rather to deſtroy their Temple and their Nation, they began to fall off from him, as not anſwering their Expectation, or the Predictions of their Prophets, and to give Ear to their falſe Prophets, ſaying to them, Lo here is Chriſt, and there is Chriſt, according to our Lord's Prediction, Mat. 24. 22. and promiſing freedom and deliverance, ſaith (h) Joſephus, to as many as ſhould follow them.

And, Laſtly, The great cauſe of this Apoſtacy, of which the Scriptures takes a more ſpecial notice, was the grievous Perſecutions they ſuffered in all places from their Fellow-Jews, and from thoſe Heathens they had inſtigated againſt them; this by St. Paul is ſtiled a great Fight of Afflictions, againſt which he deſires them to arm themſelves by Faith and Patience, and the Conſideration of the coming of their Lord, and by the Example of that Cloud of Witneſſes which he had ſet before them, Heb. 10. 11, 12. By St. Peter it is ſtiled, The fiery Trial which was come to try them, 1 Pet. 4. 12. and by which they were in heavineſs through manifold Tribulations, 1 Pet. 1. 6. And againſt which St. James endeavours to ſtrengthen them by the conſideration of the bleſſed Fruits, and glorious Recompence, their Patience under them would produce, chap. 1. and of the Preſence of their Lord, who would ſhortly come to reſcue them, and give an happy iſſue of them, chap. 5. by reaſon of which Perſecutions ſome began to uſe great compliances with the Jews to avoid their Rage; others to fall away from the Chriſtian Faith, hoping perhaps, that they might ſtill obtain Salvation in that Religion in which they expected to find it before they embraced Chriſtianity.

Others who refer this to the Church of Rome, underſtand by this Apoſtacy, a falling away from the Doctrine, and the true Worſhip of God and Chriſt, by Idolatry in the Worſhip of a conſecrated Wafer, of Angels, Saints, Images, and Relicks, on which account that Church is repreſented under the Characters of Spiritual Egypt, of Myſtical Babylon, and the Mother of Fornications, Rev. 11. 8. & 17, 5.

Ibid. ὁ ἀνθρωπος τ ἁμαρτίας, The Man of Sin.] If you read here, ὁ ἀνθρωπος ἀνομίας, the Man of Diſobedience, who will not ſubmit to Law and Government, as do the Manuſcripts of Stephanus and Lincoln, nothing can more exactly agree to the Jewiſh Nation, which in the times of (i) Joſephus had this Character, that it was, ἔθνος δυσάρεσον κ δυσπειθὲς φύσ πρὸς τὰς βασιλέας, a Nation naturally averſe from Subjection to Kings. If we retain the common Reading, no Nation under Heaven more deſerved to be ſtiled the Man of Sin than did the Jewiſh Nation, after the Spirit of Slumber and Blindneſs was come upon them, Rom. 11. 8. for the Rejection of the promiſed Meſſiah. Their own Joſephus ſaith, It is impoſſible to recount ſeverally the Particulars of their Wickedneſs; but in the general it may be ſaid, that never any City ſuffered ſuch Calamities, μήτε γενεὰν ἐξ ἀιῶνος γενέσθαι κακίας γονιμωτέραν, nor was ever any Generation ſince the Memory of Man, more fruitful in Iniquity. See this more fully proved, Note on Rom. 2.1. Then therefore more eſpecially was this Man of Sin revealed to be ſo. This Character doth alſo very well agree to the Beaſt mentioned in the Revelations, which being Spiritual Sodom and Egypt, Rev. 11. 8. the Mother of Fornications, and the Abominations of the Earth, chap. 17. 5. may very well deſerve the Title of the Man of Sin.

Object. If here it be objected againſt the application of this Character to the Jewiſh Nation, that the Man of Sin ſeems to relate to ſome ſingle Perſon, and therefore cannot be interpreted of a whole Nation, eſpecially if they act not under ſome Head, or other.

Anſw. I anſwer, that I have for this the Authority of the Prophet cited here, v. 8. who ſaith, He ſhall ſmite the Land, (Chald. the Sinners of the Land) with the Word of his Mouth, and with the Breath of his Lips, ימות רשע ἀνελεῖ ἀσεβῆ, He ſhall conſume the wicked one. Which Wicked One, whether we underſtand it with the Fathers, of Antichriſt, or with the Jews of Armillus, i. e. the Romans, or with the Proteſtants of the Papal Polity, under the Name of one, muſt comprehend all his Aſſociates and Followers, tho' they be many Nations. Thus alſo doth the Prophet Iſaiah introduce God ſpeaking to all the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem and Judah, and now יושב Inhabiter of Jeruſalem ואיש ἀνθρωπος τῆς Ἰούδα, and Man of Juda, ch. 5. 3. & v. 7. ἀνθρωπος, the Man of Judah is my pleaſant Plant. And Jeremiah ſpeaks in the Perſon of the whole Jewiſh Nation, ſaying, I am the Man that have ſeen affliction, Lam. 3. 1. and ſo on to v. 22. So in the Parable, Mat. 22. 11. our Saviour repreſents the Jewiſh Nation from whom the Kingdom of God was to be taken away, and who were to be caſt out into outer darkneſs, v. 13. by the Man that had not on his Wedding-Garment. So the two Witneſſes, Rev. 11. 3. and the Woman cloathed with the Sun, Rev. 12. 1. repreſent the whole Body of true Chriſtians. And the Beaſt, chap. 13. 1. the Woman arayed in Purple and Scarlet, chap. 17. 4. and the great Whore, chap. 19. 2. include all the Members of the Roman Church. And therefore it is evident, that this Objection of a ſingle Perſon ſeems equally to lie againſt all the other Hypotheſes. And as they had their Heads in which they were united, ſo had the Jewiſh Nation their High-Prieſt and Sanhedrim, their Rulers of the People, their Scribes and Phariſees, the Heads of this Man of Sin, as the Pope and his Clergy, are the Head of the Beaſt.

e Ibid. Ὁ υἱὸς τῆς ἀπωλείας, The Son of Perdition.] This alſo perfectly agrees to the Jews, not only becauſe Chriſt was to ſmite them with the Breath of his Mouth; See Note on v. 8. and to ſmite the Land with a Curſe, Mal. 4. 6. but becauſe they are ſet forth as Veſſels of Wrath fitted εἰς ἀπώλειαν, for deſtruction, Rom. 9. 22. as Men appointed to Wrath, 1 Theſſ. 5. 9. to ſudden Deſtruction, v. 4. as Men whoſe end is ἀπώλεια, deſtruction, Philip. 3. 19. Note alſo, that this agrees exactly to the great Whore, who is to go εἰς ἀπώλειαν, into deſtruction, Rev. 17. 8, 11.

Ver. 4. Ὁ Ἀντικείμενος, Who oppoſeth himſelf.] This word in the Old Teſtament repreſents the Adverſaries of God and his Church. So Iſa. 66. 6. The Voice of the Lord rendring recompenſe, τοῖς ἀντικειμένοις, to his Enemies. And Eſth. 9. 2. They who ſought the hurt of the Jews are, οἱ ἀντικείμενοι τοῖς Ἰουδαίοις. And in like manner in the New Teſtament, ὁ ἀντικείμενος, is in the general the Adverſary of Chriſt, and of Chriſtianity; as in thoſe words, Give no occaſion, τῷ ἀντικειμένῳ, to the Adverſary to blaſpheme, 1 Tim. 5. 14. In particular the Jews, as they were οἱ ἀντικείμενοι τῷ Χριστῷ, the Adverſaries of Chriſt, Luke 13. 17. So in our Lord's Diſcourſe on the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, they are ſtiled the Adverſaries of the Apoſtles in theſe words, I will give you a Mouth and Wiſdom, which οἱ ἀντικείμενοι ὑμῶν, your Adverſaries ſhall not be able to reſiſt, or gainſay, Luke 21. 15. They are the ἀντικείμενοι πολλοί, of which St. Paul ſpeaks, ſaying, a great door, and effectual is opened to me in Epheſus; and and there be many Adverſaries, 1 Cor. 16. 9. as you may learn from Acts 19. 9. where we find them ſpeaking evil of the way of Chriſtianity before the multitude, and St. Paul ſeparating from them upon that account. And in thoſe words of St. Paul to the Philippians, chap. 1. 28. In nothing be ye terrified by (the Malice and Perſecution of) your Adverſaries, ἥτις ἐστὶν αὐτοῖς ἔνδειξις ἀπωλείας, which Malice and Perſecution, is to them, an evident Token of Perdition, but to you of Salvation; See 2 Theſſ. 1. 5. And with good reaſon is this name given to them eſpecially, they being the Men who killed the Lord Jeſus, and perſecuted his Apoſtles; who pleaſed not God, and were Adverſaries to all Men; forbidding the Apoſtles to preach to the Gentiles that they might be ſaved, 2 Theſſ. 2. 15, 16. When they began to preach the Word of Life, the High-Prieſt, the Captain of the Temple, and the Sadduces, Acts 4. 1. and the whole Order of the Prieſthood, v. 6. ſtiled τὸ συνέδριον, the Sanhedrim. v. 15. command them not to ſpeak at all in the Name of Jeſus, v. 18. on which account theſe Rulers are ſaid to be aſſembled againſt the Lord, and againſt his Chriſt, v. 26. And the Anſwer of the Apoſtles to them is, That God was rather to be obeyed than Man. After this, the High-Prieſt, and all his Aſſociates, place the Apoſtles ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ, in the Sanhedrim, Acts 5. 17, 27. calling them to an acconnt for diſobeying their Commands; and having received this Anſwer from the Apoſtles, That God muſt be obeyed rather than Man, they f they beat them in the Sanhedrim, and again command them not to ſpeak in the Name of Jeſus, v. 40, 41. Soon after we find Stephen brought before the Scribes and Elders, εἰς τὸ Συνέδριον, into the Sanhedrim, chap. 6. 12. and the High-Prieſt, chap. 7. 1. and they who ſat ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ, in the Sanhedrim, having examined him, and the Witneſſes againſt him, they ſtoned Stephen, v. 59. which Death could only be inflicted on him by the Sanhedrim. After this, Saul receives Letters from the High Prieſt, chap. 9. 1. and from all the Elders, chap. 22. 5, to bind all Chriſtians he could find in any of their Synagogues, and bring them to Jeruſalem, Acts 9. 2, 14. Yea in the ſecond, or as Biſhop Pearſon ſaith, in the fourth Year of Nero, the High-Prieſts, καὶ ὅλον τὸ συνέδριον, and the whole Sanhedrim meet, Acts 22. 30. and Paul is brought before them, chap. 23. 1. By all which paſſages, as we ſee how they are ſtill ſhewing themſelves Adverſaries to Chriſt, and his Diſciples, ſo we learn the falſhood of that Jewiſh Story, That forty Years before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, the Jewiſh Sanhedrim removed from thence to Joppa; which, ſaith (k) Mr. Selden, as I have never read any ſuch thing in the Ancients, ſo may it be confuted from the Life of Joſephus. It was this Sanhedrim that admitted that Publick Prayer againſt the Chriſtians, called Berachoth Haminnim, the Curſing of the Hereticks. They therefore called Jeſus accurſed, 1 Cor. 12. 2. and ſo, as (l) Juſtin M. ſaith, they diſhonoured Chriſt as much as they could, καταρώμενοι ἐν ταῖς Συναγωγαῖς ὑμῶν τοὺς πεδώντας ἐπὶ τῷ χριστῷ, curſing in their Synagogues thoſe that believe in him. Thus did they crucifie afreſh the Son of God, and put him to an open ſhame; yea, ſaith the ſame (m) Juſtin, ἄνδρας ἐκλεκτοὺς ἀπὸ Ἱερουσαλὴμ ἐκλεξάμενοι τότε ἐξεπέμψατε εἰς πᾶσαν τὴν γῆν, they ſent choſen Men from Jeruſalem throughout the whole Earth, repreſenting the Chriſtian Faith as an Atheiſtical Hereſie. Now this could be done only by the Sanhedrim. It was laſtly by the High-Prieſt, and his Sanhedrim aſſembled at Jeruſalem, that (n) James the Brother of our Lord, with ſome other Chriſtians, is condemned to be ſtoned for Blaſphemy againſt the Law. Yea, when the War was begun, Affairs ſeem ſtill to be ordered by the High-Prieſt, and Sanhedrim: For it was after the Flight of Ceſtius Gallus from Jeruſalem, that (o) Joſephus was made Governour of Galilee, and (p) thence he writes τῷ Συνεδρίῳ τῶν Ἱεροσολυμιτῶν, to the Sanhedrim of Jeruſalem for Inſtruction. And (r) Ananias the High-Prieſt acknowledges that they had engaged in the War againſt the Romans only for their Liberty. So that things ſeem to have been managed to that time by the High-Prieſt and Sanhedrim, who appearing thus upon all occaſions with the utmoſt Rage againſt Chriſt, and Chriſtians, might well be deemed not only ἀντικείμενοι, their Adverſaries, but Antichriſts. But then the Roman Antichriſt being alſo to wear out the Saints of the moſt High, Dan. 7. 25. and caſt down ſome of the Hoſt of Heaven, Dan. 8. 10. the Beaſt being to ſlay the Witneſſes, Rev. 11. 7. to make War with the Saints, and overcome them, chap. 13 7. and even to be drunk with the Blood of the Saints, and of the Martyrs of Jeſus, chap 17. 6, 18, 24. She doubtleſs muſt emphatically deſerve this Title.

Ibid. Ὑπεραιρόμενος ἐπὶ πᾶν τὸ λεγόμενον θεὸν ἢ σέβασμα, Exalting himſelf above all that is called God, or is worſhipped.] The word λεγόμενος, called, ſhews the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of Magiſtrates who are called Gods in Scripture, Pſal. 82. 6. and particularly of the Roman Emperor, whoſe Title was σεβαστὸς, Auguſtus, and who are here ſignified by σέβασμα, as God is by the Word θεὸν. And how the Jews exalted themſelves againſt every thing that is called God, or the Magiſtracy, we may obſerve, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, in ſuch paſſages as theſe, 2 Pet. 2. 10. They deſpiſe Government, Jude 8. They deſpiſe Dominion, and ſpeak evil of Dignities, and in their own Stories, to endleſs Examples. How they ſtood affected to them, we may learn from the Queſtion they put to our Saviour, Shall we pay Tribute to Cæſar, or not? Mat. 22. 17. For had he anſwered No, they then thought they ſhould have ground to repreſent him as an Enemy to Cæſar; if, Yea, to repreſent him to the People as a Betrayer of his Country's Liberty and Freedom, (s) ἢ ὀλίγιμον ὑδὲν ἀλλὰ ἢ ἀντικρὺς δουλείαν ἐπιφέρειν λέγοντες, they looking on the Payment of this Tribute-Money as a Sign of Slavery: And from their Talmudical Saying, We have no King but God, and from their imagination, that it was a wicked thing, (t) μετὰ ἢ Θεὸν φέρειν ἀνητὸς δεσπότας, to own any mortal g

Governour under God; See Note on 1 Pet. 2. 16. And that the Pope, and his Church have thus exalted themselves above Kings, and Emperors, Church-History, and their own Canon Law, will not suffer us to doubt; See Downham de Antichristo, Lib. 4. c. 2, 3.

h Ibid. Ὥστε αὐτὸν εἰς τὸν ναὸν Θεοῦ ὡς Θεὸν καθίσαι, So that he sitteth in the Temple of God, as God, shewing himself that he is God.] Only the Jewish Sanhedrim, their Priests, High-Priests, and Doctors, or Expounders of the Law, sat in the Temple of God, then properly so called, and there the High-Priest, and the Sanhedrim took upon them the power of judging in Capital Causes. Thus they stoned Stephen, thus also they stoned James the Brother of our Lord, and others with him; and St. Paul persecuted the Christians even to Death, by their Authority, Acts 22. 4, 5. and thus they sat in the Temple of God, as Gods. The Scribes, and Pharisees, also shewed themselves as God, by setting up their Traditions above the Commandments of God, pretending to dispense with them, and by so doing, saith our Saviour, ἀκυροῦν, ἀθετεῖν, ἀφιέναι, to lay aside, reject, and to make void the Commandments of God, Mat. 15. 16. Mark 7. 8, 9, 10, 13. to stablish their Traditions. And Secondly, By preferring them to, and requiring greater Reverence to be given to their Traditions, and their Doctrines, than to the written Word of God; saying, That the Words of the Scribes are more amiable than the Words of the Law, and more weighty; that a Prophet was not to be believed without a Sign or a Miracle; but they were to be believed without them; with other blasphemous Sayings cited by (v) Dr. Lightfoot, on Mat. 15. 2. and by Dr. Pocock, who shews that they held their Vows so sacred, that they were obliged to violate the Laws of God to keep them, and that in such Cases they could not observe God's Precepts without great Sin. And Thirdly, This they did by taking to themselves the Titles of Guide and Father, which in our Saviour's Interpretation, belonged only to God and Christ, Mat. 23. 8, 9, 10. See the Note there. And Fourthly, As being by their own Confession θεομάχοι, Fighters against God, by their opposition to the Apostles, commissionated by God, Acts 5. 39. & 23. 9. Here then let it be noted,

1*st*, That these are the Descriptions of the Man of Sin, by which the Thessalonians might then know him, and they run all in the Present Tense, shewing what he already did, and therefore it is no Objection against my Interpretation of these words, that the Sanhedrim, the Scribes and Pharisees, had long sat in the Temple of God, and done the things here attributed to the Man of Sin.

2*ly*, Let it be noted, that it is prophesied, Dan. 11. 35, 36. That a King shall do according to his Will, and shall exalt himself, and shall magnifie himself above every God; and that this, by St. Jerom and Theodoret upon the place, is interpreted concerning Antichrist. And that the Pope of Rome hath manifestly not only thus exalted himself above all that is called God, by usurping a Power over Kings and Emperors, as in the former Note; but also shewed himself in the Church as God, by claiming that Infallibility which is the Property of God, and by dispensing with his Laws, and also by equalling himself to Christ, who is God, see Downham de Antichristo, l. 4. c. 5. And therefore according to the Sentiments of all those Fathers, who by the Temple do understand the Church of God, he hath by these things shew'd himself that he is God. i know what now with-holdeth; and according to this ſenſe of the words, that which hindred the full Revelation of this Man of Sin muſt be in being, and actually with-holding when this Epiſtle was indited. Some of the (y) Fathers have conjectured, that the τὸ κατέχον, or that which hindred, was the Gifts of the Holy Spirit, then given to Believers, and exerciſed in the Aſſemblies of Chriſtians; but they more generally do refer this to the (z) Roman Empire, ſaying, That the Apoſtle here teacheth that, till that be taken away Antichriſt ſhall not come. This, ſay they, the Apoſtle here expreſſeth ſo covertly and obſcurely, (a) that he might not incenſe the Roman Emperors againſt the Chriſtians, as he muſt have done, had he openly and boldly ſaid, Antichriſt ſhall not come till the Roman Empire be deſtroyed. See Note on 1 Pet. 5. 13. What I conceive to be the τὸ κατέχον, ſee Note on the Verſe following.

Ver. 5. Ταῦτα ἔλεγον ὑμῖν, I told you of these things.] These are the words which seem to me to settle my Interpretation of this Chapter. For of the Jews, and their opposing of themselves to the Doctrine of Christianity, and the Professors of it, he told them in his first Epistle, chap. 2. 15, 16. and when he was with them, the Persecutions that both he and they suffered from them, Acts 17. 15, 16. gave him a just occasion to speak both of their opposition to the Gospel, and of the Deliverance they shortly might expect from such enraged Persecutors; this being hinted, for the encouragement of Christians, in most of his Epistles; but that he should tell them any thing of Mahomet, or of the Papal Antichrist, who were not then in being, or to be known then to the Thessalonians by any of the Characters here mentioned, is not so easie to conceive. Though since the Characters here referr'd to are partly to be found, Dan. 11. 35, 36. and that place by the (x) Ancients is thought to relate to Antichrist, and to be here referr'd to by St. Paul, this is by some Expositors thought to refer to something the Apostle might have taught them from the Prophet Daniel, touching Antichrist; See the Preface, § 1, 2, 3.

I Ibid. Ἐν τῷ ἑαυτοῦ καιρῷ, In his Seaſon.] i. e. In the time prefixed for the falſe Chriſts, and Antichriſts to come. Mat. 24. 5, 24. in the laſt Hour of the Jewiſh Church and Oeconomy, according to theſe words of St. John, 1 John 2. 18. Little Children, it is the laſt Hour, and as ye have heard (from Chriſt) that Antichriſt ſhall come, ſo now are there many Antichriſts, by which ye may know that this is the laſt Hour.

They who refer this to the Papal Antichriſt, ſay that this Seaſon relates to the Tempus Statutum, the time prefixed, Dan. 11. 35. For Antichriſt, ſaith he, ſhall proſper till the Indignation be accompliſhed, or till God's Indignation againſt the Jewiſh Nation ceaſeth. And to the time, times, and half a time, mentioned Dan. 7. 25. during which time the little Horn was to wear out the Saints of the moſt High; and to the 1260 Days in which the Beaſt ſhould triumph; and the Witneſſes ſhould be cloathed in Sackcloth, Rev. 11. 3. or to the time, times, and half a time, mentioned Rev. 12. 6, 14.

m Ver. 7. Τὸ γὰρ μυστήριον ἤδη ἐνεργεῖται ἀνομίας, For the Myſtery of Iniquity doth already work.] That is, the Jews have already imbibed their pernicious Principles, that 'tis not lawful to pay Tribute to Cæſar, or to be ſubject to any other Government under God: They have already made ſome Seditious Attempts not only in Babylon, but in Judæa, under Theudas Gaulonites; and alſo have been incited farther ſo to do by one Dortus, and his Aſſociates, who perſwaded the Multitude ἐπὶ τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἀποστάσει, to revolt from the Romans. Joſephus alſo doth inform us, That before that time there were many Tumults in Judæa, καὶ συχνὸς βασιλείαν ὁ καιρὸς ἀνέπεθε, and that the time prevailed with many to uſurp the Kingdom. This Myſtery was alſo working by the falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers of the Jews, cauſing ſome of the Gentile Chriſtians to warp from the Simplicity of the Faith, to the Jewiſh Rites, to mix Judaiſm with Chriſtianity, and ſo to turn from him that called them, to another Goſpel. The Fathers, Theodoret only excepted, ſay this Myſtery of Iniquity was already working, (d) in Nero, the Fore-runner of Antichriſt, and the Calamities he brought upon the Chriſtians. On which account ſome of them taught that he was Antichriſt; and others, that he was to be raiſed again to be ſo. But this is an Extravagancy ſufficiently confuted from this one Obſervation, That theſe words were written in the Reign of Claudius, whereas the Perſecution of the Chriſtians happened only twelve Years after, in the Reign of Nero. Others, who ſay this Myſtery was working in the falſe Prophets then in being, till they can ſhew us any falſe Prophets then in being, which were not of the Jewiſh Nation, do not contradict, but eſtabliſh our Aſſertion. And Laſtly, others tho' they do zealouſly contend againſt Dr. Hammond, that Simon Magus could not be the Man of Sin here mentioned, yet ſay 'tis probable he was the Myſtery of Iniquity then working, and the Fore-runner of Antichriſt, becauſe he did ſet up himſelf as the Supreme God, brought in the Invocation of Angels, and the Worſhip of Images, and taught Idolatry to be a thing indifferent, and was the Father, as the Beaſt is ſtiled the Mother of Abominations; but thus they ſeem to me to build up again, what they had ſo induſtriouſly pulled down. For it is highly reaſonable to conceive the Myſtery of Iniquity then working, ſhould be that very Myſtery which after was to be compleated by a more full appearance of the Man of Sin, as will appear from the Connexion of the Words, Remember ye not, that when I was with you, I told you theſe things, (who was the Man of Sin to be revealed, and what were his Characters, v. 3, 4. and what it was that hindred at preſent the revealing of him:) For the Myſtery of Iniquity is already working, (i. e. he is doing that covertly, which when he is revealed he will do more openly) only he that hinders (his full appearance) will do ſo till he be taken away, and then ſhall this wicked one be revealed: Who ſees not now that all thoſe Interpretations muſt be falſe, which make the Myſtery of Iniquity to be one Perſon, or one kind of Perſons, and the Man of Sin, or Antichriſt another, as they muſt do who make the Myſtery of Iniquity to be Simon Magus, or the falſe Prophets, or Hereticks in being when this Epiſtle was indited; and the Man of Sin, the Pope of Rome, and his Clergy? This Myſtery of Iniquity, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, cannot be underſtood but of the Jewiſh Nation, and ſo it is explained again, and again, by St. John, ſaying, This is the laſt hour, and as you have heard that Antichriſt cometh, ſo now are there many Antichriſts, by which we know this is the laſt hour, 1 John 2. 18. and Chap. 4. 3. Every Spirit that confeſſeth not Jeſus Chriſt, who is come in the Fleſh, is not of God, and this is the Spirit of Antichriſt; this is the Deceiver, and the Antichriſt, Epiſt. 2. 7. Here therefore is a plain account of the working of the Myſtery of Iniquity in the falſe Chriſts, and Prophets of the Jewiſh Nation, who alſo were the great Incendiaries to, and Agents in the Apoſtacy of that Nation from the Roman Government; See Note on v. 10.

n Ibid. Ὁ κατέχων, He that letteth.] Quis niſi Romanus ſtatus? Who but the Roman State, ſaith (c) Tertullian; So many of the Fathers, as hath been noted on the foregoing Verſe. And whereas it may be objected againſt this ſenſe, that it ſeems plainly from the word ὁ κατέχων, that he muſt be a Perſon, rather than a State; they who are of this Opinion anſwer, He is here ſpoken of as one ſingle Perſon, tho' the Government conſiſted of a Succeſſion of Emperors, becauſe one of them only reigned at a time, and the Government was diſſolved by taking away the laſt Governour. My Conjecture is this, He who now letteth, i. e. the Emperor Claudius, will let till he be taken away, i. e. he will hinder the Jews from breaking out into an open Rebellion in his time, they being ſo ſignally and particularly obliged by him, that they cannot for ſhame think of revolting from his Government; for he had made two Edicts in their favour, the one concerning the Alexandrian Jews to this effect, (f) That the juſt Jews ſhould ſuffer nothing, becauſe of the Madneſs of Caius, who would be worſhipped as a God, and that they ſhould have liberty to obſerve their own Laws and Cuſtoms. And that other (g) Edict, in which he gives them Liberty over his whole Empire without moleſtation, to obſerve their own Laws and Cuſtoms, declaring that he did it becauſe he judged them worthy of that Favour, for their Affection and Fidelity to the Roman Government.

After his Death the Affairs of the Jews, ſaith Joſephus, became worſe and worſe, not only by reaſon (h) γοήτων ἀνθρώπων οἱ τὸν ὄχλον ἠπάτων, of thoſe Magicians who deceived the People, and of thoſe Thieves who ſtirred them up to the War againſt the Romans, (i) μηδὲν ὑπακούειν αὐτοῖς λέγοντες, perſwading them not to be ſubject to them, but becauſe Nero in his third Year ſends a Letter to Portius Feſtus, Governour of Judæa, by which the Jews are deprived of their ἰσοπολιτεία, equal ſhare of Government in Cæſarea, whence ſaith Joſephus, was the riſe of all our Calamities, the Jews perſiſting ſtill in Sedition, μέχρι δὴ τοῦ πολέμου ἐξῆψαν, till they broke out into the War. In the ſeventh of Nero, Albinus ſucceeds Feſtus, then dead; who, ſaith Joſephus, was ὁ μάλιστα λυμαινόμενος τῷ χώρᾳ, (k) one who exceedingly waſted the Country, and laid the Seeds of their future Captivity. In the tenth of Nero, Geſſius Florus ſucceeds him, who (l) πολλῶν ἀνέπλησε κακῶν Ἰουδαίους, brought many Calamities upon the Jews, ſaith Joſephus, which having tragically repreſented, he concludes thus, What ſhall I ſay more? τὸ δὴ πρὸς Ῥωμαίους πόλεμον ὁ καταναγκάσας ἡμᾶς ἄρασθαι Φλῶρος, for it was this Florus who compell'd us to the War againſt the o Ibid. Ἕως ἐκ μέσου γένηται, Till he be taken away.] i. e. Say ſome, till the Roman Government be taken away, as it was by the Exile of Auguſtulus, A. D. 475. ſay I, till Claudius be taken away, as he was by Poyſon, ſaith Suetonius; for as tolli de medio, among the Latins, ſo in the Greek, ἐκ μέσου γίνεσθαι imports, one to be taken away by Death, and oft-times by a violent Death; ſo ἐξαναλῶσαι ἐκ μέσου τῆς παρεμβολῆς, is to deſtroy them out of the middle of the Camp, till they were conſumed: So of Core and his Company, it is ſaid ἀπώλοντο ἐκ μέσου τῆς συναγωγῆς, they were deſtroyed from the midſt of the Congregation, Numb. 16. 33. Thus of the Righteous, ſaith the Prophet, ἦρται ἐκ μέσου, he is taken away, he reſts in his Grave, Iſa. 57. 2. So Jeremiah ἐξῆρε ἐκ μέσου, The Lord hath taken away all my mighty Men from the midſt of me, Lam. 1. 15. And ſo God ſaith of the falſe Prophet, Ezek. 14. 8, 9. ἐξαρῶ αὐτὸν, ἀφανιῶ αὐτὸν ἐκ μέσου τοῦ λαοῦ μου, I will cut him off from the midſt of my People.

p Ver. 8. Ὁ ἄνομος, The Wicked.] Who will not be ſubject to the Laws to which their Forefathers from the time of Pompey have ſubmitted.

q Ibid. Ἀποκαλυφθῆναι, Shall be revealed.] Either by his actual Apoſtacy from the Roman Government, or by the great Apoſtacy of the Believers of that Nation; of which ſee Note on v. 3.

r Ibid. Ὃν ὁ Κύριος ἀναλώσει τῷ πνεύματι τοῦ στόματος αὐτοῦ, Whom the Lord ſhall conſume by the Spirit of his Mouth.] That the Apoſtle here refers to Iſaiah 10. 4. appears by his uſing the very words of that Prophet, which run thus, He ſhall ſmite the Land with the Rod of his Mouth, and with the Breath of his Lips ſhall he ſlay the wicked one. Now what is the Land there, is well expounded by Malachy in theſe words, ch. 4. 6. Leſt he ſmite the Earth with a Curſe. Where both the Hebrew, and the Greek uſe the ſame words. Now in Malachy it is evident, and confeſſed, that by the Earth, the Land of Judæa muſt be meant, as it is uſually in the Book of Pſalms, Pſal. 16. 3. & 25. 13. & 37. 3, 9, 11, 22, 29, 34. Seeing to them alone the Prophet was then ſent to propheſie, 'tis therefore reaſonable to conceive, that the ſame Phraſe ſhould have the ſame import in the Prophet Iſaiah; to ſmite this Land with the Breath, or Spirit of his Mouth, is to ſmite in his Wrath and Indignation. So Job 4. 9. by the Blaſt of God, by the Breath of his Noſtrils, ἀπὸ πνεύματος ὀργῆς αὐτοῦ, or of his Anger are they conſumed; and to conſume with his fiery Indignation. Thus Tophet is ordained of old, the Pile thereof is Fire and much Wood, the Breath of the Lord, πνεῦμα Κυρίου, the Indignation of the Lord, like a Stream of Brimſtone doth kindle it. So Pſal. 18. 8. A Smoke aſcended in his Anger, and Fire out of his Mouth devoured. And v. 15. At thy rebuke, O Lord, at the Blaſt of the Breath of thy Noſtrils, ἀπὸ ἐμπνεύσεως πνεύματος ὀργῆς σου, By the Breath of the Wind of thine Anger. This therefore again anſwers to the Words of Malachy, chap. 4. 1. Behold the day cometh that ſhall burn as an Oven, and all the proud, and all that do wickedly ſhall be as ſtubble, and the day that cometh ſhall burn them up. And to that of the Baptiſt, Mat. 3. 10. And now the Ax is laid to the Root of the Trees, every Tree therefore that bringeth not forth good Fruit, ſhall be hewn down, and caſt into the Fire, which alſo evidently belongs to the Jewiſh Nation, which ſaid, We have Abraham for our Father, v. 9. and to whom alone the Baptiſt is there ſpeaking. And again, v. 12. he ſaith of Chriſt, His Fan is in his Hand, and he will throughly cleanſe his Floor—and burn the Chaff with unquenchable Fire, plainly alluding to the words of Malachy, that all the Wicked ſhould be as Chaff, or Stubble. This being ſo, the Earth to be ſmitten with the Rod of his Mouth, muſt be the People, or Inhabitants of the Land, or as the Chaldee the Sinners of the Earth; the Unbelievers, and Wicked of Judæa, to be conſumed by that Indignation and Fire of the Lord, Mal. 4. 1. So ſaith Procopius on the place, Doth the Lord threaten to Judæa, ὅτι τῇ κατ' αὐτοῦ παρανομίᾳ, for her contumely againſt him, ſaying, Thy Houſe is left unto thee deſolate, and ἐγκαταλειφθεῖσα πολέμῳ καὶ πυρὶ διαπάντων, being left deſolate is conſumed by Sword and Fire.

That theſe words may have a more full completion in the Deſtruction of the Beaſt, or Myſtical Babylon, which is alſo to be ſlain by the Sword proceeding from the Mouth of Chriſt, and deſtroyed by the fierceneſs of his Wrath, and, with the falſe Prophet, to be caſt alive into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone, I deny not; but that this ſhould be the primary intent of the Words of Iſaiah, and that he ſhould be there propheſying of the Deſtruction of the Church of Rome, ſeems to me a Rabbinical Gloſs, not much to be inſiſted on, eſpecially ſince the Apoſtle, Rom. 15. 12. applies the tenth Verſe of this Chapter to the firſt calling of the Gentiles.

Ibid. Καὶ καταργήσει τῇ ἐπιφανείᾳ τῆς παρουσίας αὐτοῦ, And ſhall conſume with the brightneſs of his coming.] The Day of the Lord's coming to deſtroy Jeruſalem, is ſtiled by Joel, ch. 2. 31. ἡμέρα Κυρίου ἡ μεγάλη καὶ ἐπιφανὴς, the great and bright Day of the Lord; and Mal. 4. 5. Behold I ſend you Elias the Prophet, (i. e. the Baptiſt, in the Spirit and Power of Elias, Luk. 1. 17.) πρὶν ἐλθεῖν τὴν ἡμέραν τοῦ Κυρίου τὴν μεγάλην καὶ ἐπιφανῆ, before the coming of the great and bright Day of the Lord. And that our Lord's s coming coming in his Day, after he had ſuffered and been rejected of that Age, or Generation, in which he ſuffered, ſhould be as Lightning ſhining from one end of the Heaven to the other, he expreſly tells his Diſciples, Luke 17. 24, 25. And when this ἐπιφάνεια καὶ παρουσία, brightneſs, and appearance of the Son of Man was to happen, he ſufficiently inſtructs them in theſe words, As the Lightning, φαίνεται, ſhineth from the Eaſt to the Weſt, οὕτως ἔσται καὶ ἡ παρουσία τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου, ſo ſhall the coming of the Son of Man be, ὅπου γάρ, for wherefoever the Carcaſe is, there ſhall the Eagles be gathered together, Luke 17. 24, 37. which ſenſibly applies this matter to the deſtruction of the Jews by the Roman Army, whoſe Enſign was the Eagle. This therefore is a farther Confirmation of our Expoſition.

Laſtly, Obſerve the Connexion of theſe Verſes, there is a τὸ κατέχον νῦν, ſome Thing, or Perſon, that with-holdeth now; and ὁ κατέχων ἄρτι, He that now with-holdeth will do ſo till he be taken away, καὶ τότε, and then ſhall the wicked one be revealed, whom the Lord ſhall deſtroy. Now would not any one here think, that if the Roman Government were that which with-held, Antichriſt ſhould preſently be revealed, and appear to the World to be ſo, (as all the (m) Fathers, who were of that Opinion, held) ſoon after the diſſolution of that Government, according to thoſe words of (n) St. Jerom, Qui tenebat, de medio fit, & non intelligimus Antichriſtum appropinquare, quem Dominus Jeſus Chriſtus interficiet Spiritu oris ſui: He that with-held is taken away, and do we not underſtand that Antichriſt is at hand? And again, would not any one hence be prone to think, that the Lord ſhould be as quick to conſume him, when he was revealed, as all the (o) Fathers thought, allowing but three Years and an half for the whole Reign of Antichriſt, and declaring they had this not from (p) Apocryphal Writings, but from the Holy Scriptures? And were it otherwiſe, thoſe Chriſtians which ſaw the Diſſolution of the Roman Empire, A. D. 475. might lie under the ſame Doubts as did the Theſſalonians here, touching the Man of Sin; for then they ſaw no Roman Antichriſt appearing, nor that Myſtery of Iniquity yet working, for the Pope and Clergy of Rome were then Orthodox, free from exalting themſelves above all that is called God, or from wearing out the Saints with Perſecution, till ſome hundred Years after. And if after his appearing thus, he were to continue 1260 Years before our Saviour's coming to deſtroy him, as he muſt do according to that Hypotheſis, might not the Chriſtians be tempted in that long interval, to ſay, Where is the Promiſe of his coming? This therefore ſeems to lie as a ſtrong barr againſt that, as the primary ſenſe and meaning of theſe words.

Ver. 9. Ἐν πάσῃ δυνάμει καὶ σημείοις, With all Power and Signs.] This our Lord foretold, that before his Advent to deſtroy Jeruſalem, there ſhould appear falſe Prophets, and falſe Chriſts, who ſhould deceive many, Mat. 24. 11. who ſhould ſhew Signs and Wonders, to deceive, if it were poſſible, the very Elect, v. 24. Now that theſe falſe Prophets, v. 11. & 24. were the ſame, we learn from St. Luke, who ſums both up in one, chap. 21. 8. and from the Work of both, which was to deceive many; that they were all to appear in the ſame Age, in which his Diſciples, to whom he ſpake theſe words, lived, is alſo evident from Chriſt's Caution to them, in reſpect of both, See to it, leſt any Man deceive you, Mat. 24. 4. See to it, behold, I have foretold you all things, Mark 13. 23. Mat. 24. 25. It cannot then be doubted, but that there were ſuch Perſons as are here mentioned, which then aroſe among the Jews. Such were the Jews of whom St. Paul ſpeaks, comparing them to Jannes and Jambres, the celebrated Magicians of Egypt, becauſe of their Reſiſtance of the Truth of the Goſpel, as thoſe Magicians reſiſted Moſes, and whom he ſtiles πονηροὶ ἄνθρωποι καὶ γόητες, wicked Men, and Jugglers, 2 Tim. 3. 8, 13. or thoſe who did ſtrange things by the Invocation of Devils, as the word imports, ſay Phavorinus, and Suidas; the Magicians were Men of the ſame Art, and Tricks. Now to theſe Joſephus doth aſcribe the beginning of the Apoſtacy from the Roman Government, and by them he informs us, that it was carried on to the laſt: The Affairs of the Jews, ſaith he, became worſe t

He adds, That in the beginning of the Reign of Nero (r) Impoſtors and Deceivers, under a pretence of Divine Impulſe, endeavouring Innovations, and Changes, made the People mad, and led them into the Wilderneſs, promiſing there to them Signs of Liberty from God. And that (s) γόητες πολλοὺς εἰς ἀπόστασιν ἐνῆγον, the Impoſtors prevailed with many to revolt. And even when their Temple was in Flames, he ſaith, There were many (t) Prophets who encouraged them to expect τὴν ἀπὸ Θεοῦ βοήθειαν, help from God, and that they gave Credit to them. u Ver. 10. Τὴν ἀγάπην τ ἀληθείας οὐκ ἐδέξαντο, They received not the Love of the Truth.] From theſe words ſome conceive, that Antichriſt, or the Man of Sin, muſt in Profeſſion be a Chriſtian, becauſe he is ſaid not to receive the Love of the Truth only. But all the (u) Fathers, and many others ſay, not to receive the Love of the Truth, is, not to receive the Truth, which is worthy to be loved, and which would have taught them Charity to thoſe they perſecuted, it being the ſame with not believing the Truth, v. 12. And this emphatically belonged to thoſe unbelieving Jews, to whom St. Paul ſpeaks thus, It was neceſſary that the Word of God ſhould be firſt ſpoken to you; but ſince you thruſt it from you, and judge your ſelves unworthy of Eternal Life, lo we turn unto the Gentiles, Acts 13. 46. and to whom he applieth that of the Prophet, Behold ye Deſpiſers and periſh, for I will work a Work in your days which you will in no wiſe believe, v. 41. See Acts 28. 27. Heb. 4. 2, 12. 1 Pet. 2. 7, 8. And all the Fathers which ſpeak of Antichriſt and the Man of Sin, not one of them excepted, declare that this, and the two following Verſes, belong to the unbelieving (x) Jews, that he is thus to come with Signs and Wonders to deceive them, and that they who would not receive Chriſt confirming his Doctrine with true Miracles, ſhall be deceived by the lying Miracles of Antichriſt. And if this be ſo, that theſe things are intended of the unbelieving Jews, they can agree in the Primary import of them, to them only.

A a Ver. 17. Κρατεῖτε τὰς παραδόσεις, Hold the Traditions which ye have been taught.] This Paſſage proves not in the leaſt, that in the Judgment of St. Paul there were any Traditions wholly extraſcriptural; that is, ſuch as were neither then committed, nor after to be committed to writing, by himſelf, or any other inſpired Perſon; but only, that he himſelf had not writ all things to them by Epiſtle, being abſent, but had preached many things to them being preſent.

Now that the Word which St. Paul preached orally, was after written by St. Luke, his Amanuenſis and Companion, we learn from the Tradition of the Church of Chriſt, recorded by (y) Irenæus and Euſebius.

2*ly*, All that the Apoſtle here exhorts his Theſſalonians to do, is to retain the Traditions they had immediately received from the Mouth of an Apoſtle, and which he perſonally had delivered to them; which Traditions, when we know them to be ſuch, there is no doubt, but they ought with all Reverence to be received; when therefore the Church of Rome hath proved, that the Traditions ſhe obtrudes upon us, were immediately received from the Mouth of an Apoſtle, then, and not till then, will this Text oblige us to receive them.

3*ly*, This Text is ſo far from being an Argument for receiving Doctrinal Traditions no where writ in Scripture, upon the ſole Authority of the Church of Rome, or even of the Church Catholick, that it is rather a Demonſtration, that ſhe is no ſure Preſerver of them, ſhe having actually loſt thoſe very Traditions touching the Man of Sin, which are mentioned in this Chapter, and particularly referr'd to in this Text; I told you theſe things when I was with you, v. 8. and now ye know what letteth, wherefore ſtand faſt, holding the Traditions (touching his coming, which when I was with you, I delivered by words, and now hint to you by Epiſtle) and which, as it appeareth by this Epiſtle, and his Exhortation, were of great moment to be known. Now hath this Tradition been preſerved by the Roman, or by the Catholick Church? Or muſt ſhe not confeſs with (z) Anſelm, and their own Eſthius on the place, Truly the Theſſalonians knew what letted, but we know it not. So that the Tradition which the Church received from the Apoſtles, touching this matter, is wholly loſt; how therefore can ſhe be relied on as a ſure Preſerver, and a true Teacher of Traditions, which hath confeſſedly loſt one of great moment, depoſited with the Theſſalonians, and the Primitive Church?

CHAPTER III.

Verſe 1. FInally, [τὸ λοιπὸν, furthermore, I intreat you] Brethren [to] pray for us [Apoſtles, and Miniſters of the Goſpel,] that the word of the Lord [preached by us] may have free courſe, [τρέχῃ may run to] and be glorified [among other Gentiles] even as [it hath been] with [or among] you.

2. And [pray alſo] that we may be delivered a from unreaſonable and wicked Men, [ſuch as the unbelieving Jews, the great Oppoſers of our preaching to the Gentiles, are, 1 Theſſ. 2. 15, 16.] for all Men have not Faith.

3. But [tho' Men may prove unfaithful,] the Lord is [always] faithful, [to his Promiſes,] who [therefore] ſhall [or, will do all things requiſite on his part, to] ſtabliſh you, and keep you from Evil.

4. And [therefore,] we have Confidence in the Lord, touching you, that ye [through his Aſſiſtance,] both do, [at preſent] and will [ſtill] do the things which we [by his Authority] command you.

5. And [that we may not be miſtaken in this Confidence, we pray that] the Lord [would] direct your Hearts into the Love of God, [which will conſtrain you to this Obedience, 2 Cor. 5. 14. and from which nothing ſhall ſeparate you, Rom. 8. 35, 19.] b and into the b patient waiting for [of] Chriſt, [mentioned, 1 Theſſ. 1. 10. 2 Theſſ. 1. 10. Philip. 3. 20.]

6. Now we [being thus confident of your Obedience] command you, Brethren, in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that ye withdraw your ſelves from every Brother that c walketh diſorderly, and not after c the Tradition which he hath received of [i. e. from] us.

7. For you your ſelves know how you d ought to follow us; for we d behaved not our ſelves diſorderly among you.

8. Neither did we eat any Man's Bread for nought, but wrought with Labour and Travel [wearineſs, and toil] Night and Day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you.

9. Not becauſe we have not Power, [to live of the Goſpel, for the Labourer is worthy of his Hire, Luke 10. 7. and ſo hath the Lord appointed, that they that preach the Goſpel ſhould live of the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 9. 14.] but to make our ſelves an Example for you to follow us, [in this our Induſtry; for if we, who might lawfully live upon other Men's Labours, chuſe rather to work for our own Living, how much more ought ye to do ſo?]

10. [And this we have formerly taught,] For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any [being able] would not work, neither ſhould he eat.

11. [And of this we have cauſe to remind you,] For we hear that there are ſome who walk among you diſorderly, working not at all, but are Buſie-bodies, [medling with that which belongs not to them.]

12. Now them that are ſuch, we command and exhort by [the Authority, and in the Name of] the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that with Quietneſs they work, and [ſo] eat their own Bread.

13. [Thus I hear it is with them,] But ye, Brethren, e be not weary of well-doing, e [let not their Example make you neglect your Induſtry.]

14. And if any Man [among you] obey not our word by this Epiſtle, [in which we exhort and command them thus to work,] f f note that Man, and have no company with him, that he may be aſhamed.

15. Yet count him not as an Enemy, but admoniſh him as a Brother.

16. Now the g Lord of Peace himſelf, g give you Peace always, by all means; the Lord be with you all.

17. The Salutation of [me] Paul with mine own hand, which is h the Token in h every Epiſtle [that it comes from me.] So I write.

18. The Grace of our Lord Jeſus be with you all. Amen.

A DISCOURSE BY WAY OF APPENDIX To the FIRST CHAPTER,

SHEWING,

That the Endleſs Miſeries or Torments of the Wicked are well conſiſtent, both with the Juſtice, and the Goodneſs of God.

THE Apoſtle in this Chapter ſeems plainly to aſſert, that wicked Perſons ſhall be puniſhed with everlaſting Deſtruction, and alſo to reſolve this Puniſhment into the δικαιοκρισία, or juſt Judgment of God.

Whereas it is pretended, That 'it is contrary to the Juſtice of God to puniſh Temporary Crimes with Eternal Puniſhments, 'becauſe Juſtice always obſerves a proportion between Offences and Puniſhments; 'but between Temporary Sins and Eternal 'Puniſhments there is no proportion. And 'if it be hard to reconcile this with Divine 'Juſtice, it will be much more ſo to ſhew 'how it comports with that great Goodneſs 'we ſuppoſe to be in God.

They who aſſert the Eternity of Future Torments inflicted on the Wicked, abiding in a State of Miſery, attempt by ſeveral ways to anſwer this Objection. I ſhall begin with thoſe Anſwers, which to me ſeem not ſatisfactory, and briefly ſhew the Reaſons why I think they are not ſo, and then return that Anſwer which I think fully clears the Juſtice and the Goodneſs of God in this Diſpenſation, from the ſtrength of this Objection. And,

§ 1. 1*ſt*, Some make out the proportion thus, That 'becauſe Sin is infinite in re'ſpect of the Object againſt which it is 'committed, therefore it deſerves an infinite 'Puniſhment, now becauſe a finite Crea'ture cannot ſuffer a Puniſhment which is 'infinite as to Intention, therefore he ſuffers 'that which is infinite as to Extenſion or 'Duration.

But to this it is replied, That if all Sins be for this Reaſon infinite as to demerit, then the demerit of all Sins muſt neceſſarily be equal, and ſo there muſt be equal Reaſon for the pardon of all Sins; for the demerit of no Sin can be more than infinite. 2. Hence it will follow, that God cannot render unto every Man according as his Works ſhall be, becauſe though they commit innumerable Sins, he can only lay upon them the Puniſhment due to one only, becauſe he cannot lay upon them a Puniſhment which is more than infinite.

§ 2. 2*ly*, Others ſay, That 'if wicked 'Men lived for ever in this World, they 'would ſin for ever, and therefore they de'ſerve to be puniſhed for ever. But,

1. Who can be certain of this, ſince, whilſt we live in this World, we are in a ſtate of a trial, and ſo may be in a poſſibility of repenting and growing better?

2. God hath expreſly declared, that Men ſhall be judged hereafter, not according to what they would have done had they lived longer, but according to what they actually have have done in this preſent Life, according to their Works done in the Body; and ſo he hath ſufficiently declared, he doth not puniſh them for what they would have done had they lived longer, but for what they actually had done whilſt they lived. So that this Anſwer recoils thus, Wicked Men, by God's declaration, are only to be puniſhed for what they did whilſt they lived here; now they did not live here for ever in a ſtate of Sin, therefore they are not to live for ever hereafter in a ſtate of Puniſhment.

§ 3. 3ly, Others ſay, That 'God having 'ſet before the Sinner Life and Death; and 'having ſo expreſly forewarned him, this 'would be the certain conſequence of his Iniquity, he cannot charge God with Injuſtice 'in allotting to him the Portion which he 'choſe, and would incur after all Admonitions to the contrary.

But though this may be ſufficient to ſtop the Sinner's Mouth, it will do little to ſtop the Mouth of Infidels, becauſe it ſeemeth not to anſwer the Objection ariſing from the diſproportion between the Fault and the Puniſhment, for it renders not the Fault leſs finite, or the Puniſhment leſs infinite, and ſo it doth not render it leſs inconſiſtent with Divine Equity and Goodneſs to threaten ſo to puniſh finite Crimes, and execute that Puniſhment upon the Sinner.

§ 4. A very great and learned Perſon hath attempted a Solution to this Objection from theſe Conſiderations.

Firſt, That 'the Meaſure of Penalties is 'not to be taken from any ſtrict proportion 'betwixt Crimes and Puniſhments, but 'from one Great End and Deſign of Government, which is to ſecure the Obſervation of wholeſome and neceſſary Laws, 'and conſequently whatever Penalties are 'proper and neceſſary to this end, are not 'unjuſt.

Secondly, That 'whoſoever conſiders how 'ineffectual the threatning, even of Eternal 'Torments, is to the greateſt part of Sinners, 'will ſoon be ſatisfied that a leſs Penalty 'than that of Eternal Suffering would, to 'the far greateſt part of Mankind, have 'been, in all probability, of little or no 'force, and that if any thing more terrible 'could have been threatned to the Workers 'of Iniquity, it had not been unreaſonable, 'becauſe it would all have been little e'nough to deter Men effectually from Sin. But then he adds, Thirdly, That 'after all, he that threat'neth, hath ſtill the power of Execution in 'his own hands; for there is this remarka'ble difference betwixt Promiſes and Threat'nings, that he who promiſeth paſſeth over 'a Right to another, and thereby ſtands 'obliged to him in Juſtice and Faithfulneſs 'to make good his Promiſe; but in Threat'nings it is quite otherwiſe, he that threa'tens keeps the Right of puniſhing in his 'own hand, and is not obliged to execute 'what he hath threatned, any farther than 'the Reaſons and Ends of Government do 'require; and that he may without any In'jury to the Party threatned, remit and a'bate as much as he pleaſeth of the Puniſh'ment that he hath threatned; and becauſe 'in ſo doing he is not worſe, but better than 'his word, no Body can find fault, or com'plain of any Wrong or Injuſtice thereby 'done to him.

'Nor is this any Impeachment of God's 'Truth and Faithfulneſs, any more than it is 'eſteemed among Men a piece of Falſhood 'not to do what they have threatned.

But here, with ſubmiſſion to better Judgments, I conceive are many things propounded which are not exactly true, or reach not the Objection, ſince that relates not to God's Threats of Puniſhment, but to his Execution of the threatned Puniſhment.

And 1ſt, When it is ſaid that what proportion ought to be appointed betwixt Crimes and Penalties, is not ſo properly a conſideration of Juſtice, as of Prudence in the Law-giver; and thence inferr'd, that whatever the diſproportion may be between Temporary Sins, and Eternal Puniſhments, Juſtice cannot be ſaid to be concerned in it;

It is owned, That by the Sanctions annexed to his Laws, the Law-giver deſigns the preſervation of his Laws from being violated, which is an effect of Prudence, but ſtill of Prudence temper'd with Equity, not unregardleſs of it, ſince it cannot be Prudence to threaten what I know I cannot juſtly execute; for this in Human Laws doth null the Penalty; and could it be ſuppoſed in Divine, would even fruſtrate the end of all God's Threats, ſince every Body would reſt aſſured that a juſt God would never execute them.

But 2ly, The Execution of the threatned Judgment, which is the only thing againſt which the Objection lies, is certainly an Act of diſtributive Juſtice, and is ſo repreſented in the Holy Scriptures, when it is ſaid to be done according to our works, and according as our works ſhall be, Rom. 2. 16. 2 Cor. 5. 10. Rev. 22. 12. Matth. 16. 27. And when it is declared to be δικαιοκρισία, the juſt Judgment of God, and δίκαιον παρὰ τῷ Θεῷ, juſt with God to render this Vengeance to thoſe that obey not the Goſpel, which conſiſts in their everlaſting deſtruction, 2 Theſſ. 1. 6, 8, 9. So that though Prudence was properly concerned in promulging the Penalty, becauſe 'tis Prudence which directs us to chooſe the Means moſt proper to the End we aim at, yet ſeeing the primary end of the Law-giver, i. e. the preventing the tranſgreſſing of his

Law is wholly loſt, and entirely defeated before this Puniſhment comes to be executed, Juſtice alone can be concerned in the Execution of it; and if the continuance of the Sinner under Miſery for ever, be the Execution of the threatned Puniſhment, Juſtice alone can be concerned in the ſubjection of the Sinner to that Puniſhment; ſo far is it from being true, that if Prudence be requiſite for the proportioning Penalties to Crimes, Juſtice cannot be concerned in the diſproportion that may be between them, and much leſs that it cannot be concerned in executing a Penalty which bears ſo great a diſproportion to the Crime.

I confeſs alſo, that in Human Governments, Prudence may fitly be call'd in to deliberate, not whether it be lawful, but whether it be expedient to execute the threatned Penalty; as when the Government is feeble, and the Multitude, or Power of Offenders, may render it hazardous to do Juſtice on them; but nothing of this nature can happen in Theocracy, where there can neither be a want of Wiſdom in appointing, or Equity in proportionating the Penalty to the Offences, and much leſs want of Power to execute what in his Equity and Wiſdom he ſaw fit to threaten.

2*ly*, When it is ſaid, That a leſs Penalty than Eternal Sufferings would not have been ſufficient to deter Men from ſin, and therefore it could not be unreaſonable, but rather ſuitable to Divine Prudence to threaten theſe Eternal Miſeries;

I am not willing to admit that God ſhould threaten what he knows he cannot, with conſiſtence to his Juſtice, or his Goodneſs, execute; this being in effect to threaten in this wiſe, If you will do to me what you in Juſtice ought not to do, I will execute upon you what I in Juſtice ought not to do to you. 'Tis alſo to inſinuate, that an All-wiſe God could not ſo well provide for Human Government, or carry on his great Deſigns without abuſing Men's Credulity, and ſcaring them with dreadful Expectations of what he never did intend to execute. Laſtly, This ſeemeth even to inſinuate, that Prudence in God may act without regard to Equity and Goodneſs, and even be ſeparated from them, as it muſt be in appointing, and even proportionating thoſe Penalties to Crimes, which it is not conſiſtent with his Equity or Goodneſs to inflict.

3*ly*, When it is added, That God is not obliged to execute what he hath threatned, any further than the Reaſons and the Ends of Government do require, and that he may, without any Injury to the Party threatned, remit and abate as much as he pleaſeth of the Puniſhment that he hath threatned, and that without any Impeachment of his Truth and Faithfulneſs.

This I allow of in the Caſe of Temporal Puniſhments in this World deſigned not for Exciſion, but the Amendment of the Sinner; becauſe there may be a juſt ground for the Remiſſion of ſuch threatned Penalties, even the Repentance and Reformation of the Sinner, by which the primary end of all God's Threats, in ſome good meaſure is obtained. And alſo becauſe theſe Threats, in what Expreſſions ſoever they are made, if they be only Threats, are ſtill conditional, the meaning of them being only this, I will inflict this Judgment if you repent not of your evil ways; For at what inſtant I ſhall ſpeak, ſaith God, againſt a Nation, and concerning a Kingdom, to pluck up, to pull down, and to deſtroy it, if that Nation againſt which I have pronounced theſe things, turn from their evil ways, I will repent me of the evil which I thought to do unto them, Jer. 18. 7, 8. And again, When I ſay unto the Wicked, O wicked Man, thou ſhalt ſurely die, if he do not turn from his way he ſhall die in his iniquity. Say therefore, to them, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, I have no pleaſure in the death of him that dieth, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; wherefore turn your ſelves, and live ye, Ezek. 18. 32. 33. 8, 9, 11. 3*ly*, Becauſe God threatneth Judgments, not that he takes any pleaſure in his Puniſhments, but rather to awaken and reform the Sinner: When therefore by his Comminations he hath wrought this good effect upon him, it is not to be wondred that he doth not proceed to execute that Judgment which hath already done its work by being threatned. And all this well comports, not only with Divine Juſtice, but alſo with his Immutability and Truth, becauſe this Reformation and Repentance changes the ſubject of the Threat; the change in every inſtance of this nature being not in God, but Man. Thus v. g. we cannot charge God with Mutability, becauſe he doth not execute the threatned Judgment on repenting Nineveh, becauſe it was impenitent, and not repenting Nineveh he threatned; nor with Injuſtice, becauſe 'twas only her Impenitence which rendred her the proper Object of Vindictive Juſtice.

But then this Notion ſeems to be ſtretched too far, when 'tis extended to God's Threats of Future and Eternal Puniſhments to be inflicted upon thoſe who die in an impenitent and unreformed Eſtate. For,

1*ſt*, In all theſe Caſes the Evil threatned hath entirely loſt its firſt and ſalutary end upon them, and therefore muſt be threatned to ſuch Perſons to no end, or elſe to ſhew the Juſtice of God in puniſhing theſe Veſſels of his Wrath thus fitted for deſtruction. Thus v. g. when Chriſt ſaith, Except ye repent, ye ſhall all periſh, Luke 13. 3, 5. that in the Day of Wrath, and Revelation of his righteous righteous Judgment, God will give to every one according to his works; to them that obey not the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation, and wrath, Rom. 2. 5, 6, 7, 8. to them that obey not the Gospel, everlasting destruction: These Threats are plainly made to those who die in their Impenitence and Disobedience, by that God who will judge every Man according to his Works, declaring that in the Day of the Revelation of his Wrath and righteous Judgment, they shall perish everlastingly, because through the hardness and impenitency of their hearts they have treasured up Wrath against the Day of Wrath, and rendred themselves Vessels of his Wrath, fitted for destruction. Can it be reasonably said then, because God does them no injury if he do not execute this Wrath upon them, that though they do not repent, they may not perish; that Indignation and Wrath may not be the Portion of the Disobedient, and that this righteous Judge may not give to them according to their Works? May we not rather say unto them, as doth this very Person in another place, (a) If thou continuest impenitent, however he may defer the execution of Temporal Evils, his Truth and Veracity is concerned to inflict Eternal Punishments upon thee?

2*ly*, God's Threats of everlasting Miseries have for their Object the Impenitent, and therefore do exclude the Supposition of any change in them, which may induce God to remit, or to abate the threatned Judgment: If then this Punishment may be remitted to them, either in part, or in whole, it must be either by a change in God, or by a secret intention in him, not to inflict what he thus threatneth. That there was in God no such secret Intention, this learned Person thus declares, by saying, (b) When God did threaten, he spake what he did really purpose and intend, if something did not intervene to prevent the Judgment threatned. And indeed, these Threats declaring what the righteous God will do, and what they who are finally impenitent and disobedient shall suffer, such a Secret Will must plainly be repugnant to his revealed Will, and therefore must suppose in God two contrary Wills. Moreover, to say that such a Secret Intention may be in God, notwithstanding these Declarations to the contrary, is in great measure to enervate even the primary Intention of these Threats, viz. the deterring the Sinner, by the greatness and duration of them, from a continuance in his Sin; for this Intention, if it may be in God, it follows that it may be his Will not to inflict what he hath threatned to the Sinner; now so much hopes as you give the impenitent Sinner, that he may escape Eternal Punishment, so much encouragement you give him to continue still in his Impenitence. Now (c) the belief of the Threatnings of God in their utmost extent, is of so great moment to a good Life, and so great a discouragement to Sin, saith this Reverend Person, that if Men were once set free from the fear and belief of this, the most powerful Restraint from Sin would be taken away.

That this cannot be expected by reason of any change in God, this excellent Person thus declares, and evinceth: (d) 'Let but 'the Sinner consider what God is, and his 'unchangeable Nature must needs terrifie 'him; he is an Holy God, who therefore 'hateth all the Workers of Iniquity. A just 'God, who will by no means clear the guilty, 'nor let the Sinner go unpunished. He is also 'Omnipotent, and able to execute the Vengeance threatned against Sinners. And, 'which gives a sad Accent to all this, he 'that is thus Holy, and Just, and powerful, 'continues ever the same; he will never 'cease to hate Iniquity, and to be an implacable Enemy to all impenitent Sinners.— 'Let (then) all obstinate Sinners hear this, 'and tremble; you cannot be more obstinately bent to continue in your ways, than 'God is peremptorily resolved to make you 'miserable; if you be determined on a sinful Course, God is also determined how 'he will deal with you; that he will not 'spare, but that his Anger and Jealousie shall 'smoke against you; and that all the Curses 'which are written in this Book shall light 'upon you. 'He hath sworn in his Wrath, 'that unbelieving and impenitent Sinners 'shall not enter into his Rest; and for the 'greater assurance of the thing, and that we 'may not think that there is any Condition 'implied in these Threatnings, he hath confirmed them by an Oath, that by this immutable Sign, in which it is impossible for 'God to lie, Sinners might have strong Terrors, and not be able ro fly to any hopes of 'Refuge.

3*ly*, Either God may in Justice inflict upon the Wicked these Punishments which he hath threatned, or else it is unjust in God to execute upon them the Judgment written, i.e. the Punishment which he hath threatned to them in the Word of Truth. If it be said it is unjust in God to execute them on the Sinner dying in his Impenitence, either we cannot be obliged to believe that Word in which these Threats are contained; or else an Obligation must lie upon us to believe that God will act unjustly. If, to avoid this, it be said these Threats do not discover certainly what God will do, but only what the Sinner doth deserve to suffer, read them once more, and you will find that they expresly say of those who shall be at the Great Day condemned, That they shall go away into Eternal Punishment, Matth. 25. 46. That they shall be punished with Eternal Destruction from the Presence of the Lord, 2 Thess. 1. 8. And that they shall be tormented Day and Night for ever and ever, Rev. 14. 10, 11. 20. 10.

Moreover, when our Saviour argues thus to induce Men to cut off their offending Hands, and pluck out their offending Eyes; 'tis better to enter into Life halt, and maimed, than to be cast into Eternal Fire, or into Hell, where the Worm dieth not, and where the Fire is not quenched, Matth. 18. 8, 9. doth he not sufficiently inform us there is an absolute necessity of doing the one, or suffering the other? When he saith, He that blasphemeth against the Holy Ghost, shall never be forgiven in this, or in the World to come, but shall be obnoxious to Eternal Judgment, Matth. 12. 32. Mark 3. 29. doth he not insinuate, that he who never is forgiven, must be for ever subject to this Judgment? It is therefore certain, that our Judge hath expresly taught us not only that the impenitent Sinner doth deserve, but that he shall actually suffer the Worm that never dies, the Fire that shall not be quenched.

If God in Justice may inflict upon the Wicked these Punishments which he hath threatned, then the Objection cannot need this Answer; yea, what can move him not to inflict what he by Threatning hath engaged his Truth to do? What, I say, can move him not to do it, but an Act of Mercy exercised to them, of whom the Scripture saith, they shall have Judgment without Mercy, Jam. 2. 13. what but remission of that Sin, which, saith the Scripture, shall never be remitted? What but Mercy in the Day of Wrath and Judgment? What but Remission exercised to the impenitent, without an Interest in the Blood of our Redemption? To which Imaginations I conceive the Scripture give but little countenance.

Nor are we to conclude, That the Non-execution of these Threats lays no Impeachment on God's Truth and Faithfulness, because it is not esteemed among Men a piece of falsehood not to do what they have threatned. For Men may reasonably be moved to remit their Threatnings, because they oft are made in Passion, or may exceed the Rules of Justice; but these are things not incident to an All-perfect God; or because the Person threatned repents, begs pardon, and returns unto his Duty, which the Damned cannot be supposed to do.

§ 5. It is farther said, in answer to this Objection, that macula peccati est æterna, the Stain of them who die in their Impenitence, will be perpetual, and he that dies thus filthy, will be filthy still; now it seems equitable, that, is qui nunquam desinit esse malus, nunquam desineret esse miser, he who never ceases to be wicked, should never cease to be miserable. Now this, rightly explained, affords a clear and satisfactory Answer to the Objection, as shewing that the Sinner becomes for ever miserable, not by any positive Act of God inflicting everlasting Stripes upon him, or loading him perpetually with fresh Torments, but wholly from his own Sin, which renders him uncapable of the enjoyment of an holy God, and so perpetually excluded from his blissful Presence, which to a Soul that is immortal, and can never die, must be the Source of everlasting Torment, and, from the natural workings of its Faculties, will necessarily subject it to the Worm that never dies.

I own, and really believe, that positive Torments, such as the Schools call Pœna sensus, shall be inflicted on the Body; but then I have insinuated my present Notion of them to be this:

1st, That these positive Torments on the Body are not to begin until the raising of the Body, when Christ shall come in flaming Fire to take Vengeance on them who would not obey his Gospel, the World that now is being reserved to be set on fire, for the Day of Judgment, and Perdition of ungodly Men. At which time I conceive the righteous shall be snatched up into the Air, and be for ever with the Lord, 1 Thess. 4. 17. and the Wicked shall be left to the devouring Flames. See for this, the Note on 2 Pet. 3. 7.

2ly, I also do conjecture that this Fire may be called Eternal, not that the Bodies of the Wicked shall be for ever burning in it, and never be consumed by it, since this cannot be done without a constant Miracle; but because it shall so entirely consume their Bodies, as that they never shall subsist again, but shall perish, and be destroyed for ever by it. In which sense Sodom and Gomorrah were set forth for an Example, suffering the Vengeance of eternal Fire. See the Note on Jude, v. 7. And if so, this Punishment being only temporary, the Objection doth not lie against it, God being no more obliged either in Justice, or in Goodness, to snatch the Wicked out of these Flames when they thus kindle on them, than he was to snatch the Wicked of the old World out of that Deluge which overwhelm'd them. These I call my Conjectures, or my private Sentiments. But then I add, as certain matter of my Faith,

1*ſt*. That the Soul, even from the time of its ſeparation from the Body, in its impenitency, ſhall find it ſelf in ſuch a diſmal ſtate, as ſhall then fill it with perpetual Horror, and dreadful expectation of the Puniſhment which God hath threatned to the Wicked. And thus it ſhall be like thoſe Devils which believe and tremble, James 2. 19. as knowing that there is reſerved for them a time of Torment, Matth. 8. 29.

2*ly*, That when the final Sentence ſhall be paſt upon the Wicked, and they ſhall be for ever ſeparated from the Preſence of the Lord, their Souls ſhall be perpetually ſubject to the height of Miſery, or to that Worm which never dies; and that this Miſery will be the natural, and the perpetual reſult of ſuch a Separation.

To explain this let it be conſidered,

1. That there is ſcarce any thing in which the Heathen Moraliſts ſo univerſally accord, as in this fixed Rule, μὴ καθαρῷ καθαρῶς ἐπιπλέεσθαι μὴ ἐ δεμιστὸν ἦ, that an impure Soul can have no commerce with a pure God; and that it is not congruous to his Nature to admit ſuch Souls into his Preſence. And this Aſſertion is built upon a ſure and inconteſtible Foundation; for ſeeing God is abſolute in Holineſs, he cannot but retain the greateſt hatred to, and Abhorrence of all Actions, and Perſons that are unrighteous, and impure; and ſince his Nature is immutable, his Holineſs unchangeable, he muſt for ever hate, with a moſt perfect hatred, whatſoever is unholy, and impure; and therefore to ſuppoſe an Interruption of his hatred of evil doers, is to imagine he can ceaſe to be a pure and holy God. 2. That the Soul of wicked Men being immortal, muſt abide for ever, if it be not annihilated, and that God neither is obliged to annihilate it, nor hath he any where declared that he will do ſo.

I ſay, he is not obliged to annihilate the Souls of wicked Men, for then it muſt be ſo on this account, becauſe he is obliged to put them out of that Miſery which they have brought upon themſelves by their own folly, and rebellions; and if ſo, ſince this muſt certainly be an act, not of ſtrict Juſtice, but of Grace and Favour, God muſt be bound to ſhew an Act of Grace and Favour towards Men, purely becauſe they have provoked and rebell'd againſt him, i. e. becauſe they have done that which renders them the proper Objects of his hatred, and his indignation, and be obliged to ſave Men from that Miſery which by their ſtubborn diſobedience to all his Calls, and Admonitions, his Exhortations, and all the gracious Methods his Providence had uſed to preſerve them from it, they wilfully have brought upon themſelves. Whereas indeed the riches of his goodneſs being deſigned to lead Men to Repentance, or to encourage them in ways of Holineſs and Piety, hath only for its proper Object ſuch as are capable of being made the better by it, it cannot therefore be the Goodneſs and Mercy of a God to ſhew kindneſs to Perſons obſtinately and incorrigibly wicked, becauſe it cannot be the Goodneſs and Mercy of a Being infinitely juſt and holy; for ſeeing all the Divine Perfections muſt agree together, that cannot be a Divine Perfection which contradicts any other Perfection.

The original of our Miſtakes in matters of this Nature, ſeems to ariſe from our own Imperfection, which naturally leads us to conſider of the Divine Attributes apart, and as it were in ſeparation from each other, and by ſo doing, to frame ſuch wide and large Notions of the one, as to exclude the other. Whereas indeed they ought to be conſidered as really they are in God himſelf, i. e. Goodneſs and Mercy joined with infinite Holineſs and Juſtice; and as it is the Goodneſs and Mercy of a Law-giver, Governour, and Righteous Judge, which never regularly can be exerciſed without ſome proſpect of reclaiming, or doing good unto the Object of it. And thus 'tis well conſiſtent with the Prayer of David, Be not thou merciful to them that offend of malicious wickedneſs, Pſal. 59. 5.

§. 6. I add, That God hath not declared in Scripture that he will annihilate the Souls of wicked Men, or that this is the Puniſhment which he deſigneth to inflict upon them; this is generally ſaid to be the Doctrine of the Socinians; though (e) Crellius expreſly ſays, Animas impiorum Deum poſt judicium annihilaturum nec Scriptura aſſerit, nec ratio evincit, That neither Reaſon doth evince, or Scripture aſſert it will be ſo. And Object. 1. 'Tis certain that this follows not from any of thoſe places of the Old Teſtament in which the dead are ſaid to be no more, or not to be; as v. g. Let the Sinners be conſumed out of the Earth, and let the wicked be no more, Pſal. 104. 35. Our Fathers have ſinned, and are not, Lam. 5. 7. I have made Eſau bare —— his Seed is ſpoiled, and he is not, Jer. 49. 10. See Chap. 10. 20. 35. 15.

For (1.) If any of theſe places ſpeak of Annihilation, they muſt ſpeak of ſuch a one as was then paſs'd already, and ſo is inconſiſtent with the future Judgment of thoſe Perſons, becauſe it is not ſaid they ſhall not be, but they are not; they therefore cannot refer to any future Annihilation at the Day of Judgment.

2. Then muſt the Righteous be annihilated as well as the Wicked; for of righteous Enoch it is ſaid, He walked before God, and was not, Gen. 5. 24. of Joſeph, One is not, Gen. 42. 13. and David prays thus for himſelf, O ſpare me a little that I may recover my ſtrength, before I go hence and be not, Pſal. 39. 13. 'Tis therefore evident theſe places only were intended to import, thoſe Perſons were not in the Land of the living.

Object. 2. But 'tis objected, That the Wicked after the Reſurrection ſhall be puniſh'd with the ſecond Death, wherefore they cannot in any proper ſenſe be ſaid to live, and to ſubſiſt, and to have ſenſe of Pain, this being not conſiſtent with a ſtate of Death.

Anſw. I anſwer, 1. That this ſecond Death cannot conſiſt in the annihilation of the Wicked, or in their Exemption from all ſenſe of Puniſhment, becauſe 'tis promiſed that He who overcometh ſhall not be hurt by the ſecond Death, Rev. 2. 11. whence it is manifeſt that they who die this ſecond Death, ſhall be hurt by it; but were it to the Wicked, condemned to an Eternal Separation from God, and from all hopes of happineſs, a Concluſion of their Being, and of all ſenſe of Miſery, it would be no more hurtful, but highly beneficial to them, as being a Concluſion of that Life which they muſt otherwiſe have ſpent in endleſs Miſery. And therefore even Hierocles repreſents this as the Choice of wicked Men, by ſaying in his Commentary on the Verſes of Pythagoras, p. 164. ὁ βέλτιστος δὲ ὁ κακὸς ἀθάνατον εἶναι, τὴν ἀπὸ ψυχὴν ἵνα μὴ ὑπομένῃ πυρὰ μένων, the wicked Man would not have his Soul to be immortal, that he might not abide under Puniſhment. Moreover, thoſe very Torments which the damned ſuffer are declared to be the ſecond Death, and wicked Men are therefore ſaid to die the ſecond Death, becauſe they do endure Eternal Torments; for the fearful and unbelievers, &c. ſhall have their part in that Lake of Fire and Brimſtone, which is the ſecond Death, Rev. 21. 8. This Death then, when it is threatned as the final Puniſhment of the Wicked, cannot import a State of Non-exiſtence, or Inſenſibility, but only an unhappy miſerable State, a Separation of the Soul from him who is the Fountain of our Life, and all our Comforts; an abſolute Excluſion from that Felicity which only renders Life a Bleſſing, and a Life of Infelicity and Miſery. To make this ſtill more evident, Conſider 2*ly*, That this is a Jewiſh Phraſe, uſed often by, and borrowed from the Ancient Hebrews, with whom it doth import the Puniſhment of damned Perſons in the Life to come. So Deut. 33. 6. Let Reuben live, and not die the ſecond death, ſaith the Targum of Onkelos; i. e. let him not die the Death which the wicked die in the Age to come, ſaith the Targum of B. Uziel. Let him not die the ſecond death which the wicked die in the Age to come, ſaith the Jeruſalem Targum. Now that the death of the Wicked, in the Age to come, did really ſubject them to Eternal Torments, the Jews ſtill thought, as is apparent not only from the plain Teſtimony of (f) Joſephus, who ſaith the Phariſees aſſigned to the wicked εἱργμὸν ἀΐδιον, an Eternal Priſon, in which they were to be tormented, (g) ἀϊδίῳ τιμωρίᾳ, with Eternal Puniſhment; and from Philo, who ſaith, that ſome conceive Death to be the laſt of Puniſhments, whereas it ſcarcely deſerveth to be named the beginning of them, ſeeing the Puniſhment reſerved for the wicked Perſon is ζῶν ἀποθνήσκοντα εἰς ἢ τρόπον τινὰ θάνατον ὑπομένειν ἀτέλευτον, to live for ever in a dying ſtate, and ſuffer ſuch a death as hath no end; but alſo from the Apocryphal Books, which ſay, κλαύσονται ἐν ἀδῆσιν ἐπ' αἰῶνος, they ſhall feel them, and weep for ever, Judith 16. 17. So again, Iſa. 22. 14. This ſin ſhall not be forgiven till the ſecond death; that is, ſaith Kimchi, till the Soul dieth in the World to come. And Chap. 65. 5, 6, 15. of the ſame Perſons it is ſaid, God will kill them with the ſecond death, and he will deliver them up to the puniſhment of Hell, where the fire burneth all the day.

Object. It further is objected, That Eternal Life is ſaid to be peculiar to the Saints in Bliſs, whereas unto the wicked it is threatned that they ſhall not ſee Life, John 3. 36.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, That Life in Scripture, when it is mentioned as the end of our Faith, and the Reward of our Obedience, is not intended only to ſignifie our permanence in Being, but to aſſure us of our advancement to a ſtate of Happineſs, and is equivalent to Everlaſting Life. So to the Lawyer aſking, What good thing ſhall I do that I may inherit eternal life? our Saviour anſwers, Do this, and thou ſhalt live, Luke 10. 25, 28. So Chriſt ſaith, He that eateth me ſhall live by me, John 6. 57. i. e. He ſhall live for ever, v. 58. I came that my ſheep might have Life, John 10. 10. I give unto them life Eternal, v. 28. And that this is the Life denied to the wicked, John 3. 36. is evident from the precedent words of the ſame Verſe, He that believeth on the Son hath everlaſting life; but he that believeth not the Son, ſhall not ſee life. This is a Phraſe ſo known, and this uſe of it is ſo frequent, ſaith Maimonides, that hence our Maſters ſay, The juſt are ſtiled living in their death, becauſe they then are happy. And that the Phraſe, Not to ſee Life, cannot import a ſtate of Non-exiſtence, or Inſenſibility, is evident, becauſe 'tis ſaid of them who do not ſee Life, that the Wrath of God abideth on them, they therefore muſt abide under a Senſe of it.

Obj. 4. Laſtly, It is objected, That the wicked are in Scripture ſaid to periſh utterly, 2 Pet. 2. 12. and to be puniſhed with everlaſting deſtruction; now theſe Expreſſions ſeem to ſignifie a deprivation of all ſenſe and being.

Anſw. But nothing is more common, both in Greek and Latin, and in other Languages, than to ſay, when we conceive our future Life is likely to be miſerable, ὄλυμι, perij, I am undone, I periſh. See the Note of (i) Taubman upon thoſe words of Plautus, Qui per virtutem periit, is non interit. That only in this moral ſenſe the damned are in Scripture ſaid to periſh, viz. by having all their hopes of future Happineſs deſtroyed, and being ſentenced to thoſe Torments which are exceedingly more heavy than the Loſs of Being, is evident, firſt from the Scripture, which informs us, that to caſt the Soul and Body into Hell-fire, is to deſtroy them, as is apparent from theſe two Expreſſions, Fear him who can deſtroy both Soul and Body in Hell-fire, Matth. 10. 28. who after he hath killed, hath power to caſt into Hell, ſaith St. Luke, Chap. 12. 5. that is, into that place where the Worm dieth not, and where the Fire is not quenched. Moreover, the Devils put the Queſtion to our Saviour thus, ἦλθες ἀπολέσαι ἡμᾶς, art thou come to deſtroy us before the time? Luk 4. 34. and yet that to deſtroy is only βασανίσαι to torment them, is evident from the ſame Queſtion recited by St. Matthew thus, Art thou come to torment us before the time? Chap. 8. 29. And had the Devils thought, that at Chriſt's coming they might have been reduced into the ſtate of Non-exiſtence, or Inſenſibility, they could have had no reaſon to dread, or deprecate ſo vehemently that Perdition which would ſo long ago have freed them from that Horror which they ſtill endure.

Moreover, this Opinion is ſo far from being contained in the Holy Scripture, that it is plainly contrary to many things contained in it: For, (1.) The Scripture plainly intimates, ſome in the other World ſhall ſuffer more, ſome leſs; for it ſhall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the Day of Judgment than for Capernaum, Matth. 11. 21—25. that ſome ſhall be beaten with fewer, ſome with many ſtripes, Luke 12. 47, 48. ſome ſhall receive greater damnation than others, Matth. 23. 14. But if Annihilation only be the ſecond Death, the Puniſhment, and Perdition threatned to Sinners in the other World, they muſt all ſuffer equally, becauſe there be no degrees of Annihilation, or not Being, then all will equally not be, or loſe their Being, and nothing by Annihilation can loſe more. 2*ly*, It is ſaid of the wicked, that they ſhall be caſt into the place where their Worm dieth not; of them that ſhall not ſee Life, that the Wrath of God abideth on them; of them that are caſt out into utter Darkneſs, that there is weeping and wailing. Now that of the Schools is abſolutely true, that non entis nullæ ſunt affectiones, that which is not, cannot be in Miſery; that which abides not, cannot abide under the Wrath of God, that which ſo dieth, as to ceaſe to be, cannot be ſubject to a Worm that dieth not, whatever be the import of that Phraſe. Conſider

§ 7. 2*ly*, That we have two Paſſions of the Soul which are ſtill converſant about Good preſent, and to come, viz. deſire of the Good we want, and joy in that which we at preſent have. When therefore we are in a ſtate in which we cannot poſſibly enjoy the Good we above all things want, and naturally deſire, we muſt for ever lie under the torment of Diſſatisfaction and Deſpair; and when we fall into that ſtate in which we can enjoy no comfortable, or real Good, we never can have any Joy. Again, we have two other Paſſions which are employed about a preſent, or a future Evil; Fear that it may befal us, and Grief when it hath actually taken hold upon us. It therefore being natural to all Men to deſire to be freed from an afflictive Evil, when they lie under it without all hopes or proſpect of any end of, or deliverance from the worſt of Evils, they muſt be ſwallowed up of Grief; and when their Guilt hath rendred them ſtill obnoxious to the Divine Diſpleaſure, they muſt be ſubject to Eternal Fears. Conſider

3*ly*, That the proper Action of the Soul is Thought, and that whilſt ſhe continues, ſhe muſt be conſcious to her ſelf of her own Actions; when then the Soul hath nothing comfortable to imploy its Thoughts upon, but an Eternal Scene of Miſery, to which her wilful Sin and Folly hath everlaſtingly confined her, to be the doleful Subject of her continual Reflections, when ſhe hath nothing to divert her from theſe rueful Thoughts, ſhe muſt become an endleſs Torment to her ſelf. Now from theſe three Conſiderations it will demonſtrably follow, that the Soul which in this Life hath not been purged from the Dominion, or the Guilt of Sin, and therefore is excluded from a State of Happineſs, and from Enjoyment of that God in whom its Happineſs conſiſts, muſt be for ever miſerable.

For it must be perpetually tormented with the Thoughts of its Eternal Separation from God's blissful Presence, and its Exclusion from the State of Happiness which Saints made perfect do enjoy. Now, as an Heathen (k) Plutarch puts the question, Must it not be very sad to be deprived of the hope of everlasting Blessings, and be excluded from the compleatest Happiness? Were the damned obnoxious to no other Punishments besides this loss, even this would beget in them such a Worm of Conscience, as would perpetually subject them to the worst of Miseries: As will be evident if we consider,

1. That the earnest and impetuous desire which is in all Men to be happy, is rooted in their very Nature, and therefore must continue as long as they retain that Nature, and yet it is impossible that this desire should in the least be gratified, when we are once condemned to an Eternal Separation from the Place and Object of our Happiness, there being no hopes that they should ever see his Face, who at the coming of their Judge shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord. Now the Wiseman tells us, that even hope deferr'd makes the heart sick, Prov. 13. 12. Hope therefore irrecoverably disappointed must create in it an excess of torment. A wicked Cain accounted it an unsupportable Calamity to be excluded from God's gracious Presence here on Earth; My punishment, saith he, is greater than I am able to bear, for from thy face shall I be hid, Gen. 4. 13, 14. How dreadful therefore must that Sentence be, which doth eternally exclude us from his blissful Presence, and force us to a continual despair of that which we most ardently desire? For as it is one great Ingredient of our future Happiness, that it is that which never can be lost, so must it be a signal aggravation of our future Misery, and loss of Happiness, to know it is irreparable.

2. This loss will be enhanced from the great Change the other World will make in our Condition. The Terrors of an awakened and guilty Conscience, even in this Life, are very grievous; but here we may be able to mitigate the gripings of it by the Society of others, or by the Pleasures of the World; we may deceive it with false Opinions, and flatter it with false Hopes and Promises of Reformation and Amendment; but when we are passed hence into another World, our vain Imaginations will be all confuted, our Hopes of Reformation will be at an end, and we shall be eternally deprived of all those Enjoyments in which we once placed our Happiness, and shall have nothing to divert us from our saddest Thoughts: Now, what Condition can be more deplorable than this, viz. to be deprived of all those Comforts in which we placed our former Happiness, and find it utterly impossible to purchase the least glimpse of real Happiness, or to divert our Thoughts from a continual Remorse for our irreparable loss?

For 3*ly*, The Sinner's memory reflecting on this Punishment of loss, will create fresh and never ceasing Torments to him. It will torment him to remember what an inestimable Blessing he hath lost, in losing the Enjoyment of that God who is the chiefest Good, and of that Happiness which passeth Understanding; for the greater still we apprehend the Good to be, the greater will the Trouble we endure be, when we have wholly lost the hopes of its Enjoyment. Again, It will add still to the Torment of the Sinner, to consider that he hath exchanged this exceeding, and eternal weight of Glory, for things of no intrinsick value and duration; that for the Pleasures of a moment, which are now turned into Sadness, he should forego those Pleasures which run at God's right hand for ever; that for a little fading Earth, which he soon left behind him, he should deprive himself of an Inheritance incorruptible, reserved in the Heavens for him. It also will torment him to consider in what a fair Capacity he was once placed of being happy; what frequent Calls and Invitations he hath had to be for ever so; what Importunity the God of Heaven used to bring him thither; and with what stiffness he resisted all these gracious Motions; These, and such like Considerations, will fill the miserable Soul with constant Matter of most sad Reflections. Now, saith the (l) Heathen Orator, suppose a Person subject to the extreamest Miseries which can be incident to Soul and Body, without all hope of the alleviation of this Misery, or expectation of any future Good, and what can be imagined farther to compleat his Misery?

And now to answer the Objection, by removing the foundation of it: Hence it is easie to demonstrate, that all these Evils which the Soul suffers after Death, may rather be esteemed the necessary Consequents, than positive and formal Punishments of Sin by an immediate Hand of God. For instance, that Souls departed are deprived of the Love of God, are Objects of his Wrath, and are excluded from his Presence, hapneth not merely because they are Souls separated from the Body; for pious Souls, after their Separation, are entirely exempted from these Evils; but this ariseth from the natural Purity and Holiness of God, which renders it incongruous to him to admit such Souls into his Presence, and the defilement and Impurity which these unhappy Souls lie under, and by which they are rendred unable to converse with the God of Holiness. The Worm of Conscience, the Desparation, the direful Expectations which follow from this sense of Loss, and the Divine Displeasure, are also the natural Results of the Soul's Separation in an impure and unsanctified Condition, and therefore being filthy still. Moreover, it being natural to all Men, say the very (m) Heathens, to give good things to them they love, and in whom they delight, and to inflict evil things on those to whom they stand affected contrariwise; How can it be, but that the Soul thus conscious of those abominable things which the Lord hates, and which most justly have incensed this righteous Judge, should live under most dreadful Expectations of his Wrath? Now, true is that of the Tragedian, Pœnas dat qui expectat, qui autem meruit expectat; He suffers whose Conscience tells him he deserves, and therefore cannot but expect to suffer. Lastly, That he is thus to be eternally a Torment to himself, ariseth from the Immortality of the Soul, which cannot cease to be without an immediate Dissolution from the Hand of God, and whilst it doth continue, cannot cease to be desirous of that Happiness from which it will for ever be excluded, or cease to be tormented with the Thoughts of that stupendious Folly which did subject it to this heavy Doom.

And now what a poor comfort is it to the Sinner to laugh at what is said touching Hell fire, and a Lake of Brimstone, as unphilosophical, and say that these are things improper to torment a Spiritual Soul, if undeniably it may be subject to the loss of all that is desirable to make it happy, to endless Grief, to remediless Remorse, and dreadful Expectations of the Wrath of God, and a perpetual Despair of being ever freed from these tormenting Evils, which, as the Heathen hath observed, are πνεὺς καὶ σιδήρου βεβαιότερος, more violent and insupportable than any Punishment by Fire and Sword? What if the Fire in which the Bodies of the wicked are to be tormented, should not be kindled till our Saviour come in flaming Fire to take vengeance on them? What Comfort will this yield the Sinner, if, from the Day of its departure from the Body, his Soul will be obnoxious to this greater Misery? What, lastly, if that Fire of the damned, in which their Bodies are to be tormented, should only be Eternal in that sense in which St. Jude inform us that Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Cities round about them, have been set forth for an Example, suffering the vengeance of Eternal Fire; If this amazing Torment of the Soul, which in propriety of Speech is only capable of feeling torment, will be eternal in the highest and most intensive import of that word?

If it be still objected, That it seems not consistent with Divine Goodness to have framed Man so, as that he should be miserable from himself, this at one blow cuts off both Heaven, and Hell; for it is to find fault with God, and represent him as less Good, for making any Beings capable of Vice, and Vertue. For all our Vertue in a state of Trial, consists in chusing well when we had freedom, and some Temptations to do otherwise; and all our Vice in chusing to do ill, when we had Laws directing us to avoid the Evil, and to chuse the Good, and had the highest Motives so to do. To say then, a good God could not create a Creature capable of Vice and Vertue, is in effect to say, 'tis inconsistent with Divine Goodness to create such Creatures as should be subject unto Government, since Government supposes Laws, and Laws must be attended with the Sanctions of Rewards and Punishments. Here then again the Mistake lies in separating the Divine Goodness from his Holiness and Justice, whereas Justice and Holiness are as essential to the Notion of a God as Goodness; for 'tis impossible that Justice should belong to the Idea of God, if it were irreconcileable with the Divine Goodness to make such Creatures as may deserve well or ill, i. e. to be rewarded, or punished. And seeing the Holiness of God renders it necessary for him to retain the greatest hatred to, and abhorrence of incorrigible Sinners, if it be inconsistent with Divine Goodness to make any Creature which may deserve to be the Object of his hatred, Goodness and Holiness cannot both belong to the Idea of God.

If lastly, it be still enquired why Divine Goodness and Mercy doth not still leave condemned Sinners in a Capacity of that Repentance and Reformation which might after a season fit them for the Enjoyment of himself, and thereby put an happy end to all their Misery?

I answer, That both the Christians and Heathens do accord in this, that these Eternal Pu-niſhments ſhall only be inflicted (n) ἐπὶ τὸς καταλαμβανομένους ἐν τῇ ἀνιάτῳ κακίᾳ, on thoſe that are incurably wicked: And they who ſhall hereafter be found thus confirmed in wickedneſs, are by the (o) Heathens given up to Torments without end. Yea, (p) Celſus dogmatically ſays, That they judge rightly, who ſay, the juſt ſhall be happy, οἱ δ' ἄδικοι πάμπαν αἰωνίοις κακοῖς συνέξονται, But the unjuſt ſhall be always ſubject to eternal Evils; And that this was the Opinion of the Heathens, as well as of the Chriſtians, and that no Man ought ever to depart from it. Now that which haply may render their ſtate incurable; may be.

1. That their Day of Grace is paſt, and turn'd into a Day of Wrath; their Time of Trial and Probation is expired, and they are come to the time of Retribution. For as the Chriſtians teach that a Man cannot be truly good and holy without the aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit, ſo did the (q) Heathens teach, That there was an abſolute need of a Divine Afflatus or Good aſſiſting Genius to preſerve them from Sin, and to advance them to a vertuous Life. Now, why is it unjuſt with God to ſay, his Spirit ſhall not always ſtrive with them who have ſo long reſiſted all his Motions, and hardened their Hearts againſt him; Whom all the Riches of his Goodneſs could not lead unto Repentance, or preſerve from treaſuring up Wrath againſt the Day of Wrath? Either the Day of Grace muſt never end, or there muſt be a time when they that are filthy will be filthy ſtill.

Moreover, To aſſert it is unjuſt with God, or inconſiſtent with his Goodneſs, to appoint a Day in which he will judge the World in Righteouſneſs, and render to Men according to their Works; as it ſeems plainly to border on a Contradiction in the Terms, ſo it cuts off all future Judgment, it being certain God neither will nor can do what is inconſiſtent with his Goodneſs to do; and, according to this Hypotheſis, he muſt never paſs the final and decretory Sentence upon wicked Men.

2*ly*, The Place and Company to which the damned ſhall be ſentenced, ſeems to render them incapable of growing better; for when they are once given up to the Tormentor, and kept in Chains of Darkneſs, what expectation can there be they ſhould grow better under this Enemy of God and Goodneſs? and yet that this is one Ingredient of their future ſtate, is not the Sentiment of Jews and Chriſtians only from the Holy Scripture, but alſo of the Heathens from the Tradition they had received, as is evident both (r) from their own words, and from their Adraſtia, Nemeſis, Alaſtores, their Furies, hurtful Dæmons, and their Evil Genius's.

3*ly*, The Alteration of their Condition, and their State ſeems to exclude all place for Reformation, and for the exerciſe of Piety and Vertue. For the Sentence of Condemnation and Excluſion from God's bliſsful Preſence being paſt upon them, they have no hope of being happy, or of eſcaping the Miſery to which they are expoſed, and ſo can have no Motive to be better, nor can they be in a Capacity to love that God from whom they can expect no good. There alſo ſeems to be no place for Vertue in a future State; no room for Temperance, where there is no capacity of enjoying Meats, or Drinks, or any Pleaſures of the Fleſh; no place for Juſtice, where there is no Meum and Tuum; no poſſibility to kill, or maim, or to be cruel to another, when none can be defamed to their prejudice and hurt in their Concerns. Laſtly, No place for Charity, where there is either none that can want any thing, or none that can receive advantage by us.

TO THE

First Epistle of St. PAUL to TIMOTHY.

THAT this Epistle was written after St. Paul's Departure from Ephesus to Macedonia, some gather from these Words, When I went into Macedonia I besought thee to abide at Ephesus, Ch. 1. 3. and that it was writ when he was in expectation of returning shortly thither, they conclude from these Words, I write to thee, hoping to come unto thee quickly, Chap. 3. 14. It therefore, say they, must be writ before he came to Miletus, Acts 20. 17. For then he, sending for the Bishops of Ephesus thither, speaks thus to them, And now I know that all you, among whom I have gone preaching the Kingdom of God, shall see my face no more, v. 25. For then he must have laid aside all Thoughts of returning any more to Ephesus. It therefore must, say they, be written while he was in Macedonia, or thereabouts; and so A. D. 55. and the first of Nero, so Dr. Lightfoot.

Bishop Pearson grants that it was written after St. Paul was gone into Macedonia; but then he adds, that it was writ after his enlargement from his Bonds at Rome, A. D. 65. that it could not be writ at any time of St. Paul's going to Macedonia, before his Journey to Jerusalem, he proves, because before that time, St. Paul could not have exhorted him to abide at Ephesus; for the first time he went to Macedonia by the Direction of the Holy Ghost, Acts 16. 9, 10. he had not seen Ephesus, for he came not thither till a long time after, Acts 19. 1. The second time he came to Macedonia was after the Tumult which forc'd him to leave Ephesus, Acts 20. 1. when he could not exhort him to abide at Ephesus, for he had sent him thence to Macedonia at that very time when that Tumult began, Acts 19. 22, 23. This Argument, I confess, is not very strong, it being plain from his first Epistle writ to Corinth, while he was at Ephesus, 1 Cor. 16. 8, 10, 11. that he expected then his Return to him: But then it appears that Timothy was with him when he went first from Macedonia to Achaia, and at Corinth writ his Epistle to the Romans, Chap. 16. 21. and also when he returned from Achaia to Macedonia, for then he accompanied him from Achaia to Macedonia, and so to Asia, and so he abode not then at Ephesus, Acts 20. 4. Now from thence St. Paul goes to Jerusalem, and from thence bound to Rome, and so he could not after go to Macedonia till he was set at Liberty. This therefore, saith he, was done afterwards in the 10*th. Year of* Nero, A.D. 65. and soon after he writ this Epistle to him.

And whereas against this it is objected, that in this Epistle he speaks twice of his coming to Ephesus, saying, I write unto thee, hoping to come to thee shortly, Chap. 3. 14. and till I come, give thy diligence to reading, Chap. 4. 13. whereas before his going up to Jerusalem, he had expresly said to them of Ephesus, I know that all you shall see my face no more; whence it is gathered that this Epistle must be writ before that time.

To this I answer, That St. Paul saith plainly in this Epistle, that he purposed to come to him; but he saith not, that he purposed to come to him to Ephesus. If you reply, that in this Epistle he commands him to stay at Ephesus, and so must be supposed to speak of coming thither to him, Ch. 1. 3. this I confess is true, according to our Version, which adds unto the Words so do; but if you read the Words thus, As I exhorted thee to abide (some time) at Ephesus, when I went into Macedonia, (so I did it) that thou mightest admonish some to teach no other Doctrine, it will be left uncertain whether he were at Ephesus, at the inditing this Epistle; for then having done the Work for which he was bid to stay at Ephesus, he might go on to other Places, doing the Work of an Evangelist and settling ordinary Church Governors, Bishops, Presbyters, and Deacons, where they were wanting, and doing all the other things mentioned in this Epistle, as things to be performed in the Church of God. For,

1*st*, 'Tis certain, that when the Second Epistle was writ to Timothy, he was not at Ephesus, as I have there proved, Note on Chap. 4. 12. He therefore might have been gone thence also at the writing of this Epistle, to settle the Affairs of other Churches.

2*ly*, It is certain that this first Epistle was writ to him, that in St. Paul's Absence he might know how to deport himself in the Church of God, especially in reference to the Prescriptions here laid down, chap. 3. 15. Now there was little need that he should stay there, to do the Great Work prescribed in this Epistle, touching Bishops and Deacons, they being setled among them by St. Paul himself before he left Ephesus; and they being after, in his Journey to Jerusalem, summoned to Miletus, and taught how to demean themselves in the respective Provinces committed to their Trust, 'tis therefore highly probable, that these Directions were given him in reference to other Churches to which this Evangelist was to travel, and in some of which he might then be. If this Conjecture may take place, the Difficulty is fully answered; if not, I must confess my self unable to return any satisfactory Answer to it, and so leave the Reader to his Choice, whether he will follow the Opinion of Dr. Lightfoot, or Bishop Pearson, in this matter.

But tho' there be a great Difference as to the time of writing this Epistle; the Ancient Commentators all agree in this, (a) That St. Timothy was left at Ephesus to preserve that Church from the Endeavours of the Judaizing Christians to introduce Circumcision, and the Observance of the Law, and to amuse them with their Talmudical Fables, and with their Genealogies from Abraham, and the Patriarchs. A Reverend Person saith, 'It is evident the Gnosticks were now scattered in 'Asia, and so characterized by the Apostle, 'Chap. 4. and 6. and there distinctly specified 'under the Title of ψευδώνυμος γνῶσις, Science falsly so called, v. 20. they being the Men 'who assumed to themselves the Names of 'Gnosticks, or Knowing Men. And it must 'be confessed, that (b) Theodoret accords with him in this Matter, saying, That the Apostle stiles the pretended Knowledge of the Gnosticks, Science, falsly so called. And (c) St. Chrysostom saith, Perhaps this was spoken by reason of some who were then called Gnosticks. And (d) Theophylact, I think the Apostle speaks this concerning some then called Gnosticks. But yet there lies this strong Objection against this Exposition of this Phrase, or the ascribing of it to the Gnosticks, That, according to all the Accounts we receive from the Ancients, these Gnosticks were not then in being, at least under that Name; for whether, with Irenæus, we derive their Original from (e) Valentinus, or Carpocrates; or, with Clemens Alexandrinus, from Epiphanes, the Author of the Sect of the Carpocratians; or, as St. Jerom saith, from (f) Basilides. It is evident, and confess'd by all these Authors, That all these, and even Menander, whom Irenæus sometimes makes the Father of the Gnosticks, were long after the writing of this Epistle. Whereas the Judaizing Christians were, saith Theodoret, μέγα φρονοῦντες ἐπὶ τῇ γνώσει, Great Boasters of their Knowledge of the Law; and yet that their pretended Knowledge was false Knowledge, we learn from those Words of the Apostle, That these Teachers of the Law knew not what they said, or whereof they affirmed, 1 Tim. 1. 7. Hence is their Doctrine stiled, ματαιολογία, vain talking, v. 6. and here, κενοφωνία, empty babling; as also, 2 Tim. 2. 16. ἄνοια, foolishness, 2 Tim. 3. 9. and they are said to be ματαιολόγοι, vain talkers, Tit. 1. 10. Men puffed up, and knowing nothing, but doting about questions, and strife of words, 1 Tim. 6. 4. See the Note on Chap. 6. 20. So that I can see no Objection against that Opinion which refers this Phrase to those Judaizers, whom the Apostle elsewhere stileth false Apostles and deceitful Workers.

CHAPTER I.

a Verse 1. PAul an a Apostle of Jesus Christ
b by the b commandment [κατ' ἐπιταγὴν, according to the appointment] of God our Saviour, [who called me to this Office by his Grace, Gal. 1. 15.] and [by the appointment of the] Lord Jesus Christ, who is our hope [of glory, Colos. 1. 27.]

c 2. To Timothy c my own Son in the Faith [do I wish] Grace, Mercy, and Peace, from God our Father, and [from] Jesus Christ our Lord.

3. [Declaring that] as I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus, when I went into Macedonia, [so I did it to this end] that thou mightest charge some, [Judaizers there,] that they teach no other Doctrine [than that which is according to Godliness, chap. 6. 3.]

4. Neither give heed [or incline] to [Jewish] Fables, and endless Genealogies, which minister Questions (or Disquisitions
d into Pedigrees] d rather than godly edifying, which is in Faith, [so do.] e 5. Now [for] the e end of the Commandment is Charity out of a pure Heart, and of a good Conscience and Faith unfeigned.

6. From which [Commandment] some having swerved, have turned aside unto vain Jangling, [vain Discourses of Talmudical Fables, and endless Genealogies.]

f 7. f Desiring to be Teachers of the Law, [and yet] understanding neither what they say [of it,] nor whereof they affirm, [i. e. neither the sense, scope, or the true meaning of that Law of which they speak, nor having any certainty of the Traditions of which they talk so confidently.]

8. But [tho' they are thus ignorant,] we know that the Law [in it self] is good, if a Man use it lawfully, [not as a means of Justification, but as a Restraint from Sin, Gal. 3. 19. and as a Schoolmaster to bring him to Christ, the end of the Law, Gal. 3. 24. Rom. 10. 4.]

g 9. Knowing this, that g the Law is not made for a righteous Man, [to condemn, or work wrath to him, Rom. 4. 15. as failing in the strict observance of it:] But for [restraining and condemning] h the lawless and h disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murtherers of fathers, and murtherers of mothers, for manslayers.

10. For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjur'd Persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to ſound Doctrine.

11. [That is the Doctrine which is,] according to the glorious Goſpel of the bleſſed God, which was committed to my truſt.

12. And I thank Chriſt Jeſus our Lord, who hath enabled me [by the aſſiſtance of the Spirit of Power and Wiſdom, who of my ſelf was inſufficient for this work, 2 Cor. 3. 5, 6.] i for that he accounted me [one that would be] faithful [in the diſcharge of it,] putting me [therefore] into the Miniſtry.

13. [Me, I ſay,] who was before [this gracious Call,] a Blaſphemer [of Chriſt, Acts 26. 11.] and a Perſecutor [of his Servants, Acts 8. 3.] and injurious [to them;] but I k obtained Mercy [from him,] becauſe k I did it [not againſt knowledge, for I verily thought I ought to do many things againſt the Name of Jeſus, Acts 26. 9. but] ignorantly in unbelief.

14. And the Grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant, [in its Power to enable me l to promote the Faith, Rom. 15. 19.] l with [that] Faith and Love which is in Chriſt Jeſus.

15. This [therefore] is a faithful ſaying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Chriſt m Jeſus came into the world m to ſave Sinners, of whom n I am [the] chief, [and ſo a great Example of this Truth.] n

16. Howbeit for this cauſe [even] I [the chief of Sinners] obtained Mercy, that in me firſt Jeſus Chriſt might ſhew forth all long-ſuffering, for a pattern [of it] to them which ſhould hereafter believe on him to Life everlaſting.

17. Now to the King eternal, immortal, inviſible, the only wiſe God, be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen.

18. This charge [of remaining ſometime at Epheſus, for the benefit of the Churches there, v. 3.] I commit unto thee, Son Timothy, o according to the Prophecies that o went before of thee, that thou [encouraged and excited] by them p mighteſt war a good p warfare, [even that of Faith, chap. 6. 12. fighting and ſuffering as a good Soldier of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Tim. 2. 3.]

19. Holding Faith, and a good Conſcience, which [laſt] ſome having put away, concerning Faith have made ſhipwreck.

20. Of whom is Hymenæus, [2 Tim. 2. 17.] and Alexander, [2 Tim. 4. 14.] q whom q I have delivered to Satan [for the deſtruction of the Fleſh, 1 Cor. 5. 5.] that they [by what they ſuffer] may learn not to blaſpheme [or ſpeak evil of the Faith.]

a Verſe 1. Ἀπόστολος, An Apoſtle, &c.] Thus he writes to Timothy and Titus, not to aſſert his Apoſtolical Authority to them who doubted not of it, but for their ſakes over whom they were to preſide, that they might not deſpiſe what they did, and enjoyned by ſo great Authority.

b Ibid. Κατ' ἐπιταγὴν Θεοῦ σωτῆρος ἡμῶν καὶ κυρίου, &c.] Some conſtrue theſe words thus, According to the Commandment of Jeſus Chriſt, who is God our Saviour; but the words ὁ ἐλπὶς ἡμῶν, our Hope, muſt be conſtrued with the words, Jeſus Chriſt: And this ſufficiently confutes that Verſion, which, as none of the Ancients followed, ſo is it not ſupported by the word Saviour added to God, that Epithet being twice applied to God the Father in this Epiſtle, viz. chap. 2. 3. and 4. 10. and twice in the Epiſtle to Titus, viz. Chap. 1. 3. and 2. 10. Moreover, ſome ancient Copies read, τοῦ Πατρὸς, of God our Father.

c Ver. 2. Γνησίῳ τέκνῳ ἐν πίστει, My own Son in the Faith.] This Phraſe compared with 1 Cor. 4. 14, 15. ſeems plainly to import, That Timothy was converted to the Chriſtian Faith by St. Paul; as alſo he ſeems to intimate when he ſaith, He ſerved with him in the Goſpel as a Son with the Father, Phil. 2. 22. and again calls him his beloved Son, 2 Tim. 1. 2. Nor find I any thing in Scripture to the contrary; for tho' it is ſaid that he had learned the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament from his Youth, 2 Tim. 3. 15. yet is that true alſo of St. Paul, when yet he was no Convert to the Chriſtian Faith, but a zealous Perſecutor of it. And tho' he was a Diſciple when Paul circumciſed him, and took him with him from Lyſtra, Acts 16. 1. that hinders not but that he might be made ſo by St. Paul himſelf.

Ver. 4. Μᾶλλον ἢ οἰκονομίαν Θεοῦ τὴν ἐν πίστει, Rather than godly edifying which is in Faith.] Here firſt the Grammarians note, that Comparative Particles, and eſpecially this of μᾶλλον, rather, are often in ſenſe Negative, as Luke 18. 14. He went to his Houſe juſtified, ἢ ἐκεῖνος, rather than the other; i. e. the Publican, and not the Phariſee; 1 Pet. 3. 17. It is better to ſuffer for well-doing than for evil-doing; John 3. 19. Men loved, μᾶλλον τὸ σκότος ἢ φῶς, Darkneſs and not Light; 2 Tim. 3. 4. φιλήδονοι μᾶλλον ἢ φιλόθεοι, i. e. Lovers of Pleaſure, and not of God; See John 12. 43. Heb. 11. 25. The Edification in the Faith here mentioned, is ſtiled the Edification of God, becauſe it hath God for its Object, and its End, as tending to the true Knowledge and right Worſhip of God; it is efficiently from him (on which account Juſtification by Faith is ſtiled the Righteouſneſs of God) and tendeth highly to his Glory. d e Ver. 5. Τὸ τέλος τ παραγγελίας, The Scope of the Commandment.] This some refer to the Law, which, saith the Apostle, is fulfilled by love, Rom. 13. 10. but ἀγγελία, 1 Joh. 3. 11. ἐπαγγελία, 1 Thess. 4. 2. and v. 18. of this Chapter, and ἐπαγγελία, being in the Epistles always used of the Gospel, and the latter word spoken of it in opposition to the Law, which, saith the Apostle, was not ἐξ ἐπαγγελίας, of Promise, Rom. 4. 13. Gal. 3. 18. I rather think it here refers unto the Gospel, or to that Dispensation in which nothing availeth, but Faith working by Love, Gal 5.6. and which requires fervent and unfeigned Love out of a pure Heart, from all that do obey the Truth, 1 Pet. 1. 22.

f Ver. 7. Θέλοντες εἶναι νομοδιδάσκαλοι, Desiring to be Teachers of the Law.] That those Persons were not Gnosticks, but ἐξ Ἰουδαίων, the Jews, is manifest, say the Greek Commentators, from these words. For the Gnosticks were the greatest Adversaries of the Law and the Prophets; and even Rejectors of that God who gave the one, and inspired the other. Simon Magus taught, That the (a) Prophets received their Propheſies only from Angels, and that therefore they that believed in him, and his Selene, should not regard them. Saturninus, That (b) Christ came to destroy the God of the Jews; which God Simon himself denied, saith the (c) Pseud-Ignatius. They taught Men not to (d) use the Law, and the Prophets, nor to fear their Threats. Now they who held and taught these things must be the greatest Adversaries to, and not the Teachers of the Law. Hence it follows, 1st, That the Fables and Genealogies mention'd v. 4. and the vain Janglings, v. 6. cannot relate to the Æones of the Gnosticks, which seem not then to be hatch'd; but that the Apostle rather here respects, as Theodoret observes, τ Ἰουδαϊκὴν ἑρμηνείαν τ ὑπ' ἐκείνων καλουμένην δευτέρωσιν, the vain Traditions, or Talmudical Fables of the Jews, as the Apostle explains himself, when he instructs Titus to teach the Cretians, μὴ προσέχειν Ἰουδαϊκοῖς μύθοις, not to give heed to the Jewish Fables of Men, who turn from the Truth, chap. 1.14. especially those Traditions and Fables they had received, of a Messiah B. Joseph that was to suffer, and a Messiah B. David that was to triumph gloriously, and abide for ever, John 12. 34. and of the Golden Days they were to have at the coming of this Messiah, of which Trypho in his Dialogue with Justin speaks, p. 249. B. saying, That their Prophets taught them, ἔνδοξον καὶ μέγαν ἀναμένειν—παραλαμβάνοντα τ αἰώνιον βασιλείαν, to expect a great and glorious Messiah, who should have an endless Kingdom; and p. 306, 307. of the Halcyon Days they should enjoy in Jerusalem rebuilt at his coming. The endless Genealogies are, say the Fathers, Γενεαλογίας τὰς ἐξ Ἀβραὰμ καὶ Δαβίδ, Their Genealogies from Abraham and David, which they were concerned for, that they might know they came from the promised Seed, or their Title to the Privileges belonging to the Children of Abraham; or that they might have the preference for those of the Tribe of Judah, and of the Family of David, which were held more honourable than those of other Tribes; See Campeg. Vitringa de Syn. Vet. l. 3. c. 17. p. 871. They were, saith Dr. Lightfoot, the long and intricate Pedigrees they stood upon to prove themselves Priests or Levites; for as (e) Josephus notes, they thought themselves obliged to be very exact in that Affair, and therefore had Genealogies of them preserved two thousand Years. To these we may add the Genealogy and Pedigree of their Traditions, which they derived from Joshua in a long Line of Succession to their Times. That they were Genealogies belonging to the Jews, we learn from Tit. 3. 9. where they are joyned with Strifes about the Law.

Ver. 9. Δικαίῳ νόμος οὐ κεῖται.] i. e. The Law was not made to condemn the just Man; g for against such there is no Law, condemning them, Gal. 5. 23. ἀντίκειται δὲ, but it lies against the Lawless, &c. to condemn them. h

Ibid. Ἀνόμοις, &c.] From this Enumeration of Offenders against the Law, we learn that the Apostle is here speaking of the Moral Law contained in the Ten Commandments; for the Sins here mentioned respect them; the Ungodly being Sinners against the First Commandment; The ἁμαρτωλοὶ, Sinners, (as that word signifies the Idolatrous Gentiles, Gal. 2. 15.) the Transgressors of the Second; the Perjured Persons, of the Third; the Unholy and Profane, of the Fourth; the Murtherers of Fathers and Mothers, of the Fifth; the Manslayers, of the Sixth; the Fornicators and Defilers of themselves with Mankind, of the Seventh; Men-stealers, of the Eighth; Liars, of the Ninth; as alſo from the following words: If there be any other thing contrary to the ſound Doctrine of the Goſpel. Note, 3*ly*, That Fornication is here reckoned among Sins committed againſt the Law of Nature, or the Moral Law; as it is alſo, Rom. 1. 29. and among the manifeſt Works of the Fleſh, Gal. 5. 19. yea among the things for which the Wrath of God comes upon the Children of Diſobedience, or Unbelief, that is the Heathens, Eph. 5. 5, 6. for which Men are to be excluded from the Kingdom of God, 1 Cor. 6. 10. Rev. 22. 15. and to be caſt into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone, Rev. 21. 8. whence it is to be wondred, that this Sin ſhould be ſo generally committed by ſome, and pleaded for by others, who are called Chriſtians.

i Ver. 12. Ὅτι πιστὸν με ἡγήσατο, He accounted me faithful.] St. Paul was a Veſſel of Election to bear Chriſt's Name before the Gentiles, Acts 9. 15. in order thereunto he was by him to be filled with the Holy Ghoſt, v. 17. and ſo enabled to perform this Word with the Power of Signs and Wonders, and of the Spirit of God, Rom. 15. 19. Chriſt alſo appeared to him for this very end, προχειρίζεσθαι, to conſtitute him firſt, and ſet him apart, as it were, by laying Hands upon him, to make him a Miniſter and Witneſs of what he had ſeen and heard, Acts 26. 16. & 22. 14, 15. and accordingly he ſent him to the Gentiles, Acts 26. 17. and thus he put him into the Miniſtry. Chriſt did this, becauſe he accounted him one that would be faithful in the diſcharge of his Duty, 1 Cor. 4. 2. & 7. 25. i. e. ſuch a one, who by the Conſideration of ſo great a Mercy, and abundant Grace, vouchſafed to one ſo unworthy, would patiently ſuffer for, Acts 9. 16. and labour more abundantly in propagation of the Goſpel, when thus aſſiſted by the Grace and Spirit of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 15. 10. Whence 'tis obſerved by the Fathers here, That (f) there was not only ſomething of God, but alſo ſomething of himſelf, for which he was choſen to this Miniſtery; and that he ſo magnifies the Grace of God, as not to invalidate Man's Free Will.

k Ver. 13. Ὅτι ἀγνοῶν ἐποίησα ἐν ἀπιστίᾳ, I did it ignorantly;] Being an Unbeliever; as he might be by reaſon of thoſe many Prejudices the learned Jews, and zealous Aſſerters of their Traditions laboured under; for to this St. Peter doth aſcribe their Crucifixion of our Lord, ſaying, I know you did it, κατ' ἄγνοιαν, thro' ignorance, Acts 3. 17. and St. Paul ſaying they did it, τοῦτον ἀγνοήσαντες, not knowing him, Acts 13. 27. 1 Cor. 2. 8. and Chriſt himſelf when he prays thus, Father forgive them, they know not what they do, Luke 23. 34. giving the ſame Reaſon of his Prayer for their Forgiveneſs, as St. Paul here doth of his own actual Forgiveneſs; ſo that 'tis needleſs to endeavour, as ſome do, to wreſt theſe words to another ſenſe.

Ver. 14. Μετὰ πίστεως καὶ ἀγάπης, Thro' Faith and Love.] Love conſtraining him to labour more abundantly, 2 Cor. 5. 14. and his ſtrong Faith enabling him to do it in the Power of Signs and Wonders, and of the Holy Ghoſt, Rom. 15. 19. l

Ver. 15. Ἁμαρτωλοὺς σῶσαι, To ſave Sinners.] Hence Divines have well obſerved, that if Man had not ſinned, Chriſt had not come into the World. m

Ibid. Εἰμὶ ἐγὼ, I am.] He ſaith not, I was, but I am, becauſe even when Sin is pardoned, we ought to have the proſpect of it ſtill before our Eyes, to keep us humble and ſenſible of the great Grace of God to us. n

Ver. 18. Κατὰ τὰς προαγούσας ἐπὶ σε προφητείας, According to the foregoing Prophecies concerning thee.] So Chap. 4. v. 14. Neglect not, τὸ χάρισμα, the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt, which was given thee, διὰ προφητείας, according to Prophecy. I have ſhewed, Note on 1 Cor. 12. 10. that among the Gifts of Prophecy, and diſcerning of Spirits, this was one, to foretel and chuſe out Perſons meet to do God Service in the Miniſtry. Hence St. Paul charges the Biſhops of Epheſus, to feed the Flock over which the Holy Ghoſt had made them Overſeers, or Biſhops, Acts 20. 28. And Clemens Romanus ſaith, the Apoſtles choſe Biſhops and Deacons, with full aſſurance of the Holy Ghoſt, πεφυγνωσιν πληροφορίαν τελείαν, Ep. ad Cor. § 42, 44. Having a perfect knowledge of them, and making trial of them by the Spirit. So was it in the Caſe of Timothy, ſay all the Greek Scholiaſts on the place. St. (g) Chryſoſtom ſaith, he was choſen by Prophecy, that is, by the Spirit of God; (h) Theodoret, that he received Impoſition of Hands, not by Man's Calling, but by Divine Revelation: (i) Oecumenius, that by the Revelation of the Spirit he was both choſen by St. Paul, to be a o

Disciple and was circumcised, and ordained a Bishop; and (k) Theophylact affirms the same. Being thus design'd, and notified by the Spirit of Prophecy, they were by Prayer and Imposition of Hands consecrated to their Office. Thus when the Spirit in the Prophets had said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the Work of the Ministery, to which I have called them, Acts 13. 2, 3, 4. they prayed and laid their Hands upon them, and sent them away; and they are said to be sent forth by the Holy Ghost. And with this Imposition of Hands, they who had them not before, received χαρίσματα, Gifts answerable to their Calling. Thus St. Paul charges Timothy to stir up χάρισμα θεῦ, the Gift of God that was in him, by the laying on of his Hands, 2 Tim. 1. 6. and Irenæus saith, l. 4. c. 33. That the Bishops who succeeded the Apostles, with their Succession into their Bishopricks, received a certain χάρισμα of Truth, according to the good pleasure of the Father; See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 16. and on chap. 12. 10. Vain therefore are they, who pretending to an internal Call of the Spirit, which they cannot prove to others, think Imposition of Hands, and Consecration to the Work of the Ministry, unnecessary to the performance of the Ministerial Office.

p Ibid. Ἵνα στρατεύῃ τὴν καλὴν στρατείαν, That thou mayst War a good Warfare.] i. e. Perform the Office of an Evangelist well, 2 Tim. 4. 5. so as to be a good Minister of Jesus Christ, 1 Tim. 4. 6. Thus in the Old Testament the Levite that entred upon the Service of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, is in the Hebrew, one that enters into the Host, Numb. 4. 3, 23, 30, 35, 39, 43. chap. 8. 24. and goes לִצְבֹא צָבָא to War the Warfare, i. e. to Serve the Service, saith the Chaldee; and so the following words explain it; and to be superannuated, and so to cease from the Work, is to return from the Warfare, chap. 8. 25. Thus also in the New Testament, the Christian Minister is a Soldier of Jesus Christ, 2 Tim. 2. 3. στρατιώτης, a Warriour, v. 4. He hath the Weapons of his Warfare, 2 Cor. 10. 4. and ought to have his Wages, because no Man goeth to Warfare at his own charge, 1 Cor. 9. 7.

Ver. 20. Οὓς παρέδωκα τῷ Σατανᾷ, Whom I have delivered to Satan.] I have shewed, Note on 1 Cor. 5. 5. that the Ancients say, this Phrase signified that some Disease was to be inflicted on them by Satan. Thus Theodoret, Chrysostom, and Oecumenius, here say of these Men, (l) That being separated from the Church, they were cruelly chastised by the Adversary, falling into Diseases and grievous Afflictions, and other Damages and Calamities; and this in the fore-mentioned place is argued, from the Ends of this Delivery to Satan, viz. for the destruction of the Flesh, that they might learn not to blaspheme that Doctrine, which could so severely punish them that did so. Note also, that Hymenæus, and Alexander, made Shipwreck of the Faith; not by renouncing Christianity, for what have I to do, saith the Apostle, to judge them that are without? 1 Cor. 5. 12. but by maintaining such Doctrines as overthrew the Faith, i. e. by denying the Resurrection of the Body, as Hymenæus did, 2 Tim. 2. 18. q

CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. I Exhort therefore [in pursuance of the Design of Christ's coming to save Sinners, ch. 1. 15. and here, v. 3, 4.] that first of all [Gr. first that] a Supplications, Prayers, Intercessions, and giving of Thanks be made for all Men. a

2. [Particularly] b For Kings, and for all that are in Authority, that we [under their Government,] may lead a quiet peaceable Life, in all Godliness and Honesty. b

3. For this [Prayer for them, and for all Men,] is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour.

4. Who will have all Men to be saved, and to come [Gr. who wills that all Men should be saved, and come] to the knowledge of the Truth.

5. For there is one God, [who is the God of the Gentiles as well as of the Jews, Rom. 2. 29, 30. the Creator, Eph. 3. 9. the Father, Mat. 2. 10. the Lord, Acts 17. 24. the Saviour of all Men, chap. 4. 10.] and c one Mediator betwixt God and Man, the Man Christ Jesus. c

6. Who gave himself [up to death as] d a Ransom e for all [Men,] to be testified in due time, [Gr. for a Testimony in due time of God's Love to all, Tit. 3. 4.] d e

7. Whereunto [i. e. for the accomplishment of which will of God,] I am ordained [appointed of Christ,] a Preacher and an Apostle; f I speak the truth in Christ, and ly not, a Teacher of the Gentiles in faith and verity. f

a Verse 1. Δεήσεις, προσευχὰς, ἐντεύξεις, Prayers, Supplications, Intercessions.] Δεήσεις, are Deprecations for the pardon of Sin, and the averting Divine Judgments. Προσευχαὶ, Prayers for the obtaining of all Spiritual and Temporal Blessings; and in this we have the Suffrage of the Greek Scholiasts and Lexicographers: But as for the word ἐντεύξεις, they almost unanimously say, it is a Complaint, or Accusation made to God, against those who deal injuriously with them; and a Desire that he would avenge their Injuries; to which I cannot think the Apostle would so passionately exhort them. I therefore prefer the other import of the word mentioned in Phavorinus, that it is παράκλησις ὑπὲρ τινος σεσαγμένη Θεῷ πρὸς σωτηρίας ἑτέρων, an Address presented to God for the Salvation of others. And by this Rule were the Devotions of the Church continually directed: For, saith the Author of the Book, De Vocatione Gentium, (a) the Devotion of all the Priests, and all the Faithful, doth so unanimously observe this Rule of Prayer, that there is no part of the World, in which the Christian People do not put up such Prayers as these, praying not only for the Saints, but for Infidels, Idolaters, the Enemies of the Cross, and the Persecutors of Christ's Members, for Jews, Hereticks, and Schismaticks. But then as these Addresses had a particular respect to Men in these Circumstances, so the other must have respect to Men in general, all these Addresses being to be made not only for our selves, but for all Men.

b Ver. 2. Ὑπὲρ Βασιλέων, &c. For Kings, and all that are in Authority.] So the Jews pray'd and offer'd Sacrifices for the Persian Kings, (b) and the Welfare of their Government, Ezra 6. 10. Thus Jeremy sends to them in their Captivity, to pray for the Peace of the City, whither God had caused them to be carried captive, chap. 29. 7. And the Jews in Babylon send to those in Judæa, to pray for the Life of Nebuchodonosor, King of Babylon; and for the Life of Balthasar his Son, that their Days may be upon Earth as the Days of Heaven, Baruch 1. 11. When they came under the Government of the Kings of Egypt, Eleazar their High-Priest, writes to Ptolomy thus: We continually offer Sacrifice (c) for thee, thy Sister, thy Children, and Friends; and the People pray for thy happy Success in all things, and for the peace- able State of thy Kingdom. And so when they were under the Seleucidæ. And lastly, when they came under the (d) Roman Government, this was their constant Practice, till they begun that Rebellion, under which their City, Country, Religion, and Nation was destroyed. This being, saith Josephus, the Cause of the War, that the Seditious did, δυσίαν τῷ καίσαρι καὶ ἀποστάσεων, reject the Sacrifice offered for Cæsar, tho' the Priests and Nobles earnestly intreated them, μὴ παραλιπεῖν τὸ ἐπὶ τῶν ἡγεμόνων ἔθος, not to desert the Custom concerning their Rulers, which always had obtained among them.

And that the Christians, following their Examples, thus pray'd continually from the beginning for their (e) Kings, we learn from (f) Polycarp, (g) Justin Martyr, (h) Tertullian, (i) St. Cyprian, (k) Origen, (l) Lactantius, and from all the ancient Liturgies. And this it became them to do, that the Heathen Emperors finding them thus solicitous for the Welfare and Prosperity of their Government, might permit them quietly and peaceably to enjoy their Religion.

c Ver. 5. Μεσίτης, Mediator.] That is, saith Suidas, εἰρηνοποιὸς, a Peace-maker. This, say the Socinians, is not necessary that a Mediator should appease, or reconcile Parties at variance, but only that he should deliver the Mind of one to the other, and strike a Covenant, or League betwixt them, as in the Case of Moses, Gal. 3. 19. To this I answer,

1. That tho' this be not necessarily contained in the signification of the word, yet is it evidently implied in that which is annexed to our Mediator, where-ever he is mentioned in the New Testament, viz. here, and in the Epistle to the Hebrews; for here he is such a Mediator as gave himself a Ransom to God for us, v. 6. and there he is a Mediator of the New Covenant in his Blood, the Covenant made by intervention of his Death, εἰς ἀπολύτρωσιν, for Redemption of the Transgressions of the former Covenant, chap. 9. 15. & 8. 6. & 12. 24.

2*ly*, This seemeth to have been the Jewish Notion both of a Mediator in the general, and of our Mediator, or the Divine Logos in particular. Thus (m) Philo saith, That the Father of all things hath granted to his most ancient Word, an excellent Gift, viz. That standing in the Confines of both, he should put a difference betwixt the Maker and the Thing made, as being an Intercessor for mortal Man to the immortal God, and an Ambassador from the King to his Subjects, in which Gift he rejoyceth saying, Κἀγὼ ἱστήκειν ἀνὰ μέσον Κυρίου καὶ ὑμῶν, And I stood betwixt God and you, being neither unbegotten as God, οὔτε γενητὸς ὡς ἡμεῖς, nor made as we are, but a middle of the Extreams, and a Pledge to both; to the Creator, engaging that all Mankind shall not corrupt it self, and apostatize, chusing Disorder before Order; to the Creature, that he may have good hope that the merciful God will not wholly overlook his own Work; for I denounce τὰ εἰρηνεῖα, peaceable things to the Creature from the God of Peace. And speaking of their High-Priest, who was a Type of Christ, he saith, (n) The Law will have him raised above Human Nature, and coming near to the Divine; and if I may say the truth, a middle betwixt both, that Men may atone God by a Mediator, and God may reach forth, and distribute his Favours to Men by a certain Minister. And again, (o) It was necessary that he who performs the Office of a Priest to the Father of the World, should have for his Advocate his Son most perfect in Vertue, to obtain the Pardon of Sins, and the Participation of the greatest Blessings. So that here it is made the Office of a Mediator to procure Peace to the Creature from God, to make Atonement to God, and to be an Advocate to obtain the Pardon of Sins; and if Chriſt our Mediator and Advocate with the Father, was, by Virtue of his Office, to do this, ſurely it muſt be part of his Office to appeaſe and reconcile God to us.

d Ver. 6. Ἀντίλυτρον ὑπὲρ πάντων, A Ranſom for all.] And Mat. 20. 28. λύτρον ἀντὶ πολλῶν, a Ranſom in the ſtead of many. Hence then 'tis evident beyond contradiction, that our Lord Jeſus ſuffered in our ſtead. For when the Scripture ſaith, ὑ λήψεσθε λύτρα περὶ ψυχῆς τοῦ φονεύσαντος, ye ſhall admit no Satisfaction for the Life of the Murtherer who is worthy of Death, Numb. 35. 31, 32. but he ſhall ſurely be put to Death; for οὐκ ἐξιλασθήσεται ὁ γῆ ἀπὸ τοῦ αἵματος, the Land cannot be cleanſed, or expiated from the Blood that is ſhed therein, but by the Blood of him that ſhed it; Is not this the plain import of theſe words, that no Price ſhall be admitted inſtead of his Life? Again, when Ahab paſs'd this Judgment on the diſguiſed Prophet, ἔσται ἡ ψυχή σου ἀντὶ τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτοῦ, thy Life ſhall go for his Life whom thou haſt let go, 1 Kings 20. 39, 42. And when the Prophet thus returns upon him, Thus ſaith the Lord, Becauſe thou haſt let go out of thy hand a Man whom I have appointed to utter deſtruction, ἔσται ἡ ψυχή σου ἀντὶ τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτοῦ, therefore thy Life ſhall go for his Life. And when Jehu ſaith to the Men appointed to ſlay the Prieſts of Baal, If any of them eſcape, he that letteth him go, ἡ ψυχὴ αὐτοῦ ἀντὶ τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτῶν, his Life ſhall be for his Life that eſcapeth of them, 2 Kings 10. 24. Do not all theſe Expreſſions plainly ſignifie, thou ſhalt die inſtead of him? When therefore Chriſt elſewhere declares, That he would give his Fleſh for the Life of the World; that he gave his Life a Ranſom for many, a Ranſom for all: Muſt he not ſignifie by theſe Expreſſions, that he would give up his Life to the Death, inſtead of them who had deſerved Death? Which ſure he could not do, but he muſt ſuffer in their ſtead. Moreover, by the Jewiſh Law, the Firſt-born of every Beaſt was to die, or to reſcue him from it, the Owner was to pay, λύτρον ἀντὶ ψυχῆς, a Price to redeem his Life, Numb. 18. 15. and the puſhing Ox, provided the Owner did not pay, τὸ λύτρον τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτοῦ, a Price or Ranſom for his Life, Exod. 21. 31. Every Iſraelite was alſo to bring in yearly his Half-ſhekel, λύτρον τῆς ψυχῆς αὐτοῦ ἐξιλάσασθαι περὶ τῶν ψυχῶν ὑμῶν, to be the Ranſom of his Life, that he die not, Exod. 30. 12. 15, 16. And this Money was apppointed to buy the daily Sacrifice which was to expiate, or make atonement for their Lives. Moreover, among the Jews it was a received Opinion, that σπουδαῖος τῶν φαύλων λύτρον, the good Man was the Redemption of the wicked, Philo de Sacrif. Cain, p. 118. D. And hence (p) Joſephus brings in Eleazar praying thus to God, Be thou gracious to thy Nation, being ſatisfied with the Puniſhment I ſuffer for them, make my Blood an Expiation for them, καὶ ἀντὶ ψυχῶν αὐτῶν λάβε τὴν ἐμὴν ψυχήν, and take my Life inſtead of theirs. See the Note on Mat. 20. 28. When therefore in alluſion to theſe things, 'tis ſaid, Chriſt gave himſelf, ἀντίλυτρον, or λύτρον ἀντὶ πολλῶν, a Ranſom for many, can we put any other ſenſe upon theſe words than this, that he gave his Life inſtead of ours, to expiate and atone for thoſe Lives which we by Sin had forfeited?

Ibid. Ὑπὲρ πάντων, For all.] Theſe Verſes e contain ſeveral convincing Arguments, that God wills the Salvation of all Men in particular, and that Chriſt thus died for all. For,

1. The Apoſtle here enjoyns us to pray for all Men, becauſe God will have all Men to be ſaved. Now 'tis unqueſtionably the Chriſtian's Duty, and was the conſtant Practice of the Church to pray for all Men in particular; and therefore the Reaſon here aſſigned of this Duty, muſt reach to all Men in particular.

2. The Apoſtle reaſons thus: God will have all Men to be ſaved, becauſe he is the God of all, the Common Father, Creator, Governour, and Preſerver of all Men: Now thus he is the God of all Men in particular, and ſo this Argument muſt ſhew, he would have all Men in particular to be ſaved. For, as the Apoſtle argues for God's readineſs to juſtifie the Gentiles by Faith, as freely as the Jews, by asking, Is he the God of the Jews only, is he not alſo of the Gentiles? Rom. 3. 30. and anſwering, that there is no difference betwixt them, the ſame God being rich unto all that call upon him, Rom. 10. 12. So may we argue in this Caſe by a like Enquiry, Is he the God of a ſmall Remnant of the Jews and Gentiles only, is he not the God, and Saviour of them all? chap. 4. 10.

3. He would have all Men to be ſaved, ſaith the Apoſtle, for there is one Mediator betwixt God and Man, the Man Chriſt Jeſus, who gave himſelf a Ranſom for all. Now if the Argument from One God was, as we have proved, deſigned to ſhew he was the God of all Men in particular, the Argument from this One Mediator, muſt alſo prove Chriſt the Mediator of all Men in particular. Hence is he here emphatically ſtiled, the Man Chriſt Jeſus, to intimate unto us, that having taken upon him the Nature common to us all, to fit him for this Office, he must design it for the good of all who were Partakers of that Nature; for as he was a Man, he surely was endued with the best of Human Affections, Universal Charity, which would excite him to promote the Welfare of all. As he was a Man, he was subject to the common Law of Humanity, which obliges us to endeavour the common Benefit of Men.

f Ver. 7. Ἀλήθειαν λέγω, I speak the truth in Christ.] This Oath, or vehement Affirmation, could not be necessary to confirm Timothy in the belief of this matter. But this Epistle being sent to Ephesus where there were many Jews, who either denied that Salvation was to be preached to the Gentiles, or only on the Terms of being also circumcised, which this Apostle so stoutly did oppose, it might be necessary for their sakes.

g Ver. 8. Ὁσίας χεῖρας, Holy Hands.] 'Tis certain that 'twas the Custom of the Heathens to wash sometimes their Heads, sometimes their whole Bodies, but generally their Hands, before they came to their Temples to pay their Homage to their Gods. And to this purpose they had their χερνίβια, or χερνίπτρα, Basons, or Lavers, placed before the Temples, which they were to use before they sacrificed; it being thought so great a Crime to come to the Gods with Hands unwashed, illotis manibus libare, that 'tis (q) Proverbial with them, to signifie by that Phrase, those who come irreverently and unprepared to their Service, say Diogenianus, and St. Gregory; and to come reverently to the Gods is, (r) διερραναμένους, ὑπορυφάμους, ὑπονιφάμους, ὡσαύτως ἔχοντας, to come cleansed and washed, and therefore holy. As for the Jews, the Learned Dr. Pocock saith, that this is a Law among them, That every one must wash his Hands when he rises from his Bed, that he may be pure when he offers up his Prayers to God, not thinking any Man טהור (ὅσιος, Prov. 22. 11.) pure, till he hath washed his Hands. This they were to do, say their (s) Rabbins, lest God seeing his Creature defiled should be angry; and because Prayer succeeded to those Sacrifices, which were not to be touched by the Priest till he had washed his Hands, Exod. 30. 27, 28. This they looked upon as a part of Sanctification, and therefore pray thus, Blessed be thou, O Lord God, אשר קדשנו who hast sanctified us by thy Precepts, and commandest us to wash our Hands. This washing was to signifie three things:

1. That the Hands should be innocent and pure from all Blood and Cruelty, Injustice, and Bribery, all Filthiness and Impurity, before we come to this Sacred Majesty, as David saith, I will wash my Hands in Innocency, and so will I compass thine Altar, Psal. 26. 6. and Philo, of the (t) Essens, that they lifted up pure Hands to Heaven; that is, Hands, καθαρὰς λημμάτων καὶ ὅλως ἀδικίας παντοίας τῶν εἰς πλεονεξίαν μιαινόμεναι, pure from Gifts, and stain'd with no unjust gain; and so, saith he, must the Person who lays his Hand upon his Offering, be able to say, (u) Αἱ χεῖρες αὗται οὔτε δῶρον ἔλαβον ἐπ' ἀδίκοις ἔργοις, these Hands have received no Gift to do Injustice, are not polluted with innocent Blood; they have maimed, wounded, done violence to no Man; they have been employed in no culpable Action, but have ministred to all good and profitable things.

2. That our Hearts should much more be purified from all Lusts, and Filthiness of Spirit, Pride, Hatred, Malice, Covetousness, &c. So clean Hands, and a pure Heart, in the Psalmist, go together, Psal. 24. 4. He that offers Sacrifices, saith (x) Philo, must be καθαρὸς σῶμα καὶ ψυχήν, pure in Body from whatsoever defileth that; and in Soul from all evil Passions and Vices: For it is folly to think we may not come to the Temple till we have wash'd the Body, and yet may pray and offer Sacrifice, with a spotted and defiled Mind.

3. That we be purified from all worldly and distracting Thoughts, that the Mind may be at leisure to attend purely to heavenly Things, that we may bring to God, saith Philo, (y) τὴν ψυχὴν τῶν τῆς αἰσθήσεως καὶ αἰσθητῶν ὄγκων παντελῶς ἐπικουφισθεῖσαν, a Soul eased of all the weight of the Senses, and sensible Objects. These are the things which the Apostle here enjoyns, when he commands us to lift up holy Hands, not that we should wash them with Water, which (z) Tertullian reckons among things, vacuæ observationis, of vain observation, superstitious, and rather curious and affected, than reasonable Devotion, when introduced by some Christians from the Heathen, or the Jewish Practice, as a Preface to Prayer.

and being the Fore-runner of that Cruelty which defiles the Hands.

i Ibid. Καὶ διαλογισμῶν, And doubting.] I find not that the Greek ever bears the sense of Doubting, but always imports in the New Testament, either inward Reasonings, or tumultuating Thoughts, διαλογισμοὶ πονηροὶ, evil Thoughts in the Heart, Mat. 15. 19. Mark 7. 21. James 2. 4. διαλογισμοὶ καρδιῶν, the Thoughts of Mens Hearts, Luke 2. 35. & 9. 46. διαλογισμοὶ αὐτῶν, their Thoughts, Luke 5. 22. & 6. 8. or their Imaginations, Rom. 1. 21. Luke 24. 38. or Contention and Disceptation among them, Luke 9. 46. or inward Murmurings, Phil. 2. 14. all which are plainly opposite to that Peace, Concord, and Sedateness of Spirit we should bring to our Devotions, and apt to distract us in them, especially evil Imaginations.

k Ver. 9. Μετὰ αἰδοῦς καὶ σωφροσύνης, With Shamefacedness, and Sobriety, or Chastity.] It seems impossible to fix a certain Rule for the Attire of Women of all States and Conditions, at all Times, and in all Places, but from what the Apostle saith here, and 1 Pet. 3. 3. (See the Note there) it seems evident, 1. That περιπλοκαὶ τῶν τριχῶν ἐταιρικαὶ, all Attire which suspected Women used, either to provoke Lust in others, or to shew any inclination to it in themselves; and all Attire which hath any tendency to any thing of this nature, or to raise a suspicion of it, must be here forbidden, as being contrary to the Modesty and chast Behaviour of a Godly Matron. And 2*ly*, All Attire, which by the Richness and the Costliness of it, shews any Pride, or Vanity of Spirit, or an Ambition to excel others. And 3*ly*, All great concernment, care, and study, to appear in such Attire, as if it were indeed our truest Ornament, and that which made us truly to excel, and be more honourable than others: This Vanity, and Pride, this esteem of, and concern for these things, being not well consistent with Sobriety, and much less with the Profession of true Godliness. And here it is worthy to be noted by the Women, 1. That this Precept ought not to be slighted by them, as of little moment, seeing it is so carefully inculcated by the two chief Apostles of the Jew and Gentile, St. Peter and St. Paul; and the contrary is represented as a Practice opposite to Godliness. 2*ly*, Let them especially mark the Character here given of a Christian Woman, viz. that she is one who doth not only profess and declare, that she serves and worships God, but also doth ἐπαγγέλλεσθαι, shew forth Godliness in her Life and Conversation. And 2*ly*, Let the Men note hence that of Esthius, that if it be so unbecoming a Christian Woman, to be thus concerned in adorning and tricking up her Body, it must be much more unbecoming a Christian Man, and that which makes him truly to deserve the Name of Fop.

Ver. 12. Οὐκ ἐπιτρέπω, &c. I suffer not a Woman to teach;] i. e. Publickly, 1 Cor. 14. 34, 35. See the Note there. They may privately instruct, as Priscilla did Apollo, Acts 18. 26. and as a believing Wife may instruct her unbelieving Husband, when he requires a Reason of her Faith; but then she must not challenge any Authority to do this, this being to usurp an Authority not due unto her.

Ver. 14, Οὐκ ἠπατήθη, He was not deceived;] m i. e. By the Serpent, who never attempted him; but was only seduced by the Woman: She therefore was both guilty of her own, and of her Husband's Sins.

Ver. 15. Διὰ τεκνογονίας, In Child-bearing.] n That is, say some, by bearing the Messiah, the promised Seed; but there is no instance that can be produced, where this Phrase is used in this sense. Say others, by Education of her Children: But neither is there any Instance of this signification of the word, nor is it fit that her Salvation should depend on the Faith, and Charity, and Holiness of her Children, these being things not in her power to produce in them. And 3. What then shall become of barren Women, and those that live and die Virgins? To establish therefore the sense given in the Text, let it be noted,

1*st*, That this Enallage Numeri, or change of the number in words that comprehend all of the same kind, is very common both in the Old, and the New Testament, and in profane Authors: So Gen. 33. 13. Morientur totus Grex, Gen. 41. 57. Universa terra venerunt, the whole Land came into Egypt, Psal. 140. Grant not the desires of the wicked, further not his wicked devices, lest they exalt themselves, Prov. 2. 12, 13. The evil Man, who leave the paths of uprightness. See Numb. 10. 3. 1 Kings 1. 40. 1 Chron 10. 6. Ezra 10. 12. Psal. 68. 11. Esd. 25. 3. and 34. 10. Mark 3. 7, 8. And here Chap. 5. 4. χήρα—μανθανέτωσαν, if any Widow,—let them learn. Note,

2*ly*, That the Proposition, διὰ, doth not always signifie a Means, or a Condition, but sometimes a Term to be pass'd through, as when it is said, διὰ πολλῶν θλίψεων, Through many Tribulations we must enter into the Kingdom of God, Acts 14. 22. He shall be saved, διὰ πυρὸς, as one passing through the Fire, 1 Cor. 3. 15. Let us behave our selves as the Ministers of God, passing inoffensively, διὰ δόξης καὶ ἀτιμίας, διὰ δυσφημίας καὶ εὐφημίας, thro' honour and dishonour, through good and evil report, 2 Cor. 6. 8. in which sense we are said, Ambulare per viam, per plateam. But against the Interpretation given in the Paraphrase, it is objected, that the following words, If they continue in the Faith, &c. cannot be mentioned here as a Condition of their safe Deliverance in Child Bed, since that that Deliverance is common to the Believer and the Pagan, the Charitable and Temperate, and the Uncharitable and Intemperate, the Chaſt and the Unchaſt Women.

Anſw. Now to this I anſwer, That this Objection ſeems to be of no force againſt the ſenſe here given; for tho' Health, Riches, a good Name, and other Temporal Bleſſings, be common to the Pagan and Believer, to the Good and Bad, that hinders not but Godlineſs may have the Promiſe of this Life, as Health, Riches, a good Name, and other outward Bleſſings are promis'd to thoſe that fear God; it being ſufficient to make good this Promiſe, that God is pleaſed ſometimes to vouchſafe this ſafe Deliverance from the Dangers of Child-Birth, to Women by Virtue of their Truſt in God, their Charity to others, eſpecially in the like Condition, their Temperance, Sobriety, and Chaſtity, as to the Obſervation of the Matrimonial Vow, and that others ſometimes may miſcarry thro' the want or neglect of theſe Duties. In a word, ſeeing it cannot be denied, that theſe things are likely to engage God's Providence to be with them in that needful Hour, and the neglect of them may provoke him to abandon others, they muſt be deemed fit matter of a Temporal Promiſe.

CHAPTER III.

Verſe 1. [a] THis is a true ſaying, If any Man deſires the Office of a Biſhop, he deſireth a good Work, [i. e. a Work that is honourable in its ſelf, and ſo requires ſuch Diſpoſitions, and Qualifications, in the Perſon who deſireth it, as may render him worthy of that Honour.]

2. A Biſhop then muſt be [b] blameleſs, [i. e. free from juſt ground of blame,] the [c] Husband of one Wife, [i. e. not guilty of Polygamy, or of divorcing one Woman, and marrying another, as many of the Jews and Greeks then were;] vigilant, [in his Function;] ſober, [governing his Paſſions;] of good Behaviour, [in Words, in Habit, or in Aſpect;] [d] given to Hoſpitality, [or the Entertainment of Strangers;] apt to teach, [not ſo much for his Eloquence, as for his Skill in Divine Things, and Knowledge of what is fitting to be taught. So Theodoret.]

3. Not given to [much] Wine, [v. 9.] no Striker, not greedy of filthy Lucre, but [e] patient, not a Brawler, [or contentious Perſon,] not [f] covetous.

4. One that ruleth well [in] his own Houſe, having his Children in [due] ſubjection, [and behaving himſelf in it] with all Gravity.

5. For if a Man know not how to rule [well in] his own Houſe, how ſhall he [be able to] take care of the Church of God? [which is a larger Family, and ſo requires greater Skill in Government.]

6. [g] Not a Novice [in Religion,] leſt being lifted up with Pride, [ἐκ τῆς πεπεδείας, by reaſon of his high advancement,] he fall [h] into the Condemnation of the Devil.

7. Moreover, he muſt have a good report of them that are without, [i. e. the unbelieving Jew or Gentile, with whom he formerly converſed,] leſt he fall into reproach [from them,] and [into] the [i] ſnare of the Devil.

8. Likewiſe muſt the Deacons be grave, not double-tongu'd, [not fraudulent and deceitful, Chryſoſtom; not ſaying one thing to one, another to another, Theodoret;] not given to much Wine, not greedy of filthy Lucre, [i. e. of Lucre gain'd by ſordid and filthy Arts.]

9. Holding the Myſtery of the Faith in a pure Conſcience, [i. e. in a Life ſo pure that Conſcience may not ſmite him; for when a good Conſcience is once put away, the loſs of Faith will follow, chap. 1. 19.]

10. [k] And let theſe alſo firſt be proved, [by the examination of the ſoundneſs of their Faith, and the purity of their former Lives,] and then let them [be admitted to] uſe the Office of a Deacon, being [thus] found blameleſs.

11. Even ſo muſt their [l] Wives be [γυναῖκας ὡσαύτως, the Women in like manner muſt be] grave, not Slanderers, ſober, faithful in all things.

12. Let the Deacons be the Husbands of one Wife, [ſee v. 2.] ruling their Children, and their own Houſes well.

13. For they that have uſed the Office of a Deacon well, [i. e. according to theſe Rules, do by ſo doing,] purchaſe to themſelves [m] a good degree, [or higher Office in the Church,] and great [n] boldneſs in [preaching] the Faith [which is] in Chriſt Jeſus.

14. Theſe things write I [now] unto thee, hoping to come to thee ſhortly, [and furniſh thee with other Inſtructions, Chap. 4. 13.]

15. [o] But if I tarry long [they will be the more needful,] that thou mayeſt know how thou oughteſt to behave thy ſelf in the Houſe of God, which is the Church of the living God, [p] the Pillar and Ground of Truth.

Annotations on Chap. III.

a Verſe 1. NOTE, Concerning the import of the word Biſhop here, I find three different Opinions among the Ancients, viz. that of Theodoret, that the Apoſtle here calls the (a) Presbyter, Biſhop, which he thus proves; becauſe, after the Rules preſcribed concerning Biſhops, he deſcends to thoſe concerning Deacons, omitting Presbyters; Becauſe, ſaith he, anciently the ſame Perſons were ſtiled Presbyters, and Biſhops, the Name Apoſtles being then given to them who are now called Biſhops; but in proceſs of time they left the Name of Apoſtles to them who were Apoſtles indeed, and gave this Name of Biſhop peculiarly to them, who anciently were ſtiled Apoſtles. And tho', ſaith he, theſe Rules are given to the Presbyters by Name, it is clear that they more eminently belonged to Biſhops, ἅτε δὴ καὶ μείζονος μεταλαχόντας τιμῆς, as being of an higher Dignity. And this Opinion, if true, is a full Confutation of the Presbyterian Hypotheſis; for it declares, that there were three diſtinct Orders from the beginning of the Church, Apoſtles, or Biſhops, Preſbyters, and Deacons, and that the Biſhops were of an higher Dignity than the Presbyters.

2*ly*, The ſecond Opinion is that of Epiphanius, That the (b) Apoſtles could not order all things at one time, there being then a neceſſity of Presbyters and Deacons, by both which Eccleſiaſtical Matters were to be adminiſtred, they plac'd no Biſhops there, where they found no Perſon worthy of that Office; in other places where they found Perſons worthy of it, but by reaſon of the paucity of Converts, found ſcarce any fit to be Presbyters, they conſtituted only Biſhops and Deacons. And this Account, ſaith he, is taken, βασυτάτης ἱστορίας, from the moſt ancient Hiſtories of the Church; I ſuppoſe from the known paſſage of Clemens Romanus to this effect. And this alſo yields a full Confutation of the Presbyterian Hypotheſis; for it declares, That it was the Deſign of the Apoſtles to inſtitute three ſeveral Orders in the Church, viz. of Biſhops, Presbyters, and Deacons; and where this was not done, it was only through want of Perſons fit to compleat theſe Orders, and only during that defect; and this being writ in Anſwer to Aerius his Hereſie, That (c) a Biſhop differed not from a Presbyter, they being both one Order, Dignity, and Honour; ſhews that Opinion was then counted not only falſe, and novel, but heretical.

3*ly*, The third Opinion is that of (d) Chryſoſtom, (e) Oecumenius, and (f) Hilary the Deacon, on the place, that the Apoſtle includes Presbyters under the Name of Biſhops, becauſe there is no great difference between them, they being appointed as well as Biſhops to teach, and to preſide over the Church; and being only inferiour to the Biſhops, as to the Power of Ordination, which belongs alone to Biſhops, and not to Presbyters. Now even, according to this Opinion, the Biſhop is above the Presbyter; and all Ordinations which are not performed by the Biſhop, are irregular, and performed by them who have no Power to Ordain.

so bright, and be so free from spot, that others may not only behold it, but live by his Example.

c Ibid. Μιᾶς γυναικὸς ἄνδρα, The Husband of one Wife;] For the Jews and Greeks, saith (g) Theodoret, were wont to be married to two or three Wives together. The Apostle therefore doth not say this to depreciate second Marriages, which he elsewhere allows, 1 Cor. 7. 8, 39. and from which it may not be in a Man's power to abstain. If then a Man, ἢ ἀφεστίαν ἐκβαλὼν, ἑτέρᾳ συνζύγῃ, rejecting his former Wife, be joined to another, he deserveth blame; but if Death have disjoin'd him from his former, and Nature urging, doth necessitate him to take another, 'tis otherwise. Considering these and other things, I approve of this Interpretation of some of the Ancients, which is also mentioned by (h) St. Jerom, and by Chrysostom, declaring that the Apostle doth not here oblige the Bishop to be married, but only corrects the Immoderateness of some, because among the Jews 'twas lawful both to marry twice, καὶ δύο ἔχειν κατὰ ταυτὸν γυναῖκας, and to have two Wives together; and 'twas more common with them to divorce one, and take another; and whereas, against this Interpretation, it is objected, That the Apostle requires also, that the Widow should be the Wife of one Husband; whereas it never was permitted, among any but Barbarians, for Women to have more than one Husband at once; this Objection hath some strength against the interpreting that passage of Polygamy, but none against that Interpretation which relates to Marriage, after dismission of the former Husband, the Law allowing this in Greece, and the Practice having made it common among the Romans, and not unusual among the Jews. See Note on Chap. 5. 9.

d Ibid. φιλόξενον, Given to Hospitality.] Not in our common sense, of keeping a good Table, or an open House, for all Comers; but τὸν ξενοδεχοῦντας ξενοδοχοῦντα, an Entertainer of Strangers, as the Fathers say, and the word φιλόξενος signifies.

e Ver. 3. Ἐπιεικῆ, Patient, or Gentle.] i. e. saith Theodoret, in reference to Offences committed against himself; for it is no part of Meekness or Patience, when others are injured, to overlook the Injury.

Ibid. Ἀφιλάργυρον, Not Covetous, or a Lover of Money.] Theodoret here notes, that the Apostle doth not say he must be, ἀκτήμονα, one who possesseth none; for a Man may possess these things, and yet distribute them as he ought, so as not to be a Slave to them, but a Lord over them. f

Ver. 6. Μὴ Νεόφυτον, Not a Novice.] This, say Chrysostom and Theodoret, is not spoken with respect to Age; for Timothy himself to whom he writes, was a Youth, Chap. 4. 12. but in respect to his knowledge of the Faith. g

Ibid. Εἰς κρῖμα τῦ Διαβόλυ.] That the Devil fell by Pride, Theodoret here notes; but yet both he, and Chrysostom say, That by Condemnation here, the Apostle means, not his Sin, but his Punishment for it.

Ver. 8. Καὶ παγίδα διαβόλυ.] And the Snare of the Devil.] i. e. saith Theodoret, lest being tempted by Satan, he relapse into his former Sins; or lest being reproached by those he is set over, for his former Life, Satan tempt him to Apostacy, Chap. 5. 15. h

The Emperor (i) Severus takes notice of it, as of a Practice observed both by Jews and Christians, in order to the Ordination of their Priests, and fit to be imitated in chusing a Rector, or Procurator of the Provinces subject to the Roman Government. The Epistles of St. (k) Cyprian make frequent mention of this Practice observed in the Church, in imitation of the Jews. This, saith he, was observed in the Acts of the Apostles, in the Ordination both of Bishops, Priests and Deacons: And therefore this, saith he, is derived from a Divine and Apostolical Tradition, observed almost throughout all Provinces, that the Bishops of that Province i where the Biſhop is to be placed, ſhould come thither, and chuſe the Biſhop, the People being preſent who were acquainted with his Life and Converſation.

l Ver. 11. Γυναῖκας ὡσαύτως, The Women alſo.] i.e. that are admitted to be Deaconeſſes, Tit. 2. 3. Περὶ τῶν τὸ ἄξιωμα τ διακονίας ἐχουσῶν λέγει, Chryſoſtom, Theodoret.

m Ver. 13. Βαθμὸν καλὸν, A good degree.] It being the Cuſtom to chooſe Presbyters out of the Deacons, and Biſhops out of the beſt Presbyters, and therefore at his Ordination they prayed, That he uſing the Office of a Deacon unblameably, might (l) μείζονος ἀξιωθῆναι βαθμοῦ, be held worthy of an higher degree.

n Ibid. Παῤῥησίαν, Boldneſs, or Freedom.] The Deacons ſometimes preached and converted Men to the Faith, as St. Stephen and Philip, and this they could more freely and more ſucceſsfully perform, when they lived ſuitably to the Qualifications of their Function, and to the Rules of the Goſpel they profeſſed and taught.

o Ver. 15. Ἐὰν δὲ βραδύνω, But if I tarry long.] Here Theodoret well notes, That neither the Holy Prophets, nor Apoſtles, knew all things, the Grace of the Spirit dictating to them only the things which were expedient, as appears from theſe Expreſſions, hoping to come ſhortly, and, but if I tarry.

p Ibid. Στῦλος καὶ ἑδραίωμα τ ἀληθείας, the Pillar and the Ground of Truth.] Here, ſay the Romaniſts, the Church is ſtiled the Pillar and the Ground of Truth, ſurely from her Teachers being ſo, they being elſewhere ſtiled Pillars, Gal. 2. 9. and Foundations, Eph. 2. 20. Now, ſay they, may not all ſecurely rely in their Faith on the Pillar of Truth? May they not ſecurely ground their Faith upon the ground of Truth? The Church therefore being the Pillar, and the Ground of Truth, we may without fear of ever erring, rely upon her.

Anſw. 1. Whereas the Objection repreſents it as certain, that the Church is here ſtiled the Pillar and Ground of Truth, in reſpect of its Teachers, the Text ſeems clearly to intimate the contrary: For whether we ſupply the ſenſe of the words thus, πῶς δεῖ (σε) how thou oughteſt; or, with Theophylact, πῶς δεῖ τ ἐπίσκοπον, how a Biſhop ought to behave himſelf in the Houſe of God, which is the Church, it is evident that the (m) Church here mentioned is put in oppoſition to the Biſhop of it, and is according to Theodoret, on the place, σύλλογος τῶν πεδίντων, the Collection of Believers; and therefore not the Church Repreſentative, which is only σύλλογος τῶν ἐπισκόπων, an Aſſembly of Biſhops, according to the Doctrine of the Church of Rome; and therefore the Infallibility of the Church Repreſentative can never be concluded from theſe words, which ſo expreſly do relate to the whole Syſtem of Believers, in diſtinction from their Biſhops.

Anſw. 2. The Church here is the Church of the living God, not as it comprehends the major part of her viſible Members, but only as it comprehends the true and living Members of Chriſt's Body, they being only the Church of the living God; ſo that we muſt firſt know who they are, before we can be guided by them. Now, becauſe this is impoſſible to be known with any aſſurance, it is impoſſible that we ſhould be obliged to rely on her Judgment in deciding what is truth.

Anſw. 3. There is nothing more common in the Language of the Writers of the Church, than to ſtile any eminent Father of the Church, or Aſſertor of her Faith, the Pillar, and the Ground of Faith. This Title is by St. (m) Baſil given to Muſonius, Biſhop of Ceſarea, to Athanaſius, and to the Orthodox Biſhops baniſhed for the Truth; by (o) Nazianzen, to Baſil, to Athanaſius, and to Euſebius Biſhop of Samoſata; by Lanfranc, and Rupertus, Tuitienſis, it is given to St. Auſtin, and yet ſure they were far from thinking that any of theſe ſingle Fathers were infallible: Whence it muſt follow, that according to the Judgment of the Church, this Phraſe did not import Infallibility.

Anſw. 4. The Church cannot here be ſtiled the Pillar, and the Ground of Truth, as being the Foundation on which Truth is built, and which giveth it Authority; Truth being, ſaith (p) St. Chryſoſtom, τ ἐκκλησίας καὶ στῦλος καὶ ἑδραίωμα, the Pillar and the Ground of the Church, which is, ſaith the Apoſtle, built on the Foundation of the Apoſtles and the Prophets, Eph. 2. 19, 20. She therefore is the Church of Chriſt becauſe ſhe holds the Truth, as is demonſtrative from this, that purely by ceaſing ſo to do, her Members ceaſe to be the Members of the Church; ſhe therefore cannot by me be known to be the Church, until I know ſhe holds the Truth, and doth not ceaſe to make profeſſion of it: And when I firſt know this, what need have I of her infallible Direction to find out the Truth? She therefore may be rather ſaid to be the Pillar, and the Ground of Truth, becauſe it is eſſential to her being, to maintain and teach all neceſſary Truths; and becauſe her living Members do and will maintain them, when concealed, denied, miſrepreſented by hypocritical Profeſſors; and becauſe ſhe doth preſerve and own thoſe Oracles in which the ſaving Truth of Chriſt is fully and perſpicuously maintained, and doth baptize her Children into that Symbol which was always held to be a perfect Summary of Christian Faith.

Lastly, The Church of that Age might well be said to be the Pillar, and the Ground of Truth, because then the Apostles presided in it, who were the Pillars, and Foundations of the Christian Faith, according to the Scriptures, and the ancient Fathers: Thus (q) Theodoret stiles St. Peter, and St. John, στῦλοι τῆς ἀληθείας, the Pillars of Truth; and (r) Oecumenius, στῦλοι τῆς πίστεως, i. e. the Pillars of the Faith. Then also did the Apostles and Evangelists deliver, and the Church receive those Scriptures which were to be the Standard of the Christian Faith, and which were written, saith (s) Irenæus, by the Will of God to be hereafter, Columnam & Fundamentum fidei nostræ, the Pillar and Foundation of our Faith. And which are, (t) saith Athanasius, τῆς πίστεως ἡμῶν ἄγκυραι καὶ ἐρείσματα, the Anchors and Stabiliments of our Faith. Then did her Members confirm the Christian Faith by Miracles, which, by St. (u) Hilary upon this place, are stiled, the Confirmation of this Truth; and by their Sufferings for it, on which account the Martyrs are peculiarly stiled by the Fathers, the steady Pillars, and the Grounds of Christians. Now seeing none of these Reasons can be applied to the present Church, it will not follow that she can in like manner claim this Title.

9 Ver. 16. Θεὸς ἐφανερώθη, God was manifested in the Flesh.] Here Grotius saith, Suspectam nobis hanc lectionem faciunt Interpretes veteres, Latinus, Syrus, Arabs & Ambrosius, qui omnes legunt, ὃ ἐφανερώθη, i. e. the Latin, Syriack, Arabick Versions, and St. Ambrose all read, the Mystery which was revealed in the Flesh, which gives us reason to suspect the other Reading, viz. God manifested in the Flesh. But 1. This is a great mistake, as to the Arabick Version, for that reads thus, Quod Deus, that God was manifested in the Flesh; and so doth the Syriac, according to the Version of Tremellius; in the Polyglot it runs thus, Magnum est arcanum justitiæ quod justificatus est carne, which cannot refer to Mystery, but must refer to God or Christ; and tho' the Vulgar Latin, and the Commentator under the Name of Ambrose, read, quod manifestum est in carne; yet he adds agreeably to the Opinion of the Latins, that this Mystery is, Christus in carne, Christ manifested in the Flesh, but concealed in the Spirit; or, as to his Godhead. See Dr. Pearson's Vindication of this place against Grotius, Creed, p. 128. In a word, the Reading which our Translation follows, is owned by all the Greek Scholiasts, Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, and is found in all the Manuscripts, excepting that of Clermont and Lincoln-College; and the Phrases here used do make it necessary to expound the words, not of the Gospel, but of Christ the Subject of it. For,

1. That Exposition which refers these words unto the Gospel, puts such a strained sense on some of these Expressions, of which we meet with no Example in the whole New Testament: For where doth manifestation in the Flesh, signifie the manifestation of a thing by weak and mortal Men? And where is the Gospel said to be manifested in the Flesh? Where doth ἀνελήφθη signifie the Exaltation of the Gospel? Or where is it said, that the Gospel was received into Glory?

2. It turns many of those Expressions into a Metaphorical sense, which are literally true of Christ; for according to this Exposition, Flesh signifies weak Men; to be justified, to be own'd and approv'd; to be seen, is to be known or revealed; to be taken up, is to be exalted in the Minds of Men.

3. This strained Exposition reduces three of these Articles into one; it being in effect the same to be believed on in the World, by reason of those glorious Miracles by which it was confirmed; and to be owned and approved by reason of the Operations of the Holy Spirit, which did assist the Preachers of it, and by that approbation, gloriously exalted in the Minds of Men.

These are the Inconveniences which attend that Exposition, whereas the other Interpretation which refers this Mystery to Christ, affords a very plain and literal Exposition of the Words, confirmed by parallel Expressions frequent in the Holy Scripture. For,

1. The Word, saith St. John, was made Flesh, and dwelt among us, John 1.14. and we have seen his Glory. Ἐφανερώθη, he was manifested, 1 John 3. 5. 8. 1. 4. 2. and came in the Flesh, who was the Son of God. He who was in the form of God, and thought it no robbery to be equal with God, was found in the likeness of a Man, Phil. 2. 6, 7. He that was God, blessed for evermore, was also of the Seed of David, according to the Flesh, Rom. 9.5.

2. He was justified by the Spirit, as doing those Miracles on Earth by which he justified his Mission against all the Accusations of the Jews, by the Spirit of God, Mat. 12.28. being declared to be the Son of God with power, by the Spirit of Holiness, Rom. 1. 3,4. by sending that Spirit after his Ascension into Heaven, Acts 2. 33. which he had promised to his Disciples upon Earth, and by which the World was convinced, περὶ δικαιοσύνης, of his Righteousness, John 16. 10.

3. He was seen of the Angels, who at his entrance into the World did worship him, Heb. 1. 6. who celebrated his Birth, and gave Notice of it to the World, Luke 2. 9, 13.

Annotations on Chap. IV.

a Verse 1. Τὸ πνεῦμα ῥητῶς λέγει, The Spirit saith expressly.] Hence Mr. Mede concludes, that the Apostle must refer to some Prophecy of these things recorded in the Scriptures, (for tho' the Spirit in the Apostles advertized them of many things, viz. The Spirit said to Peter, Behold three Men seek thee, Acts 10. 19. The Spirit said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the Work of the Ministry, Acts 13. 2. [See Acts 16. 6. & 21. 11.] yet he did this only, ἐν ὁράματι, in a Vision, Acts 10. 19. or by secret Inspirations, and so not, ῥητῶς, expressly.] But to this the Fathers answer, That the word ῥητῶς here, signifies only, φανερῶν, σαφῶς, clearly, and perspicuously; to which it may be added, that in those times of Prophecy, when the Prophets had the Government of the Churches, and spake still in the Publick Assemblies, it might reasonably be said, the Spirit speaketh expressly, what they taught expressly in the Church. And whereas hence he infers, that this Prophecy must be found somewhere in the Old Testament; the Reverend Dr. Hammond thinks that unnecessary, this Apostacy being foretold by our Prophet, who had the Spirit without measure, saying, Mat. 24. 11, 12. Then many shall be scandalized, and many false Prophets shall arise, καὶ πλανήσουσι, and shall deceive many; and because Iniquity shall abound, the Love of many shall wax cold. I confess, Mr. Mede seems to have found this Prophecy, Dan. 11. 36, 37, 38, 39. But to omit all other Objections against his Interpretation of the words, I can by no means think, that Daniel, so well acquainted with the import of strange Gods, both in the Law and the Prophets, should give that infamous Name, אלוה נכר a strange God, to our blessed Saviour; or that he should at the same time prophesie, that Antichrist should acknowledge and increase Christ with Honour, and yet divest Christ of his Glory and Honour, by setting up Mahuzzims in opposition to his Offices. But considering that this Epistle, according to Bishop Pearson, was writ in the 11th of Nero, A.D. 64. why may we not refer this Prediction either to the Apostacy, ῥητῶς, expressly mentioned, 2 Thess. 2. 3. 9. or to the Predictions of the Apostles, mentioned by St. Jude, v. 17, 18, 19?

b Ibid. Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς, In the latter times.] The Jewish Doctors lay this down as a Rule, that where-ever we find this Phrase באחרית הימים in the latter Days, we are to understand it of the Age or Times of the Messiah; so Gen. 49. 1. Gather your selves together, saith Jacob, to his Sons, that I may tell you what will befal you, ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν ἡμερῶν, in the last times, i. e. the Days when the Scepter shall depart from Judah, and Shilo the Messiah shall come, Numb. 24. 14. Come, saith Balaam, and I will tell thee what shall befal thy People, ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν, in the latter days, i. e. when the Star comes out of Jacob, and the Scepter ariseth out of Israel, i. e. when the Messiah comes, saith the Targum of Onkelos, on v. 17. Isa. 2. 2. In the last Days the Mountain of the Lord shall be established on the top of the Mountains, and all Nations shall flow into it: In the times of the Messiah, say R. Salomo, and other Jews, Jer. 23. 20. In the latter Days ye shall understand this, in the Days of the Messiah, Targ. on ver. 5. Dan. 2. 28. There is a God of Heaven who maketh known to the King what shall come to pass, ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν ἡμερῶν, from his times till the Kingdom of the Messiah be set up, v. 44. See also chap. 10. 14. Hosea 3. 5. Afterwards they shall return, and shall seek the Lord, and David their King, Targ. Messiah their King, the Son of David, in the latter Days. Micah 4. 1. In the last Days shall the Mountain of the Lord be established upon the top of the Mountains; Where Dr. Pocock saith, that by the last Days are meant, the Days or Times of the Messiah, or Christ, is agreed on by some Jews, and most Christians. And where ever we meet with this Phrase in the New Testament, it manifestly refers to the Beginnings of Christianity, and signifies the last Times of the Jewish State, or Oeconomy, concurring with the Times of the Messiah, and the erecting of his Kingdom, by calling the Gentiles, and setling a Christian Church to succeed that of the Jews. Thus when the Holy Ghost fell down on the Apostles and Disciples, This is that, saith St. Peter, which was spoken of by the Prophet Joel, saying, In the last Days I will pour my Spirit upon all Flesh, Acts 2. 17. So Heb. 1. 1. God who of old spake to our Fathers by the Prophets, ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν χρόνων, in these last days hath spoken to us by his Son, i. e. by him who, saith St. Peter, was foreordained from the beginning of the World, but was manifested, ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν χρόνων, in the last Times; where the times of Christ's Manifestation to the World, and of his Preaching to the Jews, are manifestly stiled the last Times. So Jam. 5. 3. You have treasured up your Gold and Silver as Fire which shall eat your Flesh, ἐν ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις, in the last days; 2 Pet. 3. 3. This know ye, ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν, in the last Times there shall come Mockers, &c. and that they were then come, we learn from v. 5. This they are ignorant of; and Jude 17, 18. Remember the words spoken before by the Apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, that they said unto you, that ἐν ἐσχάτῳ χρόνῳ, in the last time there should be Mockers, walking after their own Lusts: And that they were then come, is evident from the following words, These are they who separate themselves, &c.

v. 19. And 1 John 2. 18. Little Children, ἐσχάτη ὥρα ἐστὶ, 'tis now the last Hour, and as you have heard that Antichrist shall (then) come, so now are there many Antichrists, whereby you may know that this is the last Hour; So 2 Tim. 3. 1, 2. This know, that in the last Days, ἐν ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις, there shall be perilous times, for Men shall be Lovers of themselves; and that those Times, or Days, and Persons, were then come, is evident from his Exhortation, to turn away from them, v. 5. and his Character of them, v. 6. ἐκ τούτων, of these are they that creep into Houses, &c. And that the last Times here mentioned, were already come, we learn from his Admonition to Timothy, to put the Brethren in mind of these things, v. 4. Here then is another Defect in Mr. Mede's ingenious Interpretation of these words, that he hath not made it out, that the last Times are to be extended beyond the first Century, or the Age of the Apostles. Mr. Mede saith, These words are not a Narration of things present, but a Prediction of what shall betide the Christian Faith in After-times. I answer, They are indeed a Narrative of what the Spirit had foretold should happen in the latter times, by an Apostasie from the Faith; but the determination of the time, when what was thus foretold should be accomplished, depends on the fix'd import of the latter Times; For these last Times, saith Mr. Mede, being mention'd as the Indication when this Apostacy should take place, must therefore be sufficient to determine the Time of this Apostacy: And so they plainly do, according to my Interpretation. But if, with others, you refer these last Times to the whole Times of Antichrist, they began not till above 400 Years after the writing this Epistle; and why then is the Apostle so concerned, that Timothy then should put the Brethren in remembrance of these things? v. 6. and they contain 1260 Years, and so cannot inform us in what Period, or precise Portion of that Time this Apostacy should have its rise.

Ibid. Ἀποστήσονταί τινες τῆς πίστεως, Some shall depart from the Faith.] Here seems another defect of Mr. Mede's Hypothesis, that he makes these words to signifie only a partial declining from the Faith, and that again only virtual and consequential, by setting up Doctrines opposite to, or inconsistent with it, tho' not owned to be so by them that embrace them; whereas Apostasie from the Faith, seems plainly to import a falling off from it wholly, or at least an actual and professed renouncing of some essential part of it. c

Ibid. Προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις, καὶ διδασκαλίαις δαιμονίων, Giving heed to seducing Spirits, and to Doctrines of Devils.] These words by all the ancient Commentators, seem to be taken actively for those Doctrines which are introduced by Men, led by the Suggestions of Satan, and of evil Spirits; these Doctrines being, saith Theodoret, ἐκείνων κτίσματα, the Productions of those evil Spirits; and they who vent them are, saith Chrysostom, οἱ ὑπ' ἐκείνων ἐνεργούμενοι, Men acted by them. The false Prophets, and false Apostles, saith the Author of the interpolated Epistle to the Philadelphians, had λαοπλάνον πνεῦμα, (§ 5.) a Spirit that deceived the People; they preach'd, ἀπάτην καὶ πλάνην, Deceit and Error, and had dwelling in them, τὸν δράκοντα τὸν ἀποστάτην, the Apostate Dragon. These false Prophets had, saith St. John, πνεῦμα τῆς πλάνης, a Spirit of Error, as the Apostles had, πνεῦμα τῆς ἀληθείας, the Spirit of Truth, 1 John 4. 1, 6. So far is it from being true, that the word Spirit signifies Doctrines, and not those deluding Spirits which taught them; yet because the Prince of Devils, Mat. 9. 34. the Spirit of the Devil, Luke 4. 33. Rev. 16. 14. the Sacrifice, the Table, the Cup of Devils, 1 Cor. 10. 20, 21. the Habitation of Devils, Rev. 18. 2. are Phrases where Δαιμόνια, Devils, are still taken objectively, I admit that sense also here: And then the Apostasie procured by the Spirits of Deceit, is that of the Judaizers, relapsing from the Profession of the Christian Faith, thro' those false Christs, and false Prophets, of which our Saviour foretold they should deceive many, Mat. 24. 11, 24. whereas they who apostatised by falling back to Heathenism, are they who give heed to the Doctrines of Dæmons: For Dii Gentium Dæmonia, the Gods of the Heathens are Dæmons. d

Ver. 2. Ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, Thro' the Hypocrisie of false Speakers.] Ἐν pro διὰ, thro', is very common; so ἐν πάσῃ ἀπάτῃ ἀδικίας, thro' all Deceivableness of Unrighteousness, 2 Thess. 2. 9, 10. See Mark 9. 29. Luke 1. 17. Acts 17. 31. Rom. 12. 21. Tit. 1. 9. 2 Pet. 3. 1. Κεκαυτηριασμένων τῆς συνειδήσεως, of seared Consciences, i. e. of Consciences which have lost the sense of Good or Evil, and do no longer do their Office: For this Expression, saith Theodoret, signifies, τὴν ἐσχάτην αὐτῶν ἀναλγησίαν, the extream Stupor of their Consciences; for the Member seared, νεκρωθεὶς καὶ σεσηπὸς ἄδειαν ἀποδύλλει, being mortified, hath lost its former Sensation. e

Ver. 3. Κωλυόντων γαμεῖν, ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, Forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from Meats.] It is here to be noted from Theophylact, that in construing these words, οὐκ ὀφείλεις ἀπὸ κοινῆς λαβεῖν τὸ κωλυόντων, ἀλλ' ἔξωθεν προσδεῖναι τὸ συμβουλδόντων ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, We must not repeat the word forbidding, but add in lieu of it, counselling to abstain from Meats; So all the Ancients have interpreted these words, (a) Cle- f mens Alexandrinus, when he saith, ὁ κωλυτίων γαμεῖν, οὐδὲ μὴν χρωφαγεῖν, we must not forbid to marry, nor yet to eat flesh. The Apostle, saith (b) Tertullian, notes them who wholly forbad Marriage, and interdicted Meats. And (c) Epiphanius saith, This of the Apostle is fulfilled in the Cataphrygæ, and other Hereticks, for most of them τὸ γαμεῖν κωλύουσι, ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων παραγγέλλουσιν, forbid Marriage, and command to abstain from Meats. This, in effect, is the Interpretation of all the ancient Commentators on the place, who give us the same sense of the words, as do the Fathers cited; and of all the Translations, who, tho' they do not add the word commanding, yet they add a Copulative, and change the Infinitive into a Participle thus, Prohibentes nubere, & abstinentes à Cibis. Syr. Prohibentes Matrimonium & amoventes cibos. Arab. And Bochart gives us Instances of the like nature from the Old Testament, viz. Gen. 31. 40. by the heat of the day was I burnt, and by the frost of the night, (obrigescebam, I waxed stiff with cold.) Ps. 121. 6. The Sun shall not burn thee by day, nor the Moon (refrigerate thee) by night. So Luke 13. 9. If it bring forth Fruit (it shall stand,) if not, thou shalt cut it down.

That all these things happened in the Apostles times, and many of them were to happen before the Destruction of Jerusalem, is evident; that there was to be a great Apostacy before that time, carried on by false Prophets, and false Christs, our Lord expressly had foretold; and that in great measure it had obtained, especially among the Jews, we learn from the Epistle to the Hebrews, writ purposely to put a stop to it; that the great Promoters of it were deceitful Workers, false Apostles, and that they carried on that Work in Hypocrisie, esteeming Gain Godliness, this Apostle often doth inform us; See 2 Cor. 2. 17. & 11. 13, 14, 15. That they were Men whose Minds and Consciences were defiled, see Tit. 1. 15. That their Doctrine was this, It is good for a Man not to touch a Woman, 1 Cor. 7. 1. Their vain Philosophy this, Taste not (forbidden Meats,) handle not (an unclean thing;) see Coloss. 2. 21. It remains only to consider who they should be: That they could not be the Gnosticks, the Followers of Simon Magus, I have proved against Dr. Hammond, Note on Coloss. 2. 21. Moreover, according to his Exposition, they were to appear before the Destruction of Jerusalem; for he interprets these words, the Spirit speaketh expressly, of our Lord's Prediction, Mat. 24. Now there were no such Hereticks among the Gnosticks till the Second Century. Saturninus, saith (d) Theodoret, was the first who named Matrimony the Doctrine of Devils, and taught Men to abstain from living Creatures. Now this Saturninus was before (e) Basilides, who by St. (f) Jerom is often called, the Father of the Gnosticks; whereas that these Men were in the Apostles times, we learn, saith (g) Tertullian, from the Apostles themselves. I have noted on 1 Cor. 7. 1. and on Coloss. 2. 21. conjectured that they were the Essæans among the Jews; and that with them agreed the Magicians and Idolaters among the Heathens, we learn from Clemens of Alexandria, who speaking of those Hereticks, who said the Resurrection had pass'd on them already, καὶ διὰ τοῦτο ἀθετοῦσι τὸν γάμον, and therefore rejected Matrimony, he saith this was not peculiar to these Menandrians, (h) but they who worshipped Idols did also abstain from Meats and Venery; and the Magicians, who worshipped Angels and Dæmons, did also carefully abstain from Wine, from living Creatures, and from Venery.

And if Saturninus, who succeeded Menander, who flourished in the time of Domitian and Trajan, did in this, as in most other things, τὰ αὐτὰ τῷ Μενάνδρῳ φιλοσοφῆσαι, agree in Sentiments with Menander, as (i) Eusebius saith he did, the Apostle may reasonably be conceived to include him: For Epiphanius saith of him, in the very words of (k) Irenæus, that (l) he affirmed, that to marry, and beget Children, was from Satan, and that hence many of them abstain'd from living Creatures, and by this feigned Continence seduced many to their Heresie. And this is the more likely, because 'tis noted of this Menander, that he proceeded, εἰς ἄκρον τὴν μαγίας, to the height of that Magick which was attended with that Abstinence, Iren. l. 1. c. 21. *Euseb. Eſſens mentioned by Philo and Joſephus, were not Chriſtians, and ſo could not depart from the Faith: For who can prove that none of them embraced the Faith of Chriſt, or that they could not do it, and yet retain their old Sentiments concerning Meats and Marriage? It may be alſo true, that the Menandrians were not yet formed into a Sect when this Epiſtle was endited; but that affects not my Interpretation, ſince it's certain from 1 Cor. 7. 1. and Coloſſ. 2. 16. 1. (See the Notes there,) that their Doctrines obtained before. And that the Perſons here intended muſt be Judaizers, is fairly gathered from v. 7. and from theſe words, commanding to abſtain from Meats, which God hath created to be received with thanksgiving of them that believe and know the truth; for thoſe laſt words ſhew, that theſe Perſons were ſuch as had no right to Faith, or Knowledge of that Chriſtian Truth that every Creature of God was good (for Food,) and nothing was to be refuſed, as polluted, or unclean, v. 4. Add to this, that Dr. Lightfoot, Note on Act. 15. 20. quotes this paſſage from Bava Bathra, fol. 602. viz. that when the Temple was deſtroyed the ſecond time, the Phariſees, (i. e. Separatiſts) were greatly multiplied in Iſrael, who taught that it was not lawful, to eat Fleſh, or to drink Wine; and a little after, ſay, it is but juſt that we ſhould ordain among our ſelves not to marry Wives, nor beget Children: And if theſe Phariſees then eſpouſed theſe Tenets, they may be the Perſons here noted by the Apoſtle. Thus have I given my own Opinion concerning the true and primary import of theſe words. Others, I know, conceive that they refer to the Apoſtacy of the Church of Rome, and therefore deſcant on them thus.

V. 1. But (in oppoſition to this Myſtery of Godlineſs, mention'd chap. 3. 15, 16. there is another Myſtery of Iniquity of which) the Spirit ſpeaketh expreſly, (Dan. 11. 36, 37, 38, 39. ſaying) that in the latter times ſome ſhall depart from the Faith, giving heed to erroneous Spirits, and Doctrines of Devils.

h Ibid. Ἀποστήσονται τῆ πίστεως, Some ſhall depart from the Faith.] Idolatry being repreſented in the Old Teſtament as Apoſtacy from the Law of Moſes, and the God of Iſrael, the like Idolatry in the Church of Rome, may well be counted an Apoſtacy from the Chriſtian Faith.

i Ibid. Προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις, Giving heed to ſeducing Spirits.] i. e. Men acted by ſeducing Spirits, for πνεύματα doth often ſignifie the Impulſes, or Afflatus of good or evil Spirits; of good, ſo 1 Cor. 14. 12. you are zealous, πνευμάτων, of Spiritual Gifts, or Afflatus's; and ſo throughout the Chapter; of evil Spirits, as 1 John 4. 1. Believe not every Spirit, but try the Spirits. Accordingly the coming of the Man of Sin is to be, κατ' ἐνέργειαν τοῦ Σατανᾶ, according to the Energy of Satan, with all lying Wonders, 2 Theſ. 2. 9. So was the idolatrous Worſhip of the Gentiles promoted, ſay (m) Tertullian, (n) Euſebius, and St. (o) Chryſoſtom; So alſo was the Worſhip of Saints promoted in the Church of Rome; See Mr. Mede, L. 3. c. 3, 4.

Ibid. Καὶ διδασκαλίαις Δαιμονίων, And to Doctrines of Devils.] i. e. to the Heathen Theology concerning Dæmons, or giving heed to the Doctrine concerning the Worſhip of dead Men, or departed Saints, brought in by their pretended Apparitions and Wonders wrought at their Tombs after Death, which were indeed, if at all done, wrought by the Illuſions of Devils. k

Ver. 2. Ἐν ὑποκρίσει, [which Apoſtacy ſhall be promoted) by the Hypocriſie of Lyars, which have their Conſcience ſeared.

Thro' the Hypocriſie, &c.] Hence it is argued, l that they who thus promote and carry on this Apoſtacy, muſt not be open Deſerters, but hypocritical Profeſſors of that Faith from which they by their Actions, virtually depart.

Ver. 3. [And the Men I ſpeak of may be diſcerned by theſe Marks, that they are] of thoſe who forbid to marry, and command to abſtain from Meats which God hath created to be received with thankſgiving, of them which believe, and know the Truth.

Ver. 3. Κωλυόντων γαμεῖν, Forbidding to marry.] m As is done in the Roman Church, to Monks and Nuns, ſee Mr. Mede, l. 3. c. 7. and to the Clergy; and that, ſaith Pope Siricius, Quoniam qui in carne ſunt Deo placere non poſſunt, becauſe they that are in the fleſh cannot pleaſe God.

Ver. 3. Ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, To abſtain from Meats.] n That this is done in the Roman Church, by a Law obliging ſome Orders of Monks to abſtain from all Fleſh, ſee Mr. Mede, ibid. And this may well be reckoned as a Character of Apoſtacy from the Chriſtian Faith, becauſe it ſeems to be a reducing of them back from their Chriſtian Liberty, to a Conformity to the Legal Rites.

Ver. 5. Crown, 1 Cor. 9. 25. whereas that Piety in which he did advise him to exercise himself, was profitable for all things: Or because Philo makes mention, τῶν συνεχῶν πόνων, of the continual labours of the (p) Essens, and (q) Josephus of their ἐγκαίσια, or Exercises Morning and Evening; he perhaps may oppose unto them this Exercise of Piety.

q Ver. 9. Ὃς ἐστι Σωτὴρ πάντων ἀνθρώπων, Who is the Saviour of all Men.] The Author of the Book De Vocatione Gentium, expounds this very well, telling us, That by saying, l. 2. c. 31. he is the Saviour of all Men, he confirms the general Goodness of God towards all Men; and by adding, especially of them that believe, he shews there is one part of Mankind, which, thro' the benefit of divinely inspired Faith, is by special Benefits advanced to the highest, and eternal Felicity. He is the Saviour of all Men, 1. Leaving none of them without some Testimonies of his Goodness, Acts 14. 17. sufficient to engage and direct them so to seek the Lord, that they might find him, Acts 17. 27. Lib. 2. 5. Nulli nationi hominum bonitatis suæ dona subtraxit, saith the same Author. 2. Shewing to them so much of himself, i. e. of his eternal Power and Godhead, as might render them inexcusable, in that they did not glorifie him as God, neither were they thankful, Rom. 1. 20, 21. and writing in their Hearts the Law of Nature, which enabled them by Nature to do the things of the Law, and made their Consciences accuse them when they neglected so to do, Rom. 2. 14, 15. they knowing so far the Righteousness of God, that they who did those things which were contrary to the Law of Nature, were worthy of Death, Rom. 1. 32. For adhibita est semper universis hominibus quædam supernæ mensura Doctrinæ, quæ etsi occultioris, parciorisque Gratiæ fuit, suffecit tamen quibusdam ad Remedium, omnibus ad Testimonium. 3. Accepting everywhere him that worked Righteousness, of what Nation soever he might be, Act. 10. 35. and accounting him as circumcised who kept the Righteousness of the Law, Rom. 2. 26. And Lastly, Rewarding the good Deeds of all that diligently sought him, Heb. 11. 6. Mr. Cl. understands this Salvation of Deliverance from Temporal Dangers, in which sense it is also true; but that cannot be the entire sense of the Apostle, who had said before, v. 8. that Godliness had the Promise of this Life, and that which is to come, i. e. both of Temporal and Eternal Salvation; and adds, v. 9. This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation; i. e. that not Temporal only, but Eternal Blessings are to be expected from him, and that therefore they, the Apostles, laboured, and suffered Reproach, because they trusted in the living God, who is the Saviour of all Men, whereas, doubtless, they did this, not only with respect to Temporal, but especially to Eternal Salvation, 2 Cor. 4. 17.

Ver. 12. Τὴν νεότητα, Thy Youth.] The Presbyters were generally in those times aged, as their Name imports; but Timothy, because the Gift of Prophecy had pointed him out for that work, v. 14. and because the Gifts of the Spirit had rendred him fit, was made an Evangelist in his younger Age; and therefore the Apostle doth exhort him to make up in the Excellency of his Doctrine, and in the Gravity of his Conversation, what was wanting in his Age. r

Ver. 13. Here, 1. It is well noted by the Fathers, and by Esthius, that if St. Timothy, who had Spiritual Gifts, was yet by St. Paul commanded to be thus diligent in reading the Scriptures, that in his Exhortations he might profit others, then much more should other Bishops and Ministers be so, quos omnes Paulus in Timotheo instruit; then also should they not depend upon extemporary Effusions, without attendance unto reading. s

2. That the Illumination or Gifts of the Holy Spirit should not hinder our Diligence in reading and studying what we are to exhort others to, and instruct them in.

Ver. 14. Μετὰ ἐπιθέσεως τῶν χειρῶν τοῦ πρεσβυτερίου, With the Imposition of the Hands of the Presbytery.] The χάρισμα, or Spiritual Gift here mentioned, is expressly said to be given, διὰ τῆς ἐπιθέσεως τῶν χειρῶν μου, by the laying on of the Hands of St. Paul, 2 Tim. 1. 6. the giving of the Spiritual Gifts seeming to be peculiar to this, or some other Act of an Apostle, Acts 8. 17. 19. 6. But other Seniors, or Presbyters, as Irenæus, l. 4. c. 43. calls them, Qui cum Episcopatus Successione Charisma veritatis certum acceperunt, Who with their Succession received the certain Charisma of Truth, might, and did lay on their Hands together with him. This Ceremony of Imposition of Hands in Ordination, is confirmed from the Practice of the Apostles, and Apostolical Men, thus ordaining Deacons, Acts 6. 6. Pastors, or Teachers of the Word, Acts 13. 3. Elders, whether Bishops, or Presbyters in every City, Acts 14. 23. and Evangelists here: And this Practice they certainly derived from the Jews, who created Governours of Criminal Causes, or Ruling Elders, and Masters, Doctors, and Rabbins, to be Teachers of the Law, i. e. to labour in the Word and Doctrine, by that Imposition of Hands which they called סמוכה as Moses did to Joshua, Numb. 27. 43. Deut. 34. 9. and as (r) Maimonides saith he did, when he assumed the Seventy to assist him; and as the First-born (s) laid their Hands upon the Levites, Numb. 8. 10. who were chosen to serve in their stead, and so consecrated them to God in their Name. CHAPTER V.

a b Verſe 1. [a] REbuke not [b] an Elder [with ſeverity,] but intreat him as a Father, and the younger Men as Brethren, [in reſpect of thy youth, chap. 4. 12.]

c 2. [c] The elder Women, as Mothers; the younger, as Siſters, [being careful to converſe with them, when neceſſity requires it,] with all purity, [with gravity in your words and countenance, obſervance of your eyes and heart, at times and places which can miniſter no ſuſpicion of undue behaviour towards them.]

d e 3. [d] Honour Widows, that are [e] Widows indeed.

4. But if any Widow have Children, or f Nephews, [f] let them [i. e. thoſe Children, or Grandchildren,] learn firſt [or chiefly] to ſhew piety at home, [i. e. to their own Family, or Houſhold,] and to requite their Parents, [who have bred them up, v. 10.] for that is good and acceptable before God, [and then, if they be able, extend their Charity to others.]

5. Now ſhe that is a Widow indeed, and g [g] deſolate, [being left quite alone, without any
h Children to relieve her,] [h] truſteth in God, and continueth in Supplication and Prayers night and day.

i 6. But [i] ſhe that liveth in pleaſure [licentiouſly] is dead [to God,] whilſt ſhe thus liveth, [and ſo is not to be reſpected as a Vital Member of the Church, or nouriſhed by her.]

7. And theſe things give in charge, that they [i. e. the Widows] may be blameleſs.

8. But if any [having ability,] provide not for his own [Kindred,] and eſpecially for thoſe of his own Houſe, he hath [in works] k denied the Faith, and is [k] worſe than an Infidel.

l 9. [l] Let not a Widow be taken into the number, [of Widows to be maintained by the m Church,] under [m] threeſcore years old, having n been the Wife [n] of one Man, [not one that hath divorced her ſelf from one Husband, and married again.]

10. [Being alſo] well reported of for good works; [o] if [ei that] ſhe hath brought up o Children, if [that] ſhe hath lodged Strangers, if ſhe hath waſhed the Saints Feet, if ſhe hath relieved the Afflicted, if ſhe hath diligently followed every good Work.

11. But the younger Widows refuſe, for when they have begun to [p] wax wanton againſt p [or grow weary of] Chriſt, they will marry:

12. Having Damnation becauſe they have caſt off their firſt Faith.

13. And withal, they learn to be idle, wandring about from Houſe to Houſe; and not only idle, but Tatlers alſo, and Buſie-bodies, ſpeaking things which they ought not.

14. I will therefore that the younger Women [rather] marry, bear Children, guide the Houſe, [and ſo] give none occaſion to the Adverſary [of Chriſtianity] to ſpeak reproachfully [of it.]

15. [The neceſſity of which Precept is too great,] For ſome [of theſe young Widows] are already [q] turned aſide after Satan. q

16. If any Man or Woman that believeth have Widows [belonging to their Family,] let them relieve them, and let not the Church be charged [with them,] that [being freed from that Charge,] it may [the better be able to] relieve them that are Widows indeed, [that is, are wholly deſtitute of help, v. 5.]

17. Let the Elders that rule well, be counted worthy of [r] double honour, [i. e. of r a more liberal Maintenance,] [s] eſpecially s thoſe who labour in the Word and Doctrine.

18. [t] For the Scripture ſaith, Thou ſhalt not muzzle the Ox that treadeth out the t
Corn, and the Labourer is worthy of his Reward.

Annotations on Chap. V.

a Verse 1. Μὴ ἐπιπλήξῃς, Rebuke not.] The word signifies to chastise, or rebuke with Severity, and sometimes with Stripes.

b Ibid. Πρεσβυτέρῳ, An Elder.] In the Judgment of Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact the Elder here signifies, οὐ τὴν ἱερέα, ἀλλὰ τὸν γηραιὸν τὰ, not a Priest, but a grave ancient Man, such being in all Ages and Nations, stiled Fathers; and this sense the Distinction here of Ages, and of Sexes, seems to plead for.

c Ver. 2. Πρεσβυτέρας, The Elder Women.] The Widows of the Church, saith Dr. Ham. very improbably, they being mention'd particularly in the Sequel of the Chapter.

d Ver. 3. Τίμα, Honour.] i. e. Yield them Reverence and Alimony; for that Provision for them is included in this Honour, is evident from v. 4. and the 8th. Thus not to give Parents what is needful for them, is to transgress the Precept which commands us to honour our Father, and our Mother, Mark 7. 10, 11, 12. So Acts 28. 10. πολλαῖς τιμαῖς ἐτίμησαν ἡμᾶς, they honoured us with many Honours, giving us, τὰ πρὸς τὴν χρείαν, such things as were necessary. Hence in the (a) Jerusalem Targum, Honorare, est Viaticum providere, to honour, is to make Provisions for any Person; so here, Honour Widows; that is, saith Theophylact, τὰ ἀναγκαῖα χορήγει, provide them Necessaries: See Note on Mark 7. 10.

c Ibid. Τὰς ὄντας χήρας, That are Widows indeed.] Answering that Name by being, χήρους, desolate, and destitute of any other to relieve them, and being also exemplarily pious, v. 5. Widows, saith Cotelerius, hath divers significations; it signifies, 1. Any Woman that survives her Husband. 2. Poor Women, who after the Death of their Husbands, need the Alms of the Church; (as here.) 3. Such as consecrated themselves to God, professing perpetual Widowhood, (v. 5.) 4. Such as were chose into the Ecclesiastical Ministry, or made Deaconesses, v. 9. That there should be any ἀπαρθένοι, or Persons that were always Virgins, called, τὰς παρθένους, τὰς λεγομένας χήρας, Widows; tho' the passage of Ignatius, according to Vossius's Reading, seems to make for it; yet according to the Reading of Bishop Usher, (ἀπαρθένους ἢ χήρας) it makes against it; and Virgo-Vidua, a Virgin Widow, that is admitted to the Degree of a Deaconess, is in (b) Tertullian's Language, a Miracle, or Monster in the Church. 'Tis certain such a one could be none of the Apostles Widows here, for he supposeth his Widows may have Children, v. 4. and expresly forbids any to be chosen into the number of Widows that hath not nourished or brought up Children, v. 9, 10. and 'tis not reasonable to conceive the Church of Smyrna should so soon transgress against this Rule of the Apostle, or that this famous Martyr should approve such a violation of the Apostles Precept.

f Ver. 4. Μανθανέτωσαν πρῶτον τὸν ἴδιον οἶκον εὐσεβεῖν, Let them learn first to shew Piety at home.] The Apostle here speaks of the Care the Children should take to nourish their Parents, which are Widows, πρῶτον, before they suffer them to be burthensome to the Church, as it is evident from v. 16. which saith, If any Man or Woman have Widows (belonging to their Family) let them relieve them, and let not the Church be charged with them; and also from the following words here, and to requite their Parents, which only can belong unto the Children, and was always reckoned an Act of Piety towards them, (c) as after God the Authors of our Being; whence antiently they were so Reverenced, saith (d) Simplicius, as to be called Gods.

g Ver. 5. Μεμονωμένη, solitary.] So Philo saith, the Widow of the Priest, which has no Children, must return to her Father's House, as, ἀνδρὸς καὶ παίδων ἔρημος, ἐδεμίαν ἔχουσα καταφυγὴν, having no other Refuge, when destitute of Husband and Children, but her father: But if she have Sons, or Daughters, 'tis necessary that the Mother should be placed with her Children, υἱοὶ καὶ θυγατέρες τῆς τὸ γενόμενος οἰκίας ὄντες, (e) for Sons and Daughters being of the House of their Parents, draw the Mother to it; whence also we learn what it is to shew Piety to their own House, v. 4. viz. to do it to their Parents.

h Ibid. Ἤλπικεν ἐπὶ τὸν Θεὸν trusteth in God.] i. e. Having no other helper, she reposeth her self on him alone, committing her self to him by constant Prayer for his help. This is Cotelerius's third kind of Widows, compared by the Author of the Apostolical Constitutions, lib. 3. c. 1. to the Widow of Sarepta, and to Anna the Daughter of Phanuel, mentioned, Luke 2. 36. who does not obilge himself by Vow, or Promise, so to do, but only remains single, δῶρον ἔχουσα χηρείας, as having the Gift of Widowhood. So St. Jerom describes these Widows, in these words, Honora Viduas, quæ vere viduæ sunt, hoc est, qui omni suorum auxilio destitutæ sunt, quæ manibus suis laborare non possunt, quas paupertas debilitat, ætasq; conficit, quibus Deus spes est, & omne opus Oratio. Ep. ad Gerontiam.

i Ver. 6. Ἡ δὲ σπαταλῶσα, she that liveth in Pleasure.] This word properly signifies to feed deliciously, and drink choice Liquors, τῇ γαστρὶ ζῆν μόνῃ to live only for the Belly, saith St. Chrysostom. So Ezek. 16. 49. This was the Sin of thy Sister Sodom, in Pride, in fulness of Bread, καὶ ἐν εὐθηνίᾳ ἐσπατάλων, and in abundance, she and her Daughters Rioted, Amos 6. 4. They lie upon Beds of Ivory, καὶ κατασπαταλῶντες, and abounding with Superfluities, they eat Lambs out of the Flock, and the Calves out of the midst of the Stall; and because such Eating and Drinking provokes to Carnal Pleasures, it is joined with them, as when the Apostle saith, ye have lived in Pleasure, and been wanton, Gr. ἐσπαλήσατε, Jam. 5, 5. Such a Woman is dead whilst she liveth, according to that of the (f) Jews, the Just in their Death are stiled living, the wicked, whilst they live are stiled dead. Maimonides.

Ver. 8. Ἔστιν ἀπίστου χείρων, he is worse than an Infidel.] For they put this among the first and most indissoluble Principles of Nature, requiring us πρῶτα θεοὺς τιμᾶν, μεταπεῖτα τοκέας, (g) first to honour the Gods, and then our Parents, placing among the things, in which they are to be honoured, χρημάτων χορηγίαν καὶ σώματος ὑπηρεσίαν, the making Provisions for them, and serving them with our Bodies. So (h) Aristotle saith, we must rather make Provisions for them, than for our selves, and yield them, τιμὴν καθάπερ θεοῖς, Honour, as they do unto the Gods. (i) Plutarch saith, that all Men, tho' some may think otherwise, say, that Nature, and the Law of Nature, requires that Parents should have the highest Honour next the Gods: That Men can do nothing more acceptable to the God's, than by readily heaping Favours upon their Parents; and that nothing is a greater Evidence of Atheism, or Impiety, than to despise them. k

Ver. 9. Χήρα καταλεγέσθω μὴ, Let not a Widow be taken into the number.] The Apostle now comes to speak of such Widows as were not only to be maintained by the Church, for they were, doubtless, to receive her Alms, if really they were poor, without these Qualifications, but of such as were to be admitted into the number of Deaconesses; whose Office it was to instruct the younger Women, to attend the Women when Sick, and in Labour, and to assist at the Baptism of the Female Sex. l

Ibid. Μὴ ἔλαττον ἐξήκοντα, not less than sixty Years old.] 'Tis the Mistake of Zonaras, Balsamon and Blastares, to think to reconcile this with the 15*th.* Canon of the Council of Chalcedon, and the 14*th.* of Trullo, by saying, That Widows might only be admitted Deaconesses at Sixty, but Virgins at Forty. This last was done in after Ages, and after that Apostolical Constitution, which, agreeably to St. Paul, saith, l. 3. c. 1. χήρας δὲ καθιστᾶτε μὴ ἔλαττον ἐτῶν τῶν ἐξήκοντα, let not the Widows be constituted under sixty Years; and they who first began to alter the Time, did at last take away the Office. m n Ibid. Γεγονῦια ἑνὸς ἀνδρὸς γυνὴ, being the Wife of one Husband.] That is, one who had not Divorced her self from one, and Married another Husband; for otherwise the younger Widows, whom St. Paul bids to Marry, could never be admitted Deaconesses, tho' they had all the other Qualifications. That such Divorces were then common on the Wives side, both among Jews and Gentiles, we learn concerning the Romans, from the Complaint of (k) Seneca, That none in his time blushed at it, their Noble Women marrying that they might Divorce themselves, and there being scarce any Marriages without Divorces. (l) Cicero complains of many things of this kind, which happened in his Time. (m) Plutarch mentions it as a thing common and customarily done by any Women that were jealous, and the Law among the (n) Athenians allowed it; Instances we have of it in (o) Justin Martyr, and (p) Tertullian. And that this also was frequent in the Practice of the Jews, and allowed by their Rabbins; see note on 1 Cor. 7. 11. I confess that Univira, the Wife of one Husband in Livy, l. 10. c. 23. is one, quæ uni viro nupta fuisset, ad quem virgo deducta sit, who for her Virginity, had been Married only to one Man, and that Univira Sacerdos bears the same Sense in Trebellius Pollio c. de Tito p. 795. and that this Menogamy was counted honourable, even among the Heathens, and they who were content with it wore Pudicitiæ coronam the Crown of Chastity, Val. Max. l. 2. c. 1. Whereas they who proceeded to a second Marriage, Sacerdotio arcebantur, were thought unworthy of the Priesthood, as Servius notes upon those words of Virgil, Æn. 4. v. 19. huic uni forsan potui succumbere culpæ: And the Flamines among the Romans were to be the Husbands of one Wife, and the Flaminicæ the Wives of one Husband, Rhodig. Lect. Antiq. l. 28. c. 22. That therefore the sacred Ministers in the Church of Christ might be in nothing inferiour to those of Heathens, the Apostle may require that in this Sense, the Bishop should be the Husband of one Wife, and the Deaconess the Wife of one Husband.

o Ver. 10. Ἐι ἐτεκνοτρόφησεν, if she hath brought up Children.] That εἰ signifies that, as well as if, see note on Acts 26. 23. εἰ παθητὸς ὁ χριστὸς, εἰ πρῶτος, &c. That Christ hath suffered, and that he was the first that rose from the dead; and that so it should be rendred here, the word μαρτυρμένη, testified, seems to require, for a Testimony of the good Works of others, is, that they have done such and such laudable Actions.

p Ver. 11. Ὅταν καταστρηνιάσωσιν τῦ χριστῦ, when they have waxed wanton against Christ.) That is, say Chrysostom and Oecumenius, ὅταν ἀπιδῶσιν, when they have cast off, or fastidiously refused and rejected Christ; ὅταν καταγελάσωσιν, when they have contemned, and made light of him; when they do, καρίως φέρειν ἢ ἀποστῆναι τὸν ἰνίας, bear Christ's Yoke grievously, and cast off his Reins; So Hesychius and Phavorinus. So that this Phrase signifies to cast off Christ, and Christianity; and as the Apostle afterwards explains it, ἐκτρέπεσθαι, to turn from him after Satan, or to fall off from him to Heathenism, or Judaism; and then πρώτην πίστιν ἀθετεῖν, to violate their first Faith, cannot be to violate the Promise made, when chosen into the Order of Widows, not to Marry, but their Faith given unto Christ at Baptism; the other, if any such Promise were then made, being not their first, but second Faith. So Chrysostom, and Oecumenius expound it from those Words of the Apostle to the Corinthians; I have espoused you to one Husband, that I may present you as a chast Virgin unto Christ.

q Ver. 15. Ἐξετράπησαν ὀπίσω τῦ σατανᾶ have turned aside after Satan.] The Converting Men to the Christian Faith, being the turning Men from the Power of Satan unto God, Acts 26. 18. The Rescuing Men from the Snare of the Devil, who were taken Captive by him at his Will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. And who walked according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, Eph. 2. 2. The casting off the Faith, may well be stiled the turning aside after Satan.

r Ver. 17. Διπλῆς τιμῆς) The double Honour, is that ἐλευθερίᾳ τροφῆς, of a liberal Maintenance out of the publick Stock; it signifies, saith Chrysostom, τὴν τῶν ἀναγκαίων χορηγίαν Provision of things necessary, as is evident from the Reason following, v. 18. The Labourer is worthy of his hire.

s Ibid. Μάλιστα οἱ κοπιῶντες ἐν λόγῳ, καὶ διδασκαλίᾳ, especially those who labour in the Word and Doctrine.] Οἱ πρεσβύτεροι, the Elders among the Jews were of two sorts. 1st. Such as Governed in the Synagogue; and 2dly. Such as ministred in reading and expounding their Scriptures and Traditions, and from them pronouncing what did bind or looſe, or what was forbidden, and what was lawful to be done: (q) For when partly by their Captivity, and partly thro' Increaſe and Traffick, they were diſperſed in conſiderable Bodies thro' divers Regions of the World, 'twas neceſſary they ſhould have Governours or Magiſtrates to keep them in their Duty, and Judge of Criminal Cauſes, and alſo Rabbins to teach them the Law, and the Traditions of their Fathers. The firſt were ordained, ad judicandum, ſed non ad docendum de licitis & vetitis, to judge and govern, but not to teach; the ſecond, ad docendum, ſed non ad judicandum, to teach, but not to judge or govern, and theſe the Apoſtle here declares, to be the moſt honourable, and worthy of the chiefeſt Reward; accordingly the Apoſtle reckoning up the Offices God had appointed in the Church, places Teachers before Governments, 1 Cor. 12.

t Ver. 18. Λέγει γὰρ ἡ γραφὴ, For the Scripture ſaith.] The former words, Thou ſhalt not muzzle the Ox that treadeth out the Corn, being expreſly found in Deut. 25. 4. and the latter expreſly in the Goſpel of St. Luke, ch. 10. 7. and with a little variation, Mat. 10. 10. and in no other place in Scripture, (for in Lev. 19. 13. and Deut. 24. 14. there is nothing to this purpoſe,) it follows that St. Paul muſt here reckon the Goſpel of St. Luke among the Holy Scriptures, from which ſuch Doctrines as he is now teaching, may be infallibly confirmed. Note,

2*ly*, That the Apoſtle both here, and 1 Cor. 9. 9. proves this from what was written in the Law of Moſes, applying in both places that which primarily muſt belong to the Jewiſh Prieſthood, to the Preachers of the Goſpel, and hence allowing us to argue for the maintenance of the latter, by Analogy to what was appointed for the former, as the Apoſtle himſelf doth in this very Caſe, in theſe words, Do you not know that they who miniſter about (legally) holy things, eat of the things of the Temple; and that they which wait at the Altar, are Partakers with the Altar? i.e. are fed, and liberally maintained by the Portions God allowed them of what was offer'd at his Altar, Even ſo hath the Lord Chriſt appointed, that they who preach the Goſpel ſhould live of the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 9. 12, 13. Whence,

3*ly*, Note, That this is a ſtanding Ordinance of Chriſt to continue as long as the Preaching of the Goſpel doth, built upon Reaſons of equal Obligations at all times, the Labourer being always worthy of his Hire, the Shepherd to eat of the Milk of the Flock, and he that ſoweth Spirituals to reap Carnals, 1 Cor. 9. 7, 10, 11. Note,

4*ly*, From whom this Reward is to be received; from them amongſt whom theſe Paſtors labour, to whom they ſow ſpiritual things, and who are taught by them: For let him, ſaith the Apoſtle, who is taught in the word, communicate to him that teacheth in all good things, Gal. 6. 7. So that he is to have a ſupply of all things needful for the Diſcharge of his Function, here, double Honour, i. e. a liberal Maintenance. Note,

5*ly*, That as the Command of being charitable to the Poor gives juſt occaſion to thoſe Laws which are made in all Communities to oblige Men according to their Abilities to diſtribute to the Neceſſities of the Poor, becauſe otherwiſe the general Rules of Scripture would not be obeyed, nor the Poor provided for; ſo the ſtanding Ordinance of Chriſt, and his Apoſtles, concerning the double Honour due to them who labour in the Word and Doctrine, and the communicating to them in all good things, juſtifies theſe Laws which aſcertain what ſhall be communicated to them, ſince otherwiſe it is much to be feared, the General Rules of Scripture concerning this matter would not be obeyed, nor the Clergy ſufficiently provided for.

ſeems to relate not to one who was ſuch by Age, but by Office, becauſe the Apoſtle was before ſpeaking, v. 17. of Elders which rule well, or laboured in the Word and Doctrine: And whereas the Law had taken care that no Man ſhould be condemned, but by the Mouth of two or three Witneſſes, the Apoſtle knowing how much the Church would ſuffer by the raſh Accuſations of her Governors, Biſhops, and Presbyters, ſeems to riſe higher, not ſuffering an Accuſation to be admitted againſt them, without the like number of Witneſſes.

Rules

Rules concerning the Qualifications of Penitents, saying nothing, what Penitents were to be reconciled, and after what time, and under what Conditions they were to have Hands laid on them in Token of Reconciliation; nor is there a concurrent Evidence of such a Practice so early in the Church; but he had given Rules touching Bishops and Deacons, and their Qualifications; and therefore we have more cause to apply it according to the chief intention and design of this Epistle. 3. Because the great use of laying on of Hands in the New Testament, is for the setting Persons apart for the Discharge of a sacred Office; so was it in the first Institution of Deacons, Act. 6. 6. and of Paul and Barnabas to a particular Charge, Act. 13. 2, 3. This was an ancient Ceremony among the Jews, in the solemn Designation of Persons to Sacred Offices, Numb. 27. 18, 23. Deut. 34. 9. either to be Rulers or Teachers in their Synagogues; and from thence it was brought into the Church, in the solemn Designation of Persons to the Ministry. And, 4*ly*, If these words do not relate to Ordination, St. Paul would have given Timothy no particular Direction about that which was one main part of his Office; wherefore, as he left Titus at Crete, to Ordain Elders in every City, so doubtless Timothy had the same Commission, which yet is no where intimated but in these words: And according to this sense the following words are capable of a very good meaning, thus, Be not Partaker of the Sins of them, who rashly, and without due Qualifications, rush upon Sacred Offices; for by want of due Examination, and Trial of them, thou wilt become Partaker of their Guilt.

z Ver. 23. So Justin Martyr saith, That Wine is to be used for (s) the Help of the Body, and the Cure of inward Distempers. And (t) Plato saith, it was given for the Health and Strength of the Body. The Essens abstained wholly from Wine; See Note on Col. 2. 21. but the (u) Gnosticks freely used it, when they went to the Heathen Feasts, and otherwise.

a a Ver. 25. I find three Expositions of these words: The first is that of St. Basil and St. Austin, which refers them to the Judgment of God, thus: The good and evil Works of some Men are so manifest, that they may be discerned of all Men before the Day of Judgment, and so in discerning them thou canst not err; but if they be latent here, and so escape thy Examination and Censure, they will be manifested at the Great Day of their Accounts.

2*ly*, Others referring this to the Censures of the Church, the ἁμαρτία mentioned v. 20. make the sense run thus: Some Mens Sins are so open and notorious, as to bring them under the Censures of the Church, by way of precedent Merit; others appear more criminal after the Censures passed upon them, and so less fit to be absolved; and some Mens Reformation, or Good Works, are so manifest after Censure, as to evidence they deserve Absolution; and if they continue evil, or do but few good works, that also will be in time discernable: So that thou may'st know who are fit to be absolved, who not. But against this Exposition there lies this Objection, That no Man should incur the Censures of the Church, but by way of precedent Merit; and so no Mans evil Works, for which he is to be censured, should follow after that Act of Discipline. And, 2*ly*, The last Clause of the last Verse seems, by the Antithesis, to refer not to evil, but to good Works, tho' done as the Works of Charity ought to be, so as not to be observed by Men.

3*ly*, The ancient Greek Expositors, with Grotius, refer these words to Ordination, thus: When I said, lay Hands suddenly on no Man, I spake not of Men whose good or bad Works are manifest before-hand; for they, without further Discussion or Examination, may be admitted, or are to be rejected; but of those whose Vices, or Good Works are latent; for they after Examination and Enquiry cannot be long hid: And so, if thou be not hasty in laying on of Hands, thou timely may'st discover them; or if by this means thou canst not do it, thou wilt not be Partaker with the Sinner, as having done as much as was in thy power to discover them.

CHAPTER VI.

Verse 1. LET as many servants as are under the yoke [of bondage to the Heathens,] count their own masters worthy of all [due] honour, that the name of God, and his Doctrine, be not blasphemed, [or evil spoken of, as tending to dissolve those civil obligations, but rather honoured in all estates of men, as tending to make them better in their several relations, Tit. 2. 10. and more subject even to hard and froward masters, 1 Pet. 2. 18.]

2. And they that have believing masters, let them not despise them because they are [advanced to be] Brethren, [and so equal to them in Christ,] but rather, [let them] do them service, because they are faithful, [of the household of faith] and beloved [of God,] a partakers of the benefit; these things teach, and exhort. a

3. If any man teach otherwise, and consent not to wholesome words, even the b words of our Lord Jesus Christ, [Mat. 20. 27. He that would be first among you, let him be your servant, or servant of all, Mark 10. 44.] and to b the doctrine which is according to godliness.

4. He is proud, [Gr. puffed up,] knowing nothing, but doting [sick] about questions, and strife of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmises.

5. Perverse disputings of men of corrupt minds, and destitute of the truth, supposing that gain is godliness, c from such withdraw thy self.

6. But [whatsoever they esteem so, we know that] godliness with [that] d contentment [which attends it,] is great gain.

7. [I say with contentment which it becometh us to have:] For we brought nothing into this World, and it is certain we can carry nothing out [of it.]

8. And having [ἔχοντες Ν, having therefore] food and raiment, let us be therewith content.

9. But [for] e they that will be rich, fall into temptation, and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition.

10. For the love of money is the root of all evil, which while some coveted after, they have erred from the Faith, and pierced themselves thro' with many sorrows.

11. But thou [thou therefore,] O man of God, flee these things, and follow after righteousness, f godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.

12. g Fight the good fight of faith, [and so] lay hold of eternal life, whereunto thou art [both] called, and [according to that calling] hast professed a good Profession, [by enduring Persecutions for it.] before many witnesses.

13. I give thee charge in the sight of [that] God who quickneth all things, [and therefore is able to raise them that suffer for him from the dead,] and before Christ Jesus, who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession [confirming the truth to the death, [Joh. 18. 37.]

14. That thou keep this Commandment [given to thee, v. 11, 12.] without spot, unrebukable, h until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15. Which [appearance] in his times, [or in the proper season] he shall shew [forth] who is the blessed, and only [absolute] Potentate; the i King of kings, and Lord of lords; [who therefore is more to be feared than all earthly Potentates, and will more assuredly punish those who submit not to his Laws and Government.]

16. Who only hath [of himself] Immortality, [and so only can confer it upon others, and only lives for ever to reward, and punish,] dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto, [and live; and so, whom no man fully can enjoy in this life,] whom no Man hath seen, nor can see: To whom [be ascribed] honour and power everlasting Amen.

17. Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, [the two diseases of rich men; for the rich man's wealth is his strong city, and a high wall in his own conceit, Prov. 10. 15. 18, 11. and riches and strength lift up the heart, Ecclus 40. 26.] but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; [and in whom therefore we may safely trust.]

18. k That they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate [to others of their wealth.]

19. Laying up in store for themselves l a good foundation against the time to come, that [when these things fail,] they may lay hold on eternal life.

20. O Timothy, keep that [truth] which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain bablings, and oppositions of science, falsly so called.

21. Which some professing, m have erred concerning the Faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.

Annotations on Chap. VI.

a Verse 2. Οἱ τῆς εὐεργεσίας ἀντιλαμβάνομενοι.] These words being not connected to the preceding by γὰρ, and the Article οἱ shewing that they relate not to the Prædicate, but to the Subject, will be best rendred thus, because they who partake of the benefit of the Service, are faithful and beloved; and therefore more worthy of their Service, the more they honoured God, and of the number of them whom we stand bound to serve in love.

That the Gnosticks taught any such Doctrine, That Christian Servants were not obliged to obey their Heathen, or their Christian Masters, there is not the least hint in any of the Commentators on this place, or in any of the Fathers, who have given us the largest account of their Doctrines. I find in the Epistle of Ignatius to Polycarp, these words, (a) Despise not Men and Maid-servants, nor let them be puffed up, but let them serve the more for the Glory of God, that they may obtain a better liberty; let them not covet to be free from their Masters; but neither doth the Martyr, nor any of his Commentators, intimate, that this relates to any Doctrine of the Gnosticks: And considering how much he endeavoured to imitate St. Paul, we may more probably conjecture it hath relation to this very place. Moreover, tho' I have given you the words, as Dr. Hammond translates them, yet I think the true meaning of these words, μὴ ἐφύπωσαν ἀπὸ τῆς κοινῆς ἐλευθερῶσθαι, is this, Let them not be importunate to be delivered, or made free by the Church, or by her common Stock; for τὸ κοινὸν, signifies the Community, and so τὸ κοινὸν τῆς ἐκκλησίας, in (b) Eu- ſebius, is the Community, or Body of the Church; and alſo in (c) Lucian, where he ſpeaks of the Chriſtians; and τὰ κοινὰ in Ariſtophanes, Demoſthenes, and Lucian, ſignifies the common Stock. Now it is evident from Juſtin Martyr, and Tertullian, that the common Stock of Chriſtians was employed to buy their Brethren out of Bonds and Servitude. See note on 1 Cor. 7. 23. and Lucian de Pereg. Ed. Gr. p. 594. 595.

But that many of the Jews were of this Opinion, and might be apt to introduce it into Chriſtianity, we find juſt Reaſon to believe; for they thought themſelves privileged, by their Relation to God, from being the Servants of Men. Some of them, ſaith Joſephus, thought it a wicked thing μετὰ τὸν θεὸν φύσει ἅπαντες δεσπότας, to own beſides God, any mortal Lords, or Maſters. Their Rabbins thought it unbecoming any Jew to be a Bond-ſlave to an Heathen, or Idolater; for that was, ſay they, to be Servi Servorum, Servants of Servants, which the Servants of the Lord muſt not be. See Dr. Lightfoot in 1 Cor. 7. 23.

b Ver. 3. Λόγοις τοῖς τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν, the Words of our Lord Jeſus.] This Phraſe being often uſed, of the very words which Chriſt ſpake, as Matth. 26. 75. Acts 10. 16. 20. 35. I thought fit to refer it to thoſe words which might moſt likely be aimed at by the Apoſtle; tho' ſeeing they alſo may refer to the Doctrine of Chriſt, preached by the Apoſtle, this Phraſe being ſo uſed, Acts 19. 10. and the Doctrine of the Lord very often, 1 Theſ. 1. 8. 2 Theſ. 3. 1. in this Senſe it affords this uſeful Obſervation, That the Words written by St. Paul in theſe Epiſtles, are the Words of the Lord Jeſus.

c Ver. 5. Ἀφίστασο ἀπὸ τῶν τοιούτων, from ſuch withdraw thy ſelf.] From theſe words it is plain that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh here of Perſons then in being. That they were Jews, ſeems evident from the foregoing Note, ſhewing, that they were in this Matter ἑτεροδιδάσκαλοι, Men that taught otherwiſe; that theſe νομοδιδάσκαλοι, were Men knowing nothing, or not knowing what they ſaid, or whereof they affirmed, ſee 1 Tim. 1. 9. That they did ἑτεροδιδασκαλεῖν, teach otherwiſe than the Doctrine which is after Godlineſs, v. 3. That they had their Fables which Miniſtred ζητήσεις, Queſtions, v. 4. That they had their ματαιολογίας, vain Wranglings about Words, v. 6. That they had their fooliſh Queſtions which begat Striſes and Contentions about the Law, ſee Tit. 3. 9. That they of the Circumciſion were vain Talkers, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy Lucre's ſake, ſee Tit. 1. 10, 11. And ſo accounted Gain for Godlineſs; That their Minds and Conſciences were defiled and perverted, ſee Tit. 1. 14. That they turned aſide from the Faith to vain Janglings, ſee 1 Tim. 1. 6. How they were puffed up, ſee Note on 2 Tim. 3. 4. d

Ver. 6. Αὐτάρκεια, Contentment.] This the Apoſtle well explains, by being ſatisfied ἐν οἷς εἰμι, in the Condition we are in, Phil. 4. 4. And τοῖς παροῦσιν, with the things we have at preſent, with Food and Rayment, v. 8. i. e. with thoſe things which are needful for this preſent Life, Matth. 6. 31, 32. In Oppoſition to Anxiety, Diſtruſt, or Murmuring; and it is never ſeparable from true Piety, but is the natural Reſult of that Love to, and that value the good Man hath for God, and the things of God; that truſt he hath in God, and the entire Reſignation of his Will in all Affairs to the Conduct of his Providence. e Ver. 9 Οἱ θέλοντες πλουτεῖν, they that will be rich.] i. e. On whom the love of Money ſo prevails, that they are reſolved they will be rich, if by any means they can compaſs Wealth, are in the ready way to yield to any Luſt which will gratifie their greedy Humours; μηδενὸς εἰς χρηματισμὸν συνελεῖντος αἰσχροῦ μηδ' ἀνιαροῦ φειδόμενοι, abſtaining, ſaith (d) Plutarch, from nothing that is Baſe or Impious, that tends to enrich them: whence the Ancients, agreeably to the Apoſtle here, avaritiam omnia vitia habere putabant, thought Covetouſneſs to comprehend all Vices; as Agellius, l. 11. c. 2. from Cato, and Cicero, N. 45. in his Oration, pro Roſcio Amerino, have obſerved. It alſo cauſeth us to make Shipwrack of Faith, and a good Conſcience, and whatſoever elſe is ſacred, when they cannot be held without the loſs of that Wealth we ſo love and admire. Whence Cicero notes, (e) Nullum eſſe Officium tam ſanctum atque ſolenne, quod non avaritia comminuere, atq; violare ſoleat; That there is no Duty ſo holy, or ſolemn, which Covetouſneſs is not wont to impair and violate.

Ver. 11. Εὐσέβειαν, πίστιν, &c.] That Godlineſs f which gives Contentment with Food and Raiment, and what at preſent we enjoy: That Faith which aſſures us of a better, and a more enduring Subſtance, reſerved in the Heavens for us, Heb. 10. 34. That Juſtice which requires us to injnre no Man, but to let every Man enjoy his own: That Love, or Charity which makes us ready to diſtribute, and willing to Communicate of theſe things to others, v. 18. That Patience which makes us with Tranquility and Equanimity ſubmit to a low Fortune, and Adverſity: That Meekneſs which ſuppreſſes our Wrath and Indignation againſt them who are injurious to us in Temporals, and take away that which is ours. All theſe are proper Preſervatives againſt, or Indications of a Mind free from Covetouſneſs.

Ver. 12. Ἀγωνίζου τὸν καλὸν ἀγῶνα, fight the good g fight.] Theſe words are plainly Agoniſtical, relating to the Olympick Games, and particularly to that of Racing, to which the Apoſtle doth ſo oft allude, where the Crown being hung up at the end of the Goal, he that came firſt did ἐπιλαμβάνειν, lay hold of it, and take it to himſelf: And becauſe theſe Games were performed in the Preſence of many Spectators, the Apoſtle continues the Alluſion, ſaying, that Timothy had, in the Preſence of many Witneſſes, ſhewed his Readineſs to ſuffer for the Faith.

h Ver. 14. Μέχρι τ ἐπιφανείας τ Κυρίε ἡμῶν, Till the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] Here, ſaith Grotius, it appears that Paul ſpeaks to Timothy, as one who might live to the laſt Judgment: But this vain Conceit hath been ſufficiently confuted, Note on 1 Theſ. 4. 15. Nor doth this Exhortation prove it, it being uſed rather than that, until Death, ſaith Theophylact, to mind us of that glorious Appearance. And becauſe, ſaith St. (f) Auſtin, the Day of our Death is to us, as that Day; Tunc enim unicuiq; veniet dies ille, cum venerit ei dies, ut talis hinc exeat, qualis judicandus eſt illo die. In quo enim quemque invenerit ſuus noviſſimus dies, in hoc eum comprehendet mundi noviſſimus Dies.

i Ver. 15. Ὁ Βασιλεὺς, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords.] This Title the great Empires took to themſelves: The King of Babylon, is ſo ſtiled by Daniel, Chap. 2. 37. By Jeremiah. Chap. 27. 6. Of Perſia, Ezr. 7. 12. See Briſſon. de Regno Perſ. l. 1. p. 3, 4. And therefore the Apoſtle ſaith here, that it truly belongs to God only, and to our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Rev. 17. 14, 19, 16.

k Ver. 18. That they do Good.] See note on Tit. 3. 8.

l Ver. 19. Θεμέλιον καλὸν, A good Foundation.] Τῶν μελλόντων ἀγαθῶν ἀπόλαυσιν θεμέλιον κέκληκεν ἀκίνητον, The enjoyment of good things to come, he calls an immoveable Foundation, ſay the Greek Commentators. So the Doctrine of the Reſurrection is ſtiled the Foundation of God, 2 Tim. 2. 19. And the Heavenly Jeruſalem, a City that hath Foundations, Heb. 11. 10. And the good Foundation here being in the words following, eternal Life, confirms their Interpretation. They who think the word θεμέλιος ſignifies here a Treaſure, or an Obligation on the part of God to give them Life Eternal, mean the ſame thing, tho' they give us no juſt Evidence that the Word hath any ſuch Signification.

m Ver. 21. Περὶ τὴν πίστιν ἠστόχησαν, have erred from the Faith.] Theſe in all Reaſon muſt be the ſame with the τ πίστεως ἀστοχήσαντες thoſe who erred from the Faith Chap. 1. 5, 6. And that they were the νομοδιδάσκαλοι, the Aſſertors and Teachers of the Law, and ſo the Oppoſites to the Gnoſticks, who were, ſaith Irenæus, Legis Adverſarii, the Adverſaries of the Law, the 7*th.* Verſe demonſtrates, as (g) Theodoret well obſerves upon the Place: Of them it is alſo certain, that they pretended above all Men to be γνώσονται τὸ θέλημα skilled in the Knowledge of the Will of God, and ἔχοντες τὴν μόρφωσιν τ γνώσεως, Men that had the Scheme, or Form of Knowledge, Rom. 2. 18, 19, 20. They were the great Aſſertors and Promoters of the Cabbala, or Cabbaliſtical Doctrine, which was in their Account, Scientia arcana divinitus accepta, (h) a Secret Myſtical Knowledge of Divine Things received from God, and equal in their Opinion to the Scriptures, according to their Rule, verba cabbalæ æquiparantur verbis legis. And they doubtleſs oppoſed this their Knowledge of the Law, and of theſe Cabbaliſtical Traditions, to the Goſpel taught by St. Paul, which oppoſed and ſlighted them; and their ſtiff Adherence to them, cauſed them ἀστοχῆσαι to ſhoot off from the Faith of the Meſſiah, which was the Mark they aimed at; that therefore the ψευδώνυμος γνῶσις, the falſly named Knowledge, mentioned here, (i) may agree to them, as well as to the Gnoſticks, is manifeſt from theſe things; that it cannot agree to the Gnoſticks, if theſe Perſons were Teachers of the Law, as it is very probable they were, ſee Note on Chap. 1. 7. And that it cannot be attributed to Simon Magus, the Father of the Gnoſticks, of whom alone the Apoſtle can be ſuppoſed here to ſpeak, appears from this, that he cannot properly be ſaid to err concerning the Faith, who was ſo far from being then of it, that he himſelf ſet up for the Chriſt, and oppoſed the Profeſſion of the Goſpel with all his might. As for the Gnoſticks, it is agreed among the Learned, that though they conſpired with former Hereticks, yet were they not known by that Name, nor had they taken it upon them till the time of Anicetus Biſhop of Rome, and the Reign of M. Aurelius, Antoninus, and L. Verus, that is, not till the Year 129. Hence Dr. Cave makes them an Hereſie of the Second Century. Euſebius ſay's, that (k) Carpocrates, who flouriſhed in the time of Hadrian, gave the Riſe to the Sect of the Gnoſticks. But Clemens Alexandrinus ſeems to affirm, that one (l) Epiphanes, the Author of the Sect of the Carpocrations, gave Birth to this Name and Sect. And if it were ſo, it is improbable that the Knowledge falſly ſo called, here mention'd, ſhould have Relation to the Gnoſticks.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epistle of St. PAUL to TIMOTHY.

THE Ancients (a) from these Words of this Epistle, I am ready to be offer'd, and the time of my Departure is at hand, Chap. 4. 6. do generally conclude, this was the last of St. Paul's Epistles, he being ὡς ἐπὶ τὸ πολύ, near the end of his Life, when he writ it. And truly the Words of the Apostle are not well capable of any other Sense, for he says expresly, ἤδη σπένδομαι, I am now offer'd, and the Time of my Dissolution, ἐφέστηκε, is instant, v. 6. I have finished my Course, v. 7. and v. 8. λοιπόν, from henceforth there is laid up for me a Crown of Glory; whereas he not only expected to be delivered from his first Bonds, but saith expresly, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all, for your Furtherance and Joy of Faith, that your rejoycing may be more abundant in Christ Jesus, for my coming to you again, Phil. 1. 25, 26. see Chap. 2. 24. Philemon 22. Yea, he was actually delivered, and ready to go to Judæa, when he writ the Epistle to the Hebrews, Chap. 13. 23. 2*dly. This* Epistle, saith Bishop Pearson, was writ from Rome, Chap. 1. 17. by St. Paul in Bonds, Chap. 1. 8. 2. 9. Now these Bonds could not be his first Bonds, for then he was in Libera Custodia, in his own hired House, receiving all that came to him, none forbidding it, Acts 28. 30, 31. yea his Bonds were known throughout Cæsar's Palace, and to all others, Phil. 1. 13. Here he is in Arcta Custodia; so that Onesiphorus was forced to enquire more diligently after him, that he might find him out, Chap. 1. 17. Again, in his first Bonds, saith he, Many of the Brethren of the Lord being encouraged by my Bonds, were bold to speak the Word more abundantly without Fear, Philip. 1. 14. Here all Men forsake him, Chap. 4. 16. See a third Argument for this Opinion, Chap. 4. 13. a fourth, v. 16. a fifth and sixth, v. 20. So that I conclude with the Postscript, that this Epistle ἐγράφη ἀπὸ Ρώμης, ὅτε ἐν δευτέρᾳ παρέσει Παῦλος τῷ Καίσαρι Νέρωνι, was writ from Rome, when St. Paul stood the second time before Nero.

That this Epistle was writ to stir up Timothy to Caution, Diligence, and Discharge of his Office on Occasion of the creeping Heresie of the Gnosticks, Chap. 2. 17. stolen in among them, which had much debauched the Asiaticks, Chap. 1. 15. and made use of Magick to oppose the Truth of the Gospel, Chap. 3. 8. is said by a Reverend and Learned Person: But there is nothing in any of the Ancient Commentators of this nature, which speak here only of the Heresies arising from the Jewish Doctors, (b) as that which gave Occasion to the writing this Epistle. And (2dly,) the Places cited by this Reverend Person do not prove that the Apostle speaketh of the Gnosticks, for Chap. 1. 15. he only says, all those that were in Asia had forsaken him; which they might do by cleaving to the Corinthians and Ebionites, rather than to the Gnosticks. See the Note there, That they who taught the Resurrection was past already, were not Gnosticks, is proved, Note on Chap. 2. 17. and that the Words, Chap. 3. 8, 9. agree not to the Gnostick Hereticks, but to the Jewish false Teachers, who were also great Magicians, is there shewed; see Note on 2 Thess. 2. 10.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Second Epistle of St. Paul to Timothy.

CHAP. I.

Verse 1. PAul, an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, [a] according to the Promise [for Declaration of the Pro-
[b] mise] of [eternal] [b] Life, which is [made to us] in Christ Jesus;

2. [Writeth] To Timothy my dearly beloved Son [wishing to him] Grace, Mercy, and Peace from God the Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord, [by whom all Mercies are derived to us from the Father through the Spirit.]

3. I thank God, whom I serve from my [c] Fore-fathers, [c] with a pure Conscience, that [d] [d] without ceasing, I have remembrance of thee in my Prayers Night and Day;

4. Greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy Tears [shed when thou departedst from me,] that [as then I was filled with Sorrow, so by seeing thee again] I may be filled with joy.

5. [I thank God I say] When I call to Remembrance the unfeigned Faith which is in thee, which dwelt first in thy Grandmother Lois, and [in], thy Mother Eunice, [converted to the Faith before thee, Acts 16. 1.] and I am perswaded that [it dwells] in thee also.

[e] 6. Wherefore I put thee in Remembrance, [f] that thou [e] stir up the Gift of God which is in thee, [f] by the putting on of my hands.

7. For God hath not given us the Spirit of fear [as under the Mosaical Dispensation, [g] Rom. 8. 15.] [g] but [the Spirit] of Power, and of Love, and of a sound Mind.

8. Be not thou therefore ashamed of the Testimony of our Lord, [i. e. of giving Testimony to the Death, and Resurrection of Christ, 1 Cor. 1. 6. which were the great things they chiefly were to testifie, Acts 1. 8, 22. 4. 33, 5. 32.] nor of me, [though I am now] his Prisoner [for that Testimony;] but be thou Partaker of the Afflictions of the Gospel [Gr. συνκακοπαθησον, suffer thou evil with the Preachers of it] according to the Power of God, [given thee for this End, v. 7.]

9. [Even that God] who hath saved us [i. e. designed us for Salvation, 1 Thess. 5. 9. See Note on Ephes. 2. 7, 8.] and [in pursuance of that Design hath] called us with an holy calling, not according to our Works, but according to his own Purpose, and Grace, [See Note on Tit. 3. 5, 6.] which was given [i. e. determined to be given] us in Christ Jesus before [h] the World began. [h]

10. But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, [the Lord, and Giver of Life,] who [by his Death] hath abolish'd Death, and hath brought [this] [i] Life and Immortality to light thro' [i] the Gospel.

11. Whereunto [εἰς ὃ, for which thing] I am appointed a Preacher, and an Apostle, and a Teacher of the Gentiles.

12. For the which Cause also I suffer these things; nevertheless [though I suffer thus] I am not ashamed [of my hope] for I know [in] whom I have believed; and I am perswaded that he is able to keep [k] that [k] which I have committed to him; [i. e. my Soul, and Life, 1 Pet. 4. 19.] against [or to] that Day [of Recompence.]

13. Hold fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me in Faith, and Love which is in Christ Jesus [i. e. with a firm Faith,

Faith, and true Chriſtian Love, ſee Note in Chap. 2. v. 2.]

14. That good thing which was committed to thee [i. e. the Doctrine of the Goſpel, 1 Tim. 6. 20.] keep by the Holy Ghoſt which dwelleth in us [and confirms it to us, 1 John 2. 20, 27.]

15. This thou knoweſt [by Meſſengers from Rome, or thoſe who travel from thence to Rome] that all they [l] which are in Aſia be turned away from [Gr. have forſaken] me; of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes.

16. The Lord give [i. e. ſhew] mercy to [m] the houſe of Oneſiphorus, [the Epheſian Ch. 4. 19.] for he oft refreſhed me [with his preſence, and relief,] and was not aſhamed of my Chain [as the reſt of the Aſiaticks were.]

17. But when he was [Gr. being] in Rome, he ſought me out very diligently, and found me.

18. The Lord [therefore] grant unto him [who ſhew'd ſuch mercy to me] that he may find mercy of the Lord in that day [of Recompence we Chriſtians expect.] And in how many things he miniſtred to me at Epheſus, thou knoweſt very well.

Annotations on Chapter I.

a Verſe 1. Κατ' ἐπαγγελίαν.] Ὥσε μὲ τὴν ἐπαγγελθεῖσαν αἰώνιον ζωὴν τοῖς ἀνθρώποις κηρύξαι, That I might declare that Eternal Life which is promiſed to Men; ſo Theodoret. So Tit. 1. 1. Paul, an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, κατὰ πίστιν, for the Promotion, or Declaration of the Faith of God's Elect; ſo κατὰ πᾶσαν αἰτίαν, for every cauſe, Matth. 19. 3. Philip. 4. 11. I ſpeak not κατ' ὑστέρησιν, for want of any thing.

b Ibid. ζωῆς ἐν Χριστῷ Life which is in Chriſt Jeſus.] Adam brought the Sentence of Death upon us all, and the Promiſe of Deliverance from that Death, is only made to us in, and through Chriſt Jeſus, by virtue of that Death he ſuffered in our ſtead.

c Ver. 3. Ἐν καθαρᾷ συνειδήσει, with a pure Conſcience.] So Acts 23. 1. I have lived in all good Conſcience to this Day before God, i. e. a Conſcience free from Inſincerity, or willful Diſobedience to the Dictates of his Mind, or the Rule by which he thought himſelf obliged to walk; for, as touching the Righteouſneſs which was required by the Law, he was blameleſs; and as for his Blaſphemies againſt Chriſt, and his Perſecutions of his Church, that he did ignorantly in unbelief, 1 Tim. 1. 13. thinking he ought to do many things againſt the Name of Jeſus, Acts 26. 9. But yet he was not free from Sin; for he confeſſes, that upon this account he was the Chief of Sinners. 1 Tim. 1. 15.

d Ibid. Ἀδιάλειπτον, without ceaſing, Day and Night.] To pray Morning and Evening, is to pray continually, or without ceaſing: Thus Zadok and his Brethren offered Burnt-Offerings before the Lord continually, διαπαντὸς, Morning and Evening, 1 Chron. 16. 42, 43. See Note on 1 Theſſ. 5. 17, 18.

e Ver. 6. Ἀναζωπυρεῖν.](a) Philo ſaith, That where there is any ſpark of true Probity, being ventilated, it will ſhine, and break forth into a flame. And this is alſo true, as well of Spiritual Gifts as Graces; Even the Gifts of Miracles, of Healing, and caſting out of Devils, were ſtrengthned and increaſed by Prayer, Matth. 17. 21. and by Faith, v. 20. and the internal Gifts of Wiſdom, and Knowledge, by Reading, and Meditating on the Word; the Illumination of the Holy Spirit coming then upon Gifted Perſons when they were ſo employ'd, 1 Cor. 14. 23, 24, 25, 26. 1 Tim. 4. 13, 14, 15. How they may be extinguiſhed, ſee Eph. 4. 30. 1 Theſſ. 5. 19. Thus Pythagoras, ſaith (b) Jamblichus, purged the Souls of his Scholars from Ignorance and Senſual Paſſions, and then, ἀνεζωπύρει τὸ θεῖον ἐν ἑαυτῇ, cap. 16.

f Ibid. Διὰ τῆς ἐπιθέσεως, by the laying on of my hands.] The Presbytery alſo laid their hands upon him, 1 Tim. 4. 14. but the χάρισμα, or Gift, here mentioned, being the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt, was uſually conferred by laying on of the hands of an Apoſtle, Acts 8. 17. 19. 6. Vain therefore is the Inference of Eſthius from theſe Places, that Ordination is a Sacrament, ſeeing the Grace here menioned, is no Ordinary Grace, but an Extraordinary Gift, conferred only in thoſe times by the hands of an Apoſtle, and now wholly ceaſed.

Ver. 7. All theſe were Spiritual Gifts, not now conferr'd in Ordination, as Eſthius vainly conceives.

h Ver. 9. Πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων. Before any Age had paſſed.] The Promiſe that the Seed of the Woman ſhould break the Serpent's head, being made at the beginning of the World, ſo the Promiſe of that Life to which we were to be reſtored by this Seed, and had loſt by the Subtilty, and Malice of the Serpent, is ſaid to be given πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, Tit. 1. 3. See the Note there.

Note alſo that theſe Words may be Connected thus, According to his Purpoſe before all Ages, and the Grace given us in Chriſt Jeſus. And this import of the Words may be confirmed from the like Paſſages of the Apoſtle, ſaying, God hath Elected us in him before the Foundations of the World, Eph. 1. 4. and promiſed us Eternal Life before the World began, Tit. 1. 2.

i Ver. 10. Φωτίσαντος ζωὴν, Hath brought Life and Immortality to Light.] It is to be acknowledged that the Heathens had, by Tradition, and the Light of Nature, conceived ſome hope of ſome future good things to be received after this Life was ended; that being abſolutely neceſſary, ſaith the Apoſtle, that they might come to God, or do him any acceptable Service: For, he that cometh to God, muſt believe that he is; and that he is a Rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him, Heb. 11. 6. But yet this Hope was very weak, and feeble in them, and ſcarce credited by their Philoſophers. It is ſtiled by Cicero, Tuſc. Q. 1. Futurorum quoddam Augurium Sæculorum, a Surmiſe of Future Ages. It is, ſaith (c) Seneca, That which our Wiſe Men do Promiſe, but they do not prove. (d) Socrates even at his death ſpeaks thus; I hope to go hence to good Men; but of that I am not very confident; nor doth it become any Wiſe Man to be poſitive that ſo it will be. I, ſaith he, muſt now die, and you ſhall live; but which of us is in the better State, the Living, or the Dead, God only knows. Both he, and (e) Cebes, do ingenuouſly confeſs, that theſe things relating to the Soul, were disbelieved by the greateſt part of Mankind.

(f) Ariſtotle held, that Death was therefore φοβερώτατον the moſt terrible, as putting an End to all things; Neither Good nor Evil hapning to any Man after his Death: Yea, he ſays, It is abſurd to ſay that any Man can be happy after Death, ſince happineſs conſiſts in Operation. Hence Atticus (g) reckons him among thoſe who held that Souls could not remain after their Bodies. And (h) Origen ſaith, that he did τὸ περὶ τῆς ἀθανασίας τῆς ψυχῆς λόγου καθηρηκέναι, condemn the Doctrine of the Souls Immortality.

(k) Lipſius confeſſeth, that amongſt the Stoicks this was a controverted Point, and was not received by them with any full conſent; and whoſoever reads, will find them ſtill at their (l) ifs and ands, not knowing whether there were any thing after Death, εἰ δὲ μηδὲν ἐστὶ τελευτήσαντι, or nothing; as Socrates in Phædo ſpeaks. Whether their Souls ſhould be extinguiſhed, or only change their Place; whether they were in a State of Senſe, or ἐν ἀναισθησίᾳ, without Senſe: Whether Soul and Body were extinguiſhed together, or not; As Cicero, Seneca, and others, or elſe were ſtill at their (m) Disjunctives, ἤτοι σβέσις, ἢ μετάστασις, fluctuating ſtill betwixt Extinction, or Tranſlation, a profound Sleep, a long Peregrination, or an utter Diſſolution.

no farther place for Joy, or Fear. And (o) Pliny, That neither Soul nor Body hath any more Senſe after Death, than before it was born.

(p) Cicero begins his Diſcourſe upon this Subject with a Profeſſion, That he intended to deliver nothing as fixed, and certain, but only as probable, and having ſome likelihood of Truth. And having reckoned up the different Sentiments of the Philoſophers about it, he concludes thus, (q) Which of theſe Opinions is true, ſome God muſt tell us; which is moſt like to Truth, is a great Queſtion. And when he had confirmed, as much as he was able, the Doctrine of the Soul's Immortality, he ingenuouſly confeſſes, Catervæ veniunt Contradicentium, that his Opinion was contradicted, not only by whole Troops of the Sect of Epicurus, but alſo by (r) the moſt learned of the other Sects.

(s) Plutarch ſaith, That if Men will be reſtrained from their Evil Courſes by Fear, they muſt be kept under the Superſtition of the Dread of Hades; but to them who have caſt off thoſe Fears, muſt be propounded, ἡ περὶ τὸ μυθῶδες τ᾽ ἀϊδιότητος ἐλπὶς, the Fabulous Hope of Immortality. And this, ſaith he, is one great Benefit of Philoſophy, that it hath taught us to look upon that Death which others fear, ὡς μηδὲν πρὸς ἡμᾶς, as nothing to us. Now the Philoſophers themſelves ſaw the evil Effects that this Denial, or Doubting of theſe things, would have upon the Lives of Men, viz.

1. That it would yield a great Encouragement to Men to go on in their Evil Ways: For if Death, ſaith Socrates, in Phad. p. 80. A. be the Extinction of the whole, or a Freedom from all evils, ἑρμαῖον ἂν ἂυ τοῖς κακοῖς ἀποθανοῦσι, this will be good News to the Wicked, that they have nothing to ſuffer.

2. That it tended to diſcourage Men from leading Vertuous and Pious Lives, as cramping all their hopes of Happineſs: For, as (t) Dionyſius Halicarnaſſæus well obſerves, If the Soul, when ſeparated from the Body, periſheth, it is not eaſie to diſcern how good Men can be happy, who receive no Fruit of their Vertue here, but often periſh by it.

3. That it very much ſtaggers our Patience and Perſeverance in Vertue, and our Concern for Fidelity and Equity, when we muſt ſuffer for them in this World: For it is truly ſaid by (u) Cicero, that it is not poſſible for any one to have that Eſteem for Faith and Equity, as to endure the moſt dreadful Puniſhments to preſerve them, unleſs he be aſſured that the Things he hath aſſented to cannot be falſe. See Note on Heb. 11. 6.

As for that Immortality the Body ſhall obtain at the Reſurrection, the Heathens knew, and believed nothing of it; they laughed at it, and looked upon it as a thing impoſſible, and unworthy of God to do, and without any Example to convince them that it might be done. Hence then we ſee the Neceſſity that this Life and Immortality ſhould be brought to light by the Goſpel; and what continual Thanks we owe to the Bleſſed Jeſus, who hath by his Death not only removed the Fear and Sting, but even the Being of Death; and hath procur'd a bleſſed Immortality, not only for the Soul, but the Body alſo.

12. τὴν παραϰαταθήϰην μου,] My Soul; k which Perſons dying uſed to commit into the Hands of God. So Joſephus, de Bello Jud. l. 3. p. 852. "The immortal Soul, which "hath its Original from God, dwells in "the Body: Now if any one imbezels, or "evilly intreats that which is committed to "him by Man, he is accounted a wicked, "and perfidious Man, ἐὰ δ᾽ τις τὴν σφετέρας "σώματος ἐμβάλλει τὴν παραϰαταθήϰην τοῦ "θεοῦ λελησθέναι δοϰεῖ τὸν ϰδικούμενον, if "therefore any one caſts the Depoſitum of "God out of his Body by Self-Murther, can "he hope to conceal himſelf from him that "is injured? And (x) Philo, in like manner, ſaith, That God hath given to Man, a Soul, Speech, and Senſe, which he muſt endeavour ſo to keep, that he who committed them to him may find no cauſe to blame him for his Cuſtody. And again, (y) this is the Praiſe of the Wiſe Man, that he keeps the Sacred Depoſitum of the Soul, Speech, Senſe, the Divine Wiſdom, and Humane Underſtanding purely, and without Deceit, not to himſelf, but only to him who committed them to him. And again, Lib. de Abr.

Abr. p. 302. No wiſe Man, ſaith he, is offended that any one calls for τὸ παρακαταθήκιον his Depoſitum: Why therefore ſhould he be offended that God, or Nature call for that which they have intruſted with us? And Hermas ſaith, lib. 2. Mandat. 2. They that lye, defraud the Lord, not rendring to him τὴν παρακαταθήκην ἣν ἔλαβον, the Depoſitum they received from him; for they received a Spirit free from Falſhood; and therefore by lying, ἐμίαναν τὸ θεῖον παρακαταθήκην, they have defiled God's Depoſitum. The (z) Jews make mention of two Depoſitums of God; The Lamp which is in us, or the Soul; and the Lamp without us which is the Law; or according to (a) Philo, θείων παρακαταθηκῶν ὀργάνων, the Depoſitum of the Divine Myſteries; and they introduce God ſpeaking thus, My Light, or Lamp, is in thy Hand; and thy Lamp, which is thy Soul, is in mine: If thou ſhalt diligently keep my Lamp, I will keep thine; if thou extinguiſheſt mine, I will put out thine. This Depoſitum, they dying did commit into the Hands of God; as you may ſee, (b) Sepher Tephiloth Luſitanorum. The Apoſtle ſeems to have reſpect to both theſe Depoſitums, in his Epiſtles to Timothy; to the Light of the Goſpel, when he ſaith, τὴν παρακαταθήκην φύλαξον, Keep that which is committed to thee, 1 Tim. 6. 20. and here V. 14. to the Lamp within us, V. 13.

1 Ver. 15. Ἐν τῇ Ἀσίᾳ, which are in Aſia.] This Oecumenius and Theophylact expound thus, οἱ ἐν τῇ Ἀσίᾳ, τουτέστιν οἱ ὀπαδοὶ τῆς Ἀσίας, thoſe of Aſia, that either went with him to Rome, or came to him there, or were found there at his Coming, in the Time of his Diſtreſs forſook all Converſe with him, for fear of Nero. But this Expoſition ſeems not conſiſtent with the Words. For, 1. he ſaith, οἶδας τοῦτο, This thou knoweſt. Now Timothy, being not at Rome, could not well know what was done there; and therefore the Apoſtle gives him an Account how all Men had deſerted him in his firſt Defence, Ch. 4. 16. But being then in Aſia, or Achaia, he might know what happen'd there. (2.) The Words ἀπεστράφησαν με, have been averſe from me, ſeem to import a Departure from St. Paul, and his Doctrine; and may be render'd, they have turn'd me off. He having therefore told them long before, that after his Departure grievous Wolves ſhould enter in, not ſparing the Flock: And that from themſelves ſhould ariſe Men ſpeaking perverſe things, to draw away Diſciples after them, Acts 20. 29, 30. and charging Timothy to ſtay ſome time at Epheſus to oppoſe himſelf to the Falſe Teachers of the Jewiſh Nation, and to exhort the Epheſians not to give heed to theſe Teachers of the Law, 1 Tim. 1. 7. it ſeems moſt proper to refer theſe Words to the rejecting St. Paul, as an Adverſary to the Law, by the Perſwaſions of the Cerinthians, and Ebionites, who laid this Charge againſt him.

Ver. 16. Ὀνησιφόρου ὄικῳ, the Houſhold of m Oneſiphorus.] Oneſiphorus ſeemed to be dead when Paul writ this, ſaith Grotius, on the Place: And if ſo, ſaith Eſtbius, here is a ſtrong Confirmation of the Practice of praying for the Saints deceaſed. I anſwer, 1. That it follows not that Oneſiphorus was dead, becauſe St. Paul here mentions, and in the Cloſe of this Epiſtle ſalutes his Family, without mention of him; the Reaſon of that being this, becauſe Oneſiphorus was not yet returned from Rome to Epheſus where his Family was. 2. The Apoſtle here only prays that he might find Mercy at the great Day of Recompence, as doth our Liturgy, and all the Ancient Liturgies, for Deliverance in the Hour of Death, and at the Day of Judgment; which is perfectly excluſive of Prayers ſuppoſed to be made for Souls in Purgatory, which if they do them any good, muſt be ſuppoſed to do it before that Day.

11. It is a faithful saying, [that by Christ Jesus we shall obtain this Salvation:] For if we be dead [Gr. have died] with him [in Baptism, by dying unto Sin] we shall also live with him [in Conformity to his Resurrection, Rom. 6. 8.]

16. But shun profane and vain Bablings, for they will encrease to more ungodliness, [rendring Men more, and more profane.]

17. And their word will eat, as doth a Canker, [or Gangreen, infecting the whole Body] of whom [i. e. of the number of which profane Talkers] are Hymenæus and Philetus.

18. Who concerning the Truth, have erred, saying, That the Resurrection is past already, and [by that Doctrine] overthrow the faith of some.

20. [And be not disturbed that such Heretick as these arise out of the Members of the Church:] But [for,] in a great House, [such as the Church is,] there are not only Vessels of Gold, and Silver, but also of Wood, and of Earth, and some, [viz. those Vessels of Gold, and Silver, Representing the Orthodox Christian, 1 Cor. 3. 12. are εἰς τιμὴν] to Honour, and some [viz. those of Wood, and Earth, Representing the Heterodox] to [uses of] Dishonour.

21. If a man therefore purge himself from those [false Doctrines, and the Teachers of them] he shall be a Vessel unto Honour, [q] q Sanctified, and meet for the Master's Use, [Serviceable to Christ, the Master of the Family,] and prepared unto every good Work.

22. [Avoid these therefore, and] [r] Flee r also youthful Lusts, but follow Righteousness, Faith, Charity, Peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart.

23. But [the] foolish and unlearned Questions [of the Jews, See Note on 1 Tim. 4. 7. Tit. 3. 9.] avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes.

24. And [for] the Servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle to all men, apt to teach, patient:

25. In meekness instructing those that oppose themselves [to the Gospel,] if God [s] par- s adventure will give them Repentance to the acknowledgement of the Truth, [they contend now against.]

26. And that they may recover themselves [or awake] out of the snare of the Devil, who are [now] taken Captive by him at his Will, [Gr. εἰς τὸ ἐκείνου θέλημα, to the Performance of the Will of God; Penitents being turned from the Power of Satan unto God, Acts 26. 18. Col. 1. 13.].

Verſe 2. [a] Ἃ ἤκουσας παρ' ἐμοῦ, The things which thou haſt heard from me.] 'That Depoſitum, C. 1. 14. which I commit-'ted to thee, in the Publick Aſſembly, at thine 'Ordination, do thou alſo in like manner depo-'ſite with other faithful Men, that the Truth 'may be continued in an uninterrupted Suc-'ceſſion of ſuch Perſons: So Mr. Walker. The 'things agreed on, and conſented to by all 'the other Apoſtles, do thou commit to able 'Men, and appoint them as Biſhops of the ſe-'veral Churches under thee: So Dr. Hammond. I think there is no foundation for all this in the Text, no intimation that theſe things were taught him at his Ordination, or that they were things agreed on, and conſented to by all the Apoſtles; as if they had met, and conſulted about a Syſtem of Articles of Faith, and good Life, to be held by all that taught the Chriſtian Faith; or that God choſe this way to continue down the Faith in an uninterrupted Succeſſion, from Age to Age of ſuch Perſons; or that this was a Commiſſion to St. Timothy to appoint Biſhops under him in the ſeveral Churches of Aſia; for he doth not appoint him, as he did Titus, to Ordain Elders in every City, Chap. 1. 5. the Biſhops of Epheſus, and the adjacent Cities, being before not only appointed, but Convened by himſelf, Acts 20. 17, 28. The things which Timothy had heard confirm'd by many Witneſſes, ſeem to refer to Chriſt's Death, his Reſurrection, and Aſſenſion, which were matters of Teſtimony, and contained the Prime Doctrines which St. Paul delivered to the Churches, 1 Cor. 15. 3, 4. and which were confirmed by the Teſtimony of St. Paul, the Twelve Apoſtles, and Five Hundred Brethren, Ibid. v. 5, 6, 7, 8. Luke 24. 50, 51, 52. Or to the Myſtery of Godlineſs mentioned, 1 Tim. 3. 16. and teſtified in every part of it by Men, and Angels. I grant alſo, that the Apoſtle ſeems to refer to ſome Form of Doctrine deliver'd to them who receiv'd the Chriſtian Faith, when he ſpeaks of the Myſtery of Faith, and the Myſtery of Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 3. 9, 15, 16, Of the firſt Principles of the Oracles of God, Heb. 5. 12. and of the Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt, Chap. 6, 1, 2, 3, 4. enumerating them in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews; there being a Faith once, and at once delivered to the Saints, Jude 2. in which they were to ſtand faſt, and for which they were to contend, Philip. 1. 27. And that there was alſo a παραθήκη, or Depoſitum of Chriſtian Doctrine delivered to them who were to Preach, and Inſtruct others in the Faith; and which he Commands Timothy to keep, 1 Tim. 6. 20, 21. as being intruſted with it, in oppoſition to thoſe who had erred from the Faith, which he calls the Form of ſound words which he had been taught, and which he was to keep in Faith, and Love of the Truth, 2 Tim. 1. 13. and that good thing committed to him, v. 14. which he was to keep by the Holy Ghoſt, the Spirit which leadeth into all Truth, the Unction which taught them all things belonging to their Office, 1 John 2. 20, 27. the things in which he was to continue, knowing of whom he had learnt them, 2 Tim. 3. 14. I Laſtly grant, That all the Fathers, from Irenæus downwards, ſpeak of ſuch a Symbol of Faith delivered to the Church by the Apoſtles, and their Diſciples, which the Church received from them, and diſtributed to her Sons, being the one and the ſame Faith which the Church retained throughout the World, than which they believed neither leſs, nor more, and which for ſubſtance was the ſame with the Apoſtles Creed. This I have (a) elſewhere largely proved, and thence Demonſtrated the Falſhood of the whole Doctrine of the Church of Rome, and of her New Creed delivered as neceſſary to be believed unto Salvation: And if Obadiah Walker means no more, I ſhall not contend with him.

Ver. 4. [b] Ἐμπλέκεται ταῖς τοῦ βίου πραγματείαις, entangleth himſelf with the affairs of this World]. The Apoſtle here, by two plain Similitudes, requires Timothy, as a good Souldier, and Biſhop of the Church of Chriſt, and an Evangeliſt, not to engage himſelf in any Temporal affairs, or Secular Negotiations; of which the firſt is taken from the Compariſon of a Souldier, who was by the (b) Roman Laws, Armis, non privatis negotiis occupari, to be imploy'd wholly at his Arms, and not in any private buſineſs. The ſecond is taken from the Similitude of (c) Wreſtlers, who did not ſtrive according to the Laws, unleſs they Wreſtled naked, and put off all their Garments, and therefore could not win the Crown of Lawrel. Hence is that enquiry of St. Baſil, τίς στεφανοῦται ποτε ὁ μηδὲ ἀποδόντα πρὸς τὸν Ἀντίπαλον, who Crowns him who comes not Naked to his Adverſary? And thoſe Words of (d) St. Chryſoſtom, If thou art a Wreſtler, thou muſt come Naked to the Combat, Thou muſt put off the affairs of this Life, and be made a Wreſtler, diveſt thy ſelf of Worldly Cares, for it is the time of Conflict. Hence the Apoſtolical Canons declare, Can. 4. Thoſe Biſhops, Prieſts or Deacons ought to be Depoſed, who do κοσμικὰς φροντίδας ἀναλαμβάνειν, immerſe themſelves in Worldly Affairs. (e) Cyprian Repreſents it as a thing worthy of the Divine Judgments, that Biſhops, contemning the Office, became Proctors for Secular Affairs. And this Practice was Condemned by the General Council of (f) Chalcedon, Can. 2. 12. and by a Council of Carthage, as repugnant to theſe Words of the Apoſtle. And by the Council of Sardica, Can. 8. And even before St. Cyprian was Biſhop this was Eſtabliſhed in (g) Africa by Council, from this very Text, No Man that Warreth entangleth himſelf with the Affairs of this Life.

c Ver. 7. Δώη.] Other Manuſcripts read δώσει γὰρ, For the Lord will give thee underſtanding, &c.

d Ver. 8. Μνημόνευε, Remember] to maintain this againſt the unbelieving Jews, That Jeſus Chriſt, the Promiſed Meſſiah, of the Seed of David, not of Joſeph, was raiſed from the Dead, according to the Goſpel that I Preach, 1 Cor. 15.

e Ibid. Of the Seed of David.] It is certain, that the Jews, before our Saviours time, thought the Meſſiah, the Son of David, was not to die; and therefore, when Chriſt had told them he was to be lifted up, they Anſwer, We have heard out of the Law, that the Meſſiah abideth for ever, and how ſayeſt thou, that he muſt be lifted up? John 12. 34. And when firſt he tells his Diſciples of it, Peter began to rebuke him with an Abſit, This ſhall not be unto thee, Matth. 16. 22. When he tells them again of it, They underſtood not the Word, ſaith St. Mark, Chap. 9. 32. It was hid from them that they perceived it not, ſaith St. Luke, Chap 9. 45. And again, they underſtood none of theſe things, and this ſaying was hid from them; neither knew they the things which were ſpoken, 18. 34. Surely Chriſt's words were plain, They ſhall put him to Death; but they knew not how to reconcile them with their Received Doctrine, that he was to abide for ever, John 12. 34. And therefore, becauſe Iſaiah ſpeaks ſo plainly of a Meſſiah, who was to ſuffer Death, they invented a (h) Diſtinction betwixt Meſſiah of the Tribe of Ephraim, the Son of Joſeph, who was to die, and Meſſiah of the Tribe of Judah, the Son of David, who was to Reign, and Conquer, and never die; This Diſtinction is to be found in their Talmud, in the Targum upon the Canticles, Chap. 4. 5. Chap. 7. 3. in Bereſchit Rabba, in Gen. 49. 14. in R. Salomon, and Kimchi, on Zach. 12. 10. Now if this Invention obtained in the times of St. Paul, he might here have reſpect unto it; if not, becauſe in the Dialogue of Juſtin with Trypho we read nothing of it, their Notion that the Meſſiah of the Seed of David could not die, muſt be confuted by his Reſurrection from the Dead.

horribly falſe, Chriſt's preaching to the unbelieving Jews being intended for their Salvation, Joh. 3. 17. 12. 47. 5. 34, 40. For the blinded Jews the Apoſtle prays, and labours that they might be ſaved, Rom. 9. 1, 11, 14.

b Ver. 14. Μὴ λογομαχεῖν, that they ſtrive not about Words.] Here we learn (1.) what are the things which ought not to be Matters of Contention among Chriſtians. 1. Such things in which we differ from each other rather in Words, than Senſe, mean the ſame thing, but differ only in the expreſſing of our Sentiments. Which Rule obſerved, would put an end to many of our Controverſies. 2. Such Things as tend to little or no Profit, either as to Edification in the Faith, or edifying of the Body in Love, Eph. 4. 16. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 4. 1 Tim. 6. 3. Tit. 3. 9. Or by knowing which we may be the more learned, but not the better Chriſtians. Again, hence we learn why we ſhould not contend about ſuch things, viz. 1. Becauſe they tend to beget Strife, and Contentions, V. 23. 1 Tim. 1. 4. which divide Chriſtians into Parties, and diſſolve or obſtruct Chriſtian Charity. (2.) Becauſe they tend to the Diſturbance of the Hearers, they not knowing to which Party to adhere, and alſo to their Subverſion, cauſing them to doubt of the Truth of that Faith about which the contending Parties cannot agree.

i Ver. 15. Ὀρθοτομοῦντα τὸν λόγον, Rightly dividing, or handling the Word of Truth.] This Word ὀρθοτομεῖν is a Sacrifical Word, relating to the right dividing of the Sacrifice which was to be laid upon the Altar, by cutting off, and laying aſide thoſe Parts which were not to be offered, and ſevering them from thoſe that were; and to this Senſe St. Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, refer the Word here, ſaying, That he requires Timothy to ſeparate from the Preaching of the Word, all noxious and idle Queſtions, πάντα τὰ περιττὰ, all ſuperfluous things, and give his Hearers only the ſincere Milk of the Word; And this Senſe agrees well with the preceding, and the following Words. Others think it refers to the cutting out a ſtreight Path to walk in; and ſo it is an Admonition, ſaith Theodoret, to keep cloſe to the Truth of the Goſpel in all his Exhortations τῷ κανόνι τῶν θείων λόγων ἑπόμενος, following the Canon of the Holy Scriptures.

Ver. 17. Ὑμέναιος, &c. Hymenæus and k Philetus.] That theſe two were Gnoſtick Teachers none of the Ancients do inſinuate; nor did the Gnoſticks teach, that the Reſurrection was paſs'd already, but that the Fleſh was not fit to riſe; and that it was incapable of Salvation and of Incorruption. So (i) Irenæus often doth inform us, by ſaying, they deny the Salvation of the Fleſh, denying it to be capable of Incorruption; and with him agree (k) Pſeud-Ignatius, the Apoſtolical Conſtitutions, and others. (l) Valentinus who flouriſhed only A. D. 145. and ſo could not be touched at in theſe Words, was of the ſame Opinion, ſay all the Ancients. So that Tertullian muſt either be miſtaken, when ſpeaking of them who held the Reſurrection was paſt already, he adds, Id de ſe Valentiniani adſeverant, or means this not of Valentinus himſelf, whom he there numbers with thoſe qui Reſurrectionem carnis infringunt, who deny the Reſurrection of the Fleſh, but of ſome of his Followers. But then (m) Irenæus informs us, that this was part of the Hereſy of Menander, who taught, Reſurrectionem per id quod eſt in eum Baptiſma accipere ejus Diſcipulos, that his Diſciples obtained the Reſurrection by his Baptiſm, and ſo could die no more, but were to perſevere immortal. (n) Juſtin Martyr alſo, ſaith he, perſwaded his Diſciples, ὡς μὴ ἀποθνήσκειν, that they ſhould not die. He taught, ſaith (o) Timothy, Prieſt of Conſtantinople, that they who received his Baptiſm ſhould be immortal, ὡς μήκετι ἀποθνήσκειν, and ſhould never die. Now he was Contemporary to Simon Magus, and ſo might be alſo with St. Paul. See Note on 1 Cor. 15. 12, 44.

Ver. 19. Θεμέλιος τοῦ Θεοῦ, the Foundation l of God.] The Fundamental Doctrine of the Reſurrection to life Eternal, is ſo ſtyled in theſe Words, Let us not lay again τὸν θεμέλιον the Foundation of the Reſurrection of the Dead, Heb. 6. 1, 2. This is the faithful Saying, mentioned V. 11. which he exhorts Timothy to bring to their Remembrance, V. 14. and by denying which, ſaith he, the Chriſtian Faith is overturned, V. 18. But notwithſtanding all the vain bablings of Hymenæus, and Philetus, this Foundation, ſaith the Apoſtle, ſtandeth ſure.

Seal of my Apoſtleſhip are you in the Lord, 1 Cor. 9. 2. i. e. The Effects I have wrought upon you, and the Gifts of the Spirit imparted to you, prove the Truth of my Apoſtleſhip; And when he tells his Converts, that by the Spirit they were ſealed up to the Day of Redemption, 2 Cor 1. 22. 5. 5. Eph. 1. 13. 4. 30. and were eſtabliſhed in the Truth of the Goſpel: The Gifts of the Spirit they had already received, according to Chriſt's Promiſe, being a Confirmation of that glorious Redemption he had farther promiſed.

n Ibid. Ἔγνω κύριος τοὺς ὄντας αὐτοῦ, the Lord knoweth who are his.] i. e. He owns, and approves thoſe he hath commiſſioned to reveal his Mind to others; for this Expreſſion is taken from Numb. 16. 5. where Corah, Dathan and Abiram, riſe up againſt Moſes and Aaron, declaring they took too much upon them, in pretending the one to be their Prophet, and the Mouth of God to them; the other to be the High-Prieſt, whom God had Conſecrated to his Peculiar Service above all others of the Tribe of Levi. Now to this Imputation Moſes replies, according to the Septuagint, ἔγνω ὁ Θεὸς τοὺς ὄντας αὐτοῦ, God knoweth who are his, and by him ſeparated to his Service, and will maintain their Cauſe, and Calling againſt all Oppoſers, as in that Inſtance he did in a wonderful manner, cauſing the Earth to open, and ſwallow them up: So alſo will God own us his Apoſtles againſt Hymenæus and Philetus, and all that ſet up againſt us, and our Doctrine; as therefore Moſes ſaid then to the Iſraelites, Depart you from the Tents of thoſe Men, καὶ ἀπέστησαν, and they departed; ſo ſay I now to all Chriſtians, Let them depart from this Impiety, i. e. from theſe Pernicious Doctrines which increaſe to Ungodlineſs, and cauſe Men to make Shipwrack of Faith, and a good Conſcience.

So that theſe Words may thus be rendred, Let every one that names the Name of Chriſt depart from Falſhood; i. e. Let him preſerve himſelf from the pernicious Errors of theſe Apoſtates from the Truth.

Ver. 21. 12. Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer Persecution, [especially in such perilous times; and at all times, either openly, or secretly, from the Hatred, and Malice of wicked Men, or from their Taunts and Calumnies, which are styled Persecutions, Gal. 4. 29. Nor is it to be expected that it should be otherwise.]

13. But [& for] evil Men and [g] Seducers [Impostors] will [till the wrath of God takes hold upon them] wax worse and worse; deceiving and being deceived. g

14. But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned [from me,] and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them.

15. And that from a Child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise to Salvation, through Faith which is in Christ Jesus.

16. [h] All Scripture is given by Inspiration of God, and is [Gr. being inspired by God, is also] profitable for Doctrine [to teach us what we are to believe,] for reproof [or Conviction of Error] for Correction [and Reformation of Vice, and] for Instruction in [the way of] Righteousness. h

17. That the Man of God [or Teacher of it] may be perfect [both as to his own Practice, and his teaching others, and so] throughly furnished [not to this, or that only, but] to all good works [belonging to his Office.]

a Verses 5. Ἔσονται γὰρ ἄνθρωποι] That the Apostle here speaks of such Persons as were in being when this Epistle was indicted, is evident from his Command to Timothy, to turn away from them, and from the following Description of them.

That they were not the Gnosticks, or the followers of Simon Magus seems apparent; 1. Because Simon Magus could not make the Times perillous by any Opposition he could make to Christianity, he being a despicable, and beggarly Magician, of whose Power, or endeavour, to persecute the Christians, I remember not one word in Church-History applicable to the Times of this Epistle; but that the Jews were zealous Persecutors of them, not only in Judæa, but through all parts of the World, where they were dispersed, both Scripture, and Justin Martyr, fully testifie; and the supposed Combination betwixt the Jews, and Gnosticks, is not only groundless, but incredible: For what Accord could there be betwixt him who set up for a God, yea, for a Father over all, and them who were zealous for the true God, and hated Idolatry with a perfect hatred; or betwixt them who had the highest Veneration for the Law, and the Prophets, and him who taught, they were not at all to be regarded? (2dly.) Because the Jews had a form of knowledge, Rom. 2. 20. and a zeal for God, Rom. 9. 1. and a setled form of worshipping the true God; they were great Zealots for the observation of the Sabbath, and all the Sacrifices, and Institutions required by the Law of Moses; and served God frequently Day and Night, Acts 26. 7. and so they had a Form of Godliness, though not worshiping God in the Spirit, Philip 3. 3. but only with these Carnal Ordinances, they denied the Power thereof: But what form of Godliness do we find in Simon Magus, and his Followers, in the Times of the Apostles? What Profession of Christianity could he make, who set himself to oppose the Apostles, and the Doctrine which they taught? See a third Argument against this Exposition, v. 9.

But that these Characters agree to the Jews, and particularly to the Judaizing Christians, and false Teachers is evident from Scripture, and Church-History, and from the Writings of Josephus; for Rom. 1. 29, 30, 31. We have mention of Gentiles that were Covetous, Proud, Boasters, Disobedient to Parents, without natural Affection, Truce-breakers, Cruel, Unclean, Unthankful, v. 21. And Ch. 2. the Jew is condemned as doing the same things, and v. 22. 24.

as guilty of Adultery, and Blasphemy. They were Blasphemers, and false Accusers of the Apostles, as if they walked after the Flesh, 2 Cor. 10. 2. contradicting, and blaspheming Christianity, Acts 13. 45. they represented it to all the World, when it was first preached, as an (a) Atheistical Sect, and were the Authors of all the vile Stories which the Heathens objected against it: And in despising of the Apostles and Christians, they were despisers of those that were good. They were great Lovers and Admirers of themselves; Proud, Boasters, and High-minded, boasting of God as their Father, and of their knowledge of the Law, Rom. 2. 17, 23. magnifying themselves above others; see Note on 2 Cor. 11. 12, 20, glorying in their Circumcision, v. 18. and in their being of the Seed of Abraham, v. 22. Philip. 3. 5. and exalting themselves upon these Accounts above the Gentiles, whom they stiled Dogs, and Sons of the Earth, and uncircumcised, whilst they were the Noble, the Sons of God, and his beloved People. They were διάβολοι, contentious, and obey'd not the Truth, Rom. 2. 8. Philip. 1, 15, 16. They were covetous, perverting others for filthy lucre's sake, Tit. 1. 11. counting gain godliness, 1. Tim. 6. 5. minding earthly things, Philip. 3. 19. They were fierce, heady, cruel in their Persecutions of the Christians, 1 Thess. 2. 15, 16. They were Traytors and Truce-breakers in their Revoltings from the Roman Government. They were disobedient to their Parents in their Corban, Matth. 15. 5. and without natural Affection, not in that only, but in their Persecution of Christians of their own Family, and Blood, Luke 21. 16. They were unholy, and incontinent, defiled, and abominable, Tit. 1. 14, 15. in their Adulteries, and continual Divorces; Lovers of Pleasure, making their Belly their God, Philip. 3. 19. feasting luxuriously on their Sabbaths, and to Drunkenness in their Feast of Purim.

b Ver. 6. That these Perverters of Men from the Truth, and Creepers into Houses, were of the Circumcision, and addicted to Jewish Fables: See Tit. 1. 10, 11. 14.

c Ver. 8. Jannes and Jambres.] Though we have no mention of the Names of these Magicians in the Old Testament, yet were their Names Celebrated both among the Heathens, as (b) Pliny, and (c) Numenius inform us, who represent them as Egyptians skilled in the Art of Magick; and in the (d) Jewish Writings, who do not only say that they were Principes Præstigiatorum, The Chief of the Magicians, but also that they were the two Sons of Balaam, (e) Origen informs us, that there was a Book writ of them bearing this Title, Jannes & Mambres liber.

Ibid. Ἀδόκιμοι περὶ τὴν πίστιν, Reprobate concerning the Faith.] So they are stiled in Scripture, who, through their Resistance of, and Contentions against the Truth, are unworthy to have the Faith made known to them, or indisposed to receive it. Thus the Heathens, who, when they knew God, did not glorifie him as God, neither were thankful, Rom. 1. 22, 25. are therefore delivered up, εἰς νοῦν ἀδόκιμον, to a reprobate mind: And they here who resist the Truth, being Men of Corrupt Minds, are therefore reprobate concerning the Faith. See Note on 2 Cor. 13. 5. d

Ver. 9. Οὐ προκόψουσιν, they shall proceed no farther.] This agrees well with the Jewish false Doctors, who were soon disabled from carrying on their false Doctrines by the Destruction of Jerusalem, but not so well with the Gnostick Heretics who spread themselves wide in the Second Century. The Fancy of a Reverend Person, that St. Paul here Propheses, that as Jannes and Jambres perished in the Red Sea, so should Simon Magus at Rome, falling down head-long, when he was flying in the Air, perish at the Prayers of St. Peter and St. Paul, is in every part of it uncertain. For, e

1. Though the Jews tell us Jannes and Jambres were with Pharaoh at the Red Sea, they say not that they perished there, but say they rode with Balaam to meet Balak, and lived to the making of the Golden Calf, and then perished. Targ. Jon. in num. 22. 22.

2*dly*. I have shewn in the Preface to the Epistle to the Thessalonians. Sect. 6.

That the Story of Simon Magus's flying in the Air, in a Fiery Chariot, and thrown down by the Prayers of those two Apostles, in the sight of the People at Rome, is of no Credit among Learned Men.

Ver. 10. Παρηκολούθησας, Thou hast fully known.] Παρακολουθεῖν, Relatum ad animum est cognôvi, saith Constantine. So the Greek Commentators thought it here signified, rendering it οἶδας, μεμαθηκας ἀκριβῶς, thou hast known, thou hast learnt exactly, as the Word imports, Luke 1. 4. The Primary Sense of it, thou hast followed, or resembled me in my Persecutions, may also by applied to Timothy, who was in Bonds at Rome also, Heb. 13. 23. See the Note on 1 Tim. 6. 11. f

Impoſtors among the Jews continued till the very time of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, more and more deceiving the People, and that the whole Nation of the unbelieving Jews grew then to the higheſt pitch of wickedneſs, Joſephus fully teſtifies. See Notes on Rom. 2. 2. and 2 Theſſ. 2. 10.

h Ver. 16. Πᾶσα γραφὴ, all Scripture.] Here Note,

1. That the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, not of the New, muſt be the Scriptures here intended, they only being the Scriptures which Timothy had known from a Youth; that is, before the Scriptures of the New Teſtament were written; and ſo he could not ſpeak of the Scriptures, as interpreted by them who were then the Guides of the Church, viz. the Jewiſh Sanhedrim, or the Scribes, and Phariſees; ſeeing they ſo interpreted them as to make void the Commandments of God, and to deny our Saviour to be the promiſed Meſſiah.

2*dly*. Obſerve, That the Apoſtle doth not ſay that theſe Scriptures were of themſelves ſufficient to make Timothy wiſe to Salvation, but only that with Faith in Chriſt Jeſus they were ſufficient for that End. Now Faith in Chriſt Jeſus doth only ſignifie a firm belief that Jeſus was the Chriſt, the true Meſſiah, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World; as is evident from theſe words, This is Victory over the World, even our Faith, 1 Joh. 5. 4. i. e. our Belief that Jeſus is the Son of God, v. 5. See the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Galatians, §. 2. Hence then I argue for the Perfection of the Scriptures thus: If the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament were ſufficient to make a Man wiſe unto Salvation, provided only that he believed that Jeſus was the Chriſt, the Scriptures of the Old and the New Teſtament muſt much more be ſo, becauſe the Scriptures of the New Teſtament muſt needs more plainly, and fully contain the Faith and Duty of all Chriſtians, than the Scriptures of the Old only, can be ſuppoſed to do.

Obj. But, ſaith Eſthius, " If the Scriptures " of the Old Teſtament were ſufficient to " make Men wiſe unto Salvation, then there " is no need of the Goſpels, or of the Epiſtles of the New Teſtament.

Anſw. I anſwer, Yes, There was need of them, both to beget in Men, and to confirm this Faith in Chriſt, they being written that we might believe; and believing might have Life through his Name, John 20. 31. and alſo to give the Chriſtians of ſucceeding Ages, a more full, plain, and perſpicuous knowledge of thoſe things which were not ſo fully and plainly, to the Capacity of the meaneſt, to be learnt in the Old Teſtament. Thus, though the Five Books of Moſes ſufficiently contained the whole Jewiſh Law, it follows not that the Hiſtorical, and Prophetick Books, or the Hagiographa were ſuperfluous.

3. Obſerve that the Apoſtle ſaith, theſe Scriptures were therefore able to make Timothy, a Chriſtian Biſhop, wiſe to Salvation, becauſe they were profitable for Doctrine, to teach the Chriſtian all that he was to believe, πρὸς ἔλεγχον, for the Conviction of every Error in the Faith, for the Correction of every Vice they were obliged to eſchew, and for their Inſtruction in every way of Righteouſneſs; even ſo profitable for theſe Ends, as to make the Man of God perfect, i. e. wanting in nothing he ought to practiſe, or believe himſelf, or teach others, for the Edification of a Chriſtian into a perfect Man in Chriſt Jeſus, and to make him throughly furniſhed to every good Work. So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, upon the Place.

Falſe therefore here is the Note of Eſthius, that the Scriptures are here ſaid to be profitable, but not ſufficient to theſe Ends, vain is his Subterfuge, That the Apoſtle, by every good work, underſtands only ſingula Generum, every kind of good works, but not every good work of that kind, i. e. every work of Faith, and inſtruction in Righteouſneſs: For if theſe good works be requiſite to make the Man of God perfect, and throughly furniſhed for his Office, they muſt be here included, if they be not, they muſt be needleſs in order to the Diſcharge of it.

of the Lion.

18. And the Lord [q] ſhall [will] deliver q me from every evil work, and will preſerve me to his heavenly Kingdom, to whom [therefore] be Glory for ever and ever. Amen.

19. Salute Priſcilla and Aquila, and the Houſhold of Oneſiphorus. [See Note on Chap. 18.]

20. [r] Eraſtus abode at Corinth, but Tro- r

21. Do thy Diligence to come before Winter: Eubulus greeteth thee, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the Brethren.

22. The Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with thy Spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

Annotations on Chapter IV.

a Verſe 1. Κατὰ τὴν ἐπιφάνειαν αὐτοῦ, καὶ τὴν βασιλείαν αὐτοῦ, at his Appearance, and his Kingdom.] 'This Appearance, 'ſaith Mr. Mede, is the Appearance of Chriſt; 'the Word ἐπιφάνεια always importing 'Chriſt's Advent, who after the Reſurrection 'and the Judgment of the Quick and Dead, 'muſt give up his Mediatory Kingdom to 'the Father, it therefore muſt ſignifie ſome 'other Kingdom, proper to Chriſt's ſecond 'coming; and what can that be, but the 'Kingdom of the Millennium? But

1. This Appearance of Chriſt is his Glorious Appearance, when we ſhall receive the Bleſſed Hope, i. e. the Eternal Happineſs we hope for, Tit. 2. 13. When we ſhall appear with him in Glory, Coloſ. 3. 4. When we ſhall be made like unto him, and ſee him as he is, 1 John 3. 2. Which cannot be expected till after this ſuppoſed Millennium. It is the ſame with the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt from Heaven, 2 Theſ. 1. 7. His Glorious Revelation, 1 Pet. 4. 13. And with his παρουσία, or Second Coming, which is a Coming with all his Saints, 2 Theſ. 3. 13. A Coming of our Lord from Heaven, 1 Theſ. 4. 15. 16. Now Mr. Mede himſelf confeſſes, that he dares not ſo much as imagine that the Preſence of Chriſt in the Millennary Kingdom would be viſible upon Earth: For the Kingdom of Chriſt ſaith he, p. 603. ever hath, and ſhall be Regnum Cœlorum, a Kingdom whoſe Throne and Kingly Reſidence is in Heaven. And, Thirdly, at this Appearance, and this Kingdom, ſaith the Apoſtle, he ſhall Judge the Quick and the Dead; not the Dead only, but the quick and Dead; not ſome of them only, but all of them without exception. Now the Judgment of the Dead is to be after the Concluſion of the ſuppoſed Millennium, Rev. 20. 12.

2. Tho' Christ will, after the Judgment of the Quick and Dead is compleated, give up his Mediatory Kingdom, yet since that very Judgment consists in Retribution of his final Punishments upon his Enemies, and Crowning of his Loyal Subjects with Eternal Glory, which are the two chief Acts of Kingly Government, and the very end for which all Power was committed to him, John 17. 2. it very properly is stiled his Kingdom. And tho' he shall then deliver up this Kingdom, as it is a Kingdom which respects the Rewarding of his Servants, and the Punishment of his Enemies, when the first shall be Crowned with Eternal Glory, and the last Doom'd to Endless Punishments; yet shall he still continue to be King of Saints, highly exalted above them in Honour, and Dignity, and Honoured still by them with Religious Respect, and Veneration

c Ver. 4. Ἐπὶ τοὺς μύθους, To Fables.) To the Fabulous Divinity of the Gnosticks, made up of Gentilism, and Judaism, say some; but it doth not appear that the Fabulous Divinity of the Gnosticks, mentioned by Irenæus, was then hatch'd; 'Tis far more probable that he here speaks of the Jewish Doctors, and their Fabulous Traditions; for in his first Epistle he saith he left Timothy at Ephesus, that he might charge some among them not to teach other Doctrines, nor to give heed to Fables, and endless Genealogies, 1 Tim. 1. 3. 4. which, as it relates to the Genealogies of the Jews, touching their Tribes, their Relation to the House of David, and their Traditionary Men, See the note there; So, v. 7. the Apostle plainly tells us they were teachers of the Law, which Simon, and his Followers, said, was not to be regarded. And in his Epistle to Titus, he sends a like Exhortation to him, to preserve the Cretians from giving heed to Jewish Fables, Tit. 1. 14. and Doctrines of Men that turn from the Truth; which the Gnosticks, who never sincerely embraced the Truth, could not do; and to avoid foolish Questions, and Genealogies, and Contentions, καὶ μάχας νομικὰς, and quarrels about the Law, as being unprofitable and vain, Chap. 3. 9.

d Ver. 8. Ἐν ἐκείνῃ τῇ ἡμέρᾳ, at that Day] The Council of Florence hath defined, That pure and cleansed Souls, when they quit the Body, are presently received into Heaven, and there have a clear Vision of the Holy Trinity. And the Trent Council, Sess. 25. hath laid this as the Foundation of the Invocation of Saints, departed, that they do now cum Christo regnare, & æterna fœlicitate in Cœlo frui, reign with Christ, and enjoy eternal felicity in Heaven. But in this they seem to deviate from Scripture, and the Primitive Antiquity. I say, from Scripture: For,

1. Charity is Represented by St. Paul as the most excellent of Christian Vertues, and therefore that which will obtain the highest Recompence; and yet the Motive by which our Lord excites us to perform it runneth thus, Thou shalt be Recompenced at the Resurrection of the Just, Luke 14. 14.

2. To those who suffer Death, and Persecution for the Name of Christ, our Lord hath promised a great Reward in Heaven, Matth. 5. 12. but this Reward will only be conferred upon them, at the Revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ from Heaven with his mighty Angels, 2 Thess. 1. 7. The Trial of their Faith shall be found to Praise, Glory, and Honour, ἐν τῇ ἀποκαλύψει, at the Revelation of Jesus Christ, 1 Pet. 1. 17. Then they, who Communicate with him in Sufferings, shall Rejoyce with him, ἐν τῇ ἀποκαλύψει, at the Revelation of his Glory, 1 Pet. 4. 13. Till then, the Souls of them who were slain for the Word of God, are Represented as under the Altar, Rev. 6. 9.

3. To those who feed the Flock of Christ a great Reward is Promised, even a never fading Crown of Glory; but it is to be Received then only, When the Great Shepherd doth appear, 1 Pet. 5. 4. A Reward is to be rendred to the Servants of God, the Saints and Prophets; but it is to be rendred when the Time comes that the Dead shall be Judged, Rev. 11. 18. The Apostles are to have their Mansions in Heaven with Christ, but not till he comes again from Heaven; for then, saith he, I will receive you to my self, that where I am, you may be also, John 14. 2, 3.

4. The Retribution to every man according to his Works is also to be made at the same time; for the Son of Man will come in the Glory of his Father, with his Holy Angels; and then will he render to every Man according to his Works, Matth. 16. 27. At the End of the World shall the Righteous shine as the Sun, in the Kingdom of their Father, Matth. 13. 40, 43. This shall be done in the day when God shall judge the secrets of Men's Hearts, Rom. 2. 15. and when we shall appear before the Judgment Seat of Christ, 2 Cor. 5. 12. Rev. 22. 10.

5. Hence in the Scripture, the Time of Recompence, and the Time of Judgment, are Represented as the same; as in these Words, The time is come that the Dead should be judged, and that thou shouldst give Rewards to thy Servants the Prophets and to the Saints, Rev. 11. 18. The Time of Glory, and of the Apparition of our Lord; as in these Words, When Christ, who is our Life, shall appear, then shall you appear with him in Glory, Colos. 3. 4. The time of Christs Appearance, and of our Salvation; for, He shall appear a Second Time without Sin, unto Salvation, Heb. 9. 28. The Time of his Appearing, and of our Beatifick Vision; for, When he doth appear,

we ſhall be like him; for we ſhall ſee him as he is, 1 John 3. 2.

6. Hence Chriſtians are ſo often ſaid to expect the Adoption of the Sons of God, viz. the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, Rom. 8. 23. To expect the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Cor. 1. 7. To expect the Son of God from Heaven, 1 Theſ. 1. 10. To expect the Bleſſed Hope, and Glorious Appearance of the Great God, and our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, Tit. 2. 14. To hope for the Grace that ſhall be given them at the Revelation of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Pet. 1. 13.

Now let it be obſerved that the Body, compared to the Soul, is the vileſt, and leaſt conſiderable Part of Man; and therefore the Hope, the Glory, the Reward, Inheritance, Adoption, Bliſs and Happineſs, reſerved to the time of the Reſurrection, cannot Reſpect the Body only. Moreover the Apoſtle ſaith of the Inceſtuous Perſon, That his Body was delivered up to Satan, for the Deſtruction of the Fleſh, that his Soul might be Saved in the Day of the Lord Jeſus, 1 Cor. 5. 5. Which ſhews that the Compleat Salvation of the Soul is then to be Expected.

As for the Judgment of Primitive Antiquity in this Matter, it may be learnt from theſe Conſiderations:

1. That they Aſcribe this Opinion of the Soul's immediate Aſcent to Heaven, and it's Enjoyment of God's immediate Preſence after Death, to the Hereticks of thoſe times, Repreſenting it as proper to the Followers of Valentinus, Baſilides and Marcion, and after them, as a part of the Hereſie of the Manichees. Thus Juſtin Martyr ſpeaking of thoſe who were called Chriſtians, but Blaſphemed the God of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, he ſaith, in his Dialogue with Trypho, p. 307. 253. they deny'd the Reſurrection, and held ἅμα τῷ ἀποθνήσκειν, τὰς ψυχὰς αὐτῶν ἀναλαμβάνεσθαι εἰς τὸν οὐρανόν, that as ſoon as they died their Souls were Received into Heaven. Irenæus ſaith in like manner, (a) That the Hereticks deſpiſed the formation of God, i. e. the Body formed by him, and not Receiving [the Doctrine of] the Salvation of the Fleſh, ſimul atque mortui fuerint dicunt ſe ſupergredi Cœlos & Demiurgum, & ire ad Matrem, vel ad eum qui ipſis affingitur Patrem, ſay, That as ſoon as they are Dead, they Aſcend above the Heavens, and go to him whom they call their Father: And having ſaid, That our Lord's Soul went not to Heaven, but continued in the Place of the Dead till the Reſurrection, he ſaith, This is ſufficient to Confound thoſe Men, qui dicunt interiorem hominem ipſorum derelinquentem hoc Corpus in ſupercœleſtem aſcendere locum, who ſay, that their inward Man, leaving the Body here, Aſcends to the Super-celeſtial Manſions. And then he gives the Orthodox Opinion thus, (b) It is manifeſt that the Souls of the Diſciples of our Lord ſhall go into the inviſible Place, appointed for them by God, expecting the Reſurrection, and then Receiving their Bodies, and Riſing with them as our Lord did, ſhall come into the Preſence of God. Tertullian having produced the ſame Inſtance of the Death of Chriſt, and the Continuance of his Soul apud inferos till the Reſurrection of the Body, he poſitively concludes, that (c) Nulli patet Cœlum, terra adhuc ſalva, cum tranſactione enim Mundi reſerabuntur regna Cœlorum, Heaven is opened to none, whilſt the Earth remains, the Kingdom of Heaven being only to be opened at the Diſſolution of the World. And in his Fourth Book againſt Marcion he ſaith, (d) The Boſom of Abraham, which is higher than the Inferi, but not ſo high as Heaven, is that which gives refreſhment to the Souls of the Juſt, till the Conſummation of all things, produce the Reſurrection of all with a full Reward.

The Manichees, who alſo denied the Reſurrection of the Body, contended; that good Souls had their whole Reward immediately after Death, becauſe Chriſt promiſed to the Thief, that he ſhould be that day with him in Paradiſe. To which Objection, St. Chryſoſtom Anſwers by Conceſſion, that the Thief was indeed admitted to Paradiſe; but then he adds, that Paradiſe was not the ſame with Heaven, μὴ γὰρ ταὐτόν ἐστι τὰ ἀγαθὰ ἅπερ ὁ θεὸς ἡμῖν ἐπαγγέλλεται, for it contains not the good things which God hath promiſed to us; and then concludes, That if God Promiſed the Kingdom of Heaven, and only brought the Thief into Paradiſe, οὐδέπω ἀπέδωκεν αὐτῷ τὰ ἀγαθὰ, he hath not yet given to him the good Things Promiſed.

2. That they expreſly Teach that the Souls of good Men remain till the day of Judgement, in a certain Place, extra Cœlum beatorum, out of Heaven expecting the Day of Judgment, and of Retribution. Thus (e) Justin Martyr saith that no Souls Die, but τὰς μὲν τῶν εὐσεβῶν ἐν κρείττονί τινι χώρῳ μένειν, τὰς δ' ἀδίκους καὶ πονηρὰς ἐν χείρονι, τ' δ' μέσους ἐκδεχομένας κρίσιν, that the Souls of good Men remain in a better Place, the Souls of bad Men in a worse, expecting the Day of Judgment. (f) Irenæus gives us the Tradition of the Church, touching this Matter thus, The Presbyters, who were the Disciples of the Apostles, say, those that were Translated, were carried into Paradise; for that Place is prepared for Just Men, and such as have the Spirit, and there they remain, till the Consummation, expecting, or beginning Immortality; and that there shall be New Heavens, and New Earth, and then, οἱ μὲν καταξιωθέντες τ' ἐν οὐρανῷ διατρίβης ἐκεῖσε χωρήσουσιν, They that are worthy of the Celestial Mansions shall go thither. (g) Tertullian having cited those Words of the Apostle, And the God of Peace Sanctify you throughout, in Body, Soul, and Spirit, and keep you unblameable to the coming of the Lord, 1 Thes. 5. 23. saith thus, Habes omnem substantiam hominis salutî destinatam, nec alio tempore quam in adventu Domini, qui clavis est Resurrectionis, Here you see the whole substance of Man designed for Salvation, nor at any other time but the appearance of our Lord, who is the Key of the Resurrection. There is a Place saith (h) Novatian, quo piorum animæ, impiorumque ducuntur futuri Judicii præjudicia sententes, whither the Souls of good and wicked Men are carried, having some Foretasts of their future Judgment. And (i) Caius, a Presbyter of the Church of Rome, saith, that Just Souls, being celebrated by the Angels placed over them, ἄγονται εἰς χωρίον φωτεινὸν ἐν ᾧ οἱ ἀπ' ἀρχῆς δίκαιοι πολιτεύονται, are led by them into a place of Light, called the Bosom of Abraham, where the Just from the beginning have been, where they are delighted with the Vision of the Just Fathers, expecting τὴν μετὰ τοῦτο χωρίον ἀνάπαυσιν, καὶ αἰώνιον ἀναβίωσιν ἐν οὐρανῷ, after this Place, their Rest and Everlasting Habitation in Heaven. Let no Man think, saith (k) Lactantius, Animas post mortem protinus judicari, That Souls are forthwith Judged after Death, they are all held in one common Custody, till the Time may come that the Great Judge shall make a Tryal of their Merits. See Dall. de Pœn. & Satisf. l. 5. c. 3, 4, 5, 6.

Ver. 10. Ἀγαπήσας τ' νῦν αἰῶνα, having loved this present World,] He doth not say that Demas had forsaken the Christian Religion, or that he betook himself to his own Secular Affairs, forsaking his Attendance on the Service of God in the Church, or prefer'd the things of this Life before those of a Future, but as the Ancients do Expound the Words, he left the Apostle in this time of Danger, consulting the safety of his own Life; for ὁ νῦν αἰὼν, in the Scripture Phrase, still signifies this present Life; so οἱ πλούσιοι ἐν τῷ νῦν αἰῶνι, are those that are Rich in this Life, 1 Tim. 6. 17. To live Soberly, Righteously, and Godlily, ἐν τῷ νῦν αἰῶνι, is to do it in this present Life; See Mark 10. 30. 1 Tim. 4. 8. He seems therefore only to say of him here what he says of others, v. 16. In my first Apology no Man stood by me, but all left me.

Ver. 11. Luke.] Hence it appears that Luke must be alive at the Twelfth or Thirteenth of Nero, when this Epistle was endited.

Ibid. Εὔχρηστος εἰς διακονίαν, he is profitable for the Ministery.] i. e. For the Work of an Evangelist, v. 5. As St. Peter, being shortly to put off his Tabernacle, was the more diligent in giving Instructions to the Churches of the Jews, 2 Pet. 1. 13, 14. So was St. Paul, now in Bonds, in sending his Messengers to the Churches of the Gentiles, v. 10, 12.

Ver. 12. To Ephesus.] Hence it is evident, that Timothy, at the Writing of this Epistle, was not at Ephesus; For if so, Why should the Apostle Advertise him, that he had sent Tychicus thither?

Ver. 13. τὸν φελόνην, the Cloak.] Or rather, the Roll; for, φαιλόνη, saith Phaverinus, is εἱλητάριον μεμβράνον, a Parchment rolled up, φελόνη εἵλητον τομάριον μεμβρανον, a folded Vellum, or Parchment. And Hesychius saith the same.

Ibid. Ὃν ἀπέλιπον ἐν τρωάδι, which I left at Troas.] Not when he went from Troas to Assos, in his Journey to Jerusalem; for then, saith Bishop Pearson, he could have no cause to leave any thing of moment with him, having so many that accompanied him in that Journey, Acts 20. 4, 6. and a Ship still attending on them, v. 13. but in his Travels after he was set at Liberty, and had left Rome.

Ibid. Ἐρχόμενος, Coming.] Probably from thence; for he does not bid him send thither for them, or go thither to fetch them, whence it follows, that St. Timothy was then at Troas when this Epistle was directed to him.

m Ver 14. Ἀποδώῃ,] The King's Manuſcript reads ἀποδώσει, will, or ſhall Reward him. So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, on the Place. For after that he was ſet at Liberty, whereas after this he is ſtill a Priſoner; Chap. 1. 8. and 2. 9. moreover Timothy was then with him at Rome, as appears from the Salutations then ſent to the Churches of Philippi, Chap. 1. 1. and Coloſ. 1. 1. from St. Paul and Timothy, yea he was a Priſoner there even after that St. Paul was ſet at Liberty, and ſo needed not to be taught how things went with the Apoſtle then. He therefore calls this his firſt Apology, or Defence, becauſe, after he had made it, he was ſtill kept in Bonds, Chap. 1. 8. and 2. 9. and ſo reſerved for another Hearing. He eſcaped then, ſays (l) Chryſoſtom, and Oecumenius; But when he Inſtructed Nero's Butler, or Cup-Bearer, in the Faith, he was cut off.

o Ver. 17. Παρέστη, ſtood by me.] In a Viſion to Comfort and Support me, as Acts 18. 9. So ἐπιστὰς is uſed, Acts 23. 11. and Παρέστη, Acts 27. 23. or, to give me a Mouth and Wiſdom, according to his Promiſe, Luke 12. 12. and 21. 14, 15.

Ver. 18. Καὶ ῥύσεταί με, and will deliver me.] If he will deliver him, ſaith Chryſoſtom, why ſaith he, I am now offered? Mark therefore his Words, he ſaith not, he will again deliver me out of the mouth of the Lion; but only that he will preſerve me from every evil work, and to his Heavenly Kingdom. q

Ver. 20. That St. Paul was in Bonds, when he Writ this Epiſtle, and that at Rome, he himſelf ſaith, Chap 1. 8, 17. Now this Verſe affords Two Arguments, to prove he could not be then in his firſt Bonds. 1*ſt.* From theſe Words, Eraſtus abode at Corinth; when was it, when St. Paul went from Corinth to go to Jeruſalem? Then Timothy accompanied him, at leaſt as far as Aſia, and ſo needed not to be told that from Rome ſo long after: It therefore muſt refer to the time when, ſaith the Reverend Biſhop Pearſon, St. Paul went from Nicopolis to Corinth, A. D. 65, and the 12th. of Nero. 2*dly.* From theſe Words, Trophimus have I left at Miletum, ſick; Now this cannot relate to the time when St. Paul went to Miletus, near Epheſus, Acts 20. 17. for as Timothy was then with him, Acts 20. 4. 15. ſo was not Trophimus then left at Miletum, but carried up thence with St. Paul to Jeruſalem, Acts 21. 29. Nor did St. Paul ever return thither; Acts 20. 25. He muſt be therefore left at Miletus in Crete, where St. Paul was, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, after his firſt Bonds, *A. THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle of St. PAUL to TITUS.

Sect. 1. THAT St. Paul was at Crete, we learn from these Words of this Epistle to Titus, I left thee in Crete: When he went thither is uncertain. Dr. Lightfoot conjectures that he touched there when he went from Macedonia to Greece, Acts 20. 2. For, saith he, If we consider that after their parting at Ephesus, when Titus was sent to Corinth with his First Epistle to them, they never met till Titus cometh up to him, when he was come from Ephesus to Macedonia, 2 Cor. 7. 5, 6. We may thence learn, that in that first Journey to Macedonia, he left him not at Crete, because Titus and he were not yet met again after their parting at Ephesus; and yet, at his second Return thither, he had not only left him there, but Writes to him to come thence to Nicopolis, bordering on Macedonia, Chap. 3. 12. So that this Epistle, saith he, must be writ in his Return, or at his coming thither, A. D. 55. and not from Nicopolis, as the Postscript dates it; for he saith not, I have determined to winter ἐνταῦθα, here, but ἐκεῖ, there; which shews he was not yet come thither.

Sect. 2. But that it could not be Written at that time, the Learned Bishop Pearson proves, not only from the Silence of St. Luke in that very Chapter, where he so particularly enumerates all St. Paul's Journeys, after he came from Ephesus, till his Arrival at Jerusalem, without the least mention of his being at Crete; but saith expressly, that, διελθὼν, passing through those Parts, [viz. of Macedonia,] and exhorting them with many Words, he came to Achaia, representing him still in transitu, and as passing immediately from Macedonia to Greece, not going from Macedonia farther beyond it than was to it, and then returning back to Greece, as he must have done had he gone from Macedonia to Crete, and so to Achaia. 2dly. This Opinion he more demonstratively confutes from these Words, Chap. 3. 12. When I send to thee Artemas, or Tychicus, make haste to come unto me, to Nicopolis, for I have determined there to Winter; for besides that, Artemas, before his going to Jerusalem, seems not to have join'd St. Paul, and Tychicus then was part of his Retinue, there is not any mention of St. Paul's going to Nicopolis, in the whole History of his Journey to Jerusalem; nor is it possible he should then determine to winter at Nicopolis, who being at Philippi, in the Days of unleavened Bread, made all the haste he could to be at Jerusalem before Pentecost, Acts 20. 6, 16. See more to this purpose, Dissert. 1. De Succes. prim. Romæ Episc. c. 9. §. 7. He therefore places St. Paul's Journey to Crete after his Freedom from his Bonds at Rome, A. D. 63. and the 10th. of Nero, and saith that this Epistle was written the Year following: That it was writ after his Freedom from the Bonds, in which he was, from his going to Jerusalem, till his Freedom at Rome, he gathers from this Note of (a) Chrysostom, and Theophylact, that the Apostle seemeth to have been then at ease, as making no mention in it of his Bonds, or his Temptations, as he doth in his Epistle to the Ephesians, Chap. 3. 1. and 4. 1. to the Philippians, Chap. 1. 7, 13, 14. to the Colossians, Chap. 4. 18. to Philemon, v. 1. 9. and in his Second Epistle to Timothy, Chap. 1. 8. and 2. 9. That after his Freedom he determined to go to Philippi in Macedonia, he himself intimates, Philip. 1. 26. and 2. 24. And this, saith Bishop Pearson, he did in the 12th. of Nero, in which Year he wrot this Epistle. And that he writ it a little after he had been at Crete, may be gathered from those Words, 2 Tim. 4. 20. Trophimus have I left at Miletum, sick; which cannot be understood of Miletus near near Ephesus, mention'd Acts 20. 17. for from thence he carried him to Jerusalem, Acts 21. 29. never returning thither, Acts 20. 25. He must be therefore left sick at Miletus in Crete, mentioned by (b) Homer and by (*) Strabo.

Sect. 3. It is the Opinion of all the Ancient Commentators upon this Epistle, that Titus was left in Crete, not only to Ordain Bishops in every City, and Deacons to Minister to them, but also to Rebuke sharply, and with Authority, unruly Walkers; And this Epistle was writ to him, say the (c) Ancients, to make him watchful over, and to oppose himself against the Jews and Judaizers in that Island, as many Passages in this Epistle do sufficiently demonstrate.

Sect. 4. But the great Controversie concerning this, and the Epistle to Timothy, is, whether Timothy and Titus were indeed made Bishops, the one of Ephesus and the Proconsular Asia, the other of Crete, having Authority to make, (d) ἐξ τοσέτων ἐπισκόπων κρίσιν, and Jurisdiction over so many Bishops as were in those Precincts. Now of this Matter, I confess I can find nothing in any Writer of the first three Centuries, nor any Intimation that they bore that Name: But this Defect is abundantly supplied by the concurrent Suffrage of the Fourth and Fifth Centuries. For,

1*st. As for St.* Timothy, he is styled Bishop of Ephesus by (e) Eusebius, and that with a Respect to former Histories; and the same he saith of Titus. And the Council of (f) Chalcedon reckons from Timothy to their Time twenty seven Bishops. The (g) Anonymous Author of his Life, in Photius, makes him Bishop of the Metropolis of Ephesus, with seven Assistants; and either he, or Photius, say, that he was Constituted Bishop by St. Paul; and the (h) Apostolical Constitutions say the same, as do also (i) St. Jerom, and all the Ancient Commentators on his Epistles.

2*dly. That* Titus had τὴν νῆσον ὁλόκληρον, the whole Island of Crete committed to his Care, is testified not only by Eusebius, but also by St. Jerom in his Catalogue, by St. Ambrose, Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, in the Preface to this Epistle, to omit many others cited by Dr. Cave in the Life of Titus, p. 58, 59. Now to pass my Judgment in this Case.

1*st. I assert, that if by saying* Timothy and Titus were Bishops, the one of Ephesus, the other of Crete, we understand that they took upon them those Churches or Dioceses, as their fixed and peculiar Charge, in which they were to preside for Term of Life, I believe that Timothy and Titus were not thus Bishops. For,

1*st. Both* Timothy and Titus were Evangelists, and therefore were to do the Work of an Evangelist: Now the Work of an Evangelist, saith (k) Eusebius, was this, to lay the Foundations of the Faith in barbarous Nations, to Constitute them Pastors, and having committed to them the Cultivating of those new Plantations, they pass'd on to other Countries and Nations.

2*dly. As for* Titus, he was only left at Crete to Ordain Elders in every City, and to set in order the things that were wanting; having therefore done that Work, he had done all that was assign'd him in that Station: And therefore St. Paul sends for him the very next Year to Nicopolis, Tit. 3. 12. And so, according to Bishop Pearson's Chronology, he was left at Crete only, A. D. 64. and sent for thence, A. D. 65. and returned thither, as the Ancients conjecture, after the Death of St. Paul: For, (l) they say, he died in the 94*th. Year of his Age, and was buried in* Crete.

As for Timothy, St. Paul saith, he exhorted him to abide at Ephesus when he went into Macedonia: Now, as he writes to the Church of Philippi in Macedonia, A. D. 62. and the 9*th. of* Nero, that he hoped to be shortly with them, Philip. 1. 25, 26. and 2. 24. So, saith Bishop Pearson, he went thither, A. D. 64. and the 11*th. of* Nero, and writ his first Epistle to him, A. D. 65. Two Years after this, he sends for him to Rome, 2 Tim. 4. 9, 21. and there he continued, as the Ancients conjecture, till the Martyrdom of St. Paul; after which time time he must, as they suppose, return to Ephesus: For they tell us, that in the Reign of Domitian he was Martyr'd in that City, and lay buried there. But since we read not any thing in Scripture of their Return to either of these Places afterwards, and the Authorities on which this Return dependeth are not very Ancient, we cannot much depend upon them.

Prop. 2. But if by Bishops we only understand Persons who had Authority to Ordain, and to Govern the Clergy of their Province, and to exercise Acts of Discipline, and Censure, over more than one single Congregation, I believe both Timothy and Titus had this Episcopal Jurisdiction, and so might properly be stiled Bishops. For,

1*st. That the Jurisdiction of* Titus extended to all the Christians in the whole Island of Crete, is apparent from these Words, for this Cause left I thee in Crete, that thou mightest set in order the things that are wanting, and Ordain Elders in every City, Tit. 1. 5. Hence is he said to have received the Episcopal Care, τῆς ὅλης Κρήτης ἐκκλησιῶν, of the Churches in Crete, and to have had the whole Island committed to him.

And if the Church of Ephesus, committed to the Care of Timothy, did not exceed the Compass of one particular Congregation, St. Paul had very little Success in the great Pains he took for three whole Years to teach them publickly; and from House to House, exhorting every one of them Night and Day, Acts 20. 20, 31. Whereas St. Paul himself informs us, that at Ephesus a great Door, and effectual, was open'd to him; 1 Cor. 16. 8, 9. St. Luke, that all that dwelt in Asia heard the Word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Gentiles; that the Word of God prevailed, and grew mightily, and that fear fell upon them all, and the Name of the Lord Jesus was magnified, Acts 19. 10, 17, 20. But that which puts this Matter beyond doubt, is the Observation of the Learned Bishop Stillingfleet, That the Elders St. Paul sends for to Miletus, were all of Ephesus, and to them he committs not only the Church of Ephesus, but all the Flock over which the Holy Ghost had made them Overseers, i. e. all that had been Converted in Asia, through his means, during his abode there three Years. Irenæus indeed saith, he summon'd them from the Neighbouring Cities as well as Ephesus: But, saith he, St. Paul was in so great haste, that he would not so much as go to Ephesus, nor send any whither but to that City; and yet those to whom he committed the whole Flock, then in Asia, came from Ephesus to Miletus: Which makes it probable, that there St. Paul had raised a Nursery for the Churches thereabout, as Clemens observes the Apostles were wont to do in fruitful Soils, with a Prospect of such Churches as were to be formed, τῶν μελλόντων πιστεύειν, of those that should after believe; and the same St. Clement observing that they did this, δοκιμάσαντες τῷ πνεύματι, making Trial of them by their spiritual Gifts, he very probably conjectures, that the twelve Persons, who, when he laid his Hands upon them, received the Holy Ghost, and spake with Tongues, and Prophesied, Acts 19. 6, 7. being thus qualified in an extraordinary manner, to be Teachers of others, might be in the number of those Elders whom St. Paul charges to take heed to themselves, and to all the Flock over which the Holy Ghost had made them Overseers, v. 28.

As to the Jurisdiction belonging to them in their several Districts, it is also manifest concerning Timothy, that he was set over the House of God, 1 Tim. 3. 14, 15. That in that House he was to ordain, and lay Hands on the Elders to be chosen to that Office, Chap. 5. 22. to chuse such to the Episcopal Office, or to the Office of Elders, who were duly qualified for that Work, Chap. 3. 2, 7. to admit and consecrate others to the Office of Deacons, v. 8. to take Widows into the number of Deaconnesses, under such Qualifications, and to refuse others, Chap. 5. 9. 11. to receive Accusations against the Elders, Chap. 5. 19. and to rebuke them, v. 20. Which plainly shews there was a Right of Judging and Censuring Offenders in Timothy, by virtue of his Office. He had Power also to order the Maintenance of the Elders, v. 17. to take care that the Publick Offices of Divine Worship were performed regularly, Chap. 2. 1, 8. to charge others not to teach any other Doctrine than what they had received, Chap. 1. 3. to command and teach with Authority, Chap. 4. 11. and not to suffer others to despise his Authority, v. 12. And all these things seem plainly to belong to the Trust committed to him, Chap. 6. 20.

And as for Titus, 'tis certain he was left in Crete, by St. Paul, to set in order the things which were wanting, Chap. 1. 5. and in order to this end, to inspect the Qualifications of them who were to be admitted to the Episcopal Office, v. 7. and so to ordain Elders in every City. And he was also to admonish and reject Hereticks Chap. 3. 10.

Now I confess, that these two Instances, absolutely taken, afford us no convincing Arguments for a settled Diocesan Episcopacy, because there is nothing which proves they did, or were to exercise these Acts of Government, rather as Bishops than Evangelists; for it is certain that the Order of Evangelists was superiour to that of Governments, and so included an Authority to do those Acts of Government which belonged to Bishops. Accordingly, in those Places where these Evangelists preached, they did (m) ποιμένας καθίσαντα, constitute Pastors, Paſtors, and then went on to preach in other places. Yet theſe Things evidently follow hence;

1. That ſuch Superiority over other Paſtors cannot be contrary to the Goſpel-Rule; or that the Nature of Church-Government doth not imply an Equality among the Governors of it: And that the Apoſtles, if they pleaſed, might have fixed Perſons in any other Churches, to exerciſe theſe Acts of Eccleſiaſtical Authority and Juriſdiction, as well as St. Paul placed theſe two Perſons, the one at Epheſus, the other at Crete, for theſe Ends.

2. That it is not repugnant to the Conſtitutions of Churches in the Apoſtolical Times, for Men to have Juriſdiction over more than one particular Congregation; for ſuch a Power Titus had over all Crete, and Timothy over many Elders; which had it been contrary to the Nature of Church-Government, would not have been permitted, and much leſs ordained, by St. Paul, in any of the Churches planted by him.

3. Hence alſo it appears, that the Apoſtolical Power of Governing Churches, and Ordaining Elders in them, was not ſo limited to the Perſons of the Apoſtles, but that it might be communicated to others whom the Apoſtles would intruſt with it; and therefore might be continued in the Church after their Deceaſe: And if it be granted that ſuch an Apoſtolical Power of Governing Churches might be committed to others, and was Actually ſo by the Apoſtles, it remains only to enquire whether, upon their Removal, or Departure, they did entruſt any Perſons in ſuch a manner as it is certain from Scripture, St. Paul did Timothy, as to the Churches of Aſia: Of which we ſhall diſcourſe hereafter.

4. From thoſe Words, The Things which thou haſt heard from me, confirm'd by many Witneſſes, commit thou to faithful Men, who ſhall be able to teach others alſo, it may be fairly argued, that the Apoſtle here appoints St. Timothy to (n) conſtitute a Succeſſion of Men veſted with Eccleſiaſtical Authority to teach them, and command others to obſerve them. And from thoſe Words to Titus, I left thee in Crete to ordain Elders, κατὰ πόλιν, ὡς ἐγώ σοι διεταξάμην, in every City, as I order'd thee, Tit. 1. 5. For a Biſhop muſt be blameleſs, as the Steward of God, v. 7. 'Tis alſo fairly gather'd, that a Succeſſion of Biſhops was to be conſtituted in every City, as Perſons that were to take care of the Church of God there, 1 Tim. 3. 5. And my Conjecture is, that St. Paul, after his Liberty from his firſt Bonds, having Travell'd into Spain and Judea, and from thence to Macedonia, began to ſettle this Church-Government in all the Churches where they before were wanting; that ſo, after his Death, they might be all provided with them. That upon this Account Titus was ſent by him to Crete, Chap. 1. 5. and afterwards to Dalmatia, 2 Tim. 4. 11. And that the Firſt Epiſtle to Timothy was not writ to him to require him to ſtay at Epheſus, where Biſhops had been ſettled long before, but to inſtruct him how to behave himſelf in the Church of God in general, Chap. 3. 15. doing the Office of an Evangeliſt, by ordaining Church-Governors where he found them wanting, and ordering other Matters, as he ſaw them needful, in any of thoſe Places to which he reſorted. But then, if we take in the Suffrage of Antiquity, and conſult them who were neareſt to the Fountain of Church-Government, we ſhall find ſtill greater Reaſon to believe that it was διάταξις Ἀποστολική, an Apoſtolical Ordinance to appoint Biſhops, with the chief Juriſdiction over Cities: For we find plainly, by the fore-mention'd Inſtances, that the Apoſtles had this Power in themſelves, and did convey it to ſome others; but whether they did this Univerſally, and with a Deſign to continue this Order, being an Enquiry about Matter of Fact, muſt be prov'd by the beſt Means we can uſe in a Matter of Fact of ſo great Antiquity. Now there can be no ſtronger Proof of ſuch a Matter of Fact, than the general Senſe, and concurring Practice of the Chriſtian Church in the Ages next ſucceeding the Apoſtles. And this general Senſe of the Chriſtian Church may be demonſtrated.

1. From undoubted Teſtimonies affording a clear Evidence of this Succeſſion in the moſt conſpicuous Churches. And as for the undoubted Teſtimonies of this Succeſſion in the moſt conſpicuous Churches, I ſhall firſt appeal, ſaith the learned Biſhop of Worceſter, to Irenæus and Tertullian, as leaſt liable to Exception. The former not only mentions a Succeſſion of Perſons to the Apoſtles, but he ſaith, (o) the Apoſtles committed the Care of the Churches to them, and left them to ſucceed in their Places. Which implies, that as the Apoſtles had themſelves the Care of miniſtring to the Church, and the Power of Governing, and Preſiding over it, ſo they committed it to the Biſhops whom they choſe to ſucceed them. Tertullian not only mentions them in general who ſucceeded the (p) Apoſtles Apoſtles, but particularly inſtances in Polycarp, placed by St. John at Smyrna; and Clemens, by St. Peter at Rome; and then adds, That the other Churches had Biſhops placed in them, like to theſe. So that what Authority St. Clemens had at Rome, and Polycarp at Smyrna, that Tertullian affirms the Biſhops had in other Churches. Now Irenæus ſaith, that Linus and Clemens had the Epiſcopal Power of governing the Church. And as for Polycarp, he, even by the (q) Jews, and Gentiles, was ſtiled ὁ τῆς Ἀσίας διδάσκαλος, the Maſter, or Teacher of Aſia: By (r) St. Jerome, πάσης τῆς Ἀσίας ἀρχηγός, the Governor of all Aſia: And by (ſ) Ignatius, κυβερνήτης, the Governor of the Church of Smyrna.

Add to this, thoſe Words of Mr. Dodwell, to thoſe who deny'd the Preſidency of Biſhops over the Church in thoſe Ages: What can they ſay to the Angels in the Revelations? What to the Teſtimony of Irenæus, concerning St. Polycarp? What to the Teſtimony of (t) Clemens Alexandrinus, who mentions Biſhops, among other Officers of the Church, ſettled by St. John? What to the Teſtimony of (u) Hegeſippus, who makes the Kinſmen of our Saviour, ἡγήσασθαι τῆς ἐκκλησίας, to have been Governors of the Churches, from Domitian's Time to that of Trajan? What to thoſe who mention (x) St. James as made Biſhop of Jeruſalem by the Apoſtles themſelves? What of the Seven Polycrates mentions as Biſhops in his own See, before himſelf? Nay, What to all thoſe Catalogues of Biſhops ſucceeding in the Four Patriarchal Sees; particularly the Fifteen in Jeruſalem, from St. James, to the Deſtruction of the Jews under Hadrian? Nay, What to the Succeſſion of all the Apoſtolical Sees, to which the Fathers of the Second Century do ſo ſolemnly appeal, to prove their own Doctrine Apoſtolical in oppoſition to the contrary pretences of the Hereticks? Can they think them all to have been either willful Forgeries, or general miſtakes in a Matter of Fact ſo near their own Time, without ſo much as any likely Ground in Hiſtory? How will they then aſſure us that they were not miſtaken in delivering to us the Books of the Apoſtles, which were not more notorious to them than their Government.

2. This general Senſe of the Church may be demonſtrated from the Unreaſonableneſs of the Suppoſition, that the Form of Government left to the Churches by the Apoſtles, ſhould be ſo quickly changed as they ſuppoſe who do conceive that the Apoſtles left no Governors ſuperiour to Presbyters, or Paſtors of one Congregation, in the Church: For it is clearly proved by the learned Biſhop of Cheſter, that the Writers of the Second Century diſtinctly mentioned the ſeveral Orders of Biſhops, and their inferiour Presbyters, in the ſame Church, and thereby give us Reaſon to conclude that Diſparity was ſettled in that Age, and therefore it is very improbable it ſhould be otherwiſe in the preceding Age of the Apoſtles; for that in the Frame and Subſtance of the Eſtabliſh'd Government of the Church, a thing always in Uſe and Practice, there ſhould be ſo ſudden a Change, ſo univerſal a Corruption in ſo ſhort a Time: And that all Chriſtians, all the degraded Clergy, without the leaſt Degree of Oppoſition that we meet with, or we read of, ſhould conſpire in, or conſent to this Innovation, and Corruption, is a thing morally impoſſible: For, as Tertullian argues in like Caſe, (y) What all Chriſtian Churches did ſo early agree in practiſing uniformly, came not by Errour, but by Tradition. The Improbability of this ſudden and general Innovation will be further evident, if we conſider,

1. The Subjects of this Conſtitution, viz. the Perſons appointed by the Apoſtles, or Apoſtolical Men, to govern and preſide in every Church, they being conſtant Objects of every Perſon's Common Senſe, ſeen in every Aſſembly, employ'd in every Eccleſiaſtical Affair, publick or private, in which Chriſtians, ſick or well, living or dying, were concern'd. Now in a Matter of this kind, which was the daily Object of the Senſes of all Chriſtians, we cannot eaſily conceive how they could poſſibly miſtake, and not perceive that ſuch a change was made, if really it was done.

Again, We ſhall be more convinc'd that this was not performed by Conſpiracy, or by a joynt conſent of Chriſtians, to make this Alteration in that Form of Government which the Apoſtles had eſtabliſhed, if we conſider,

1. The general Agreement of all Churches in this Matter, ſince not one ſingle Church can be produced in which this Government did not obtain. For how can we imagine that in a Time when no General Council could meet to appoint it, and when there were no Chriſtian Princes to ſet it forward on a political Account; and when by reaſon of the Heat of Perſecution, and the Diſtance of Chriſtian Churches, there was ſo little Commerce and Intercourſe between them, from the Churches of Armenia and Perſia in the Eaſt, to thoſe of Spain in the Weſt; from the African Churches in the South, to our Britiſh Churches in the North, this Conſtitution ſhould univer- universally be received, and submitted to, if it had not been Establish'd by the Apostles, or the first Founders of those Churches?

2. If we consider how much it did concern all Churches, that such an Innovation should not obtain amongst them, and tamely be submitted to; for all the people were obliged to know their Governours to which they were by Scripture oblig'd to submit, and so they could not yield to this Innovation without the greatest Danger to their Souls; the Presbyters, if they had by the Apostles been advanced to the highest Power, would not so meekly have submitted to an Authority usurp'd over them; but either out of a just Zeal to assert their Freedom, or out of Indignation at the Insolence of the usurping Bishops, or out of that Unwillingness to submit and obey, which is natural to all Men, would have asserted their Equality.

3. This will be further evident if we consider, that even the Persons then exalted could have no Motive or Temptation to accept of this Advancement; for Men do not easily desire a Change, but upon prospect of some Ease, or Temporal Advantage; much less when they perceive the Change is like to add to their Trouble, and increase their Danger. Now this was really the Case of the first Christian Bishops, they being still exposed to the sharpest Fury of their Persecutors, and commonly begun with first when any Storm was rais'd against the Church: Their Labours also were very great; for the Care of the Flock lay on them, and they were unwearied in the Discharge of the Pastoral Care. Can we then reasonably think that they could be so fond of so much Toil and Peril, as to violate the Institution of the Blessed Jesus, or his Apostles, to obtain it?

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Epiſtle of St. PAUL to TITUS.

CHAP. I.

a Verſe 1. PAul [a] a Servant of God, and b an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, [b] according to [κατὰ, for the Promotion of] the Faith of God's Elect, and the acknowledging of c [c] the Truth which is after Godlineſs.
d 2. [d] In [ἐπ', with that] Hope of eternal life, which God that cannot lye [hath] promiſed before the World began.

3. But hath in due time manifeſted [ἐφανέρωσε δὲ καιροῖς ἰδίοις, and hath in its proper Seaſon manifeſted this] his Word [of Promiſe] through preaching [of it to the Gentiles] which [Office] is committed to me, according to the Commandment of God our Saviour.

4. [I Paul write this] to [thee, O] Titus, mine own Son after the Common Faith [wiſhing to thee] Grace, Mercy, and Peace from God the Father, and [from] the Lord Jeſus Chriſt our Saviour.

5. [Advertiſing thee, that] For this cauſe left I thee in Crete, that thou ſhould'ſt ſet in order the things, that [as yet] are want-e ing, and ordain [e] Elders in every City, as I had appointed thee.
f 6. If any be blameleſs, [f] the Husband of one Wife [neither guilty of Polygamy, nor married again after divorce from his former Wife, ſee Note on 1 Tim. 3. 2.] having faithful Children, not accuſed of riot, or unruly.
g 7. [g] For a Biſhop muſt be blameleſs, as [being] the Steward of God, not ſelf-will'd, not ſoon angry, not given to wine, no ſtriker, not given to filthy lucre.

8. [h] But a Lover of Hoſpitality, a Lover h of good Men, [or things] ſober [or prudent] juſt, holy, temperate.

9. Holding faſt the faithful word, as he hath been taught [κατὰ τὴν διδαχὴν, according to the Doctrine of Chriſt, and his Apoſtles] that he may be able by ſound Doctrine [i] both to ex- i hort, [both to admoniſh or inſtruct in ſound Doctrine,] and to convince the Gain-ſayer.

10. For there are many unruly [k] and vain k talkers [in Crete] and Deceivers [of Mens Minds] [l] eſpecially thoſe of the Circum- l ciſion.

11. Whoſe mouths muſt be ſtopt, who ſubvert whole Houſes, teaching things which they ought not [to teach,] for filthy lucre's ſake.

12. One of themſelves [even Epimenides]
[m] a Prophet of their own, ſaid, The Cre- m tians are always Liars, evil beaſts, [n] ſlow n
Bellies [i. e. Gluttons.]

13. This witneſs is true [of them who inhabit Crete, whether Natives, or Jews] wherefore [o] rebuke them ſharply, [ἔλεγχε αὐτὰς ἀποτόμως, convince them powerfully] that they o may be ſound in the Faith.

14. Not giving heed [p] to Jewiſh Fables, p and Commandments of men who turn from the Faith.

15. [For whatſoever they may ſay or think, concerning unclean Meats, Perſons, or Things,] To the pure [the Gentile, whoſe heart is purified by Faith,] all things are pure, [in their uſe;] but unto them that [though they count themſelves the only pure Perſons] are defiled and unbelieving, is nothing [truly] pure, [or lawfully, and acceptably performed,] but even even their Mind and Conscience is defiled, [and by that their Actions.]

q 16. ¶ They profess that they know God [above others, Rom 2. 17.] but in works they [practically] deny him, being abominable [now to him, of whom they were once beloved,] and Disobedient, and to every good work reprobate.

Annotations on Chapter I.

a Verse 1. Δοῦλος Θεοῦ, A Servant of God.] He writes not this to confirm his Authority to Titus, who doubted not at all of it; but to confirm it to others with whom he did converse, or to whom this Epistle might come; it being of use not only to direct Titus then, but all Bishops and Rulers of the Church for ever.

b Ibid. Κατὰ πίστιν, for the Promotion of the Faith of God's Elect;] i. e. the Faith of Christians in the general, they being all γένος ἐκλεκτὸν an elect generation, 1 Pet. 2. 9. and St. Paul, being an Apostle, in reference to them all, to them to whom he was a Savour of Death, as well as to them to whom he was a Savour of Life, 2 Cor. 2. 16.

c Ibid. Τῆς κατ' εὐσέβειαν ἀληθείας, the Truth which is after Godliness;] The Mystery of Godliness; 1 Tim. 3. 16. The Doctrine which is after Godliness, 1 Tim. 6. 3. This is therefore only necessary to be believed, so far as that belief is necessary to an Holy Life.

d Ver. 2, 3. Note, By comparing these two Verses with those words in Timothy, He hath saved us, and called us with an holy Calling; not according to our works, but according to his own Purpose, and Grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus, πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, before the World began; but is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Christ, who hath abolished Death, and hath brought Life, and Immortality to light through the Gospel: Whereunto I am appointed a Preacher, and an Apostle, and a Teacher of the Gentiles, 2 Tim. 1. 9, 10, 11. I say, from these words compared together, it may be inferr'd,

1. That the Promise of Eternal Life, mention'd in both Places, is the Promise of calling those Gentiles, to whom St. Paul was an Apostle, to that Faith which had the Promise of Eternal Life annexed to it: For this Promise God is said to have performed by St. Paul's preaching this word of Life to the Gentiles.

2*dly*. That this hope of Eternal Life was not made manifest till the appearing of our Saviour, and the Preaching of his Gospel to the World; he having brought Life, and Immortality to light by the Gospel, 2 Tim. 1. 10. and manifested the hope of it by the Preaching of the Word of Faith.

3*dly*. Seeing no such Promise could be made to Men, no such Grace given to them before there were any Men in the World, these words, πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, cannot properly be rendred, before the World began; but as Chrysostom, Theodoret, and Oecumenius render them ἄνωθεν ἐξ ἀρχῆς, of old Time, or from the beginning. So the Revelation of the calling of the Gentiles is stiled, the Revelation of the Mystery, χρόνοις αἰωνίοις σεσιγημένου, kept secret from Men since the World began, Rom. 16. 25. but now manifested by the Scriptures of the Prophets. This Promise therefore was contained in the Writings of the Prophets, and either must relate to the Promise made to Adam immediately after the Fall, that the Seed of the Woman should break the Serpents head, which was a Promise made from the beginning, and πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, before any of the three Ages of the World were pass'd; or to the Promise made to Abraham, that in his Seed should all the Families of the Earth be blessed, which was a Promise made a long time ago, and before the first Age of the World expired. So Zacharias speaks of the Promise of the Messias, made διὰ τῶν ἀπ' αἰῶνος, προφητῶν, by the Holy Prophets, from the beginning, Luke 1. 70. And Jerusalem is mention'd as an Apostatizing City ἀφ' ἡμερῶν αἰῶνος, from the Days of old, Ezr. 4. 15, 19. and ἀπ' αἰῶνος of old, Esdr. 2. 23, 26.

e Ver. 5. Πρεσβυτέρους.] Hence it appears, that at the first Conversion of the Cretians to the Faith, they had no Bishops, or Presbyters set over them, but had all their Church-Offices performed by Men assisted by that Holy Spirit which God shed on them abundantly, through Faith in Christ, Ch. 3. 6. though out of these Bishops, and Deacons usually were chosen; but then it is observable that things were then wanting; or, that this was a Deficiency in that Church.

f Ver. 6. Μιᾶς γυναικὸς ἀνήρ, The Husband of one Wife.] Here Chrysostom, Oecumenius, Theophylact have well observed, against the Hereticks, and Papists, that Marriage is so honourable, that any Clergy-man may ascend to the Episcopal Throne with it, ἅτε μετ' αὐτῆς καὶ ἐπὶ τὸν ἅγιον θρόνον δυνάμενος ἀναβαίνειν, Chrysost. Theoph. Yea, that he may do the Office of a Bishop, and retain the Nuptial Bed, ὡς δυναμένου καὶ μετὰ γάμου ἐπισκοπῆς προνοεῖν τινός. Oecum.

g Ver. 7. Ἀνέγκλητον εἶναι, I left thee in Crete to ordain Elders, if any be blameless, for a Bishop must be blameless.] Hence, say the Greek and Latin Commentators, it is manifest that the same Person is called a Presbyter in the 5th. and a Bishop in the 7th. Verse, Καὶ ἐντεῦθεν δῆλον ὡς τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους, ἐπισκληρὸς ὠνόμαζον, ἐρωτικὸς γὰρ ἵνα καταστήσῃς κατὰ πόλιν Πρεσβυτέρους ἐπήγαγε, δεῖ γὰρ ἐπίσκοπον ἀνέγκλητον εἶναι, ἐν ἑκάστῃ δὲ πόλει οὐκ ἐπισκόπους, ἀλλὰ Πρεσβυτέρους ἔθος ἦναι πόλλας, Theodoret. When he had ſaid, I left thee in Crete, that thou mighteſt ordain Presbyters in every City, (a) Poſtea intulit, Oportet enim Epiſcopum ſine Crimine eſſe tanquam Dei diſpenſatorem, idem eſt ergo Presbyter qui Epiſcopus, He after makes this inference, For a Biſhop muſt be blameleſs; the Biſhop therefore and Presbyter is here the ſame. The Reverend and Learned Biſhop Pearſon, proves from St. Clemens of Alexandria, Tertullian and Origen, that in their Judgment the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Presbyters properly ſo called; as doth alſo Theodoret from this Argument, That the Apoſtle requires Presbyters in the plural to be ordain'd in every City, whereas there was to be only one ſingle Biſhop in a City. But I find no Anſwer to the Argument, that the ſame Perſon is a Presbyter in the 5th. who is a Biſhop in the 7th. Verſe; and therefore I ſtill incline to the Opinion of Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, S. Jerom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, that the Names were then common.

h Ver. 8. Φιλόξενον, a lover of Hoſpitality.] Not in the modern ſenſe of keeping Hoſpitality, that is, a great Table for Perſons of Quality to come to, but ſay St. Chryſoſtom and Theophylact, τὰ αὐτῦ τοῖς ξένοις προϊέμενος καὶ τοῖς δεομένοις, one ſo far from filthy lucre, that he ſpends what he has upon the Stranger, and the Poor. Σώφρονα δὲ τὴν νηφαλιότητα εἶπεν ἐντεῦθα, ἀλλά τὴν πάθους κρατοῦντα, He ſaith, Sober, i. e. not one that is much in faſting, but an exact Governor of his Paſſions, his Tongue, Hands, and Eyes.

k Ver. 10. Ματαιολόγοι, vain Talkers.] That the Jews were ματαιολόγοι, vain Talkers, and ἑτεροδιδασκαλοῦντες, Teachers of things which they ought not, we learn 1 Tim. 1. 3, 4, 6. and that they were deſirous of filthy lucre, robbing and devouring thoſe they taught: See 2 Cor. 11. 20. of the Covetouſneſs of the Phariſees, the great Sticklers for the neceſſity of Circumciſion, and of the Obſervation of the Law of Moſes by all Chriſtians, Acts 15. 5. Ver. 11. Μάλιστα δὲ οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς, eſpecially they of the Circumciſion.] He does not ſay, eſpecially thoſe Gentiles or Samaritans, who are Advocates for the Obſervation of the Jewiſh Law, but οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς, they of the Circumciſion, which, throughout the New Teſtament, ſignifies the Jews; Men of that Nation and Religion, ſo Acts 10. 45. And οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς, the Jews which came with Peter, were amazed when they ſaw the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt poured out upon the Gentiles, Acts 11. 2. οἱ ἐκ περιτομῆς, the Jews contended with Peter, ſaying, Thou wenteſt in to Men uncircumciſed, and didſt eat with them. See Rom. 4. 12. 15. 8. Gal. 2. 7, 8, 9. Epheſ. 2. 11. Col. 4. 11. They therefore cannot be the Men here intended.

Ver. 12. Προφήτης a Prophet of their own.] Theodoret expreſly ſays, this Poet was Callimachus; Oecumenius and Theophylact cite the words of Callimachus, and ſo doth Chryſoſtom, though he confeſſes the Poet was Epimenides. Callimachus it could not be; for he was no Cretian, but a Cyrenian, nor hath he this whole Verſe, but only the beginning of it, Κρῆτες ἀεὶ ψεῦσται, which, ſaith St. Jerom, he borrowed from Epimenides, who by (c) Plato is ſtiled ἀνὴρ θεῖος, by (d) Diodorus Siculus, ὁ Θεῖλογος, the Divine; by (e) Diogenes Laertius, Θεοφιλέστατος, and γνωσικώτατος, one ſkilful in Divination; by (f) Cicero, futura præſentiens, & vaticinans per furorem, one that foretold things future by Extaſie; by (g) Plutarch σοφὸς περὶ τὰ θεῖα, a wiſe Man concerning Divine Things; by (h) Apuleius, Fatidicus, a Soothſayer; by (i) Maximus Tyrius, δεινὸς τὰ θεῖα, one ſkill'd in Divine Things; by Dion Pruſaenſis, and the Apoſtle here, one of their Prophets.

p Ver. 14. Ἰουδαϊκοῖς μύθοις.] By Jewiſh Fables, ſome here underſtand the Gnoſticks Cabbaliſtical Interpretations of the Old Teſtament; but (1ſt.) if we look into Irenæus, we ſhall find their ſenſeleſs Interpretations chiefly related to the New Teſtament. Their 30 Æones they gathered from the 30 Years our Saviour ſpent in Silence, before he preached; and from the Parable of thoſe who wrought in the Vineyard, and from St. Paul; from whom he ſhews l. 1. c. 1. p. 16, 18. they gathered moſt of their wild fancies, and ſo they muſt in time be after the writing of his Epiſtles. (2dly.) It does not appear that the Cabbaliſtick Jews had any ſuch Interpretations as favour'd the mad Doctrine of the Gnoſticks. The Fathers therefore generally interpret theſe words of the vain Traditions of the Jews, eſpecially concerning Meats, and other things, to be abſtained from as unclean, which our Lord alſo ſtiles the Doctrines of Men, Matth. 15. 9. and of the Teachers of them, St. Paul, in his Epiſtle to Timothy, ſaith, that they were turned from the Faith, 1 Tim. 1. 5, 6. And this, ſaith Oecumenius, is evident from the enſuing words.

Ver. 16. It is the opinion of all the Ancient Commentators upon the place, That the Apoſtle ſpeaks this Adverſus Judæos, againſt the Jews, nor is there any thing ſaid in theſe two Verſes which may not be applied to them. For, q

1ſt. We have obſerved already how the Scripture gives thoſe very Names to the unbelieving Jews, which they were wont to give unto the Gentiles, ſtyling them Dogs, Philip. 3. 2. as they ſtyled the Gentiles, and Veſſels of Wrath, Rom. 9. 22. 1 Theſſ. 2. 16. who thought themſelves the only Veſſels of Mercy; and here defiled, who counted themſelves the only pure Servants of God, Nehem. 2. 20.

2dly. Of their Profeſſion to know God, when in Works they deny'd him, the Apoſtle gives a large account, Rom. 2. from v. 17. to v. 25, and again Chap. 3. from v. 10. to v. 19. That they were abominable in the ſight of God, our Lord not only ſaith of the Phariſees, Luke 16. 15. but St. Paul of the Jews in general, declaring, that they pleaſed not God; yea they were ſo diſpleaſing to him, that wrath was come upon them to the uttermoſt, 1 Theſſ. 2. 15, 16. Of their Diſobedience to the Law, we read in the forecited Places of the Romans, and of their evil works, Philip. 3. 2. 2 Cor. 11. 13, 15. Annotations on Chapter II.

a Verſe 2. Πρεσβύτας, the aged.] See the Note on Philemon 9. So the word ſignifies in all the other places of the New Teſtament, where it is found; ſo ἐγὼ γάρ εἰμι πρεσβύτης, I am aged, ſaith Zacharias, Luke 1. 18. and Παῦλος πρεσβύτης, is Paul the aged, Philem. 9. And in this ſenſe the true St. Jerom, and all the Greek Commentators on the Place, expound it. The Reverend Dr. Hammond thinks it here ſignifies Church-Officers, and in particular the Deacons, mention'd by Timothy, after the Biſhops, 1 Tim. 3. but of five qualifications there required of the Deacons, v. 8. the Apoſtle here mentions only one, that of Gravity; nor is it neceſſary that theſe πρεσβύται ſhould be Church-Officers, becauſe the Apoſtle here enumerates their Qualifications: For as St. Jerom on the Place obſerves, he reckons up the Qualifications of the Younger Women, v. 4, 5. and of the Younger Men, v. 6. and of the Servants, v. 9, 10. But hence it will not follow that they were Church-Officers. Nor, (2*dly.*) Becauſe Titus was ſent to ordain ſuch; For we find not that he was ſent to ordain any but Presbyters, or Biſhops, Chap. 1. 5, 7. though doubtleſs he did ordain Deacons to attend them.

b Ver. 3. Πρεσβύτιδας.] That the aged Women here import the Deaconeſſes of the Church; ſome of the Commentators ſay was the Opinion of ſome Ancients; and indeed they were ſo neceſſary, 1. For the Baptiſm of Women, when that was performed by dipping, as in the Apoſtles days it was: And, 2*dly.* For the converting ſome Young Women to, and the inſtructing others in the Faith they had already owned; which aged Women, though not permitted to ſpeak in the Church, might do in private Houſes, without ſcandal, but the Apoſtles, and a young Timothy, could ſcarcely do without ſuſpicion: That for theſe Reaſons I doubt not but this Office obtain'd in the firſt Preaching of the Goſpel.

c Ver. 7. Ἀφθαρσίαν, Sincerity.] This word is not to be found in Chryſoſtom, Theophylact, nor in many Copies.

d Ver. 8. The Doctrine to be preached muſt be pure and free from all corrupt mixtures; it muſt be entire, ſo as to want nothing neceſſary to be known; it muſt be ſuch as is ὑγιὴς, wholſome, and beneficial to the Hearer; it muſt be delivered with Gravity, and with Care, that there be nothing ſpoken which may be ſubject to Reprehenſion.

e Ver. 9. Μὴ ἀντιλέγοντας, not anſwering again.] Not murmuring againſt their Commanders, nor contradicting them, but only with ſubmiſſion pleading their own Cauſe, for that even Nature doth allow.

f Ver. 12. The firſt thing Chriſtianity requires of them who would enjoy this ſaving Grace, is to deny all practical ungodlineſs, by carefully abſtaining from all Idolatry, Superſtition, and falſe Worſhip; and to diſcard all thoſe principles which tend to cheriſh in us a prophane and irreligious Converſation, viz. all Principles of Atheiſm, and Infidelity, all Denial of Providence, and of a future Recompence; for as our falſe Worſhip will render our whole Service vain, and our pretended Piety, a Provocation; ſo theſe Pernicious Principles will render our Religion none at all: For how can he be ſeriouſly employed in Religious Actions, who queſtions the very Object of Religion, denies the Motives to it, and reckons it a vain thing to ſerve the Lord?

2*dly.* To deny all worldly Luſts, i. e. All inordinate Affections to the Enjoyments of this preſent World, as knowing, that the friendſhip of this World is Enmity to God; all the Pollutions which are in the World through Luſt, 2 Pet. 2. 20. walking not in Riot, and Drunkenneſs, in Banquettings, and Revelling, in Laſciviouſneſs and Uncleanneſs, in Strife, and Envy; but putting on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and making no Proviſions for the Fleſh to fullfil the Luſts thereof, Rom. 13. 13, 14. 1 Pet. 4. 2, 3.

3*dly.* To live ſoberly, in the due moderation of all our Appetites, the exact Government of all our Paſſions, and in the Regular Exerciſe of our Affections, and Deſires, i. e. We muſt ſo far reſtrain our angry Paſſions, that they do never indecently boil up within us, or break forth into opprobrious Words, or rancorous Expreſſions, or proceed to malicious and ſpiteful Actions, and that we never do exert them, but upon occaſion of ſomething which is truly evil, and diſpleaſing to God, or when it may be for the benefit of others: We muſt ſo moderate our Affections too, and our Deſires of all worldly things, as to ſit down contented with our preſent Portion, not being anxiouſly ſolicitous about them, not purſuing them by unlawful means, not much caſt down when we loſe them, nor much delighted with them when we do enjoy them; but living ſtill as Men whoſe Converſation is in Heaven, and whoſe Hearts are chiefly ſet on things above. We muſt ſo temper our Deſires of Applauſe, and Reputation in this World, as only to purſue it by exact Regards to what is Vertuous and Praiſe-worthy, and for vertuous Ends, the doing good to others, never endeavouring to obtain or to preſerve it by any ſiniſter Attempts, ſinful Compliances, or by neglect of Duty. We muſt ſo Regulate the Cravings of the Throat, and the Gratifications of the Palate, as not to eat, or drink to the impairing of our Health, or Reaſon; to the inflaming of our Luſts, or Paſſions; or to the rend'ring our ſelves unfit for the Performance of that Duty which we owe to God. We muſt be ſo moderate, in Reference to the Pleaſures of the World, that all the Pleaſures in which we do allow our ſelves, may be ſtill ἡδοναὶ ἀμεταμέλητοι, ſuch as call for no Repentance; we muſt purſue them with ſuch indifference, as that we can freely deny our ſelves in the Enjoyment of them, when the Concernments of God's Glory, or the Welfare of our own, or other Mens Souls is prejudiced by them, preferring ſtill the Pleaſures of Religion much above them.

4*thly*. We muſt live Righteouſly, i. e. in all the Offices of exact Truth and Juſtice betwixt Man and Man, being true in our words, exact to the Performance of our Promiſes, doing no Injury to any in his good Name, Eſtate, or Perſon, much leſs in the Concernments of his Soul, but dealing ſtill with others as we would be dealt with.

We muſt live δικαίως Charitably, preſerving an unfeigned Good Will, an Affectionate Kindneſs to, and having a ſincere Concernment for the good of all Men: And this Affection muſt reſtrain us not only from biting them with the Tongue, ſuſpecting evil of them, or doing evil to them, but muſt engage us to hope well, and believe well of them, where we know nothing to the contrary; to rejoice in their Proſperity, to be ready to promote it, to ſympathize with them in their Afflictions; and, as far as we are able, to ſupply their Wants, relieve their Miſeries, and contribute to the Eaſe and Comfort of their Lives, and more eſpecially to labour to prevent their Ruine, and further the eternal Intereſts of their precious Souls; to conceal the Evil that we know of others, where no neceſſity, i. e. no Duty to our ſelves, our Brother, or the Publick requires us to divulge it; to endure all things, without returning Evil for Evil; to be long ſuffering, and bear with Patience the Infirmities of others. That, laſtly, upon any Reaſonable Submiſſion, any fair Acknowledgment of the Offence, any deſire of Reconciliation, we be eaſie to be entreated, and ready to forgive: In a word, that in all caſes of the ſame kind, we prefer the Publick before our Private Intereſt.

5*thly*. To teach us to live Godly: 1. By keeping up an high Eſteem, an Admiration of God in our Minds, acknowledging his Excellencies by our repairing to, and our continual Dependance on his Wiſdom, Power, and Goodneſs, in our Addreſſes to the Throne of Grace, by aſcribing all the Mercies we enjoy, to his ſole, free, and undeſerved Goodneſs, and therefore highly eſteeming them, paying the Tribute of our Praiſes, and ſuitable returns of Duty for them, and by performing that Publick and External Homage to the Author of them, which may beſt teſtifie to others the inward Veneration we have for him. 2*dly*. By yielding a firm Aſſent to all his Revelations, depending on his All-ſufficiency, and Goodneſs to order all things for us to the beſt, and hoping in his Mercy for Preſervation from, or ſupport under, and a good Iſſue from the Troubles of this preſent life, and a ſupply of all thoſe Bleſſings which he ſees needful for us, or moſt conducing to our good. 3*dly*. By valuing him as our Chief, and All-ſufficient Good, the only proper Object of our Happineſs, and upon that account preferring him before whatever ſtands in Competition with him, having none in Heaven but him, and none on Earth that we deſire in Compariſon with him, doing all things to his Glory, and for Promotion of his Honour, and being zealous to remove whatſoever doth obſtruct, or oppoſe it. 4*thly*. By being in the fear of the Lord all the day long, and herein exerciſing our ſelves to have always Conſciences void of offence towards God, ſo that we never wilfully do any thing which argues a Contempt of him, or is a Provocation to the pure Eyes of his Glory. 5*thly*. By acquainting our ſelves with his ſacred Will, that we may do it, eſteeming all his Commandments concerning all things to be right, yielding a cheerful, conſtant, and ſincere Obedience to them, labouring to walk before him to all well-pleaſing; and when we are convinced that we have deviated from his good and holy Laws, returning by a ſpeedy, and ſincere Repentance, and Reformation of our evil ways. 6*thly*. By an humble Submiſſion to his Chaſtiſements, and a contented acquieſcence in all the Diſpenſations of his Providence, and an entire Reſignation of our ſelves, and our Concernments to the pleaſure of his good and holy Will.

Thus Philo doth inform us, That he that would be truly Vertuous, muſt in the firſt place, μεταναστεύειν τῷ σώματι, become an Exile from the Enjoyments of the Body, ſo far as not to be enſlaved, ἐπιθυμίαις καὶ ἡδοναῖς, to the importunate Deſires of worldly things, things, or to the Pleasures of the World, ὅτι φόβοις, ὅτι λύπαις, nor to the fears of losing them, nor to excess of Grief that he doth not enjoy them; that being thus prepared, he must govern his whole Life by these three Rules, or Canons, τῷ φιλοθέῳ, καὶ φιλαρέτῳ, καὶ φιλανθρώπῳ, the Love of God, the Love of Vertue, and the Love of Man. Lib. quod omnis probus liber, p. 679. C.

g Ver. 3. τοῦ μεγάλου θεοῦ, the Great God.] Here it deserveth to be noted, that it is highly probable that Jesus Christ is here styled the Great God: 1. Because in the Original the Article is prefix'd only before the Great God, and therefore seems to require this Construction, The Appearance of Jesus Christ the Great God, and our Saviour. 2*dly.* Because as God the Father is not said properly to appear, so the word ἐπιφάνεια never occurs in the New Testament, but when it is applied to Jesus Christ, and to some coming of his; The places in which it is to be found, being only these, 2 Thess. 2. 8. 1 Tim. 6. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 10. 4. 1, 8. 3*dly.* Because Christ is emphatically styled our Hope, the Hope of Glory, Col. 1. 23. 1 Tim. 1. 1. And, lastly, because not only all the Antient Commentators on the Place, do so interpret this Text, but the Ante-Nicene Fathers also: (a) Hippolytus speaking of the Appearance of our God and Saviour Jesus Christ; and (b) Clemens of Alexandria proving Christ to be both God and Man, our Creator, and the Author of all our good things, from these very words of St. Paul, Vid. Tract. de vera Christi Deitate, p. 44, 45.

h Ver. 14. Ἵνα λυτρώσηται, that he might redeem, and purifie.] The words λυτρῶσαι and καθαρίσαι, here used, being Sacrifical, the first signifying Redemption by paying a price, here said to be, the giving himself; the second, to purifie from the guilt of Sin, by an Atonement offer'd for it, Heb. 9. 22. 1 Joh. 1. 7, 9. I conceive the import of them to be this, That Christ our Saviour gave himself a Ransom for us, to redeem us from the guilt, and punishment of our Sins, that being by this Atonement thus purify'd, and reconcil'd to God, we might become as the Jews were before, a peculiar People to him, and upon that account zealous of good Works.

Ibid. λαὸν περιούσιον, a peculiar People.] So Segullah is rendred by the Septuagint, Exod. 19. 5. You shall be to me λαὸς περιούσιος, a peculiar People above all People, Deut. 7. 6. Jehovah thy God hath chosen thee to be unto him λαὸν περιούσιον, a peculiar People above all the People of the Earth; so Chap. 14. 2. 26. 18. This by the Chaldee is always rendred—— A beloved People. This Title belonged to all Israel in general, Psal. 135. 4. Jehovah hath chosen Jacob for himself, and Israel for his peculiar People. As therefore all Israel, being sanctified to the Lord, became to him a peculiar Treasure, and a beloved People above all other Nations, or Religions in the World; so are now all Christians, God having purified their Hearts by Faith, Acts 15. 9. 2*dly.* As then Salvation was of the Jews, John 4. 22. and belonged to others only by being Proselytes so far as to own their God, or their Religion; so now that Salvation which is promised in the Gospel, and which consists in Life Eternal, is promised only to them who own the God, and Saviour of the Christians, or embrace their Religion: For this is the Testimony that God hath given us, eternal life; and that life is in his Son: He that hath the Son hath life, he that hath not the Son hath not life, 1 John 5. 11, 12.

Annotations on Chapter III.

a Verse 1. Ἀρχαῖς ἢ ἐξουσίαις ὑποτάσσεσθαι, to be subject to Principalities.] Besides the turbulent Spirit of the Jews then in Crete (a) Suidas hath left upon Record concerning them, that the Cretians, fearing they should suffer Punishment from their Superiors, stirred up the People, exhorting them to maintain the liberty which they always had enjoy'd. By which we see how needful this Instruction was.

b Ver. 2. Ἐπιείκεια, Meekness.] This is that Vertue which enclines us to be easie and merciful to offenders, kind in interpreting the Actions of others, and yielding in matters of our own Concern for Peace sake; and we shew all meekness, not by being never severe, for severity at some times, towards some Persons, is necessary; but by being mild in all cases, in which the Circumstances of Time, Place, and Persons, will admit of it.

c Ver. 3. Ἦμεν γάρ ποτε, for we our selves were sometimes.] That these were the Vices that reigned in the Heathen World, See Rom. 1. 26, 31. and 13. 13. Colossi. 3. 5, 8. That the Cretians were prone to disobedience, we have proved from Suidas; That they were foolish and deceived, is evident from their multitude of false Gods mentioned by Diodorus Siculus, l. 5. and their vain Imagination in thinking that their Gods were Mortal, with which Callimachus charges them. The Lusts and Pleasures they served were unnatural Lusts, say Occumenius and Theophylact: Of which the Athenian in (b) Plato speaketh thus to Clinias of Crete; of unnatural Lusts your Cities are chiefly guilty; for taking up your Laws from Jupiter, and retaining the Fable of his Ganymede, they committed this unnatural Lust in imitation of their Jupiter.

Ibid. Καὶ ἡμεῖς, We our selves.] I cannot d think, as St. Jerom doth, that St. Paul here condemns himself as one formerly guilty of all these Vices, for then he could not have said that he had lived before his Conversion in all good Conscience towards God, Acts 23. 1. That he had served God from his Progenitors with a pure Conscience, 2 Tim. 1. 3. And that as to the Righteousness which was by the Law, he was blameless, Philip. 3. 6. Nor is any thing more common with St. Paul, than to speak thus in the Person of those to whom he writes. See the Note on Eph. 2. 3.

Ver. 4.—7. For Explication of these e four Verses let it be observed,

1. That the Apostle, in the very next Verse, saith, This is a faithful saying, and of this I will that thou affirm constantly, that they who have believed in God should be careful to maintain good Works; and as he saith, that we are justified by Grace, so doth he teach us that this Grace hath appeared for this very End, to teach us, denying ungodliness and worldly Lusts, to live righteously, soberly and godly in this present World, looking for this blessed hope; clearly insinuating, that without living Godly, Righteously and Soberly, we cannot reasonably hope for happiness at our Lord's Second Coming. Wherefore these words could never be intended to excuse Christians from a necessity of being holy, in order to their being happy.

2*dly*. That the Apostle only saith we are not saved by works of Righteousness which we have done before Faith, before the Laver of Regeneration, but doth not in the least exclude the Works of Righteousness they should hereafter do, by vertue of the New Nature given to them, and the renewing of the Holy Ghoſt, from being Conditions of their future Happineſs; and therefore hence it doth not follow, as Eſthius ſuggeſts, that God hath predeſtinated us to Salvation of his meer Mercy without any reſpect to our Works, but only, that he hath thus freely called any Nation to the knowledge of that Faith that will in the end bring Salvation to them that obey the Preſcripts of it.

3*dly*. That when the Apoſtle ſaith, by his Mercy he ſaved us, his meaning is, that by his free Mercy he brought us from a State of Wrath and Condemnation, into the way of Salvation, in which if we walk, and continue, we ſhall aſſuredly obtain Salvation. See Note on Eph. 2. 8, 9.

4*thly*. Some by the Laver of Regeneration underſtand that inward Renovation which cleanſeth the Soul, as waſhing doth the Body; but that the Apoſtle by the Laver of Regeneration, underſtands that Baptiſm by which Chriſtians, coming then from Heatheniſm, engaged to renounce Idolatry, the Works of the Fleſh, and of the World, and dedicated themſelves to the Service of the Sacred Trinity, and teſtified their Faith in Chriſt, cannot reaſonably be doubted, if we conſider,

1*ſt*. How expreſly our Saviour ſaith, we muſt be born again of Water, and of the Holy Ghoſt, that we may enter into the Kingdom of God, Joh. 3. 5. How he Commiſſionated his Apoſtles to make Diſciples in all Nations by baptizing them, Matth. 28. 16. And how from the beginning, the word παλιγγενεσία, Regeneration, uſed here, was uſed to denote Baptiſm, as (c) Juſtin Martyr, (d) Irenæus, and (e) Clemens of Alexandria do inform us.

2*dly*. That the ſame Apoſtle elſewhere aſcribes this Vertue to Baptiſm, ſaying, that Chriſt doth purifie, and cleanſe his Body by the waſhing of Water, Eph. 5. 26. and that St. Peter ſaith, that Baptiſm now ſaves us, 1. Pet. 3. 21. And that Baptiſm at the firſt was ſtill attended with the vouchſafement of the Holy Ghoſt, here joined unto this Laver of Regeneration, Joh. 3. 5. So that all Chriſtians are ſaid to be baptized into one Spirit, 1 Cor. 12. 13. who is here ſaid to be plentifully poured out upon Believers.

5*thly*. That being juſtified by Faith, we become the Sons of God, Joh. 1. 12. and being Sons of God, are Heirs of Glory, Rom. 8. 17. and Sons of the Reſurrection, or ſuch as, if we do continue in the Faith, and our Baptiſmal Covenant, ſhall enjoy an happy Reſurrection, Luke 20. 36. See Note upon that Place, and upon Rom. 8. 17.

f Ver. 8. Καλῶν ἔργων προΐστασθαι, to maintain good works.] That is, ſay ſome, to employ themſelves in honeſt Trades and Profeſſions: But all the Ancient Commentators, on this, and the 14th. Verſe, interpret theſe words of Alms-deeds, or Charity, to ſupply the neceſſary wants of Orphans, Widows, &c. And they are followed by the learned Dr. Barrow, who obſerves, that "as in every kind, that which is moſt "excellent doth commonly aſſume the "Name of the whole kind, ſo are theſe "works of Charity, by way of Excellen-"cy, ſtiled good Works. Thus Dorcas was full of good Works, i. e. of Alms-deeds which ſhe did, Acts 9. 36. See you abound in every good Work, that is, in all Charitable Offices, 2 Cor. 9. 8. Let a Widow be well reported of for good Works, 1 Tim. 5. 10. i. e. for bringing up Children, lodging Strangers, waſhing the Saints feet, relieving the Afflicted, and following every good Work. Charge them who are rich in this World, that they be rich in good Works, 1 Tim. 6. 18. See Heb. 10. 24. And this Senſe may be confirmed, 1. From the Phraſe it ſelf; for it is not ἐργάζεσθαι τὰ καλὰ ἔργα, but προΐστασθαι καλῶν ἔργων. Now προΐστασθαι ſignifies to excel and outſtrip others in good Works, which as to Works of Charity, is certainly the Chriſtians Duty, and was the thing by which the Primitive Ages gain'd great Credit to Chriſtianity: But it is not the Chriſtians Duty to labour more than others at their Trades, or Callings. 2*dly*. From the Reaſon here aſſigned, why they muſt excel in good Works, becauſe they were not only Profitable, but καλὰ Creditable in the ſight of Men, as are ſuch works of Charity more conſpicuouſly, than labouring in our Profeſſions, and v. 15. That they be not unfruitful; i. e. ſaith Dr. Hammond, that they may have to give to others; theſe Acts of Charity being ſtiled fruit abounding to their Account, Philip. 4. 17. Good Fruits, Jam. 3. 17. the fruits of Righteouſneſs, v. 18.

g Ver. 9. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 4. And note here, and from that Place, this excellent Rule: That Diſputes about matters which only ſerve to beget Strife, and Contention, but tend little to Edification in the Faith, or to the Edifying of the Body in love, Eph. 4. 16. or the promoting that Doctrine which is after Godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 3. are vain talking, and unprofitable Diſputes.

h Ver. 10. Hence we may learn who is an Heretick in the Apoſtle's Senſe.

1. He is one who ἐξέστραπται, is perverted from the true Faith, holding ſome Doctrine or Opinion, which ſubverteth the Foundation tion of it, 2 Tim. 2. 18. and 1 Tim. 1. 19, 20. 2*dly*. He is αὐτοκατάκριτος, a Man condemned by his own Conscience, and who, in what he doth maintain, or practise, sins against his own Convictions: For, 1. The Apostle saith not to Titus, Do thou convince or inform him of his Error, but do thou admonish him of his Fault; which shews the Crime lay not in his Head, or his mistaken Judgment, for that can never be corrected by Admonition, but only by Instruction; but that it lay in the Irregularity of his Affections, and the Perverseness of his Will; And 2*dly*. Because otherwise he could not condemn himself by maintaining his Heresie; For no Man who acts according to his Judgment, how erroneous soever it may be, is self-condemned in that Action.

Obj. 1. Against this Exposition it is objected, 1. That he who oppugns a Doctrine which he knows to be true, is indeed perverse, but he is no Heretick.

Answ. 1. Yes, he is properly an Heretick, according to St. Austin, because he follows, or starts a new Opinion, not from Regard to Truth, but to vain Glory, or Temporal Advantage. Whence saith he, Errare possum, Hæreticus esse Nolo, I may err, but I will not be an Heretick; placing Heresie, not in the Judgment, but the Will.

2*dly*. He is so also according to the proper import of the word, because he properly doth chuse to be of his Opinion: Whereas the Judgment of the erroneous Person doth oblige him to hold his Error, it being not in our Power to believe otherwise than our Mind and Judgment doth inform us; so that in this case we do not properly αἱρετίζειν, chuse what Opinion we will hold. And, 3*dly*. He is most properly an Heretick in the Scripture Sense, which still ascribeth to such Men, something relating not to the Error of their Judgments, but to the Perverseness of their Wills, or the Corruption of their Affections, as that they designed not to serve the Lord, but their own Bellies, Rom. 16. 18. That they turned away from the Truth, supposing that gain was Godliness, 1 Tim. 6. 5. That they taught things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake, Tit. 1. 11. That, through Covetousness, with feigned words, they made merchandise of them whom they deceived, 2 Pet. 2. 3, 14. Having Hearts exercised with covetous practises, and that they went greedily after the Error of Balaam for reward, Jude 11. Matth. 24. 11. 1 Joh. 4. 1. 2 Cor. 11. 13. 2 Pet. 2. 1. 1 Tim. 4. 2.

Hence are they often stiled false Prophets, false Christs, false Apostles, false Teachers, deceitful Workers, transforming themselves, into the Apostles of Christ; Men who insinuated their Doctrines, ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, by hypocritical Falshoods, who preached up the necessity of Circumcision, not that they themselves observ'd the Law, or thought it necessary so to do, but that they might avoid Persecution, Gal. 6. 12, 13. That they were Men risen up among Christians, speaking perverse things to draw away Disciples after them, Acts 20. 30. Wolves in Sheeps cloathing, Matth. 7. 15. Men that went out from them, when indeed they were not of them, 1 Joh. 2. 19.

Obj. 2. 2*dly*. It is objected, that there be few who oppose the truth wittingly, and they are only known to God, not to the Church; which therefore cannot admonish, avoid, or excommunicate them. He therefore must be self-condemned, not because he maintains what himself thinks to be false, but because he inflicts upon himself that Punishment, and Condemnation which the Bishop, and the Church useth to do upon Malefactors, by separating himself from the Communion of the Faithful.

Answ. To this I answer, 1*st*. That I do not find that the Word αὐτοκατάκριτος bears any other sense but this, viz. one condemn'd by his own Mind, or inward Sentence, ὑφ' ἑαυτῦ, ἐκ τῆς οἰκείας συνειδήσεως κατακρινόμενον, saith Oecumenius, 2*dly*. Nor is it true that Hereticks did always cut themselves off from the Church; for then what need was there of their Excommunication? The Scripture shews the contrary, declaring that these false Teachers, that brought in damnable Doctrines, were ἐν ὑμῖν, lurking among Christians, 2 Pet. 2. 1. 1 Joh. 2. 19. 2 Pet. 2. 13. Jude 12. 19. Yea, saith the Apostle, there must be Heresies, ἐν ὑμῖν among you, 1 Cor. 11. 9. they kept their Love-feasts with them, till for fear of Persecution, they departed from them, Gal. 6. 12. They were inwardly Wolves, but in Sheep's Cloathing ἐυπροσωπήσαντες ἐν αὐτοῖς, making a fair shew among them. Moreover, what need was there of avoiding Men already separated, and gone out from them? Or to what end should the Apostle give them any Admonitions, or Excommunicate them who had already excluded themselves from the Church's Communion? This Exposition therefore agrees not with the words of the Apostle.

And whereas it is said, such Hereticks are only known to God, I hope they might be known also to Titus, the only Person here bid either to admonish or avoid them, especially if we consider that to him belonged in those times, διάκρισις πνευμάτων, the discerning of Spirits. Moreover, the Church of those Times, in which the Apostles were still preaching, could easily know whether the Doctrines which others taught in opposition to them, were indeed Doctrines received from the Apostles, or not; if they were not, they who taught them must know they received no such Doctrine from them, and so must be self condemn'd in teaching it as received from them, or as the Faith once deliver'd to the Saints; and they who heard them must know they willfully opposed the Doctrine of those Apostles, who had confirmed the Faith with such Authentick Testimonies, as their Opposers could not question. Moreover, they being then bid to try the Spirits whether they were of God, 1 John 4. 1. and the gift of discerning Spirits being then given to the Prophets who managed the Church Affairs, they might then very well be able to judge of these Deceivers, and False-Teachers.

Ver. 12. These words made the Author of the Postscript date this Epistle from Nicopolis of Macedonia, whereas they rather prove the contrary; for he saith not, I have determined to Winter here, but there, which shews he was not yet come thither.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle of St. PAUL to PHILEMON.

SOME have thought this Epistle was not worthy to be rank'd among the Epistles of St. Paul, as being writ upon an Occasion of no great Moment: But it contains Instructions sufficient for so short an Epistle, as v. 9.

1*st. That no* Christian, though of the meanest sort, is to be contemn'd: That Christianity makes the vilest Servant both profitable, and worthy to be highly loved, and honoured by Persons in the highest Dignity; Onesimus being by the Apostle styled his Son, and his Bowels.

2*dly. That* Christianity doth not impair the Power of Masters over their Servants, or give any Authority to them who convert them, to use them as their Servants, without leave granted from their Masters.

3*dly. That Servants ought to make Satisfaction for any Wrong or Injury they have done to their* Masters.

4*thly, That there is an Affection due from the* Master to a profitable Servant.

Who then, say the (a) Greek Interpreters, ~~would refuse to number an Epistle so profi-~~table with the rest?

The (b) Apostolical Constitutions have made this Philemon Bishop of Colos, and St. Jerom seems to incline to that Opinion; but (c) Hilary the Deacon, saith expresly, that he was of no Ecclesiastical Dignity, but one of the Laity. Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, seem also of the same Opinion.

This Epistle was writ in the same Year with that to the Philippians, viz. the 8*th. of* Nero, A. D. 62. when St. Paul expected to be delivered from his Bonds, v. 22.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Epiſtle of St. PAUL to PHILEMON.

CHAP I.

Verſe 1. I Paul, a Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt, and Timothy our Brother, [write] to Philemon, our dearly beloved, and [a] Fellow-a labourer.
b 2. And to our [b] beloved Appia, and Arc d chippus, [c] our fellow Soldier; and [d] to the Church in thy Houſe.

3. [And I wiſh] Grace to you, and Peace e from [e] God our Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

4. I thank my God, making mention of thee always in my Prayers; [or, I thank my God always when I mention thee in my Prayers.]

f 5. Hearing [f] of thy Love and Faith, which [Faith] thou haſt towards the Lord Jeſus, and [love] to all his Saints.

g 6. [And my Prayer is,] that [g] the Communication of thy Faith [or, thy liberality to the Saints, which is the fruit of thy Faith] may become effectual [to bring others to it,] by the acknowledgment of every good thing which is in you in Chriſt Jeſus, [or, may become effectual to the acknowledgment of thy good works by other Chriſtians who have ſuch inſtances of thy Charity.]

7. [And I have reaſon thus to give thanks to God for thee] for we have great Joy and Conſolation in thy love [to the Saints,] becauſe [hereby] the bowels of the Saints, [yearning for relief] are refreſhed by thee, Brother.

8. Wherefore, though I might be much bold, [or having great Power] in Chriſt, to enjoin thee that which is convenient,

9. Yet, for loves ſake, I rather beſeech thee, [or, I rather beſeech thee for loves ſake,] being ſuch an one as Paul [the Apoſtle of Chriſt]
h [h] the Aged, [and upon that account worthy of Reverence,] and now alſo a Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt, [and therefore worthy of Reſpect, Gal. 6. 17. Epheſ. 4. 1. Coloſſ. 4. 18.]

10. I beſeech thee [I ſay] for my Son Oneſimus, whom I have begotten, [i. e. converted to the Faith while I was] in my Bonds.

11. Who in times paſt was to thee [an] i [i] unprofitable [Servant, V. 18, 19.] but now [if received, will be] profitable to thee, and [if ſent back] to me.

12. Whom I have ſent again [unto thee, he being in Duty thine, and not to be employ'd by others, or detain'd without thy leave;] thou therefore receive him, [him, I ſay,] that is is mine own Bowels; [he being as dear to me, as if he had proceeded from mine own Bowels.]

13. Whom I would [willingly] have re-k tained with me, that [k] in thy ſtead he might have miniſter'd to me [being] in the bonds of the Goſpel.

14. But without thy mind would I do nothing [of this nature] that thy benefit [or the Advantage I receive from him who is thy Servant] ſhould not be [on thy part]
l [l] as it were [a matter] of neceſſity [becauſe thou couldſt not have him returned to thee] but willingly [by thy own grant.]

15. For perhaps he therefore departed [from thee] for a ſeaſon, [m] that thou ſhould'ſt
m receive him again for ever, [i. e. to ſerve thee during life.]

16. [That thou ſhould'ſt receive him, I ſay] not now as a Servant [only,] but above a Servant,

Servant, [as being alſo in Chriſt] a Brother, n [a] beloved eſpecially [or particularly] to me; but how much more to thee, both in the fleſh, and in the Lord! [i. e. as being of thy Family, and of thy Faith!]

17. If thou count me therefore a Partner [in thy friendſhip] receive him as my ſelf.

18. If he hath wrong'd thee [in any thing] or oweth thee ought, put that on my account.

19. I Paul have written it with my own hand [and ſo have enter'd into a ſolemn Obligation, that] I will repay it; albeit I do not ſay unto thee, [i. e. I inſiſt not upon it] how thou oweſt to me [by whom thou waſt converted] even thy own ſelf [or the well being of thy Soul] beſides.

20. [o] Yea Brother, [Gr. ναὶ, I pray thee, o therefore] let me [from thy Compliance with me in this matter] have joy of thee in the Lord, [p] refreſh my Bowels in the Lord. p

21. Having confidence in thy obedience, I wrote [thus] to thee, knowing thou wilt alſo do more than I ſay.

22. But withal, prepare me alſo a lodging, [wherefore prepare me a lodging alſo] for I truſt that [q] through your Prayers I ſhall be given q to you.

23. There ſalute thee Epaphras, my fellow-priſoner in Chriſt Jeſus.

24. Marcus, Ariſtarchus, Demas, Lucas, my fellow-labourers.

25. The Grace of Lord our Jeſus Chriſt be with your Spirit. Amen.

Annotations on the Epiſtle of St. Paul to Philemon.

a Verſe 1. Καὶ συνεργῷ ἡμῶν, our Fellow-Labourer.] Hence Chryſoſtom conjectures that he muſt be one of the Clergy: But this is no good Argument, ſeeing Chriſtians in general that promoted the Intereſts of Chriſtianity, and even Women, are by the Apoſtle ſtyled συνεργοὶ his Fellow-Labourers. For the firſt, ſee 3 John v. 8. for the ſecond, Rom. 16. 3.

b Ver. 2. Ἀπφίᾳ τῇ ἀγαπητῇ.] He ſalutes alſo Appia the Wife of Philemon, as Oecumenius and Theophylact conjecture, and Theodoret poſitively aſſerts, and that very probably, ſhe being here rank'd before Archippus. And this he doth, that he might obtain her good will alſo in behalf of Oneſimus.

c Ibid. Συνστρατιώτῃ, our Fellow-Soldier.] So alſo he calls Epaphroditus Fellow-Priſoner with him at Rome, Philip. 2. 23, 25. either becauſe they ſuffer'd with him as good Soldiers of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Tim. 2. 3. Or as (a) St. Jerom ſaith, becauſe being Miniſters with him in the work of the Goſpel, Philip. 2. 25. Col. 4. 17. they were more particularly engaged in fighting the good fight of Faith. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 18.

d Ibid Καὶ τῇ κατ' οἶκον σου ἐκκλησίᾳ, And to the Church in thy Houſe.] He calls his Houſe a Church, ſaith Theodoret, ὡς εὐσεβείᾳ λαμπρυνομένη, as being illuſtrious for the Piety of all its Members. See Note on 1 Cor. 16. 19.

e Ver. 3. Ἀπὸ θεοῦ Πατρὸς, καὶ Κυρίου Ἰησοῦ χριστοῦ, From God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] Ex quo oſtenditur unam filii patriſque eſſe naturam, cum id poteſt filius præſtare quod Pater, & dicitur id Pater præſtare quod filius. Hieronymus in locum.

f Ver. 5. Τὴν ἀγάπην καὶ τὴν πίστιν, thy Love, and Faith.] Here the Apoſtle uſeth the Figure Syntheſis; for Faith is to be referr'd to Chriſt, and Love to the Saints, according to thoſe words of the ſame Apoſtle, We give thanks for you ſince we heard of your Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, and of the Love which you have to all the Saints, Coloſſ. 1. 4. So Matth. 12. 22. The blind, and dumb, both ſpake, and ſaw, i. e. the blind ſaw, and the dumb ſpake; 1 Cor. 6. 11. But ye are ſanctified, but ye are juſtified in the name of the Lord Jeſus, and by the Spirit of our God, i. e. Ye are ſanctified by the Spirit, and juſtified by the Name of Jeſus. And ſo Theodoret interprets theſe words. Hence therefore Papiſts vainly gather, that we may place our Faith in Saints departed; for even their own (b) Eſthius declares, That in the Eccleſiaſtical Phraſe, to believe in any one, is a Profeſſion of Divinity. 'Tis alſo further to be noted from theſe words, That we ought to render thanks to God, not only for the bleſſings vouchſafed to our ſelves, but to others alſo, Rom. 1. 8. 1 Cor. 1. 4. Eph. 1. 16.

Ver. 6. Ἡ κοινωνία, the Communication.] g
Κοινωνίαν πίστεως τὴν ἐλεημοσύνῃ καλεῖ ὡς διὰ πολλῆς πίστεως γινομένην. Theoph. Oecumenius, and Theophylact expound theſe words thus, I pray that the Faith in Chriſt, which thou haſt common with us, may be oprerative in thee to make thee know how to perform every good Work.

Ver. 9. Πρεσβύτης, the aged.] This Epiſtle h being writ, at the furtheſt, but Twenty eight Years from his Converſion, when he is ſtyled Νεανίας, a Young Man, Acts 7. 58. it is enquired how he could be now Πρεσβύτης, Paul the aged?

I anſwer, that both the words, Νεανίσκος, Young, and Πρεσβύτης, Aged, are of that large large ſignification, as is ſufficient to remove this ſeeming Difficulty, (c) P*havorinus*, from Hippocrates, ſaith a Man is ſtyled Νεανίσκος, a Young Man till Twenty eight, and Πρεσβύτης, Aged, from Forty nine to Fifty ſix; making but Twenty one Years difference betwixt them: Elſewhere he ſaith, that Old Age begins ἀπ' ἐτῶν ἑξήκοντα ἐννέα, from Sixty nine Years: But then he ſaith, a Man is, Νεανίσκος, Young, from Twenty three, ἕως ἐτῶν τεσσαρακοντα εἰὸς, till Forty one Years; making the difference between them Twenty eight Years. Varro, in Cœlius Rhodiginus, lib. 29. cap. 21. ſays, a Man is Juvenis, Young, till Forty five; and Aged at Sixty. And thus St. Paul, according to the Computation of St. (d) Chryſoſtom, might be a Young Man, of Thirty five Years, at his Converſion; an Old Man at the writing this Epiſtle, as being then Sixty three, and ſuffering Martyrdom in the Fourteenth Year of Nero.

i Ver. 11. Ἄχρηστον.] Not only an unprofitable, but an injurious Servant, having not only run away from his Maſter, but purloin'd ſome of his Goods, and ſpent what he had thus purloin'd: For had it not been thus, ſaith (e) St. Jerom, the Apoſtle needed not to have ſtipulated for ſatisfaction of the injury, v. 18, 19.

k Ver. 13. Ὑπὲρ σοῦ, in thy ſtead.] A Miniſtery ſeems due from all that are able, towards thoſe that ſuffer, and are in Bonds for Chriſt's ſake; and when it is not performed, there ſeems to be a lack of Service due to them, eſpecially to the Ambaſſadors of Chriſt, Philip. 2. 30.

l Ver. 14. Ὡς κατ' ἀνάγκην, as of neceſſity.] Here again freedom of will is put in oppoſition to neceſſity. See Note on 2 Cor. 9. 7. according to thoſe words of Seneca, De Benef. lib. 2. cap. 4. Si vis ſcire an velim, effice ut poſſim nolle.

m Ver. 15. Ἵνα αἰώνιον αὐτὸν ἀπέχῃς, That that thou mighteſt have him during life.] So Δουλεύσει αὐτῷ εἰς αἰῶνα, He ſhall ſerve him during life, Exod. 21. 6. Ἔσται σοι οἰκέτης εἰς αἰῶνα, He ſhall be thy Servant whilſt he lives, Deut. 15. 17. Καθήσεται εἰς αἰῶνα, He ſhall abide for ever there, 1 Sam. 1. 22. that is ἕως ἡμέρας θανάτου αὐτοῦ, till the day of his Death, v. 11. All the days of his Life, v. 28.

Ver. 16. Ἀγαπητὸν, beloved.] Note here n that love is due even to Bond-Servants from their Maſters, when they are uſeful, and profitable to them; for where Advantage is received from the Labours of another, there love is due.

Ver. 20. Ναὶ.] As the Hebrew נָא is verbum obſecrandi, a word of intreating, ſo is the Greek ναὶ very frequently. See Note on Matth. 15. 27. o

Ibid. Μου τὰ σπλάγχνα, refreſh my Bowels.] p
Either meaning Oneſimus, whom he calls his Bowels, v. 12. or rather himſelf, whoſe Bowels would be refreſhed by Philemon's receiving Oneſimus kindly, for the Lord's ſake.

Ver. 22. Διὰ τῶν προσευχῶν ὑμῶν, By your Prayers.] The Apoſtle knew the efficacy of the Prayers of the Church for preſervation of Chriſt's eminent Servants from impendent dangers, as in the Caſe of Peter, Acts 12. and therefore in moſt of his Epiſtles he doth moſt earneſtly intreat them, that he might be enabled to preach the Goſpel with freedom and ſucceſs, Eph. 6. 19. Coloſſ. 4. 3. 2 Theſſ. 3. 1. and for Deliverance from the malice of his Perſecutors, Rom. 15. 30, 31. 2 Theſſ. 3. 2. or elſe expreſs his confidence that their Prayers will be effectual to that End, as here; and 2 Cor. 1. 10, 11. and 4. 14, 15. Philip. 1. 19. And had he thus conceived of Prayers, directed to Angels, and departed Saints, why doth he not afford one Inſtance of them in all his Epiſtles? q

THE PREFACE TO THE Epiſtle to the HEBREWS.

BY Way of Preface to this excellent Epiſtle, I ſhall enquire,

1. Concerning the Author of it.

2 Touching the Canonical Authority of this Epiſtle.

3. Concerning the Language in which it was originally written.

4. To whom it was indicted, and ſent; and when.

5. Concerning the Occaſion and Deſign of writing this Epiſtle. And,

I. That St. Paul was the Author of this Epiſtle, I prove,

1. From theſe Words of St. Peter, As our dear Brother Paul, according to the Wiſdom given to him, hath written unto you, as in all his Epiſtles, 2 Pet. 3. 15, 16. Whence it is evident, 1. That the Apoſtle Paul had writ to them to whom St. Peter was then writing; i. e. to the Believing Jews in general, 2 Pet. 1. 1. to thoſe of the Diſperſion, mention'd, 1 Pet. 1. 1. 2. That he writ to them ſome certain Letter, diſtinct from all his other Epiſtolary Writings; as appears from thoſe Words, As alſo in all his Epiſtles, i. e. his other Epiſtles. Since then none of the Ancients ſay that this Epiſtle was loſt, it muſt be that which bears the Name of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews.

Obj. To this 'tis anſwer'd, that the Epiſtle intended by St. Peter, may be that written to the Romans, in which he ſpeaketh to the Jews by Name, Chap. 2. 17. and in which is an Exhortation found to count the Long-ſuffering of God Salvation, or that which leadeth to Repentance, v. 4.

Anſw. But 1. That which is written there, is plainly written to the Unbelieving Jews, and concerns them only: Whereas St. Peter writes to the Brethren, Chap. 3. 12. the Beloved, ver. 1, 14, 17. to them who had receiv'd like precious Faith, Chap. 1. 1. He therefore could not mean the Jews of whom Paul ſpeaks in the Epiſtle to the Romans.; Nor 2*dly, can that* Epiſtle be properly ſaid to be writ to the diſperſed Jews, is being writ to thoſe at Rome only, Chap. 1. 7. and chiefly to the Gentiles there, Chap. 1. 13. 11. 13. 15. 15, 16. (3*dly,*) The Words, Ch. 2. 4. are not an Exhortation, to count the Long-ſuffering of God, Salvation; but a Reproof, for deſpiſing this Long ſuffering Whereas in the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, Chap. 10. he commends their Patience under Sufferings, and aſſures them it would find Salvation; and that if they lived by Faith, their Lord would come, and would not tarry.

Arg. 2. A ſecond Argument to prove St. Paul the Author of this Epiſtle, is taken from theſe Words, Know ye that our Brother Timothy is ſet at liberty? With whom, if he come quickly, I will ſee you. They of Italy ſalute you, chap. 13. 23, 24. And from thoſe alſo, Pray for us; and, Do this now the rather, that I may be reſtored to you the ſooner, v. 18, 19. For 1. It is cuſtomary with St. Paul, when he writes to others, to call St. Timothy his Brother: So, Paul the Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, and Timothy our Brother, 2 Cor 1. 1. And again, Coloſ. 1. 1. in the ſame Words: We ſent Timothy, our Brother, 1 Theſ. 3. 2. And Paul a Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt, and Timothy our Brother, Philem. v. 1. This Timothy was a Priſoner at Rome, in the 7th. Year of Nero; and ſet at liberty the 8th, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot. Harm. p. 139, 140. Of which here the Author of this Epiſtle gives notice, and ſaith, he would come with him to them; i. e. to the Jews in Judæa, to whom I ſhall prove anon that this Epiſtle was indicted: Now Timothy, we know, was ſtill the Companion of St. Paul. Laſtly, He deſires them to pray for him; which is frequently done by St. Paul, in moſt of his Epiſtles, viz. In that directed to the Romans, Rom. 15. 30. to the Epheſians, Epheſ. 6. 19. to the Philippians, Philip. 1. 19. to the Coloſſians, Coloſ 4. 3. and to the Theſſalonians, 2 Theſ. 3. 1. and is never done in any of the Catholick Epiſtles. Pray for me, ſaith he, that I may be reſtor'd to you the ſooner. Now Paul was ſent bound from Judæa to Rome; and therefore, his Re- turn from Rome to Judæa was properly a Restoring of him to them. And that he was thus restor'd to them, we learn from (a) St. Chryſoſtom, declaring, that being at liberty, he went to Spain, thence to Judæa, and ſo back to Rome.

Arg. 3. That this Epiſtle was written or compoſed by St. Paul, may yet more ſtrongly be concluded from the Authority of the Ancients, for that they did deliver this as the Epiſtle of St. Paul: And that they were not raſh in ſo doing, we learn from the Words of (b) Origen. Now among theſe Ancients, we may reckon,

1. Clemens Romanus, the Companion of, and Co-worker with, St. Paul; who, as (c) Euſebius and (d) St. Jerom note, hath many Notions which are in this Epiſtle, and uſed many Expreſſions, Word for Word, taken thence. Which ſhew this Epiſtle not to be new, and to be duly reckon'd among the Writings of this Apoſtle.

2. Irenæus, in the Second Century by whom this Epiſtle is ſuppoſed to be cited as a Book written by the Spirit, Adv. Hær. l. 3. c. 6. But not to inſiſt on that, as being uncertain,

3 (e) Clemens Alexandrinus cites thoſe Words of St. Paul, without Faith it is impoſſible to pleaſe God, Heb. 11. 6. adding, that Faith is the Subſtance of Things hoped for, the Evidence of Things not ſeen, ibid. v. 1. κατὰ τὸν θεῖον Ἀπόστολον, according to the Divine Apoſtle. And again, he ſaith, (f) ὁ θεῖος Ἀπόστολος, The Divine Apoſtle fears not to ſay, Remember the former Days, in which ye being enlighten'd, ſuffer'd a great Fight of Affliction, Heb. 10. 32. And ſo he cites him on to the end of that Chapter, then gives the Subſtance of the 11*th. Chapter, and the Exhortation in the Beginning of the* 12*th. v.* 1, 2. And that this Divine Apoſtle was St. Paul, we are aſſur'd from theſe Words, (g) Ἐπεὶ καὶ Παύλῳ τοῖς Ἑβραίοις γράφων τοῖς ἀνακεκλημένοις εἰς νόμον ἐκ πίστεως, Paul alſo writing to the Hebrews, relapſing from Faith, unto the Law, ſaith, Ye have need that one teach you again which be the firſt Principles of the Oracles of God, and are become ſuch as have need of Milk, and not of ſtrong Meat, Heb. 5. 12.

4. In the Third Century, (h) Origen citing the very Words now mention'd, and the following Words, v. 13, 14. For every one that uſeth Milk is unſkilful in the Word of Righteouſneſs; he ſaith, He that writ this, was the ſame Paul who ſaid to the Corinthians, I have fed you with Milk, and not with Meat, &c. 1 Cor. 3, 2. In his (i) Philocalia he ſaith, The Apoſtle Paul, who ſaid to the Corinthians, Theſe things happen'd in a Figure, and they were written for us on whom the Ends of the Ages are come, 1 Cor. 10. 11. doth alſo in another Epiſtle uſe theſe Words, relating to the Tabernacle, Thou ſhalt make all things according to the Pattern ſhewed thee in the Mount, Heb. 8. 5. And that the (k) Apoſtle, who ſaid, Jeruſalem which is above, is free; and is the Mother of us all, Gal. 4. 26. ſaid alſo in another Epiſtle, Ye are come to Mount Sion, the City of the living God, the Heavenly Jeruſalem, and to Myriads of Angels, &c. Heb. 12. 22, 23. In his (l) Exhortation to Martyrdom, he hath theſe Words, ἔφη πού ὁ Παῦλος, St. Paul ſpeaking ſomewhere to them who had ſuffer'd from the Beginning, and exhorting them to ſuffer patiently the Trials which afterwards fell upon them for the Word, ſaith, Call to remembrance the former Days, in which ye being enlighten'd ſuffer'd a great Fight of Afflictions---Caſt not away therefore your Confidence, which hath great Recompence of Reward; for ye have need of Patience, Heb. 10. 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, And in his Anſwer to Africanus, having cited theſe Words from this Epiſtle, They were ſtoned, they were ſawn aſunder, they were ſlain with the Sword, Heb. 11. 37. he ſaith, (m) If any Perſon, being preſſed with theſe Words, ſhould fall into the Opinion of them who reject this Epiſtle, as none of St. Paul's, he would uſe other Words, to demonſtrate to him that it was the Epiſtle of St. Paul. He alſo adds, That (n) the Sentences contain'd in it are admirable, and no whit inferior to the Writings of the Apoſtles; as he who diligently reads them muſt confeſs.

In a Word, when this Epiſtle was denied by the Arians in the Fourth Century, becauſe they were not able to reſiſt the Conviction it affords us us of our Lord's Divinity, (o) Theodoret ſaith, They ought at leaſt to revere the length of Time, in which the Children of the Church have read this Epiſtle in the Churches, viz. as long as they have read the Apoſtolick Writings: Or if this be not ſufficient to perſuade them they ſhould hearken to (p) Euſebius, of whom they boaſt, as of the Patron of their Doctrine; for he confeſſes this was St. Paul's Epiſtle, and he declares that all the Ancients had this Opinion of it.

That they of Rome, and other Latins did for a while reject this Epiſtle, will not much weaken this Tradition, if we conſider,

1. That this Epiſtle was not writ to them, but to the Hebrews, who, as Euſebius (q) teſtifies, delighted much in it.

2dly, That it was rejected by them, not that they had any thing to ſay againſt it, but becauſe they could not anſwer the Arguments which the Novatian Schiſmaticks among them produced from the 6th. and 10th. Chapters of this Epiſtle, againſt receiving lapſed Penitents into the Church; whence, as Philaſtrius informs us, they rejected it, as thinking it was depraved by the Hereticks. Or,

3dly, That this Epiſtle was written, and directed to the Jews dwelling in Judæa and Paleſtine, is the Opinion of the (r) Ancients, tho' not ſo as to exclude the believing Jews of the Diſperſion. This may be argued from the Endorſement of it, To the Hebrews, rather than To the Jews. It cannot be imagined but that he ſends it to be delivered at a certain Place, within ſome reaſonable Compaſs, ſeeing the Bearer of it, whoever he was, could not deliver it to all the Jews diſpers'd through the whole World, and becauſe he directs them to pray, that he might be reſtored to them, and promiſeth to come and ſee them. The Title therefore, To the Hebrews, muſt determine the Place, and point out the Jews that dwelt in Judæa, or the Land of Iſrael; and this Senſe doth the Holy Ghoſt put upon the Title, The Hebrews, when it is ſaid, There was a murmuring of the Helleniſts againſt the Hebrews, Acts 6. 1. By the Helleniſts, meaning the Jews that dwelt in Foreign Countries, among the Greeks; and by the Hebrews, thoſe that dwelt in Judæa. So again, 2 Cor. 11. 22. Are they Hebrews? ſo am I: Are they Iſraelites? ſo am I. And Philip 3. 5. Of the Stock of Iſrael, an Hebrew of the Hebrews, i. e. an Hebrew not only by Deſcent, as were all of the Stock of Iſrael, but by Language which ſome of them had loſt, and by Habitation in the Holy Land; and not among the uncircumciſed Gentiles, he being bred up at the Feet of Gamaliel. And ſo it is moſt proper to underſtand the Inſcription of this Epiſtle, namely, that St. Paul directs and ſends it to the believing Jews of Judæa, which he Styles his own Nation, Acts 24. 17. For though he, doubtleſs, did intend it alſo for the Benefit of the believing Jews diſpers'd, yet might he ſend it firſt and chiefly to thoſe in Judæa, the principal Seat of the Circumciſion, from whence it might in time diffuſe it ſelf through the whole Circumference of the Circumciſion.

But hence is cannot reaſonably be concluded that this Epiſtle was writ in Hebrew, or in Syriack: For the Goſpel of St. John, and his Firſt Epiſtle, the Catholick Epiſtles of St. James, Peter, and St. Jude, were alſo written to the Jews, and yet were writ in Greek, that being a Tongue ſo well known to the Jews, that they call it the vulgar Tongue; and therefore in all the Diſcourſes of the Jews with the Roman Governours, who underſtood the Greek Tongue, we never read, either in Scripture, or Joſephus, that the Jews ſpake to them, or they unto the Jews, by an Interpreter; nor is there any of the Ancients who pretends to have ſeen any Hebrew Copy of this Epiſtle. That it was writ in Greek, appears not only from the Paſſages of Scripture, ſo often cited in it from the Septuagint, even where they differ from the Hebrew, Chap. 1. 6. 3. 8, 9, 10. 8. 9. 10. 5, 37, 38 but alſo from Chap. 7. 2. where we read thus, πρῶτον μὲν ἑρμηνευόμενος βασιλεὺς δικαιοσύνης, firſt being interpreted King of Righteouſneſs, and afterwards King of Salem, which is King of Peace; for both the Word Melchiſedeck, and King of Salem, being in the firſt Verſe, ſhould have been there interpreted, had this been the Addition of the Interpreter; for so we find it is throughout the New Testament, where the Interpretation immediately follows the Hebrew Word, or Phraſe, as Mark 5. 41. Talitha cumi, which is by Interpretation, Daughter ariſe. Golgatha, which is by Interpretation, the Place of a Skull, Mark 15. 22. So Matth. 27. 46. Mark 15. 34. John 1. 39. Rabbi, which is, being interpreted, Maſter; and v. 42. Meſſiah, which is, being interpreted, the Chriſt. So Ch. 9. 7. 19. 37. Acts 4. 36. 9. 36. 13. 8. whereas here the Word Melchiſedeck is in the beginning of the firſt Verſe, and the ſuppoſed Addition of the Interpreter is added where the Word is not; ſo King of Salem is in the firſt Verſe not interpreted, and when it is repeated, then comes the Interpretation, which plainly ſhews, that it is made not to give the Senſe, but the Myſtery contained in the Words, viz. That Chriſt was our Peace, Eph. 2. 14. and his Scepter was a Scepter of Righteouſneſs, Chap. 1. 8.

4thly, As for the time when this Epiſtle was indited, 1. It ſeems evident that it was written after that to the Coloſſians and to Philemon; for there he is Paul, the Priſoner, here he is ſet at Liberty, and hoping to come quickly to them to whom he writes: Thoſe Epiſtles therefore being writ in the 62*d Year of Chriſt, and the* 8*th. of* Nero, this muſt at leaſt be written in the following Year. Again, in the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians we have mention of St. Timothy, but nothing of his Bonds; here we have mention both of his Impriſonment and his enſuing Liberty, which may well caſt this Epiſtle into the 9*th. of* Nero, where it is placed by Biſhop Pearſon.

Laſtly, To ſpeak a little of the Occaſion of it, I have ſhewed in the Preface to the 2*d. Epiſtle to the* Theſſalonians, and in the Preface to the Epiſtle to St. James, that it was written chiefly to prevent that Epidemical Apoſtacy, from Chriſt to Moſes, which the believing Jews were then too prone to. But we learn alſo from the Matter of the Epiſtle, that it was written to prove that Jeſus was the Son of God: Now in what Senſe this chiefly was denied by the Jews, we learn from the Goſpel of St. John, where, when our Lord had ſaid, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work, John 5. 17. The Jews ſeek to kill him, becauſe πατέρα ἴδιον ἔλεγε τὸν Θεὸν, he ſaid, God was his own Father, making himſelf equal to God, v. 18. And again, We ſtone thee, ſay they, for Blaſphemy, becauſe thou, being a Man, makeſt thy ſelf God, John 10. 33. What was this Blaſphemy of which they thus accuſe him? It was only this, that he ſaid, I am the Son of God, v. 36. 'Tis therefore plain they judged it the ſame thing to ſay he was the Son of God, and to ſay that he was God; whence we may rationally conclude, 'twas alſo in this Senſe that the Apoſtle here aſſerts, and doth endeavour to confirm this Truth.

And, Laſtly, this Epiſtle being written to Perſons now relapſing from Chriſt to Moſes, and to the Law given, ſaid they, by Angels, this ſeems to be the Reaſon why the Apoſtle is ſo large in ſhewing that Chriſt was greater than the Angels, a greater Law-giver than Moſes, a greater Prieſt than Aaron, and that the Levitical Prieſthood, Covenant, and Law, were to give Place to Chriſt our great High-Prieſt, to his new Law of Liberty, and that new Covenant he had eſtabliſhed upon better Promiſes.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Epistle of St. PAUL to the HEBREWS.

CHAP. I.

a Verse 1. GOD who at sundry times
b and in divers manners, spake in time past unto the Fathers by the Prophets;

2. Hath in these last days [the times of the Messiah, see Note on 2 Tim. 3. 1.] spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed c d [εθηκε, constituted] c Heir of all things, d by whom also he made the Worlds.

e 3. Who being the e brightness of his glory, f and the express Image of his Person, g [or Character of his Subsistence,] and f upholding all things by the word of his Power, h g when he had [Gr. having] by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high.

4. Being made [Gr. being] so much better than the Angels, [and superiour to them by this exaltation to the right hand of Majesty] as he i hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name [Title, and Authority] than they.

5. For to which of the Angels said he k at any time [as he did to Christ] h thou art my son, this day have I begotten thee? And again [to Solomon the Son of David, who did more eminently belong to this Son, and Lord of l David] i I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son. (2 Sam. 7. 14. 1 Chron. 22. 10.)

6. And again, when he bringeth in [ὅταν δὲ πάλιν, and when he brings again] the first begotten [from the Dead, Col. 1. 18.] into
m the World, he saith: And m let all the Angels of God worship him [establishing thus his Dominion over them, and their subjection to him, and also the Divine Excellency of him who was thus to be worshipped by the highest of created Beings.]

7. And [moreover speaking] n of the Angels, he [i. e. David only] saith, [he is that God] who maketh his Angels Spirits, [or winds] and his Ministers a flame of fire; [giving them no higher Titles than those of his Messengers, and Ministers, and shewing their efficacy and swiftness in doing his Commandments, and hearkening to the Voice of his Words, by comparing them to the winds and fire.] Psal. 104. 20, 21.

So that these words again speak both his Divine Nature, and his Exaltation to the Government of the whole World.*]

sus Christ, is done by his Prophetick Office, i. e. his speaking to us in the last days, the Apostle had mentioned this already, and makes a plain gradation from it to his Kingly Office, in saying he was constituted Lord of all things, not speaking of making the World by way of Consecution, thus, καὶ δι' ὃν and by whom, but by way of farther Gradation, δι' ὃν καὶ, by whom also he made the World; as if he should have said, nor is it to be wondred that he should be constituted Lord of the whole World, seeing he made the whole. And that the Apostle here doth speak, not of the Reforming of the New, but of the Forming of the Old World, he himself sufficiently instructs us by saying in this same Epistle, By Faith we understand, κατηρτίσθαι τοὺς αἰῶνας ῥήματι Θεοῦ, that the Worlds were formed by the Word of God, Ch. 11. 3. For that by τοὺς αἰῶνας we are to understand the material World, the Socinian Commentators grant, and the Parallel Place in St. Peter doth inforce, when he saith, that the Heavens were of old, and the Earth, ἐξ ὕδατος καὶ δι' ὕδατος συνεστῶσα τῷ τοῦ Θεοῦ λόγῳ, consisting out of Water by the Word of God, 2 Pet. 3. 3. and this World is mentioned in both places in the plural number, agreeably to the Phrase and Doctrine of the Jews * who speak of עולמים i. e. the Worlds in the Plural, and divide them into עולם הזה or עולם חשפל, i.e. this inferior and habitable World, called by St. Peter ὁ τότε κόσμος, the then World which perished by Water; v. 6. and the עולם העליון superior World, that is, the Heavens. And it is no improbable conjecture, that when St. Peter saith the Heavens and Earth consisted by the Word of God; and St. Paul, that by Faith we learn that the Worlds were framed, ῥήματι Θεοῦ, by the Word of God, they mean this substantial Word of which the Apostle is here speaking; for the word דבר seems plainly to be used in this Sense, when we read in the Targum of Jerusalem, on Gen. 28. 11. דהוה דבוריה For his Word, i. e. the Word of God, desired to speak with Jacob, and in that of Jonathan. דבירא the Word would speak with him, which in Bereschith Rabba, §. 68. runs thus, God would speak with him; and the word ῥῆμα seems also to be either used in this Sense, or applied to the λόγος, oft by (b) Philo, as when he saith, that Moses was translated, διὰ ῥήματος τοῦ αἰτίου, δι' ὃν καὶ συμπὰς κόσμος ἐδημιουργεῖτο, by the word of the first Cause, by which the World was made; and that God made both (c) the Heavens and the Earth by a word, by his most illustrious and splendent λόγος, And to be sure, Philo was of the same Opinion with St. Paul, that the Word made and fashioned the World, whence he so often mentions, the Divine Word (d) adorning all things, the Word of God that maketh the World, the Word by which the World is fashioned, and made, and by which, as his Organ, God gave being to it, and saith in words like those of the Apostle, (e) That God possesseth all things, using that word as the Dispenser of his Gifts, by which also he made the World; And this was also the Doctrine of all the Primitive Fathers from the beginning, as well as of all the Commentators on this Text, (f) St. Barnabas declares, that he is the Lord of the World, the Maker of the Sun, the Person by whom, and to whom are all things. He is, saith (g) Justin Martyr, the Word by which the Heaven, the Earth, and every Creature was made, by whom God at the beginning made and ordained all things, viz. the Heavens and the Earth, and by whom he will renew them. This (h) Irenæus delivers as the Rule of Faith contained in the Scriptures, which they who hold to, may easily prove, that the Hereticks had deviated from the Truth. He adds, that the Barbarians who held the Ancient Tradition, did believe in one God, the Maker of Heaven and Earth, and of all things therein by Jesus Christ, the Son of God; and this Doctrine he repeats almost an hundred times elsewhere. Our Doctrine, saith (i) Athenagoras, celebrates one God,

God the Creator of all things, who made all things by Jesus Christ, from whom, and by whom, all things were made. God, saith (k) Theophilus, made all things by him, and he is called the Beginning, because he is the Principle, and Ruler of all things made by him. He adds, That by this Principle God made the Heavens: That God said to him, let us make Man, he being his Word, by which he made all things. Him (l) saith Tatian, we know to have been the Author of the World, for that which was begotten in the beginning, gave beginning to the things made. He made Man the Image of his Immortality, and before Man he made the Angels. We Rational Creatures, saith (m) Clemens of Alexandria, are the work of God the Word, for he was, and is, the Divine Principle of all things, by whom all things were made, and who, as the Framer of all things, in the beginning, gave also life to us; by whom are all things; who made Man, our God and Maker, the cause of the creation. In the Third Century we learn the same from (n) Origen, (o) Tertullian, (p) Novatian, St. (q) Cyprian, and others cited by the Learned Dr. Bull. So that in these two Verses there be visible these Gradations, one from Christ's Prophetick Office to his Kingly Office conferred on him as Heir of all things, the other from his Kingly Office to the Foundation of it, laid in his Divine Nature, and in the work of the Creation; it being, say Irenæus, and the Ancient Fathers, fit that he should reform, and govern the World, by whom 'twas formed; that he should give new Life to Man, who gave him his Being, and first Breath.

e Ver. 3. Ἀπαύγασμα τ δόξης, i. e. the Resplendence, or shining forth of his Glory.] This Metaphor some of the Fathers think is taken from the Sun, whence (r) Justin Martyr saith, he proceedeth from the Father, as τὸ τῦ ἡλίυ φῶς, the light of the Sun, without Division, or Separation from him. Others with him παραδείγματος χάριν, for Examples sake, say (s) he proceedeth ὡς ἀπὸ πυρὸς ἀναπτόμενα πυρά, as fire is kindled from fire without the Diminution of the fire that kindles it, or as ἀπὸ δαδὸς δᾶς, as one Torch is lighted from another, which is the Metaphor of Tatian, p. 145. which Metaphors they have borrowed from (t) Philo, who speaking of the Spirit in Moses, derived upon the Seventy Elders, cautions us not to understand this to be done κατὰ ἀποκοπὴν, ἢ διάζευξιν, by Abscision, or Disjunction, ἀλλ' ὁῖα γένοιτ' ἂν ἀπὸ πυρὸς, but as light from fire, at which if you light a thousand Torches, it is not diminished; accordingly the Nicene Council style him Light of Light, and hence they argue his Consubstantiality with the Father, who produces not another Essence, or Substance in the Son, but communicates the same Essence to him. The like Notions the Jews seem to have had of their λόγος or Wisdom, which is with them the same: For the Book of Wisdom saith of her, that she is, ἀπόῤῥοια τ τῦ παντοκράτορος δόξης εἰλικρινὴς ἢ ἀπαύγασμα φωτὸς ἀϊδίυ, an efflux of the sincere Glory of the Almighty, and the splendor of eternal Light, Ch. 7. 25, 26. And (u) Philo saith of the λόγος, that he is τὸ τῦ ἀοράτυ ἢ μεγίστυ θεῦ περιφανέστατον ἢ περιαυγέστατον φῶς, the most illustrious and splendid Light of the invisible and highest God. And this the Jews might better understand, if it were taken, as probably it was, from the Glory that conducted them out of Egypt, led them through the Wilderness, and dwelt among them, first in the Ark, and Tabernacle, and afterwards in the Temple. For 'tis observable,

1. That this δόξα, Glory, or Shechinah, so often mentioned in the Old Testament, and in the Writings of the Jews, was not the Cloud it self, that being only the Cover of it, but the Light, Fire, or Splendor that issued from it. So Exod. 24. 16. And the Glory of the Lord dwelt upon Mount Sinai, and the Cloud covered it, (viz. the Glory of the Lord) six days; and the sight of the Glory of the Lord (when it broke out of the Cloud after six days) was as burning fire on the Top of the Mount, in the sight of the People Israel. And Exod. 40. 34. Then a Cloud covered the Tent of the Congregation, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. And v. 35. Moses was not able to enter into the Tent of the Congregation, because the Cloud abode thereon, and the Glory of the Lord filled the house, 1 Kings 8. 10, 11. the Priests were come out of the Holy Place; the Cloud filled the house of the Lord, so that the Priests could not stand to minister, because of the Cloud; for the Glory of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord. Ezek. 10. 4. And the house was filled with the Cloud, and the court was full of the brightness of the Glory of the Lord. Note,

2*dly*. That this Glory is styled the Glory of the Lord, not as being it self a Divine thing, or a Ray of Divinity, but as being the Symbol of God's glorious Presence, and abode where it appeared, and resided. Thus the Cloud which consisted of a dark part to cover the fire, or light, and a bright side by the appearance of the light, is called the Cloud of Jehovah, Exod. 40. 38. Num. 10. 34. because God was gloriously present in it; or as Rabbi Moses Ben Nachman on Exod. 40. 34. saith שוכן בתוך הענן כיהכבוד because the Glory dwelt in the midst of it; whence God said, Lo I come to thee in a thick Cloud, Exod. 19. 9. I will appear in the Cloud upon the Mercy Seat, Lev. 16. 2. He spake to Moses out of the Cloud, Num. 7. 89. And when he went to receive his Commands, it is said, And Moses drew near to the thick darkness where God was, Exod. 20. 21. And lastly, God is said to go before them by Day in a Pillar of Cloud, and by Night in the Pillar of Fire, Exod. 13. 21. Num. 14. 14.

Again, the Ark in which this Glory dwelt between the Cherubims, is called, כבוד יי the Glory of the Lord, i. e. of that glorious Majesty who dwelt in it, whence the God of Israel is often styled the God that sitteth between the Cherubims, because here, say the (x) Jews, he fixed his Residence, and Presence, notwithstanding that he fills Heaven and Earth, and his Majesty is in Heaven, and in all the Earth. And when the Ark was to be taken up and carried any whither, they sung thus, Arise Jehovah, and let thine Enemies be scattered, Num. 10. 35. Psal. 68. 2. and when it rested, thus, Give rest, Jehovah, to the many thousands of Israel, not styling the Ark Jehovah, but the glorious Majesty that dwelt in it, or him, and the Ark of his strength, Ps. 132. 8. where also it may be noted, That the Targum of Jerusalem and Jonathan read thus, Rise up O Word of the Lord, and Return O Word of the Lord. And Psal. 24. when the Ark was brought from the House of Obed-Edom, and settled in Mount Sion, and placed in the Holy of Holies, they sung thus, Lift up your heads, O ye Gates, that the King of Glory may come in, i. e. the Lord of Hosts, who dwelt in the Ark.

Accordingly our Lord Jesus after his Ascension, appeared still in, or with the Glory of the Lord. When he was transfigured on Mount Tabor he was in this Splendor, Matth. 17. 2. styled by St. Peter μεγαλοπρεπὴς δόξα, the Magnificent Glory, 2 Pet. 1. 17. So he appeared to Stephen, who saw the glory of the Lord, and Jesus standing at the right hand of God, Acts 7. 55 So to Saul, when a light brighter than the Sun shone round about him, and he heard a voice out of it saying to him, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest, Acts 9. 5. 26. 13. He being ὁ Κύριος ἡ δόξης the Lord of Glory, 1 Cor. 2. 8. see Rev. 1. 14, 15. 2. 18. 18. 1. 19. 12. And because of God's residence in this Glory, the word Glory doth often signifie God himself; as when we read of the Throne, and the House of Glory, i. e. of the glorious God. So (y) Rabbi Joseph Abbo, it is the manner of the Scripture to call the visible Glory and Splendor of the Divine Majesty by the Name of God. So Psal. 106. 20. They turned their Glory into the similitude of a Calf, Jer. 2. 11. My People have changed their Glory for that which doth not profit. And so the Fathers seem to take the word Glory here for the Divine Majesty. Note,

3*dly*. That from this Glory, when God did any wondrous works of Power, Mercy, and Judgment, there is said to be an Emanation or shining forth of Glory; as when Fire went forth from the Glory of the Lord to consume their Sacrifices, in token of his favourable acceptance of them. So Lev. 9. 23, 24. The Glory of the Lord appeared, and there came a Fire out from before the Lord, and consumed upon the Altar the Burnt Offering, and the fat. So 2 Chron. 7. 1, 2, 3. Accordingly they begg'd his Favour in these words, Thou that dwellest between the Cherubims, shine forth, Ps. 80. 1. See Ps. 50. 2. Deut. 33. 3. And to consume Transgressors, viz. Nadab and Abihu, Lev. 10. 2. and the two hundred and fifty men that offered incense, Numb. 16. 35. See Exod 14. 24, 25. And in like manner may the Son be said to be ἀπαύγασμα τῆς δόξης, an Emanation, or shining forth from the Glory of the Father; as being before all things, Prolatus à Patre, sive generatus, begotten or brought forth by the Father, saith Irenæus, l. 2. c. 48. 4. 28. being always in him, but τῆς ὑλικῶν ξυμπάντων ἰδέα καὶ ἐνέργεια ἔναι προελθών, coming forth before all things to be the Idea, and active Power of all material Beings, So Athenagoras, p. 10. The word, whom the Father begat, ἐξ ἐρ ἐξάμενος πρὸ πάντων, sending him forth before all things, who was always in God, and became λόγος προφορικός, when he would create the World. So (z) Theophilus whom he made προπηδᾶν to leap from him. Say (a) Justin Martyr and Tatian, he being in him before all Ages, προελθὼν ὁ λόγος δημιουργίας, the Word coming forth, which is the cause of the Creation, προγεννηθεὶς δι' ὃν τὰ πάντα, and forebegotten, by which all things were made, saith (b) Clemens Alexandrinus. The Word brought forth by the Father, and by that Prolation generated, and therefore the Son of God, saith (c) Tertullian.

f Ibid. Καὶ χαρακτὴρ τ ὑποστάσεως αὐτ, The Impression, or Representation of his Subsistence.] The Phrase signifies, saith Theodoret, that he subsists by himself, καὶ ἐν ἑαυτῷ δ' ἔχειν τὰς παλειὰς χαρακτῆρας, and in himself Represents the Characters of his Father. Χαρακτὴρ, saith Phavorinus, is διατύπωσις δηλέσα τ ὑπόστασιν, a Form or Draught manifesting the Substance whence it was taken. Ὑπόστασις, saith he, is the Substance with the Properties; ἡ σὺν μετὰ τ ἰδιωμάτων, or συνδρομὴ τ περὶ ἑκάστ ἰδιωμάτων, a Concourse of all the Properties of any Being; so that the Character of his Subsistence here, is, according to him, a Draught manifesting, or exhibiting the Substance and Properties of God. According to the Greek Commentators on the Place, it is the same with our Lord's being in the Form of God, before he took our Nature on him, Phil. 2. 5. Accordingly Wisdom is, by the Author of the Book that bears that Name, stiled ἔσοπτρον ἀνηλίδατον τ τ Θεῦ ἐνεργείας καὶ εἰκὼν τ ἀγαθότητος αὐτ, The unspotted Mirror of the Power or Activity of God, and the Image of his Goodness, Chap. 7. 26. The λόγος is, saith (d) Philo, ἀΐδιος εἰκὼν αὐτ, the Eternal Image of God. (e) The Image of God δι' ὃν σύμπας ὁ κόσμος ἐδημιουργεῖτο, by which the whole World was made. And of the Angel which God sent before Israel, in whom God's Name was, Exod. 23. 22. the Jews say he was מלאך פניו i. e. the Angel of his Face; because saith, (f) R. M. Gerundensis, God's Face, or Glory, might be seen in him, or he exactly Represented him; yea the Government of the whole World was committed to him, and God had made him Lord over his whole House, and had made all things subject to him. Now these things so exactly agree, with what the Apostle here ascribes to Christ, that I could not think them unworthy to be noted here.

g Ibid. Φέρων τε πάντα τῷ ῥήματι τ δυνάμεως αὐτ, And upholding all things by the Word of his Power. The Hebrew Word נשא is some times rendred φέρω, Sustineo; as when tis said of Moses, Numb. 11. 14. 17. I cannot φέρειν sustain, or bear all this People. And Deut. 1. 9, 12. How can I alone φέρειν τ πόνον, bear the Labour of all this People? And of Christ, that φέρει, he bears the burthen of our Sins, Isa. 53. 4. sometimes it signifies to Govern, when נשא is sometimes rendred βασιλεὺς, a King, Gen. 23. 6. sometimes ἄρχων a Prince, as it is rendred above Sixty times: Sometimes ἀρχηγὸς in the same Sense, Numb. 13. 3. and 16. 2. and sometimes ἡγέμενος a Governor, Jos. 13. 22. 2 Chron. 5. 1. and the Greek φέρειν, signifies not only to sustain, but also, suo arbitratu moderari, to Govern at his Will: Now which of these two Senses you put upon the Words it is not much material, since it is equally the effect of a Divine Power to sustain, and govern all things; whence this is by the Jews made the Description of God himself, that he is a God מביל נלא (g) sustaining all things, the Heavens, the Earth, and the Abyss, and bearing all People. ברוח ממרוה by the Spirit of his Word. Accordly of the λόγος (h) Philo often saith, That he is πηδαλιοῦχος καὶ κυβερνήτης πάντων, he that sits at the Helm, and Governs all things: That he is (i) ὁ συνέχων καὶ διοικῶν τὰ πάντα, he that containeth and Dispenseth all things. That God as a King and Shepherd Rules according to Law and Right, placing over us his first begotten Son, (k) ὃς τὴν ἐπιμελείαν τ ἱερᾶς τούτης ἀγέλης ὥσπερ μεγάλε βασιλέως ὕπαρχος διαδέχεται, who as the Pro-rex of the great King, takes care of the Sacred Flock.

It remains yet to be enquired, whether these things are spoken of our Lord, as acting here on Earth, or purely of the Divine Nature he had before the World was made. The Socinians, and some others think all this relates to our Saviour, as acting here on Earth; That he was the Splendour of his Father's Glory, because God who commanded the Light to shine out of Darkness, hath shined into our Hearts to give the Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God in the Face of Jesus Christ, 2 Cor. 4. 6. On which account the Apostle saith, We have seen his Glory, the Glory as of the Only-begotten Son of God, Joh. 1. 14. That he was the Character of his Substance, or his Attributes, as he was the Image of the invisible God, Col. 1. 15. in which his Power, Wisdom, Holiness, Love and Mercy shined forth conspicuously: That he did φέρειν, Præstare, perform all things by the word of his Power; as he made the Winds and Seas calm, rebuked Diseases, and cast out Devils by his Word. And Mr. Clerc is positive, That it must be the Human Nature which this Sacred Writer spake of, that the Jews might understand what he said was true; for that alone is visible, and nothing but what is such can be called the Image

Image, or brightness of any thing among men. On the other hand it is certain that all the Fathers were of another Mind; That when Philo and the Ancient Jews spake thus of Wisdom, the Logos, the Angel of God's Face, they understood all that they said of the Logos, and Wisdom subsisting long before our Saviour's Incarnation, and so thought this Logos the Splendor, and Image of the Father, when he was not visible among Men; as the Apostle saith he was, when he was taken from them into Heaven. 'Tis certain also, that the preceding Words, by whom also he made the Worlds, cannot be spoken of Christ Incarnate; and the Words, upholding all things by the Word of his Power, seem to import the same with that Expression of the Apostle, Col. 1. 17. By him all things consist. Moreover could these things be attributed to our Lord Christ as acting in the Flesh, yet have I proved, Note on Col. 1. 15. that they must be ascribed to a Divine Nature residing in him, or to God manifested in the Flesh, and so what Mr. Clerk says must be the Humane Nature, must, say I, be the Divine Nature.

Ibid. δι' ἑαυτοῦ καθαρισμὸν ποιησάμενος
h ἁμαρτιῶν, when he had by himself purg'd our Sins.] i.e. When he had made himself an Expiatory Sacrifice, to purge us from the Guilt and Punishment of our Transgressions. To confirm this let it be noted,

First, That this was the Opinion of all Nations, that their Expiatory Sacrifices were designed to take away the Guilt of Sin, and make Atonement for it to an offended Majesty. For why are they still said, ἁγνίζειν, καθαρίζειν, purgare, lustrare, to purge, and to make clean, but from their supposed Vertue to purify them from the Guilt of Sin? And because Sin is often represented in the Law of Moses, and in the Prophets, under the Metaphors of Uncleanness, Filthiness, Defilement, and Pollution; therefore their Sacrifices also are still represented as cleansing them from the Guilt, and the Defilement of Sin, and so making the Pollution to pass from them. Hence the Blood which made the Atonement is stiled, αἷμα καθαρισμοῦ the blood of Cleansing, or Purgation. So Exod. 30. 10. And Aaron shall make an Atonement upon the Horns of the Incense-Offering once a Year, ἀπὸ τοῦ αἵματος καθαρισμοῦ καθαριεῖ αὐτό, with the blood of the Sin-offering shall he make Atonement upon it. And the Sacrifice offered for Sin, is said to be offered καθαρίσαι, to purifie them from it by an Atonement. So Lev. 9. 15. And he brought the People's offering, and took the Goat which was the Sin-offering, and slew it, καὶ ἐκαθάρισεν αὐτό, and offered it for Sin. And Lev. 16. 30. In the great day of Atonement, the Priest shall make an Atonement for you, καθαρίσαι ὑμᾶς, to cleanse you, that you may be clean from all your Sins before the Lord, καὶ καθαρισθήσεσθε, and you shall be cleansed. So Job is said, καθαρίζειν to cleanse his Sons from their supposed Sins by a Burnt-offering, Chap. 1. 5. Since therefore it is very reasonable to conceive that the word καθαρίζειν used in an Epistle written to the Jews touching the Expiatory Sacrifice of Christ, is used in the sense in which they always took it when applied in the Old Testament, to Sacrifies which made Atonement for their Sins; it follows, that when the Apostle here said, Christ made καθαρισμὸν, a purgation of our Sins by himself, And when he adds, That whereas the Blood of the Legal Sacrifices did expiate εἰς τὴν τῆς σαρκὸς καθαρότητα, to the Purification of the Flesh, the Blood of Christ καθαριεῖ, shall much more expiate to the Purification of the Conscience from the Guilt of Sin, Ch. 9. 13. When he proceeds to say, That whereas under the Law almost all things ἐν αἵματι καθαρίζονται, were purified by blood, and without shedding of blood there was no Remission, v. 22, 23. And thence Argues, That the heavenly things must be purged with better Sacrifices: He in these Cases must speak of the Blood of Christ, as making Atonement for our Sins, by purging away the Guilt of them, and averting the Punishment due to us for them.

Ver. 4. Διαφορώτερον ὄνομα, a more excellent name.] i. e. not only title, but Authority, and Superiour excellency. So Phil. 2. 9. God hath highly exalted him, and given him, ὄνομα τὸ ὑπὲρ πᾶν ὄνομα, a name above every name, i. e. the highest Dignity, and Power, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow; i. e. that all Creatures in Heaven, in Earth, or under it, should own his Power and Dominion, v. 10. Eph. 1. 21. He hath set him at his Right hand, above all Principality, Power, Might and Dominion, καὶ παντὸς ὀνόματος and every name. In both these senses Christ hath a more excellent name, viz. the name of his only Son, v. 5 the name of God, v. 8. and a more excellent Authority and Dignity, viz. that of sitting at the Right hand of Majesty, v. 13. and ruling all things by the word of his Power; and this Excellency he hath upon a better Foundation, as being the maker of the World, &c. v. 2, 3.

Ver. 5. Υἱός μου εἶ σύ, Thou art my Son. (m) R. Solomon here saith, Our Masters have interpreted all that is written in this Psalm of the King Messiah. And (n) Saadias Gaon, doth from these very words prove the Dominion, and Kingdom of the Messiah, because it is here said, I have set thee, my King, upon the holy Hill of Sion. I will declare the Com- mand, Jehovah hath ſaid unto me, Thou art my Son, &c. which alſo is apparent from the following words, I will give the Heathen for thine Inheritance, &c. v. 8. and from the Exhortation to all Kings to ſubmit to him. And that this was the Ancient, and received Expoſition of theſe words, confirmed by the Holy Ghoſt, we learn from this Apoſtle, who diſputing with the Jews, touching our Saviour's Reſurrection, when all Power in Heaven and Earth was given to him, Matth. 28. 18. He proves it from theſe very words, Acts 13. 33. And again, ſpeaking of his Prieſthood, which he was to exerciſe in Heaven after his Reſurrection, and Aſcenſion. He proves it to the ſame Jews from theſe very words, Heb. 5. 5.

l Ibid. Ἐσομαι αὐτῷ εἰς πατέρα, I will be to him a Father, &c.] Theſe words are cited from 2 Sam. 7. 14. and they do promiſe to Solomon, the Type of Chriſt, a Kingdom to be eſtabliſhed for ever, v. 13, 16. and ſo to Chriſt, the Antitype, and eminently the Son of God, an everlaſting Kingdom, and Dominion. See the Judgment of the Jewiſh Church, p. 61.

Note alſo, That though the Angels be ſometimes in Scripture called the Sons of God, Job 1. 6. 2. 1. 38. 7. God never ſaid to any of them, I will be to him a Father, to protect him in his Kingdom; much leſs, Thou art my Son, this Day have I begotten thee to a Kingdom: And ſo theſe Paſſages, in the true, and full Extent of them, cannot agree to any of the Angels.

m Ver. 6. Προσκυνησάτωσαν αὐτῷ πάντες ἄγγελοι θεοῦ, Let all the Angels of God Worſhip him.] 'Tis generally thought theſe words are cited from Pſal. 97. 7. where in the Septuagint we have words very like them, viz. προσκυνήσατε αὐτῷ πάντες Ἄγγελοι αὐτοῦ, worſhip him all his Angels; in the Hebrew it is indeed כל אלהים all ye Elohim, but then Aben Ezra's note, is, that ſome think כל אלהים הם המלאכים the Word Elohim always denotes the Angels: And (o) Kimchi ſaith, the Hebrews did expound this Pſalm, of what was to come to paſs in the Days of the Meſſiah. In the Septuagint it is ſtiled a Pſalm of David, ὅτι ἡ γῆ αὐτῷ καθίσατο, when the Land was eſtabliſhed to him, or when he was made Maſter of all thoſe Countries which God deſigned to be the Inheritance of Iſrael, and therefore may very properly be referr'd to the Son of David, at his Reſurrection, or his coming again into the World, that being the time when all Power in Heaven and Earth was given to him, when he was ſolemnly inaugurized, and inſtated in his Spiritual, and Heavenly Kingdom, and the Government was upon his Shoulders, and he ſat down on the Right hand of the Majeſty on high, v. 3.

But it is obſervable, that theſe words are expreſly to be found, Deut. 32. 43. as here they are cited: And it is certain from St. Paul, that God there ſpeaks of the Times when the Meſſiah was to be preached unto the Gentiles; for that the Gentiles ſhould glorify God for his mercy, he proves from theſe words of the ſame Verſe, Rejoice ye Gentiles with his People, Rom. 15. 9, 10. Accordingly the Jews expound many of the words of Moſes here recorded. Thus Jonathan on v. 39. ſaith thus, When מימראי the word of the Lord ſhall reveal himſelf to redeem his People; he ſhall ſay to all People, ſee I am he, that am, and have been, and ſhall be (See Heb. 13. 8.) I by my Word kill, and make alive, I ſmite the People Iſrael, and I will heal them in the end of the Days. On v. 40. the Targum of Jeruſalem, ſaith thus, I live במימרי by my Word for ever; that of Jonathan, I have prepared in the Heavens בית שכנתי the Houſe of my Majeſty; that is, ſaith R. Solomon מקם שכינתי the Place of my Majeſty; Expreſſions often uſed by (p) Philo to ſignifie the λόγος, as when he ſaith, ὅικον ἔχειν τὸν ἑαυτοῦ λόγον, God hath his houſe, viz. his own word; and (q) that ὁ θεῖος λόγος the Divine word is his place, and upon v. 43. Jonathan Buziel Paraphraſeth thus, He with his word will expiate for the Land, and for his People, viz. as the High-Prieſt did on the Great Day of Expiation. The other words, He will render vengeance to his Enemies, and make his Arrows drunk with the blood of the ſlain, are fit expreſſions of Chriſt's exerciſe of his Kingly Government over his Enemies, by which he was to break them with a Rod of Iron, and daſh them in Pieces as a Potter's Veſſel, Pſal. 2. 9. The import of theſe words therefore may be this, When God was to introduce his firſtborn again into the World by the Reſurrection, and give him Power and Dominion over all things in Heaven and Earth, he ſaid, Let all the Angels of God worſhip him, and own him as their Lord and Maker.

n Ver. 7. Πρὸς τοὺς Ἀγγέλους,] The Pſalmiſt ſpeaking, Pſal. 124. 4. not to, but of the Angels, it is neceſſary to tranſlate theſe words as our verſion doth, Of the Angels he ſaith; and as the Hebrew אל ſo the Greek πρὸς is oft of the ſame import with עד & על. He ſpake this Parable πρὸς αὐτοὺς concerning them, Luk. 20. 19. Mark 12. 12. πρὸς δὲ τὸν Ἰσραήλ, but of Iſrael he ſaith, Rom. 10. 21. πρὸς ὃν of whom we ſpeak, Heb. 4. 13. of the Particle אל. See Noldius, p. 458.

o Ver. 9. Ὁ θεὸς ὁ θεός σου, God, even thy God:] For Chriſt is God of God, according to the Nicene Symbol. Hence do the Primitive Fathers thus Diſtinguiſh betwixt him, and the Father; That God the Father is that God, above whom there is no other God: Whereas Chriſt is God of God; and as to that Inferiour to God the Father. So (r) Juſt. Mart. and Irenæus. That this Pſalm was ſpoken of the Meſſiah is evident from the Targum on the Place, which ſaith, becauſe thou, O King Meſſiah haſt loved Juſtice, &c. And on ver. 3. Thy fairneſs, O King Meſſiah, exceeds the Sons of Men. To this purpoſe ſee R. Solomon, and Aben Ezra, on this Pſalm.

p Ver. 10. That this Pſalm hath Relation to the Times of the Meſſiah, we learn from the Chaldee Paraphraſt, which ſaith on v. 16. Zion is builded by the Word of the Lord: And from the Creation of a new People to praiſe the Lord, v. 18. which the Jews themſelves expound of the World to come, or the State of the Church under the Meſſiah: And 3*ly*, From the Calling of the Gentiles, mentioned v. 15. So the Heathens ſhall fear the Name of the Lord; and all Kings of the Earth, thy Glory. And v. 22. when the People are gathered together, and the Kingdoms to ſerve the Lord. See the Judgment of the Jewiſh Church, p. 38. That theſe things are here ſpoken of, and applied to Chriſt, is alſo evident, 1. From the connective Particle καὶ, which knits this to the former Citation, and makes it to run thus: Of the Son it is ſaid, Thy Throne, O God, is for ever, καὶ, and of him it is alſo ſaid, Thou Lord, in the beginning, haſt laid the Foundations of the Earth. 2. From the Scope of the Apoſtle, which, both before, and after, is, to bring Teſtimonies to prove the Excellency of the Meſſiah, and the Truth of what he had aſſerted of him, v. 2, 3. and therefore he muſt purſue the ſame Deſign here. And, 3*ly*, From the Conceſſion of the Socinians upon the Place, That the latter words, which ſpeak of the Deſtruction of the Heavens, and the Earth, belong to Chriſt. Now theſe words, They ſhall periſh, but thou remaineſt, are plainly ſpoken of the ſame Perſons, who founded the Earth in the beginning; and therefore muſt equally belong to Chriſt; But here it is objected;

Obj. That if the Author of this Epiſtle had indeed believed that Chriſt was the Creator of the World, to what purpoſe doth he ſpend ſo much time to prove him more excellent than the Angels? For who can doubt that the Creator is more excellent than his Creatures?

Anſw. 1. He doth not abſolutely go about to prove him more excellent than the Angels, but comparatively, ſo far more excellent as the Titles given him in Scripture ſhew'd that he exceeded them; and that was, as much as the Creator doth exceed his Creatures.

2*dly*. I have ſhew'd, Note on the 2d. and 3d. Verſes, that the Apoſtle had aſſerted not only Chriſt's Dignity, as Heir of all things, and ſo ſucceeding in his Father's Kingdom; but alſo that he was therefore Lord of all things, becauſe he made the World, and therefore was obliged in his Teſtimonies to prove both theſe things; as he doth in moſt of the Teſtimonies produced.

3*dly*. As there were then divers Hereticks who aſcribed the Creation of this viſible World to Angels, and not to Chriſt; ſo alſo were there divers Jews who held that they were God's Miniſters, or συνεργοὶ, Co-workers in the Creation of the World; and that God ſaid to them, Let us make Man, Gen. 1. 26. Now againſt theſe Jews, and Hereticks, the Apoſtle very appoſitely proves, that the Creation of the World was not to be aſcribed to thoſe Angels, who, ſay they, gave the Law, Ch. 2. 2. but to that Jeſus from whom we have received the Goſpel. Of the ſayings of the Jews, concerning the Aſſiſtance of the Angels in framing Man, ſee Note on Chap. 2. 5. And Maimonides more Nevochim, Part 2. Chap. 6. Of Simon Magus Irenæus doth inform us, l. 1. c. 20. That he held that his Ennoia produced Angelos & Poteſtates, à quibus & Mundum hunc factum eſſe dixit, Angels, and Powers, by whom this World was made: That Menander alſo held, Mundum factum ab Angelis, that the World was made by Angels, Cap. 21. That Cerinthus held that the World was made by ſome ſeparate Vertues, inferior to God, c. 22, 23. and that the World was not made by Chriſt, but that he rather came ad diſſolvenda omnia opera ejus Dei qui Mundum fecit, To diſſolve all the Works of that God who made the World: And laſtly, χρεῖττον ὁμογενεῖς Ἀγγέλους συνπεφυκέναι, That the Angels were of the ſame Rank with Chriſt, and produced together with him. All which vain Fancies gave juſt occaſion to the Apoſtle to aſſert that Chriſt was thus Superior to the Angels, and the Creator both of them, and of the World. Accordingly, the Targum of Jeruſalem gives this Deſcription of the Word of the Lord, that q Ver. 13. Κάθου ἐκ δεξιῶν μου, ſit thou on my right hand.] That theſe words were ſpoken of the Meſſiah appears, 1. From the two Targums on this Pſalm, who both declare that this was ſpoken, במי מריה in, or to his Word. This is, ſaith R. Saadias Gaon, on Dan. 7. 13. The Meſſiah, our Righteouſneſs; as it is written Pſal. 110. 1. The Lord ſaid to my Lord, ſit thou on my right hand. R. Moſeh Haddarſan ſays (Bereſch. Joden in Pſal. 18. 35. in the Name of R. Chija, ſaid, That in the Age of the Meſſiah, the bleſſed God will ſet the King Meſſiah on his right hand; as it is written, the Lord ſaid to my Lord. And though on this Pſalm he expounds the words firſt of Abraham, whom they introduce complaining that God has placed his Son on his right hand, and him only on his left; yet preſently follow theſe words, And ſo he ſaith to the Meſſiah. And R. Obadiah not only ſaith, the Pſalmiſt compoſed this Pſalm of the Meſſiah, but adds what illuſtrates v. 14. That God further ſaid, Thou ſhalt ſit on my right hand, and the miniſtring Angels on my left. See more in Cartw. Mellificium, p. 2969. And ſince our bleſſed Saviour confounded the Scribes and Phariſees with this Enquiry, How the Meſſiah could be the Son of David, ſince David here in Spirit calls him Lord? Matth. 22. 42. 'tis evident this was then the received Expoſition of theſe Words.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. THerefore we [knowing the excellency of the Perſon ſpeaking now to us in the Goſpel above all other Prophets, and above thoſe Angels which were employed in delivering the Law of Moſes] ought to give the more earneſt heed to the things which a we have heard [from the Son of God] [a] leſt at any time we ſhould let them ſlip [out of our Memory.]

b 2. For if the word [b] ſpoken by Angels [from Sinai] was ſtedfaſt [and by God's dealing with the Jews confirmed,] and every [wilful] Tranſgreſſion and Diſobedience [of it] received a juſt Recompence of Reward: [The Atonements of the Law being only for Sins of ignorance and error, Ch. 5. 2. and cutting off being the Puniſhment for wilful Sins, as being Acts of Rebellion againſt God their Governour] How ſhall we eſcape [the Divine Wrath] if c we [Chriſtians] neglect [c] ſo great Salvation? which at the firſt began to be ſpoken by the d Lord [Chriſt himſelf] and [after] was [d] confirmed to us by them that heard him.

4. God alſo bearing them Witneſs both with Signs and Wonders [as he did to Moſes
e delivering the Law to the Jews] and [e] with divers Miracles and Gifts [or Diſtributions] of the Holy Ghoſt [perform'd] according to his own will.

f 5. [f] For unto the Angels hath he not put in Subjection the World to come, whereof we ſpeak [but unto Chriſt now crowned with Honour and Glory, v. 9. to whom all Power both in Heaven and Earth is given.]

g 6. [g] But one in a certain place [viz. David, Pſal. 8. 4.] teſtified, ſaying, Lord, what is Man, that thou art [ſo] mindful of him; or the Son of Man, that thou [ſo] viſiteſt him?

7. Thou madeſt him [but] a little lower than the Angels, thou crownedſt him with Glory and Honour, and didſt ſet him over the Works of thine Hands, [Pſal. 8.]

8. Annotations on Chapter II.

a Verſe 1. Μήποτε παραῤῥυῶμεν.] τουτέστι μὴ ἐκπεσώμεν, leſt we fall off from them; ſo Oecumenius, Theophylact, and Phavorinus, which Senſe agrees well with the ſcope of this Epiſtle, but the Senſe given by our Tranſlation is alſo very good and proper; for in this Senſe παραῤῥεῖν, is uſed in thoſe words of Solomon, my Son μὴ παραῤῥύης, τηρησον δὲ ἐμοὺ βουλὰς, be not forgetful of, but keep in mind, or lay up in thy heart my Counſel, Prov. 3. 21. So the wiſe Man interprets himſelf, in the beginning of that Chapter, My Son forget not my Precepts, but let thy Heart keep my Words, v. 1. So (a) Origen ſpeaking of the Feſtivals of the Church, the Lord's Day, Eaſter, Pentecoſt, ſaith, The Common People had need of theſe ſenſible Admonitions, or Memorials of the Bleſſings then celebrated ἵνα μὴ τέλεον παραῤῥύῃ, that they may not entirely ſlip out of their Memories: And this Tranſlation, and Interpretation is confirm'd from the Word, ἀμελεῖν, v. 3. which ſignifies to be unmindful of this great Salvation.

b Ver. 2. Ὁ δι' Ἀγγέλων λαληθεὶς λόγος, the Word ſpoken by Angels] (b) Maimonides ſaith expreſly, non inveniesDeum ullum opus feciſſe niſi per manum alicujus Angeli, God doth no work but by the hand of ſome Angel. To confirm this he cites that Paſſage of their wiſe Men, That God does nothing without conſulting before the Family above. And that in (c) Bereſchith Rabba, whereſoever it is ſaid in Scripture, ויהוה and Jehovah did this, or that, ibi intelligitur ipſe, & Domus Judicii ejus, there we muſt underſtand, that all things are done by him, mediantibus Angelis, by the Mediation of Angels. (d) Joſephus ſaith the Law was given, τοῦ θεοῦ διαλεγομένου πρὸς αὐτοὺς περὶ τῶν πρακτέων, by God, declaring to them what they ought to do. And yet he introduces Herod, proving that Legates, or Ambaſſadors were Sacred, from this, That (e) the Jews had received the choiceſt of their Laws from God by Angels, i. e. by Meſſengers, or Legates, as that name imports, (f) Philo is expreſs that God ſpake the Law, δι' αὐτοῦ μόνου ἃ προεχρημάτισε, καὶ οὐκ ἄλλου, by himſelf, uſing no other; but yet, ſaith the ſame (g) Philo, he did this, κελεύσας ἠχὼ ἀέρατον ἐν ἀέρι δημιουργηθῆναι, commanding an inviſible ſound to be formed in the Air. And to whom could this command be directed, but to ſome of the Angels then attending on him? He therefore ſeems only to mean that the Decalogue was adminiſtred by God himſelf ſpeaking to the People, and not by Moſes, the Mediator betwixt God and them, as the reſidue of his Laws were. For in his Book De Somniis, he obſerves that the Holy Scripture ſpeaks of thoſe Dreams as, Θεόπεμπτοι, ſent from God, which proceed, διὰ τῶν ὑποφητῶν αὐτοῦ καὶ ὑπαδῶν ἀγγέλων, from his Miniſters, and Attendants the Angels, p. 461. He adds, That theſe Meſſengers are imployed in bringing τὰς τοῦ πατρὸς ἐπικελεύσεις τοῖς ἐκγόνοις, the Commands of the Father to his Sons. And that this is done, becauſe we cannot bear his immediate Chaſtiſements, nor yet his excellent Benefits, p. 455. F.

As for the Fathers, they ſeem univerſally to conſpire in this Doctrine, that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here and Gal. 3. 19. Περὶ τῶν διακονουμένων τῷ λόγῳ Ἀγγέλων, of the Angels miniſtring to the Delivery of the Law. So (h) Origen, ſo Chryſoſtom on this Place, Theodoret, on Gal. 3. 19. Oecumenius and Theophylact. (i) Origen ſpeaking of Jeruſalem, ſaith, The Angels have now deſerted her, who before were always helpful to her: Δι' ὧν διετάγη καὶ ὁ Μώσεως νόμος, by whom alſo the Law of Moſes was ordained; it being, ſaith, the Apoſtle, ordained by Angels. The ſame is the Opinon of St. Jerom on Gal. 3. 19.

And though Jehovah ſpeaks to Moſes in, and from Mount Sinai, and from him the Jews received the Law; yet that he uſed the miniſtry of Angels in the Diſpenſing of it, is evident from many Paſſages of the New Teſtament. For,

1. St. Stephen ſpeaketh thus unto the Jews, You have received the Law εἰς διαταγὰς [καὶ διαταγάς, Oecum.] ἀγγέλων, by the Diſpoſition of Angels, and have not kept it, Acts 7. 53. Now when he was aggravating their Guilt in violating this Law, from the Conſideration of the Dignity of the Perſons, who were by God employed in giving it to them, he would not have omitted the Son of God, or the Λόγος, the principal Actor, and ſpoken of theſe inferiour miniſtring Spirits, could he both truly, and according to the then preſent Notion of the Jews, have ſaid, it was the Λόγος, who by his Father was imploy'd in giving the Law. For though moſt of the Fathers ſay the Λόγος, or the Son of God, appeared to Moſes, and the Patriarchs, and others under the Old Teſtament, they (k) all agree in this, that he appear'd then as ἄλλος one that ſuſtained another Perſon, or as the Legate, the Ambaſſador, or as ὑπηρέτης, i. e. the Miniſter of God the Father, as alſo Philo ſtill ſaith.

2*dly*. When the Apoſtle Paul affirms after St. Stephen, That the Law was, διαταγεὶς δι' ἀγγέλων, adminiſtred by Angels, Gal. 3. 19. he cannot reaſonably be ſuppoſed to mean only that 'twas delivered inter Angelos, between Angels, or by God attended with his Angels. For (1.) as, by is the proper import of the word διὰ, ſo is it very rarely, if at all, that it is rendred inter, between, or among; it is ſo rendred indeed by our Tranſlators, 2 Tim. 2. 2. but with the Note in the Margin, by, to ſhew they thought it might there bear that ſenſe, as it doth thus, The Things which thou haſt heard from me, (and which have been confirm'd) διὰ πολλῶν μαρτύρων, by many witneſſes, commit to faithful Men. (2.) Seeing here the word ſpoken διὰ ἀγγέλων, being put in oppoſition to the word ſpoken, διὰ χριστοῦ, by Chriſt, ſhews that διὰ retains its proper ſenſe, and muſt be rendred, by Angels; why ſhould we put another ſenſe on the ſame Particle uſed, Gal. 3. 19. by the ſame Apoſtle, with reſpect to the ſame Subject?

3*ly*. That the word ſpoken by Angels here reſpects the Law in general, and not only the Threatnings made by the Prophets, to whom the Λόγος ſent his Angels to bring back the People of Iſrael from their wickedneſs; is alſo evident from the words. For, (1.) The word ſpoken by Angels here, ſeems to be the ſame with the word, adminiſtred by Angels, Acts 7. 53. Gal. 3. 19. Now that was the Law, ſay both St. Stephen and St. Paul. (2.) It was ὁ λόγος ἐβέβαιος, the word made firm, by the Miracles done by Moſes to eſtabliſh it, as was the Goſpel by more glorious Miracles; the Miracles done by Moſes being only, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, Signs and Wonders, whereas the Goſpel was confirmed alſo by divers Powers, and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, v. 4. (3.) As the Apoſtle ſaith here, Every Tranſgreſſion of this Word received a juſt recompence of reward, ſo he ſaith Chap. 10. 28. He that deſpiſed Moſes Law died without Mercy; where the Argument being in ſenſe the ſame, demonſtrates that the Word ſpoken here, muſt be the Law of Moſes. (4.) We are properly ſaid to tranſgreſs, and diſobey a Law, but as for Threatnings, though we may diſregard, we are not properly ſaid to tranſgreſs them. In fine, I can anſwer the Argument of Slichtingius on the Place, "That God in Perſon could not give the "Law from Mount Sinai, ſince, were it gi-"ven by God himſelf, it muſt on that ac-"count be preferr'd before the Goſpel: By ſaying the Compariſon is here made only betwixt God ſpeaking to the Jews by the Miniſtry of Angels, and the ſame God ſpeaking to us by his Son, which ſuppoſes God the Father to be the ſupreme Author both of the Law, and the Goſpel, aſſerting only that his his Ambaſſadors, or Miniſters in the one, were much inferior to his Ambaſſador, and his great Prophet, by whom the other was revealed; But I am not able to reſiſt the Evidence of his Second Argument, That the Oppoſition put between the Word ſpoken by (l) Angels to them, and the Goſpel delivered to us by the Son of God, will not permit us to own that the Law was given to the Jews by the ſame Son of God, ſeeing that Suppoſition wholly deſtroys the force of the Apoſtles's Argument in this Place. But then I do not think that any Angel was ſo imploy'd in the delivery of the Law, as to take upon him the Perſon of God; or that any Creature ſaid, I am the Lord thy God, &c. but only that the Divine Majeſty there preſent with his Thouſands of Angels, Deut. 33. 2. Pſal. 68. 17. made ſome of them his Miniſters to form the Voice, by which he ſaid, I am the Lord thy God, &c. And it may probably be conjectured, that where-ever there is mention of an Angel, and Jehovah together, or any Worſhip, or Excellency ſpecified which is proper to God, there was an appearance of the Schechinah, or Divine Majeſty conjunct with the Angel.

c Ver. 3. Τηλικαύτης σωτηρίας, ſo great Salvation.] That under the Diſpenſation of the Goſpel the Deliverance of the Faithful from Perſecutions at, or after the Deſtruction Jeruſalem, ſhould here be repreſented as that great Salvation which began to be ſpoken by the Lord, was teſtified to by the Apoſtles, and even by God himſelf by ſo great Miracles, is incredible. No, ſure, our Saviour brought Life and Immortality to light by the Goſpel, 2 Tim. 2. 11. his Apoſtles teſtified to us eternal Life, 1 John 1. 2. And this is the Teſtimony of God himſelf, that he hath given us eternal Life, and that Life is in his Son, 1 John 5. 11. See Note on Chap. 4. 3.

d Ibid. Ἐβεβαιώθη εἰς ἡμᾶς, was confirmed to us.] Jews, not to us Apoſtles, by whom it was confirmed: Vain therefore is the Argument taken from theſe words, to prove St. Paul was not the Author of this Epiſtle, becauſe the Goſpel was not confirmed to him by them that heard Chriſt, he receiving it by immediate Revelation from him, Gal. 1. 12. And uſual is it with St. Paul in this and other Epiſtles, to ſay we, when not he himſelf but only they he ſpeaks to, or of, muſt be underſtood. So Chap. 6. 1. Let us go on to Perfection. See Chap. 10. 25. 12. 1. Rom. 3. 5, 7. 1 Cor. 10. 8, 9. 2 Cor. 7. 1. Eph. 2. 3. 1 Theſſ. 4. 15. Tit. 3. 3.

e Ver. 4. Ποικίλαις δυνάμεσι, with divers Miracles.] Becauſe, ſaith Theodoret, the Law was confirmed by Miracles, the Apoſtle thought it neceſſary to ſhew the Goſpel was in this ſuperior to it, as it was in theſe two reſpects.

1. That the Apoſtles, and Diſciples of our Lord abounded in theſe miraculous Diſpenſations which confirmed the Goſpel, as well as Chriſt himſelf.

2. That Moſes chiefly wrought σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, Signs and Wonders; whereas the δυνάμεις, Powers, and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt here mentioned, were the proper Confirmations of the Goſpel Diſpenſation. for here are four things mentioned, which will admit of a diſtinct Conſideration; the firſt and ſecond are, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, Signs and Wonders, which refer to protentous Actions done in the Heavens, as when the Sun ſtood ſtill, in the Earth, as when it opened to ſwallow up Dathan and Abiram; In the Air, as when it was turned into Darkneſs; In the Waters, as when they were turned into blood: And theſe were often wrought by Moſes, and others under the Old Teſtament, and ſtill are ſtyled, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα: So Exod. 7. 3. πληθυνῶ τὰ σημεῖα μου καὶ τὰ τέρατα I will multiply my Signs and Wonders in the Land of Egypt. And again, v. 9. Deut. 4. 32. He took his People out of that Nation, ἐν σημείοις καὶ τέρασι, by Signs and wonders. Shewing, σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα μεγάλα, Signs and great Wonders upon Pharaoh, and all his Houſe, Chap. 6. 22. 7. 19. 11. 3. 26. 8. 29. 3. And there aroſe not a Prophet like unto Moſes, ἐν πᾶσι τοῖς σημείοις καὶ τέρασιν, in all the Signs, and Wonders which God ſent him to do in the Land of Egypt, Deut. 34. 11. See Neh. 9. 10. Pſal. 134. 9. Jer. 32. 42. Thus Nebuchodonoſor declares σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα, the Signs and Wonders which the moſt high God had ſhewed to him, Dan. 4. 2. And Darius ſaith of him, Ch. 6. 27. ποιεῖ σημεῖα καὶ τέρατα ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ καὶ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, He doth Signs, and Wonders in the Heavens, and on the Earth.

Moreover, Σημεῖα and δυνάμεις are uſed in the New Teſtament, with Relation to the Miracles wrought by the Apoſtles upon others, in caſting out Devils, making the blind to ſee, and the Lame to walk, and healing all manner of Diſeaſes; now none of theſe things were done by Moſes, and very rarely by any of the Prophets. And laſtly, as for the Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, conſiſting in the internal Gifts of Wiſdom, Knowledge, Faith, the Gifts of Tongues, and the Interpretation of them; Theſe were peculiar to the latter Days, that is, the times of the Meſſiah.

Ver. 5. For explication of theſe words, f let be obſerved,

1. That both the Scriptures, the Jewiſh Records, and the Primitive Fathers do repreſent the State preceding our Lord's Advent, and his advancement to the right hand of Majeſty in the Heavens, as a ſtate ſubject to Angels, or in which God dealt with them by the Miniſtry of his Angels; this of the Jews hath partly been confirm'd already, by ſhewing, that their Law was the Word ſpoken by Angels: That they were brought out of Egypt by the Miniſtry of an Angel, Moſes himſelf declares in his Meſſage to the King of Edom, when we cried to the Lord, he heard our Voice, and ſent an Angel, and hath brought us forth out of the Land of Egypt, Numb. 20. 16. This Angel, ſaith the Targum of Jonathan, was a Miniſtring Angel. Nor is it to be thought the King of Edom, who had no notion of the Logos, could underſtand him otherwiſe. And hence the Note of Paulus Fagius runs thus, Omnis Iſraelitici Populi ſalus, & ductio per Angelos adminiſtrata eſt, the whole Conduct, and Preſervation of the People of Iſrael was adminiſtred by Angels. That they were led through the Wilderneſs by an Angel, and that an Angel drove out the Inhabitants of the Land of Canaan before them, we learn from theſe words of God himſelf; Behold, I ſend an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and bring thee into the Land I have prepared for thee, Exod. 23. 20. He ſhall go, ſaith the Greek, Ἡγούμενός σου, as thy Guide, and Captain. And v. 23. My Angel ſhall go before thee, and bring thee to the Amorites and Hittites, &c. and I will cut them off. Now that here he ſpeaks of a miniſtring Angel, may be argued from theſe words, My Name is in him, that is, as the Targums of Onkelos and Jonathan well expound the Phraſe, His Word is in my Name, by him do I declare my Will and Pleaſure. So Maimon in more Nevoch. Part I. c. 64. Some think this Angel was the Eternal Son of God; but this I am afraid to aſſert, ſaith the Biſhop of Ely, becauſe it ſeems dangerous to me to call him ſimply an Angel, i. e. a Miniſter, or Meſſenger, without any ſuch addition as that in Mal. 3. 3. The Angel of the Covenant; for ſo he was at his Incarnation, of which he there ſpeaks, before which I dare not aſcribe to him ſuch miniſterial Works as theſe, of bringing the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, and going before them to lead them in the way to Canaan; this was properly the work of an Angel to whom Moſes aſcribes it. But though we thus underſtand it, this excludes not the Preſence of God himſelf, but rather proves it; for this Angel was ſent from the Schechinah, or Majeſtick Preſence of God which was in the Cloud, and is therefore Styled the Angel of his Preſence, Iſa. 63. 9. becauſe, ſaith the Targum, he was an Angel ſent מן קדמוהי from before him, or from before his Face: And thus it was true which the Lord ſaid to Moſes, My Preſence ſhall go with thee, Exod. 33. 14. in the Cloud, and my Angel ſhall go before thee, Exod. 23. 23. as being ſent from before me to conduct thee. And again, Exod. 33. 2. I will ſend an Angel before thee, and will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, &c. for I will not go up in the midſt of thee, for thou art a ſtiff-necked People, leſt I conſume thee in the way. He therefore who was to be ſent, could not be God himſelf, or the Divine Logos equal to him, for then he would have had the ſame reaſon to conſume them for their Diſobedience. Accordingly we find Maſius on Joſh. 5. 14. confeſſing that the Jews generally thought this was the Angel Michael: And partly from them, and partly from Daniel, who ſtyles him Michael their Prince, Chap. 10. 21. and Michael the Prince which ſtandeth for the Children of thy People, Chap. 12. 1. it ſeems to be, that many (m) Chriſtian Fathers, and Ancient Commentators, have ſo expreſly ſaid, That God over all placed over them the Angel Michael, as Daniel hath taught us, and God alſo promiſed Moſes he would ſend an Angel with his People. And both Theodoret, and St. Jerom in their Comments on Dan. 12. 1. ſay, that Michael, eſt Archangelus cui creditus eſt Populus Judæorum, is that Archangel to whom was committed the care of the People of the Jews. And the Author of the Recognitions ſpeaking of God's dividing of the Nations to Angels, adds, (n) That the Government of the Jews themſelves, and the diſpoſal of their Affairs were by God committed to an Archangel.

Now if this Suppoſition be admitted, and the World to come, according to the Jewiſh import of that Phraſe, be taken for the Goſpel State, then the Apoſtle's Argument runs thus, "You have greater reaſon to take "heed to the things taught by Chriſt under "the Goſpel Diſpenſation, than had the "Jews to take heed to the things taught "by the Moſaical Diſpenſation; for unto the "Angels God hath not ſubjected the Goſpel State, "but unto Chriſt, i. e. to him who is more "able to reward his Obedient Servants, and "bring them into the Cœleſtial Canaan, and "more able to conſume, and puniſh them who "do neglect the great Salvation tendred in "this Diſpenſation.

As to the Gentile World, the Doctrine of the Jews in relation to them, is evident from theſe words of the Septuagint, when the Almighty divided the Nations, he ſet the borders of them, κατ' ἀριθμὸν Ἀγγέλων Θεοῦ, according to the number of the Angels of God, Deut. 32. 8. That is, ſaith R. Menachem, He placed Seventy Angels over the Seventy Nations. For ſaith the Son of Syrach, ἐκάστῳ ἔθνει κατέστησεν ἡγούμενον, in the Diviſion of the Nations of the whole Earth, he ſet a Ruler over every People, Eccleſ. 17. 17. Accordingly in Daniel, we find mention of the Prince of Perſia, and of Greece, i. e. of the Angels which which presided over those Places. Eusebius (o) doth frequently inform us, That all the Nations of the Earth were formerly by Lot divided to many Angels; And this was the Doctrine of (p) Justin Martyr, of (q) Irenæus, (r) Athenagoras, and the two (s) Clements. So that in the Judgment of the Jews and of the Primitive Fathers, all the whole Heathen World were subject to the Government of Angels.

And then the Argument of the Apostle is to this Effect, "That now the World "of Believers gathered from the Heathens, "is put under Christ's immediate Power, and "subject not to Angels, but to him who will "come in flaming fire to execute Vengeance upon "all that obey not his Gospel; and that there- "fore it concerns them to give more dili- "gent heed to the Words spoken by him, "and not to neglect that great Salvation "which he tenders.

Οἰκουμένην μέλλουσαν, the World to come.] This I conceive imports primarily the Christian State, and in order to the Government of that, the whole World subjected to Christ from the time of his Resurrection, and Ascension; (when he sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high, and had all Power in Heaven and Earth committed to him; for when God brought him by his Resurrection again, εἰς οἰκουμένην, into the Earth, he said, Let all the Angels of God worship him, i. e. Let them all bow, and be subject to his Authority, Chap. 1. 6.) to the time when he shall abolish Death the last Enemy of his Subjects, and put the Crown upon their heads, and condemn all his Enemies to endless punishments, and so give up his mediatory Kingdom to the Father, 1 Cor. 15. 28. And this I gather from the following Proof of this Subjection of the World to Christ, taken from Psalm the Eighth; For the Apostle plainly doth insinuate, that it is begun already, in that Jesus is already Crown'd with Glory and Honour, v. 9. and he as plainly testifies that it must continue till the Day of Judgment, and only will be then compleated by saying, That he must reign till all his Enemies be put under his feet, 1 Cor. 15. 25. and proving this from those words of the Psalmist, For he hath put all things under his feet, v. 27. So then the Argument runs thus, "How shall they escape who neglect "that great Salvation, tendred by him "who hath all the World, and all things "in it so subject to him, as to continue so till "he hath put all his Enemies under his feet?

It may be also noted, That when this World to come doth respect only the Christian State, from the Resurrection of Christ to the final Judgment, then it is stiled, Holam habba, the Age to come, which is the frequent import of the World to come, in the Jewish Writers; and in this sense is Christ stiled, ὁ πατὴρ μέλλοντος αἰῶνος, the Father of the World to come, Isa. 9. 6. and the Gifts vouchafed to believers, and exercised by them in the first Ages of the Church, are stiled in this Epistle, δυνάμεις μέλλοντος αἰῶνος, the Powers of the World to come; but when it also doth include that Earth in which they dwell, and in which they are to continue to the Day of Judgment, then is it stiled, οἰκουμένη μέλλουσα the World to come, after the other four Kingdoms, which are stiled οἰκουμένη, the Earth, and are said to have Dominion over all the Earth. Thus of the Kingdom of Assyria and Babylon, Daniel saith to Nebuchodonosor, that God had made him Lord of all things, and setled his Kingdom where-ever the Sons of Men dwell, Dan. 2. 37, 38. and his Kingdom is by Isaiah often stiled οἰκουμένη, and the Fall of it is represented, as the Desolation of the whole Earth. Thus in his Vision against Babylon, he saith, The Lord cometh, καταφθεῖραι πᾶσαν, τὴν οἰκουμένην, to lay wast the whole Earth, v. 6. Behold the day of the Lord comes cruel, and with fierce Anger, θεῖναι τὴν οἰκουμένην ἔρημον, to lay the land [of Babylon] desolate, Chap. 13. 9. and v. 11. ἐντελοῦμαι τῇ οἰκουμένῃ ὅλῃ κακά, I will pronounce evil to the whole Earth; See also Chap. 14. 26. Cyrus the King of Persia speaks thus, The Lord hath given me all the Kingdoms of the Earth, Ezra 1. 2. and he is styled, ὁ οἰκουμένης ὁ Κύριος, the Lord of the Earth, Esdr. 2. 3. And Artaxerxes in his Epistle for the Destruction of the Jews, writes thus, being Lord over many Nations, καὶ πόσης ἐπικρατήσας οἰκουμένης, and having Dominion over all the World, &c. Esth. 13. 2, 4.

As for the third, that is, the Grecian Monarchy, the Prophet Daniel saith expressly of it, It shall bear Rule over all the Earth, Dan. 2. 39. Accordingly Alexander is celebrated in all Historians and Poets which speak of him, as the Conquerour of the World; when he came to Babylon, Embassadors were sent unto him, ἐξ ἁπάσης σχεδὸν τῆς οἰκουμένης, from almost the whole World, saith Diodorus Siculus, Hist. l. 17. p. 579. and when he died this Inscription was writ upon his Tomb, γῆν ὑπ' ἐμοὶ τέθεικα, I have put the Earth under me. And lastly, as for the Roman Monarchy, as it was stiled by the Poets, παμβασιλεία, the Universal Kingdom, and by the Historians, Orbis Terrarum, the World, so is it in the Scripture represented as the Government, πάσης τῆς οἰκουμένης of the whole Earth, Luke 2. 1. for, saith (t) Dionysius Halicarnassæus, ἡ Ῥωμαίων πόλις ἀπάσης μὲν ἀρχῆς τῆς γῆς ὅση μὴ ἀνέμβατός ἐστιν, ἄλλ' ὑπ' ἀνθρώπων κατοικεῖται, Rome presides over the whole habitable Earth: Now this Kingdom of Christ being propheſied of by Daniel, as that which was to be set up after these Kingdoms which bore that name, and to break in pieces all other Kingdoms; is therefore stiled, ἡ οἰκουμένη μέλλουσα, the Kingdom of the World to come; and if (as we may probably conjecture from the Angel, the Prince of Persia, and the Angel, the Prince of Greece, Dan. 10. 13, 20.) Angels were by God appointed to preside over those Monarchies, then hence ariseth another Reason why the Apostle might say, Unto the Angels hath he not subjected the World to come, of which we speak.

g Ver. 6, &c. Here note, 1. That though these words of the Psalmist may be allowed in their first, and obvious sense, to relate to the first Adam, created after God in his Similitude and Likewise, with respect to his Dominion, yet doth not this hinder that they be expounded in the Mystical sense of Christ, the second Adam; for the Jews acknowledge that the first Adam was a Type of the second Adam, that is, of Christ, who is by them stiled, האדם האחרון the last, or second Adam. Moreover, the Mystery of Adam, is, say they, the Mystery of the Messiah, and the Man created the sixth day, signifies the Messiah. For thus they speak, (u) Our Redemption is signified by the six Days of the Creation, especially by the sixth in which man was created, by whom we are not to understand the Nations of the World, but סוד אדם הוא רום משיח the Mystery of Man, is the Mystery of the Messiah, as it is said, Dan. 7. 13. he came like to the Son of Man. And this lays a Foundation for the Inference of the Apostle, that what was spoken of Man in General, and more particularly related to the first Adam, was only punctually fulfilled in the second Adam, taking the Nature of man on him; for, saith he, we see it not in any measure fulfilled in any other Man; but as for Christ, we do already see it actually fullfilled, as to the first clause of it, he being now crowned with Glory and Honour, and so as all things are already subject to his feet, as far as the Present Necessities of the Church require, Eph. 1. 22. so will they compleatly and actually be so when Death, the last Enemy, shall be destroyed, 1 Cor. 15. 25, 26, 27.

Ver. 9. Δόξῃ καὶ τιμῇ ἐστεφανωμένον, crowned with Glory and Honour.] That these words h are in construction to follow the ensuing words, That he by the Grace of God might taste Death for every man; See note, on Chap. 7. v. 20. but the Apostle puts these words last, as being to discourse of our Lord's Sufferings for us.

Ver. 10. Ἔπρεπε γὰρ.] Conveniens hoc i fuit Dei Sapientiæ, saith Grotius, He thought fit do this, saith Dr. Hammond; 1. Because thus the same Nature suffered which had sinned, and therefore purged us from the Guilt we in that Nature had contracted, and so dissolved that Death to which we became subject by the Sin of Adam. This is the Reason of Christ's sufferings which all the Primitive Fathers do suggest and on which they especially insist; assigning this Reason of our Lord's Death ἵνα τὸ ἔνοχον ἡμῶν καθαρίσθῃ, that our Obnoxiousness to Death might be expiated. So (e) Ignatius. He died, saith (y) Justin Martyr for Mankind, ὃ ἀπὸ τοῦ Ἀδὰμ ὑπὸ θάνατον καὶ πλάνην, τὴν τοῦ ὄφεως ἐπεπτώκει, which from Adam, became subject to Death, and the Deceit of the Serpent, (z) Irenæus saith, That as Mankind, by man overcome, was obnoxious to Death; sic enim per hominem Victorem ascendamus in vitam; so by a Man conquering Death we may rise to life: And as Death prevailed against us by Man, sic iterum nos adversus mortem per hominem accipiamus Palmam, so we may prevail against it by Man, that as in the Animal Adam we all died, so in the Spiritual we might all be made alive. And (a) Athanasius, in his Oration of the Incarnation, is very Copious on this subject; declaring claring that Christ took our Nature on him, πάλιν τὸ φθαρτὸν εἰς ἀφθαρσίαν ἐνεγκεῖν, to reduce again our Corruptible to Incorruption; that our Lord seeing Mankind lost by Death, exercising the Dominion of Corruption over them, and seeing the Punishment threatned to our Transgression, διαπεφυτευκὸτων τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς φθορῶν, (b) prevailing over us to Corruption, and seeing the whole Race of men subject to Death, he, in compassion to them (c) ἐν τῷ θανάτου κρατεῖσθαι οὐκ ἐνέγκας, and not enduring this Dominion of Death, that what he created might not perish, took a body to himself, not alien from ours; and because we were all subject to Corruption, (d) ἀντὶ πάντων αὐτὸ θανάτῳ παραδιδοὺς, delivering it to the Death for us all, he offered it to the Father, that, as it were, all men dying in him, the Law of the Corruption of Mankind might be dissolved, and he might translate them again to Incorruption. And this, (e) saith he, is the first cause of his Incarnation. Hence many of them say, that (f) the Hand-writing which was blotted out by the Death of Christ, was the Threat made to Adam, In the Day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt die. Here then is one Reason why the Death, or Blood of Bulls and Goats could not take away Sin; viz. they did not partake of the same Nature that had sinned, and therefore could not in that Nature dissolve the Debt we had contracted, and so translate us to Incorruption. 2. It became him thus to suffer, because these Sufferings fitted him to be a merciful High-Priest to them that suffer as he did, and also to be a faithful High-Priest, to make Atonement for our Sins v. 17. Observe here, that the Apostle doth not say, Christ's Sufferings were absolutely necessary to satisfy divine Justice; that Infinite Mercy could not pardon Sin, without a satisfaction made to Justice, and that Infinite Wisdom could contrive no other way for the Atonement of our Sins, but that Divine Wisdom saw it fit, that Christ should suffer for the Ends fore mentioned: And why then may not others be permitted to think, and speak with the Apostle, without adding that which the Apostle, in all this long, and excellent Discourse concerning the Ends, the Reason, and necessity of our Saviour's Sufferings, thought not once fit to mention?

k Ibid. τελειῶσαι διὰ παθημάτων, to sanctifie, to consecrate, and dedicate him to that work by his Sufferings.] That this is the true import of these words will appear, 1. From the like words used by this Apostle, Chap. 5. 8, 9, 10. Though he were a Son, yet learned he Obedience by the things that he suffered, and being made perfect; [τελειωθεὶς] i. e. being consecrated to his Priestly Office, he became the Author of Eternal Salvation to all that obey him, being called of him an High-Priest after the Order of Melchisedek. And again, Chap. 7. 27, 28. The Law maketh them High-Priests which have Infirmity, but the word of the Oath, which is after the Law, maketh the Son εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα τετελειωμένον, who is consecrated an High-Priest for evermore. 2ly. From the Collation made betwixt the Call of Aaron to his Priesthood, and of Christ to his: For as Aaron took not this Honour to himself, but was called of God to it; so Christ glorify'd not himself to be made an High-Priest, but was constituted so by him, who said, Thou art a Priest for ever after the Order of Melchisedek. Now the Consecration of Aaron and the Legal Priests, is continually expressed by this word: For what is in the Hebrew, thou shalt fill the hands of Aaron, and his Sons, and is by us translated, thou shalt consecrate them, is by the Septuagint thus rendred, τελειώσεις Ἀαρὼν τὰς χεῖρας αὐτῶν καὶ ἁγιάσαι αὐτούς. So Numb. 3. 3. ἐτελείωσαν τὰς χεῖρας αὐτῶν ἱερατεύειν, they consecrated them to the Priesthood. Accordingly the Priest consecrated is in the Greek, ὁ τετελειωμένος, Lev. 21. 10. the Day of his Consecration is ἡμέρα τελειώσεως, Lev. 8. 33. the Sacrifice then offered for Sin is θυσία τελειώσεως; the Burnt-offering, ὁλοκαύτωμα τελειώσεως, v. 28. The Ram-offer'd is κριὸς τελειώσεως, v. 22. the Flesh of Consecration τὰ κρέατα τῆς τελειώσεως, Exod. 29. 34. By these Sufferings he became an High-Priest for ever, after the Order of Melchisedek; And the Author of Salvation to all that obey him, Because appearing with this Sacrifice before God in heaven for ever, He is able to save for ever, them that come unto God by him.

Ver. 11. ὁ ἁγιάζων, He that Sanctifies, &c.] I have shewed, note on Ch. 9. 13. that the word ἁγιάζειν, in this Epistle, is used in the Sacrifical sense, or with Relation to the Expiation of Sin: In the Old Testament, when it respecteth Sacrifices, it sometimes signifies to devote, consecrate, and offer them to God. So Lev. 22. 3. The holy things which the Children of Israel hallow to the Lord, ὅσα ἂν ἁγιάζωσιν, which they shall offer to the Lord; for Numb. 18. 9. these Holy things are thus enumerated, every Heave-offering, v. 8. every Meat-offering, every Sin-offering, every Trespass-offering, Deut. 15. 19. All the firstlings of thy flock thou shalt Sanctifie to the Lord thy God, ἁγιάσεις τῷ Κυρίῳ. For if they were clean, they were to be offered to God, and their Blood was to be sprinkled on the Altar, and their Fat burnt for an Offering made by Fire, Numb. 18. 19. But if they were unclean ὁ θύσεις αὐτὸ τῷ Κυρίῳ;

Κυρίῳ, thou shalt not sacrifice them to the Lord. saith the Text, Deut. 15. 21. And, 1 Chron. 23. 13. Aaron was separated, that he might sanctifie the most holy things, τοῦ ἁγιάσθηναι, i. e. that he might offer them in Sacrifice, and to burn Incense, for he was separated to execute the Priesthood, Exod. 28. 1. And that was to be performed by Offering Gifts, and Sacrifices for Sin, Heb. 5. 1. And in this sense our Saviour saith, ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν ἁγιάζω ἐμαυτὸν ἵνα ὦσιν ἡγιασμένοι ἐν ἀληθείᾳ, for their sakes I sanctify my self, i. e. I offer my self a Piacular Victim, that they may be sanctified in the Truth, John 17. 19. i. e. that they may be consecrated to their Office, or set apart for my Service: For as Aaron and his Sons were hallowed, and set apart for God's Service by a Sacrifice, to expiate them from their Sins; and this was done ἁγιάζειν αὐτὰς ὥστε ἱερατεύειν, to sanctifie them to the Priest-hood, Exod. 29. 1, 14, 21. as well as by the Holy anointing: Exod. 30. 30, 31. 40. 13. So Christ's Apostles were sanctified and set apart to their Office, not only by the Unction of the Holy Ghost, but also by that Piacular Victim Christ offer'd for their Sins: And accordingly, in these words, he that sanctifies is Christ that offers himself, that he might sanctify, ἁγιάζειν, i. e. purge them from their Sins by his own Blood, Heb. 13. 12. and they that are sanctified, are they that by this Blood are purged from their Sins, and so are fitted to draw nigh to God, and made a Royal Priesthood to shew forth his Praises, and offer up Spiritual Sacrifices acceptable to God, through Jesus Christ.

2*ly*. The word doth also signify to purge, purifie, and make clean, by sacrifice, both in the Scripture, and profane Authors. Thus of the Altar it is said, he shall sprinkle the Blood upon it with his Finger, seven times, and he shall cleanse it, and hallow it, καθαριεῖ αὐτὸ, καὶ ἁγιάσει αὐτὸ, from the Uncleannesses of the Children of Israel, Lev. 16. 19. So Exod. 29. 33. And they shall eat those things אשר כפר בהם ἐν οἷς ἡγιάσθησαν ἐν αὐτοῖς, by which, or for whom the Atonement was made to consecrate, καὶ ἁγιάσαι αὐτούς, and to sanctify them; and v. 36. thou shalt cleanse the Altar בכפרך עליו ἐν τῷ ἁγιάζειν σε ἐπ' αὐτῷ, when thou hast made an Atonement for it. In Profane Authors to purge by Sacrifices from guilt, or uncleanness, is sometimes ἁγιάζειν, sometimes ἁγνίζειν, and the Sacrifices that did this, are stiled ἁγνιστικὰ Sacrifices of Purgation; according to this sense of the word, he that sanctifieth, is he that purgeth, and they that are sanctified, are they who are purged from the guilt of Sin.

Ver. 12. Psal. 22. 22. This Psalm being m interpreted by the Jews themselves concerning the Messiah, the Apostle might well apply this passage of it to him.

Ver. 13. I will put my Trust in him; and n again, I, and the Children which God hath given me.] These two Citations being from the same Place, Isa. 8. 17. make but one Proof, that he who sanctifies, and they who were sanctified, have the same Nature, shewing that he who said, I will put my Trust in him, called them whom God had given him, his Children, or Off-spring, and so declared them to be of the same Nature, or Original with him. Now that these words were anciently adapted to Christ, we learn from the words of Simeon, who applies the words following to him, Luke 2. 34. and from the Jews who expound the words, he shall be a stumbling Stone, and a Rock of Offence, of our Saviour, Pug. Fid. Part. 2. c. 5. §. 2. to whom they are applied by St. Paul, Rom. 9. 33. and by St. Peter, 1 Pet. 2. 7.

Ver. 14. Καταργήσῃ τὸ κράτος ἔχοντα τοῦ o θανάτου, that had the Power of Death.] That by seducing Adam to eat of the forbiden fruit, the Devil, whom the Jews call'd Sammael, had Power to accuse Men, and to demand that They might die, according to the Threat pronounced against them, is the constant Opinion of the Jews, (g) Our Wise Men say, it is a Tradition, that Satan the Adversary, the Angel of Death, descendeth and seduceth, ascendeth and accuseth, receives Power, and takes away the Soul or Life. Hence they say of him, That (h) he caused Death to the whole World.

Καταργεῖν τὸν διάβολον] is to frustrate and bring to naught his Design of subjecting all Men to the Power of Death, and keeping them under the Dominion of it, and render it of no Effect, Rom. 3. 3, 21. Rom. 4. 14. 1 Cor. 1. 28. 2. 6. 6. 13. 13. 8, 10, 11. 15. 24, 26. 2 Cor. 3. 7, 11. 13, 14. Gal. 3. 17. 5. 11. Thess. 2. 8. And thus Christ is said καταργεῖν θανάτου, to abolish Death, 2 Tim. 1. 10. That therefore we are still subject to Death, is, say the Fathers, not that we are now punish'd with it, but out of Mercy, that Sin might not be immortal in us, the Time of our Resurrection being that in which Death shall be totally abolished, 1 Cor. 15. 26.

Ver. 15. Φόβῳ θανάτου, the fear of Death.] p That the whole Heathen World was subject to this Fear, and that it was the King of Terrors to them, see note on Rom 8. 22. From this Fear we are deliver'd at Present by our deliverance from that guilt of Sin, which alone makes it truly terrible, 1 Cor. 15. 55, 56.

56. and by the Promise of a glorious Resurrection, when Death shall be swallowed up in Victory, v. 54.

q Ver. 16. οὐκ ἐπιλαμβάνεται.] This word, say the Glossaries, signifies Manum injicere, to lay hold upon, manu prehendere, to hold with the Hand. So Eccles. 4. 11. Wisdom ἐπιλαμβάνεται layeth hold of them that seek her. Sus. 39. 40. The man we could not hold being too strong for us, ταύτης ὁ ἐπιλαμβανόμενοι, but laying hold of her, we asked her, &c. And so in the Septuagint it signifies almost continually, ἐπιλάβε, take hold of his Tail, Exod. 4. 4. See Kircher in the Words זנב תפש

r Ibid. The seed of Abraham.] The note of the best Commentators here, is this, That the Apostle writing to the Jews, thought it sufficient to mention only the Mercies designed by the Messiah for the Jews. And true it is that they confined the Seed of Abraham to themselves; but the Apostle reckons all Believers as the Seed of Abraham, Rom. 4. 12, 16, 17. Gal. 3. 14, 29. tho' Christ is here said to have taken upon him the Seed of Abraham, because he derived his Flesh from his Posterity.

s Ver. 17. Εἰς τὸ ἱλάσκεσθαι τὰς ἁμαρτίας τοῦ λαοῦ, to make Atonement for the Sins of the People.] i. e. ἱλάσκεσθαι τὸν θεὸν περὶ ἁμαρτιῶν, to make Atonement to God for their Sins. So in (i) Porphyry, ἀπομειλίττειν τὰς ὑπὲρ πολλῶν ἁμαρτίας, to propitiate for the Sins of many, is in the same place, ἀπομειλίττειν τὸ θεῖον, to propitiate the Deity for them. This sense the words require, for Christ is here said to be a faithful High-Priest τὰ πρὸς τὸν θεὸν εἰς τὸ ἱλάσκεσθαι, in things pertaining to God, that he might make Atonement, surely, to him. This Reconciliation therefore must respect God. Again this Phrase when it respects the Jewish Sacrifices, hath still Relation to the guilt of Sin to be expiated, and taken away by them; and every Sin-Offering offered by the Priest, is said to offered by him, ἱλάσκεσθαι περὶ ἁμαρτίας αὐτῶν, to make Atonement for their Sins, Lev. 4. 35. 5. 6, 10. 13. 44. Ezek. 44. 27. And of the Piacular Victim it is still said, καὶ ἐξιλάσεται περὶ αὐτῶν ὁ ἱερεὺς, καὶ ἀφεθήσεται αὐτοῖς ἡ ἁμαρτία, the Priest shall make Atonement for them, and the Sin shall be forgiven, Lev. 4. 20, 31. 5. 6, 10, 13, 18. 12. 7, 8. 14. 18, 19, 29, 31. 15. 30. 19. 22. Numb. 6. 11, 15, 28. The Apostle therefore here speaking to the Jews in the Phrase always used by them, of such Sacrifices as suffered in their stead, to expiate the Guilt of their Sin, must be supposed to teach them that the like was done for them by our Saviour's Sacrifice.

Ver. 18. Πεπονθὼς, being tempted.] i. e. t Exposed to Agonies and Sufferings; for πειρασθῆναι in the Epistles, signifies to be exposed to such Afflictions, as subject us to great Temptations to desist from our Duty, and Obedience; as when the Apostle saith, No Temptation hath befal'n you, but what is ἀνθρώπινος, supportable by man; for the Lord is Faithful who will not suffer you πειρασθῆναι, to be tempted above what you are able [or exposed to Sufferings beyond your strength] but will with the Temptation make a way [so far] to escape, that you may be able to bear it, 1 Cor. 10. 13. So the Apostle finding his Thessalonians ἐν ταῖς θλίψεσι in great afflictions from their Persecutors, sends to know their Faith, μήπως ἐπείρασεν ὑμᾶς ὁ πειράζων, least the Tempter might have prevailed on them by Reason of these Tribulations, to desert it, 1 Thess. 3. 3, 4, 5. Rev. 2. 10. Fear none of those Things which thou shalt suffer: Behold Satan shall cast some of you into prison, ἵνα πειρασθῆτε that you may be tempted; i. e. be tried by Temptations. See Jam. 1. 2, 12. 1 Pet. 1. 6. 2 Pet. 2. 9. Rev. 3. 10. So here, Our Saviour tried by these Agonies, which he suffered in the hour of Darkness, when the Tempter fell upon him with all his fury, is become experimentally able to succour us under those Sufferings, which render Obedience so hard to Flesh and Blood.

Ibid. Δύναται, he is able.] He hath δύναμιν u συμπαθετικὴν a Power joined with a sympathy towards us, and a Propensity to succour us. So Rom. 11. 23. They shall be graffed in δύναται γάρ ἐστιν ὁ θεὸς, for God is able. And Chap. 14. 4. The weak shall stand, δυνατὸς γάρ, for God is able to make him stand. Thus to encourage us to Charity the Apostle saith, δυνατὸς ὁ θεὸς, God is able to make all Grace abound towards us, 2 Cor. 9. 8. I know whom I have believed, and I am perswaded, ὅτι δυνατὸς ἐστι, that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him to that Day, 2 Tim. 1. 12.

CHAP. III.

Verse 1. WHerefore, holy Brethren, Partakers of the Heavenly Calling [i. e. the calling to celestial Blessings] consider the Apostle, and High-Priest of our Profession Christ Jesus [who, as our Apostle, taught these things, and as our High-Priest, suffered to obtain these Blessings for us, and confirm them to us.] a b Ver. 2. [a] Who was faithful to [b] him that appointed him [to be an Apostle, and High-Priest] as also [it is said of] Moses [that he] was faithful in all his House [i. e. in all the House of God, Numb. 12. 7.]

Ver. 3. For this Man [this Jesus] was counted worthy of [or dignified with] more

c Glory than Moses, inasmuch as he [c] who hath builded [Gr. ὁ κατασκευάσας, who orders, or governs] the House, hath more Honour than the House, [of which Moses only was a part.]

Ver. 4. For every House is builded [κατασκευάζεται, ordered, and Governed] by d some Man, but [d] he that built [ὁ κατασκευάσας, that orders, and governs] all things, is God.

Ver. 5. And Moses verily was faithful in [the Administration of] all [things in] his

e House, [but this he was only] [e] as a Servant, for a Testimony of those things which were to be spoken after, [by God to them]

Ver. 6. But Christ as a Son [is placed] over his own House [i. e. he enters upon the Government of it as an Heir, and Successor into the Rights of his Father, the Father now judging no man, but having committed all Judgment to his Son, John 5. 22.] whose House we [Christians] are [and shall continue to be]

f if we hold fast the [f] Confidence, and the g [g] Rejoicing of the Hope firm to the end.

h Ver. 7. Wherefore as the [h] Holy Ghost

i saith [by David, Ps. 95. 8.] [i] to day if you will hear his voice.

Ver. 8. Harden not your Hearts, as [your Fore-fathers did] in the [time of] provocation, in the Day of Temptation in the Wilderness; [Hence learn that 'twas in their Power to Prevent the hardness of their Hearts.]

Ver. 9. [k] When [where] your Fathers k [j] tempted me, [i. e. doubted of my Presence l with them, saying, Is the Lord among us, or not? Exod. 17. 7. Numb. 14. 11, 21.] [m] m proved me, and saw my Works [n] forty n years.

Ver. 10. Wherefore I was grieved with that Generation, and said, They do always err in their hearts [not with the Heart believing, v. 11.] and they have not known my Ways, [i. e. not hearkned to me, to walk in them, v. 22.]

Ver. 11. So I sware in my Wrath [v. 21.] o [o] they shall not enter [Gr. if they shall enter] into my Rest. o

Ver. 12. Take heed [therefore] Brethren, lest there be in any of you [as there was in them] an evil heart of unbelief [p] in depar- p ting from the [q] Living God. q

Ver. 13. But exhort one another [to stedfastness in the Faith] daily, whilst it is called to day, [before the night come upon you, John 12. 35.] [r] lest any of you be hardned r through the Deceitfulness of Sin.

Ver. 14. For we are made Partakers of [the Blessings purchased by] Christ, if we hold the [s] beginning of our Confidence stedfast s to the End.

Ver 15. While it is said [Gr. ἐν τῷ λέγεσθαι, in that it is said] to Day if you will hear his Voice, harden not your Hearts, as in the Provocation, [You may discern the Mischief of Unbelief, and hardness of Heart, and the Necessity of the Exhortation tendred, v. 12, 13.]

Ver. 16. [t] For some when they had heard t did provoke, howbeit not all that came out of Ægypt by Moses [not Caleb, and Joshua.]

Ver. 17. But [And] with whom was he grieved forty years? Was it not with them that had sinned [by Unbelief] whose Carcasses fell in the Wilderness?

Ver. 18. And to whom sware he, that they should not enter into his Rest, but to them that believed not?

Ver. 19. [u] So we see [καὶ βλέπομεν, we u see therefore] that they could not enter in because of Unbelief.

Annotations on Chapter III.

Verse 2. Πιστὸν ὄντα, who was faithful, &c.] That is, as Moses faithfully discharged all that the Lord commanded him to say, or do for the Church of Israel; so Christ was faithful in the Discharge of his Prophetick Office, doing, and speaking as the Father had given him Commandment, John 12. 49, 50. 14. 10. And in his Priestly Office, in laying down his Life for the Sheep, according to the Commandment he had received from the Father, John 10. 18. and doing all things requisite to make Atonement for the Sins of the People, Chap. 2. 17. I know indeed the Criticks say [נאמן] and πιστὸς signifie one establish'd in his Office, as in those words, πιστὸς Σαμουὴλ εἰς προφήτην φήτω τῷ κυρίῳ, Samuel was eſtabliſhed a Prophet to the Lord; but this Criticiſm is here needleſs, and the word πιστὸς Chap. 2. 17. bearing not this ſenſe, I chuſe rather to follow the Ordinary import of the Word.

b Ibid. τῷ ποιήσαντι αὐτὸν, to him that appointed him.] So the word ſignifies, 1 Sam. 12. 6. God is witneſs ὁ ποιήσας, who appointed, or choſe Moſes and Aaron. See v. 8.

c Ver. 3. ὁ κατασκευάσας,] Is he that orders, and governs, and provides, or prepares all things. So Phavorinus, κατασκευάζω, καταρτύομαι, ἐξαρτύομαι, ordino, guberno, moderor. And thus τὴν πολιτείαν, καὶ πόλεις κατασκευάζεσθαι, in Plato Epiſt. 11. is to have Cities and Polities well ordered. So Wiſd. 9. 2. Thou in thy Wiſdom κατασκευάσας ἄνθρωπον, haſt ordered man to have Dominion over thy Creatures. Thus Philo, de Cherub. p. 100, ſaith, God is the Cauſe of the World, δι' ὃ γέγονεν, by which it was made, and the λόγος δι' οὗ κατεσκευάσθη Logos the cauſe by which it was ordered, or put into that Frame and Order in which it is. The words preceding ἠξίωται, he was dignified with more honour, ſeem plainly to refer unto Chriſt's Regal Office, by which all Power in Heaven and Earth was given to him, and he was made Head over all things for his Church, which is his Body, and in which he dwells as in his Houſe, Eph. 1. 21, 22. And this to me ſeems to eſtabliſh this ſenſe of the Word.

d Ver. 4. ὁ δὲ κατασκευάσας τὰ πάντα ὁ θεὸς, he that built all things is God] The Apoſtle, ſay the Socinians on the Place, proves Chriſtum tanto præſtantiorem eſſe Moſe, quanto Deus præſtantior eſt ſuo Populo, qui Dei domus eſt, idque merito, that Chriſt is as much more excellent than Moſes, as God is more excellent than his own People, And this he had juſt cauſe to ſay; and if ſo, Chriſt muſt be properly, and truly God, for nothing elſe can ſo far excel Moſes, the chiefeſt of that People, as God himſelf excels them; by this Interpretation therefore they do not avoid, but confirm the Argument for our Saviour's Deity from this Text. The Argument ſeems plainly to run thus; He that governs all things is God, but Chriſt, as Pater familias, Father of his Family, governs all things in his houſe, that is the Church diſperſed throughout all the World, and hath in order thereunto all judgment, and all Power in Heaven and Earth committed to him: He therefore muſt be God, that is, the Exerciſe of his Kingly Office ſhews that he muſt be God as well as Man. Thus Philo, De Victim. offer. p. 661. C. often ſaith of that Power, κατ' ἣν ἀνῆπται τῷ ὅλων τὸ κράτος, to which the Government of all things is Committed, that οὐκ ἀνθρώπων μόνον, ἀλλὰ καὶ θεῶν ὄντι θεὸς, μέγας τις ὄντως, ὢν ὄντας καὶ ἰσχυρὸς, καὶ κραταιὸς, he is God not only of men, but Angels, a great Being, who truly doth exiſt, both ſtrong, and mighty.

Ver. 5. Ὡς θεράπων, as a Servant.] The e
Government of Iſrael was a Theocracy, where God gave all the Laws, and Precepts, and Moſes, only as his Servant and Miniſter, told them what things God thought fit to command them; but the Government of the Chriſtian Church is entirely committed to our Lord Jeſus, and he, as Supreme Head, and Lord of all things, governs both it, and all things in Earth and Heaven for the Good of it; and therefore if he be not truly God, God doth not now govern the World as formerly, but hath given up the Adminiſtration of it to a Creature. [Whoſe houſe we are], Chriſt living in our hearts by Faith, Gal. 2. 20. Eph. 3 17. abiding in us by his Spirit, John 14. 23. Rom. 8. 9, 10, 11. and dwelling in our Bodies, and in the Body of the Church, as in his Temple, 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17. 6. 17. 2 Cor. 6. 15, 16. Eph. 2. 20, 21, 22. 4. 16.

Ver. 6. Παῤῥησίαν, the confidence,] Or the f free Profeſſion of the Faith; for παῤῥησία is a Liberty, or freedom of ſpeaking; as when 'tis ſaid of Chriſt, that he ſpake, ἐν παῤῥησίᾳ, freely, Mark 8. 32. John 7. 13, 18, 20. and of his Apoſtles that they ſpake μετὰ παῤῥησίας with all Freedom and Courage, Acts 2. 29. 4. 13, 29, 31. 28. 31. 2 Cor. 3. 12. 7. 14. Eph. 6. 19. Phil. 1. 20. 1 Tim. 3. 13. Heb. 4. 16. So Phavorinus παῤῥησιάζομαι ἐλευθερόστομαι.

Ibid. Καύχημα τῆς ἐλπίδος, the rejoicing of g hope.] i. e. the Hope which cauſes us to rejoice in Expectation of the Glory of God, Rom. 5. 2. 2 Cor. 1. 14. Gal. 6. 4. if we hold this firm unto the End. Which ſuppoſes that they who were partakers of this Heavenly Calling, and had at preſent this Cauſe of Rejoicing, might not hold it firm unto the End, but might fall off from it, v. 14. might depart from the living God, v. 11. Chap. 4. 11. Yea, the Apoſtle in this Epiſtle plainly doth ſuppoſe that they who had taſted of the heavenly Gift, and were made Partakers of the Holy Ghoſt, &c. might fall away, Chap. 6. 4, 5, 6. That the Juſt who lives by his Faith might draw back unto Perdition, Ch. 10. 38, 39. that they might fall from the Grace of God, Ch. 12. 15.

Ver. 7. τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον, the Holy Ghoſt h ſaith.] Hence it appears, that David writ his Pſalms by the Afflatus, or Inſpiration of the Holy Ghoſt. See note on Matth. 23. 43.

Ibid. Σήμερον, to day.] At preſent, for i now is the day of Salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2. We muſt do God's Commandments to day, ſay the Jews, from Deut. 7. 11. and receive the Reward to morrow. We muſt repent to day, leſt we die to morrow, before we have repented. See Cartw. in locum. And again, If Iſrael would repent but one day, the Meſſiah would come; And this they prove from theſe words of the Pſalmiſt אם בקלו תשמעו when you hear his Voice, ſpeaking in the Prophets; or as the Targum אם במימריה when you hear him ſpeaking by the Word, proceeding from the Father, harden not your Hearts; That this is the frequent ſenſe of the Particle אם ſee Noldius, p. 89. §. 31. and it is alſo the ſenſe of the Greek ἐάν. So ἐὰν εἴπῃ when he ſaid thus, Gen. 13. 8. ἐὰν ἐξεθάσιν when the Daughters of Shilo come forth, Judg. 21. 21. ἐὰν κοιμηθῶ when I lie down, Job 7. 4. ἐὰν καθῇ when thou ſitteſt; ἐὰν καθεύδῃς when thou lieſt down, Prov. 3. 24, 25. ἐὰν πορεύῃ, when thou goeſt; ἐὰν τρέχῃς when thou runneſt, Prov. 4. 12. See alſo in the New Teſtament, ἐὰν ὑψωθῶ, when I ſhall be lifted up, John 12. 32. ἐὰν πορευθῶ, when I ſhall go, John 14. 3. 16. 7. ἐὰν φανερωθῇ when he ſhall appear, 1 John 3. 2. Theſe words are therefore to be extended to the whole time of their hearing God, ſpeaking to them by his Prophets, and eſpecially to the time of God's ſpeaking to them by his Son, who was to bring them into a better reſt than that of Canaan, into which Joſhua led them.

k Ver. 9. When, ὅ, where.] So the Hebrew אשר is render'd Numb. 22. 26. Deut. 8. 15. Pſal. 84. 3. Eccleſ. 8. 10. So Numb. 20. 13. Theſe are the Waters of Contention אשר where the Children of Iſrael contended.

l Ibid. Ἐπείρασάν με, tempted me.] That to tempt God in the Scripture Phraſe, is always to diſtruſt his Power, or Goodneſs, after ſufficient Demonſtrations given of it. See Note on Matth. 4. 7. and Note here that the Apoſtle ſaith they Tempted Chriſt, 1 Cor. 10. 9. which ſhews that theſe words may truly be applied to him.

m Ibid. Ἐδοκίμασαν, proved me.] The Hebrew word which is here rendred proved me, is Mal. 3. 16. rendred by the Greek ἀντέστησαν, they reſiſted God; and by the Chaldee, the Syriac, and by our Verſion, they who tempted God; that is, ſaith Dr. Pocock, who went about to try, and prove him whether he could or would puniſh Sinners, and to provoke, and dare him to do his worſt, to execute his Judgments, if he were a God of Judgment; and then to ſee his works forty years, muſt be to ſee his Judgments executed upon them forty years.

n Ibid. Τεσσαράκοντα ἔτη, forty years.] If this be the Right Connexion of the words, then to ſee God's works forty years muſt be to ſee his Puniſhments ſo long upon them, as he plainly threatned they ſhould, ſaying, you ſhall bear your Iniquities forty years. Numb. 14. 33. and that ſo viſibly, that all the Nations ſhould diſcern his Judgments on them; For ſurely, as I live, ſaith he, all the Earth ſhall be filled with the glory of God, v. 21. But if according to the Reading of the Hebrew, and the Septuagint, the forty years ſhould be added to the following verſe thus, Wherefore I was angry with that Generation forty years, as the Apoſtle doth intimate by that enquiry, v. 17. with whom was he angry forty years? Then the גם ראו and καὶ εἶδον will be beſt rendred, though they ſaw my Work as גם ſignifies. Noldius p. 220. And καὶ Luke 18. 7. John 16. 32. Acts 7. 5. According as God ſpeaks to them; Numb. 14. 22. For all theſe men which have ſeen my glory, and my ſigns which I did in Ægypt, and in the Wilderneſs, and yet have tempted me theſe ten times, and have not hearkned to my Voice, ſurely they ſhall not ſee the Land, And v. 11. How long will it be 'ere they believe me after all the ſigns? &c.

Ver. 11. אם יבאון εἰ εἰσελεύσονται, o if they ſhall enter.] i. e. let me not be God, or let me not be true, if they enter. This is a form of ſwearing very frequent in the Old Teſtament. So Deut. 1. 35. The Lord was wroth, and ſwore, ſaying εἰ ὄψεται אם יראה if any of theſe Men ſhall ſee that good Land of Promiſe. Pſal. 95. 11. So 1 Sam. 3. 14. יתכפר אם εἰ ἐξιλασθήσονται, if the Iniquity of the Houſe of Eli ſhall be purged with Sacrifice, Pſal. 89. 35. Once have I ſworn by my holineſs אם אכזב εἰ ψεύσομαι, if I fail David, Pſal. 132. 2, 3. Lord Remember David how he ſware אם אבא εἰ εἰσελεύσομαι, If I go into my Tabernacle, אם אעלה εἰ ἀναβήσομαι if I climb up into my bed, אם אתן εἰ δώσω, if I give ſleep to my Eyes. So Mark 8. 12. Verily I ſay unto you, εἰ δοθήσεται τῇ γενεᾷ ταύτῃ σημεῖον, let me not be true, if a ſign be given to this Generation, where Chriſt himſelf ſwears, and therefore cannot be ſuppoſed abſolutely to forbid all ſwearing, Matth. 5. 34.

Ver. 12. Ἐν τῷ ἀποστῆναι in departing, The p Jews that tempted God, Numb. 14. are ſaid ἀποστῆναι to depart from the Land of Canaan, v. 31. They ſaid one to another, Come let us make a Captain, καὶ ἀποστρέψωμεν, and let us turn back into Ægypt, v. 4. and are ſaid, οὐ πιστεύειν, not to believe God, v. 11.

Ibid. The living God.] So ſtiled, to ſhew q that he is always able to puniſh Unbelievers. Note alſo, That as he who believeth in Chriſt, believeth in God the Father alſo, John 12. 44. So he that deſerts him, doth alſo deſert the Father who ſent him, and makes him a Lyar, 1 John 5. 9, 10. For he that denies the Son, hath not the Father, 1 John 3. 23.

Ver. 13. Ἵνα μὴ σκληρυνθῇ τις, Leſt any r man be hardned.] To be hardned, in the New Teſtament, imports Infidelity, and want of Faith. Thus Chriſt upbraids to his Diſciples their unbelief, καὶ σκληροκαρδίαν, and hardneſs of heart, that they believed not, Mark 16. 14. and the Jews that believed not are ſaid to be hardned, Acts 19. 9. And ſo it it will be evident that here it ſignifies, to him that compares, v. 15. with v. 19.

f Ver. 14. Τὴν ἀρχὴν τ ὑποστάσεως, the Beginning of their Hope.] That Hope to which we have fled for Refuge; Chap. 6. 18. That Hope which cauſeth us to rejoice, v. 6. Faith being ἐλπιζομένων ὑπόστασις, the firm Expectation of things hoped for, Ch. 11. See the Note there.

t Ver. 16. Τινὲς γὰρ ἀκούσαντες παρεπίκραναν, ἀλλ' ὐ πάντες, &c. I would render theſe words thus, For who were they, that bearing, did provoke? Were they not all that came forth out of Ægypt? For, 1. Τινὲς ſignifies as well who, as ſome. So Acts 19. 15. Τίνες ἐστὲ who are ye? Rev. 7. 13. Τίνες εἰσὶ, who are they that are cloathed with white Robes? Iſa. 60. 8. Τίνες οὗτοι, who are theſe? So Heb. 1. 5. τίνι γὰρ for to whom of the Angels ſaid he? And here v. 18. τίσι δὲ to whom did he ſwear? So Joſephus, Cap. 17. of his Maccabees, τίνες οὐκ ἐθαύμασαν τὰς τ θείας νομοθεσίας ἀθλητὰς; τίνες οὐκ ἐξεπλάγησαν; who did not admire? who were not aſtoniſhed at the Champions of the Divine Law? And then the Anſwer to this enquiry muſt be this, Were they a few? Yea, were they not all? &c. As if it had been οὐχὶ πάντες. 'Tis alſo evident that ὐ and οὐκ are often Interrogatives, as 1 Cor. 12. 15. John 8. 42. See Noldius p. 487. And if the Greek will bear this Conſtruction, it Anſwers beſt (1) to the ſtory, as it is repreſented, Numb. 14. For notwithſtanding the Exception made, v. 38. of Joſhua and Caleb, it is ſaid, v. 12. that πᾶσα ἡ συναγωγὴ, all the Congregation, ἃ πάντες, and all the Children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes, and Aaron; that πᾶσα ἡ συναγωγὴ, all the Congregation ſpake of ſtoning Joſhua, and Caleb, v. 10. and πάντες οἱ ἄνδρες all the men, v. 22. are the οἱ παροξύναντες, Provokers, v. 23 the συναγωγὴ πονηρὰ evil Congregation, and the Murmurers, v. 27, 35. Joſ. 5. 6. And (2) it agrees beſt with the following Verſes, which are plainly Interrogatives and Anſwers, With whom was he grieved? Was it not with them. To whom ſware he? Was it not to them that believed not? And laſtly, with the cloſe of the Argument, which ſaith generally, they could not enter in.

Ver. 19. Καὶ here ſignifies idcirco therefore, as the Hebrew ו often does. See Noldius p. 279. So Joſh. 23. 11. ἃ φυλάξετε, take Good heed therefore. Pſalm. 2. 10. ἃ νῦν σύνετε, be wiſe now therefore. See Pſalm 7. 7. 18. 42.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. LET us therefore fear, leſt a promiſe being left us of entring into his Reſt [in the Celeſtial Canaan, as to them in the Terreſtrial] any of you ſhould a ª ſeem to come ſhort of it [i. e. ſhould fail of it.]

2. For unto us was the Goſpel preached, b ᵇ as well as unto them, [Gr. ἃ γὰρ ἐσμεν εὐηγγελισμένοι καθάπερ κἀκεῖνοι, for we have now the Goſpel preached to us, as they had then the Law to them] but the word preach'd [Gr. heard] did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it.

3. For we which have believed [οἱ πιστεύοντες, who are Believers,] do enter into Reſt, as [may be gathered from what] he ſaid [viz.] as I have ſworn [or ſo I ſware] in my Wrath, if they ſhall enter ᶜ into my Reſt, c although the Works (of God in the Creation] were finiſhed [Gr. had been done,] from the Foundation of the World.

4. For he ſpake in a certain Place of the ſeventh Day [from the Creation, ſaying,] on this wiſe, and God did reſt the ſeventh Day from all his Works.

5. And in this Place [he ſaith] again; [long after] If they ſhall enter into my Reſt, [i. e. if they ſhall have a Reſt from their Labours and Travels, reſembling that of mine from the Creation of the World.]

6. Seeing therefore it remains that ſome muſt enter in [to this Reſt of God, it being not a Reſt provided in Vain, or to be enjoy'd by none,] and they to whom it was firſt preached, [i. e. to whom the Promiſe of a Reſt was firſt made,] entred not in, becauſe of Unbelief.

7. ᵈ Again, he [God] limiteth a certain d Day, ſaying, in [theſe Words of] David, To day, after ſo long a time [of their Continuance in the Reſt of Canaan] as it is [there] ſaid, To day if you will hear his Voice, harden not your hearts, [&c. ſpeaking not of the Reſt of Canaan, of which they were poſſeſſed in the Days of Joſhua, as he ſaith to the Reubenites and Gadites, And now the Lord hath given Reſt unto your Brethren, as he promiſed them, Joſh. 22. 4.]

8. ᵉ For if Jeſus [i. e. Joſhua] had given e them (a) Reſt [like to that of God] then would not he [i. e. God, by David] afterward have ſpoken of another Day [of Reſt, after their Reſt in Canaan.]

9. There remaineth therefore [yet] a [more glorious, and compleat] ᶠ Reſt to the f People of God

10. For he that is [thus] entred into his Reſt, he alſo hath ceaſed from his own Works [i. e from the Labours, and Travels of this Life Rev. 14. 13] as God [after he had finiſhed the Creation] did from his.

11. Let us labour therefore to enter into that Rest [which yet remaineth for the People of God] lest any Man fall [Gr. that we may not fall from it,] after the same Example of Unbelief [by our Infidelity, as they did.]

g 12. [g] For the word of God [mention'd v. 1, 2.] is quick and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged Sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of Soul and Spirit, and of the Joints and Marrow, and is a Discerner [or Censurer] of the Thoughts, and Intents of the Heart.

13. Neither is there any Creature which is not manifest in his sight [whose Word this is] but all things are naked and open to the Eyes of him, h [h] with whom we have to do; [Gr. to whom we must give an account, and so there is no hope these Unbelievers should escape his Judgments.]

14. Seeing then that we have a great High-Priest [merciful, and faithful to make Reconciliation for our Sins, Chap. 2. 17.] that is passed into the Heavens [to appear for ever there to make Intercession, and to prepare this Resting place for us, John 14. 2. even] Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our Profession [without wavering.]

15. For we have not an High-Priest who cannot be touched with the sense of our Infirmities, but [one who] was in all points tempted [i. e. exposed to Sufferings] like as we are, [and this] without Sin, [to deserve the least of them; See Note on Chap. 2. 18.]

16. Let us therefore [depending on his Power, his Intercession for, and Sympathy with us,] come boldly i to the Throne of Grace, i [this ἱλαστήριον, or mercy-Seat, Rom. 3. 25.] that we may obtain mercy [in the Pardon of our Sins] and find Grace [or Favour] to [a suitable] help in time of need. [Gr. εἰς εὔκαιρον βοήθειαν, for seasonable help in all our sufferings for his sake.]

a Verse 1. Δοκῇ τις ὑστερηκέναι, should seem to come short.] That the Word ὑστερηκέναι signifies to fail of, or fall from any thing, See Note on Ch. 12. 13. and that δοκέω is oft an Expletive, all Criticks do acknowledge, so μὴ δόξητε λέγειν, say not, Matth. 3. 9. οἱ δοκοῦντες ἄρχειν, they who Rule, Mark 10. 42. ὃ δοκεῖ ἔχειν that which he hath, Luke 8. 18. Matth. 25. 29. ὁ δοκῶν ἑστάναι, he that standeth, 1 Cor. 10. 12. See the Note on 1 Cor. 7. 40.

b Ver. 2. Καθάπερ κἀκεῖνοι, as well as they.] This by some is referr'd to their hearing of the Law, as in the Paraphrase, by others as probably to the Gospel Blessings then Typified to them, for the Apostle informs us, that they all ate the same Spiritual meat, and Drank the same Spiritual Drink; for they Drank of the Rock that followed them, and that Rock was Christ, 1 Cor. 10. 3, 4. This sounds flat to them only who are averse to this Doctrine, that the Blessings of the Gospel were typified to the Jews.

c Ver. 3. Εἰς τὴν καταπαυσίν μου, into my Rest.] Upon the true interpretation of these words here, and v. 1. καταπαυσιν αὐτοῦ, depends the true sense of this Chapter. Now some refer this to that Deliverance from their Persecutors, and the Peaceable days of Professing the Gospel, the Christians in Judea, and elsewhere, should enjoy after the Destruction of Jerusalem; but to this I can by no means assent: For, (1) the bearing of the Cross, the suffering Persecution, being so often hinted as the Portion of all that will live godly, I cannot believe that a Promise of Deliverance from them should be so often represented by the Holy Ghost as the great Gospel Blessing promised to Believers, the ἐπαγγελία, the Evangelical Promise made to Christians by God, that they should enter into his Rest, v. 1. the Sabbatism remaining for the People of God, v. 9. The Rest which they should strive to enter into, v. 11. and be afraid lest they should fail of, V. 1. (2) I know of no such happy Change of the Affairs of Christians in all other Parts of the World, that the Apostle should here, and almost in all his other Epistles, speak of it, as this Interpretation maketh him to do, as one of the greatest Blessings of Christianity; nor were there any such Halcyon Days enjoyed by Christians after the Desolation of Jerusalem. This will be evident from Christ's Message to the Asiatick Churches after the times of Domitian; for there he speaks to the Angel of the Church of Smyrna, Fear none of those things which thou art about to suffer: Behold Satan is about to cast some of you into Prison, that ye may be tried ten days. Be thou faithful to the Death, and I will give thee a Crown of life, Rev. 2. 10. To the Church of Pergamus, thus, I know thy Works, and where thou dwellest, where is the Throne of Satan, and thou holdest my Name, and hast not denied the Faith in the Days in which Antipas my faithful Martyr suffered, who was slain among you where Satan dwells. Ibid. v. 13. To the Church of Philadelphia, thus, Because thou hast kept the Word of my Patience, I will also keep thee from the Hour of Temptation, which shall come upon all the World, to try them that dwell upon the Earth, Chap. 3. 10. This Argument a Reverend Person endeavours to evade by saying, that John writ his Revelations in the 9th year of Claudius. But, 1st, this is contrary to the Testimony of all Antiquity, excepting only the single Testimony of Epiphanius, which also is fully answered by Dr. Moor;

Moor: For it is generally agreed that he writ his Revelation in, or after he came from the Iſle of Patmos, as may be proved from Chap. 1. 9, 10, 11. Now all the Ancients ſay that John was baniſhed thither by Domitian, and writ his Revelations about that time. So (a) Irenæus ſpeaks expreſly, ſaying, if the name of Anti-chriſt had been to be divulged it would have been mentioned by him who ſaw the Revelation; for it was not ſeen long ago, but almoſt in our Age, at the End of the Reign of Domitian; which Paſſage cannot be underſtood of the Name only of the Beaſt, but of the whole Revelation, as is evident, (1.) Becauſe Euſebius, who cites this Paſſage, muſt underſtand him ſo; for he ſaith, that he returned from his Exile in this Iſland, μετὰ τὴν Δομετιανοῦ τελευτὴν, c. 23. after the Death of Domitian, and ſo he muſt have writ his Revelation while he lived. And (2) Becauſe the Name of the Beaſt is not ſaid to be revealed to the Evangeliſt, but only the Number of his Name. And, (3.) the Words, ᾧ τὴν Ἀποκάλυψιν ἑωρακότι, even force this ſenſe; for they are properly rendred, who ſaw alſo the Revelation, diſtinguiſhing the Revelation from the Name. And, laſtly, a Name cannot properly be ſaid to be ſeen, nor doth St. John ever uſe any ſuch Expreſſion about it; but a Revelation may be properly ſaid to be ſeen, and St. John often ſaith he ſaw them. Again, in this Perſecution of Domitian, ſaith (b) Euſebius, κατέχει λόγος the Tradition runs, that John the Evangeliſt was baniſhed to the Iſle of Patmos, for the Teſtimony he gave to the Divine Word. And in his (c) Chronicon he adds, that under him the Apoſtle John being baniſhed to the Iſle of Patmos, ἔνθα τὴν ἀποκάλυψιν ἑώρακεν, ὡς δηλοῖ ἐκεῖνος, there ſaw his Revelation, as Irenæus teſtifies; which both confirms the Tradition, and gives the true ſenſe of the words of Irenæus, cited by him. So alſo (d) St. Jerom ſaith, that St. John being baniſhed into the Iſle of Patmos in the 14*th Year of Domitian*, Scripſit Apocalypſin, compoſed the Book of the Revelations. So almoſt all the Greek and Latin Writers ſaith Huet. in Orig. Com. p. 72. Vide Oroſ. l. 7. c. 10, 11. Martyr. Timoth. apud Phot. Cod. 254. *p.*1403. l. 1. *Aret. in Apoc.*1.9. (2) 'Tis certain, from the ſecond Text here cited, that Antipas had ſuffer'd Martyrdom before the Writing of theſe Epiſtles to the Churches. Now that Antipas ſuffer'd Martyrdom under Domitian, the Old R. Martyrology aſſures us; and Dr. Hammond on the place confeſſes; 'Tis therefore evident that St. John, ſpeaking of this Martyrdom, which hapned in the Days of Domitian, as a thing paſt, muſt write the Revelations in, or after the Reign of Domitian. This the Doctor ſaw, and therefore interprets theſe words, Thou haſt not denied my Faith, καὶ ἐν ταῖς ἡμέραις, even in thoſe Days [of fiery Trial] in which Antipas, ἀπεκτάνθη was, or hath been ſlain, Thus the Time is approaching wherein Antipas, I foreſee, will be cruelly martyred; that is [if this was written in the 9th of Claudius, and Antipas ſlain in the 10th of Domitian] I foreſee he will be ſlain forty years hence: Which Deſcant, to ſpeak in his own words, is too vain to be ſeriouſly conſidered. Laſtly, The Chriſtians had no ſuch Halcyon-days for any conſiderable time after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem; for Jeruſalem was deſtroyed, Anno Chriſti 70. and the ſecond Perſecution began under Domitian, Anno Domini 96. They had therefore only Reſt for twenty Years, and then comes the ſecond Perſecution, in which many * Chriſtians were exiled, and ſome ſuffered Martyrdom; for even Heathen Writers, ſaith (e) Euſebius, mention τὰ διωγμὸν καὶ τοὺς ἐν αὐτῷ μάρτυρας, the Perſecutions, and the martyrdoms of our men. And in his Chronicon he ſaith, That Brutius in his Hiſtory affirms that πολλοὶ χριστιανῶν ἐμαρτύρησαν κατὰ Δομετιανὸν, many Chriſtians ſuffered martyrdom under Domitian. Ten years after the end of this Perſecution, comes on a third Perſecution under Trajan, in which, ſaith (f) Euſebius, ſo great, and heavy was the Perſecution in moſt places, that Pliny, one of the Celebrated Preſidents of the Provinces, being moved with the multitude of the martyrs, writ to the Emperor concerning the multitude of the martyrs, that had ſuffered, and received this Anſwer from him, That they ſhould not be enquired after, but only puniſhed as they fell into their hands. And that (g) though hereupon the Open Perſecutions ceaſed, yet in divers Provinces they continued, and exerciſed many of the Chriſtians with divers kinds of martyrdom.

In the 17th Year of Trajan, the Jews in Meſopotamia rebel, and many Myriads of them Periſh. In the ſecond of Hadrian they rebel again, and are overcome. In the 17th of Hadrian, Barchochebas ſet up for their Meſſiah, and drew an infinite multitude of Jews after him. Now all theſe, and eſpecially the laſt last, were severe Persecutors of the Christians of those Places. For (h) Justin Martyr oft informs us, That even after the Destruction of Jerusalem, they retained still the same hatred to the Christians, and cut them off where-ever they had Power and Opportunity. And in the Days of Barchochebas put those Christians to exquisite Torments, who would not deny Christ. And could these be the times of quiet and safety to the Christians from their Persecutors, and of Prosperous, and Peaceable Days for the Publick Worship, and Service of God? Is this the ἐπαγγελία, Gospel Promise of a Rest, and Sabbatism to the People of God? The Reward which it is just with God to render them for all their Sufferings for his sake? 2 Thess. 1. 7. See Dr. Hammond on that Place.

To come then to the true import of this Phrase, let it be noted, that there is a double Rest mentioned in this, and the former Chapter, viz.

1. The rest promised to the Jews in the Land of Canaan, Chap. 3. 11. And this, saith the Apostle, could not be the Rest of God: for if Joshua had given them (such) Rest, David could not have spoken of another Day, v. 8. Why not? saith Mr. Cl. Answer, Because then, by entring into that, they would have already entred into the Rest of God.

2*dly.* A Rest after the Example of God, ceasing from his Labours when he had finished the Creation, which is the Rest of the Blessed that die in the Lord, Ἵνα ἀναπαύσωνται ἐκ τῶν κόπων αὐτῶν, that they may rest from their Labours, Rev. 14. 13. And that this is the Rest which the Apostle now begins to speak of, is evident from these words, v. 10. He that is entred into Rest, he hath also ceased from his own Works, as God did from his: For what can we understand by resting from his own Works, but, as the (i) Fathers do interpret it, τῶν διωγμῶν, τῶν πειρασμῶν, τῶν θλίψεων, from his Persecutions, Temptations, and Afflictions, to which he is obnoxious in this present World? The Phrase seems plainly to be taken from Isa. 57. 1. where it is said of the Righteous taken away from the Evil to come, they shall enter into Peace, they shall rest in their Beds. Of this Rest, that of Canaan, and the Sabbatisms there observed, were a Type, as the Jews themselves inform us; and therefore it seems reasonable to interpret these Words agreeably to that Sense.

Ver. 7. Here Mr. le Clerc speaks thus, d "I say again, there is no mention in the Psal- "mist, of any future rest; which if true, there is no sense in the Apostle's Words, nor any strength in his Argument; for it doth evidently run thus, there must be a Rest to the People of God, besides, i. e. succeeding that which Joshua procured them in the Land of Canaan, because the Psalmist, so long after their Rest in Canaan, makes mention of a future Rest; so the Apostle: There is no mention in the Apostle of a future Rest, saith Mr. le Clerc. He had spoken in one Place, of the Rest of God, saith the Apostle, v. 4. and he speaks again ἐν τούτῳ, in this place of the Psalmist, of this Rest, v. 5. into which Unbelievers not entring, in this Passage of David, he again, τινα ὁρίζει ἡμέραν, sets, or defines a certain Day, by saying to them, who lived so long after these Unbelievers miscarried, to Day if you will hear his Voice, (and so enjoy this Rest, Chap. 3. 18, 19. harden not your hearts, speaking there of a Rest not already enjoyed, but hereafter, to be enjoyed by them, and so not of the Rest procured to them by Joshua, εἰ γὰρ, for if Joshua had given them the Rest called the Rest of God, David would not have here spoken of another Day of Rest; but having done so, ἄρα, certo, utique, we conclude, that there remains yet a Rest to be enjoyed by the People of God.

Ver. 8. Εἰ γὰρ Ἰησοῦς, for if Joshua] For e Explication of the Apostle's Argument, here let it be noted, That all the Greek Commentators on this Place concur in this, that the Apostle here speaketh of a three-fold Rest.

1*st.* Of the Rest of God, mentioned, Gen. 2. 2. in these words, and God rested on the 7th. Day from all his Works that he had done. Which Rest, say the Ancients, was the Symbol of the Rest of the just from all their Labours. So (l) Irenæus saith, the Seventh Day which was sanctified, and in which God rested from all his Works, is the true Sabbath of the Just, in which they shall do no earthly Labour; And (m) Origen saith that Celsus understood not the Mystery of the Seventh Day, and the Rest of God in which all that had done their work in Six, and had left nothing undone which belonged to them, should feast with God, ascending to the Vision of him, and in that to the general Festivity of the just, and blessed.

blessed. And again, (n) If we farther enquire which are the true Sabbaths, we shall find that the Observation of the true Sabbath reaches beyond the World; the true Sabbath, in which God will rest from all his works, being the World to come, then when all Grief, Sorrow, and Sighing, shall fly away, and God shall be all in all.

2*dly.* Of the Rest of the Jews in Canaan: which is the Rest God sware the murmuring, and unbelieving Jews should not enjoy, perhaps, as well in the Spiritual Sense, as in the Natural. For the Jews themselves represent their Sin as that in which they made bold, (o) ψευδολογιαν κατακρινειν τῷ Θεῷ, to charge God with a Lye. And the (p) Jerusalem Targum saith, God threatned to remember it in the day of Judgment. In Midrash Tillim, an Evil Tongue is said to be worse than Idolatry: And this is proved from what these Rebels spake against God, גזר דין the Sentence of Judgment being passed upon them for their Evil Words, Num. 14. 28. Now Idolatry is still reckon'd by them a Sin exclusive from the Heavenly Canaan, they shall not enter into the Rest of the House of my Sanctuary, saith the Chaldee, on Psalm 95. 11. However, those Jews who entred into Canaan, when they were to have rest from all their Enemies round about, so as to dwell safely, Deut. 12. 9, 10. did so far disobey the Voice of the Lord, that he said he would not drive their Enemies out from before them, but would leave them to be as Thorns in their Sides, and Pricks in their Eyes, to vex them in the Land where they dwelt, Judg. 2. 2, 3. Josh. 23. 13. Num. 33. 55. So that the Jews themselves expected a farther Completion of that Promise, in the times of the Messiah, as we learn from those words of Zacharias, the Father of the Baptist, Blessed be the God of Israel, who hath visited, and redeemed his People, and hath raised up a mighty Salvation for us in the House of his Servant David, as he spake by the mouth of his Holy Prophets, which have been since the World began, that we should be saved from our Enemies, and from the hands of all that hate us: That we being delivered out of the hands of our Enemies, might serve him without fear, Luke 1. 68, 74. And hence the Apostle here concludes, that Joshua gave them not the Rest, emphatically styled, The Rest of God, as resembling his Rest from all his Works, when he had finished the World; and so there must be yet another Rest remaining to the People of God, as it follows v. 9.

Ver. 9. A Rest, σαββατισμὸς.] The Apostle by thus changing the Word ἀνάπαυσις, Rest into Sabbatism, and by comparing of this Sabbatism with the Rest of God on the Sabbath, or Seventh Day, clearly leads us to the Interpretation of all the Ancient Christians, that our Glorious and Compleat Rest hereafter with God, is that of which God's Resting on the Seventh Day was a Symbol; and to the Spiritual Sabbath, of which the Jewish Doctors speak so generally, as the great thing signified by their Sabbath, as when they say, (q) the Sabbath was given to be נתנא דיומא הבא של העולם סימנא, a Sign, or Exemplar of the World to come. The Sabbath Day, what is it? (r) A Figure of the Land of the Living, to wit, of the World, or Age to come, the Age of Souls, the Age of Consolations. Thus in their Descants upon the 92*d. Psalm,* which bears this Title both in the Hebrew, and the Greek, a Song ליום השבת. εἰς τὴν ἡμέραν τοῦ Σαββάτου, upon the Sabbath Day, They say, (s) this is the Age to come, שבלו שבת which is all Sabbath. The Psalmist, saith R. Solomon Jarchi, in locum speaks of the business of the World to come, which is all Sabbath. A Psalm upon the Sabbath Day, saith R. Eliezer. Cap. 19. p. 42. that is, upon the Day which is all Sabbath, and Rest, in the life of the World to come. And again, Cap. 18. p 41. The blessed Lord created seven Worlds, (i. e. Ages) but one of them is all Sabbath, and Rest in life eternal: where he refers to their common Opinion, That the World should continue six thousand Years, and then a perpetual Sabbath should begin, typified by God's resting the Seventh Day, and blessing it. So Bereschith Rabba, If we expound the Seventh Day of the Seven thousand Years, which is the World to come, the Exposition is, and he blessed; because that in the Seventh Thousand all Souls shall be bound in the Bundle of Life, for there shall be there the Augmentation of the Holy Ghost, wherein we shall delight our selves. And so our Rabbins, of blessed memory, have said in their Commentaries, God blessed the Seventh Day, the Holy God blessed the World to come, which beginneth in the Seventh Thousand of Years (t). Philo is very copious in this Allegory, who disputing against those, who, having learned that the written Laws were, σύμβολα νοητῶν πραγμάτων, Symbols of Intellectual Beings, did upon that account neglect them, saith, That though the Seventh Day was a Document of the Power of God, and of the Rest of the Creature, yet was not the outward Reſt to be caſt off. And again, 'Tis fitly ſaid, δι' ὑπονοιῶν by Allegories, or Figurative Expreſſions, the Sabbaths of the Land ſhall be meat for you, Lev. 25. 6. g Ver. 12. ὁ λόγος τοῦ θεοῦ, the Word of God.] The Apoſtle ſeems not to ſpeak here of the Eſſential Word of God, the ſecond Perſon of the Trinity. (1.) Becauſe St. Paul, in all his Writings, never applies this Phraſe to our Lord Chriſt, it being Peculiar to St John. (2*dly.*) The Apoſtle muſt have very abruptly ſpoken here of him under this Metaphor, of whom nothing went before, but very appoſitely of the Goſpel to which theſe Attributes do well agree; for (1.) The Word is quick and vital, not only promiſing Life to the Obedient, but threatning Death to the Diſobedient from the living God, who can quickly execute it, Ch. 3. 12. (2*dly.*) 'Tis powerful, being the Power of God for the deſtruction of ſtrong holds, and every thing that exalts it ſelf againſt the Knowledge of God, 2 Cor. 10. 4, 7. (3*dly.*) 'Tis ſharper than a two-edg'd Sword, and piercing even to the dividing aſunder of the Soul and Spirit, the Joints and the Marrow; ſlaying Ananias and Sapphira, and delivering up others to Satan for the deſtruction of the Fleſh, 1 Cor. 5. 5. 1 Tim. 1. 20. 'Tis (4*thly.*) a diſcerner of the Thoughts and Intentions of the Heart, there being then a gift of diſcerning Spirits, attending the Preachers of it, by which they judged and diſcerned of them; and ſo the ſecrets of their Hearts were made manifeſt, 1 Cor. 14. 24, 25. And, which makes this extremely pertinent to the preſent Exhortation, all this was very viſible in the inſtance of the Unbelievers here mentioned, to terrifie the Jews from falling by the ſame example of Unbelief. For (1.) The Word of threatning was ſo quick upon thoſe Spies, who brought up the Evil Report upon the Land, that they died immediately by the hand of God, or by the Plague before the Lord, Numb. 14. 37. And as for the Reſt of the Unbelievers, they were conſumed, ſaith Moſes, by God's anger, and by his wrath were troubled: They were carried away as with a Flood, they vaniſhed as a Dream, or as the Morning Graſs, which in the Evening is cut down, and withereth, Pſal. 90. 5, 6. And thus they found the weight of that Threat, γνώσεσθε τὸ θυμόν τὸ ὀργήν μου, ye ſhall know the Vehemency of my Wrath, Num. 14. 34. They were alſo thus puniſhed for the Evil Intentions of their hearts, for, ſaith St. Stephen, in their hearts they turned back into Egypt, Acts 7. 30. So that by The Word of God I am inclined to underſtand his Threats denounced againſt Unbelievers, Num. 14. Pſal. 95. 11. It alſo may deſerve to be noted, that Philo, lib. de Cherub. p. 86. G. aſcribes moſt of theſe Epithets to the λόγος, ſaying, The flaming Sword was a Symbol of the Word, eſpecially of the Firſt Cauſe, ὀξυτατόκτον γὰρ καὶ θερμὸν ὁ λόγος, for his Word is quick and fervent. And again, (y) God, ſaith he, whetting his Sword, the Diſſecter of all things, divides the inform Eſſence of all things, and cuts them in the middle.

h Ver. 13. πρὸς ὃν ἡμῖν ὁ λόγος, to whom we muſt render an account.] So Matth. 12. 36. Of every idle word that Men ſhall ſpeak, ἀποδώσουσι λόγον, they ſhall give an account in the day of Judgment, Matth. 18. 23. The Kingdom of Heaven is like to a certain King, who would συνᾶραι λόγον, make up an account with his Servants, Luke 16. 2. Ἀπόδος λόγον, give up an account of thy Stewardſhip, Rom. 14. 12. every one λόγον δώσει τῷ θεῷ, ſhall give an account of himſelf to God, Philip. 4. 17. I deſire Fruit that may abound, εἰς λόγον ὑμῶν, to your account, Heb. 13. 17. ὡς λόγον ἀποδώσοντες, as they that muſt give an account. Pet. 3. 15. Being always ready to give to every one that asks you, λόγον an account of the hope that is in you. And Ch. 4. 5. οἱ ἀποδώσουσι λόγον, who ſhall give an account to him that is ready to judge the quick and dead.

i Ver. 16. To the Throne of God.) The Jews ſay God hath a double Throne, one of Judgment, and the other of Mercy, and when he beholds the World obnoxious to condemnation, he riſes from his Throne of Judgment, and places himſelf on that of Mercy. This Throne of Mercy is our bleſſed Jeſus, ſtyled by this Apoſtle ἱλαστήριον, the true Propitiatory, or Mercy-Seat: By this High Prieſt and Interceſſor, muſt we come unto God, he being able to ſave to the uttermoſt, them that come unto God by him, Chap. 7. 25.

Note alſo, That ſome Great Men think the Reſt, and Sabbatiſm diſcourſed of Chapters the third and the fourth, refers to the Millennium, or the time of the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, and the New Heavens, and New Earth then promiſed, but I am not not able to assent to that Opinion, for this Reason, that the Apostle writes to the believing Jews of the present Age, warning them, That there be not in them an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God, and exhorting them to continue unto the end in the Faith, Ch. 3. 13, 14. that so they might not fail of this Rest of God; and to fear, lest a Promise being made of entring into this Rest, any of them should fall short of it, Ch. 4. 1, 2. And again, v. 11. Let us give diligence to enter into this Rest, that we fall not by the same Example of unbelief. Now these Exhortations could not be properly directed to the believing Jews of that Age, concerning the Millennium, or the glorious times which were to happen at the Conversion of the Jewish Nation, they being to die 1700 Years before that Conversion, which is not yet accomplished, and before those Glorious Days, which are not yet come; for what advantage, in reference to that, could they receive by this Diligence, who were to die so long before it happen'd, and being once in Heaven, or Paradise, could neither expect nor desire to come down thence to be partakers of any Enjoyments, or better Company here on Earth? But these Exhortations are very properly directed to them, to take care they fail not of their Rest in the Cœlestial Canaan, typified by their Rest in the Earthly Canaan, the time when they should rest with God, saith Origen, ascending to the Vision of him, the Rest of Souls in the Land of the Living, the Rest in the Life, and the World to come, and in life eternal; See Note on v. 8, 10. Seeing these Blessings only can belong to, and at the Time of Retribution will only be conferred upon them who use this Diligence. And hitherto the Apostle seems plainly to refer it, when he speaks of so great Salvation, Chap. 2. 3. of bringing many Sons to Glory, v. 10. of their being Partakers, κλησεως επουρανιου, of an Heavenly Calling, Chap. 3. 1. The Hope and Confidence of which he exhorts them to hold fast unto the end, v. 6. and then immediately begins his Discourse of this Rest.

CHAP. V.

LET us come, saith he, to God's Throne of Grace with freedom, as having there such an High-Priest, in whom are all things by way of excellency to be found, for which the Levitical Priesthood was ordained, and repaired to, as having,

1. A Better Priesthood, viz. after the Order of Melchisedech, Chap. 7.

2. A better Consecration to it, viz. by an Oath.

3. A better Tabernacle in which to Minister.

4. A better Sacrifice to offer there.

5. A better Covenant to establish in his Blood.

Verse 1. For every High-Priest taken from among Men, is ordained for [the service of] Men, in things [a] pertaining to [the Worship and Propitiation of] God, that he may offer both [b] Gifts and Sacrifices for Sins.

2. [And he is one] who can have compassion [c] on the Ignorant, and on them that are out of [Gr. err from] the way, [offering willingly, and interceding affectionately on their behalf;] for that he himself also is compassed with [the like] Infirmity.

3. And by reason hereof [of which Infirmities] he ought [by God's Command, and from the Nature of the thing,] as for the People, so also [d] for himself, to offer [Sacrifices] for Sins.

4. And [e] no Man taketh this Honour to himself, but he [only enjoys it] who is called of God, as was Aaron, [and his Posterity.]

5. [And] so also [was it with our Lord] Christ, [for he] glorified not himself, to be made an High-Priest, but he [appointed him to be so] who said unto him, Thou art my Son, [f] to Day have I begotten thee.

6. As he saith also [of him] in another place, thou art a Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedeck; [as being raised up to appear for ever in the Heavens, and there officiate as a Priest for us.]

7. Who in the days of his [continuance in the] Flesh, when he had offered up [Gr. offering up] Prayers and Supplications, with strong cryings and tears to him that was able to save him from Death, and was [g] heard [h] in that he feared; [and being heard so far as to obtain deliverance from his fears, which he did by an Angel sent to strengthen him, Luke 22. 43.]

8. Though he were a Son, yet learned he [the difficulty of] Obedience [to the Death] by the things which he suffered; [i. e. by the Agonies, and Terrors which he suffered at the apprehension and approach of the Death he was to suffer, and so was the more fitted to be to us a compassionate High-Priest under our Sufferings for his sake.]

9. And being [by these Sufferings] made [i] perfect [τελειωθεις, consecrated to his Priesthood] he became the Author of eternal Salvation to all them that obey him.

10. [Being] called, [or constituted] of God an High-Priest after the Order of Melchisedeck [i. e. for ever.]

11. Of whom [i. e. whose Priesthood] we have many things to say, and [those] hard [k] to to be uttered, [or explained, not from the nature of the things themselves, but] seeing [ἐπεὶ because] ye are dull of hearing.

12. For when for the time [you have professed the Faith] you ought to [have been able to] be teachers [of it to others] you have need that one teach you again, which be the
1 ' first Principles of the Oracles of God, and are become such as have need of Milk, [the Food of Babes,] and not of strong meat, [the Food of Men].

13. For every one that useth Milk is [as yet] unskilful in the Word of Righteousness, for he is [but] a Babe [in Christ, 1 Cor. 3. 2. 14. 20. Gal. 4. 19. Eph. 4. 14.]

14. But strong meat belongeth to them [only] m who are of full Age, [i. e. Perfect Men] m even [to] those who by reason of use have their Senses exercised to discern both Good and Evil.

Annotations on Chapter V.

a Verse 1. Τὰ πρὸς τὸν Θεὸν in things pertaining to God.] To procure and perform those things which Relate to the Worship, and the Propitiation of the Deity. So Crellius.

b Ibid. Δῶρά τε καὶ θυσίας, Gifts, and Sacrifices.] Both these may relate to Sacrifices for Sin; for not only Peace-offerings, but Gifts of any kind are called הקרבנות δῶρα, Matt. 5. 23. and מנחה is by the Seventy Interpreters often rendred Θυσία, Gen. 4. 3, 5. Exod. 29. 41. 30. 9. 40. 26. Levit. and Numb. Centies.

c Ver. 2. Τοῖς ἀγνοοῦσι καὶ πλανωμένοις.] He refers to the Sins which go under the Names of אשם וחטאת for the Word חטאת belongs properly to the thing in doing which we err from the way, and an expiatory Sacrifice was therefore required from him that did so, because he knew כי שגג ושגה שחטא that he had erred and gone from the way; But אשם was a Sin committed out of Ignorance of the command of God. So Abarbinel. For Sins committed ἑκουσίως, wittingly, and with an high hand, or from a Will set in opposition to the Law of God, there was no Sacrifice appointed by the Law, and to this the Apostle alludes, Chap. 10. 26. saying, to them that Sin wilfully there remains no more Sacrifice for Sin.

d Ver. 3. περὶ ἑαυτοῦ, for himself,] Here Grotius Notes, that this being spoken generally of every Priest taken from among men, Christ also must have offered for himself a Sacrifice for Sin, i. e. that he might be delivered from those Sorrows which were the Punishments of Sin, and were inflicted on him upon occasion of our Sins. But in this he seems Guilty of great, and manifold mistakes; for (1.) the Apostle plainly speaks of the sinful Infirmities of these Priests, who therefore were to offer for their own Sin, Chap. 7. 27. Whereas of Christ he declares, That though he was in all other things made like to us, yet χωρὶς ἁμαρτίας, without Sin, Chap. 4. 15. That he offered himself to God a Lamb without spot, Chap. 9. 14. That being thus Holy, free from evil, undefiled, and separate from Sinners, he needed not, upon a Day, as those High-Priests, to offer up Sacrifice first for his own Sins, and then for the Peoples, Chap. 7. 26, 27. (2.) He was not, nor could he, after he became our Surety, be delivered from those Sorrows, which were the Punishment of our Sins, he being, as our Expiatory Sacrifice, not only on occasion of our Sins, but in our stead, to bear the Punishment of our Iniquity.

e Ver. 4. Καὶ οὐχ ἑαυτῷ τις, no man.] i. e. According to the Law, say most Interpreters, but I see no necessity of this Limitation, it being true, that no Man can promise to himself God will accept his Offerings, who hath no Commission from God to make such Offerings; whence doth arise a good Argument, to shew that Sacrifices are of Divine, and not of humane Institution only.

f Ver 5. This Day.] I have shewed, note on Chap. 2. 10. that Christ was by his Death consecrated to his Priesthood; whence it must follow, that he could not exercise his Sacerdotal function till after Death, and this the Apostle sheweth here, by saying, He was made an High-Priest by the Father, saying, Thou art my Son this day have I begotten thee; for that this Relates unto the Resurrection of our Lord, is evident, because we find the same Apostle proving his Resurrection from these words, Acts 13. 33. which he could not have done, had they not been intended as a Prediction of his Resurrection.

g Ver. 7. Εἰσακουσθείς, he was heard.] i. e. Delivered from his fear. So the Word doth, and must signify, when it relates to Prayer for Deliverance from Evils. So Psal. 22. 22. Σῶσόν με, save me from the Mouth of the Lion, καὶ ἀπὸ κεράτων μονοκερώτων, and hear me from the horns of the Unicorn. Psal. 34. 6. This poor man cryed, καὶ ἐισήκουσε αὐτοῦ, and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his Troubles. And v. 4. I sought the Lord, καὶ ἐπήκουσε, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my Fears. Psal. 55. 2. Attend unto me, καὶ εἰσάκουσόν με and hear me, ἀπὸ φωνῆς ἐχθροῦ, καὶ ἀπὸ θλίψεως ἁμαρτωλοῦ, from the voice of the Enemy, and from the Vexation of the Wicked. And v. 16. I cried to the Lord, and the Lord εἰσήκουσέ μου heard me, v. 18. He delivered my life, ἀπὸ τῶν ἐγγιζόντων μοι, from those that drew nigh to me. Ecclus. 51. 10, 11. εἰσηκούσθη ἡ δέησίς μου, my Prayer was heard, for thou savedst me from Destruction. See Ps. 31. 7.

Ibid. Ἀπὸ τῆς εὐλαβείας, from his fear.] Some would have this rendred so, he was heard by reason of his Reverence of God; but it is truly rendred, from his fear; and so the word continually signifies both in the Old, and the New Testament, and when 'tis used, as it very often is, by Philo. So Josh. 22. 24. ἔρεκεν εὐλαβείας ἐποιήσαμεν τοῦτο, We did this out of fear. And Wisd. 17. 8. κατάγελαστον εὐλάβειαν ἐνόσων, they were affected with a Ridiculous fear, Heb. 12. 28. Let us serve God acceptably, μετ' εὐλαβείας καὶ δέους, with Reverence and Godly fear. Acts 23. 10. εὐλαβηθεὶς ὁ χιλίαρχος, the Captain fearing. Heb. 11. 7. Νῶε εὐλαβηθεὶς fearing, prepared an Ark. So Josephus, saith of the King, Esther's Husband, That he held forth the Scepter, εὐλαβείας αὐτὴν ἀπολύων, delivering her from her fear. And in the Septuagint, εὐλαβεῖσθαι ἀπὸ προσώπου κυρίου, is to fear before God, Exod. 3. 6. Jer. 5. 22. Hab. 2. 20. Zeph. 1. 7. 3. 13. Zach. 2. 13. and εὐλαβεῖσθαι ἀπὸ προσώπου ἀνθρώπου is to fear before Man, or be afraid of Men. 1 Sam. 18. 15. Job 19. 29. Isa. 57. 11. Jer. 22. 25. Eccles. 7. 7. This sense also the particle ἀπὸ doth require, which rarely doth import the meritorious Cause; His Prayers and Tears, also do express the greatness of his Fears; and lastly, The scope of the Apostle requires this sense, he being here representing our Lord as one of like Passions with us, that he might shew, he was a merciful high-Priest. This Fear he became subject to, say Grotius and the Fathers, because the Divinity for a Season as it were withdrew its influence from the Humane Nature, καὶ γὰρ τὴν ἀνθρωπίνην ταῦτα τοῦτο παθεῖν ἡ θεότης συνεχώρησε, for the Deity permitted the Humanity thus to suffer, saith Theodoret. And this doubtless of those Fathers, intended who followed that Reading, Chap. 2. 9. that he tasted Death for every Man, χωρὶς θεοῦ; for that this was no Depravation of the Nestorians, as Oecumenius and Theophylact phansied, is evident from this, that his words are thus cited by (a) Origen, and by Saint (b) Ambrose, who lived before Nestorius.

Ver. 9. Made perfect τελειωθείς.] That this word is taken here in the Notion of Consecration, may appear, saith the Reverend Doctor Hammond, by the words following, as the Application of it, being pronounced, or declared an High-Priest; which belongs to Christ after his Resurrection, and not before, that being the time when he entred into his heavenly Tabernacle living there for ever to appear before God, and exercise that Function in his Presence for us; and so he became an High-Priest for ever. i

Ver. 11. Δυσερμήνευτος, hard to be uttered.] See here what are St. Paul's δυσνόητα, things hard to be understood, 2 Pet. 3. 16. viz. those things which were not so in themselves, or through the Difficulty of the matter Revealed, but through the Imbecillity, and Weakness of them to whom they were spoken. k

Ver. 12. Στοιχεῖα τῆς ἀρχῆς τῶν λογίων τοῦ θεοῦ, the first Principles of the Oracles of God.] It is the Descant of all the (c) Ancient Commentators on this Place, that by these first Principles the Apostle understands the Humanity of Christ, because the Preachers of the Gospel spake of that only to them who were not yet perfect in the Faith: And yet this seemeth neither to be true, nor safe; not true, because the Apostle had in the first, and second Chapters of this Epistle, as all these Commentators teach, spoken to these Rude Jews of the Deity of Christ; and because he mentions not Christ's Humane Nature among the Principles of the Doctrines of Christ, reckoned up Chap. 6. 1, 2. Not safe, because it seems to intimate that Christians might be taught the Faith before they had knowledge of the Divinity of Christ, and consequently that this was no necessary part of Christian Faith. l

Note, secondly, That hence we may fairly guess who were, in the Epistles to St. Timothy, the Teachers of the Law, who neither understood what they said, nor whereof they affirm'd, 1 Tim. 1. 7. and the ἑτεροδιδασκαλοι the false Teachers, who were proud, knowing nothing, but doting about questions, and strifes of words, men of Corrupt minds, and destitute of the Truth, Ch. 5. 3, 4, 5. and who they were who were always learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth, 2 Tim. 3. 7. viz. not the Gnosticks, but in all likelihood, the Jewish false-Teachers, and such as were perverted by them.

Note, thirdly, That this seems not to be spoken of all the Jews, but only of the greatest part of them; that therefore which is spoken of the Deity of Christ, the Melchise- decian Priesthood, the Virtue of Christ's Priesthood, belonged to the more perfect, who were not to be debarr'd of the knowledge of these things, by reason of the Imbecillity of their Brethren.

m Ver. 14. Τελείων ἐ.] See the sense of the word perfect, Note on 1 Cor. 2.6. This Metaphor seems to be taken from the digestion of the Stomach; that which is light of Digestion, and needs not much Concoction, as solid Food, and strong meat doth, being here represented by the Name of Milk; and so in Reference to the Judgment, that which can easily be learned, and apprehended aright, and in which we are in no great Danger of mistaking, as are the first Principles of Religion, mentioned Chap. 6. is compared to Milk; but that we cannot easily discern, and about which we are subject to mistakes, and wrong Conceptions, as the things mentioned in the former note, were to the Jews, is called strong meat. d

CHAP. VI.

Verse 1. THerefore leaving the Principles of the Doctrine of Christ [tho' your small proficiency in them makes it seem almost necessary to discourse anew of them to you,] a let us go on unto Perfection; [i. e. to the Doctrines which will render you perfect men in the knowledge of Christ,] not laying again the Foundation of [Christianity in the Doctrines of] Repentance from Dead works [i. e. from works deserving Death, Rom. 6. 23. 8. 13.] and of Faith towards God.

b 2. [And] of the b Doctrine of Baptisms, [that of water and of the Spirit, by which they that repent and believe, are initiated into the c Church of Christ,] and c of laying on of hands [after Baptism, for the receiving of the Holy Ghost,] and of the Resurrection of d the Dead, and d of Eternal Judgment; [the great motives to engage all Christians, herein to exercise themselves, to have always Consciences void of Offence towards God, and towards all Men, Acts 34. 15, 16.]

e 3. e And this will we do, if God permit.

4. [I say, let us not attempt wholly to lay again the Foundation of Christianity in those who have quite fallen from it;] for it is impossible for f those who were once f enlightned [in Baptism,] and g have tasted of the heavenly Gift, g and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost [sent down from Heaven, and conferred on them by the Imposition of hands.]

h 5. And have h tasted the good word of God [preached among them with such variety of tongues, and confirmed by so many miracles,] and i [have seen, and felt] i the Powers of the World to come.

k 6. If they shall fall away [from Christianity] k to renew them again to Repentance, seeing they [by so doing] crucifie to themselves, [or by themselves,] the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

7. For [as] the Earth which Drinketh in the Rain which cometh oft [from Heaven] upon it, and [so] brings forth Herbs meet for them, by whom it is dressed, receiveth [farther] blessing from God [so is it with them who become fruitful under the Dew, and Showers of Divine Grace.]

8. But that [Earth] which [being thus dressed, and watered] beareth [only] Thorns and Briars, is l rejected, and nigh unto l Cursing, whose end is to be burnt.

9. But, Beloved, we are perswaded better things of you, and things that accompany Salvation, though we thus speak [to warn you of the Danger of falling off from the Christian Faith.]

10. For [if you be not wanting to your selves] God is not unrighteous to forget m your m work [of Faith,] and [your] labour of Love, which you have shewed to his Name, in that you have ministred to the [Necessities of the] Saints, and [yet] do minister [to them.]

11. And we desire [ἐπιθυμοῦμεν we desire therefore] that every one of you do shew the same Diligence [which hitherto you have done,] to the [Intent that you may retain a] full assurance of Hope to the end.

12. n That ye be not slothful [Gr. may not be slothful] but followers of them who through Faith and Patience inherit [ed] the Promises. n

13. For when God [upon his Faith in offering his Son Isaac] made a Promise to Abraham, o because he could swear by no[ne] o greater he sware by himself.

14. Saying, surely, Blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee.

15. And so [accordingly] after he had patiently endured, he obtained the p Promise p [of a Seed multiplyed greatly to him, Gen. 22. 17.]

16. [God confirming his Faith in the Promises made to him after the manner of men:] For men verily swear by the greater, and an Oath for confirmation is to them an q End of q all strife, [or Contradiction.] to the Heirs of Promise, the Immutability of his Counsel, confirmed it by an Oath.

18. That by two immutable things in which it was impossible for God to lye [viz his Promise, and his Oath,] we might have a strong Consolation, who have fled for Refuge to lay hold upon the Hope set before us. [Who, to escape the wrath impendent on the unbelieving Jews here, and hereafter, have fled to the Hope of Glory set before us in Christ Jesus, the lively hope of an Inheritance incorruptible to which we are begotten by Christ Jesus, 1 Pet. 1. 3.]

19. Which Hope we have as an Anchor of the Soul both sure and stedfast [in all the storms and Billows of the World,] and which entreth into that within [Gr. the inward part of] the veil.

20. Whither the Fore-runner is for us entred, even Jesus [who is] made an High-Priest for ever, after the Order of Melchisedech. [And so can never die, or miscarry in his Office, but lives for ever, there to appear in the Presence of God for us, Chap. 7. 24, 25.]

a Verse 1. Ἐπὶ τὴν τελειότητα, to perfection.] That to be perfect, signifies to be fully instructed in the Principles of Christian Faith, see Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6.

b Ver. 2. Βαπτισμῶν διδαχῆς, the Doctrine of Baptisms.] He speaks not of the Baptism of John, and of Christ, for the Baptism of John was preparatory to repentance, and Faith in Christ; nor of the Baptism of Martyrdom, that being not ordinarily known to the Jews by that name, but of the double Baptism, of which the Baptist spake in these words, I Baptize you with Water, but there is one who cometh after me, he shall baptize you with the holy Ghost and with Fire, Mat. 3. 12. and of which our Saviour speaks to Nicodemus, saying, Except a man be born again of Water, and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God, John 3. 5. For this in order follows the Doctrine of Repentance, and Faith in God, and our Lord Jesus Christ.

c Ibid. Ἐπιθέσεως τε χειρῶν, Imposition of hands.] Imposition of hands was used in Ordination, healing of the Sick, and Absolution of Penitents; but this Imposition of Hands was not common to all Christians nor joined with Baptism, nor was it to be reckoned among the Principles, or Initiatory Doctrines of the Christian Faith. It remains therefore that we understand this of the Imposition of the Apostles hands used after Baptism for the receiving of the Holy Ghost, mention'd Acts 8. 17. Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost. See Chap. 19. 6.

d Ibid. Καὶ κρίματος αἰωνίου of eternal Judgment.] Hence Interpreters observe that the Doctrine of Origen, touching the Period of the Torments of the Damned, is here condemned: And indeed the Primitive Fathers, not Origen himself excepted, taught the contrary.

If we do not the will of Christ, saith (a) Clemens Romanus, οὐδὲν ἡμᾶς ῥύσεται ἀπ' αἰωνίου κολάσεως, nothing will deliver us from eternal Punishment: The black way in (b) Barnabas is ὁδὸς τοῦ θανάτου αἰωνίου μετὰ τιμωρίας, the way of eternal Death with Punishment. The Punishment of the Damned, saith (c) Justin Martyr is, κόλασις καὶ τιμωρία ἐν αἰωνίῳ πυρί. Κόλασις ἀπέραντος, κόλασις ἀΐδιος, πυρὸς αἰωνίου δίκη, endless Punishment, and Torment in Eternal Fire. In (d) Theophylus, it is, κόλασις αἰώνιος, αἰώνιος τιμωρία, eternal Punishment. (e) Irenæus in his Symbol of Faith makes this one Article, That τοὺς ἀσεβεῖς καὶ ἀδίκους εἰς τὸ αἰώνιον πῦρ πέμψῃ, Christ would send the ungodly, and unjust, into Everlasting Fire.

(f) Tertullian declares, Omnes homines, aut cruciatui destinari, aut refrigerio, utroque sempiterno, that all Men are appointed to eternal Torments, or Refreshments. And if any Man, saith he, thinks the wicked are to be consumed, and not punished, let him remember, ignem Gehennæ æternum prædicari in pœnam æternam, that Hell fire is stiled eternal, because designed for eternal Punishment; and thence concludes their substance will remain for ever, whose Punishment doth so. (g) St. Cyprian saith, Servantur cum corporibus suis animæ infinitis cruciatibus ad Dolorem, that the Souls of the wicked are kept with their Bodies to be grieved with endless Torments. Tormentis nec modus ullus aut terminus, There is no measure, or end of their Torment, saith, (h) Minutius. Lastly (i) Origen reckons this among the Doctrines defined by the Church, That every Soul, when it goes out of this World shall shall either enjoy the Inheritance of eternal Life, and bliss, if its deeds have rendred it fit for life, sive igni æterno, ac suppliciis mancipanda est, or is to be delivered up to eternal fire and Punishment, if its Sins have deserved that State.

e V. 3. Καὶ τοῦτο ποιήσομεν and this we will do, &c.] This Verse by Grotius and Dr. Hammond is thus interpreted, we purpose some other time to instruct you farther in these Rudiments of Christianity, if you do not in the mean time fall from the Christian Faith, Chap. 2. 1, 3. If there be not in you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the Living God, Chap. 3 12. If you fall not after the same Example of Unbelief which your Fore-fathers gave, Chap. 4. 11.

Others put this Verse in a Parenthesis, and make it to Relate to these words, v. 1. Let us go on unto Perfection, or to the higher Doctrines of Christianity, as God willing we now intend to do. So Acts 18. 21. God willing I will return unto you; I will come to you speedily if God will, 1 Cor. 4. 19. And this Interpretation I like best.

f Ver. 4. Φωτισθέντες, enlightned.] That Baptism from the Beginning was called φωτισμὸς, illumination, we learn from the concurrent Testimonies of (k) Justin Martyr (l) Irenæus, and Clem. Alexandrinus, which makes it very probable that this Phrase obtained from the beginning of Christianity, and so this answers to the Doctrine of Baptisms, v. 2.

g Ibid. Γευσαμένους τε τ δωρεᾶς τ ἐπουρανίε, and have tasted of the Heavenly Gift.] i. e. The Holy Ghost sent down from Heaven, stiled by our Saviour, τὴν δωρεὰν τ θεῦ, the Gift of God, John 4. 10. Thus our Saviour discoursing of Baptism by Water and the Holy Ghost, and of Regeneration, ἄνωθεν from above, by Virtue of this Spirit, saith, he discoursed περὶ τῶν ἐπουρανίων, of heavenly Things, John 3. 12. and they who were sealed with the Spirit of Promise, Eph. 1. 13. are said to be blessed with Spiritual Blessings ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις, in heavenly Things; and this Gift was imparted by Imposition of hands, Acts 8. 17. 19. 6.

h Ver. 5. Καὶ καλὸν γευσαμένους θεῦ ῥῆμα, and have tasted the good word of God.] i. e. And have been acquainted with the Gospel, which affords the Promise of Remission of Sins, and of Justification here, and of a Resurrection to eternal Life hereafter, v. 2. So the Promise of bringing the Children of Israel into the Land of Canaan is stiled דבר טוב ῥῆμα καλὸν a good Word, Josh. 21. 45. 23. 15. the word of God for bringing his People out of Captivity, is stiled דברי הטוב, my good Word, Jer. 29. 10. The words of Consolation which the Angel spake to Jerusalem, are דברים טובים, ῥήματα καλὰ, good Words, Zach. 1. 13. The Promise made to God's People of Remission of Sins, and Peace and Truth in the Days of the Messiah, is הדבר הטוב, a good Word. And the Prophet speaking of the Messiah, saith, My heart meditateth a good Word, דבר טוב, λόγον ἀγαθὸν, Psal. 45. 1. This word they saw confirmed by the Gift of Tongues, and Prophecy vouchsafed to the first Preachers of it, and daily experimented in their Assemblies, 1 Cor. 14. and so they could not but be convinced of the Truth of it.

Ibid. Δυνάμεις τε μέλλοντος αἰῶνος, the Powers of the World to come.] The World to come doth, in the language of the Prophets, and the Jewish Doctors, signify the times of the Messiah, who in the Prophet Isaiah is called, ὁ πατὴρ μέλλοντος αἰῶνος, the Father of the World to come. See note on Chap. 2. 5. The Powers therefore of the World to come, according to the Scripture Idiotism, must be the External Operations of the Holy Ghost, viz. the Gifts of Faith, of Healing, of Casting out Devils, ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, 1 Cor. 12. 8, 9. the working of Miracles, or the Operations of Powers. Or, Secondly, This fourth Particular may answer to the Day of Judgment, which is the fourth thing mentioned, v. 2. as the three former seem to do to the three other things there mentioned, and then the Powers of the World to come may signify the powerful Persuasions the Doctrine of a future Judgment administers to Repentance, and a New Life, Acts 17. 30, 31. 2 Cor. 5. 10, 11. though of this Import of the Phrase I find no Example.

k Ver. 6. Ἀδύνατον, τοὺς πάλιν ἀνακαινίζειν εἰς μετάνοιαν, it is impossible to renew these to Repentance.] For these being all the means, internal, and external, by which God gave Testimony to the Truth of Christian Faith, and the Prophetick Office and Glorious Resurrection of our Lord, they, saith the Apostle, who, after full experience of them, do of their own accord renounce that Faith, cannot be renewed to Repentance, because they have already resisted all that Evidence which God saw fit to give Men of the Truth of that Faith, and of this Messiah, and so they become guilty of that Sin against the Holy Ghost, which, saith our Saviour, shall never be forgiven, Matth. 12. 32.

But then the παραπεσόντες, Men that thus fall away, are not those who lapse in the times of Persecution, and much less, those who, through the Temptations of the Flesh, may sometimes fall into great Sins, for for to such the Apostle grants place for Repentance, 2 Cor. 12. 21. and one of these he delivers to Satan for the Destruction of the Flesh, that the Spirit might be saved in the Day of the Lord Jesus, 1 Cor. 5. 5. Exhorting his Corinthians, upon his Repentance, to receive him into their Communion, 2 Cor. 2. 7, 8. But such as, after all these Experiences of the Truth of Christian Faith, have voluntarily renounced it, relapsing either to Heathenism, or Judaism; for they are such as apostatize from the living God, Ch. 3. 12. such as fall through Unbelief, Ch. 4. 11. such as hold not the Profession of the Faith, Chap. 10. 23. such as draw back from the Faith, v. 38.

2*ly*, This will be farther evident from the Description of these Persons, they being here said ἀνασταυροῦν ἑαυτοὺς by themselves to crucifie Christ afresh, and παραδειγματίζειν, to put him to an open shame, as one that deserved the Punishment which the Jews inflicted on him; and being Apostate Jews, to crucifie Christ again.

l Ver. 8. Ἀδόκιμος rejected.] It is rejected of the Husbandman, who will spend no more labour upon it, but leave it to be scorched by the Heat, and so to be like the Heath, which is the Emblem of the Cursed man, Jer. 17. 5, 6. or like the barren Fig-tree which the Lord cursed, saying, never fruit grow on thee more, Matth. 21. 19. Accordingly, they, on whom the Showers of Divine Grace fall down from Heaven, if they Bring forth no good Fruit, shall be ἀδόκιμοι rejected by God, continue under the Curse of the Law, and their end shall be Destruction.

m Ver. 10. Τὸ ἔργον ὑμῶν, your Work.] This seems to be the ἔργον πίστεως work of Faith, mentioned, 1 Thess. 1. 3. 2 Thess. 1. 11. and joined with ὁ κόπος τ᾽ ἀγάπης, the Labour of Love, as here; and which is stiled ἔργον ἀγαθόν, the Good Work, Philip. 1. 6. Rom. 2. 7. See Note on that Verse, the following Exhortation being this, That they would continue in the Faith to the End, and be imitators of them, who through Faith, and Patience did inherit the Promises.

n Ver. 12. Ἵνα μὴ νωθροὶ, that ye be not slothful.] i. e. God being so engaged on his Part to let nothing be wanting which is requisite to enable you to persevere, and so to enjoy the Fruits of your Faith in the Salvation of your Souls, see that you be not slothful, nor faint-hearted, but still continuing the same Christian Diligence to the End, that so you may at last enjoy the Blessing promised by this Gospel, and live in an assured hope of them, as your Father Abraham did.

o Ver. 13. Ἐπεὶ κατ᾽ οὐδενὸς εἶχε μείζονος ὀμόσαι, because he could swear by no greater.) So Philo ὀρθῶς γὰρ ὅτι ὁ καθ᾽ ἑτέρου ὀμνύων ὁ Θεὸς, οὐδὲν γὰρ αὐτοῦ κρεῖττον, ἀλλὰ καθ᾽ ἑαυτοῦ, thou seest that God sweareth not by another, for there is nothing better than he, but by himself. Leg. Alleg. l. 2. p. 75. D.

Ver. 15. Τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν the Promise.] p This cannot be understood of Isaac, the promised Seed, he being not only born, but offer'd, when God made this Promise to Abraham; nor can it be said that he inherited the Promise, because he saw it afar off, that being a sign he did not yet inherit it, or that he did this in his Posterity; for the Apostle saith, he himself inherited the Promises; which is exactly true of the Words cited here by the Apostle, Surely, blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee; for the Book of Genesis assures us, this Promise was exactly fulfilled in his Life, for the Lord blessed him in all things, Gen. 24. 1. He had a numerous Seed by his Wife Keturah, Gen. 25. to whom he gave Gifts, v. 6. From Ismael arose twelve Sons, which were Princes of their Tribes, v. 13, 16. He lived fifteen years after the birth of Jacob and Esau by Rebekah, of whom the Oracle declared, that there were two Nations in her Womb; for Isaac was Sixty years old when they were born to him, v. 23. 26. He himself was born when Abraham was an Hundred years old, Gen. 21. 5. Abraham was an Hundred seventy five years old when he died, Gen. 25. 7. He therefore lived fifteen years after the birth of Jacob and Esau, and ninety years after the birth of Ismael, and so lived to see this Promise verified to him.

Ver. 16. Ἀντιλογίας πέρας, an end of Contradiction.] (m) Diodorus Siculus informs us, that the Aigyptians styled an Oath, μεγίστην πίστιν, the greatest Confirmation. It is, saith D. Halicarnassensis, τελεωτάτη πίστις, the last or utmost assurance. 'Tis in the Language of Procopius, ὕστατον καὶ ἐχυρώτατον πίστεως τε καὶ ἀληθείας ἐνέχυρον, the last and firmest Pledge of Faith and Truth. That the Apostle here speaks of Promissory Oaths, is evident from the occasion of this Discourse, viz. his Promise made to Abraham. Now these Oaths being equally conducing to this good End in all Ages, we have just reason to believe that Christianity allows of them for these Ends. q

Ver. 19. Εἰς τὸ ἐσώτερον τοῦ καταπετάσματος, which entreth into the veil;] Which being the Hope of the heavenly Mansions typified by the Sanctum Sanctorum, within the Veil, carries our Expectations thither: The Jews had the highest Expectations from the Service of the High-Priest entring into the Holy of Holies; if on the Day of Expiation he came out alive (n) there was great Joy, for then they thought they were accepted. How then may we rejoice in Contemplation of that Heavenly Sanctuary! r

CHAP. VII.

Verse 1. (WHich Order, sure, was very excellent, and therefore fit to represent the Priesthood of the Holy Jesus, the King of Saints, and Prince of Peace.] For this a Melchisedek, [a] King of Salem, Priest of the most high God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the [four] Kings [mentioned, Gen. 14. 9.] and blessed him, [v. 18.]

2. To whom also Abraham gave a Tenth part of all [the spoils taken by him,] first being, by Interpretation [of the Word Melchisedek,] King of Righteousness, and after that also [stiled] King of Salem, which [by Interpretation] is King of Peace.

b 3. [b] Without Father, [or] without Mother [of any Priestly order] without descent [from any of the Pedigree of Abraham, v. 7.]
c [c] having neither beginning of Days [from which his Priestly Office was to commence,] nor end of Life, [in which it terminated;] but d [being] [d] made like unto the Son [a Son] of God, abideth a Priest continually.

4. Now consider how great this Man [Gr. he] was, unto whom even the Patriarch
e Abraham gave [e] the tenth of the spoils; [which anciently were given to Kings, and Priests, as belonging to God whom they served, or Represented.]

5. And verily, They that are of the Sons of Levi, who receive the Office of the Priesthood, have a Commandment to take Tithes of the People, according to the Law, that is, of their Brethren, though they come out of the Loins of Abraham; [i. e. they receive Tythes only by Virtue of the Law, and that from them only who come out of the Loins of Abraham, as well as they, Numb. 18. 21, 26.]

f 6. But he [f] whose Descent is not counted from them [being no kin to Abraham] received Tythes of Abraham [himself,] and blessed him, who had the Promises, [that in him should all the Families of the Earth be
i blessed.]

7. And without all Contradiction, [in all solemn Benedictions, ex officio] the less is blessed of the better, [and so he that blessed Abraham must be greater than he was]

8. [g] And here [under the Levitical Priesthood] Men that die receive Tythes, but there [in the instance of Melchisedek] [g] he [received them] of whom it is witnessed [Psal. 110. 4.] that he liveth.

h 9. And [h] as I may so say [the Family of] Levi also, who receiveth Tythes, paid Tythes in Abraham.

10. For he was yet in the Loins of his Father [Abraham] when Melchisedek met him.

11. If therefore [i] Perfection [i. e. full Expiation of Sins] were [to be obtained] by the Levitical Priesthood [as it must have been had it come by the Law, v. 18, 19.] for [k] under [Gr. about] it, the People received the Law, what further need was there, that another Priest should arise [as the Psalmist saith] after the Order of Melchisedek, and not be [rather] called [a Priest] after the Order of Aaron?

12. [And yet you see this need there was;] for the Priesthood being changed [i. e. translated from the Order of Aaron, to that of Melchisedek,] there is made of necessity a change also of the Law [concerning Priesthood, v. 14. or touching Priests to be repaired to for Expiation.]

13. [And this change is signified by these words, Thou art a Priest for ever after the Order of Melchisedek;] for he [i. e. Christ] of whom these things [words] are spoken, pertaineth to another Tribe [than that of Levi,] of which [Tribe] no man gave attendance at the Altar.

14. For it is evident, that our Lord [to whom these words belong,] sprang out of [the Tribe of] Judah, of which Tribe Moses spake nothing concerning Priesthood.

15. And it is yet far more evident [by saying] [l] for that [Gr. a like] after the li- l militude of Melchisedek [not of Aaron, v. 11.] there ariseth another Priest.

16. Who is made [a Priest] not after the Law of a Carnal Commandment, [relating to men that are Flesh and blood, and so infirm, and subject to Mortality; for all flesh is grass, Isa. 40. 6. and therefore must be succeeded by others,] but after the Power of an Endless [or indissoluble] life.

17. For [thus] he testifieth [by saying,] Thou art a Priest for ever after the Order of Melchisedek.

18. [I say, not after the Law of a carnal Commandment,] for there is verily [in these words] a disanulling of the Commandment going before, [the preceding Commandment concerning the Levitical Priesthood, and Sacrifices,]
m [m] for the weakness [of it as to Justification,] m and [n] unprofitableness of it [as to the Expia- n
tion of Sin.]

19. For [thus] [o] the Law made nothing per- o fect, but the bringing in [p] of a better hope p did, by [q] which we draw nigh to God. q

20. [r] And [by so much is Jesus made the r
Mediator of a better Covenant] inasmuch as [his Priesthood, by virtue of which he became this Mediator, was] not without an Oath [as was that of the Tribe of Levi.]

21. For

21. For thoſe Prieſts were made [ſuch] without an Oath, but this with an Oath, by him that ſaid unto him [Pſ. 110. 4] The Lord ſware, and will not repent, thou art a Prieſt for ever after the Order of Melchiſedec.

22. [I ſay,] by ſo much was Jeſus made a Surety of a better Teſtament, [eſtabliſhed upon better Promiſes, Chap. 8. 6.]

23. And [to proceed in the Compariſon] they truly were many Prieſts [ſucceſſively,] becauſe they were not ſuffered to continue by reaſon of Death.

24. But this Man [Gr. but he, i. e. Jeſus, v. 22.] becauſe he continueth [for] ever, hath an unchangeable [High] Prieſthood [which paſſeth not away, and ſo admits of no ſucceſſion to it.]

25. Wherefore he is able alſo to ſave them to the uttermoſt [Gr. for ever] that come unto God by him, ſeeing he ever liveth to make Interceſſion for them, [and by that Interceſſion to become the Propitiation for their Sins, 1 John 2. 2.]

26. [And thus was he an High-Prieſt ſuited to our condition;] for ſuch an High-Prieſt became us [Sinners] who is holy, [i. e. conſecrated to his Office, and ſo Holineſs to the Lord, Exod. 28. 36.] ' harmleſs [ἄκακος, free s from evil in himſelf,] undefiled [by the impurities of others,] ſeparate from Sinners, [and ſo not liable to any Defilement by dwelling among them,] and [therefore] made higher than the Heavens, [he being aſcended far above the Heavens, Eph. 4. 10. and paſſed through the Heavens, Heb. 4 14. into the preſence of God, there to appear for ever for us.]

27. [And ſo one] who needeth not daily, as thoſe High-Prieſts [under the Law did,] to offer up Sacrifice firſt for his own ſins, [which he, being free from evil, v. 26. could not do,] and then for [the Sins of] the People; ' for this [laſt] he did once when he t offered up himſelf.

28. For the Law maketh Men High-Prieſts which have infirmity [ſubjecting them to Sin, and by that to Mortality, whence they have need to offer, as well for themſelves as for the People, v. 27.] but the word of the Oath, which was ſince the Law, [as being in the Pſalms written after it,] maketh the Son [our High-Prieſt,] who is conſecrated [to this Office] for evermore; [he being not ſubject to thoſe infirmities which brought Mortality upon others.]

a Verſe 1. Βασιλεὺς Σαλὴμ, King of Salem.] They ſeem miſtaken who think this Salem was the ſame with Jeruſalem, for it is plain from this very Place, Gen. 14. 15, 16, 17. that Salem was in the way which led from the Valley of Damaſcus unto Sodom. (a) St. Jerom alſo ſaith, that he learned ab eruditiſſimis Gentis illius, from the moſt Learned of the Jews, that Salem was not Jeruſalem, but a Town near Scythopolis, which till then was called Salem. And it retained its Name in our Saviour's days, as appears by the Evangeliſt, ſaying, that St. John baptized near Salem, John 3. 23. Now of this Melchiſedec, King of Salem, let it be noted,

1. That he muſt be a Man, not an Angel, not the Holy Spirit: For (1.) Every High Prieſt ſaith the Apoſtle, is taken from among Men, Chap. 5. 1. (2*dly.*) The Scripture ſtill ſpeaks of him as a Man, deſcribing him by his proper Name, his Kingly Dignity, and the City where he dwelt, and by his Perſonal Actions, proper to a Man, his bringing forth bread and wine, and his receiving the Tithes of the Spoils. And (3*dly.*) from thoſe words, conſider πηλίκος ὅτος, what an eminent Perſon this Melchiſedech was, to whom Abraham gave the Tenth of the Spoils; things, ſurely, which neither Angels nor the Holy Spirit would receive, nor was it neceſſary to prove their Dignity. Accordingly (b) Joſephus ſaith expreſly, that he was a King of the City of Salem; and (c) Philo that he was a King, and not a Tyrant.

2*dly.* He could not be Sem, as the Jews vainly imagine; for the Apoſtle ſaith here expreſly, that Melchiſedec was not γενεαλογούμενος ἐξ αὐτῶν, i. e. one who had his Pedigree, or Deſcent from them; which is not true of Sem; nor could he be ſaid to be without Father, or Mother, whoſe Genealogy is evident from Adam, Gen. 5. 32. 10. 1. and who was the Son of Noah. Nor was Sem's Prieſthood, if he had any, of a different Order from Levi's, who was in his Loins, as well as Levi was in the Loins of Abraham; and therefore it could not be ſaid, that Levi paid him Tythes in the Loins of Abraham, but it would be as true, that he received Tythes in the Loins of Sem; for according to this interpretation, he was in the Loins both of him that received Tythes, and of him that paid them; which deſtroys the whole Argument of the Apoſtle here. Moreover, there is no viſible cauſe why Moſes ſhould call Sem, whom he ſo often mentions, by any other Name than his own, by which he doth ſo oft make mention of him; nor is it likely that Sem reigned in the Land of Canaan, which now was in the Poſſeſſion of his Brother's Son; nor could Abraham be said to sojourn there as in a strange Country, if his Noble Ancestor Sem had been King there.

3*dly*. Much less could he be the Eternal λόγ☉, or the Son of God himself; for as he only was a Priest, according to his humane Nature, i. e. that Nature in which he was inferior to God, and which he had not yet assumed, and was then constituted an High Priest, when God said to him, at his Resurrection, This Day have I begotten thee, Chap. 5. 5. So could he not be an High Priest after his own Order, or made like unto himself. But Melchisedec was in this like unto him, that he was both a Priest of the most high God, and a King also in that Country; those two Offices being anciently in the same Person, whence the Hebrew כֹּהֵן a Priest, is by the Targum often rendred רבא a Prince; see Gen. 41. 45. Exod. 2. 16. 3. 1. 2 Sam. 8. 18. 20. 26. 1 Kings 4. 6. Job 12. 19. and on those words Psal. 110. 4. Thou art a Priest for ever, thou shalt be a great Prince for ever, is the Descant of the Targum.

Note also, that here again, Mr. le Clerc is insufferable, when he says, "Because the Allegorical Writers of the Jews at that time "accommodated innumerable Places to the "Messiah, not relying upon any Grammatical Interpretation, but a certain old Custom of explaining the Scripture after this "manner; and because they interpreted "Psal. 110. of the Messiah, the Sacred Writer makes use of that interpretation to "his Purpose; and because they acknowledged the Messiah ought to be like "Melchisedec, he reasons against them from "their own Concessions, not against other "Men who might have denied what he affirmed; otherwise if the thing be considered in it self, no strong or Grammatical Argument can be drawn against others "from that History; and therefore such "things are not too much to be urged "now, because that way of explaining "Scripture, is grown out of use: That is, the Apostle proceeds all along upon weak Grounds, and urges Arguments that in themselves depend on Falshoods, only because some silly Jews had said the same things before him. I read indeed in Profane (d) Celsus this vile Reflection on the Sacred Penmen, That they produce things unknown, Phanatical, uncertain, and which no wise Man thinks to be of any strength; But I am sorry to find a Christian Writer thus exposing them to the Contempt and Scorn of Antiscripturists. Christ is a Priest for ever after the Order of Melchisedec, saith the Apostle, Chap. 6. 20. So indeed you tell us out of the idle Tales, and Allegorical Interpretations of some Brain-sick Jews, saith Mr. le Clerc; But without all ground. It is περισσότερον κατάδηλον, exceeding manifest, saith the Apostle, that another Priest should arise after the Order of Melchisedec, Chap. 7. 15. 'Tis no such thing, saith Mr. le Clerc: This follows only from the vain Concessions of the Jews: Another Man may deny what you thus confidently affirm. It is exceeding Manifest, saith the Apostle; for the Scripture testifies this, by saying, Thou art a Priest for ever, after the Order of Melchisedec, v. 17. And God hath confirmed this by an Oath, in these words, the Lord sware, and will not repent, thou art a Priest for ever. You make use of a Rabbinical Interpretation, saith Mr. le Clerc, and call that falsly a Scripture Testimony; but another Man may deny what you thus assume, for no strong or Grammatical Argument can be drawn from these words.

Ver. 3. Ἀπάτωρ, &c. Without Father, without Mother, &c.] It being certain that these things cannot be properly spoken of a Man, it is necessary to interpret them as I have done in the Paraphrase; and to this Interpretation the Apostle leads, by styling him ἀγενεαλόγητον, without Pedigree, as being μὴ γενεαλογούμεν☉ ἐξ αὐτῶν, not of the Genealogy of the People of Abraham. b

Ibid. Μήτε ἀρχὴν ἡμερῶν, μήτε ζωῆς τέλ☉ ἔχων, having neither beginning of Days, nor end of Life.] Though I have placed another Exposition of these Words in the Paraphrase, I condemn not the ordinary Sense which Interpreters put upon these Words, viz. that in Scripture there is nothing said of the beginning, or end of his Life; for so Philo saith of Cain, Perhaps the Sign that Cain should not be killed, was this, τὸ μηδέποτε ἀναιρεθῆναι, that he should never be taken away by Death, οὐδὲ γὰρ θάνατον αὐτῷ διὰ πᾶσαν τὴν νομοθεσίαν δεδήλωκεν, for Moses hath said nothing of his Death. L. quod Deter. p. 145. Ibid. Ἀφωμοιωμέν☉ δὲ τῷ υἱῷ τοῦ θεοῦ, d but made like to a Son of God.] All the Interpreters I have met with, refer this to Christ, of whom Melchisedec was a Type, he being the Anti-type, as being emphatically a King of Righteousness, and a Prince of Peace, without Earthly Father, as to his Divinity, without Mother, as being not of the Genealogy of the Aaronical Priesthood; without beginning of Days as to his Divine Nature; and without end of Life as to his Priesthood. But the Apostle is not here speaking of Melchisedec's likeness to Christ, but of Christ's likeness to him, as being a Priest after the Order of Melchisedec; nor nor do these things well suit with our Lord Christ, who, as to his Human Nature, was not without Mother; nor as to his Priesthood without beginning of Days, Luke 3. 23. I therefore rather think, that as in all the former Characters, so here the Apostle speaks of Melchisedec, and saith he was in this like to a Son of God, or to one of the Angels, who are immortal, and never cease to be: For it is certain that the Angels, are often styled the Sons of God, so Job 1. 6. בני האלוהים the Sons of God, are in the Septuagint, ἄγγελοι τοῦ Θεοῦ. So also Chap. 2. 1, and Chap. 38. 7. and Psal. 29. 1. Chald. So Dan. 3. 25. The Vision of the fourth is like υἱῷ τοῦ Θεοῦ, a Son of God, i. e. an Angel of God: For so it follows, v. 28. He sent his Angel, and delivered them. It is the Observation of the Book of Wisdom, Chap. 2. 3. that Man was made immortal, and to be an Image of God's Eternity; and at their Resurrection, saith St. Luke, they shall die no more, but shall be like unto the Angels, ἐν υἱοὶ εἰσὶ τοῦ Θεοῦ, and are the Sons of God, being Sons of the Resurrection; and our υἱοθεσία, or Sonship, is by this Apostle made to consist in the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, See Note on Rom. 8. 23. Melchisedec therefore being here represented as one who had no end of his Life; and upon that account, one who abides a Priest for ever, is in this said to be like to a Son of God, whence, v. 8. the Apostle opposes him to Priests that die, saying, there he received Tythes, of whom it is testified that he liveth, viz. Psal. 110. 4.

e Ver. 4. Δεκάτην τῶν ἀκροθινίων, the Tenths of the Spoils.] Τὰ ἀκροθίνια saith Phavorinus, are τὰ τῶν πολέμων, the Spoils of War, they are, saith Hesychius and Suidas, αἱ λαφύρων ἀπαρχαὶ, the first Fruits of the Prey; or, as (e) Josephus saith, δεκάτη τῆς λείας, the Tenths of what was gotten by War; it being a very ancient Custom to give partly to the Gods, and partly to Kings, the Tenths or first Fruits of these Spoils: And so Melchisedec might here receive them both as a King, and as a Priest. That they were given to the Gods, we learn from those Words of (f) Arrian, We ought in hunting to begin from the Gods, and to present to them the first Fruits of what we have taken, ἀπὸ μέσου ἢ ἐν τῇ νίκῃ πολέμου ἀκροθίνια, no less than in a Victory in War, the chief of the Spoils. Thus did the Athenians, saith (g) Herodotus, who τῶν λύτρων τὴν δεκάτην ἀνέθηκαν, consecrated the Tenth of their Prize to the Gods. Diodorus Siculus saith all the Greeks did it. See this as to both parts, largely proved by (h) Dr. Spencer. And evident it is, that Abraham here paid not the Tythes of all he had, but only the Tenths of the Spoils: 1. Because he had nothing else there, the Remainder of his Estate being at Mamre. 2*dly*. The manner of paying Tythes being not this, that a Man shall pay the Tenth of all he hath, but only that he pay the Tenths of his Increase, and that not whenever he meets the Priest, but at the time of Harvest only, or when he receives from God's Hands the encrease of it; It cannot then be thought reasonable, that Abraham should give to Melchisedec the Tithes of any other Spoils than those he had now reaped by way of Harvest.

Ver. 6. Ὁ δὲ μὴ γενεαλογούμενος ἐξ αὐτῶν, whose Descent, &c.] Thus (i) Philo saith, That ἱερέα ἑαυτοῦ ποιήσειν ὁ Θεὸς, οὐδὲν ἔργον αὐτοῦ προδιατυπώσας, God made him his Priest, having not mentioned any Work that he did before: And elsewhere he saith, That he received αὐτομαθῆ καὶ αὐτοδίδακτον ἱερωσύνην, a Priesthood taught and learned by himself. f

Ver. 8. He.] They seem to be mistaken who think this belongs only to Christ, and not at all to Melchisedec: The contrary is manifest, (1.) From the Particle δὲ, which shews that the Apostle is still speaking of the same Person, i. e. Melchisedec; and from the three following Verses, which all speak of him; nor is here more said of him than v. 3. where 'tis affirmed he had neither beginning of Days, nor end of Life. And by the Opposition betwixt the Aaronical Priests as dying, and him as living, and by the Word μαρτυρούμενος, which respects a Testimony of this thing, it is evident that the Apostle infers this from the words of the Psalmist, Thou art a Priest for ever, after the Order of Melchisedec. g

Ver. 9. Ὡς ἔπος εἰπεῖν] is not here to speak briefly, and as in a word, but ὡς ἄν εἴποι τις, as Man may say; or ἵνα ὕτως εἴπω, that I may so say; because, saith Theophylact, it was τόλμημα a harsh Figure; For in such a manner, saith (k) Quintilian, we use to mollifie harsh Expressions: which is enough to guard us against the Inference which some make from these words, that in like manner we may be said to have sinned in Adam, as being in the Loins of Adam when he sinned. Which may be granted τρόπον τινὰ in a manner, because we derived from him that Death which was the Punishment of his Sin, as coming from the Loins of one Mortal, and deriving from him a Nature subject to that Sin which deserveth Death; and more cannot be inferr'd from these words, because the Apostle here says no more of Levi, but that he in a manner, paid Tythes in Abraham. (2.) Because by the like Argument, it may be proved, that Jesus Christ himself, as Man, paid Tythes to Melchisedec, for h he alſo was in the Loins of Abraham, when Melchiſedec met him, and conſequently that he was alſo inferior to Melchiſedec; which perhaps was the very Reaſon why the Apoſtle thus mollifies his words, and is ſo careful to let us know he uſeth here a Form of Speech which is not proper, and exact, and ſuch as ought not to be preſſed too far: And therefore (3.) The Subject matter fairly ſhews the Difference; for Tythes are paid out of ſuch things as are the Father's Goods, and ſo would have deſcended by the Laws of Nature, and Nations, to their Poſterity, had they not been thus given to another; but good, and evil Actions are merely Perſonal, and therefore, though the Effects of both may, and often do deſcend unto Poſterity, the good Actions of the Parents bringing Temporal Bleſſings on their Off-ſpring, and their evil Actions ſubjecting them to Temporal Calamities, and Diſeaſes; yet their Merit, or Demerit, cannot be properly derived or propagated to their Poſterity; for as no Man is a good Man, in the account of God, purely becauſe his Father, or ſome of his Progenitors were ſo; ſo neither is any Man properly a Sinner, or evil in the ſight of God, merely becauſe his Parents were ſo before he was born.

i Ver. 11. Τελειωσις, Perfection.] That this word, relating to Prieſts and Oblations, ſignifies Expiation, and Purification, ſee note on Chap. 10. 1.

k Ibid. Επ' αὐτῇ γὰρ ὁ λαὸς νενομοθέτηλο, for about that the People received the Law,] i. e. The Law appointed that the People under all their Defilements, which needed any Expiation, and Purgation, ſhould repair to the Levitical Prieſts: Or, under that Prieſthood the People received the Law concerning Sacrifices, the Prieſthood being firſt inſtituted, and then the Laws concerning Sacrifice, and Expiation.

l Ver. 15. Ει, for that.] The Particle ει often ſignifies quod, that, in Scripture, as doth the Hebrew כי. So Acts 26. 8. Why ſhould it be thought impoſſible, ει θεὸς νεκρὸς ἐγείρει, that God ſhould raiſe the Dead? And v. 23. ει παθητὸς ὁ χριστὸς ει πρῶτος, &c. That Chriſt hath Suffered, and that he is the firſt that aroſe from the Dead. So Jer. 2. 28. Where are thy Gods? ει ἀναστήσονται, that they may ariſe and ſave thee? See 1 Tim. 5. 10. 2 Chron. 6. 18.

m Ver. 18. Διὰ τὸ αὐτῆς ἀσθενὲς, for the weakneſs of it.] For what the Law could not do, i. e. that deliverance from Death, that Juſtification to Life it could not give, ἐν ᾧ ἠσθένει διὰ τῆς σαρκὸς, in that it was weak through the Fleſh, rendring us ſubject to the Tranſgreſſion of it, and ſo to Death by the Sentence of it, Chriſt by his Sacrifice for Sin did, Rom. 8. 3.

Ibid. Τὸ ἀνωφελὲς, the unprofitableneſs,] n of the Law here mentioned, muſt not be taken abſolutely, for that the Apoſtle denies, declaring in his Anſwer to that Queſtion, What advantage then hath the Jew (above the Gentile?) or, τις ἡ ὠφέλεια, what is the Profit of the Circumciſion? That it is much every way, Rom. 3. 1, 2. And reckoning among their Advantages, the giving of the Law, Rom. 9. 4. and ſhewing the uſes of it; and the reaſon which moved God to give it, Rom. 7. 8. Gal. 3. 19, 24. but the Precepts of the Ceremonial Law were, ἀσθενῆ καὶ πτωχὰ στοιχεῖα, weak, and beggarly Elements, compared to thoſe of the Goſpel, Gal. 4. 9. and wholly unprofitable as to Juſtification, or the Abſolution of the Sinner, or Tranſgreſſor of it, from the guilt of Sin, as the Apoſtle teſtifies in theſe words, Rom. 3. 9. What then are we (Jews) better than they (the Gentiles?) οὐ πάντως, not altogether: for we have before proved (touching) both Jews (Chapter the ſecond) and Gentiles (Chapter the firſt) that they are all under Sin, (and ſo both equally ſtand in need of Juſtification by Faith.)

Ver. 19. Οὐδὲν γὰρ ἐτελείωσεν ὁ νόμος, o For the Law made nothing perfect.] Nor is it to be wondred that the Law of which the Levitical Prieſthood was the chiefeſt part, and that only which concern'd the Expiation of Sin, ſhould be thus diſannull'd, ſince it was thus weak and unprofitable as to the Abſolution of the Sinner from the guilt of Sin, and could not by its Sacrifices τελειῶσαι, procure an Abſolution as to Conſcience, to thoſe that came unto God by them, from the guilt of Sin, Chap. 10. 1, 2. They could not make the Worſhipper of God by them perfect, as appertaining to Conſcience, Ch. 9. 9. i. e. ſo as to have no more Conſcience of the guilt of Sin. This made it neceſſary that they ſhould give place to the Introduction of a better hope.

Ibid. Επεισαγωγὴ κρείττονος ἐλπίδος, p the Introduction of a better hope] i. e. The Introduction of that Sacrifice which gives a better hope, a hope of entring, not into an Earthly Tabernacle, which was all the Jewiſh Sacrifices could procure, (the way of entring into the Holy of Holies being not yet made manifeſt, Ch. 9. 8.) but of entring within the Veil, Ch. 6. 19. The hope of good things to come, by a better and more perfect Tabernacle, Chap 9. 11. The hope not of an Annual, but of an Eternal Redemption, v. 12. not of an Inheritance to be continued for a little time in the Land of Canaan, but of an Eternal Inheritance, v. 15. Chriſt being entred, not into an Earthly Tabernacle, as the Aaronical Prieſts only did, which was the Figure of the True, but into Heaven it ſelf, there to appear in the Preſence of God for us, Chap. 9. 24. and ſo procuring to us freedom to enter into the Holieſt by the blood of Jeſus. Ibid.

q Ibid. δι' ἧς ἐγγίζομεν τῷ Θεῷ, by which we draw nigh to God.] Having our Consciences purged from Dead Works, by the Blood of Christ, to serve the living God, Chap. 9. 14. and having through him freedom to come unto him with full assurance of Faith, Chap. 10. 22. and by which we are made ἐγγὺς, nigh to God through the Blood of Jesus, Eph. 2. 13. and have access unto the Father, v. 18.

r Ver. 20. Καὶ καθ' ὅσον —— κατὰ τοσοῦτον·] Here is plainly the Figure called σύγχυσις, or συμπλοκὴ verborum, that which is put last, being to be construed first, as is manifest from the ὁ δὲ, but he, relating to the Mediator of the better Covenant, in the following Verse, So Mark 14. 23, 24. And taking the Cup, he gave thanks, and gave it to them, and they all drank of it, and he said unto them, This is the Blood of the New Testament, &c. For it is manifest from Matth. 26. 27, 28. that Christ first said, This is my Blood of the New Testament, before they drank of it. And so those words, v. 23. And they all drank of it, must in construction follow those of v. 24. This is the Blood of the New Testament. So Rev. 20. 12, And I saw the dead, small and great, standing before the Throne of God, and they were judged, &c. And, v. 13. and the Sea gave up her Dead, and Death and Hades gave up their Dead, and they were judged according to their Works: And yet 'tis certain, that the Sea and Hades must give up their Dead, before they could stand before the Throne of God, or be judged. So Heb. 2. 9. We see Jesus made a little lower than the Angels, for the suffering of Death, crowned with Glory and Honour; that he by the Grace of God, might taste Death for every Man, i. e. for the suffering Death, that so by the Grace of God he might taste Death for every Man, crowned with Glory and Honour.

s Ver. 26, Ἄκακος, harmless.] Ἄκακος τί ἐστιν, ἀπόνηρος, the Word imports one free from Sin. So Chrysostom and Theophylact; and this, saith (l) Philo, must be the property of a true High Priest, for, ὁ περὶς ἀλήθειαν ἀρχιερεὺς, καὶ μὴ ψευδόνυμος, ἀμέτοχος ἁμαρτημάτων ἐστὶ, he that truly, and not improperly, bears that name, is free from Sin: And of him that was to enter once a Year into the Holy of Holies, (m) he saith, He must be, ὁλόκληρος καὶ παντελὴς, περὶ μηδὲν, μὴ μέγα, μὴ μικρὸν, ἁπλῶς ἀμώμητος πάθος, ἀλλ' ἀρετῇ καὶ πλήρει καὶ πάντα τελειοτάτῃ κεχρεμένος φύσει, entire, perfect in all things; not tainted at all with any Passion, great or small, but of a nature sound, whole, and every way perfect. (κεχωρισμένος ἀπὸ τῶν ἁμαρτωλῶν, separate from Sinners.) This must signifie something different from ἄκακος, free from evil, and undefiled by Sin. And what can that be, besides what I have hinted in the Paraphrase? Now to clear up this, let it be noted, That though the Holy of Holies was the place into which none entred, but the High-Priest, and he only once a Year, after a Sin-Offering had been first offered for him, yet God Commands that an Atonement should be made for the Holy Place, because of the uncleanness of the Children of Israel, and because of their Transgressions in all their Sins, Lev. 16. 16. i. e. because it was seated among an unclean People, it needed an Atonement. That therefore our High-Priest might be every way clean, and undefiled, he was to be not only free from Sin, but also separate from Sinners, as the (n) High-Priest was seven Days before the Expiation, and when he made the Expiation, Lev. 16. 17.

t Ver. 27. τοῦτο γὰρ ἐποίησεν ἐφάπαξ, for this he did once for all.] Grotius, and the Socinians contend, That Christ is here said to have offer'd up himself for his own Sins; but then by Sins, they say, is improperly signified his natural Infirmities and Sufferings. But where hath the Word Sin any such import? It is indeed sometimes applied to Impurities, not Moral, but only Legal: As in the Case of Menstruous Women, Lev. 12. 8. 15. 13. and to Leprosies sent by the hand of God, for the Punishment of Sin, Lev. 14. 30. but never to any thing which by the Law of Moses was accounted no Defilement. And how improper is it to make the same words used but once signifie properly Sin, when respecting the People, and only Sufferings, with respect to Christ? Moreover, how did he offer up himself for his own Sufferings? Did he Suffer that he might not Suffer? Or that he might not be obnoxious to them? The Interpretation therefore, of all the Ancient Commentators, which I have given in the Paraphrase, ought to stand in opposition to this vain Invention.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſe 1. NOW [for] of the things which we have ſpoken, this is the Sum; [i. e. to give you a ſummary of the things ſpoken in the former Chapters, touching our High Prieſt Chriſt Jeſus; Or, but the chief of the things ſpoken is this, that,] we have [in him] ſuch an High-Prieſt, who is ſet on the right hand of the Throne of the Majeſty in the Heavens, [there to officiate for us.]

2. [And who is therefore] A Miniſter of the [Heavenly] Sanctuary, and of the true a Tabernacle [a] which the Lord pitched, and not Man, [for by the Word of the Lord were the Heavens made, Pſal. 32.]

3. [An High-Prieſt, I ſay, of the Heavenly Sanctuary, and therefore one who muſt have ſomething to offer in that Sanctuary:] For every High-Prieſt is ordained to offer Gifts and Sacrifices [in that Sanctuary in which he executes that Office;] wherefore it is of neceſſity that this Man [the High-Prieſt in Heaven] have ſomewhat alſo to offer [there.]

4. [I ſay there, and not on Earth:] For if he were on Earth, he ſhould not be a Prieſt, [or had he been [ſtill] on Earth he had not been a Prieſt at all,] ſeeing that there are [other] Prieſts that [are appointed to] offer Gifts according to the Law.

b 5. [b] Who ſerve to the Example, and ſhadow of Heavenly things, [or in that Holy Place, and Tabernacle, which is an Example, and ſhadow of the Heavenly,] as [we learn from what] Moſes was admoniſhed of God, when he was about to make the Tabernacle. For ſee, ſaith he, [Exod. 25. 40.] that thou make all things according to the Pattern, ſhewed to thee in the Mount. [For calling it ὁ τύπος a Type or Pattern, he ſhews that it was only a Reſemblance of the things in Heaven, and not the Heavenly things themſelves, Chap. 9. 23.]

6. But now he [Chriſt] hath obtained a more excellent Miniſtry [viz. that of Officiating in the Heavenly Sanctuary,] by how much alſo [Gr. ὅσῳ καὶ in as much as alſo] he is the Mediator of a better Covenant, which was eſtabliſhed upon [c] better Pro- c miſes.

7. [A better Covenant, I ſay] For if that firſt Covenant [made by Moſes with the Jews] had been [d] faultleſs, [ſo that God ſhould have d found no cauſe of blaming them who lived under it] then ſhould no place have been ſought for [the introduction of] the ſecond.

8. [But ſo it was not] for finding fault with them [for the breach of it,] he, [i. e. the Prophet] ſaith, Behold the Days come, ſaith the Lord, when I will make a New Covenant with the Houſe of Iſrael, and with the Houſe of Judah.

9. Not according to the Covenant that I made with their Fathers, in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the Land of Egypt, becauſe they continued not in [the obſervance of] my Covenant, and I [therefore] [e] regarded them not, e ſaith the Lord, [Jer. 31. 31, 32, 33.]

10. [I ſay not according to that Covenant,] For this is the Covenant that I will make with the Houſe of Iſrael, after thoſe Days, ſaith the Lord, I will put my Laws into their mind, and write them in their Hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they ſhall be to me a People.

11. And they ſhall not [have need to] teach every Man his Neighbour, and every Man his Brother, ſaying, Know the Lord; for all ſhall know me from the leaſt to the greateſt.

12. [I ſay, I will be their God] For I will be merciful to their unrighteouſneſs, and their Sins and their Iniquities will I remember no more.

13. In that he ſaith, [f] A New Covenant f he hath made [a Declaration that] the firſt [is] Old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old, is ready to vaniſh away.

Annotations on Chapter VIII.

a Verſe 2. Ἣν ἔπηξεν ὁ Κύριος, the ſanctuary which the Lord pitched, and not Man.] That is, of Heaven it ſelf. For, 1ſt. Τὸ ἅγιον in this Epiſtle, being put abſolutely, oft ſignifies the Heavenly Sanctuary, the Holy Manſion in which the Divine Majeſty reſides glorioufly, in Oppoſition to the ἅγιον κοσμικόν, Earthly Holy, mentioned Chap. 9. 1. and the true Tabernacle which the Lord pitched, and not Man, is the Heavenly Tabernacle, ſet in Oppoſition to the χειροποιητῶν, or that of Moſes which was made with hands, and ſtyled by the Chaldee Paraphraſt the Sanctuary above, in which the Angels Sing God's Praiſes, Pſal. 29. 9. So Chap. 9. 11. Chriſt being come an High-Prieſt of good things to come, by a greater, and more perfect Tabernacle, ἃ χειροποίητα, not made with hands, that is to ſay, not of this building, but by his own Blood he entred once into the Holy Place

Place (ἐφάπαξ εἰς τὰ ἅγια once for all into the Holy Places.) Chap. 10. 19. having freedom of acceſs into the Holy Place, and having an High-Prieſt over the Houſe of God. And Chap. 9. 23, 24. It was neceſſary that the Examples of the things in the Heavens ſhould be purified with theſe, but the heavenly things themſelves with better Sacrifices than theſe. For Chriſt entred not into the Holy Places made with hands, εἰς χειροποίητα ἅγια, which are the figures of the True, but into Heaven it ſelf, to appear now in the Preſence of God for us. And this is ſuitable to the old Notions of the Jews, who oft declare, that the Chief intention of making the Tabernacle, and other things, was, That they might be a Book of Wiſdom to inſtruct them in the things above, which they reſpected; and that when Moſes made one Tabernacle on Earth, another was made by the Angels in Heaven, Buxt. Hiſt. Arcæ, p. 83, 84. It alſo was their Opinion, That the ſecond Part of the Tabernacle was made to be an Image of the Viſible World; and the Holy of Holies to be a Reſemblance, mundi ſupercœleſtis, of the Celeſtial World. So (a) Philo often calls the Tabernacle of the Jews, τὸ χειροποίητον, and ſays, it was a ſhadow, or Reſemblance, τοῦ Ἀρχετύπου of the Archetypal, or Original in Heaven. Moſes, ſays he, framed τὸ ἀρχέτυπον, the Archetypal Plan of the Tabernacle; Bezeleel only, τὰ ἀυτῶν μιμήματα, the Reſemblance of things; and this he proves by the Apoſtle's Argument, uſed v. 5. For, Moſes, ſaith he, uſed God for his Guide, who ſaid to him, ſee thou make all things according to the Pattern ſhewed thee in the Mount. (b) Bezeleel, ſaith he, ſignifies one, ἐν σκιαῖς ποιῶν employ'd in making ſhadows; whereas Moſes was employed not to frame the ſhadows, but, ἀρχετύπους φύσεις ἀυτὰς τῶν πραγμάτων, the Archetypal Natures of the things themſelves. (c) Elſewhere he diſtinguiſheth betwixt the τὰ ὁρώμενα ἐκ τ ἀψύχου καὶ φθαρτῆς ὑλης δημιουργηθέντα, viſible things of the Tabernacle made of inanimate, and corruptible matter, and, τὰ ἀόρατα καὶ τὰ νοητὰ διανοήματα, the inviſible, and intellectual Ideas of which the other were the Images. (d) The firſt he calls ἱερὸν χειροποίητον, the ſanctuary made with hands, of which Moſes had the Incorporeal Ideas. And Joſephus (e) ſaith, That the ſecond part of the Tabernacle ſignified that Earth in which Men converſed, but the third Part was appropriated to God, Heaven being inacceſſible to Men; which ſeems to be the very thing the Apoſtle intendeth by thoſe words, The Holy Ghoſt, this ſignifying, that the way into the Holieſt of all was not yet manifeſted, whilſt the firſt Tabernacle was yet ſtanding, Heb. 9. 8.

Ver. 5. Ὑποδείγματι καὶ σκιᾷ to the Example, and ſhadow.] Theſe words, ſaith Mr. le Cl. can by no means ſignifie a Prefiguration of ſomething future, for Heaven was a great while before the Tabernacle, and Temple; but this Argument is of no force, for though Heaven be Older than the Tabernacle, yet that conſidered as a place in which the Jews then worſhiped, and enjoy'd Communion with God, might be a Type of that Place in which they were hereafter to Worſhip, and enjoy him. b

The Argument of the Apoſtle is to this effect, Chriſt could not be a Prieſt on Earth, becauſe he could have there no Tabernacle in which to offer Sacrifice; the only Place God had appointed upon Earth to offer Sacrifice in, being the Moſaical Tabernacle, and the Temple, in which no other Sacrifices could be offered but thoſe appointed by the Law; no Oblation made, or to be made, but by the Levitical Prieſthood. Moreover, this Tabernacle being the ſhadow of the Heavenly one, that muſt ſucceed it as the ſubſtance, therefore the Oblation to be made by this High-Prieſt, after the Order of Melchiſedec, muſt be made in that Tabernacle which was to ſucceed, and follow this, as being the ſubſtance of that ſhadow.

Ver. 6. Better Promiſes.] Thoſe of the c Law being only Temporal Promiſes, relating to Bleſſings to be conferred upon them in the Land of Canaan; this Covenant had the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, to be conferred upon them in the Celeſtial Canaan, Chap. 9. 15. Theſe Spiritual Promiſes were indeed made to the Fathers alſo of old, before the Law, whence they are ſaid, by Faith to look for a better Country, that is, an heavenly, and to have expected a City that hath Foundations, whoſe builder and maker is God, Heb. 11. 10, 16. But then theſe Promiſes of a Saviour, and of ſuch Salvation by him, were not made in, and by the Law, but long before it, Rom. 4. 13. Gal. 3. 15, 17. as they muſt be if made to them who lived, and died long before it. Under the Law alſo they had Spiritual Promiſes, and Types of the Meſſiah in it, who was the Promiſed Seed in whom all theſe Promiſes were made, and by whom they were purchaſed; but then they had not theſe Promiſes by the Law, nor theſe Bleſſings by the Levitical Prieſthood, but by Vertue of the Lamb ſlain from the Beginning.

Ver. 7. Ἄμεμπτος, If the firſt Covenant d had been faultleſs.] That is, ſay the Fathers, εἰ ἀμέμπτους ἐποίει, if it could have made them blameleſs that were under it. So Theodoret, ret, Chrysostom, Oecumenius, Theophylact; and so the Words following do force us to interpret this clause; for the Apostle, and the Prophet plainly charge the breach of the Old Covenant upon the Jews themselves, blaming them for it, v. 9. I know some Interpreters render the Words, μεμφόμενος αὐτοῖς λέγει, blaming it he saith to them; but the Observation of the Ancient Fathers is this, οὐκ εἶπε μεμφόμενος αὐτῇ, ἀλλὰ μεμφόμενος αὐτοῖς, he said not blaming it, but blaming them, and the Words following, because they continued not in that Covenant, do justifie that Exposition.

Object. But you will say, How doth it follow that the Covenant was faulty, because the Jews continued not in it, any more than that the new Covenant is also faulty, because many Christians do not observe the Conditions of it? I answer, That the word faulty, doth not here signify sinful in it self, for so this Apostle denies it to be faulty, Rom. 7. 7. but only imperfect, and defective as to the great end of the Covenant, do this, and live, it being a Law that could not give Life, Gal. 3. 21. and as to the preserving those that were under it from offending, and so becoming blame-worthy, and obnoxious before God, Rom. 3. 29. This being premised, I say, two things shew that the Prophet, and the Apostle so lay the fault on them, as plainly to insinuate there was also an Imperfection and Deficiency in the Law they were under, which ministred Occasion to it, 1*st*. Because he lays the blame, not on some refractory Persons only, but on the whole House of Israel, and Judah. Now where all, good and bad, come under blame, there must be some Imperfection, and Defect in the Law, with reference to the two great Ends fore-mentioned, 2*ly*. Because for the Prevention of this blame, God by his Prophet doth not call them to a more exact observance of that Law, and Covenant, but promiseth a new Covenant, plainly insinuating thereby, that there was need of a new, and better Covenant to prevent their Transgression, and render them fit objects of his Grace and Favour for the Future. Accordingly this weakness of the Law is by St. Paul resolved partly into such Causes as respect the Offenders, and partly into such as do respect the Law it self. Into such as respect the Offenders, as v. 9. the weakness of the Flesh, which made them unable to perform that exact Obedience the Law required, and so it became unable to justifie them; for this the Law could not do, in that it was weak through the Flesh, Rom. 8. 3. and their carnal Inclinations which made them averse to the Spiritual Precepts of the Law, Rom. 7. 14. And this the New Covenant remedied by requiring not perfect, but only sincere Obedience, as the Condition of those Blessings which it promiseth, and giving the Assistance of the Holy Spirit to perform that Obedience. For, to come to the Imperfections of the Law it self, compared with this New Covenant;

First, The first is this, That the Law required exact Obedience, but gave no inward Spiritual Assistance for the Performance of that Duty. Hence the Apostle puts this Difference betwixt the Law and the Gospel, that the first is only the Ministration of the Letter, the second is the ministration of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 3. That under the Law the Jews served God in the oldness of the letter, whereas under the Gospel we serve him in the newness of the Spirit, Rom. 7. 5. That then the Inclinations, and desires of the things forbidden by the Law wrought in our Members to bring forth fruit unto Death; whereas, if we through the Spirit do mortifie the deeds of the Flesh we shall live, Rom. 8. 13. Then, the good which they would they did not, Rom. 7. 19. But now the Righteousness of the Law is fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit, Rom. 8. 4.

Secondly, The Law not only made all that were subject to it obnoxious to Condemnation for the guilt of Sin, but also was unable to remove that guilt, and clear the Conscience from the sense and Terror of it. It could not justifie us, saith the Apostle, for by the Deeds of the Law shall no flesh be justified, Rom. 3. 20. Gal. 2. 16. That is, it could not absolve us from Condemnation on the Account of Sin, it could not by the Sacrifices it offered daily take away the guilt of Sin, Heb. 10. 4, 11. and so could not make the worshipper perfect as pertaining to Conscience, Heb. 9. 9. whereas by Virtue of the Blood of Christ a full Remission of them was procured, so that God would remember them no more, Heb. 10. 17, 18. and so the Conscience was by it purified from dead Works, Heb. 9. 14.

Thirdly, The Law considered not as Moral, that being the Law common to all Mankind, but as purely Mosaical, contained in it only Ceremonial Precepts, which had no real, or intrinsick Goodness in them to commend them to our Practice, whence by the Apostle it is said to consist of outward and Carnal Ordinances, imposed on them only till the time of Reformation, Heb. 9. 10. and to contain only the Elements of the World, Gal. 4. 3. weak and beggarly Elements, v. 9. whereas the New Covenant is a Law written in the Heart, v. 10.

Lastly, As the Mosaical Law had no inward goodness to commend it, so also was it wanting in the Promise of those Spiritual and Eternal Blessings, which are the Sovereign Motives to Obedience, and to Purification of our selves from all Filthiness of Flesh and Spirit; whereas, by virtue of the Death of Christ, Chriſt, a Promiſe of an Eternal Inheritance is procured for us, Heb. 9.15. and an entrance into the Holy of Holies through the Blood of Jeſus, Chap. 10.19. On which account the Apoſtle ſaith, The Law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope, did, Heb. 7. 19.

e Ver. 9. And I regarded them not.] Κἀγὼ ἠμέλησα αὐτῶν, So the Septuagint, and from them the Apoſtle; whereas the Hebrew runs thus, ואנכי בעלתי בם, and, or though I was an Husband to them: But the Learned Dr. Pocock hath ſhewed that the Hebrew בעל not only ſignifies in the Arabick to govern, and be a Husband, but alſo to refuſe, deſpiſe, and nauſeate. And ſo it well accords with the words of the Septuagint.

f Ver. 13. For explication of this New Covenant let it be conſidred, Firſt, That it is expreſly promiſed to be made with the whole Houſe of Iſrael, with them to whom the Old Covenant was made, with them who were brought out of the Land of Ægypt; it therefore is not a Promiſe made to, or a Covenant made with ſome few Elect, and choſen People out of Iſrael, and Judah, but with thoſe who abode not in their former Covenant, and ſo were not regarded by God. Now hence it is manifeſt,

That this can be no promiſe of abſolute Election, or vouchafing irreſiſtible Grace to any of the Jews, becauſe then the whole Nation of the Jews muſt have been converted. 2*ly*. Becauſe this is a Promiſe of ſomething to be done in the laſt times, or in the times of the Meſſiah, whereas God hath at all times his Elect, and doth at all times vouchſafe them his Effectual Grace. 3*ly*. Becauſe this is here called a Covenant, which implies two Parties Covenanting, or ſtipulating, the one Obedience, the other Bleſſings on the Performance of it; whereas an abſolute Promiſe admits of no Conditions. 4*ly*. The Elect always perſiſted in their Covenant with God, and were always regarded by him, they always were his People, and he always was their God; this therefore can be no New Covenant with them.

Secondly, This being a Promiſe of a New Covenant, of which New Covenant Chriſt is declared here to be the Mediator through his Blood, it cannot properly be ſaid to be fulfilled in the Complete import of it before our Saviour's Sufferings, and the Preaching of Juſtification through Faith in his Blood. Nor ſeems it to have been yet accompliſhed in the Extent, and the full meaning of it, as it will be when the blindneſs of the Jews ſhall be removed, and ſo all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, Rom. 11. 25, 26. For this is God's Covenant with them, when he ſhall take away their Sins, *v.*28. which though he did make good at the firſt Preaching of the Goſpel to as many as believed in Jeſus, yet ſince that was the time of the falling, and caſting off the Generality of that Nation, a Remnant only being then preſerved from Judicial Blindneſs, I believe there will be a time when this, and other like Promiſes made to them in the Old Teſtament, ſhall have a more complete accompliſhment. But to proceed to the proper import of the Words;

Firſt, I conceive that the Phraſe, I will put my laws into their mind, and write them on their Hearts, imports, That he would clearly, and perſpicuouſly make known his Will to them, and by his Holy Spirit make ſuch a deep impreſſion of it on their Spirits, and ſo continually bring it to their Remembrance, that it ſhould be as powerful upon them, and as preſent to them, as if it were writ upon their hearts. For theſe two Metaphors, both in the Scripture, and the Jewiſh Writers, chiefly ſignify two things:

1. A clear and a perſpicuous Revelation of the Mind, and Will of God, ſo that we need not be at much Pains to ſearch it out: As in theſe Words, The Commandment which I command thee this day is not hidden from thee, neither is it far from thee; the word is near unto thee in thy mouth, ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ σου, and in thy heart, and in thy hands, that thou ſhouldſt do it. See I have ſet before thee Life and Death, Deut. 30. 11, 14. And ſo, ſaith the Apoſtle, is it with that word of Faith which we preach, 'tis nigh to the Chriſtian in his Mouth to confeſs, and in his heart to believe it, Rom. 10. 8, 9. And the Law written in the Hearts of Heathens, is the Law ſo plainly taught them, that their own Conſciences do inwardly condemn them when they do tranſgreſs it, Rom. 2. 15. This alſo is apparent from the conſequent Effect of writing this Law in the Chriſtians Hearts, and putting it in their inward Parts, viz. that they ſhall have no need to teach every one his Neighbour, ſaying, Know the Lord; for they ſhall all know him from the leaſt, to the greateſt. This Law muſt therefore be plain to the Capacities of, and eaſie to be perceived by them all: And to this Interpretation the (e) Fathers give a general Conſent.

2. An Efficacious Impreſſion of them on the Soul, and on the Memory, ſo that we do not let them ſlip out of our Minds. So Deut. 6. 6. Theſe words which I command thee this Day ſhall be in thy Heart, they ſhall be, כתיבין על לוח ליבכון writ upon the Table of thy Heart, ſaith Jonathan B. Uziel, and thou ſhalt talk of them when thou ſitteſt in thine Houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the Way, and when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up, v. 7. They shall be ἐν καρδίᾳ, ἢ ἐν ψυχῇ σε in thy heart and soul, saith the Septuagint. As the Expression is, Deut. 11. 18. by which Expressions he requires, μὴ ἀπιέναι τὸν νόμον ἀπὸ τῆς καρδίας αὐτῶν, that the Law should not depart from their hearts, 2 Maccab. 2. 3. So Prov. 3. 1. My Son forget not my Law, but let thy heart keep my Commandments, v. 3. write them upon the Table of thy Heart. And again, Chap. 7. 1. My Son keep my words, and lay up my Commandments with thee: Bind them upon thy finger, write them upon the Table of thy heart, v. 3. So the Targum on Cant. 8. 9. saith, God will remember them for the sake of the Law, which is written על לוחא דלבא upon the Table of the Heart of his Children. And Jer. 17. 1. The Sin of Judah is said to be written on the Table of their Hearts, as if their Memory of, and Affection to it, could never be obliterated. And the Targum on Job 30. 4. saith, They who let the Law slip על לוח לבהון from the Table of their Hearts, burning Coals shall be their meat. So frequent is this Phrase to this sense, both in the Scripture, and the Jewish Writers. Accordingly Clemens gives this Commendation of the Corinthians, that the Commandments of the Lord ἐπὶ τὸ πλάκιν τῆς καρδίας αὐτῶν ἐγέγραπτο, were written upon the Tables of their hearts, §. 2.

That the words in which this New Covenant is framed, Jer. 31. 33, 34, 35. may have a more exact and full Completion, at the second calling of the Jewish Nation, this Apostle seems to intimate, Rom. 11. 27. but that they also were fulfilled by the first Advent of our Lord, can only be denied by them who think, with Mr. le Cl. that the Apostle argues upon unsound Foundations, for he most clearly saith, That the Old Covenant was only to continue till the New Covenant, in which God promised to be merciful to our Iniquities, took place, and also that this New Covenant was established in the blood of Jesus, the Mediator of a better Covenant, v. 6. and proves that Christ had by his Sufferings perfectly procured the Remission of the Sins of them that were sanctified, or cleansed from the guilt of Sin by Faith in his Blood, by the words of this New Covenant, Chap. 10. 14, 15, 16, 17. Secondly, He says, That the Old Covenant, there mentioned, was to vanish away, at the coming of this New Covenant, v. 13. and thereby intimates that this New Covenant mentioned Jer. 31. 33. began to take place, even from the Abolition of the Old Covenant, consisting in Ordinances which were only to continue till the time of Reformation, Heb. 9. 11. and which were taken away by the Death of Christ: This therefore seems to be one of those places which prove there will be a double Completion of the Promises and Predictions contained in the Old, and perhaps in the New Testament, and thereby shew they may admit of a double sense, the one relating to the first, the other to the second Coming of our Lord.

CHAP. IX.

Verse 1. (THE Apostle had declared, Chap. 8. v. 5. that the Tabernacle had only a shadow of heavenly things, this he now proceeds to shew in the following words.] Then verily a [a] the first Covenant had [ἔσχε μὲν οὖν καὶ ἡ πρώτη σκηνὴ, the first Tabernacle therefore had] also Ordinances of Divine Service, and a worldly sanctuary, [in which that worship, and these ordinances were performed.]

2. For there was a Tabernacle made, the first [Gr. σκηνὴ γὰρ κατεσκευάσθη ἡ πρώτη, for a first Tabernacle was prepared] wherein was the Candlestick, and the Table, and the shewb bread, which [first Tabernacle] is [b] called the sanctuary, [or Holy.]

3. And after the second Vail the [other] Tabernacle [was prepared, v. 2, 6.] which is called the Holiest of all;

c 4. Which had [for its use] the [c] Golden Censer, [used only on the day of Expiation,] and the Ark of the Covenant overlaid round
d about with Gold [d], in which was the Golden Pot that had Manna, and Aaron's Rod that budded, [Numb. 17. 10. Exod. 16. 33, 34.] and the Tables of the Covenant [1 Kings 8. 9.] e

5. And over it [the Ark, were] the [e] Cherubims of Glory shadowing the Mercy-seat, of which we cannot now speak particularly, [so as to give the mystical signification of them.]

6. Now when these things were thus ordained, [or these things being thus prepared] the Priest went always into the first Tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7. But into the second went the High-Priest alone [f] once every year, [i. e. one Day only in the year, and then] not without f
Blood, which he offered for himself [first,] and [then] for the [g] Errors of [Gr. Sins of Ignorance committed by] the People. g

8. The Holy Ghost, [by whose Afflatus Moses was directed to prepare the Tabernacle,] this signifying, [by this Admission of the High-Priest alone, and that but once a year, and that then only when all the People were gone out of the Tabernacle of the Congregation,] that [h] the way h made manifeſt, while as the firſt Tabernacle was yet ſtanding.

9. Which was a figure for the time then preſent [ἥτις παραβολὴ εἰς τὸν καιρὸν τὸν ἐνεστηκότα, which figure continues till this preſent time, viz. in the like ſervice performed in the Temple,] in which were [προσφέρονται, are] offered both Gifts and Sacrifices that could not [μὴ δυνάμενα, which Sacrifices cannot] make him who did the Service, [i. e. who brings theſe Gifts, and Offerings] [i] perfect, as pertaining to the Conſcience.

10. [As being converſant] only in Meats and Drinks [to be abſtained from by theſe Worſhippers, Lev. 10. 9.] and divers Waſhings [to be then uſed by the Prieſts officiating, Exod. 29. 4. by the Levites, Numb. 8. 7. and by the People defiled, Lev. 15. 8. before they might enter into the Temple] and [in other] Carnal Ordiances [which only Sanctified to the purifying of the Fleſh, v. 13. and were therefore] impoſed on them [only] [k] until the time of Reformation [of all things, by this new High-Prieſt.] [Theſe Carnal Ordinances include all the Sacrifices, and other Services perform'd in the Tabernacle.]

11. But Chriſt being come [γενόμενος, made] an High-Prieſt, [not of preſent temporal Bleſſings in the Land of Canaan, but] of good things to come, [not by the Service of the Tabernacle made with hands, v. 23. but] by [a Service performed in] a greater, and more perfect [l] Tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to ſay, not of this Building [i. e. the building of this worldly Sanctuary, v. 1.]

12. Neither [yet to be procured, as the Moſaical Bleſſings were,] by the blood of Goats and Calves, but by his own blood; He [to procure thoſe good things for us] entred in [not as the High-Prieſt did yearly into the earthly Tabernacle, but, ἐφάπαξ] once [for all] into the [Heavenly] Holy Place [with this blood] having obtained [for us by it not an annual, but an] [m] eternal Redemption.

13. For if the blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Aſhes of an Heifer ſprinkling the unclean [Num. 9. 2, 4.] [n] ſanctifyeth to the purifying of the Fleſh [from Ceremonial Defilements, and ſo procures a free admiſſion to the ſervice of the Tabernacle.]

14. How much more ſhall the blood of Chriſt, who, [being quickned] through the eternal Spirit, [Rom. 8. 11. 1 Pet. 3. 18.] [o] offered himſelf [as a Lamb] without ſpot to God [John 1. 29. 1 Pet. 1. 19.] [p] purge your Conſciences from dead Works, [i. e. from Works deſerving Death. Rom. 6. 23. that ſo you may be admitted] [q] to ſerve the living God [in his Church here, and in his heavenly Sanctuary hereafter, Chap. 10. 19, 20, 21.]

15. [r] And for this cauſe [διὰ τοῦτο, or by this blood] he is [become] the Mediator of the New Teſtament, [in which he promiſes to be merciful to our Iniquities,] that by means of [his] Death, [s] for the Redemption of the Tranſgreſſions that were [committed by us] under the firſt Teſtament, [and not by that fully expiated,] they which are call'd [to be God's Church and People,] might receive [t] the Promiſe of [an] eternal Inheritance.

16. [I ſay by means of his Death] For where a Teſtament is [that is unchangeable] [u] there muſt alſo of neceſſity be the Death of the Teſtator.

17. For a Teſtament is of force [only] after Men are dead, otherwiſe it is of no ſtrength at all while the Teſtator liveth, [and ſo hath power to revoke his Teſtament.]

18. Whereupon [ὅθεν, whence it is that] neither the firſt Teſtament [made with the Jews, Exod. 24. 8.] was dedicated without blood, [which blood ſhewed the death of the Sacrifice was neceſſary to make that Teſtament]

19. For when Moſes had ſpoken every Precept to all the People according to the Law [given at Mount Sinai,] he took the [x] blood of Calves and of Goats, with Water [mixed with the blood, to keep it from congealing,] and [with] Scarlet Wool and Hyſſop, [the Wool to receive, and imbibe the blood, and the Hyſſop to ſprinkle it, Exod. 12. 22. Lev. 14. 49, 50. Pſalm 51. 7.] and ſprinkled [the blood] both [upon] the Book [of the Covenant,] and [upon] all the People.

20. Saying, This is the blood of the [y] Teſtament which God hath enjoined to you.

21. Moreover he [z] ſprinkled likewiſe with blood both the Tabernacle, and all the Veſſels of the Miniſtry.

22. And [aa] almoſt all things are by the Law purged [purified] with blood, and without ſhedding of blood is no Remiſſion.

23. It was therefore neceſſary, [by virtue of the Moſaick Inſtitution] that the patterns of things [bb] in the Heavens ſhould be purified with theſe [Sacrifices,] but the Heavenly things themſelves [i. e. our Body to be received into Heaven,] with better Sacrifices than theſe.

24. [I ſay the Heavenly things themſelves,] For Chriſt is not entred into the Holy Places [of the Tabernacle] made with hands, which are the figures of the true [Holy Place,] but into Heaven it ſelf, now to appear in the Preſence of God, [and ſo prepare, and conſecrate thoſe Manſions] for us.

25. [It was not neceſſary, I ſay, that he ſhould enter with his blood, as the High-Prieſt did into the Earthly Tabernacle.] nor yet that he ſhould offer himſelf often, as the High-Prieſt [did, who] entred into the Holy Place every year with [the] blood of others, [to make an annual Atonement for the guilt of Sin.]

26. For then muſt he often have ſuffer'd [cc] ſince the foundation of the World, [but offering himſelf before God with his blood being the consequence of his Sufferings,] but now once dd[dd] in the end of the World [ὅτι συντέλεια τῶν αἰώνων, in the end of the Ages] hath he appeared to put away [the guilt of] Sin, by the Sacrifice of himself.

27. And [in this the Death of Christ resembles that of all other Men, for] as it is appointed unto Men once to die, but after this [comes] the Judgment, [when they shall die no more;]

28. So Christ was [Gr. being] once offer'd to bear the Sins of many, and unto them that look for him shall he appear [Gr. shall appear to them that look for him] the second time[ee] without [any more Sacrifice for] Sin unto Salvation, [i. e. for their Salvation.]

a Verse 1. Ἡ πρώτη διαθήκη, the first Covenant.] Some of the Ancients, as Chrysostom, read only ἡ πρώτη, but none of them read διαθήκη, but many of them σκηνή, as Theodoret and Oecumenius; and this I believe to be the true Reading: For 'tis well observed by the Fathers who do, and who do not, read the word σκηνή, that the Apostle having before proved from the Enallage of the Priest, and Priesthood, and of the former Covenant, that an end was put unto the Jewish Constitutions; proceeds now to prove the same from the Consideration of that Tabernacle which was a shadow of good things to come. Secondly, because the Thred, or the Contexure of the Apostle's Argument seems plainly to require this Reading; For the Tabernacle consisting of two parts, an outward House called the Holy Place, and an inward House called the Holy of Holies; the Apostle here calleth the outward House the first Tabernacle, and discourses of it as such, v. 1. 2. and then v. 3. proceeds to the Holy of Holies, or the second Tabernacle, saying, the first, or outward Tabernacle had a worldly Sanctuary, in which the Rites of the Jewish Worship were performed; for a first Tabernacle was prepared by Moses, containing such and such things; and then a second, containing other things; now this first Tabernacle is called a worldly Tabernacle, because, as both the Jews, and Fathers say, it was designed to represent this lower World; the Earth and the Sea, saith (a) Josephus; It was κοσμῷ τῷ αἰσθητῷ σύμβολον, a Symbol of the sensitive World, saith (b) Clemens Alexandrinus. See Dr. Spencer de legibus Hebr. p. 188.

The δικαιώματα λατρείας, are the Constitutions, or the Rites, and Rules of Worship prescribed to be used in the Service of the Tabernacle; δικαιώματα, τύπους, σύμβολα, δεσμὰς, νομοθεσίας, Ordinances, that is Symbols, Constitutions, Laws. So Chrysostom, Oecumenius, Theophylact.

b Ver. 2. Ἥτις λέγεται ἅγια, which is called the Sanctuary.] Or, as other Copies read, ἥτις λέγεται ἁγία, which is called holy.] Vain therefore is the Argument of Mr. le Clerc. That the Writer of this Epistle did not well understand Hebrew, and therefore cannot be thought to have been St. Paul, but rather some Grecian, to wit, because he calls the Sanctuary only ἅγια, Holies; whereas, according to the constant usage of the Hebrew, he should have called it ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων, Holy of Holies. For (1.) All this depends on an uncertain Reading, and an uncertain Accent; read but ἁγία and there is no foundation for this Argument; seeing then, the Apostle speaks not of the Sanctuary, but of the first Tabernacle, which was only called Holy. And so Chrysostom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact read; and Theodoret observes, that the Tabernacle was divided into two parts, by the Veil, the one was called Holy, the other the Holy of Holies; and that ἡ πρώτη εἶπεν, ὡς πρὸς τὰ ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων, the Apostle calls this the first Tabernacle, to distinguish it from the Sanctuary, as it is evident he doth from the Verse following, which demonstrates that ἁγία is the true reading in this Verse. (2*dly.*) It depends upon a false Criticism, for מִן הַקֹּדֶשׁ 1 Kings 8. 8. signifies ex Adyto, or from the most holy Place, where the Ark was, as appears from 2 Chron. 5. 8. See Dr. Lightfoot's Treatise of the Temple, Ch. 15. Sect. 4.

c Ver. 4. χρυσοῦν θυμιατήριον, the Golden Censer.] Of this Golden Censer the Jews inform us, that it was only used on the great day of Expiation, when the High-Priest entred into the Holy of Holies; and that on other days they offered Incense in a Silver Censer. So Maimonides and Abarbinel. See Buxt. Hist. Arcæ, p. 76.

d Ibid. Ἐν ᾗ in which, &c.] Of the Ark the Scripture saith expresly, That there was nothing in it but the Tables of the Covenant, 1 Kings 8. 9. 2 Chron. 5. 10. Whereas the Pot of Manna, and Aaron's Rod, are here said to have been also in it. To solve this Difficulty, some Interpreters say, That, as v. 2 the Apostle tells us what was in the first Tabernacle, viz. the Candlestick, the Table, and the Shew-bread: So here he seems to tell us, not what was strictly in the Ark, but in the Holy of Holies, saying, it had for its use the Golden Censer, and the Ark, and in it the Tables of the Covenant, the Pot of Manna, and Aaron's Rod. But the words, over it were the Cherubims, relating not to the Holy of Holies, but only to the Ark, confute that Expoſition.

Others ſay, That the Pot of Manna, and Aaron's Rod, are ſaid to be in the Ark, as being placed in the Receptacles of the Ark, or the Coffers in the ſide of it, mentioned Deut. 31. 26. 1 Sam. 6. 8. Hence they are ſaid to be laid up, not in, but before the Ark of the Teſtimony, Exod. 16. 34. Numb. 17. 10. or with the Ark, as Beth, which anſwers to ἐν, here ſignifies, Viz. cum, ad, prope, juxta. See Noldius de partic. p. 144. 145. So ἐν Γαβαών is near Gibeon, Joſ. 10. 10. and ἐν Κιριαθιαρείμ, near Kiriath-Jearim, Judg. 18. 12. Bochart. Hieroz. l. 2. c. 50. p. 590. And this Expoſition ſolves the Difficulty, and agrees fully with the Tradition of the Jews, for that there were ſuch Capſula's to the Ark for this uſe, is owned, ſaith (c) Buxtorf, both by the Talmud of Jeruſalem and Babylon. (d) Maimonides ſaith, There was a Stone in the weſt part of the Holy of Holies on which the Ark was placed, and before it the Pot of Manna, and the Rod of Aaron. Moſes Mikkotſi ſays the ſame, and (e) Abarbinel adds, That our Interpreters write that this place does not deny that the Pot of Manna, and the Rod of Aaron were kept there for the Children of Iſrael, as it is ſaid in a certain Tradition of our Rabbins.

e Ver. 5. Cherubims of Glory.] So called, becauſe the Glory of the Lord dwelt between the Cherubims, and ſhined forth from them, Pſal. 80. 1. Thou that dwelleſt between the Cherubims ſhine forth: And they being Emblems of the Angelical Nature, were alſo Emblems of the Divine Preſence, before which the Angels ſtood continually.

f Ver. 7. Ἅπαξ τοῦ ἐνιαυτοῦ, once every year.] The Prieſt entred into the Holy of Holies on the great Day of Expiation thrice, to offer Incenſe, Lev. 16. 12. to offer the blood of the Goat, v. 15. and to make an Atonement for himſelf, v. 17. which makes it neceſſary to Paraphraſe the words as I have done.

g Ibid. Καὶ τῶν τοῦ λαοῦ ἀγνοημάτων, and for the Ignorance of the People.] 'Tis certain that the Law allow'd of Sacrifices for Sins committed not out of mere ignorance, i. e. for lying, and falſe-ſwearing, Lev. 6. 1, 6. We therefore muſt either ſay with Vatablus and Munſter in locum, that Sins committed through the violence of our Paſſions and Affections are called Sins of Ignorance, and ſo they ſtand oppoſed to Sins of Preſumption, Numb. 15. 27, 28, 30. or that the Sins of the People are here ſo ſtyled, becauſe they are moſtly ſuch.

h Ver. 8. Τὴν τῶν ἁγίων ὁδὸν, the way into the Holy of Holies] i. e. Into the Heavens was not yet revealed or opened. Thus did the Jews themſelves interpret this Symbol, ſaying, That (f) the Adytum ὃ τοῖς ἱερεῦσιν ἦν ἄβατον, which was inacceſſible to the Prieſts, repreſented the Heaven where God dwelt. This Interpretation all the Ancient Commentators give us of this Place, viz. Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Occumenius, Theophylact, ſaying, Theſe things were ſo prepared, that they might learn, ὅτι τὰ ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων, τουτέστιν ὁ οὐρανὸς, ἔτι ἦν ἄβατος, that is, that Heaven repreſented by the Holy of Holies was as yet inacceſſible, for Chriſt firſt entred into Heaven, ἡμῖν δὲ ἐστὶν ἡμῖν τοῦτον ἀπέφηνε, and ſo rendred it acceſſible to us: And therefore as the Apoſtle ſaith here, μήπω πεφανερῶσθαι τὴν ἁγίων ὁδὸν, the way into this Holy of Holies was not yet manifeſted. So he ſaith in the next Chapter, that we Chriſtians have τὴν εἴσοδον τῶν ἁγίων ἐν τῷ αἵματι Ἰησοῦ, an entrance into Heaven by the blood of Jeſus, and, ὁδὸν πρόσφατον, a new way which he hath made new through his Fleſh, i. e. Our Forerunner being thus entred into Heaven with his blood to appear before God, and ſo to prepare theſe Manſions for us, the way of our entrance into Heaven is now made manifeſt.

i Ver. 9. Τελειῶσαι κατὰ συνείδησιν, to perfect according to the Conſcience.] The beſt account of this Phraſe, relating to what the Law, and its Sacrifices could not do, may be learn'd from what the new Covenant, and the Blood of Chriſt, in which it was eſtabliſh'd, is ſaid to do. 1. Then that blood offered in the Preſence of God is ſaid to take away Sins εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, ſo as that there ſhall be no return of them upon the Conſcience; no need of any more Oblation for the Sins of ſuch a Perſon, there being in him no more Conſciouſneſs of Guilt, after his Juſtification by Faith in the blood of Jeſus. For where Remiſſion of Sins is, there is no more Offering for Sins, becauſe the Tenor of the New Covenant runs thus, Their Sins, and their Iniquities will I remember no more, Chap. 10. 17, 18. Hence the Apoſtle argues thus, That the Law, with thoſe Sacrifices which were offered every year, could not, εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς τελειῶσαι, perfect for ever them that come to God with them, becauſe if they could have done that, the Worſhippers once purged by them would have had no more Conſcience of Sin, Heb. 10. 1, 2. i. e. they would not have been ſtill conſcious of the guilt of Sin, and ſo could have no need yearly to repeat the ſame Sacrifices. And of our Saviour's Sacrifice he ſpeaketh thus, That by one offering τετε-λέωκεν εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified, i. e. are purged by it from the guilt of Sin, Heb. 10. 14. Wherefore, to perfect according to the Conſcience, is ſo fully to expiate from the guilt of Sin, that it ſhall no more be remembred by God, and we ſhall have no more Conſcience of the guilt of it. Now the conſequents of this full Remiſſion are theſe two, 1ſt. A coming unto God with freedom, and full aſſurance of Acceptance with him. This the Apoſtle frequently aſcribes unto the Death of Chriſt, who ſuffered for our Sins, that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3. 18. ſaying, by him who hath reconciled us to God by the Croſs, We have freedom and acceſs with confidence to the Father by Faith in him, Eph. 2. 16, 18. 3. 12. and upon that account exhorts us to come to him in full aſſurance of Faith, having our hearts ſprinkled from an evil Conſcience. Heb. 10. 22. 2*dly*. A right of entrance into Heaven. This, ſaith the Apoſtle, could not be obtained by the Service of the Tabernacle, v. 8. but only by the Death of Chriſt by which the way into the Holy of Holies is laid open, Chap. 10. 19, 20. Eternal Redemption is obtained for us, Chap. 9. 12. and we receive the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance; and ſo it conſequentially ſignifies to have a full Aſſurance of acceptance with God here, and of Happineſs with him hereafter.

k Ver. 10. Μέχρι καιρὸν διορθώσεως, till the the time of Reformation.] That is, as the next Verſe expounds it, till the coming of Chriſt, the Meſſiah of the Jews, when they themſelves expected a Reformation of the Law, ſaying, That (g) the Law which was learned in that Age, was Vanity, in reſpect of the Law of the Age to come, That is, ſaith the Gloſs on Eccleſ. 11. 8. לעני תירתי של משיח in reſpect of the Law of the Meſſiah; and that, then the Law will be renewed. For (h) our Doctors, ſaith the Author of Sepher Ikkarim, declare, That all Iſrael ſhall receive a ſecond Law from the Mouth of God, immediately as formerly; and this they all prove, as the Apoſtle doth, Chap. 8. from Jer. 31. 31, 32, 33.

l Ver. 11. That the Tabernacle here mentioned is not the Body of Chriſt, but Heaven it ſelf, See Note on Chap. 8. 2.

m Ver. 12. Αἰωνίαν λύτρωσιν, eternal Redemption.] Here it is evident, 1. That this our High-Prieſt hath procured for us a perfect and perpetual Expiation from the guilt of Sin, and this Slichtingius on the Place fully grants. 2. That this λύτρωσις, or Redemption, was procured by the blood of Chriſt, we having, ἀπολύτρωσιν, Redemption through his blood, even the Remiſſion of Sin, Eph. 1. 7. That therefore was the λύτρον, or Price paid, to procure this Redemption. That this ἀπολύτρωσις παραβάσεων, Redemption from Tranſgreſſions was made, θανάτου γενομένου, by the Death of Chriſt, ſuffering as a piacular Victim for us, there being no other way of procuring this Remiſſion under the Law, v. 22. and ſo no other known to, or heard of by the Jews. And laſtly, That ſuffering thus, he alſo muſt ſuffer in our ſtead, as all Piacular Victims did. Whence he is ſaid to give his Life, λύτρον ἀντὶ πολλῶν, a Ranſom for many, Matth. 20. 28. ἀντίλυτρον ὑπὲρ πάντων, a Ranſom for all, 1 Tim. 2. 5. See the Note there.

Ver. 13. Ἁγιάζει πρὸς τὴν τῆ σαρκὸς n
καθαρότητα, Sanctifies to the purifying of the Fleſh.] It is truly obſerved by the Reverend Dr. Hammond, that to ſanctifie to the purifying of the Fleſh, is to make legally clean, i. e. ſo as that they might come into the Congregation again, it being the Sanctification, τῶν κεκοινωμένων, of the unclean; but ſtill in a Metaphorical Signification, as cleanſing ſignifies Expiation, and obtaining pardon of Sin, and when this is done by a Sacrifice, ἁγιάζειν, ſignifies to expiate, and cleanſe from Guilt by virtue of it. In which ſenſe it is uſed throughout this Epiſtle, and that agreeably to the import of it, when it relates to Sacrifices, in the Old Teſtament. So Ch. 10. 10. ἡγιασμένοι ἐσμὲν, we are ſanctified, i. e. are purged from the guilt of Sin, by the Body, or as other Copies read, by the blood of Chriſt, offered once for all. And v. 15. By one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified, i. e. hath entirely purged them who by this Offering are cleanſed from the guilt of Sin: He being offered once, εἰς τὸ πολλῶν ἀνενεγκεῖν τὰς ἁμαρτίας, to bear, or take away the Sins of many, and εἰς ἀθέτησιν ἁμαρτίας, for the putting away Sin by the Sacrifice of himſelf, Chap. 9. 26, 27. and v. 29. where it is ſtyled the blood of the Covenant, ἐν ᾧ ἡγιάσθη, by which he, who now counted it as common, was ſanctified, or cleanſed from the guilt of Sin, it being the blood ſhed for the Remiſſion of Sin, the blood of that New Covenant which ſaid, I will be merciful to their Impieties, and their Sins, and their Tranſgreſſions will I remember no more, v. 17. 18. So Chap. 13. 12. Therefore Jeſus, that he might ſanctifie the People by his own blood, ſuffer'd without the Camp: Where both the blood ſanctifying, and τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, the Sacrifice for Sin, v. 11. to which it anſwers, ſhew that Chriſt ſanctified the People by the Oblation of himſelf as a Sin-offering, to cleanſe them from the guilt of Sin. See the Note on Hebr. 2. 11.

Grotius, must be here understood which answers to the legal Oblation made in the Holy of Holies, which the Oblation of Christ upon the Cross doth not, but his Oblation in the Heavens. Against this Interpretation some object, That Christ presenting himself with his Blood in the Heavens, is never styled an Oblation; but that is a plain mistake, See Note on Chap. 8. 3, 4. and of evil consequence; for if Christ had no Oblation to offer in Heaven, he could not be an High-Priest there, since every High-Priest must have something to offer in that Sanctuary, in which he exercises his Priestly Office. But yet it being said, not that He offered his Blood, but that προσήνεγκεν ἑαυτὸν, he offered up himself which he did upon the Cross, Eph. 5. 2. Heb. 9. 25, 28. And the προσφορὰ, or Oblation of the Sacrifice, being properly the giving it up to the Death, or to be a piacular Victim in the Sinners stead, these words may very well be thus interpreted, who through the Holy Spirit, by which he was sanctified from the very Womb, offer'd himself a piacular Victim without spot to God. But then the blood of Christ here mentioned as purging the Conscience from dead works, must be his blood presented before God in the Heavenly Sanctuary; for the Apostle had spoken before v. 7. of the blood brought into the Holy of Holies by the Aaronical High-Priest, and declared that it could not perfectly expiate the Conscience from the guilt of Sin, v. 10. and therefore here the Analogy requires that he should speak of the blood of Christ, brought by our High-Priest into the Heavenly Sanctuary. Moreover he had said before, that he entred with his blood into the holy of holies, v. 12. and therefore v. 14. must be still speaking of the effect, or Influence of this blood there presented for us.

p Ibid. Καθαριεῖ συνείδησιν ἀπὸ νεκρῶν ἔργων, purge the Conscience from dead works.] Τὸ καθαρίζειν, here, as the Comparison clearly shews, being in sense the same with ἁγιάζειν in the Verse preceding, must signifie the cleansing of the Conscience, not from the inclination to Sin, by the Holy Spirit, but from the guilt of Sin, by the blood shed for the Remission of it. And (2dly.) This is the constant sense of the word καθαρίζειν in the Old Testament, when joined with ἀπὸ ἁμαρτιῶν. So Lev. 14. 19 The Priest shall make an Atonement for him that is to be cleansed from his uncleanness, ἐξιλάσεται ὁ ἱερεὺς περὶ τοῦ καθαριζομένου ἀπὸ τ ἀκαθαρσίας αὐτοῦ. And Chap. 16. 30. The Priest shall make an Atonement for you, to cleanse you, καθαρίσαι ὑμᾶς ἀπὸ πασῶν τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ὑμῶν from all your Sins. So Josh. 22. 17. Psal. 51. 3. Jer. 33. 8. Ezek. 24. 13. Hence then it follows that the dead works from which their Conscience was to be thus cleansed, must signifie works which deserved Death by the Tenor of the Old Covenant.

Ibid. Λατρεύειν Θεῷ ζῶντι, to serve the living God.] God being an holy God, can enter into Covenant with none, or admit them to his Service, whilst they lie under the guilt of Sin unpardoned, and so have not found Grace in his Sight. Noah found Grace in the Eyes of God, and with him he established his Covenant, Gen. 6. 8, 18. Abraham believes in God, and this was counted to him for Righteousness, and then the Lord makes a Covenant with him by Sacrifice, Gen. 15. 10, 18. So Exod. 24. 6. the Jews offer Burnt-Offerings, and Sacrifice Peace-Offerings to the Lord, and the blood is sprinkled upon all the People, and then he enters into Covenant with them. Hence the Apostle saith, Let us draw nigh to God with full assurance of Faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil (or condemning) Conscience. Heb. 10. 22. q

Ver. 15. Διὰ τοῦτο, may either relate to the end of Christ's mediatory Office, and so be rendred for this End, or for this Cause, or to the Means, by which that New Covenant, of which he is the Mediator, was established, and then it will be best rendred, by this Blood; his Blood being styled, The Blood of the New Covenant, Matth. 26. 28. Mark 14. 24. and the Covenant being styled, The New Covenant in his Blood, Luke 22. 20. 1 Cor. 11. 25. r

Ibid. Εἰς ἀπολύτρωσιν τῶν ἐπὶ τῇ πρώτῃ διαθήκῃ παραβάσεων, for the Redemption of Sins under the first Covenant.] St. Paul's design, in the Epistles to the Romans and Galatians, is to shew, that the Law could not justifie any Man, i. e. that it could not procure his Absolution from the guilt of Sin, but rather left all guilty before God; and his design in this Epistle is to shew, that the Sacrifices offered under the Law, could never take away Sin, Chap. 10. 4. And hence ariseth the necessity that Christ should shed his Blood for the Redemption, i. e. for the Remission of Sins committed under the Old Covenant, before we could be capable of entring into the New, or have a right to the Blessings of it. f

Ibid. Τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν, the promise of an Eternal Inheritance.] The immediate promise of the New Covenant, established in the Blood of Christ, is Remission of Sins, Ch. 10. 17. but then this being an Eternal Redemption from them, v. 12. and such as perfects for ever them that are sanctified, Ch. 10. 14. upon it necessarily follows the promise of an Eternal Inheritance, there being nothing to exclude us from it, but the guilt of Sin. Hence is there a close Connexion betwixt Christ's overcoming Death, and bringing Life, and Immortality to light, and this emphatically is Styled the Promise of the Gospel, Tit. 1. 2. 1 John 1. 2. and 5. 11. t x Ver. 19. Τὸ αἷμα τῶν μόσχων, &c. the blood of Calves and Goats.] There ſeems no need of the Conjecture of Biſhop Uſher, and others, that beſides the Burnt-Offerings, and Peace-Offerings, mentioned by Moſes, Exod. 24. 5. there were then offered Sin-Offerings, the Holocauſts themſelves being expiatory Sacrifices, as is evident from theſe words, Lev. 1. 4. He ſhall put his hand on the head of the Burnt-Offering, and it ſhall be accepted for him to make Atonement for him: Now the (i) Jewiſh Doctors tell us, That this Impoſition of Hands was always joined with Confeſſion of Sins over the Sacrifice, which Confeſſion ſtill concluded with a Prayer, that the Sacrifice might be an Expiation for them: And the Phraſe, it ſhall be accepted, ἐξιλάσασθαι περὶ αὐτοῦ, to make an Atonement for him, uſed here, and Lev. 14. 20. concerning Holocauſts, is as much as ever is ſaid of Expiatory Sacrifices. (2*dly.*) This may be farther argued from the word Kepher, uſed concerning Holocauſts, Lev. 1. 3. That being the word uſed to import Expiation for Sin; on which account the Syriac Verſion ſaith, that the Burnt-Offering was deſigned, ad placationem obtinendam à Deo, to appeaſe God: And the (k) Chaldee Paraphraſt, That the Burnt-Offering came ad expiandum pro cogitationibus Cordis, to expiate for the thoughts of the heart. And 'twas the general Opinion of the Jews, ſaith (l) Dr. Outram, that ſome kind of Sins were expiated by Holocauſts. And (3*dly.*) All the Sacrifices of living Creatures before the Law, were Holocauſts, and yet 'tis certain that many of them were offered to appeaſe God, and expiate for Sun. Thus Noah, after the Flood, offered Burnt-Offerings, Gen. 8. 20. and yet Joſephus, Antiq. l. 1. c. 4. hath inform'd us, That he offered a Sacrifice to atone God, and appeaſe his Diſpleaſure. The Sacrifices which Job offered for his Children, were Burnt-Offerings, yet were they alſo Offerings for Sin, Job 1. 5. the reaſon of their Oblation being thus aſſigned, It may be that my Sons have ſinned. The Oblation which God commanded his Friends to make, was a Burnt-Offering, Job 42. 7. and yet it was offered to appeaſe God's Wrath, and prevailed, with the Prayer of Job, λύειν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν αὐτοῖς, to procure Abſolution from their Sin. Nevertheleſs, becauſe Joſephus ſpeaking of this matter, mentions the Blood, τῶν κριῶν σφαγέντων, of the Rams ſlain, as the Apoſtle doth τῶν τράγων, the blood of the Goats, hence it ſeems neceſſary to allow theſe alſo were ſlain then, either as Sin-Offerings, or as Burnt-Offerings, as they are allowed to be, Lev. 1. 2, 3, 10.

y Ver. 20. Διαθήκη, Covenant, or Teſtament.] This Diſcourſe, ſaith Mr. le Clerc, is to be look'd upon merely as the Play of an Helleniſtical Writer, who, becauſe he ſaw that διαθήκη was uſed for that Covenant whereof Chriſt is the Mediator, and ſignified alſo a Teſtament, and Chriſt was dead, thence deduced Conſectaries which are true indeed, conſidered in themſelves, but here rely upon weak Principles, rather to ſet off his Diſcourſe, according to the Cuſtom of that Age, than to convert the Jews to the Faith by the force of Reaſoning. Thus is the great Apoſtle of the Gentiles turned into a Jewiſh Rabbin, ſetting off his Diſcourſe by weak Reaſonings, becauſe it was cuſtomary for the Jews to do ſo. Our Word and Preaching is, ſaith the Apoſtle, not in the words of Mans Wiſdom, but in demonſtration of the Spirit, 1 Cor. 2. 4. By your leave, ſaith Mr. le Clerc, you ſometimes ſpeak not in the words of Man's Wiſdom, but of Jewiſh Folly, talking plainly like an Allegorical Philo, making often ſuch accommodations of Scripture, and ſuch Conſequences deduced from them, in which no regard at all is had to Grammar. We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God, ſaith the Apoſtle, ibid. v. 7. No, ſaith Mr. le Clerc, your Diſcourſe is to be look'd upon merely as the Play of an Helleniſtical Writer. We ſpeak the things which God hath revealed unto us by his Spirit, and have received this Spirit, that we may know the things which are freely given us of God; which things we ſpeak not in words taught by humane Wiſdom, but in words taught us by the Holy Ghoſt. No, ſaith Mr. le Clerc, even in things relating to the New Covenant, eſtabliſhed in the blood of Chriſt, your Diſcourſe relies upon weak Principles, and is no better than playing with the Ambiguity of words, and deducing Conſequences without any regard to Grammar. For true it is indeed, That a Teſtament is ratified by the Death of the Teſtator, and Chriſt is dead, but Chriſt was not the Mediator of a Teſtament; for Teſtaments do not want Mediators: And if it ſhould be granted that he was, he could not be thought at once a Mediator, and a Teſtator, by whoſe Death alone a Teſtament was confirmed. The Teſtator here is God the Father, whoſe Heirs Men are in Conjunction with Chriſt, but God the Father can in no Senſe be ſaid to die. Thus Mr. le Clerc confutes the Author, and yet ſays, he does not leſſen the Authority of this Epiſtle, though others think he plainly overthrows it, but, God be thanked, he does it ſtill without juſt ground. For,

1*ſt*. 'Tis plainly falſe that God can be the Teſtator here, and that for his own Reaſon, becauſe God the Father can in no ſenſe be ſaid to die: For a Teſtator muſt have his Teſtament, and where there is a valid Teſtament, there, ſaith the Apoſtle, muſt of neceſſity be the Death of the Teſtator. A Teſtament, ſaith Mr. le. Clerc, being ratified by the Death of the Teſtator.

Secondly, I grant, that Chriſt was not the Mediator of a Teſtament, but then he was the Mediator of a Covenant, which, as it was ſealed with, and confirmed by his Blood, procuring for us ſuch Bleſſings as he by his will deſigned for, and declared ſhould be conferred upon Believers, through Faith in his Blood, became alſo a Teſtament. Thus when he ſaid, For their ſakes, ἁγιάζω ἐμαυτὸν, Joh. 17. 19. i. e. I offer up my ſelf as a Piacular Victim, that they might be ſanctified, or truly purged from their Sins; he adds (m) as his laſt Will and Teſtament, Father, I will that thoſe whom thou haſt given me be with me, where I am. So here he is become an High-Prieſt of Good things to come, purchaſing eternal Redemption for us, by his Blood. And v. 15. He became the Mediator of that New Covenant, in which God promiſed to be merciful to our Tranſgreſſions, and to remember our Sins no more, procuring the Remiſſion of them by the intervention of his Death, that we that believe in him might receive the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, which he died to entitle us to, and confer upon us; whence it is ſtiled, the purchaſed Poſſeſſion. This therefore was his Will and Teſtament, that they for whom he died ſhould live through him, and this Teſtament could not be confirmed but by his Death; He therefore was at once the Mediator in whom the New Covenant, promiſing to us Remiſſion of Sins, was made, and the Teſtator, by whoſe Death the Teſtament, That they who believed in him ſhould have eternal life, was ratified.

Moreover, what if, after all, here ſhould be nothing ſaid of a Teſtator, but only of a Mediator of ſuch a Covenant as was to be ratified in the Blood of Jeſus? this ſure would confound all that Mr. le Cl. here offers; and yet I think, with Submiſſion to better Judgments, that even this may be maintained againſt him.

For though there be here mention, v. 16, 17. τῦ διαθεμένυ, yet is it not neceſſary that word ſhould ſignifie a Teſtator properly ſo called, but only a Promiſer, and one that confirms his Promiſe with his own Blood. For διατίθημι, in Phavorinus, is, ὑπισχνέομαι, συντίθεμαι, I Promiſe, I Covenant, and διατίθεσθαι διαθήκην, is very commonly in Profane Authors, to enter into Covenant; and ſo the Phraſe διαθήσομαι διαθήκην, and διέθετο διαθήκην, (n) is conſtantly uſed in the Old Teſtament, and therefore the Participle διαθέμενο, derived from the ſame Verb, muſt probably have the ſame ſignification here, in which it is ſtill uſed by the Septuagint, and which it always bears in the New Teſtament. Thus Acts 3. 25. You are the Children, διαθήκης ἧς διέθετο of the Covenant which God made with our Fathers. Luke 22. 29. Κἀγὼ διατίθεμαι ὑμῖν and I appoint to you a Kingdom, καθὼς διέθετο as my Father hath appointed me, So here Chap. 8. 10. and 10. 16. Αὕτη ἡ διαθήκη ἣν διαθήσομαι, this is the Covenant which I will make with the houſe of Iſrael. And becauſe Covenants were uſually made, Victimas cædendo, by Sacrifices, and eſtabliſhed in Blood, as both the Hebrew Berith, , the Latin Fœdus, and the Greek σπονδὴ, whence the word Spondeo is derived, ſhew; and the Phraſes, ὅρκια τέμνειν, fœdus ferire, and percutere; accordingly it was in the New Covenant eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Jeſus. Hence the Apoſtle ſpeaks thus of this Covenant, and the Appointer, Diſpoſer, or the Maker of it.

V. 15. That by Virtue of this Blood he is become the mediator of a Better Covenant.

V. 16. For where there is a Covenant [διαθήκη γενομένη, made by Death, or ratified by the Blood of him that makes it, v. 15.] there of neceſſity muſt intervene the Death, τῦ διαθεμένυ, of him that makes the Covenant, or Promiſe.

V. 17. For a Covenant [of this nature] is only firm [ὅτι νεκροῖς] in the death of them who make it,] as other Covenants were ratified by the Death of the Sacrifices uſed at the making of them] and is of no force whilſt [ὁ διαθέμενο] the maker of the Covenant lives.

V. 18. Whence [i. e. becauſe without ſhedding of Blood there is no Remiſſion; ſo it was alſo in] the firſt Covenant, [for it] was not Dedicated without blood.

To this ſenſe the Contexture of the Apoſtle's Argument doth plainly lead; for Chapter the 8th he introduceth the Promiſe of a New Covenant, in which God engageth to be merciful to our Iniquities, and to remember our Sins no more, v. 12. and ſo by removing our Guilt made us fit to be partakers of an eternal Inheritance This Remiſſion of Sins, ſaith he, could not be purchaſed by the Gifts and Sacrifices under the Law, for they could not fully purge the Conſcience from the guilt of Sin, Chap. 9. 9. but Chriſt, by his own Blood, hath purchaſed Eternal Redemption for us, v. 12. and by this Blood, he is become the Mediator of a better Covenant; He having suffered Death for the Remission of Sins committed under the Old Covenant, that we might receive the Promise of an eternal Inheritance, v. 15.

And this Death was necessary for him to suffer for the obtaining of these Ends; For where there is such a Covenant, there is a Necessity that the Death of him who ratifies this Covenant with his blood, should intervene; for such a Covenant is only ratified upon the Death of them by whom it is made, and is of no force, whilst he lives that makes the Covenant, because this Remission of Sins is not to be procured without shedding of Blood. Which was a thing so absolutely necessary under the Law, that neither was the first Covenant dedicated, or established without Blood.

Now, if this be so, here is no playing with the Ambiguity of the word διαθήκη, nor any intimation of an Hellenist, but rather of an Hebrew, using the word in the sense which both the Hebrew, Berith, usually bears, and in which διαθήκη answers to it in the Septuagint: And so there was no just Occasion for the Dangerous Reflections, which Mr. le Clerc hath made on this Discourse of the Apostle.

z Ver. 21. Ἐῤῥάντισε, &c.] Of this sprinkling of the Tabernacle, and all the Vessels, we read nothing in the place of Exodus forecited, or in any other part of the Law, but (o) Josephus saith, That Moses did διαφθεῖραι τὴν σκηνὴν, καὶ τὰ περὶ αὐτὴν σκεύη, ἐλαίῳ, καὶ τῷ αἵματι τῶν ταύρων καὶ κριῶν σφαγέντων, consecrate for God's service the Tabernacle, and all the Vessels of it, anointing them with oyl, and with the blood of Bulls and Rams.

aa Ver. 22. Almost all things.] He saith, almost, because some things which could abide the fire, were purified by fire, Numb. 31. 23. and others by Water, Lev. 16. 28.

bb Ver. 23. Αὐτὰ δὲ τὰ ἐπουράνια, the Heavenly things] For Explication of these words let it be observed, 1*st*. That the Apostle here speaketh all along, not of Purification of Persons, but of Things, of the Tabernacle and of the Vessels of it, v. 21. of the τὰ πάντα all other things which were to be purified; of the ὑποδείγματα τῶν ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς the Patterns of the things in heaven, v. 23. that is, the Tabernacle and the Utensils of it. Chap. 8. 5. The Heavenly things themselves, opposed to them, cannot therefore signifie, Men in general, viz. the Church Triumphant, or Militant, or in particular our Souls or Consciences, but the Heavenly Place, stiled, v. 24. Heaven it self, the Place into which Christ entred, in which he appears before God, the Place of which the Tabernacle made with hands was a figure.

2*ly*. Observe, That by God's Appointment an Atonement was to be made for the Holy Place, by the blood of a Sin-offering sprinkled upon, and before the mercy-Seat seven times, Because of the Uncleanness of the Children of Israel, and because of their Transgressions and their Sins, Lev. 16. 16 Now these could not defile that holy Place into which they never entred, but yet they rendred them, and their services unworthy to appear, and to be tendred before it, as they still did, worshipping towards, or before this foot-stool of the Divine Majesty. An atonement was also to be made for the Tabernacle of the Congregation, in which God dwelt among them, because of their Uncleannesses, which rendred them unworthy to come into that Tabernacle where he was present; whence 'tis observable, that no man was permitted to be in the Tabernacle, till the Atonement was made for it; so that the Purification of the Holy of Holies, was only the Preparing of it to be still a mercy-seat, to which they might repair with their Prayers, Praises, and Adorations, and from which God might graciously shine forth upon them, when purified by this Atonement from the Defilements of their Sins. And the Purification of the Tabernacle was only to prepare it to be a Place in which they might present their Persons before God, thus cleansed by this Atonement from the Guilt of Sin.

And in like manner was Heaven it self to be prepared, or purified for us by our Lord's entrance into it with his own Atonement, or Propiatory Sacrifice. 1*st*. That our Prayers and Praises might ascend up thither, and be accepted at God's mercy-seat, as being offered to God by our High-Priest, and rendred acceptable by the Atonement he had made for the Pollutions cleaving to them. Hence is he represented as having a Golden Censer, and much incense to offer, with the Prayers of all Saints, Rev. 8. 3, 4. (2*ly*) That our Persons might be admitted into this Heavenly Tabernacle, as being cleansed by his Blood from those Defilements which they had contracted; Accordingly Our Lord tells his Disciples, In my Father's house are many Mansions; I go to prepare a Place for you, John 14. 2, 3. And here he is said to purifie and prepare, these heavenly Mansions for us, by entring into heaven, there to appear with his blood of sprinkling in the Presence of God for us.

Ver. 26. Ἀπὸ καταβολῆς κόσμου, , from cc the Foundation of the World.] This Phrase is used six times elsewhere in the New Testament, viz. Matth. 13. 35. 25. 34. Luke 11. 50. Rev. 13. 8. 17. 8. in this Epistle; God's works were finished from the Foundation of the World, Heb. 4. 3. And in all these places it manifestly signifies from the beginning of the World. See Psal. 78. 2. Matth. 13. 35. and therefore therefore muſt in Reaſon bear the ſame import in this Text; and then it proves, againſt Crellius, that the Sufferings of Chriſt had reſpect to all preceding Generations; For if his Sufferings had not reſpected the Sins of the whole World, where is the neceſſity, upon the ſuppoſition here made, of the reiteration of his Sacrifice, that he ſhould have ſuffered from the beginning of the World?

CHAP. X.

THE legal High-Prieſt, I ſay, went yearly into the Holy of Holies, v. 25. as it was neceſſary for him to do in that imperfect Diſpenſation;] a 1. For the Law having [only] [a] ſhadow of b good things to come, and [b] not the very c Image of the things [themſelves,] can [c] never with thoſe Sacrifices which they [who officiated under it] offer'd year by year continually, make the comers thereunto perfect, [or, make the Comers thereunto perfect for ever.]

d 2. For [d] then would they not have ceaſed to be offer'd, becauſe that the Worſhippers once purged [by them εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς for ever,] would have had no more Conſcience of Sin, [i. e. would not have been after conſcious of the Guilt of Sin.]

3. But [ſo far are they from procuring this Perpetual Remiſſion, or freeing thoſe that offer'd them from being any more Conſcious of Sin, that] in thoſe Sacrifices there is a Remembrance again made of Sins every year, [viz. in the great Day of Expiation, whereas where there is full Remiſſion of Sins, there is no remembrance of them any more, and ſo no more offering for Sin needful, v. 16, 17.]

4. [They could not, I ſay, expiate for ever, or clear them from all Conſcience of Sin;] For it
e is impoſſible that the Blood of Bulls, and Goats, [e] ſhould take away Sins [for ever, ſo that no farther Sacrifice ſhould be needful to that End.]

5. Wherefore when he [the Lamb of God
f that taketh away the Sins of the World] [f] cometh into the World, he [in the Pſalmiſt] ſaith, Sacrifice and offering thou wouldſt not, but
g [g] a Body haſt thou prepared [for] me, [i. e. thou wouldſt not have them to continue after my coming into the World to offer my ſelf a Sacrifice for the Sins of the World, they being only to continue till the time of Reformation, Chap. 9. 10. and here, v. 9.]

6. In Burnt-offerings and Sacrifices for Sin thou haſt had no pleaſure.

7. Then ſaid I, Lo, I come [as] [h] in the h volume [or Roll] of the Book it is written of me to do [τὸ ποιῆσαι, that I ſhould do] thy Will, O God [i. e. to offer my Body a Sacrifice for Sin according to thy Will.]

8. Above when he ſaid [ἀνώτερον λέγων, when he, i. e. Chriſt, had ſaid before, Pſal. 40. 6.] Sacrifice and Offerings, and Burnt-offerings, and offering for Sin, thou wouldſt not, neither hadſt pleaſure therein, [ſpeaking of the Sacrifices] which are offered by the Law;

9. Then ſaid he [afterwards v. 7.] Lo, I come to do thy Will, O God: [and thus] he taketh away the firſt [the legal Sacrifices,] that he may eſtabliſh the ſecond, [the Oblation of his Body, v. 10.]

10. [i] By the which [k] Will we are ſanctified through the Offering [Gr. οἱ ἁγιασμένοι τῇ προσφορᾷ, who are ſanctified by the Offering,] of the Body of Jeſus Chriſt [ἐφάπαξ] once for all, [not as the legal Sacrifices, once every year, Chap. 9. 25, 26.] i k

11. And every Prieſt [according to the Law,] ſtandeth [Gr. ſtood] daily miniſtring, and offering oftentimes the ſame Sacrifices, which can never take away [the guilt of] Sins.

12. But this man [Chriſt Jeſus] after he had offer'd one Sacrifice for Sins, [by which the guilt of them hath been fully taken away, Heb. 1. 3. is] [l] for ever ſat down on the Right hand of God, [and ſo is placed over all his works, according to Pſalm 8. 6.] l

13. From henceforth expecting till his Enemies be made his foot ſtool; [till the Devil, Anti-chriſt, Death, the Wages of Sin, and the laſt Enemy be aboliſhed, 1 Cor. 15. 25. and ſo the following words of the Pſalmiſt, Thou haſt put all things in Subjection under his feet, be fully accompliſhed.]

14. For by [this] one offering [of himſelf to the Death for us] he hath [m] perfected m for ever [i. e. completely expiated the Sins of] them that are ſanctified, [through faith in his blood procuring the Remiſſion of Sins, Acts 26. 18.]

15. Wherefore [and of this] the Holy Ghoſt alſo is a Witneſs to us; for after he had ſaid before;

16. This is the Covenant that I will make with them; after thoſe days, ſaith the Lord, I will put my Laws into their hearts, and in [or upon] their minds will I write them [Jer. 31. 33.]

17. [He adds, as a farther promiſe, or part of the new Covenant] And their Sins and Iniquities will I remember no more.

18. Now where [ſuch a] Remiſſion of theſe is, [as cuts off the Remembrance of them any more,] there is [n] no more [need of] offering for Sin, [See v. 2, 3.]

19. Having therefore, Brethren, boldneſs [or liberty] [See note on Chap. 3. 6.] to enter into the Holieſt by the Blood of Jeſus, [from which the Jews were Typically debarred, the way into the Holieſt being not then revealed, Chap. 9. 8.]

o p 20. By a [o] new and [p] living way, which he hath conſecrated [or made new] for us through the Vail, that is to ſay [through] his fleſh, [offered for our Sins upon the Croſs.]

q 21. And having [ſuch] [q] an High-Prieſt over the Houſe of God [i.e. the Church, Chap. 3. 6. 1 Tim. 3. 15. Or, over the Houſe not made with hands in which God dwells, Chap. 8. 1, 2. 9. 1, 11.]

22. Let us [who are of this Houſe, Chap. 3. 6. and for whom this Freedom is procured by this High-Prieſt] draw near [to God] with a true [upright] heart, in full aſſurance of Faith, [that our ſervices ſhall be accepted now, and our Perſons hereafter admitted into his Preſence, as] having r our hearts ſprinkled [by the blood of Jeſus] from [the accuſations of] an evil Conſcience, and our Bodies waſhed with pure water, [viz. the Laver of Regeneration.]

23. Let us hold faſt the Profeſſion of our Faith [Gr. the hope we Profeſs] without wavering, [or being moved from the hope of our Calling, Col. 2. 23. that hope which cauſeth us to rejoice, Chap. 3. 6. which entreth within the veil, Chap. 7. 27.] for he is faithful who hath promiſed [this Entrance into it.]

24. And let us conſider one another [as members of the ſame body] to provoke [one another] to love and to good works [or works of Charity. See note on Tit. 3. 8.]

25. Not forſaking the Aſſembling of our ſelves together, [i. e. not drawing back from Chriſtianity to Judaiſm, v. 26, 38.] as the manner of ſome is, [who for fear of Perſecution from the Jews, return to the worſhip of the Synagogue, v. 32, 36.] but exhorting one another [to perſeverance in the Faith,] and [that] ſo much the more as you ſee [f] the day [of vengeance upon the unbelieving, and Apoſtatizing Jews,] approaching.

t 26. [t] For if we Sin wilfully [by renouncing, and falling off from Chriſtianity] after that we have received the Knowledge of the Truth, there remains no more Sacrifice for Sin, [but there is not yet left any other Sacrifice, beſides that which you reject, to purge you from the guilt of Sin, and therefore nothing can remain for ſuch Apoſtates,]

27. But a certain fearful looking for of Judgment, and fiery Indignation which ſhall devour the Adverſaries [of Chriſt, the Son of God, v. 29.]

28. [And of this you may be aſſured from what befel thoſe who revolted from the Law of Moſes, for] He that deſpiſed Moſes's Law died without Mercy, under [the Teſtimony of] two or three Witneſſes [of that Apoſtacy, Numb. 15. 30, 31. Deut. 17. 2---7]

29. Of how much ſorer Puniſhment ſuppoſe ye [then] ſhall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, [uſing him with the greateſt contempt,] and hath accounted the Blood of the [new] Covenant, [u] wherewith he was ſanctified [or purged from the guilt of his Sins, Chap. 2. 11. 9. 13. 13. 12.] an unholy thing [ſuch as pollutes, rather than purges as being the Blood of a malefactor,] and hath done deſpight to the Spirit of Grace, [by refuſing to own him as the Spirit of God, yea rejecting him as a Lying Spirit, and his Gifts, and Miracles as Illuſions.]

30. For we know him that hath ſaid, [i. e. who introduceth God thus ſpeaking,] Vengeance belongeth to me, and I will recompenſe, [x] ſaith the Lord, [Deut. 32. 35.] And [y] again [in the ſame place, v. 36. ſaith of him] The Lord ſhall judge his People.

31. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the Living God, [who ever lives to puniſh thoſe who revolt from him. See Chap. 3. 12.]

32. But call to remembrance [ἀναμιμνήσκεσθε ὃ remember therefore] the former days, in which after ye were illuminated [i. e. baptized into the Chriſtian Faith, Chap. 6. 4.] You endured [couragiouſly,] a great fight [Gr. conflict] of afflictions, [For a great Perſecution then befel the Church, which was at Jeruſalem, Acts 8. 2. 1 Theſſ. 2. 14.]

33. Partly while you were made a gazing ſtock [or ſpectacle] both by Reproaches and Afflictions, and partly while ye became Companions of them that were ſo uſed [Acts 5. 41. The Apoſtles, eſpecially Paul and Barnabas, Acts 14. 5, 19, 20. 17. 10, 14, 15.]

34. For ye had Compaſſion of me in [z] my Bonds, [Acts 20. 23. 21. 4, 11, 12, 13.] and took joyfully the ſpoiling of your goods, knowing in your ſelves, [by the Teſtimony of that Spirit who is the Earneſt of our future Inheritance, Epheſ. 1. 14. 4. 30.] that you have in heaven a better, and an enduring ſubſtance.

35. Caſt

35. Cast not away therefore your Confidence [παῤῥησίαν, your freedom in profession of the Faith,] which hath great Recompense of Reward; [for with the mouth confession is made unto Salvation, Rom. 10. 10.]

36. For ye have need of Patience, that after ye have done the Will of God [i. e. have suffered according to his Will, 1 Pet. 4. 19.] aa ye might receive [aa] the Promise [d Reward.]

47. For [the Vision of Habakkuk, respecting the coming of Christ, and exhorting you to wait for him, said then, yet for a time, as I do bb now,] yet a little while, [bb] and he that shall come [Gr. ὁ ἐρχόμενος he that cometh to reward your Patience,] Will come, and will not tarry.

38. [It also adds these words of Comfort to the faithful, and Terror to the Revolter, expect him, δίκαιος δέ,] now the Just shall live by [his] Faith, [cc] but if any Man draw back cc [καὶ ἐὰν ὑποστείληται, and if he draw back from it] my Soul, [saith God,] shall have no pleasure in him.

39. But we [I hope, Chap. 6. 9.] are not of them that draw back to Perdition, but of them that believe to the saving of the Soul.

a Verse 1. Σκιὰν τῶν μελλόντων ἀγαθῶν, a shadow of good things to come.] i e. Of those good things to come, of which Christ is the High-Priest; their Tabernacle being only a shadow or figure of that Cœlestial Tabernacle into which he, as our Fore-runner, hath already entred, Chap. 9. 11. the Purgation they obtained by their Sacrifices from the Defilements of the flesh, of the Purifications of our Consciences from dead works, v. 13, 14. their annual Redemption, of the Eternal Redemption obtained by Christ, v. 12. their freedom of Entrance, being cleansed by their Sacrifices, into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, of our freedom to enter into the Holy of Holies.

b Ibid. οὐκ αὐτὴν τὴν εἰκόνα τῶν πραγμάτων, not the very Image of the things.] The Apostle here distinguishing betwixt the things, and the Image of them; I think the word Image cannot properly be rendred, substance, but we under the Gospel do enjoy such lively representations of the good things to come, as are both Assurances and Foretasts, and beginnings of them, the Earnests of our future glory, in the enjoyment of the Holy Spirit, who is the Earnest of it, Eph. 1. 14. and by whom we are changed into the Image of our glorious Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 18. the Image of our enjoyment of God, and dwelling for ever with him, by being made an Habitation of God through the Spirit, Eph. 2. 22. the Image of our Entrance into his Presence, in that freedom of access we have already to the Father through Christ, Eph. 2. 18. 3. 12. The Image of our final Absolution, in that Justification which is attended with that Peace of God which passeth understanding. And this sufficiently answers the Objection of Estbius against this sense, viz. that a more express signification of these future good things would not more efficaciously avail towards the Exhibition of them. For such an Image of them, as is also an earnest, fore-taste, assurance, and an inchoation of them, is sufficient to make the comers to God perfect for ever, as far as we are capable of being so in this life; as being fully assured of the entire Pardon of our past Sins, so as that they shall not be remembred any more, and of the enjoyment of those future blessings, of which we have received already the earnest, first-fruits, and assurance.

c Ibid. Εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς οὐδέποτε δύνανται τοὺς προσερχομένους τελειῶσαι, could never make the Comers to them perfect for ever.] All Interpreters allow a σύγχυσις, or Trajection of the words in this Verse. Now this which I make in the Translation seems to be confirmed by the Effect of our Lord's Sacrifice opposed to these, for that, saith the Apostle τετελείωκεν εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, hath perfected for ever them that were sanctified, i. e. hath cleansed them for ever from the guilt of Sin, v. 14. That therefore which he here denies to the legal Sacrifices, must be also this, that they could τελειῶσαι εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς expiate Sins for ever; or so as that they who were once purged by them should have no more Conscience of Sin, v. 2. and to this sense the following Argument inclines.

The words τελειῶν, and τελειῶσαι, have two significations; the one is Agonistical, and then it signifies to Reward and Crown, as in those words, That they without us, μὴ τελειωθῶσι might not be made perfect, i. e. be crowned, or have their full Reward, Heb. 11. 40. See the note there. The other is Sacrifical; for when it is joined with Sacrifices, or hath relation to them, it signifies ἁγιάζειν, καθαρίζεσθαι, to sanctify and purge from the guilt of Sin. Whence τελειώσεις is rendred by Hesychius and Phavorinus, ἁγιάζεις. So the Sin-offering, by which Aaron and his Sons were sanctified, and set apart for the Priesthood, is stiled, θυσία τελειώσεως, Exod. 29. 34. And the Sacrifice by which the Temple was sanctifyed, or purged from its Defilements, is stiled, θυσία τελειώσεως, 2 Macc. 2. 9. And therefore what is here cannot make perfect, is, v. 4. cannot ἀφαιρεῖν ἁμαρτίας, ἁμαρτίας, take away Sins; and, v. 2. καθαρίζεσθαι, is to purge from the Conscience of Sin. See Chap. 9. 9, 12, 14.

And lastly, the Word προσερχομένους here seems not to signifie the Comers to it, i. e. the Law, but the comers to God for Pardon by these legal Sacrifices; for the word in this whole Epistle still relates to coming to God, as the Phrase is expressly, Chap. 7. 25. 11. 6. the coming to the Throne of Grace, Chap. 4. 16. and in this Chapter v. 22. προσερχώμεθα, let us come [to God] with a true heart.

d Ver. 2. Ἐπεὶ ἂν ὐκ ἐπαύσαντο προσφερόμενα, for then they would not have ceased to be offered.] Some leaving out the ὐκ translate the Words, thus, For then sure they would have ceased to be offered; but the ὐκ is found in Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, and the Alexandrian Manuscript, and therefore ought not to be omitted: Others, with the Arabick Version, read the words Interogatively; For then would they not have ceased to be offered? Which gives a very good sense. But yet there seems to be another sense of them very agreeable to the Context; viz. for then they would not have ceased, or been taken away, to give place to another Sacrifice for Sin, as the Apostle proves they were, from v. 5. to the 9th.

e Ver. 4. Ἀφαίρειν ἁμαρτίας, to take away Sins] Is not, as Grotius here notes, efficere ne ultra peccetur, to make us Sin no more; for that is not the Effect of Christ's blood, but, as far as in this imperfect State we are enabled so to do, of his sanctifying Spirit. Moreover the Apostle speaks v. 1. of Expiation of the Conscience from the guilt of Sin, of Expiation by the legal Sacrifices which did not inwardly sanctifie, of Purgation by the Oblation of them, v. 2. from that Sin of which there was a yearly Remembrance in the Oblation of those Sacrifices to make Atonement for them, v. 3. and therefore the ἀδύνατον γὰρ, which connects this Verse with the former, and shews that to be impossible to be effected which he had said before was not effected by those Sacrifices, must confine this Phrase to the taking away the guilt of Sins, by (a) Expiation, and Atonement for them, not to the Removal of the Power and Dominion of them, by internal sanctification. And so ἀφαίρειν ἁμαρτίαν, always signifies, either to take away Sin by a mere Act of Grace, absolving from the Punishment due to it, as when Nathan said to David, ἀφῆλε ὁ Κύριος τὸ ἁμάρτημά σε, the Lord hath taken away thy Sin, thou shalt not die, 2 Sam. 12. 13. And the Seraphim to Isaiah, This hath touched thy Lips, καὶ ἀφελεῖ τὰς ἁμαρτίας σε and he will take away thy Sins, Isa. 6. 7. And Isa. 27. 9. By this ἀφαιρεθήσεται ἀνομία Ἰακὼβ, shall the Iniquity of Jacob be forgiven; and this is his blessing ὅταν ἀφέλωμαι τὴν ἁμαρτίαν αὐτῦ, when I shall take away his Sin. And when God saith to Joshua, ἰδὲ ἀφῆκα τὰς ἀνομίας σε, Behold I have taken away thy Sins, Zach. 3. 4. Or when this Phrase hath relation to a Sacrifice, as when 'tis said, Lev. 10. 17. Wherefore have you not eaten the Sin-offering in the Holy Place, seeing it is most holy, and God hath given it you ἵνα ἀφέλητε τὴν ἁμαρτίαν τῆ συναγωγῆς, καὶ ἐξιλάσεσθε περὶ αὐτῶν ἔναντι Κυρίε, that you might bear [away] the Iniquity of the Congregation, to make an Atonement for them before the Lord? See v. 11.

f Ver. 5. Εἰσερχόμενος εἰς τὸν κόσμον, coming into the World.] The Socinian Glosse here, de ingressu Christi in mundum futurum, i. e. of Christ's going out of this World into the next, or into Heaven, is so absurd that it needs no refutation; his coming into the World in the Scripture Phrase being his descending from heaven to be with us, John 16. 28. I came down from the Father, and came into the World, and his going hence to heaven, being stiled his leaving of the World, John 13. 1. 16. 28. 17. 11. And though the Phrase of entring into the World may, sometimes in St. John, import Christ's entring on his Prophetick Office, or his appearing publickly in the World, as ὁ ἐρχόμενος is that Prophet which was to come into the World; yet the Connexion of it here with the time, when a Body was prepared for him, will not suffer us to doubt that it importeth here his Assumption of the Humane Nature, and his being born into the World in it. And so this Phrase is used when Christ is stiled the true Light that enlightneth every man that cometh into the World, John 1. 9. For though the Grammatical Construction, doth not hinder but that, ἐρχόμενον εἰς τὸν κόσμον, may be construed with Light thus, which coming into the World enlightneth every man, yet כל באי עולם all that come into the World, being the constant Phrase by which the Jews express all men living, as Dr. Lightfoot on the Place observes; and the Jews themselves speaking of God himself after this manner אתה הוא נר באי עולם (b) Thou art he that illuminates every man that comes into the World; this is a plain confirmation of our Translation of these Words.

g Ibid. Σῶμα κατηρτίσω μοι, a Body hast thou prepared, or framed for me.] The words in the Hebrew are אזנים כרית לי my Ears hast thou bored, in plain Allusion to the Ceremony used to a slave that would not have his liberty, but would continue in his Obedience to his Master, and would not go free, Exod. 21. 6. Deut. 15. 17. And this was done out of love to his Master; the boring of his Ear seems ſeems not to be commanded as a note of Infamy, but as a ſolemn devoting of him to his Maſter's ſervice; though were it uſed as a mark of ſervitude it anſwers ſtill exactly to our Saviour, who took upon him, ſaith the Apoſtle, μορφὴν δούλου, the form of a Servant, or of a ſlave, and became obedient to the Death for us, when he might have been free from it, out of love to his Father, and us his Children, Heb. 2. 14. And becauſe he only could appear in this form, and performed this Obedience in the Body he aſſumed for this Purpoſe, the ſeventy Interpreters, perhaps by the internal Motion of the Holy Spirit, tranſlated the Phraſe thus, A Body haſt thou prepared, or framed for me; for that the Apoſtle did not change the Tranſlation of the Septuagint, but find it thus, his words declare, when he ſaith he taketh away the firſt, viz. Sacrifice, and offering according to the Law, that he might eſtabliſh the latter, i. e. the Oblation of his Body, or his Obedience to the Death in the Body thus prepared for him. So read Theodoret, St. Auſtin, Euthymius, St. Chryſoſtom, Apollinarius and Ambroſius; ſo read the Arabick and Æthiopick Verſions; and they who read otherwiſe may be ſuppoſed to have followed not the Greek, but the Hebrew. And this Reading the Apoſtle approves, and follows, as the true meaning of the Hebrew Phraſe, and that which ſo fitly doth Expreſs our Saviour's Oblation of himſelf, as that Sacrifice which was to put an end to thoſe which only were the Types, and Shadows of it: And his giving up himſelf entirely as a Servant to do the Will of God, on which account Slaves, and Servants, who were altogether at the Beck and Will of their Lords, were both by Jews and Heathens called σώματα Bodies. Thus Raguel gave to Tobias half his Goods, σώματα, καὶ πῶυ, καὶ ἀργύριον, Servants, and Cattle, and Money, Tobit 10. 10. The ſale of the Captive Jews by Nicanor is in the Greek thus, ἀνοσιώτατος ἐσθαι-κῶν σωμάτων, 2 Maccab. 8. 11. Joſeph Antiq. Jud. l. 12. c. 2. p. 390. F. So all the Servants of the Men of Sichem are, πάντα τὰ σώματα αὐτῶν, Gen. 34. 29. And σώματα is by our Tranſlation rendred Slaves, Rev. 18. 13. So Ariſtotle, Strabo, Demoſthenes, and and J. Pollux uſe the word. See Conſtantine.

I do not find that the Ancient Jews interpreted theſe words of Chriſt in expreſs Terms, but they ſay enough to juſtifie the Apoſtle's Argument from this Text. For hence they conclude, that (c) God had no principal Regard to Sacrifices, and that Obedience, and Praiſe was better than Sacrifice; and that (d) a further Salvation was to be expected, even the Salvation of God, Pſalm. 50. 23. Iſaiah 45. 17. which was תשועת עולמים an eternal Salvation; or, in the Language of the Apoſtle here, Salvation, εἰς τὸ παντελὲς for ever, Hebr. 7. 25. εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς Chap. 10. 14.

Ver. 7. In the Volume of thy Book it is written of me that I ſhould come to do thy Will.] It being there written that the Meſſiah was to make his life an offering for Sin, Iſa. 53. 10. and by that to cauſe theſe Offerings, and Sacrifices to ceaſe, Dan. 9. 27. therefore he is ſaid to go to his Croſs, as it was written of him, Matth. 26. 24. and the Rulers of the Jews are ſaid to have fulfilled the Scriptures in condemning him, and to have done that which was written of him, Acts 13. 27, 29. See Luke 24. 44, 46. h

Ver. 10. Though perhaps the Article οἱ ſhould be left out, it being not read by Chryſoſtom and Theodoret, or by the Syriac Verſion, yet becauſe it is in the Alexandrian Copy, in Oecumenius, Theophylact, the Arabick Verſion, and in many Manuſcript Copies I thought fit to give it a place in the Paraphraſe, and then 'tis eaſie to perceive that ἡγιάσμεθα muſt be repeated to compleat the ſenſe. i

Ibid. Ἐν ᾧ θελήματι, by the which Will.] Chriſt had ſaid in the Pſalmiſt that his Father would not have the Sacrifices, and Oblations of the Law continued, but that his Will was that he ſhould once for all ſuffer for the Sin of Man, by the Execution of which Will, perform'd by Chriſt's oblation of his Body for us, we are ſanctified: Where ἁγιάζειν, or ἁγιάζεσθαι, doth not ſignifie to be freed from the Power and Dominion of Sin, but from the guilt of it, as is proved, note on Chap. 9. 13. and this is farther proved from the means of this ſanctification, viz. the Oblation of Chriſt's Body, that being offered as a piacular Victim, to purge us from the guilt of Sin, and from the Condemnation due unto us for it; nor doth the Apoſtle here underſtand the Oblation of Chriſt's Body in the Heavens for us, that being properly his Interceſſion, but the Oblation of his Body on the Croſs, and his Sufferings, Heb. 2. 10, 11. and Chap. 13. 12. And laſtly, this being effected by the Oblation of Chriſt's Body, ἐφάπαξ, once for all, as it reſtrains the word to his Oblation on the Croſs, which was but once performed, and is paſt, whereas his appearance in the Heavens for us, is ſtill preſent and perpetual, ſo doth it perfectly overthrow the pretended Sacrifice of the Maſs; for if by this one Oblation he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified, what efficacy can there be in this vain Repetition of it? Nay, muſt it not import that Remiſſion of Sins is not fully obtained for us by our Lord's Sacrifice on the Croſs? For, ſaith the Apoſtle, where Remiſſion of theſe is, there is no more offering for Sin, v. 18. k

l Ver. 12. Εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς for ever.] By comparing this with v. 14. By one Offering he hath perfected, εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς for ever them that are sanctified, and with v. 1. where it is denied that the legal Sacrifices could, τελειῶσαι εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, expiate Sins for ever; and from the ſtreſs the Apoſtle here, v. 10. and elſewhere lays upon this προσφορᾷ ἐφάπαξ, Oblation once for all, I imagine that theſe words may be better rendred thus, This man after he had offered one Sacrifice for Sin for ever, is ſat down.

m Ver. 14. That τετελείωκεν εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, is to expiate Sin for ever, ſee note on v. 1. And that the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of them who are ſanctified by this Expiation, hath been obſerved, note on Chap. 9. 13. as is apparent from the Teſtimony of the Holy Ghoſt produced here to confirm this, viz. that God would remember their Sins no more, v. 17.

A Queſtion ariſeth from v. 4. and 11. upon what ground it is here aſſerted that the legal Sacrifices could never take away Sin? And wherein lies the Difference in point of Expiation between the Sacrifices of the Law, and the Oblation of the Body of Chriſt, that one could purge the Conſcience from the ſenſe of guilt, and take away Sin for ever, and the other could not? "If all muſt be reſolved into Divine Appointment, and "Divine Acceptation, how is it impoſſible "that the Blood of Bulls and Goats ſhould take "away Sin? Was it not poſſible that God "might have appointed, and accepted of "the Life of a Beaſt, inſtead of that of the "greateſt Malefactor, who thereby might "be freed, not only from a Temporal, but "likewiſe from the Obligation to eternal "Death? Now in Anſwer to this queſtion, I conceive that divine Acceptation muſt neither wholly be excluded, nor wholly be aſſigned as the Cauſe that the Oblation of our Saviour's Body was thus available for that Expiation of the guilt of Sin, which could not be obtained by the Legal Sacrifices.

And, firſt, I ſay, Divine Acceptation muſt not, yea cannot wholly be excluded, for that would render the Oblation of our Lord's Body, of what virtue ſoever it might be in it ſelf, wholly unable to procure the Pardon of our Sin, and exclude all true Remiſſion, and forgiveneſs of Sin. For,

1*ſt.* The Puniſhment of another, being not the thing threatned, or required, but only the Death of the Offender, can be of no avail to free the Criminal from Puniſhment, though he that is the ſubſtitute be never ſo able, or ſo well inclined to ſuffer it, unleſs the Governour, or he to whom the Execution of the Law belongs, be willing to accept of his Vicarious Puniſhment and whenſoever he is pleaſed, and ſees juſt cauſe to do ſo, it is an Act of Grace and Favour to the Criminal, and a Remiſſion of his Perſonal Obligation to bear the Puniſhment he had deſerved. In Puniſhments inflicted on the Criminal it is true, that ſo far as he Suffers what the Law exacts, ſo far doth he diſſolve the Obligation to farther Puniſhment, and ſo far muſt his Puniſhment be inconſiſtent with Remiſſion, for as far as any man is puniſhed, he is not forgiven. But by Admiſſion of another to ſuffer in our ſtead, we are as much forgiven as we could be, did he not ſuffer in our ſtead, becauſe we are as much exempted from ſuffering any Puniſhment on the Account of our Offences, and how can we be more forgiven than we are by ſuch an Act as removes from us the whole Puniſhment as much as if we never had offended? The Vicarious Puniſhment is indeed the motive, and the procuring cauſe of this forgiveneſs, as it renders it conſiſtent with the Governour's Honour and with the Ends of Government to grant it, but it takes off nothing from the Freedom of the Pardon.

Secondly, I add, That divine Acceptation muſt not be aſſigned as the only cauſe that the Oblation of our Saviour's Body was thus available for the Expiation of the guilt of Sin, for then no reaſon can be given why he might not have accepted of the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and much more of the Sufferings of any Ordinary man for the procuring our Exemption from the guilt of Sin, whereas two Reaſons have been already offered in the Note on Chap. 2. 14. why the Blood of Bulls and Goats could never take away Sin; viz. 1*ſt.* Becauſe they were not of the ſame Nature and Original with Man, who ſinned, and ſo could not diſſolve the debt his Nature had contracted. 2*ly.* They never could procure for us a Reſurrection, and ſo they could not free us from that eternal Death our Sins deſerved, nor could any mortal Man do it, becauſe he never could have power to raiſe his own Body, only that Jeſus who had power to lay down his Life and take it up again; who hath life in himſelf, and who can make the dead hear the Voice of the Son of Man, and Live, can do this. Indeed they could do nothing of that which was requiſite, ſaith this Epiſtle, and the whole Scripture, for that end. But the great reaſon why the Blood of Bulls and Goats could never take away Sins, is this, that they could never anſwer the great Ends of Puniſhment, and thereby render it conſiſtent with the Honour of the Governour, and with the Ends of Government to admit the ſubſtitution of them in our ſtead. Now the Ends which Wiſe Men do aſſign of Puniſhments are theſe.

1*ſt.* Παράδειγμα, That they who ſuffer may be exemplary to others, and may, by what they ſuffer, deter others from the Commiſſion of the like Offences, by letting them, in their Example, know what they muſt ſuffer when the the Guilt of their own Sins is laid upon them.

2*ly*, Νουθεσία, That the Offender may learn Wiſdom by the Rod, that the Remembrance of what was ſuffered for it might prevent the Repetition of his Sin, and that he may be fitted to embrace that counſel of our Saviour, Sin no more, leſt a worſe thing come upon thee.

3*ly*. Τιμωρία, The Vindication of the Princes Honour, and the Preſervation of the Laws he hath eſtabliſhed, from Contempt. Now to apply this to our Purpoſe, I ſay,

1. That by the Obedience of our Lord Chriſt unto the Death in our ſtead, theſe ends of Puniſhment are very ſignally obtained, and that with more advantage to God's Glory, than if the Puniſhment of our Offences had been inflicted upon us, and ſo God by it may be truly ſaid to have been ſatisfied, ſeeing that Juſtice, which conſiſts in Puniſhing for the Tranſgreſſion of a Law, is truly ſatisfied, when all thoſe Ends for which the Puniſhment of the Offender could be deſired, are obtained.

2. I add, that none of theſe Ends could be at all obtained by the ſuffering of Bulls and Goats, and not comparatively by the ſufferings of any mortal man whatſoever. And,

1*ſt*. God by this Diſpenſation hath given us the beſt, and moſt effectual Example to deter us from Sin. For three things only can be requiſite to this end, that the Puniſhment of Sin be inſupportable when we ſuffer it; inevitable when we by our Rebellions have made our ſelves the Veſſels of God's Wrath; and that we have a lively ſenſe, and deep impreſſion of all this upon our Spirits. Now,

The Example of our Saviour's Sufferings ſhews how inſupportable the Puniſhment will be which Juſtice will inflict upon the Sinner; for if the Apprehenſion of it produced ſuch Agonies, and Conſternations in the Soul of Chriſt, that God ſaw need to ſend an Angel to ſupport him under them, how muſt the Sinner ſink under that Burden when it is laid upon his Shoulders? If he who was the well-beloved Son of God found it ſo dreadful to lie under the Burden for ſome hours, to lie expoſed for ever to it, muſt be far more intolerable; If the Conſideration of God's paternal love, and of the glorious iſſues of his Sufferings, was ſcarce ſufficient to ſupport our Lord under the Terrours of that Cup, what will ſupport the Sinner when he ſhall know himſelf to be the everlaſting Object of God's Wrath?

This Example alſo ſhews, that Impenitent Sinners cannot eſcape this Wrath of God, ſince he inflicted ſo great a Puniſhment on the beloved of his Soul, when he became our ſurety. For if on this account God ſpared not his only Son, we may be ſure he will not ſpare his ſtubborn Enemies. With what ſtrong Cries, and with what Earneſtneſs did our Lord pray to be delivered from this Cup? And yet when he had made his Soul an Offering for Sin, thus did it pleaſe the Lord to bruiſe him. If then his Ears were ſhut againſt the Cries of his beloved Son, how can they be open to the howlings of Rebellious Sinners? If God was pleaſed to lay ſo great a load on him who was but Sponſor for our Sins, their Puniſhment cannot be milder who commit them. And, Laſtly, This Example gives us the moſt lively ſenſe, and deep impreſſion of theſe things, as being the moſt ſenſible Demonſtration of God's Indignation againſt Sin, which is recorded in the Sacred Writings. To find God drowning the whole World, and raining Fire and Brimſtone on Sodom and Gomorrah for Sin; to ſee the Darling Objects of his Love, the Jewiſh Nation, become for above 1700 Years the Objects of his ſoreſt Wrath, are Inſtances ſufficient to deter men from Sin: But then to ſee God mix a Cup ſo bitter, ſo full of Gall and Worm-wood, for his own Innocent and well beloved Son, and make him drink it off, only becauſe he undertook to be our ſurety; to ſee him lifted up upon the Croſs, the Earth trembling under him, as if unable to bear his Weight, the Heavens darkned over him, as if ſhut againſt his Cry, and all this becauſe our Sins did meet upon him, is ſure an Eminent Demonſtration of God's Indignation againſt Sin.

2*ly*. Whereas inevitable Ruine muſt have followed upon the Execution of the deſerved Puniſhment on the Offender's Perſon, God, by this method, hath taken a moſt excellent way for Reformation of the Sinner, which was the ſecond End of Puniſhment. For what can be a more effectual motive to abſtain from Sin than this Example, which ſo clearly repreſents the greatneſs of the Provocation, in the Greatneſs of the Puniſhment, and ſhews it is impoſſible that guilty Perſons ſhould avoid the ſtroke of God's Vindictive Juſtice, or bear the Weight of his Almighty Arm?

3*ly*. God by this Diſpenſation hath ſufficiently conſulted the Preſervation of his Honour, and ſecured the Reverence, and Obſervation of his Laws, which was the third great End of Puniſhment. For,

God, by declaring thus he would not pardon our Offences without this ſatisfaction made for the Violation of his Law, hath fully Vindicated his Inſtitutions from contempt, ſeeing by this Example he hath let all Men know, that though he be a God of great long-ſuffering and Mercy, he will by no means clear the Sinner, or ſuffer Sin to go unpuniſhed.

Again, God by this Diſpenſation hath Vindicated his Honour more than if he had deſtroyed the Sinner, having more evidently ſhewed his Hatred of, and great Diſpleaſure againſt Sin, by puniſhing it ſo ſeverely in his only Son, when he became our ſurety. For the greater is the inducement to remit the Puniſhment of Sin, the greater muſt be his hatred who inflicts it; that therefore this Conſideration, that he who ſuffered was his well-beloved Son, would not induce him to remit the Puniſhment, muſt be the higheſt Demonſtration of his moſt perfect hatred of all Iniquity.

But that none of theſe Ends could be at all obtained by the ſubſtitution of a Bull, or Goat, or Ram to ſuffer in our ſtead, muſt be extremely evident, this being a ſubſtitution very ſupportable, eſpecially by the Rich, who very freely ſpend much more upon the ſatisfaction of their Luſts, and who would therefore gladly buy a Freedom to commit them at ſo ſmall Expence. This then would be ſo far from tending to reform the Sinner, that it would rather be a great Encouragement to him to continue in his evil Courſes, when he thus knew the Damage could be very little to him; this alſo could not tend to the Honour of the Law-giver, but rather would tempt Men to conceive that his Diſpleaſure againſt Sin could not be great, ſince he required ſo little to repair his Honour, and that he was not much concerned for any ſatisfaction for the violations of his Law, when ſuch ſlight matters were by him thought ſufficient Expiations for them.

Moreover the Oblations of any Ordinary Man could not procure this Expiation for us; 1. Becauſe he only could ſuffer that Puniſhment he had deſerved by his own Sins: Now evident it is, no ſatisfaction can be made by me for others, by ſuffering that which Juſtice doth require me to ſuffer for my own Offences. 2. Becauſe he could not overcome Death, he never could raiſe up himſelf from the Grave, and ſo could not procure that Redemption from it to another, which he could not obtain for his own ſelf. Nor, 3. Is it viſible how he can ſerve the Ends of Juſtice, or of Government, by doing ſo, more than the Criminal himſelf would do by his own Sufferings. For, 1. What great Indication would it be of Divine Hatred to Sin, that he required only the Death of a Mortal Man to expiate the Sins of the whole World? Or, 2. What diſcouragement could this afford to Sinners from continuing in their evil Courſes, or what great dread of Divine Vengeance? For if, as 'twas conjectured by moſt Nations, the Death of a Malefactor might be ſufficient for this Purpoſe, what Nation could ever want ſuch Expiations for their Sins? Or, if it were to be a good Man, ſeeing they bore ſo great love to Mankind in general, and to their Country in Particular, ſome of them would ſtill be ready to offer their own lives for Preſervation of their Nation; or how by this would God conſult either the Honour of his Government, or ſecure the Reverence and Obſervation of his Laws, by thus requiring only one Criminal to ſuffer leſs than he himſelf deſerved, to make Atonement for the continual Violations of his Sacred Laws by a whole Nation, or even the whole Race of Men?

Ver. 18. Οὐκ ἔτι προσφορὰ, no more offering for Sin.] From theſe, and many other Paſſages of this Epiſtle the Sacrifice of the Maſs declared by the Trent Council, Seſſ. 22. Can. 2, 3. to be a true, and proper propitiatory Sacrifice for Sin, is utterly overthrown. For, 1. from theſe words of the Apoſtle, It was not needful that he ſhould offer himſelf often, for then muſt he have often ſuffered, Chap. 9. 24, 25, 26. it is very evident that Chriſt cannot offer himſelf, but he muſt ſuffer. Since then they dare not ſay that Chriſt ſuffers in the Maſs, neither can they ſay that Chriſt offers himſelf there. 2*ly*. From thoſe words, without ſhedding of Blood there is no Remiſſion, Chap. 9. 22. it follows, either that the Sacrifice of the Maſs muſt be a bloody Sacrifice, and ſo Chriſt's Blood muſt be as often ſhed, as he is offer'd in the Maſs, or elſe that it obtaineth no Remiſſion of Sin. 3*ly*. This follows from thoſe Words, By one oblation he hath perfected [i. e. hath perfectly and fully expiated, and that] for ever, them that are ſanctified; for what neceſſity of, what virtue can there be in doing that again which is perfectly, and fully done already, and that for ever? And laſtly, where Remiſſion of Sins is ſo obtained by Chriſt's one oblation, that God will remember them no more, there is, ſaith the Apoſtle, no more need of Offering for Sin; but by the Blood of Chriſt, the Blood of the New Teſtament, ſuch Remiſſion is obtained, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, v. 15, 17. Ergo; n from the Faith after they have been enlightned, &c. which plainly answers to these words here, they who Sin wilfully after they have received the knowledge of the Truth; they are there said to crucifie afresh the Lord of Life, and to put him to an open shame; yea to fall away after they have tasted of the heavenly Gift, and have been made partakers of the Holy Ghost, which also answers to the Trampling under foot the Son of God, and the doing despight to the Spirit of Grace. 2. From the Instances produced out of the Old Testament; for the Argument used, v. 28. from the Comparison of him who despised Moses's Law, and therefore was to die without mercy, under the hand of two or three Witnesses, Deut. 17. 6. plainly concerns them only who Transgress'd God's Covenant, by going, and serving other Gods, v. 2, 3. And as for those who sinned voluntarily, or with an High Hand under the Law, and so were to be cut off, and have no Sacrifice allow'd to expiate their Sin, Numb. 15. 30, 31. they were such as blaspbemed, or reproached the Lord, i. e. revolted from him, and would not own him as their Governour; they despised the word of the Lord, they made the Covenant given in Sinai void, by contemning the Authority by which it was enjoined; as the Hebrew signifies, and so they were indeed Apostates from God. 3. From the preceding Exhortation, v. 25. not to fall off from the Assemblies of Christians, and the following, not to cast away their Confidence, v. 35. not to draw back from the Faith, v. 38. it being better not to have known the way of Righteousness, than having known it to depart from the holy Commandment delivered to them, 2 Pet. 2. 21. And lastly from the Expressions used, v. 29. which can agree to none besides Apostates from the Christian Faith, for to tread the Son of God under foot, must surely signifie the extremest contempt that can be cast upon him; to count the blood of the Covenant, by which we are purified, it self, κοινὸν, unclean, and polluting, can be only done by him who looks on Christ, not as the Saviour of the World by it, but as one who deserved to suffer what from the Jews he did: And to do despight to the Spirit of Grace, cannot well signifie less than that which our Lord stiles the Sin against the Holy Ghost, which Men cannot commit, and in their hearts continue Christians.

u Ver. 29. Ἐν ᾧ ἡγιάσθη, by which he was sanctified.] That this refers not to Christ sanctifying himself, or offering himself as a piacular Victim for us, John 17. 19. but to him who counted this blood an unholy thing, seems clear, 1. From the constant usage of this Phrase in this Epistle, where he that is sanctified is he that is purged from the guilt of Sin, Ch. 2. 11. and in this very Chapter, where it is said, v. 10. that we are ἡγιασμένοι sanctified by the oblation of the Body [or the Blood] of Christ, and v. 14. that by one oblation he hath perfected for ever, τοὺς ἁγιαζομένους, them that are sanctified. 2*dly*. From the Phrase, the Blood of the [New] Covenant; i.e. of that Covenant in which God promises to be merciful to our Iniquities, and remember our Sins no more, Chap. 8. 12. 10. 17. 3*dly*. Because though Christ is said to sanctify himself, yet is he never said to be sanctified, but only ἁγιάζειν τὸν λαὸν, to sanctify the People by his own Blood, Ch. 13. 12.

Ver. 30. Saith the Lord, λέγει Κύριος.] x These words are not to be found in many Manuscripts; they are not in the Vulgar, Syriack or Æthiopick Version; not in the Original, or in the Septuagint, and therefore seem to have crept in here from Rom. 12. 19. where instead of οἴδαμεν γὰρ τὸν εἰπόντα, we know him that speaketh, we find γέγραπται γάρ, for it is written; which reading Chrysostom here hath, and without these words the sense runs better.

Ibid. And again.] Not Psalm 135. 14. y the words there being taken from Deut. 32. 36. but in the same place, or in the following Verse. So Chap. 2. 13. I will put my trust in him, Isa. 8. 17. πάλιν, And again, v. 18. Behold I, and the Children which God hath given me.

Ver. 34. Τοῖς δεσμοῖς μου, my bonds.] z Were this certainly the true Reading, it would fairly prove St. Paul the Author of this Epistle, but the other Reading τοῖς δεσμίοις συνεπαθήσατε, you had compassion of them that were bound, is more likely to be the true Reading; for so reads the Alexandrian, and two other Manuscripts, the Syriack, the Vulgar Latin, and St. Chrysostom.

Ver. 36. Τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν, the Promise.] aa That is primarily the Recompence of Reward mentioned, v. 35. So Chap. 11. 39. ἐπαγγελία, the Promise is the same with the Recompence of Reward, v. 26. the things not seen but hoped for, which are the Objects of our Faith, v. 1. But then this Epistle being directed to the believing Jews, who had both from their Prophets, and from our Lord, a Promise, that in the great and terrible Day of the Lord, whosoever should call upon the name of the Lord should be saved, Joel 2. 32. and that the εὐαγγελιζόμενοι ὃς Κύριος προσκέκληται, i. e. they whom the Lord had called by his Gospel should be delivered, Ibid. That when the day was to come that burned like an Oven, then was the Sun of Righteousness to rise on them that feared him, with healing on his Wings, Mal. 4. 1, 2. that he who endured to the End shall be saved, Matth. 24. 13. and to whom it was said, Hab. 2. 3, 4. The Vision is, עוֹד לַמּוֹעֵד yet for a time then, now for a very litle time ὑπόμεινον αὐτὸν, with Patience wait for him [the Messiah, say the Jews.]

for he that cometh will come, and will not tarry. Wait for him, ſay the (b) Jews לקבל שכר, to receive your Reward: Chriſt alſo having taught them by a Parable, that God would come, ἐν τάχει, ſpeedily to avenge his Elect, who cried unto him, under Perſecutions, Day and Night, Luke 18. I believe that the receiving this Promiſe verified to them, which tended ſo exceedingly to confirm their Faith, might be here intended, eſpecially if we conſider that the Apoſtle could not properly affirm of our Lord's coming to Judgment, that it was μικρὸν ὅσον ὅσον a very very little while, and he would come, and would not tarry.

bb Ver. 37. ὁ ἐρχόμενος.] This is the Peculiar title given to the Meſſiah by the Jews, as we learn from the Baptiſt's Queſtion to him, σὺ εἶ ὁ ἐρχόμενος; Art thou he that ſhould come, or look we for another? Matth. 11. 3. and from the Hoſannas of the Jews, ſung to him in theſe words, bleſſed be ὁ ἐρχόμενος, he that cometh in the name of the Name of the Lord, Matth. 21, 9. And the Jews do not only interpret this Paſſage of him, but alſo encourage themſelves to wait for him, by this very Argument of the Apoſtle, שכר לקבל, That they may receive their Reward; for (i) Bleſſed, ſay they, are all that hope in him, Iſa. 30. 18.

c Ver. 38. ὑποστείληται if any man draw back.] The Reverend Dr. Hammond hath ſhewed from Phavorinus, and from Acts 20. 20, 21. Gal. 2. 12. that this word ſignifies to draw back, refuſe, and fly from a thing; and ſo the Object of it being here Faith, muſt ſignify his flying from, and drawing back from the Faith, or refuſing ſtill to profeſs it; and ſo, as it follows, muſt be his Drawing back unto Perdition; and becauſe this is done uſually from fear of Perſecutions, hence is it joined with fear, Gal. 2. 12. Peter ὑπέστελλεν ἑαυτὸν, withdrew himſelf, fearing the Circumciſion; and ſometimes is put to ſignifie fear; ſo Deut. 1. 17. μὴ ὑποστείλῃ πρόσωπον ἀνθρώπου, you ſhall not be afraid of the face of Man; and becauſe Men's cowardly Fears make them to hide, Diſſemble, and play the Hypocrite, hence is it reckoned by (k) Julius Pollux, among the words which ſignifie to conceal, and hide, and by Heſychius, and Suidas is rendred, ὑποκρίνεται, δολιεύεται, he plays the Hypocrite, and deals deceitfully; all which, in things which do reſpect our God, and our Religion, are pernicious to the Soul, eſpecially if we conſider, that he that draws back, ſtands oppoſed v. 39. to him that believeth, and therefore is an Unbeliever; and v. 38. to him that liveth by his Faith, and therefore can have none, or only a dead Faith: And laſtly, that God here ſolemnly declares, his Soul ſhall have no pleaſure in him, and then he muſt ſtill lie under his ſad Diſpleaſure.

Note, 2*dly*, That ἐὰν ὑποστείληται, refers plainly to the Juſt Man, the Man who lives by his Faith; and in the Prophet, to him that is with Faith and Patience to wait for the Accompliſhment of the Viſion; and v. 39. the ὑποστειλάμενος, the Drawer back, ſtands oppoſed to him that believeth to the Salvation of his Soul. The words do therefore plainly ſuppoſe that the Juſt Man who liveth by that Faith, in which, if he perſiſted, he would ſave his Soul, may draw back unto Perdition. And this is alſo evident from the enſuing words, my Soul ſhall take no Pleaſure in him; for they do plainly intimate, that God took Pleaſure in him before his Drawing back, for otherwiſe this Threat would ſignifie nothing, the Lord taking Pleaſure in no Man but in Juſt Men only, and ſuch as live by Faith.

Note 3*dly*. That ἐὰν may be rendred not Hypothetically, and if, but cum vero ſemet ſubſtraxerit, but when he ſhall draw back, which I have ſhewn to be the common Import of the Greek ἐὰν, Note on Chap. 3. 15. But if we read them Hypothetically, the ſuppoſition cannot be of a Thing impoſſible, for then God muſt be ſuppoſed to ſpeak thus, If the Juſt Man do that which I know is impoſſible for him to do, and which I am obliged by Promiſe to preſerve him from doing, my Soul ſhall have no pleaſure in him; which is to make God ſeriouſly to threaten Men for ſuch a Sin, of which they are not capable, and of which they are engaged to believe they are not capable, if they believe the Doctrine of Perſeverance, and ſo to threaten them to none Effect.

CHAP. XI.

Verſe 1. NOW [the] Faith [by which the Juſt Man lives, Chap. 10. 38.] is the [a] Subſtance [or the firm Expectation] of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen, [i. e. by which we are confirmed in the truth of them.]

2. For by it the Elders, [i. e. the Fathers before, and ſince the Flood,] obtained a good Report, [or Teſtimony from God, left on Record in Holy Scriptures.]

3. Through [that] Faith [which is the evidence of things not ſeen] we underſtand that the Worlds, [the lower, middle, and ſuperior Worlds; See Note on Chap. 1. 2.] were framed [b] by the Word of God, ſo that [the] things [of it] which are ſeen were not made of things which do [did then] appear, [but ἐκ τῶν ἀοράτων, of things not then viſible, Gen. 1. 2.]

4. By Faith Abel offered to God [c] a more excellent Sacrifice than [that of] Cain, by which [Faith] he obtained witneſs, [i. e. a Teſtimony from God,] that he was Righteous [or accepted by him,] [d] God teſtifying [his acceptance] of his Gifts, and by it he being dead yet ſpeaketh, [i. e. declareth by this Faith that God is a Rewarder of the Righteous, though they die.]

5. By [virtue of this] Faith, [that God would reward thoſe that ſerve him, though in this World he might not do it,] Enoch was tranſlated that he ſhould not ſee Death, and [e] was not found [on Earth,] becauſe God had tranſlated him [from it;] for before his Tranſlation, he had this Teſtimony [from God, Gen. 5. 22, 24.] that he pleaſed God.

6. [f] But without [this] Faith it is impoſſible to pleaſe him, for he that cometh to God [in way of Duty,] muſt believe that he is, and that he is a Rewarder of them that diligently ſeek [to pleaſe] him. [To believe that he is, relates to that Faith which is the Evidence of things not ſeen, for God is inviſible; to believe that he is a Rewarder, to that Faith, which is the Expectation of things hoped for.]

7. By Faith Noah being warned by God of things not ſeen as yet, [i. e. of a future Deluge,] moved with fear [of what God threatned,] prepared an Ark to the ſaving of his Houſe [from that Deluge,] by the which he condemned the [Old] World, [which would not believe his Prediction of this Deluge,] and became [g] Heir of the Righteouſneſs which is by Faith.

8. By Faith [in God's Promiſe] Abraham, when he was called to go out into a Place which he ſhould after receive for an Inheritance, obeyed, and he went out, not knowing whether he went, [no not ſo much as what the Land of Promiſe was, God's firſt Command unto him being only this, get thee into a Land which I ſhall tell thee of, Gen. 12. 1.]

9. By Faith, [Gen. 12. 7, 13, 15.] he ſojourned in the Land of Promiſe, as in a ſtrange Country, dwelling in Tabernacles with Iſaac and Jacob, the Heirs with him of the ſame Promiſe, [it being renewed to Iſaac, Gen. 26. 3. and to Jacob, Gen. 28. 13.]

10. [h] [For God having ſaid unto him, I am thy Shield, and thy Reward ſhall be exceeding great, Gen. 15. 1.] he looked for a City which hath Foundations, [an heavenly one, v. 16. which cannot be ſhaken, Heb. 12. 28.] whoſe builder and maker is God; [it being not a building made with hands, as thoſe on Earth, but eternal in the Heavens, 2 Cor. 5. 1. Heb. 9. 11.]

11. By Faith alſo Sarah her ſelf, [who at firſt believed not, Gen. 18. 12. after that the Lord had renewed the Promiſe to her, ſaying, At the time appointed I will return unto thee, according to the time of Life, and Sarah ſhall have a Son, v. 14.] received ſtrength to conceive Seed, and was delivered of a Child, when ſhe was paſt [the ordinary] Age [of bearing Children,] becauſe ſhe judged him faithful who had promiſed.

12. Therefore ſprang there even of one, and him as good as dead, [his Body being dead, and the Womb of Sarah dead, as to the Procreation of Children, Rom. 4. 19.] ſo many as the Stars of the Sky in multitude, and as the Sand which is by the Sea ſhore innumerable, [according to God's Promiſe, Gen. 15. 5. 22. 17.]

13. Theſe all [forementioned that died, or all theſe Patriarchs] died in Faith, not having received the [i] Promiſes, but having ſeen them afar off, and were perſuaded of them, and embraced them [as certain,] and confeſſed that they [themſelves] were [only] Strangers and Pilgrims on the Earth.

14. [I ſay, they died in Faith, or in firm Expectation, not only of theſe Temporal, but of Spiritual, and Heavenly Promiſes:] For they that ſay ſuch things, [viz. that they even in the Land of Promiſe, are Pilgrims, and Strangers,] declare plainly, that they ſeek a Country, [where they may reſt, and dwell, when this their Pilgrimage on earth is ended.]

15. And truly, if they had been [only] mindful of that Country from whence they came out, they might have had opportunity to have returned [to it, i. e. from Canaan and Egypt, to Ur of the Chaldeans.]

16. But

16. But now [by this professing themselves Strangers and Pilgrims upon Earth, they declare that] they [k] desire a better Country, that is, [not one on Earth, where they profess they are but Strangers, but] an Heavenly; wherefore [the] [l] God [of Heaven] is not ashamed to be called their God, [and to own them as his Sons, and Children,] for he hath prepared for them a[n heavenly] City.

17. By Faith, [in God's Power, v. 19.] Abraham, when he was tried, [m] offered up Isaac, [laying him upon the Wood, which was on the Altar, Gen. 22. 9.] and he that had received the Promises, [of a numerous Seed to issue from him,] offered up his only begotten Son.

18. [Even him] of whom it was said [by God,] that in Isaac shall thy Seed be called.

19. Accounting that God was able to raise him up even from the Dead, from whence also he received him in a figure, [i. e. from his own dead body, and the dead Womb of Sarah, Rom. 4. 19.]

20. By Faith, [or a firm expectation that God would make good his Benediction,] Isaac [n] blessed Jacob and Esau, concerning things to come [Gen. 27.]

21. By [the like] Faith, Jacob when he was dying blessed both the Sons of Joseph, [•] and worshipped [God, leaning] upon the top of his Staff, [by which he was supported from falling.]

22. By Faith, Joseph, when he died, made mention of the departing of the Children of Israel, [out of Egypt, saying, God will surely visit you, and bring you out of this Land, Gen. 50. 24.] and gave Commandment concerning his bones [that they should be carried with them when they returned to Canaan, v. 25. which was an evidence of his Faith in the Promise of God.]

23. By [the] Faith, [of his Parents, that God would send them a Deliverer,] Moses, when he was born, was hid three Months of his Parents, [p] because they saw he was a proper [Gr. comely] Child, [and therefore hoped he might be that Deliverer God had promised,] and [therefore] they were not [so] afraid of the King's Commandment, [as to deliver him up to be slain.]

24. [q] By Faith, [in God's Promise of a Deliverance out of Egypt,] Moses, when he was come to years [of Discretion,] refused to be called the Son of Pharaoh's Daughter.

25. Chusing rather, [by his owning himself to be one of them,] to suffer Affliction with the People of God, than to enjoy [in Pharaoh's Court] the pleasures of Sin for a season.

26. Esteeming the [r] reproach of Christ greater Riches than the Treasures of Egypt, for he had respect unto the [s] Recompence of the Reward.

27. By Faith he forsook Egypt, [t] not fearing the wrath of the King, [when he pursued after him, Exod. 14. 13.] for he endured as seeing him [present with them] who is invisible, [and therefore said unto the People, v. 30. Fear ye not, stand still, and see the Salvation of God, Exod. 14. 14.]

28. Through Faith [in God's Promise, that upon seeing the blood of the Paschal Lamb upon the upper Door-Posts, and the two Side-Posts of the Houses of the Israelites, he would pass over them, when he slew the first-born of the Egyptians, Exod. 12. 13, 23.] he kept the Passover, and [observed] the sprinkling of [the] blood [of it, and this he did] lest he that destroyed the first-born, [See Note on 1 Cor. 10. 10.] should touch them.

29. By Faith, they passed [u] through the Red-Sea, as by dry Land, which the Egyptians assaying to do, were drowned.

30. By Faith, [in God's Promise, Josh. 6. 5.] the Walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.

31. [x] By Faith, the Harlot Rahab perished not with them that believed not, (which Faith she testified] when she had received the Spies with Peace.

32. And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me [should I proceed] to tell of Gideon, [who through Faith overthrew the Midianites, Judges 7.] and of Barak, [who slew the Canaanites, Judges 4.] and of Sampson, [who vexed the Philistines,] and of Jephtha, [who slew the Ammonites, Judges 11. and] of David also, and Samuel, and of the Prophets.

33. Who through Faith subdued Kingdoms, [as Joshua, and David did,] wrought Righteousness, [as Abraham, Gen. 15. 6. Phineas, Psal. 106. 30. or turned the People from Idolatry into the way of Righteousness, as Samuel, 1 Sam. 12. Elijah, 1 Kings 18. 39.] obtained Promises, [as Abraham, and David,] stopped the mouths of Lions, [as Daniel.]

34. Quenched the violence of fire, [as the three Children, Dan. 3. 17.] escaped the edge of the Sword, [as David the Sword of Goliah, 1 Sam. 17. 46, 47. and of Saul; the Jews the Sword of Haman, Esth. 4. 14. Elijah the Sword of Ahaziah, 2 Kings 1. 15.] out of weakness were made strong, [as Gideon with his Three hundred Men, Judges 7. 15. Sampson, Judges 16. 28. Jehoshaphat, 2 Chron. 20. 12. Jonathan, 1 Sam. 14. 12. Job and Hezekiah, 2 Kings 19.] waxed valiant in fight, [Joshuah, Gideon, David,] turned to flight the Armies of the Aliens, [the Maccabees.]

35. Women received their dead raised to life again, [the Widow of Zarephath, 1 Kings 17. 20. the Shunamite, 2 Kings 4. 36.] and others were tortured, [Eleazer, 2 Mac. 6. 28.] not accepting a deliverance, [v. 26. 30.] that they might obtain a better Resurrection, [2 Mac. 7. 9, 11, 14, 23, 29, 36.]

35. And

36. And others had tryal of cruel Mockings, [2 Maccab. 7. 7, 10.] and Scourgings, [μαςιγέμενοι, Joſ. 12. 7. 2 Maccab. 6. 30. 7. 1, 37.] yea, moreover, of Bonds and Impriſonments, [as Joſeph, Sampſon, Jeremiah.]

37. They were ſtoned, [as Zachariah, 2 Chron. 24. 21.] they were ſawn aſunder, [σώματα λυμαινόμενοι, Joſ. ibid. Iſaiah by Manaſſeh, ſee Buxt. Lex. p. 1360.] [y] were tempted, [or ἐπυρώθησαν, they were ſcorched, and fryed, 2 Maccab. 7. 5.] were ſlain with the Sword, [1 Maccab. 2. 38.] they wandred about in Sheeps Skins and Goats Skins, [Elijah, 1 Kings 19. 13, 19. 2 Kings 2. 8, 14.] being deſtitute, [as Elijah when fed by Crows, 1 Kings 17. 4.] afflicted, tormented, [Gr. evilly intreated, 1 Kings 19. 10.]

38. [And though they were Men] of whom the World was not worthy, [yet] they wandred in deſerts, [1 Maccab. 2. 29.] and in Mountains, [v. 28.) and in Dens and Caves of the Earth, [2 Maccab. 6. 11.]

39. And theſe all having obtained a good report through Faith, [μαρτυρηθέντες, having obtained a Teſtimony from God, or from his Word, that they pleaſed him through Faith, notwithſtanding] [z] received not the Promiſe [of an heavenly Country, v. 13. 16. not the recompence of Reward, v. 26. not the better Reſurrection, v. 35.]

40. God having provided [Gr. foreſeen] [aa] ſome better thing for us, [and ſo deferring the Completion of that Promiſe, till we alſo ſhould be made Partakers of it,] that [ſo] they, without us, ſhould not be made perfect.

Annotations on Chapter XI.

a Verſe 1. Ὑπόστασις τῆ̃ ἐλπιζομένων.] The word ὑπόστασις in the Old Teſtament anſwers either to the Hebrew תקוה which ſignifies Expectation, as Ruth, 1. 12. ἔϛι μοι ὑπόστασις; have I any Expectation of an Husband? Ezek. 19. 5. ἀπώλετο ὑπόστασις αὐτῆς her Expectation was loſt; or to the word תוחלת which is of the ſame import, as Pſal. 39. 7. ἡ ὑπόστασις μου παρὰ σοί ἐϛι, my Expectation is from thee, Pſal. 89. 47. It alſo bears the ſame ſenſe in the New Teſtament, ſignifying there a confidence of Expectation, as 2 Cor. 9. 4. leſt we ſhould be aſhamed, ἐν τῆ ὑποϛάσει ταύτη τ῀ καυχήσεως, in this confidence of boaſting: and Chap. 11. 17. That which I ſpeak, I ſpeak not after the Lord, but as it were fooliſhly, ἐν τῆ ὑποϛάσει ταύτη τ῀ καυχήσεως, in this confidence of boaſting: And in this Epiſtle Chap. 3. 14. we are made Partakers of Chriſt, if we hold, τὴν ἀρχὴν τ῀ ὑποϛάσεως, the beginning of our confidence firm to the end. And this import of the word accords beſt with the inſtances of this Faith that follow, they being ſuch as generally conſiſted in the Expectation of ſome future good, which, ſaith the Apoſtle, they have not yet received completely, v. 39. Hence is it that I render the words thus, Faith is the Confidence, or firm expectation, of things hoped for.

b Ver. 3. Ῥήματι θεοῦ, by the word of God.] That is, as the comparing this with Chap. 1. 3. ſhews, by the word of the Divine λόγῳ. So Philo ſpeaking of the Framing of the Heaven and Earth, ſaith, τῷ γὰρ περιφανεϛάτῳ καὶ τηλαυγεϛάτῳ ἑαυτοῦ λόγῳ ῥήματι ὁ θεὸς ἀμφότερα ποιεῖ, God made them both by his moſt illuſtrious and ſplendid Logos, with a Word. Leg. Alleg. l. 1. p. 33. G. And of Moſes he ſaith, that dying he did not, ἐκλείπειν, ceaſe to be, nor was he gathered to the moſt, as others, ἀλλὰ διὰ ῥήματος τοῦ αἰτίου μετανίσταται δι' ὃν καὶ ὁ σύμπας κόσμος ἐδημιουργεῖτο, but he was tranſlated by the Word, or command of that Cauſe, by which the whole World was made, l. de Sacrif. Abel & Cain, p. 102. C. Now whether this ῥῆμα be the word of the Father ſpeaking to the Son, or Logos, or the word of the λόγῳ, ſaying, let them be made, and they were made, it is hence evident, that this Logos muſt be a Perſon, and not an Attribute. See the Note on Heb. 1. 3.

Ver. 4. πλείονα θυσίαν, a more excellent Sacrifice.] Philo in his Diſcourſe on this Subject [De Sacr. Cain & Abel, p. 107.] makes the Defect of Cain's Sacrifice to conſiſt in two things; 1*ſt*. That he did not offer it ſoon enough, but μεθ' ἡμέρας, after certain days. 2*dly*. That he did not offer of the firſt Fruits of the Earth, as did Abel of the firſt Fruits of his Sheep, but only of the Fruits; but there is no ground for either of theſe things in the Text, which ſeems to intimate that they both offered at the ſame time; nor doth it ſay that Cain offered not of the firſt Fruits of the Earth; the Apoſtle here plainly diſcovers that the thing which gave the preference to Abel's Sacrifice above that of Cain's, was his Faith, (viz.) that Faith which is the ſubſtance of things hoped for, or his Expectation, or Perſuaſion, that God would certainly reward thoſe who diligently endeavour to pleaſe him in this, or in the other World. Accordingly the Targum of Jeruſalem, and Jonathan B. Uziel upon the place declare, That Cain denied that there would be any future Judgment, or Rewards hereafter to the Juſt, and that Abel did maintain the contrary, that there ſhould be a future Recompence for the Righteous: And this he, being dead, yet Preaches by his Faith; for this Faith which God ſo ſignally approved of, and confirmed with ſo great a Teſtimony, mony, he will not suffer to go unrewarded, as he must do in one so quickly slain, because God thus preferred his Sacrifice before his Brother's, if he did not reward him in the other World. And therefore Philo says, that seeming to die as to this Corruptible Life, ζῇ ἀφθαρτον, καὶ τὴν ἐν θεῷ ζωὴν εὐδαίμονα, he lived the incorruptible and blessed Life in God. l. quod Deter. &c. p. 127. C. D. To say, as do the Fathers, he yet speaketh, because he is still celebrated in the World, is to say nothing proper to Abel, that being also true of all the other Patriarchs; and to refer this to the cry of his blood for Vengeance, is to refer to that which seemeth not to be the Commendation of his Faith, by which the Apostle here declares he speaketh.

d Ibid. μαρτυροῦντος, God testified upon his Gifts.] That is, saith Theodotion, ἐνέπρησε, he caused Fire to descend from Heaven, and consume his Sacrifice, and thereby testified his Acceptance of it; so he discovered his Acceptance of the Sacrifice of Abraham, Gen. 15. 17. and of the Sacrifices of Aaron, Lev. 9. 24. of Gideon, Judges 6. 21. of David, 1 Chron. 21. 26. of Solomon, 2 Chron. 7. 1. and of Elijah, 1 Kings 18. 38. And accordingly the Prayer of the Israelites for their King runs thus, The Lord remember all thy Offerings, and turn to Ashes thy burnt Sacrifice, Psal. 20. 3. To this agrees the Interpretation of R. Solomon, and Aben Ezra, among the Jews, of Occumenius and Theophylact on the Place: And (a) St. Jerom confirms it by this inquiry, Whence could Cain know that God accepted the Sacrifice of Abel, and rejected his, if the Interpretation of Theodotion was not true?

e Ver. 5. οὐχ εὑρίσκετο, was not found on Earth, because God had translated him.] God killed him not, saith Onkelos: And this we may sufficiently learn from the Story, Gen. 5. for of all the rest mentioned in that Chapter, it is said, they died; but of him this is not said, but only that he was not, because God took him, ὅτι μετέθηκεν αὐτὸν ὁ θεὸς, because God translated him, saith the Septuagint, the Book of Wisdom, and the Son of Syrach, Wisd. 4. 10. Eccles. 44. 14. Moreover it is said of Noah, and of Abraham, that they walked with God, Gen. 6. 9. 17. 1. but it is not said that they were not, because God took them; this Phrase must therefore import something which hapned not to them: Many of the Hebrew Doctors say, that he was taken into Heaven, or into Paradise: He was taken into Heaven by the Word of the Lord, saith the Targum of Jonathan; He was translated into Paradise, say the Arabick, and Æthiopick Versions; God shewed him the Tree of Life, say R. Menechem and Zoar in 2 Kings 2. 1. He translated him into Paradise, say Kimchi, and (b) Manasseh Ben Israel. Hence Munster on the Place speaks thus, Asserunt nostri hunc Enoch cum corpore & anima translatum esse in Paradisum. To be translated, saith (c) Philo, is μετοικίζειν σπεύδεσθαι τὸν ἀπὸ θνητῆς εἰς περὶς τὸ ἀθάνατον, to go from this mortal to immortal life. The same was the Opinion of the Ancient Fathers, of (d) Irenæus, and of (e) Pseudo-Justin, who saith, That they who rose with Christ, are with Enoch and Elias, ἐν τῷ παραδείσῳ, in Paradise. See others cited for this Opinion by Feuardentius upon Irenæus. Note, lastly, that this Translation into Paradise was the Fruit of his Faith, that Faith which was the Expectation of things hoped for, and that God would reward his Diligence in seeking him; for since he by this Faith obtained this Testimony, that he pleased God, God could not take him hence in Displeasure, but out of Favour to him.

Ver. 6. In this sixth Verse we have the Heathens Creed, That God is, and that he is the Rewarder of them that diligently seek him, without which the Apostle declares, 1*st*. That it was impossible for them to please God, and so God must either have laid upon them no Obligations to please him, or required what he knew to be impossible, or given them sufficient means to know this. 2*dly*. That they could have no sufficient motives to serve him, or to come unto him in expectation of his Blessing upon them that did so, and therefore the Heathens embraced this as a Principle of Natural Religion, That God could not suffer it to go ill with good Men, either in life, or Death, but would be sure to take care of, and provide good things for them. Thus (f) Socrates requests his Judges to receive this as a certain truth, That a good Man living or dying, can be subject to no evil, because the Gods never neglect his Affairs; and this is commended by by (g) Cicero, and by (h) Jamblichus, as the great Principle which Philosophy suggests, as an Encouragement to Vertue. That if we believe that nothing is concealed from God, we must believe that which happens to the Friend of God, happens for the best, and that what seeming evils happen to him, will do him good, in this, or in the other Life. For he can never be neglected by the Gods, who is desirous to be a vertuous, and good Man, and as like to God as he is able; but περὶ τῆς ἀδικίας τοὐναντίον τούτων δεῖ διανοεῖσθαι, νοεῖσθαι, of the wicked and unjust Man we are to believe just the contrary. And this again (i) Jamblichus delivers as a great Principle of Philosophy, That if we believe there is a God, who is Lord of all things, we must own that whatsoever is good and honest must be asked of him, for all Men give good things to them they love and rejoice in, and the contrary to them to whom they are Disaffected, and therefore much more will the Gods do so. Another Principle also founded in the Nature of Man, and laid down by them as the foundation of all Religion, was this, That if Piety were not advantageous to them, no Man would embrace it, it being natural to all Men to pursue their Advantage, and to decline the Contrary. So (k) Arrian, upon Epictetus, lays down this for an Axiom, That if Piety and Profit did not go together, Piety would be preserved in none; the reason is, because nothing is so natural to us as to affect, and pursue our own Advantage, so that if you place what is Holy and Just in that which profits, you preserve them; but (l) if you separate what is honest from what is advantageous, you destroy what is just and honest, as being weighed down by profit. (m) Simplicius adds, That where is Profit there we place our Piety; and thence infers, That we cannot love, honour, worship the Deity, whatsoever Reasons may be alledged for so doing, if we conceive him hurtful, and not profitable to us, because every living Creature flies what is hurtful, and the causes of them, and affects and follows what is profitable: And this they learned from their Master (n) Epictetus, who lays the foundation of all Religion upon this Principle, That where Profit is there is Piety.

g Ver. 7. Κληρονόμος, &c. Heir of the Righteousness.] i. e. Of the happiness promised to them who are justified by Faith, or to Persons who by Faith had an Hereditary right to it, viz. not only to the Temporal Salvation the Ark afforded, but to that Spiritual, and Cœlestial, which the Ark Typified, 1 Pet. 3. 20, 21. For being justified through Faith, we are made Heirs through Hope of Eternal Life, Tit. 3. 7. Heirs of Salvation, Heb. 1. 14. Heirs of the Kingdom, James 2. 5. See Note on Gal. 3. 29. and on Hebr. 1. 14.

h Ver. 10. Thy exceeding great Reward.] Thus the Jerusalem Targum and that of Jonathan interpret this Phrase, Fear not, the Reward of thy Works shall be great in the World to come. So ought we, saith Theophylact, to look to things above, and make no great account of those on Earth.

i Ver. 13. Τὰς ἐπαγγελίας, the Promises.] Here note, That these words, καὶ πεισθέντες, and were persuaded, are neither to be found in the Ancient Version, nor the Greek Commentators. 2. That the Promises here mentioned as not received by these Patriarchs, cannot be Temporal Promises, for ὅτοι πάντες, all these, as it cannot be referred to the whole Jewish Off-spring, since many of them, as the Apostle hath observed, Chap. 3. 18, 19. Chap. 4. 2, 6, 11. died in unbelief, so neither to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob only; for, 1*st*. They are not all that died in Faith; and, 2*dly*. The same is said of all in general, v. 39. Ἔτοι πάντες, these all died in Faith, not having received the Promise. Now we find no Temporal Promise made to Abel, and to Enoch, and that Temporal Promise which God made to Noah, he fulfilled. 2. The Text saith, They embraced them, confessing they were Strangers, and Pilgrims upon Earth; whence the Apostle makes this Inference, That they sought another Country, that is an Heavenly, which makes it necessary to conceive that the Promises here mentioned, as not received, were, as Oecumenius saith, τὰ ἐπουράνια, Heavenly Promises, τὰ περὶ τῆς βασιλείας τῶν οὐρανῶν, καὶ τῆς ἀναστάσεως, the Promise of the Kingdom of Heaven and the Resurrection, saith Theophylact. Thus (o) Philo saith, Οἱ κατὰ Μωσῆν σοφοὶ πάντες εἰσάγονται παροικοῦντες, all the Wise Men are introduced by Moses as Strangers, their Souls coming from Heaven to travel here on Earth, and that they desire to return thither; πατρίδα μὲν ὁ οὐράνιον χῶρον εἰς ὃν πολιτεύονται, ξένον δὲ τὸ περίγειον ἐν ᾧ παροικήσαι νομίζουσι, looking upon Heaven as the City where they dwell, and the Earth in which they travel, as their Place of Pilgrimage. And again, Πᾶσα μὲν ψυχὴ σοφοῦ πατρίδα μὲν ἔρανον, γῆν δὲ ξένην ἔλαχε, the Soul of every Wise Man looks on Heaven as his Country, the Earth as the Place of his Pilgrimage. De Agric. p. 153. So did Abraham, saying, I am a Stranger, and Sojourner with you, Gen. 23. 4. And Jacob calling the time time he lived here, the years of his Pilgrimage, Gen. 47. 9. So David, ſaying, I am a Stranger with thee, and a Sojourner as all my Fathers were, Pſalm 39. 12. The ſame he ſpeaks of the whole Jewiſh Nation, ſaying, 1 Chron. 29. 15. We are Strangers before thee, and Sojourners as were all our Fathers. And this he learn'd out of the Law, where God ſpeaks thus to them, Lev. 25. 23. The Land is mine, for ye are Strangers and Sojourners with me; ἐναντίον μοῦ, ſaith the Septuagint. Accordingly the Philoſophers taught, that to die was to go into our Country, πρὸς τὴν πατρίδα τὴν ἀληθινὴν ὅθεν ἤλθομεν, to the true Country whence we came, Simpl. in Epict. p. 77.

k Ver. 16. Κρείττονος ὀρέγονται, they deſire a better Country.] The Ancient Jews declare, That the Earthly Canaan was a Type of the Spiritual Canaan, and the Promiſe of living in it for ever, was a Parable repreſenting their future happineſs in the World to come. (p) It is written all Iſraelites have their Portion in the World to come, as it is ſaid, and thy People ſhall be all juſt, they ſhall inherit the Land for ever, Iſa. 60. 21. This Land, ſaith (q) Maimonides, is a Parable, as if he ſhould ſay, the Land of the living; and that is the World to come. And R. Menachen in Gen. 12. refers it to the Land which is above, watered with Waters which are above. If they received this Parabolical Interpretation from the Patriarchs, here is the reaſon of their Faith, and Expectation of this better Country. Vain here is the Interpretation of Mr. le Clerc, both upon the 10th. and 16th. Verſe; for 1*ſt.* A City, which has foundations, is, ſaith he, Jeruſalem; whereas in Abraham's Time there was no ſuch City that he could expect; nor was that a City which could not be ſhaken, Heb. 12. 28. it having been long ſince deſtroyed; Nor was it a City whoſe Builder, and Maker was God, but Man. Again, he expected a better Country, that is an Heavenly, i. e. the Land of Canaan which was an Anti-type of Heaven; ſo Mr. le Clerc, in flat contradiction to the Apoſtle ſaying, the Country they expected was not that from whence they came out, v. 14, 15. i, e. was not Canaan, but an heavenly Country; and he adds, God had provided for them a City, not Jeruſalem ſure, but an heavenly City.

l Ibid. Οὐκ ἐπαισχύνεται, God is not aſhamed to be called their God,] i. e. The God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob. To be their God, and their Father is the ſame thing. Thus Jer. 31. 1. I will be the God of all the Families of Iſrael, v. 9. is thus varied, I am a Father to Iſrael. I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People, 2 Cor. 6. 16. is v. 18. I will be a Father to you, and you ſhall be my Sons and my Daughters. To be Sons of God is to be Heirs of God, Rom. 8. 17. to be Sons of the Reſurrection, Luke 20. 36. to inherit all things, Apoc. 20. 7. And the υἱοθεσία, or Adoption promiſed by God, is the Redemption of the Body from Corruption. See Note on Matth. 22. 31, 32. and on Rom. 8. 17, 23. and this is the Reaſon why God taking upon himſelf the Title of their God and Father, anſwers this Title, by preparing for them a City.

Ver. 17. Προσενήνοχε, he offered up Iſaac.] m So ſpeaks the New Teſtament twice, here, and James 2. 21. So the Jews conſtantly. (r) Philo informs us, That though the Fact was not perfected, yet was it preſerved in the Minds of the Readers, and mentioned in the Sacred Volumes as a thing entire, and abſolutely done. And to this Day they Pray, * That God would be gracious to them for the Merit of the Sacrifice of Iſaac, according to the Prayer which both the Targum of Jeruſalem, and Jonathan mention on Gen. 22. 14. as made by Abraham, to this effect; viz. I beſeech thee, O God, by thy Mercies, that when the Sons of Iſaac ſhall offer to thee in the time of their neceſſity, thou wilt be mindful of this binding of Iſaac. Hence have they framed this Story, (ſ) That when the Knife touched the Throat of Iſaac, his Soul departed, and that when God ſaid, Lay not thy hand upon the Lad, it returned, and ſo he being dead, revived. And truly Abraham having done all that belonged to him to do towards this Offering his Son, and being fully reſolved to have gone through the Work, had not God's Call reſtrained him, may well be ſaid, in the Divine Conſtruction, to have actually done it; and to this ſome refer Abraham's receiving Iſaac from the Dead in a Figure, he being thus ſnatched from the Jaws of Death, and reſtored to him when he expected nothing but his Death.

Ver. 20. Εὐλόγησε τὸν Ἰακὼβ, bleſſed Jacob.] n It may be enquired how he could bleſs Jacob by Faith, when he knew not that it was Jacob? To this I anſwer, That to the bleſſing him by Faith, it was not neceſſary he ſhould know him to be the Perſon he intended thus to bleſs, but only that he ſhould feel the Divine Afflatus, or the Spirit of Prophecy upon him when he bleſſed him, that being ſufficient to confirm him, that his Benediction ſhould be eſtabliſhed by that God before whom he bleſſed him, and who guided his Lips, and his Heart in it: And though we have tranſlated it as a Prayer, it moſtly runs in the Future Tenſe, and may wholly be tranſlated as a Prophecy, and ſo it muſt be uttered in Faith; and whereas it is objected farther, that Iſaac thought he was bleſſing Eſau, now ſo to bleſs him, as to make him Lord over his Brother, v. 29. could not be ſpoken in Faith, becauſe the Oracle had before declared to Rebecca, that the Elder ſhould ſerve the Younger. I anſwer, 1ſt. That this rather is an Argument againſt the Truth of his Benediction, than the Faith of it; it rather proves that Iſaac ſhould not thus have bleſſed Eſau, than that he believed not what he ſaid: But indeed it proves neither, for Iſaac might feel ſuch a ſtrong Afflatus upon him, as might convince him that his Benediction derived from the Gift of Prophecy, and ſo would certainly be accompliſhed, whomſoever it concerned. 2*dly*. The learned Biſhop of Ely on v. 4. anſwers, That either Rebecca had not acquainted Iſaac with the Oracle, or it ſeems he did not underſtand it as Rebecca did.

o Ver. 21. Καὶ προσεκύνησεν, and worſhipped] God, for the aſſurance he had of being buried in the Land of Promiſe, which he deſired out of Faith in the Promiſe God had made to him, Gen. 28. 13.

p Ver. 23. Ἀστεῖον, a comely Child.] He was, ſaith St. Stephen, ἀστεῖος τῷ Θεῷ of a very excellent Beauty, Acts 7. 20. μορφὴ θείου, of a Divine Form, ſaith (t) Joſephus; of an Angelical Form, ſay the (u) Jews. He was, ſaith Juſtin, one, quem formæ Pulchritudo commendabat, renowned for his Beauty. (x) Joſephus alſo adds, that an Egyptian Scribe, to whoſe Predictions they gave great Credit, had fore-told, one ſhould be born of Iſrael, who if he came to Age, ſhould grievouſly afflict the Egyptians, and bring out the Iſraelites from among them; and that God had by a Viſion declared to Amram, that this Child to be born to him ſhould deliver the Iſraelites out of Egypt; which if true, gives a farther ground of their Faith.

Ver. 24. Joſephus informs us, that when q Pharaoh had put the Crown upon his Head, adopting him as the Son of his Daughter, to be his Succeſſor, he let the Crown fall upon the ground, and ſtamped upon it with his feet. But the words μέγας γενόμενον being the very words uſed Exod. 2. 11. where it is ſaid, It came to paſs that when Moſes was grown, he went out unto his Brethren; the Apoſtle doubtleſs had relation to them, and interpreted his going out unto them, to be his owning himſelf to be one of them; It came into his Heart, ſaith Stephen, to viſit his Brethren, Acts 7. 23. i. e. to join himſelf to the afflicted Jews.

r Ver. 26. Τὸν ὀνειδισμὸν, the Reproach of Chriſt.] The Seed of Abraham, even before they went down to Egypt, are ſtyled, the Chriſts of God, Pſalm 105. 15. μὴ ἅπτεσθε τῶν χριστῶν μου, touch not my Chriſts. And the Prophet Habakkuk ſpeaking of God's Judgments upon Pharaoh, and God's Deliverance of them from him, ſaith, Ἐξῆλθες εἰς σωτηρίαν λαοῦ σου τοῦ σῶσαι τοὺς χριστούς σου, thou wenteſt forth for the Salvation of thy People, to preſerve thy Chriſt, Hab. 3. 13. So that the Reproach of Chriſt, may be the Reproach of the People of God, v. 15. Moreover, the Reproach which he, and they ſuffered, was for their Faith in the Promiſed Seed, and that was Chriſt, Gal. 3. 16. on which account it might be truly ſtyled the Reproach of Chriſt, as the Afflictions of the Apoſtle are ſtyled the Afflictions of Chriſt, Col. 1. 24. and he himſelf, the Priſoner of Chriſt, Epheſ. 3. 1. as being the Reproach he ſuffered for his Faith in the Promiſed Seed, which was Chriſt.

Ibid. Εἰς τὴν μισθαποδοσίαν, the recompence of Reward] here mentioned, could not be Temporal, for Moſes came not into the Land of Canaan, nor could he expect any greater Bleſſing in that kind, than he might have had in Egypt. He therefore muſt have reſpect to ſome Spiritual, and Heavenly Recompence. f

Ver. 27. Μὴ φοβηθεὶς, not fearing.] It is t expreſly ſaid that Moſes when he fled from the Face of Pharaoh, feared, Exod. 2. 14. and it is farther evident, from theſe words of God to him, Go, return into Egypt, for all the Men are dead that ſought thy Life, Chap. 4. 19. And therefore they who refer this to that flight, ſay, He did not fear his Wrath, ſo as to diſtruſt the Providence of God, in working a Deliverance to his People by his hand: But his unwillingneſs, when God commanded him to go back to Egypt, confutes this Gloſs. Others ſay, he feared not the Wrath of the King, when he ſaid unto him, take heed to thy ſelf, ſee my Face no more, for in that day thou ſeeſt my face thou ſhalt die, Exod. 10. 28. But then he had not forſook Egypt, and when he went from it, he did ſo by the command of Pharaoh, Exod. 12. 31. and ſo needed not to fear him. Againſt the Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe, it is objected, that it agrees not with the Order of the words, becauſe the Paſſover mentioned, v. 28. was kept in Egypt. But this Objection will be of little force, if we conſider that other things are mentioned in this Chapter out of the Order in which they were performed: Thus, v. 32. Gideon is mentioned before Barak, and Sampſon before Jephtha, as alſo v. 33. 34, 35, 36.

Ver. 29. Through the Red-Sea.] That this u they truly did, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 10. 1.

The Lord your God he is God in Heaven above, and on Earth beneath, v. 11.

y Ver. 37. Ἐπειράσθησαν;] That this is not the right reading, may eaſily be gathered from this one Conſideration, that after two ſuch great Puniſhments, as ſtoning, and being ſawn aſunder, it is very improper to introduce their being tempted, which ſignifies no certain kind of Puniſhment at all, and is included in all the other Puniſhments, here mentioned. Some therefore read ἐπυρώθησαν, ſome ἐπυρώθησαν, ſome ἐπρήσθησαν, all ſignifying they were burnt; which reading agrees well with the Story of the Maccabees, where they bring Eleazer, and the young Men ἐπὶ τὸ πῦρ καταφλέγοντες αὐτὸς, to the Fire, and burnt their Fleſh; ſo that Joſephus (from c. 6. to c. 12.) ſaith they were, ὡς ἐπὶ πυρὶ μεταχηματιζόμενοι εἰς ἀφθαρσίαν, as one might ſay, tranſlated in the Fire to Incorruption. But yet I prefer the Opinion of thoſe who think this was an Error ariſing ἐκ διπλογραφίας, from writing the ſame word twice, or rather that ſome who knew not what ἐπρίσθησαν meant, writ for it ἐπειράσθησαν, and ſo in time they came to be both written, becauſe the Syriack hath not ἐπειράσθησαν. (y) Euſebius cites St. Paul's words thus, ἐλιθάσθησαν, ἐπρίσθησαν, ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον. (z) Tertullian Paraphraſes them thus, Hieremias lapidatur, Eſaias ſecatur, Zacharias inter altare & ædem trucidatur. (a) Clemens of Alexandria reads thus, ἐλιθάσθησαν, ἐπειράσθησαν, ἐν φόνῳ, &c. which gives juſt ground to conjecture that ſome ignorant Writer put ἐπειράσθησαν, for ἐπρίσθησαν. This fault is very viſible in the Tranſcriber of (b) Origen, for in his fourth Homily on Jeremy, we read in the Greek ἐπρίσθησαν. ἐπειράσθησαν, but in the old Tranſlation there is only Secti, occaſione Gladii occubuerunt. And in the 15th. (c) Homily ἄλλον ἐλιθοβόλησαν, ἄλλον ἔπρισαν, ἄλλον ἐπέκτειναν, which ſhews that Origen did not own the word ἐπειράσθησαν: And though we find the word again in his (d) Homilies on St. Matthew, yet whoſoever reads the place will find that Origen takes no notice of it, but proceeds immediately from ἐπρίσθησαν to ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, ſaying, the word ἐπρίσθησαν refers to Iſaias, and the words ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, to Zacharias. In his Fourth Dialogue againſt Marcion, p. 125. he proves that the Prophets were not Phantoms, but Men conſiſting of Fleſh and Blood, becauſe ὁ μὲν ἐπρίσθη σαρκὶ, ὁ δὲ ἐλιθάσθη, ἢ οἱ λοιποὶ ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, one of them was ſawn aſunder, another was ſtoned, and the reſt were killed by the Sword: And in his Exhortation to Martyrdom, p. 232. he adds, The Writer of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews ſaith, ἐλιθάσθησαν, ἐπρίσθησαν, ἐν φόνῳ μαχαίρας ἀπέθανον, they were ſtoned, they were ſawn aſunder, they were ſlain with the Sword; from all which Places it is evident, that ἐπρίσθησαν was the Reading followed by the Ancients.

Ver. 39. οὐκ ἐκομίσαντο τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν, z or as ſome Copies read, τὰς ἐπαγγελίας, received not the Promiſes.] Theſe words being the ſame with thoſe in v. 13. of this Chapter, all theſe died in Faith, μὴ λάβοντες ἐπαγγελίας, not having received the Promiſes; it is reaſonable to interpret them to the ſame ſenſe, viz. of their not having received the heavenly Kingdom, and bleſſed Reſurrection they expected. And ſo the whole Current of this Epiſtle will force us to interpret them; for 'tis the Promiſe of entring into Reſt after we have ceaſed from our Labour here on Earth, Chap. 4. 1, 10. the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Chap. 9. 15. The Promiſe we are to receive after we have patiently done the Will of God, Chap. 10. 36.

We having an High-Prieſt, higher than the Heavens, Chap. 7. 26. ſet on the Throne of Majeſty in the Heavens, Chap. 8. 1. who by his Death hath procured, that they which are called, might receive the Promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Chap. 9. 15. and who hath by his Entrance into this Holy Place with his Blood, purified and prepared theſe Holy Places for us, v. 23, 24. the way into which was not before opened, v. 8. and given us freedom of entrance into the Holieſt through the blood of Jeſus, by this new way which he hath conſecrated through his Fleſh, Chap. 10. 20. we being therefore come to Mount Sion, the City of the living God, to the heavenly Jeruſalem, and to the Spirits of Juſt Men made perfect, Chap. 12. 22.

Ἵνα μὴ χωρὶς ἡμῶν τελειωθῶσι, that they without us may not be made perfect.] This all the Fathers intepret of their receiving their Crowns, or their Rewards hereafter. Thus of Abel and Noah, St. Chryſoſtom ſaith, That they might not be crowned before us, ἵνα ἅμα πάσι τῶν στεφάνων χαίρωσιν, God hath appointed one time of Coronation for them all. Οὐδέπω τῶν στεφάνων ἐπήλαυσαν, they have not yet obtained their Crowns, ſaith Theodoret, God expecting ſtill thoſe that are to combat, that he may proclaim them Victors all together. (e) Origen having cited this place, ſaith thus, You ſee that Abraham yet expects to obtain perfection; yea Iſaac and Jacob, and all the Prophets phets expect us, that with us they may obtain perfect bliſs. Yea he ſays the ſame, not only of all the Saints of the New Teſtament, but even of the bleſſed Apoſtles, ſaying (f) Even the Apoſtles have not received their joy, but wait that I might be partaker with them, nor do the Saints departed obtain the full Reward of their good Actions. Nor did the Primitive Fathers mean this only of their Bodies, but alſo of their Souls, which they conceived not to be exalted to the Higheſt Heavens, ſaying that they had not yet received their full Reward, yea that they were not to expect it till the Day of Judgment. See note on 2 Tim. 4. 8. and therefore I cannot but wonder to hear a very Learned Perſon in his note on this Place, ſaying, It will be acknowledg'd by all that then, i.e. at our Saviour's Reſurrection, the Patriarchs received this promiſe, or that the Sufferers here mentioned then received it, eſpecially when the Apoſtle here ſaith, They were tortured not accepting a Deliverance, that they might obtain a better Reſurrection, which ſure they have not yet obtained: And more admire that this ſhould by him be interpreted of deliverance from their Perſecutors, and Reſt from Perſecutions, for is this Promiſe fulfilled to Chriſtians? to them who if they will live godly muſt ſuffer Perſecutions? and through many Tribulations enter into the Kingdom of God? and do they who were thus tortur'd find this Perfection with us? or had they any other Reſt or freedom from them, than what Death gave them? Surely the Expoſition of all the Ancient Fathers, is much to be preferred before this new and ſingular Invention; as alſo before the new Doctrine of the Florentine Council, That the Souls of Saints departed do already behold the face of God in Heaven.

CHAP. XII.

Verſe 1. WHerefore ſeeing we alſo are compaſſed about with ſo great a [a] Cloud [i. e. a multitude] of Witneſſes, let us [who are to run our Chriſtian Race,] lay aſide every weight, [of worldly Cares and Affections,] and the [b] Sin which doth ſo eaſily beſet [and circumvent] us, [and ſo hinders our Feet from making a due Progreſs in it,] and let us run with Patience the race that is ſet before us.

2. [c] Looking unto Jeſus [who by his Prophetick Office was] the Author, and [by his Regal Office will be the] finiſher of our Faith, who for the [d] Joy that was ſet before him, [as the Reward of his Sufferings,] endured the Croſs, deſpiſing the ſhame [of it,] and [therefore] is ſet down at the Right hand of the Throne of God.

3. For conſider him, who [being ſo excellent a Perſon, and ſo dear to God, yet] endured [patiently] ſuch contradiction of Sinners againſt himſelf, [ſuch Blaſphemies againſt his Doctrine, ſuch Calumnies againſt his Perſon, ſuch Malicious, and unwearied Attempts againſt his Life,] [e] leſt ye be wearied and faint in your minds, [under the Conflict of Afflictions ye endure.]

4. [For which fainting you have no ſuch cauſe as this Captain of Salvation, and this Cloud of Witneſſes had, For] [f] ye have not yet reſiſted unto Blood, [as they did,] ſtriving againſt Sin.

5. And [by your proneneſs to grow weary, and even faint, under the Combat] you [ſeem to] have forgotten the Exhortation which ſpeaketh to you as to Children, [thus,] My Son [g] deſpiſe not thou [be not ſlothful, and diſpirited under] the Chaſtning of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him. [Prov. 3. 11, 12.]

6. For whom the Lord loveth he Chaſtneth, and ſcourgeth every Son whom he receiveth, [into that Relation.]

7. If ye [then] endure Chaſtning, God dealeth with you as [a Father] with [his] Sons; for what Son is there whom the Father chaſtneth not [for his Offences?]

8. [h] But if ye be without [ſuch] Chaſtiſements, whereof all [Sons] are partakers, then are you [treated as] Baſtards, [whom the reputed Parent diſregards,] and not [as] Sons [whom he loves, v. 6.]

9. Furthermore, [ei δὲ and if] we have had Fathers of our fleſh, which corrected us, and [yet] we gave them Reverence, [and Honour, in Expectation of the long life promiſed to them that do ſo, Exod. 20. 12.] ſhall we not much rather be in ſubjection to the [i] Father, of [our] Spirits [who gives, and who recals our Spirits at Pleaſure,] and [ſo] live [everlaſtingly.]?

10. For they verily [k] for a few days chaſtned us after their own Pleaſure, [Gr. as ſeemed beſt to them] but he [our Heavenly Father doth] doth it] for our [own] Profit, that we might be partakers of his Holineſs.

11. [Nor let it diſcourage you that theſe Afflictions ſeem grievous to the Fleſh, πᾶσα δ] For no chaſtning for the preſent ſeemeth Joyous, but grievous [to it;] nevertheleſs afterward it yeildeth the peaceable Fruits of l Righteouſneſs to them that are [l] exerciſed thereby, [i. e. Thoſe fruits of Righteouſneſs which end in Peace.]

12. Wherefore lift up the hands which hang down, [as if wearied with, and giving over the Combat,] and [ſtrengthen] the feeble knees, [which ſeem unable to ſtand firm, and run on this Race with Patience; See note on v. 3.]

13. And [ſo] make [ποιήσατε, ye will make] [m] ſtraight Paths for your Feet, [to walk in,] leſt that which is Lame be turned m out of the way, but let it rather be healed: [Gr. ἵνα μὴ, that that which is lame may not be turned out of the way, but rather may be healed.]

n 14. [And in order thereunto,] [n] Follow
o Peace with all Men, and Holineſs, without which no Man ſhall ſee the Lord.

o 15. Looking diligently leſt any Man [o] fail of the Grace [Gr. ὑστερῶν ἀπὸ fall from the Grace] of God, leſt any root of Bitterneſs ſpringing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled.

16. Leſt there be any Fornicator, or Profane Perſon, [among you, ſuch] as [was] Eſau, p who for one Morſel of Meat ſold his [p] Birthright.

17. For ye know how that afterwards when he would have inherited the Bleſſing [he had loſt,] he was rejected, [by his Father, ſaying of Jacob, I have bleſſed him, and he ſhall
r be bleſſed,] for he found no place of Repentance, [no change of the bleſſing pronounced by q his Father,] [q] though he ſought it carefully with Tears, [crying with an exceeding great and bitter cry, Gen. 27. 34.]

18. For, ye [believing Jews] are not come, [as your Fore-fathers when they entred into the Old Covenant with God,] unto the Mount s that might be touched, [and ſo you might die, Exod. 19. 12.] and that burned with fire, [Gr. to the burning fire, Deut. 5. 23.] nor to the blackneſs and darkneſs, [cauſed by the Cloud, ſtiled νεφέλη γνοφώδης, Exod. 19. 16.] and [to the] Tempeſt [of Thunder, and Lightning, Deut. 5. 22.]

19. And the ſound of a [the] Trumpet, [exceeding loud which made the People tremble, Exod. 19. 16.] and the [great] Voice of Words, which [was ſo terrible, that] they that heard [it,] entreated that the word ſhould not be ſpoken to them any more, [leſt they died for it, Exod. 20. 19. Deut. 5. 25. 18. 16.]

r 20. For they could not endure [r] that which was commanded, [that ſevere cautionary Command which runs thus,] and if ſo much as a Beaſt touch the Mountain it ſhall be ſtoned, or thruſt thorough with a Dart.

21. And ſo terrible was the ſight, that [t] Moſes ſaid, I exceedingly fear and quake. t

22. But ye are come, [under the Goſpel Diſpenſation, to things of a more excellent nature, not apt to terrifie, and diſcourage, but create joy and comfort to you, not as then, to mount Sinai, but] t to mount Zion, [whence you expect all your Spiritual Bleſſings, not to the Terreſtrial Jeruſalem which is in Bondage with her Children, Gal. 4. 25.] but to the City of the living God, [u] the heavenly Jeruſalem, [not to thou- u ſands of Angels attending on God as at mount Sinai, Pſalm 68. 17. but] to an [x] innumerax ble Company of Angels, [miniſtring to them who ſhall be heirs of Salvation, Heb. 1. 14.]

23. [And] to the general Aſſembly, and Church [not of the Jews, and of the firſt-born regiſtred among them, Numb. 1. 16. but] [y] of y the firſt-born, who are written in Heaven, [z] and to God [now declared to be] the Judge z of all, [Acts 17. 30, 31.] [aa] And to the aa Spirits of juſt Men made perfect [who have run their Race, and are to be crowned at the great day, 2 Tim. 4. 8.]

24. And to Jeſus the Mediator [not of the Old Covenant, which promiſed only the land of Canaan, but] of the new Covenant, [eſtabliſhed in his blood, by which we receive the promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Heb. 9. 15.] and to the [bb] blood of ſprinkling, [cc] which bb cc ſpeaketh better things than that of Abel.

25. [dd] See [therefore,] that you [ee] refuſe
dd ee not him, that ſpeaketh [now by his Son to you,] for if they eſcaped not [God's ſevere Judgments] who refuſed him that ſpake on Earth, [from mount Sinai,] much more ſhall not we eſcape, if we turn away from him that ſpeaketh [by his Son coming down, and by his Spirit ſent down] from Heaven, [1 Pet. 1. 12.]

26. [ff] Whoſe Voice then ſhook the Earth, f f
[when the Law was given, Exod. 19. 18. Pſal. 68. 8.] but now [under this Diſpenſation,] he hath promiſed [yet a farther ſhaking,] gg ſaying, [gg] yet once more, [at the making my hh
New Covenant,] [hh] I ſhake not the Earth only, but alſo Heaven [Hag. 2. 7, 8.]

27. And this Word, yet once more ſignifieth the Removing of thoſe things that are ſhaken, as of things that are made, that thoſe things which cannot be ſhaken may remain.

28. Wherefore we receiving [the Promiſe of] a Kingdom, that cannot be moved, [or ſhaken, or give place to another,] [ii] let us have ii [or retain that] Grace whereby [alone] we may ſerve God acceptably with Reverence, and godly Fear.

29. For our God is [to the Diſobedient, and Rebellious among us, as he was to them, kk Deut. 4. 24. 9. 3.] a [kk] conſuming Fire.

Annotations on Chapter XII.

a Verse 1. Νέφος, a Cloud,] for a multitude is a Phrase used by Homer, who calls a multitude of Foot-men νέφος πεζῶν, which (a) Virgil thus translates, Insequitur nimbus peditum; This Cloud of Witnesses therefore contains all the Worthies mentioned in the former Chapter, who by their Words, and Actions have testified how much the Objects of their Faith were valued before all worldly things, and how equitable it was to endure afflictions, not accepting a deliverance, that they might obtain a better Resurrection.

b Ibid. Τὴν εὐπερίστατον ἁμαρτίαν, the Sin that easily besets us.] The Apostle being here speaking of the Christians Race, this Phrase is best interpreted with relation to it, and so it must respect the Sin which cleaves to our Affections, which are the Feet of the Soul, like a long Garment wrapt about us, and so hinders the Runing of our Christian Race; for it is either our Affection to, and our Desire of what we ought not to desire, or affect at all, or which we ought not comparatively to affect, or desire, which gives the Rise, and prevalence to all Temptations to Sin, and renders self-denial so exceeding Difficult.

c Ver. 2. Ἀφορῶντες, &c. looking to Jesus.] As an Example of Patience under Sufferings, fit to be imitated by his Disciples, and as one gloriously recompensed in his Humane Nature for the Sufferings he sustained in it, and as one who will give to us the same happy Repose after our Sufferings; He having, as the Author of our Faith, promised, and being able, as the Finisher of our Faith, to confer that glorious Recompence, Chap. 10. 35, 36.

d Ibid. Ἀντὶ τῆς προκειμένης αὐτῷ χαρᾶς, for the Joy set before him.] That ἀντὶ is used for the final Cause appears from these Examples in the New Testament; He gave himself a Ransom ἀντὶ πολλῶν for many, Matth. 20. 28. Render not evil ἀντὶ κακοῦ for Evil, Rom. 12. 17. Her hair was given ἀντὶ περιβολαίου, for a Covering, 1 Cor. 11. 15. Ἀντὶ τούτου, for this Cause shall a man leave Father and Mother. And here, v. 16. ἀντὶ βρώσεως μιᾶς, for one morsel of bread he sold his birth-right. See 1 Thess. 5. 15. 1 Pet. 3. 9. Note also, that the Apostle goes on in his Agonistical Terms, and having spoken, v. 1. of the προκειμένου ἡμῖν ἀγῶνος, the Race set before us to run, he here speaks in the same Language of the Joy set before our Saviour in his Race, that is of the βραβεῖον, the Price, or Crown placed in his View for his Encouragement to run it. It being the Custom in those Games (b) to hang the Crown at the End of the Goal, that he who came first to it might snatch it, or lay hold of it: The Joy set before him must therefore be the Prospect of that Majesty, and Glory, Power and Dominion he, in his humane Nature, was to be invested with, as the Reward of these his Sufferings. He for the suffering of Death being crowned with Majesty and Honour, Heb. 2. 9. God having therefore highly exalted him, and given him a name above every name, Philip. 2. 9. And thus we have just cause to look upon him as an Example of Faith, and Patience, and of God's especial Favour to them that suffer for his sake.

e Ver. 3. Ἵνα μὴ καμητε ἐκλυόμενοι lest you be wearied, and faint in your minds.] These also are two Agonistical Terms; the one signifies to be weary, as in those words of (c) C. Marcius, Νικώντων δὲ δεῖ τὸ κάμνειν, Conquerors must not be weary, and so give over the Fight; the other to faint, and be dispirited, so that we can run, or fight no longer: And because in those Combats they fought, ὀρθοστάδην, standing upright, and χεῖρας ἐκτείνοντες, stretching out their hands, therefore the Apostle exhorts them in their Spiritual Combat to stretch out the hands that hang down, and ἀνορθοῦν, to erect their feeble knees, v. 12. Faber. Agon. l. 1. c. 8.

f Ver. 4. Ἀνταγωνιζόμενοι μέχρις αἵματος ye have not resisted unto blood.] This is another Agonistical Expression belonging to the Pugiles, who were oft besmeared with Blood, and sometimes died under the blows they received from the Clubs of their Adversary. Faber. Agon. l. 1. c. 7.

g Ver. 5. Μὴ ὀλιγωρει.] Ὀλιγωρεῖν is, say Phavorinus and Hesychius, ἀμελεῖν, ῥαθυμεῖν, to be unregardful of, to be slothful, ὀλιγωρος, μικρόψυχος, to be Crest fallen, ἀναπίπτειν, animo concidere, to faint, and be dispirited. Τὸ ἀναπίπτειν, κυρίως ἐπὶ ψυχῆ ἐστιν, οἷον ἀθυμεῖν, ὀλιγωρεῖν. Athen. Deipnos. l. 1. p. 23. B.

h Ver. 8. Hence the Jews speak thus, Wo to the man who goeth out of the World without Tribulations. Buxt. Lex. p. 1528.

i Ver. 9. Τῷ πατρὶ τῶν πνευμάτων, the Father of Spirits.] This Phrase is not here put to signifie the Author of our New Spiritual Birth, (a) Æn. 7. v. 793. and Note in l. 4. Georg. v. 60. (b) He did, saith Plutarch, Καθεκεῖν τὸ τέρμονα κρεμάμενον, Περὶ φιλοπλουτίας. p. 523. And I run, saith the Apostle, ἐπεκτεινόμενος ἐπὶ τὸ βραβεῖον. Philip. 3. 14. See Fab. Agonist. l. 2. c. 27. (c) Plutarch in Vita. C. Marc. p. 218.

Birth; for Spiritual Graces, and Dispositions are never called, πνεύματα, Spirits in Scripture; nor is the Holy Spirit who produceth them, ever mentioned in the Plural, when they are spoken of. It plainly is an Hebrew Phrase, used twice by Moses when he speaks thus to God, O God of the Spirits of all Flesh, Numb. 16. 22. and again, Let the Lord, the God of the Spirits of all Flesh, set a Man over the Congregation, Numb. 27. 16. And he is so stiled, both as the Creator of them, or that God who formeth the Spirit of Man within him, Zach. 12. 1. and the Preserver, and Governour of them; The God in whose hand is the Soul of all living, and the Spirit of all Flesh of Man, Job. 12. 10. and into whose hands they do return at Death, Eccles. 12. 7. according to that Old Tradition of the Heathens, preserved in (d) Epicharmus, That Man dying ἀπῆλθεν ὅθεν ἦλθε πάλιν, γᾶ μὲν εἰς γᾶν, πνεῦμα δ' ἄνω, returns from whence he came, his Earthly part to the Earth, his Spirit upwards: And the Tradition of the Hebrews, That in the time of our Dissolution, (e) God comes, and takes away his Part, and leaves the Part of our Father and Mother, stiled here, the Fathers of the Flesh. (f) Josephus saith, That at the formation of Adam, God made Man out of the Earth, and sent into him a Soul and Spirit. (g) Philo saith, That his Body was indeed made of Earth, shaped into Humane Form, but his Soul was only derived from the Maker, and Governour of all things, and this was signified by these Words, He breathed into him the breath of Life; so that, though according to his visible Part he was mortal, as to his invisible he was immortal; Hence, saith the Targum of Jonathan, on Numb. 16. 22. 27. 16. It is God that putteth the Spirit of the Soul in the Bodies of all Men. And the Targum of Jerusalem, It is God who ruleth over the Souls of all Flesh. See Pug. Fid. p. 401.

k Ver. 10. πρὸς ὀλίγας ἡμέρας; for a few days,] seems not here to refer to the Days of Childrens Minority, for that makes nothing to the purpose of the Apostle's Argument, and the motive to suffer Divine Chastisements used by the Scripture, is not that they are long, but that they are but for a very little while, Heb. 10. 37. Momentary, 2 Cor. 4. 17. ὀλίγον ἄρτι, but for a little, 1 Pet. 1. 6. nor is κατὰ τὸ δοκοῦν αὐτοῖς, after their Pleasure, but as it seemed good to them: This therefore seems to be the meaning of the Words, That earthly Parents chastise their Children, aiming at that which seems best for them in this Present Life, consisting of few days, or for their Temporal Good in this Life, but God doth it for their Spiritual, and Eternal Benefit, to make them here partakers of his Holiness, and so to fit them for the peaceable Fruits of Righteousness hereafter.

Ver. 11. The word γεγυμνασμένοις, used l here, shews that the Phrase is Agonistical, and taken from the Exercises performed by them naked in the Olympick Games, where one of the Crowns given to the Victors being στέφανος ἐλαϊνὸς of Olive, the Symbol of Peace, hence Faber conceives the Christian's Crown is here represented by the Peaceable Fruit of Righteousness.

Ver. 13. Τροχιὰς ὀρθὰς, straight paths.] i.e. m make straight Paths in the way of Christianity, not stepping out of it to avoid Persecution; that they who are already lame and feeble, may not be moved by your Example to go out of it, but rather by your Constancy in it, may be confirm'd.

Ver. 14. Be of a pure and peaceable Con- n versation towards all with whom you do Converse; for as this is necessary in Order to your living with God, so will it tend much to prevent the Persecutions of Men.

Ver. 15. That ὑστερεῖναι ἀπὸ is the same o with ἀφίστασθαι, to depart from the Grace of God, which brings Salvation, or to depart from the Faith, and by so doing fall short of the promised Rest, Heb. 4. 1. the words of the Apostle, and his scope, which is to preserve the Jews from backsliding from Christianity to Judaism, and the following Exhortation not to refuse him that speaketh now, v. 25. and, ἔχειν τὴν χάριν, to retain, and hold fast the Grace of God, v. 28. sufficiently shew. But this is still more clear from the Words of Deut. 29. 18. whence this whole verse is taken, which runs thus, μὴ τίς ἐστιν ἐν ὑμῖν---τινὸς ἡ διάνοια ἐξέκλινεν ἀπὸ Κυρίου, lest there be among you any Man or Woman whose Heart turneth away from the Lord our God, to go and serve the Gods of the Nations, μὴ τίς ἔστιν ἐν ὑμῖν, ῥίζα ἄνω φύουσα ἐν χολῇ καὶ πικρίᾳ, lest there should be among you a Root springing with Gall and Worm-wood; Which makes it probable that the true Reading here should be not ἐνοχλῇ, but ἐν χολῇ.

Ver. 16. Πρωτοτοκία, the Birth-right] p which Esau sold contain'd these Privileges, (1.) A Double Portion of his Father's Goods, Deut. 21. 17. (2.) Power and Dominion over the younger, for he succeeded in the Government of the Family, or Kingdom. Reuben thou art my first-born, the Excellency of Dignity, and the Excellency of Power, Gen. 49. 3. The Kingdom gave he to Jehoram, because he was the first-born, 2 Chron. 21. 3. This Isaac gave to Jacob in these Words, Be thou a Master to thy Brethren, and let thy Mother's Sons bow down to thee, Gen. 27. 29. (3.) The Honour of Priesthood in their own Family at least. So Exod. 24. 5. He sent the young-men, (Chald. the first-born) of the Sons of Israel, and they offered Burnt-offerings, and sacrificed Sacrifices to Jehovah. Afterwards the Levites were taken into the service of God, instead of all the first-born among the Children of Israel, Numb. 3. 41. consecrated before to God, Exod. 22. 92. Numb. 8. 17. Gen. 25. 29. This Birth-right Esau sold when he was faint, ἀυλέπων, and this shews how proper this Instance is to preserve them from being wearied, and fainting in their Mind.

The Targum of R. Uziel saith, That he was made faint by committing Idolatry, shedding Innocent Blood, and going in to a Damsel betrothed that Day, and this shews him a Fornicator, both in the Spiritual, and Carnal sense, and a profane Person. And lastly, Mercer saith, Primogenituram Hæreditatem cœlestem adumbrasse, that the Primogeniture was a Type of their Celestial Inheritance; which also seems to be hinted by the Paraphrases on the Place, for that of Uziel saith, He denied the life of the World to come, and contemned his Birth-right: And the Targum of Jerusalem, That he contemned his Birth-right, and despised his Part in the life to come, and denied the Resurrection; and as this shews his Profaneness, so also doth it shew the Appositeness of this Example to the Apostle's purpose.

q Ver. 17. Ἐκζητήσας μετὰ δακρύων αὐτὴν, though he sought it carefully with tears.] Though those Words thus Expounded do not immediately prove that true Repentance may find no Acceptance with God, yet are they designed to insinuate that Men may so despise the Blessings of Christianity, as to be after thought unworthy to enjoy them; that by their Apostacy they may fall so entirely from God, as that he will not be prevailed on by their Tears to restore them to their lost and despised Privileges, upon their Tears and Fastings; as is apparent in the Case of the Jews, who have large times of Penance, and Humiliation, but are not to this Day restored to the Grace, and Favour of God, and to the Privilege of being his peculiar People, and first-born, as once they were.

r Ver. 20. Τὸ διαστελλόμενον.] Διαστέλλομαι, signifies to command with Vehemence, or severity, Matth. 16. 20. Mark 5. 43. 8. 15.

s Ver. 21. Μωϋσῆς εἶπεν, Moses said.] This Interpreters think St. Paul received by Tradition of his Ancestors, tho' no Footsteps of this Tradition have been found among them. But doubtless the Apostle had Respect to Deut. 9. where v. 15. Moses sees the mount burning up to Heaven, and v. 9. 19. saith, ἔκφοβός εἰμι, I exceedingly fear.

t Ver. 22. Σιὼν ὄρει, to mount Zion.] All the good things, Blessings and Comforts which God will give to Israel, are only out of Zion, say the Jews, Vajikra Rabba, Sect. 24. Midrash Tillim, ad Psalm 14. Hence came their Strength, Psal. 110. 2. and Help, Ps. 20. 2. Blessings, Ps. 128. 5. and Life, Ps. 133. 3. and Salvation, Ps. 14. 7.

u Ibid. Ἱερουσαλὴμ ἐπουρανίῳ, to the Heavenly Jerusalem] which is the Mother of us all, Gal. 4. 26. where our City is, Philip. 3. 20. This the Rabbins call the Jerusalem of the Age to come, to be built in the Days of the Messiah; saying also, That the Inferiour Jerusalem is a Figure of that which is above. See note on Gal. 4. 26. And 'tis here stiled, the Heavenly Jerusalem, not that heaven is primarily intended by it, and not the Church of Christ on Earth, but propter Originem, & finem, as having its rise from heaven, and as leading to it, on which account the Gospel State is stiled so oft the Kingdom of Heaven.

x Ibid. Μυριάσιν ἀγγέλων, to Myriads of Angels.] The Glorious Citizens of Heaven who attend at the Throne of God, to whom we are united, they being made one with us in Christ, Ephes. 1. 10. and to whom we are reconciled by him, Coloss. 1. 20.

y Ver. 23. Πρωτοτόκων, of the first-born.] i. e. Of the Apostles who received the first-fruits of the Spirit, Rom. 8. 23. and of the Churches which received first the Christian Faith, Ephes. 1. 12. (whose names are written in heaven) i. e. who are enrolled among the Citizens of the New, and Heavenly Jerusalem, or among the Just, for whom the Kingdom is prepared. In this rejoice, saith Christ, that your Names are written in Heaven, Luke 10. 20. Thus Exod. 32. 32. Moses by the Targum is introduced speaking thus, I know thou hast writ my Name in the Book of the Just: And of the false Prophets, the Targum, on Ezek. 13. 9. saith, They shall not be written in the Book of Eternal Life, which is written for the Just of the House of Israel; and into this Kingdom they only are to enter, whose Names are thus enrolled in the Book of Life, Rev. 21. 27.

aa Ibid. And to the Spirits of just men, τετελειωμένων, made perfect.] This word here cannot well signifie them who are crowned in the Agonistical sense, because the Apostle in the former Chapter, had asserted of those Witnesses which died in Faith, That they had not yet received the Promise, and were not to be crowned before us Christians; and saith, that he himself expected to receive his Crown only at the Great Day, 2 Tim. 4. 8. But it signifies either that they had fulfilled their Course, and so rested from their Labours, and Conflicts, as Chrysostom here saith, and so have nothing more to do, but to receive their Crown: Or, in the other sense of the Word, Word, τελειῶσθαι, to be made perfect in Holiness, or to be perfectly purged from all Guilt of Sin, and so fit to be admitted to this Kingdom: In which sense the Apostle here denies that there was any τελείωσις, or perfect Expiation made by the Levitical Priesthood, the Law making nothing perfect, Heb. 7. 11, 16. And that the Offerings prescribed by it could not τελειῶσαι, make perfect the Worshipper as to his Conscience, Heb. 9. 9. that they could not τελειῶσαι εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, perfect him for ever, so as that he should need no farther Expiation for Sin, Heb. 10. 1. and that Christ by one offering, τετελείωκε εἰς τὸ διηνεκὲς, had perfectly expiated for ever them that were sanctified, v. 14.

bb Ver. 24. Αἵματι ῥαντισμοῦ, the blood of sprinkling] Not that of Bulls and Goats, with which Moses sprinkled the People, when they entred into the Old Covenant, Exod. 24. 8. and the Tabernacle, and the Vessels of the Ministry, to sanctifie them for the Levitical Service, but the Blood of Christ, by which the Heavenly places are purified, and prepared for us, Chap. 9. 23, 24. and by which we have entrance into the Holiest, Chap. 10. 19, 20.

cc Ibid. Κρείττονα λαλοῦντα παρὰ τὸν or, παρὰ τὸ Ἅβελ, which speaketh better things than that of Abel.] Than the Blood of Abel, not because that called for Vengeance, this for Mercy; but than the Blood of the Sacrifice of Abel offer'd by Faith, of which God testified his Acceptance, and by which he being dead yet speaks, Heb. 11. 4. that procuring Acceptance for himself alone, this for all Believers; that speaking only for him, and declaring him Righteous, this interceding to God for the Justification of all Men through Faith in his Blood.

dd Ver. 25. Χρηματίζοντα, him that speaketh.] This word both in the Old, and New Testament, signifies speaking as from God, or Words proceeding from him. See Jer. 25. 30. 26. 3. 29. 23. 30. 2. 36. 4. Matth. 2. 22. Luke 2. 26. Acts 10. 22. Rom. 11. 4. Heb. 8. 5. 11. 7. So 2 Maccab. 2. 4. χρηματισμὸς γενηθέντος αὐτῷ, the Prophet being warned of God, commanded that the Ark should go with him.

ee Ibid. Μὴ παραιτήσησθε, refuse not.] As they did, saith Theodoret, desiring ἀντὶ τοῦ Θεὸν τὸν Μωσέα λαλεῖν, instead of God to have Moses, by saying, speak thou to us, and let not God speak to us, Exod. 20. 19. desiring not God, but an Angel, saith Philo on these Words. De Somniis, p. 455. E. See note on Colos. 2. 19.

ff Ver. 26. οὗ ἡ φωνὴ, whose Voice.] He speaks here not of the Voice of Christ, but of the God of Israel, who at his Appearance on Sinai, shook the Earth; of his Voice who made the Promise, that Christ the Desire of all Nations, should come. Nor can the Apostle, or the Prophet speak of Christ's second coming, to give New Heavens, and New Earth by the Conversion of the Jewish Nation; For, 1*st.* This shaking was to be the Fore-runner of the Coming of the Desire of all Nations, or contemporary with it; now he was to come to fill that very House then built with Glory, and to make the Glory of it greater than the Glory of that House built by Solomon. The Prophet must therefore speak of a shaking antecedent to the Destruction of the Temple. And therefore the Apostle, speaking of the very thing promised in the words of the Prophet Haggai, must also speak of the first advent of our Lord. 2*dly.* The Prophet speaks of a shaking which was to happen after a little time, Hag. 2. 7. and therefore not of an Advent of our Saviour after two thousand Years Expired, yet to come. And, 3*dly.* the Apostle says plainly, That Christians had then received that Kingdom which could not be shaken, to give place to another, and upon that grounds his Exhortation to them to retain or hold fast the Grace received, v. 28. Which shews it was not a Kingdom yet to come after one Thousand seven hundred years, but that which throughout the Gospel is stiled the Kingdom of God, and of Heaven, and is said to be then come to them, Matth. 12. 28.

gg Ibid. Ἔτι ἅπαξ, yet once more] The word yet signifies that there was yet to be another shaking for the Introduction of another Covenant, and consequently for the Abolishing the first; and the Word once only, that there should be no more shaking after the Introduction of the second Covenant.

hh Ibid. Ἐγὼ σείω, I shake not the Earth only, but the Heavens, Hag. 2. 7.] The Ancient Jews speak of this place thus, I will give a short Glory to the Israelites, and afterward shall the Messiah come. Talm. Tr. Sanhedr. c. 11. expounding this Place of the coming of the Messiah; they add, That the first Tabernacle, and Temple were built, and destroyed, so was the second Temple, but the Messiah should build a Temple, and God had built a Tabernacle, and Temple in the Heavens, which should never be destroyed. Pug. Fid. p. 304——309.

Now this shaking of the Heaven and Earth being to be accomplished at the coming of the Messiah, or the desire of all Nations, cannot signify the Removal and Subversion of the Material Heavens, and Earth, they being not thus shaken at Christ's coming, but this is a Metaphor frequently used in the Prophets, to signifie the Subversion of a State and Kingdom, and of the Government which obtains amongst them; as when the Prophet, speaking of the Destruction of Babylon, saith, I will make the Heavens shake, and the Earth shall be removed out of its place, Isa. 13. 13. and of the Destruction of the Jews by the Assyrians he useth these very words, the Earth shall be moved, and the Heavens shaken, Joel 2. 10. See Judges 5. 4. Psalm 77. 18. Isa. 24. 19, 20. Thus at our Lord's coming to destroy Jerusalem, ii Ver. 28. Ἔχωμεν χάριν.] It is the obſervation of Criticks here, and elſewhere, that ἔχειν, to have, is often put for κατέχειν, to retain, or hold faſt: So ἔχειν πίστιν καὶ ἀγαθὴν συνείδησιν, is to hold Faith and a good Conſcience, 1 Tim. 1 19. ἔχειν τὸ μυστήριον τῆς πίστεως to hold the myſtery of Faith; ὑποτύπωσιν ἔχειν, to hold faſt the form of ſound Words, 2 Tim. 1. 13. χάρις throughout the whole New Teſtament doth ſignifie the Favour, and the Grace of God, ſo freely tendred to us in the Goſpel: See Note on 2 Cor. 6. 1. So that the Import of theſe Words ſeems to be this. Let us continue ſtedfaſt in that Faith, and Diſpenſation delivered in the Goſpel, as being that alone which renders both our Perſons, and our Services acceptable to God, let us not fall from the Grace of God, v. 15. let us not caſt off our Confidence, Chap. 10. 35. Let us hold faſt the Profeſſion of our hope without wavering, v. 23. continuing to ſerve God with an holy Reverence.

Annotations on Chapter XIII.

a Verſe 2. Ἀγγέλους, Angels.] It follows not hence, ſay the Commentators here, that all the three Perſons which appeared to Abraham were created Angels, for one of them being ſtiled by Abraham the Judge of all the Earth, Gen. 18. 24. Jehovah, v. 22. and Abraham praying to him with ſo great Humility, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will ſpeak unto him, who am but duſt and Aſhes, v. 27, 31. It ſeems more proper with the Ancients to conceive he at leaſt ſhould be the Son of God, the Angel of the Covenant; for the Word of God, ſaith Juſtin Martyr, ὑπὸ Ἀγγέλου καλεῖται, ὑπὸ Θεοῦ, ὑπὸ Κυρίου, ὑπὸ ἀνδρὸς, ὑπὸ τῶν σὺν Σαρρᾳ τῷ Ἀβραὰμ ὑπὸ Ἰσαὰκ φανέντος. Yet ſince in the Opinion of the Jews, they were three Angels, as Ainſworth, and Cartwright note upon the Place, the Apoſtle writing to them, ſaith no more of them; I rather think with the Reverend Biſhop of Ely that it may be granted that the three that appeared to Abraham, were created Angels; but then they appeared only as the Retinue of the Schechinah, or Divine Majeſty, ſtiled the Lord, v. 1. and v. 13. For after the ſame Men who came in, and did eat with Abraham, and roſe from the Table, were departed, v. 16. and 22. Abraham ſtands yet before the Lord, that is, before the Divine Majeſty who appear'd to him, v. 1. and ſtiles him the Judge of the whole Earth. And this agrees well with the Opinion of the Jews, who, as they acknowledge that the three Men whom Abraham entertained were created Angels, ſo alſo do they

they own that there was then a separate Appearance, or Divine Majesty which talked with Abraham. And this takes off the Observation of Crellius, and others on this place, That the name Jehovah is given to Angels; for according to this Interpretation, the Name Jehovah is not given to any of the three Angels which were entertained by Abraham, but only to the Schechinah, or Divine Majesty which appeared with them, and spake to Abraham, from v. 10. to the 17th. and to whom, after the Departure of these three, one into Heaven, and two to Sodom, Abraham still speaks to the End of that Chapter.

b Ver. 4. Τίμιος ὁ γάμος, Marriage is Honourable.] It is not worth disputing whether these Words should be rendred as a Precept thus, Let honourable Marriage, and the Bed undefiled obtain among all; or as our Version renders them by way of Assertion. The Observation of the Ancients upon the Place is this, That Marriage is honourable in all Persons (a), Old and Young, and in all things.

c Ibid. Κρινεῖ ὁ Θεὸς, God will Judge.] i. e. Κατακρινεῖ, he will condemn them: So John 3. 16. God sent not his Son into the World, ἵνα κρίνῃ τὸν κόσμον, that he might condemn the World. He that resisteth shall receive to himself, κρίμα, Punishment, or Condemnation, Rom. 13. 3. So Matth. 23. 14. 1 Cor. 11. 29. 1 Tim. 3. 6. Jude 4. Mark 3. 29. Luke 23. 40. τὸν κρίναντες, by condemning Christ they fulfilled the Voice of the Prophets, Acts 13. 27. That the Apostle here should give these Cautions against the Gnosticks among the Jews, is said without ground, for no Man can prove that any Gnosticks had been then among them, but they had then the sect of the (b) Nicolaitans among them, mentioned, Rev. 2. 6, 15. who did ἀναίδην πορνεύειν fornicate without shame, holding Whoredom and Adultery to be things indifferent. Moreover, (c) Justin Martyr, saith, That where-ever they travelled they multiplied to themselves Wives, ὀνόματι γάμου, under pretence of Marriage. See note on Rom. 2. 22 On which account there was ground sufficient for this Exhortation. Note hence, that Whoredom is a mortal Sin.

d Ver. 5. Hence we learn, 1st. That we are then covetously minded when we are not content with the things we enjoy at present, but are impatiently desirous of having more.

2dly. That what God promises to any of his Servants, may in like Circumstances be applied to them all, for this Promise which the Apostle here makes and applies to all good Christians, was particularly made to Joshua, Chap. 1. 5.

Ver. 8. i. e. Through all Times, and e Ages; for, as (d) Philo observes, Τριμερὴς γάρ ὁ χρόνος, ὅ τε παρελελυθὼς, καὶ ἐνεστὼς, καὶ μέλλων, Time consists of three parts, the Past, Present, and to Come, and these three signifie, ἅπαντα τὸν αἰῶνα, all time, or the whole Compass of it; so that as the same Doctrine of Christianity must always be professed by all Christians, so the same Jesus is always ready to assist, and reward the sincere Professors of it.

That the Apostle speaks here not of their living, but dead Guides, will appear partly from his exhortation to remember them, the living Guides being the Objects not of their Memory, but Sense, partly from the Phrase ἐλάλησαν, who have spoken, which intimates, they had now left off speaking; and partly from the ἔκβασις the Close, or Period of their Conversation here on Earth, they are exhorted to look back unto; their living Bishops they are commanded to obey, v. 17. their dead Bishops to Remember, v. 7. for I think, saith Origen on Matthew (Ed. Huet. To. 1. p. 420.) He who is stiled by Christ ὁ ἡγούμενος, a Guide, Luke 22. 26. is ὁ καλούμενος ἐν ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις ἐπίσκοπος, he who is called in the Churches a Bishop.

Ver. 9. Διδαχαῖς ξέναις.] I render New f Doctrines, and therefore strange to the Ears of them that hear them first; so ξένα δαίμονια, are New Demons, Acts 17. 18. and the Apostle saith, they were not to look upon their fiery Trial, ὡς ξένου ὑμῖν συμβαίνοντος, as if some new thing had happened to them, 1 Pet. 4. 12.

Ibid. Βεβαιοῦσθαι τὴν καρδίαν, that the heart g is established,] is an Hebrew Phrase, signifying to comfort, strengthen, and refresh the heart. So Gen. 18. 5. I will fetch a Morsel of Bread וסעדו לבבכם and comfort your hearts, Judges 19. 5, 8. στήριγμα καρδίας σου, comfort thy heart with a morsel of Bread, of which the Psalmist saith, That, καρδίαν ἀνθρώπου στηρίζει, it strengthens Man's heart, Psal. 104. 15. whence it is often stiled, στήριγμα ἄρτου, Psal. 105. 16. Ezek. 4. 16. 5. 16. 14. 13. the Staff of Bread.

Ibid. The Grace here mentioned, is, say h the Ancients, ἡ τοῦ χριστοῦ διδασκαλία, the Doctrine of the Gospel, or of the Grace of God tender'd in it. The meats here mentioned are the meats eaten in the Jewish Festivals, New Moons, and Sabbaths, Col. 2. 16. or their Peace-offerings and Oblations, stiled, βρώματα Meats, Heb. 9. 10. which Feasts some Jewish Zealots would have observed with the Christian Festivals, viz. their Passover, and Pentecost, 1 Cor. 11. and in the same

riotous

And theſe Sacrifices, or Peace-offerings they would have ſtill retained, perhaps as being not Sacrifices for Sin, but Free-will Offerings, and only Sacrifices of Praiſe ſo that the Import of theſe Words is this; 'Tis good the Soul, or Heart, be eſtabliſhed, refreſhed, and comforted, not with Meats eaten in the Jewiſh Feſtivals, or at their Euchariſtical Oblations, which profit, or avail nothing to the Peace, and quiet of the Conſcience, but with the Divine Favour, and that Goſpel Grace by which Juſtification, and Remiſſion of Sins is obtained through the Blood of Jeſus; Of which they cannot be partakers who ſtill cleave to the legal Obſervations.

i Ver. 10. θυσιαστήριον, an Altar.] That the Altar here ſignifies the Sacrifice offered upon the Altar, is plain from this, that of this Altar they were to Eat: So they that ate of the Jewiſh Sacrifices, are ſaid to be κοινωνοὶ θυσιαστηρίου, partakers of the Altar, 1 Cor. 10. 18. i. e. of the things offered at the Altar; and then it muſt import the Body of our Lord offered, and broken on the Croſs, by partaking the Memorials of which Body, we teſtify our Communion with Chriſt, and his Church, ibid. v. 16, 17. and of this, ſaith the Apoſtle, they have no right to partake, who adhere ſtill to the Moſaical Oblations.

And how then can he be ignorant that Chriſt is to be owned as the true God? This being the Doxology aſcribed in the New Teſtament to him, of whom, and by whom, and to whom are all things, Rom. 11. 36. to God the Father, Gal. 1. 5. to the Omnipotent God, Epheſ. 3. 20, 24. to him who dwelleth in light inacceſſible, 2 Tim. 4. 15, 16. to the God of all Grace, 1 Pet. 5. 10, 11. to the only wiſe God our Saviour, Jude 25. In (h) St. Clement it is frequently aſcribed, τῷ θεῷ παντοκράτορι, to Almighty God, to whom be glory for ever and ever, Amen, as a Character peculiarly belonging to him. And in the (i) Jeruſalem Targum this is the frequent Appendix to the mention of the Great God, Let his name be bleſſed (i. e. glorified) for ever and ever, Amen. So that both in the Opinion of Jews and Chriſtians, this was a Doxology, proper to the true God.

Ver. 24. Τοὺς ἡγουμένους, that have the Rule over you.] Hence it ſeems evident that this Epiſtle was not ſent to the Biſhops, or Rulers of the Church, but to the whole Church, or to the Laity. z

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE Seven Catholick Epiſtles.
THE GENERAL
PREFACE.

OF theſe Epiſtles in the General I have only this to Note, That from the Fourth Century they have both obtained the Name of Catholick Epiſtles, and alſo have been ranked in the ſame Order in which they now ſtand in our Bibles, viz. by the Council of (a) Laodicea, by (b) Cyril of Jeruſalem, by (c) Athanaſius, and (d) Greg. Nazianzen; by (e) Amphilochius, and by others.

Only it is not eaſie to aſſign the Reaſon why they in a particular manner were ſo called, it could not be becauſe they were, paſſim receptæ ab omnibus, & ubique; generally received by all; for we learn from the Teſtimonies of (f) Origen, (g) Euſebius, (h) Amphilochius, and (i) St. Jerom, That the Ancients doubted of Four of the Seven, or Five of them.

Oecumenius, and others, ſay, they were ſo ſtiled, becauſe they were written not to one Nation, as were generally thoſe of St. Paul, ἀλλὰ καθόλου τοῖς πιστοῖς, ἤτοι Ἰουδαίοις τοῖς ἐν τῇ διασπορᾷ, but generally to the Faithful, or to the Jews of the diſperſion. Which laſt expreſſion ſeems to hint the true Reaſon of the Name, viz. becauſe, excepting the two brief Epiſtles of St. John, they were written to the Jews diſperſed throughout the World. Which though it be true alſo of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, yet hath that no Inſcription, and for a long time was alſo queſtioned, nor was it written to the diſperſed Jews, but to the Inhabitants of Judæa, Chap. 13. and upon theſe accounts might not come into the number.

THE PREFACE TO THE General Epistle of St. JAMES.

§. 1. THAT the Author of this Epistle was an Apostle, hath been proved, Note on ver. 1. whence it must follow, that he could not be James the Son of Zebedee, because that James was slain by Herod, A. D. 44. Twenty eight Years before the Destruction of Jerusalem, which yet was nigh at hand, and even at the Door when this Epistle was indited. See Note on Chap. 5. 8, 9. Nor could he be James, the Just, Bishop of Jerusalem, for he was no Apostle, if he was not the same Person with James the Less. It seemeth therefore that he was James the Son of Alphæus, Apostle, and Brother of our Lord, stiled James the Less, in distinction from James the Son of Zebedee, stiled the Greater, by reason of his Age. For that the James mentioned by St. Paul, Gal. 1. 19. was an Apostle in the strict Acceptation of the Word, is evident from this, that having spoken of St. Peter, who doubtless was an Apostle in that sense, he adds, Others of the Apostles saw I none, save James the Lord's Brother; and Chap. 2. 6. he reckons him with Peter and John among the στύλοι, or the chief Pillars of the Church, and to me he seems to be the same with James the Bishop of Jerusalem. For,

1st. Of this James the Bishop of Jerusalem, who was stiled the Just, (a) St. Jerom saith, That he was the Son of Mary, the Sister of the Mother of our Lord, of whom St. John makes mention Chap. 19. 29. where she is stiled the Wife of Cleophas, or Alphæus; and by St. Mark, Chap. 15. 40. the Mother of James the Less.

2dly, It seems highly probable, that the James mentioned Acts 15. was strictly an Apostle; for Paul and Barnabas were sent up to the Apostles and Elders, ver. 2. they were received by the Apostles and Elders, ver. 4. the Apostles and Elders were gathered together to decide the Question touching the Circumcision of the Gentiles, ver. 6. The first Person that speaks to it is Peter the Apostle, the second James, who having determined the Question, it seemed good to the Apostles and Brethren to send Letters to the Churches ver. 22. And these they send with this Inscription, The Apostles, Elders and Brethren. In all which places it is evident, that the Word Apostles, must be taken in the proper Sense, they being still distinguished from all the Elders or Bishops which were not Apostles; nor can it be thought reasonable that St. James here should be ranked among the Elders or the Inferiour sort of the Clergy, it remains then that he was in the strict sense an Apostle. There being therefore no other of that Name then living, but James the Son of Alphæus, who also was the Brother of our Lord, i. e. his Mother's Sister's Son, (i. e. his Cousin) he, in all likelihood, must be the Bishop of Jerusalem.

3dly. The Story of Three that were called James, viz. James the Great, James the Less, and James Bishop of Jerusalem, is, saith (b) Dr. Cave, a great mistake, and built upon a sandy bottom; "For besides, that the Scripture mentions no more than two of this Name, and both Apostles, nothing can be plainer than that St. James the Apostle, whom St. Paul calls the Brother of our Lord, was the same that presided among the Apostles, and determined in the Synod at Jerusalem. "Nor do either (c) Clemens Alexandrinus, or Eusebius

" Eusebius out of him, mention any more than " two, St. James put to death by Herod, and " St. James the Just, Bishop of Jerusalem, " whom they expressly affirm to be the same " with him whom St. Paul calls the Brother of " our Lord. Once indeed Eusebius makes our " St. James one of the Seventy, though else- " where quoting a place of (d) Clemens of Alex- " andria, he numbers him with the chief of the " Apostles, and expressly distinguishes him from " the Seventy Disciples. And though (e) St. Jerom, when he represents the Opinion of o-thers, stiles him the 13*th.* Apostle, yet elsewhere, when speaking his own Sense, he sufficiently proves that there were but two, (f) James the Son of Zebedee, and the other the Son of Alphæus, the one sirnamed the Greater, the other the Less; and he frequently stiles the Author of this Epistle writ to the Twelve Tribes, James the Apostle: Besides, saith he, the main support of the other Opinion is built upon the Authority of Clemens his Recognitions, a Book, in doubtful Cases, of no Esteem and Value.

§. 2. And having thus shew'd that James the Apostle, and Brother of our Lord, was the Author of this Epistle, we cannot reasonably doubt the Authority of it; especially if we consider that it is cited by (g) Clemens Romanus four several times, and by (h) Ignatius in his Genuine Epistle to the Ephesians, by (i) Origen in his Thirteenth Homily upon Genesis. (k) Eusebius saith it was known to most, and publickly read in most Christian Churches; (l) St. Jerom, that in process of Time it obtained Authority. (m) Esthius notes, " That they who before doubted of it, in the " Fourth Century embraced the Opinion of them " who received it, and that from thence no " Church, no Ecclesiastical Writer is found " who ever doubted of it, but on the contrary " all the Catalogues of the Books of Holy Scrip- " ture published by General or Provincial " Councils, Roman Bishops, or other Ortho- " dox Writers, number it among Canonical " Scriptures; quæ probatio ad certam fidem faciendam cuique Catholico sufficere debet, which Proof must give sufficient certainty of it to any Catholick. As for the seeming Contradiction of this Epistle, to the Doctrine of St. Paul in the matter of Justification by Faith, see it sufficiently cleared in the Close of the Annotations on the Second Chapter.

§. 3. 4thly. That this Epistle was directed to the Twelve Tribes which were scattered abroad, the Words of this Epistle shew; but whether the Twelve Tribes import only those of them which returned into Judea, or those of them also who were carried away by the Assyrians, and never returned to their own Nation, so as to make any more a distinct People, or a Body Politick under their own Governors, is uncertain: That God had absolutely determined, that the Ten Tribes should never more return to such a State, the Prophet Hosea in many places doth inform us, as when God by him saith, I will no more have Mercy on the House of Israel, but I will utterly take them away, Chap. 1. 6. That they should be among the Gentiles as a Vessel wherein is no pleasure, Chap. 8. 8. That they should not dwell in the Lord's Land, Chap. 9. 3. And again, I will drive them out of my House, I will love them no more: My God will cast them away, because they did not hearken to him, and they shall be Wanderers among the Nations, ver. 15. 17.

And yet that God designed not to exclude them from the Blessings promised in the Days of the Messiah, or from being called into the Church of Christ, is as evident from many Expressions, and gracious Promises of God recorded in that Prophet concerning the same Tribes of Israel; as v. g. That the number of the Children of Israel shall be as the Sand of the Sea which cannot be measured, nor numbered: and it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, ye are not my People, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are the Sons of the living God, Chap. 1. 10, 11. &c. And again, I will betroth thee unto me for ever, yea I will betroth thee unto me in Righteousness and Judgment, and in loving Kindness, and in Mercies; I will even betroth thee unto me in Faithfulness, and thou shalt know the Lord, Chap. 2. 19, 20. I will have Mercy on her which had not obtained Mercy, and I will say to them which were not my People, Thou art my People, and they shall say, thou art my God, ver. 23. And again, Afterwards shall the Children of Israel return, and seek the Lord their God, and David their King, and shall fear the Lord and his Goodness in the latter Days, Chap. 3. 5. See Chap. 14. 4, 8. Now these Prophecies being not to be fulfilled upon them, by bringing them into their own Land, it seemeth reasonable to conceive they might be fulfilled by calling them to embrace the Gospel, and that by doing so were those words fulfilled, I will call them my People who were not my People, not only towards the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 24, 25, 26. but also towards those Israelites of whom they primarily were spoken, 1 Pet. 2. 10. And to this the Inscription seems to lead us, it being τοῖς δώ-δεκα φυλαῖς, ταῖς ἐν τῇ διασπορᾷ, to the Twelve Tribes, to those who are in the Dispersion. That the Places whither these Ten Tribes were carried by the Assyrians were well known to the other Jews, see proved by Dr. Lightfoot, that in Mesopotamia, Media, and Babylon, where they were placed, the Jews abounded in a very great measure. (n) Josephus testifies, they had there Three Famous Universities, Neerda, Sorana, and Pombeditha. We therefore have great reason to believe the Gospel was then Preached among them by the Apostles of the Circumcision. See the Preface to the First Epistle of St. John.

There is one farther Observation taken notice of by Grotius and Dr. Hammand, That some part of this Epistle seems to be directed not only to Believers, but even to the unbelieving Jews, especially the six first Verses of the Fifth Chapter, where he saith, Ye have killed the Just, and he doth not resist you; which cannot well agree to the Converted Jews, to whom he seems to turn his Speech in these following Words, Be patient therefore, Brethren, ver. 7. Yea, the whole Third and Fourth Chapters may be equally directed to both, the name of Brethren suiting to both, when used by a Jew writing to them, Rom. 9. 2.

§. 4. As for the occasion of this Epistle, it seemeth to be written upon two Accounts.

1st. To correct the pernicious Errors both in Doctrine and Manners, which had crept into the Theology of the Jews, and had an evil Influence on their Practice. See Note on Chap. 2. v. 11. and v. 14. to the end of the Chapter.

2dly. To Comfort and Establish the sincere Believers under the pressures which they then suffered, or were shortly to expect from the Unbelieving Jews, or their false Brethren. Where note,

1. That though the Jews, from the beginning of the Apostles Preaching, were still incensed against the Christians, yet seeing Christianity, whilst they continued Preaching to the Jews, did not spread much among other Nations, and since the Jews were under restraints in the Time of Caius, who had no good Affection to them, they could not proceed far in shewing their Hatred to the Christian Faith. What Persecutions therefore happened in those early Times, concern'd only the Churches of Judæa, or thereabouts, or spent themselves on the chief Leaders and Asserters of the Christian Faith, St. Stephen, St. James, St. Peter, and St. Paul, or on the Churches Converted from the Jewish Synagogues, and reach'd no farther than the Places where they were converted; and though they were begun by Instigation of the Jews, yet were they chiefly managed by the Heathen Powers, or by their own Country-men. For about the 39th. Year of Christ, then had the Churches Peace throughout all Judæa, Galilee, and Samaria, Acts 9. 31. and so they seem to have continued till after the Council of Jerusalem, the Churches being then established in the Faith, and encreasing in number daily, Acts 16. 5. Yea, when Paul comes to Rome, he receives all that came unto him for two whole Years, Preaching the Kingdom of God, and teaching the things which concerned the Lord Jesus Christ with all confidence, no Man forbidding him, Acts 28. 30, 31. So that at least till the Fourth or Fifth Year of Nero, the Gospel was freely preached at Rome, without any Contradiction either of the Romans or the Jews. But then in his Sixth Year, afflicti suppliciis Christiani, the Christians were subjected to Punishment by him, saith (o) Suetonius; and it seems very probable, saith Dr. Lightfoot, that even then Nero had by some Act or Edict suppressed Christianity, not only at Rome, but also at Judæa, as he gathers from that Clause in Tacitus, Repressaque in præsens exitiabilis superstitio, rursus erumpebat non modo per Judæam originem ejus mali, sed per urbem etiam, which shews that before the Persecution began, in the Tenth of Nero, of which Tacitus there speaks, Christianity had been by him suppressed not at Rome only, but Judæa. Here then some place St. Peter's πρὸς πυρωσιν, burning for Tryal, which forwarded the Defection which was so general in the Churches of the Jews that had received the Gospel, they falling to Moses again, or joining the Adhesion to the Law with the Profession of the Gospel, that so they might retain their Liberty, the Religion of the Jews, not being at all suppressed by him, and that, they might escape the Rage of the Jews, who, doubtless, by his Example, would be induced to, express that Hatred they had still born against the Christians. The same Nero in his Tenth, Year renews this Persecution of the Christians, and this he did, saith (p) Orosius, not only at Rome, but by his Edict through all the Provinces of his Empire; and this encourag'd the Jews every where to shew their utmost Rage against all those of their Religion, whether Jews or Proselytes, who had embrac'd the Faith of Christ sincerely; and the more they drew nigh to their final Desolation, the more did Satan inhance their Fury against those Christians, whom he found the fatal Enemies and Overthrowers of his Kingdom.

§. 5. Note, lastly, That whereas Mr. le Clerc saith, Note on Chap. 5. 3. That St. James doth not speak here to the Jews who had imbrac'd the Faith in Palestine, but to those who were scattered abroad, seeing he speaks to the whole Twelve Tribes, I doubt not but those of Palestine must be included; but when he adds, that those Jews only who lived in Palestine, and the Neighbouring Countries, and had risen up in Arms against the Romans, were destroyed by them, suggesting that the Jews, dispersed throughout the other Parts of the Roman Empire, received no harm; this is a great mistake; for these being the Days of Vengeance, upon the Unbelievers of that Nation, God's severe Judgments reached them every where, as we may fully learn from the rueful Account (q) Josephus gives us of their Calamities throughout all their Dispersions; for, saith he, when the Romans had no Enemies left in Judæa, the danger reach'd, πολλοῖς καὶ ἀπωτάτω κατοικούντων, to many of them living the remotest from it, for many of them perished at Alexandria, and Cyrene, and in other Cities of Egypt, and throughout all Syria. And Eleazer in (r) Josephus having reckon'd up many places where they were cruelly slaughter'd, concludes thus, μακρὸν ἂν εἴη νῦν ἰδίᾳ λέγειν, 'twould be too long to speak of all these Places in particular.

We know from (s) Tacitus and others, that the Jews were a Nation generally hated by all about them, and by those among whom they lived, partly because they used, Ritus contrarios cæteris mortalibus, Rites contrary to all other Nations, and spake, and thought Contemptuously of their Deities and Worship; partly because they bore, adversus omnes alios hostile odium, the greatest Hatred to Men of other Nations, and shewed the greatest Contempt of them, calling them Dogs, and thinking it unlawful to converse with them, and a Pollution even to touch them. All Nations therefore where they lived must, upon all Occasions, be ready to rise up against them, as we may learn from the Slaughter of them in (t) Cæsarea, Damascus, Scythopolis, and throughout all the Cities of Syria about the beginning of the War, of which Josephus gives us the Account. When therefore the Romans were very much incensed against them, because when other Nations had submitted to their Empire, soli Judæi non cessissent, they dared to Rebel, must they not be sure to suffer in every Province where they dwelt, not only from the Roman Governours, but also from those People in every Nation who bore so great Hatred to them? And hence (u) Eusebius informs us, That they did thus suffer in all other Places.

2dly. (x) Josephus doth confess that the Jews in Judæa did expect, ὅταν τὸ πρὸς Εὐφράτην ὁμόφυλον ἡμῶν συνεπιρρώσωσιν, that all of their own Nation, even beyond Euphrates, should be assistant to them in this War; and doubtless they were not wholly disappointed in their Expectation, for in their War commenced under Hadrian, (y) Dion expressly says, That the Jews out of all Nations came to their help. We therefore reasonably may conceive this also was so in the former War under Vespasian and Titus, and then we cannot doubt that they who shared in the War, must also bear a share in the Calamities it brought upon that Nation in those Days of Vengeance which befel them for their Infidelity, and the Rejection of the true Messiah, of which the Jews who lived in other Nations, were as guilty as those who lived in Judæa.

§. 6. And hence also I return an Answer to an Objection which I foresee may be made against my Interpretation of some Passages in the Fourth and Fifth Chapters of this Epistle, viz. that I restrain them to what was done to and by the Jews in Judæa; whereas this Epistle is written to the Twelve Tribes which were scattered abroad, ver. 1.

For, 1st. As all the Jews of the Dispersion were under the Government of the Sanhedrim, and after of the Patriarch of the Jews residing in Judæa, and obey'd his Pleasure; so many, both of Jews and Proselytes, went up out of all Nations to their Feasts; when the Holy Ghost fell down on the Apostles at the day of Pentecost we find them there, Acts 2. and when Jerusalem was besieged at their (z) Paschal Feast; and so, even upon that account, they must be somewhat concern'd in what was done and suffer'd in Judæa; and if they sided with them in that War, as I have shew'd it probable they did, they must be more concern'd in these Matters. But,

2dly. Josephus tells us that they had Wars about the same time in many Places of their Dispersions with the Gentiles; that when the Alexandrians, in the Reign of Nero, had impeach'd Three of their Brethren as Enemies and Spies, (a) ἔδραμε πᾶν τὸ Ἰουδαϊκὸν ἐπὶ τὴν ἄμυναν, all the Jews there rose up to their Aid; and that Tiberius Alexander, the Governor of the City, commanded the Roman Legions to slay them, καὶ κλήσεις αὐτῶν διαρπάζειν, καὶ τὰς οἰκίας

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS

On the General Epistle of St. JAMES.

CHAP. I.

a Verse 1. [a] JAMES a Servant of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ, [sendeth] b to the twelve b Tribes which are c scattered c abroad, greeting.

2. My Brethren, count it [matter, not of sorrow, but of] all Joy, when [through the Divine permission] ye fall d into divers Temptations, [i. e. Afflictions from the World.]

3. Knowing this, that [this outward Trouble sent for] e the trial of your Faith, [by the help of God's over-ruling Grace, and the aid of his holy Spirit then especially residing on you, 1 Pet. 4. 14.] worketh [in you] Patience.

4. But [and] let Patience have her perfect
f work [in you,] that f ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing [to make you perfect in Christ Jesus, and entire as to all Christian Graces.]

5. [Εἰ δὲ, and] If any of you lack wisdom, [how to exercise, and preserve this Patience under the various Temptations he may be subject to,] let him ask [it] of [that] God, who giveth to all Men liberally, [whatsoever he sees needful for us,] and upbraideth [us] not, [for want of this Wisdom,] and [if he
g duly ask] g it shall be given him.

h 6. But [then] let him [take care to] h ask in Faith, nothing wavering, for he that wavereth [in the time of Temptation,] is like a wave of the Sea, driven with the Wind, and tossed [to and fro by every Temptation.]

7. For let not [μὴ γὰρ, let not then] that Man think, that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8. [For] a double-minded Man is unstable in all his ways, [and therefore cannot pray in Faith, as he that would be heard must do.]

9. [And if Temptations be matter of the Christian's Joy,] Let the Brother of i low de- i gree [impoverish'd by them] rejoyce [still] in that he is exalted, [to be rich in Faith, and an Heir of the Kingdom of God, Chap. 2. 5. Luke 6. 20.]

10. But [let] the k rich [rejoice] in that he k is made low, because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away; [Gr. For as the flower of the grass shall pass away when it is scorched with the Sun;]

11. [For the Sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth, the grass falleth, and the flower thereof, and the Grace of the Fashion of it perisheth] so also shall the rich Man fade away in his ways.

12. Blessed is the Man that [thus] endureth Temptation, [for the sake of Christ,] for when he is tried [Gr. δόκιμος γενόμενος, being approved,] he shall receive the Crown of Life which the Lord hath promised to them that love him; [i. e. being by his patient enduring of these afflictions for the sake of Christ approved, as one that loves him more than the World, he shall receive the Reward promised to them that do so.]

13. [As for the other sort of Temptations unto sin,] Let no Man say when he is [thus] tempted, I am tempted of God, for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any Man [to it.]

14. l But every Man is tempted when l
he is drawn away by his own Lust, and enticed, [Gr. being drawn, and enticed by his own Lust.]

15. Then

15 Then when Lust hath conceived, [i. e. obtained any consent to, or approbation, and good liking to the desire of the sensual Appetite,] it bringeth forth [and engageth the Soul in] sin; And sin, when it is finished, [in the deliberate outward Action, or such endeavours to perform and execute it, as want nothing on the part of the Will to the Completion of it, and much more when by a customary Practice it becomes habitual,] [m] bringeth forth Death, [the wages of sin.]

16. Do not err, my beloved Brethren, [by ascribing your sin, or your temptations to it, unto God.]

17. Every good gift, and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of Lights, [the light of Nature, and of Grace,] with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning [from good to evil; he therefore never will deny those gifts to them that duly ask him, nor will he ever be wanting in his Grace, and Favour to them that love him, and much less will be tempt any one to depart from him.]

18. [For] of his own will begat he us, [Jews] [n] by the word of Truth, that we should be a kind of First-fruits of his [new] Creatures, [we therefore have little cause to think he will do any thing to destroy that life, or deny us any thing which he sees necessary to preserve that life which he so freely gave.]

19. Wherefore, my beloved Brethren, [being regenerated by this word of Truth,] let every Man be [o] swift to hear [it,] [o] slow to speak, [v. 26. or be a Teacher of it, Ch. 3. 1.] [p] slow to wrath, [or Contention about it.]

20. For the wrath of Man worketh not the righteousness of God, [i. e. it tends not to beget, or to improve that Faith by which we are Righteous before God, but rather to hinder it in our selves, and others.]

21. Wherefore lay apart all filthiness, [all evil lustings, v. 14.] and superfluity of naughtiness, [all the Distempers of your Tongue, and of your angry Passions, v. 19.] and receive with meekness the [q] ingrafted word, which [being thus received,] is able to save your Souls.

[But that it may have this effect upon you,] be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves, [by thinking that sufficient to procure favour with God.]

23. [r] For if any [Man] be a hearer of the word [only,] and not a doer [of it,] he is like unto a Man beholding his [own] natural Face [which he was born with,] in a Glass,

24. For he beholdeth himself, and goeth [presently] his way, and straightway forgets what manner of Man he was.

25. But whoso looketh into the perfect Law of Liberty, [i. e. the Gospel which gives the spirit of liberty, and freedom from the Power of Sin, and Death, and from the spirit of Bondage, Rom. 8. 2, 15. 2 Cor. 3. 17.] and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the Word; this Man shall be blessed in his Deed.

26. If any Man among you seem to be Religious, and bridleth not his Tongue, [from bitter Zeal, Contentions, and Imprecations, Ch. 3. 10. 14.] [s] but deceiveth, [Gr. deceiving] his own heart, [thinks his Zeal for God will bear him out in all this] that Man's Religion is vain [Chap. 3. 14, 15.]

27. Pure Religion and undefiled before God, and, [i. e. who is] the Father is [visible in] this, [that it engages the Christian] [t] to visit the Fatherless and Widows in their Affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the World.

Annotations on Chapter I.

a Verse 1. JAMES.] That this was James an Apostle, is confirmed from the Testimony of (a) Eusebius, who declares of that James to whom the Ancients ascribed this Epistle, that he was the Brother of the Lord. The same we learn from the Syriack, Arabick, Vulgar, and Ethiopick Versions, by all which he is stiled James the Apostle.

b Ibid. Ταῖς δώδεκα φυλαῖς, to the Twelve Tribes] That some of the Ten Tribes remained in, and some of them returned to the Land of Israel, we are assured from the Cities of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even to Nepthali, purged by Josiah from their Idols, 2 Chron. 34. 6. from the Money sent in to repair the House of the Lord from Manasseh, Ephraim, and the Remnant of Israel, v. 9. from the mention made of the Children of Israel that were come again out of their Captivity, Esdr. 6. 21. and the Sin-offering made by Ezra at the Dedication of the Temple, of Twelve Goats according to the number of the Tribes of Israel, v. 17. and from these following words, Chap. 8. 35. The Children of those which had been carried away, which were come out of the Captivity, offered Twelve Goats for a Sin-offering; And lastly, from the mention of the Twelve Tribes by the Apostle Paul, who instantly served God day and night, Acts 26. 7.

c Ibid. Ἐν τῇ διασπορᾷ, which are scattered abroad.] That the Jews were dispersed throughout the World, we learn from the words of Agrippa in his Oration to them; who who tells them that (b) There was not a Nation upon Earth, where some part of them were not seated: And that if they of Judæa should rebel, all of them that resided in other places would be destroyed, and every City would be filled with the blood of them. From the words of Strabo cited by (c) Josephus, That it was not easie to find an eminent Place in the whole World where the Jews did not reside. From (d) Philo in his Oration against Flaccus where he makes mention, τῶν πανταχόθεν τῆ οἰκουμένης Ἰουδαίων, of the Jews dispersed thoughout all the World; adding, that one Region could not contain the Jews, but (e) they dwelt in most of the flourishing Cities of Asia, and in Europe, in the Islands, and in the Continents, not much less in number than the Inhabitants: And introducing (f) Agrippa interceding to Caius for them as inhabiting in the most celebrated parts of Africa, Asia, and Europe. And even (g) Cicero in his Oration for another Flaccus, declares that the Gold which the Jews sent to their Temple at Jerusalem, was sent from Italy, and all the other Provinces of the Roman Empire.

d Ver. 2. Πειρασμοῖς ποικίλοις, into divers Temptations.] Temptations, saith Oecumenius, are of two kinds; 1. Such as lead to Sin, which the Lusts of the Flesh, and the Love of Riches produce in us, 1 Tim. 6. 9. against which our Lord instructs us to pray that we enter not into them, and of these the Apostle begins to Discourse, v. 13. Or such as are sent for the Tryal of our Constancy, and sincerity in the Faith; and to our Patience and Perseverance under these, is promised a great Reward in Heaven; And of these the Apostle speaketh here, and v. 12. See Luke 22. 28. Heb. 4. 15.

e Ver. 3. Τὸ δοκίμιον, the Trial of our Faith,] Being attended with these Assistances, and Consolations of the Holy Ghost, and these firm hopes of a most glorious Reward of all our Sufferings, tends naturally to make us bear them patiently; as the Apostle speaketh here. But then it is as true, that ὑπομονὴ κατεργάζεται τὸ δοκίμιον, Rom. 5. 4. i. e. that this Patience worketh the Trial, and by that, in good Christians, the Experience of their Sincerity, and Constancy in the Faith: And therefore it concerns them not to faint under these Tribulations.

f Ver. 4. Τέλειοι, That you may be perfect, and entire.] For where there is this perfect Work of Patience, there must be a strong Faith as the Foundation of it, a steddy Vertue, or Christian Fortitude, enabling us thus to sustain these fiery Trials, an exact Knowledge of our Duty, to bear these Afflictions with a meek and quiet Spirit, with Forgiveness of, love to, and Prayer for them that persecute us, which includes the height of Charity, under the highest Provocations; a great Love to God, for whose sake we suffer, and a strong Affection to his Service; a greater fear of his Displeasure than of the Wrath of Man; an entire Trust and Dependance on him, and a full Resignation to his Will of Providence, in which consists the Life of Godliness; an exact Temperance as to the Honours, Pleasures, and Temporal Concernments of this Life we lose by these our Sufferings, and a true Charity to our Christian Brethren, for whose Example and Encouragement we do thus suffer. Now these are all the Graces which Apostle Peter doth require to make us fruitful, and perfect Christians, 2 Pet. 1. 5, 6, 7, 8.

Ver. 5. Δοθήσεται, it shall be given.] Hence g it appears, that this Wisdom depends not our own Skill or Strength; nor can it be obtained without Divine Assistance.

Ver. 6. Αἰτείτω —— μηδὲν διακρινόμενος, ἀνὴρ γὰρ δίψυχος.] What is the ἀνὴρ δίψυχος, ἢ διακρινόμενος, the double minded, and the wavering Man, we may learn from (h) Hermas, who informs us, that Visions and Revelations are διὰ τὸς διψύχους, for the double-minded, i. e. τὸς διαλογιζομένους ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις αὐτῶν, εἰ ἄρα ἐστὶ ταῦτα, ἢ οὐκ ἔστιν, that is for them who reason in their hearts, whether these things will be, or not. And again, (i) Credite Deo qui estis dubii, Believe in God you that are doubtful, for he can do all things. Woe to the doubtful, who have heard these things, and contemned them. And again, (k) They that doubt of God, they are the double-minded, who shall receive none of their requests. See the whole Mandate to the same effect. And from that of (l) Barnabas touching him that walketh in the way of Light, that ὁ μὴ διψυχήσῃ, he will not be doubtful whether a thing will be so, or not; From the like Precept of the (m) Apostolical Constitutions, μὴ γίνου δίψυχος, be not doubtful in thy Prayer whether thy Petition will be heard, or not; and from (n) St. Clement, with whom οἱ δίψυχοι, the doubtful are οἱ διστάζοντες περὶ τῆς τοῦ Θεοῦ δυνάμεως, the Diſtruſters of the Power of God. This Faith therefore relates to Prayer, and is a firm belief that God will afford to his ſincere Servants, under all their Sufferings for his ſake, ſuch aid as will enable them to bear them with true Chriſtian Patience, 1 Cor. 10. 13. and ſuch Wiſdom as will direct them to improve theſe Sufferings to his Glory, and their Good. He that doubts of this, will be now hoping, and anon deſponding, apt to quit his Dependance on God, and lean on his own Wiſdom, and ready to caſt off that Religion which ſubjects him to theſe Temptations from which he expects no good Iſſue; and therefore wanting that Faith in God which is here made the Condition of an acceptable Prayer, &c. he cannot hope to obtain any thing of him.

i Ver. 9. ὁ ταπεινὸς, the Man of low degree,] in the Old Teſtament is the poor and afflicted Man. So עני is in the Septuagint πένης, ταπεινὸς, the Poor, the Afflicted, עניי πενία, ταπείνωσις, Poverty, or Lowneſs of State: And this Senſe here is confirmed from the oppoſition of the Rich to him.

k Ver. 10. ὁ πλούσιος, the Rich.] Let God, ſaith (o) Philo, be the matter of thy chief Joy, not Riches, Honour, Strength, or Beauty, theſe being μαραινόμενα τρόπον τινὰ πρὶν ἀνθῆσαι ἐκμαλῶς, things which wither before they are fully grown up. Let then the Chriſtian conſider, that the things he loſeth for the ſake of Chriſt, are only things of ſuch a fading nature, whereas he doth ſecure by his Perſeverance, an everlaſting Treaſure reſerved for him in the Heavens; and then he may rejoice in his Humiliation. Note alſo an Ellipſis of the Verb καυχάσθω, let him rejoice, v. 10. to be taken from v. 9. So John 15. 4. 1 Cor. 4. 15. Gal. 2. 7. Eph. 1. 12.

l Ver. 14. Note here, That the Deſires, or Luſtings of the ſenſual Appetite, put us only under a ſtate of Temptation, not of actual Sin; they are indeed the Root of Sin, but ſo is Temptation to Sin, and the Suggeſtions of Satan, but they are not our Sins till we conſent to them; they are not a Tranſgreſſion of the Law, for there is no Law given to the ſenſual Appetite alone, but to the whole Man, who cannot hinder ſenſual Appetites from ariſing in him before he perceives them, but he can reſtrain the Will from conſenting to them as ſoon as he perceives them, and can refuſe to admit of them, or ſuffer them to make ſtay in, or gain upon his Mind to contemplate them with delight, or aſſent to them: And this being all he can do, muſt be all he is obliged by the Law to do. There be many Scriptures urged againſt this Opinion in the Synopſis, but they are too impertinent to be inſiſted on.

Ver. 15. Ἀποκύει θάνατον, bringeth forth m Death.] i. e. Not only deſerveth Death, for ſo doth the conſent of the Will, but it renders us obnoxious to Death, and will end in it without Repentance. Hence therefore note, That not only the Soul hardned in Sin, and given up to the frequent Practice of the ſame Sin, is guilty of Mortal Sin, but every deliberate ſinful Action done againſt the Convictions, and Checks of Conſcience, till by Repentance it is retracted, puts us under that State, as being a breach of the Goſpel Covenant of Sincere, and Impartial Obedience, a departing of the Heart from God, and a wilful, and preſumptuous Sin: And therefore David after his Adultery, and Murder, prays that God would create in him the clean Heart, and renew in him the right Spirit. Though therefore God in Mercy may, and will deal with ſuch Men not according to their particular Failures, but according to the general Tenure of their lives, yet can they claim no Covenant-Right to ſuch a Favour, till they have throughly repented of ſuch wilful Sins, and returned to the Sincere performance of their Duty.

Ver. 18. λόγῳ ἀληθείας, by the Word of p Truth.] Here is a plain Evidence that the Word of God is the ordinary means of our Regeneration, it being the Word preached, the Word we are to hear, v. 19. 22. and to receive with meekneſs, by which the new Birth is by God wrought in us, and which, ſaith the Apoſtle, is able to ſave the Soul: And it is ſurely a great Diſparagement to the Word of God, to think that his Perſuaſions, Admonitions, Exhortations, and Threats, ſhould be all inſufficient to prevail with us to turn from our ſinful Courſes, and to turn to him, when all Men who do uſe theſe Methods towards their Children, Servants, Friends, or Relations, do it in hopes they ſhall be ſucceſsful by theſe means; only this is not ſo to be underſtood as to exclude the Bleſſing and Co-operation of God with the Word preached, or the Aſſiſtance of his Holy Spirit, ſetting it home upon our Hearts, provided this be not by way of Phyſical, but Moral Operation, by that Illumination of the Underſtanding, from the Word which produceth that renovation in the Spirit of the Mind, by which we are enabled to diſcern, and to approve the good, and acceptable, and perfect Will of God, Rom. 12. 2. Eph. 4. 23 to diſcern what is acceptable to the Lord, Eph. 5. 10. to underſtand what the Will of the

the Lord is, v. 17. the things that are moſt excellent. And if the Word of God be a perfect Rule, able to make us wiſe unto Salvation, and furniſh us for every good Work, ſure the good Spirit may by his ſuggeſtion of the Truths delivered in it, by bringing them to our Remembrance, and opening our Underſtanding to perceive the Scriptures, remove that Darkneſs which is in our Minds, either by natural Corruption, or by the Miſts which Satan caſts upon them, whence the Apoſtle doth inform us, 2 Cor. 4. 3, 4. that if the Goſpel be hidden from any to whom it is preached, it is becauſe the God of the World hath blinded the Conceptions of their Minds, that the light of the glorious Goſpel ſhould not ſhine into them. And, 2dly, by making deep impreſſions on the Mind of the Advantages, and Rewards promiſed to our Converſion and ſincere Obedience, and the tremendous Evils threatned to the Diſobedient, and bringing theſe things oft to our Remembrance, which in the Scripture Phraſe is putting theſe Laws in our Minds, and writing them upon our Hearts, that we may not depart from him, Heb. 8. 10. See Note on Heb. 8. 10. For what Reaſon can be given why the Spirit of Wiſdom, having enlightned the Eyes of our Underſtanding, to know what is the hope of our Calling, and the glorious Riches of the Inheritance of the Saints, Eph. 1. 18. and theſe things being as firmly believed, and made thus preſent to our Minds, ſhould not have greater prevalence upon our Wills to Obedience, than any temporal Concerns to yield Obedience to the Laws of Sin? 'Tis certain Satan can tempt us no other way than by ſuggeſting ſome temporal Allurements and Advantages, or ſome temporal Loſſes, and Affrightments to us: Since then the Scripture doth aſſure us, this is our Victory over the World, even our Faith, 1 John 5. 4. even that Faith which is the firm Expectation of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen, Heb. 11. 1. Why ſhould not theſe Objects of our Faith, preſented to us, and impreſſed on us by the Holy Spirit, be more Powerful to baffle all the Temptations of Sin, Satan, and the World? If beyond this there be ſome Phyſical, and Irreſiſtible Operation on God's part requiſite to make Men know the things which belong to their Peace, and knowing to chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil, this being not wrought in them who are not Born anew, why is the want of this New-Birth, and this Spiritual Renovation, ſo oft imputed to Mens want of Conſideration, and of laying to Heart the things propounded to them? Their not inclining their Ear to Wiſdom, and applying their Heart to Underſtanding? Their hatred of Knowledge, their rejecting the Counſel of God, and not chuſing the Fear of the Lord? Prov. 1. 24, 25, 29, 30. Why is it ſaid that they continue thus unreformed, becauſe they would have none of God's Counſel, but deſpiſed all his Reproofs; becauſe, they would not frame their Doings to turn unto the Lord? to omit innumerable Expreſſions of the like Import. See Note on Rom. 10. 17. 1 Pet. 1. 23.

Ver. 19. Slow to ſpeak] It was the Imputation which the Heathens caſt upon the Chriſtians, that they were in publico muti, not being inclined palam loqui, to ſpeak openly of their Religion, and this is confeſſed by (p) Chriſtians to be true of the Laity, who were not by Office engaged to Preach it to the World; that it was not their Cuſtom to aſſert and defend their Religion publickly, but only to give an Anſwer to them who required a Reaſon of the hope that was in them; and in this Senſe good Commentators do Expound theſe Words, viz. as an admonition to be ſlow to ſpeak of Divine things, and much more to be Teachers of them. o

Ibid. Βραδὺς εἰς ὀργὴν, Slow to wrath.] This was an admonition needful for the Jewiſh Zealots, who were ἐξ ἐριθείας of contentious Spirits, See Note on Rom. 2. 8. filled with Wrath againſt the Teachers of Chriſtianity, and eſpecially againſt thoſe who denied the neceſſity of Circumciſing the Gentiles, or requiring them to obſerve the Law of Moſes, Acts 13. 45. 17. 5. (q) They compelling all Men to be Circumciſed if they would abide with them; and looking upon this as a thing of abſolute neceſſity, without which nothing elſe would ſatisfy them. p

Now theſe Diſputes naturally tended to obſtruct that Faith by which Men were juſtified, and not by Circumciſion, or the Works of the Law, and which in the Epiſtles of St. Paul is ſtill ſtiled the Righteouſneſs of God; See note on Rom. 1. 17. (2) They were very prone to ſet up for Teachers of the Law, tho' they underſtood not aright thoſe things of which they ſpake, 1 Tim. 1. 7. Rom. 2. 18. and this might give occaſion to the other Admonition here, to be ſlow to ſpeak. And Chap. 3. 1. they alſo were incontinent, and very prone to Luſtings, and to Fornications, See Note on Rom. 2. 22. 2 Tim. 3. 5. Heb. 12. 16. and therefore fitly are admoniſhed to lay aſide all Filthineſs, and ſuperfluity of Naughtineſs.

q Ver. 21. Τὸν ἔμφυτον λόγον, the ingrafted Word] ſaith Occumenius, is that Principle of Reaſon by which we are enabled to diſcern Good from Evil; but of that the Apoſtle would not ſay, that it is able to ſave our Souls. But the Apoſtles, or Preachers of the Chriſtian Faith being ſaid φυτεύειν to Plant the Word among their Hearers, 1 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8. the Ingrafted Word ſeems to be the Word planted in the Heart of Believers by the Miniſters of Chriſt, which St. Barnabas ſtiles τὴν ἔμφυτον δωρεὰν τ῀ διδαχ῀ς αὐτ῀, the Ingrafted Gift of his Doctrine, §. 9. p. 6.

f Ver. 26. Ἀπατ῀, &c. deceiving his own Heart.] That the unbelieving Jews had a Zeal for God the Apoſtle bears them Record, Rom. 10. 2. but then that Zeal wrought ſo great a Bitterneſs of Spirit in them, that in thoſe very Synagogues in which they met to bleſs God, they imprecated a Curſe upon the Chriſtians created anew after his Image, Chap. 3. 10. I being zealous for God, as all you are this day, ſaith St. Paul, perſecuted this way unto the Death, Acts 22. 3, 4. and in thus doing they thought they did God Service, John 16. 2. The Zealots among them, ſaith their own (r) Joſephus, who gave themſelves that Name from their Zeal to what was good, committed all manner of wickedneſs, and accounted the worſt of Evils good. And yet (s) Eleazer, the Ringleader of them, repreſents them as perſons who had cauſe to hope they ſhould be by God preſerved, as having not offended againſt him, and being guilty of no Fault, and being Teachers of others. That the believing Jews who urged upon the Gentiles the neceſſity of Circumciſion, had a Zeal for God, we learn from Gal. 4. 17, 18. Yet that they had the Spirit of Contention and Envy, Philip. 1. 15, 16. and were deceitful workers, the Apoſtle doth inform us; ſo that neither of them were truly Religious, and to thoſe latter the Apoſtle ſeems chiefly to ſpeak in theſe Words, If ye have bitter Zeal, and ſtrife in your Hearts, Glory not, and lye not againſt the Truth, &c.

Ver. 27. Ἐπισκέπτεσθαι, to viſit the Fatherleſs and Widows.] It is very true that (t) Ignatius ſaith of ſome who maintained Opinions contrary to the Grace of God come unto us, That they had no regard to Charity, to the Widow, and to the Orphan, to the Oppreſſed, to thoſe that were in Bonds, to the Hungry, and Thirſty; But then it is not manifeſt from his Words that theſe were the Gnoſticks; nothing hinders but what the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of may be alſo true of the Jews, who as (u) Joſephus notes were great Enemies one to another, and wanted Mercy moſt of all; or to thoſe Zealots who ſpared none who would not be of their Opinion, and their bitter Zeal. t

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. MY Brethren, have not [a] the faith of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Lord of Glory, [b] with reſpect of Perſons.

2. For if there come [c] into your Aſſemblies, [or Conſiſtories for Judicature,] a Man with a Gold Ring, in goodly Apparel, and there come in alſo a Poor Man in vile Raiment,

3. And ye have reſpect unto him that weareth gay Cloathing, and ſay unto him, Sit thou here in a good place; and ſay to the Poor, Stand thou there, or ſit here under my Footſtool,

4. [d] Are ye not then partial in your ſelves? [do you not both put a difference among your ſelves on theſe accounts,] and [alſo are] become [e] Judges of evil thoughts? [in thinking that the Rich is to be prefer'd in Judgment, and the Poor deſpis'd, v. 6. on theſe accounts?]

5. Hearken, my beloved Brethren; hath not God choſen the Poor of this World, rich in Faith, and Heirs of the Kingdom which he hath Promiſed to them that Love him? [and are they fit to be deſpis'd by you, who are ſo highly Honoured, and enriched by him?]

6. But

6. But [ſo it is, that] ye have deſpiſed the Poor [and had a partial Reſpect to the Rich, and yet] do not [theſe] Rich Men oppreſs you, and draw you before the Judgment Seats [on the account of your Chriſtian Profeſſion?]

7. Do not they blaſpheme that Worthy Name, by which you are called?

8. If [in this Matter] you fulfil [f] the Royal Law [which is] according to the Scripture, [ſaying,] Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf, ye do well; [for then ye will not be guilty of this reſpect of Perſons, for you would not be deſpiſed becauſe you are Poor, or have a Rich Man preferred before you in Judgment.]

9. But if ye have [ſuch] reſpect to perſons [as to honour the Rich, and deſpiſe the Poor in Judicial Cauſes,] ye commit Sin, and are convinced of [or by] the Law [now mentioned,] as Tranſgreſſors [of Gods Law in the General; this Law comprehending all the Duties of the Second Table, Rom. 13. 9. Mat. 22. 39.]

10. For whoſoever ſhall keep the whole Law [in other Matters,] and yet [knowingly] offend in one Point, he is guilty of all.

11. For he that ſaid, Do not commit Adultery, ſaid alſo, Do not Kill; Now if thou commit no Adultery, yet if thou Kill, [g] thou art become [g] a Tranſgreſſor of the Law [of Love, mentioned v. 8. which comprehends all the Duties of the Second Table in which here the Apoſtle inſtanceth.]

12. So [therefore] ſpeak ye, and ſo do, as [h] they that [know they] ſhall be Judged [h] by the Law of Liberty.

13. [i] For he ſhall have Judgment without Mercy, who hath ſhewed no Mercy, [and ſo hath highly thwarted the great Law of Love;] and Mercy rejoyceth againſt [or triumpheth over] Judgment, [i. e. it enables the merciful Man to rejoyce, as being free from the Judgment of Condemnation.]

14. [And let not any Jew or Chriſtian think his Faith ſufficient to juſtify, and ſave him without theſe Works of Charity and Mercy, for] what doth it profit, my Brethren, tho' a man ſay he hath Faith, [in God, v. 19. or in Chriſt,] and have not Works [to evidence his Faith?] can [ſuch a naked, fruitleſs] Faith ſave him?

15. If a Brother, or Siſter be naked, and deſtitute of daily Food,

16. And one of you ſay unto them, Depart in peace, be you warmed, and filled, [wiſhing only that they may be ſo,] notwithſtanding ye give them not thoſe things which be needful for [the cloathing, or feeding] the Body, what doth it profit [them to hear your kind wiſhes?]

17. Even ſo Faith, if it hath not Works, is dead, [fruitleſs, and lifeleſs as thoſe Words,] being alone [without Works ſhewing the Truth of it.]

18. [k] Yea, a man may ſay, [to ſuch a Soli-fidian,] thou haſt [in thy Pretentions] Faith, and I have [real] Works, ſhew me thy Faith, [of which thou boaſteſt] without thy Works, [which thou canſt never do, ſince Faith being ſeated in the Heart can only be diſcovered by its effects,] and I will ſhew thee my Faith by my Works, [as the cauſe is demonſtrated by the effect.]

19. Thou [being a Jew] believeſt that there is one God, thou [in that] doſt well, [but doſt no more than the very Devils, for] the * Devils alſo believe and tremble: [and if thou haſt no better Faith than they, thou haſt the ſame reaſon to tremble which they have.]

20. But wilt thou know, O vain Man, [who boaſteſt of a Faith deſtitute of Works,] that Faith without Works is dead, [and ſo unable to juſtifie and ſave thee? See it in the Example of that very Abraham in thy relation to whom thou ſo confideſt;]

21. [For] was not Abraham [whom we ſtile] our Father juſtified by Works [proceeding from his Faith,] [l] when he had offered his Son Iſaac upon the Altar, [counting that God was able to raiſe him from the dead? Heb. 11. 17, 19.]

22. Seeſt thou how [Gr. thou ſeeſt (by this Example) that] Faith wrought with his Works, [to produce them,] and by Works was Faith made perfect [in him.]

23. And the Scripture was [again] fulfilled, which ſaith, Abraham believed God, and it [viz. that Faith which produced theſe Works] [m] was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs, and [upon that account,] he was called the Friend of God.

24. Ye ſee then how that by Works [proceeding from Faith] a Man is juſtified, and not by Faith only, [alone without them.]

25. Likewiſe alſo was not [n] Raab the Harlot, juſtified by Works [proceeding from her Faith,] when ſhe had received the Meſſengers, and had ſent them out another way?

26. [And ſo it muſt be in all other Perſons who would be ſaved, they muſt ſhew their Faith by their Works;] [o] For as the Body without the Spirit is dead, ſo Faith without Works is dead alſo; [and therefore cannot ſave us, or give Life unto us.] a Verse 1. Τὴν πίστιν τοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ τῆς δόξης, The Faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of Glory.] This Version seems obnoxious to this Exception, that the Pronoun ἡμῶν will not suffer the Word Lord to be joyned with Glory; therefore that which Renders the words thus, The Faith of the Glory of the Lord Jesus Christ; or, Hold not the Glorious Faith of the Lord Jesus Christ with Respect of Persons, seems to be the better Version, and more agreeable to the Design of the Apostle, as giving the best reason against the accepting Persons on the account of their Riches, or their gay Attire, because their Faith hath cloathed them with a greater and more valuable Glory, which renders them more honourable than any Riches or gay Cloathing could do. For this Faith, saith the Apostle, is the Ministration of Glory, and by it we all beholding the Glory of the Lord, are changed into the same Image from Glory to Glory, as by the Spirit of the Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 8, 18. See the Note there. And whom God hath justified by Faith, he hath also glorified, by giving them this Spirit of Glory, Rom. 8. 30. See the Note there.

b Ibid. Ἐν προσωπολημψίαις, with Respect of Persons.] Προσωπολημψία is the Respect of Persons in Judgment, not purely according to the Merits of the Cause, but according to External Respects which relate not to it. As for Instance, the Dread of any Man's Power, or the fear of what he may do to us, if we judge against him: So Lev. 19. 15. Thou shalt not honour the Person of the great, or respect the Person of the Poor; in Justice shalt thou judge thy Neighbour. And Deut. 1. 17. Ye shall not Respect Persons in Judgment, ye shall hear alike the small and the great; ye shall not be afraid of the Face of Man, for the Judgment is the Lord's. Or, 2ly. The Poverty of any Man which renders him less able to suffer the punishment of his Injustice: Thou shalt not Respect a poor man in his Cause, Exod. 23. 3. 3ly. It is the Respecting Persons in Judgment by reason of any Gift, or hope of Gain by favouring any Cause; Thou shalt not wrest Judgment, thou shalt not respect Persons, neither take a Gift, Deut. 16. 19. Or, 4ly. By Reason of Relation, Affinity, Friendship, or Affection. In Spiritual or Evangelical Matters, it is to have regard to Men in reference to things which render them neither better nor worse; more or less acceptable in the sight of God. As for instance, to regard them, 1st. In respect to their Nation, and their Offspring; Of a truth I perceive that God is no Respecter of Persons, but in every Nation he that feareth him, and worketh Righteousness, is accepted of him, Acts 10. 31. He will have no respect to Nations, or External Professions in his future Recompences, Rom. 2. 6, 10. Or, 2ly. With regard to their Condition, as being Masters, or Servants: Hence Masters are bid to deal with their Servants, as knowing they have a Master in Heaven, with whom is no respect of Persons, Eph. 6. 9. And Servants to be just to their Masters, because he that is unjust shall receive for the Wrong that he hath done, and there is no Respect of Persons with God, Col. 3. 25. 1 Pet. 1. 17. Or, 3ly. To their Quality; for God accepteth not the Persons of Princes, nor regardeth the Rich more than the Poor, for they are all the Work of his Hands, Job 34. 39. And this is the thing here censured.

c Ver. 2. Εἰς τὴν Συναγωγὴν, into your Assembly.] That here the Apostle speaketh of Consistories for Civil Judicature, is argued, 1st. From the accepting of Persons mentioned, v. 1. Which in the Old Testament, and the New, as oft as 'tis applyed to men, respecteth Humane Judicatures. 2ly. From the Footstool mentioned, v. 3. which obtained in their Judicial Consistories, and which was proper to Princes on their Thrones, and Judges on their Tribunals. 3ly. From the Judges mentioned v. 4. and the κριτήρια or Judgment Seats, v. 6. 4ly. From the Law violated by this Respect of Persons, v. 8, 9. And Lastly, From the Canon of the Jews, by which it is provided, That when the Rich and Poor have a Suit together in their Consistories, either both must sit, or both stand, to avoid all marks of Partiality. R. Levi Barcinon. l. 142. Juris Hebraici.

Yet because the Jewish Christians then had no distinct Churches of their own, much less any with such distinct Seats for Men of Rank, or such πρωτοκαθεδρίαι, Chief Places as the Jews had, Matth. 23. 6. both in Judea, Alexandria, and other Places, Campeg. Vitringa de Synag. vet. l. 1. c. 9. but rather assembled still in the Jewish Synagogues where there was a Beth-din, or House of Judgment, where the Head of the Synagogue, and the Seniors that Assisted him, sat to give Judgment on Offenders, and where they were brought before them, and scourged for their Offences, Matth. 10. 17. 23. 34. Acts 22. 19. 26. 11. see the Notes there, the Assembly here mentioned might be a Jewish Synagogue. Moreover, the Jews living among the Gentiles, retained still a Jurisdiction over Men of their own Nation, and Religion, even as to Matrimonial, and Pecuniary, as well as Religious Causes; and so the Jewish Christians might be drawn before their Judgment Seats on those Accounts, v. 6. this being long after for-forbidden by a Law of Honorius, and Theodosius. 16 Cod. Theod. Tit. 8. Leg. 22. Vid. Not. on Gothof. p. 240.

d Ver. 4. Καὶ οὐ διεκρίθητε ἐν ἑαυτοῖς;] Do you not put a Difference, or Discrimination among your selves on those accounts, which are Alien from the Cause? That this is the frequent Sense of the Word διακρινόμενοι, and διακρίνεσθαι, see Acts 15. 9. where οὐδὲν διέκρινε is rendred, he put no difference betwixt us, and them. And Jude 22. where we read thus, of some have Compassion, διακρινόμενοι, making a Difference. See Note on Rom. 14. 23.

e Ibid. Κριταὶ διαλογισμῶν πονηρῶν, Judges of Evil thoughts.] i. e. Who pass Judgment from your own Evil thoughts, as judging the Rich worthy of Respect in Judgment, for his Gorgeous Attire and outward Appearance, and the Poor fit to be despised for his outward Meanness.

f Ver. 8. Νόμον βασιλικὸν, the Royal Law.] Not so much because it is the Law of Christ our King, it being a Law of the Old-Testament, as because it is the Law which of all Laws which concern our Neighbour, is most excellent, and which governs, and moderates other Laws, especially the Ceremonial, and positive Laws, which are to give place to that of Charity, and Mercy. Moreover, The Jews themselves so Interpret this Law, as to forbid the Contempt of our Brother, as you may see in Dr. Cartwright's Mellificium on this Place.

g Ver. 11. Παραβάτης νόμου, A Transgressor of the Law.] Or, Because the Authority of the Lawgiver is as much despised by the breaking any one of his Laws, as by the Violation of them all; and he that by it will not be restrained from the Violation of it in one Point, under the like Temptations, will do it in another.

Note farther, that these Words seem to be directly levelled against that loose Doctrine of the Jewish Doctors, mentioned by (a) Dr. Pocock, That God gave so many Commandments to them, that by doing any of them they might be saved. So Kimchi Expounds those Words of Hosea, Take away Iniquity קח טוב and receive good, i. e. saith he, receive in lieu of them any Good, אי זה מצוה, any Commandment that we have done. It was a vulgar Rule among them, saith (b) Dr. Smith, That Men should single out some one Commandment of God's Law, and therein especially exercise themselves, that so they might make God their Friend by that, lest in others they should too much Displease him. And he cites from them this Rule, (c) He that observes any one Precept, it shall be well with him, and his Days shall be prolonged, and he shall possess the Earth. And this Precept was with them usually that of the Sabbath, of Sacrifices, or of Tythes, for these they looked upon as the great Commandments of the Law, not those of Mercy and Judgment, which in our Saviour's account were so.

Ver. 12. Διὰ νόμου ἐλευθερίας, By the Law of Liberty.] i. e. By that Law of Love which makes all Men our Neighbours, and frees us from those Restraints the Ceremonial Law, and the Traditions of the Jewish Doctors, lay upon us, of confining their Love, and freedom of Converse to those that were of their own Nation, or were Circumcised. The Jews had great need of these Instructions, for as they held it unlawful to Converse with Publicans and Sinners, Luke 15. 1, 2. though it were to instruct them in the way of Life, so much more to come to, or Converse with one of another Nation, Acts 10. 28. Yea they would not suffer them to be among them, who would not be Circumcised. Vid. Joseph. in Vita sua, p. 1007. B.

Ver. 13. Of this Mercy the Jews were so unmindful, that (d) Josephus having said, They violated the Laws of Nature, and polluted the Divinity with their Injustice towards Men, he adds, That no good Affection was so entirely lost among them, ὡς ἔλεος, as that of Mercy.

Ver. 18. The Greek in most Copies runs thus, δεῖξόν μοι τὴν πίστιν σου ἐκ τῶν ἔργων σου, κἀγὼ δείξω σοι ἐκ τῶν ἔργων μου τὴν πίστιν μου, i. e. Shew me thy Faith by thy Works, and I will shew thee by my Works my Faith. i. e. Shew me by the proper Fruits of it, the Faith of which thou boastest, and I by the same effects will shew I have that Faith also, tho' I boast not of it; but it is farther to be observed, that ἐκ τῶν ἔργων σου, is left out in Oecumenius, and one Greek Copy; and 2*dly*, That the Alexandrian MSS. and those perused by Curcellæus read χωρὶς τῶν ἔργων σου, without thy Works; So did the Vulgar, the Syriac, and the Æthiopick Versions, and so the following Words, v. 20. Know O vain Man that Faith χωρὶς ἔργων without Works is dead, seem to require; and this Reading our Translation follows.

Ver. 21. Ἀναενέγκας, &c. When he offered his Son Isaac.] This being a greater Act of Faith than that by which he was at first justified, for that was only Faith in God's Promise, that he would raise up Seed from his Dead Body, and the Dead Womb of Sarah, Rom. 4. 20. This was a Belief that he would raise up this very Seed consumed to Ashes from the Dead, and therefore by this Work was his Faith made perfect, i. e advanced to the greatest Height; there being no more noble Act of Faith, than this of the Resurrection of the Dead consumed to Ashes, and none by which we give more Glory to God. See Eccles. 44. 20.

Ver. 25. Ῥαὰβ ἡ πόρνη, Raab the Harlot.] [n] That Raab had a ſtrong Faith in God, the Apoſtle teſtifies by ſaying, By Faith Raab the Harlot periſhed not with thoſe that believed not, receiving the Spies in Peace, Heb. 11. 31. and this ſhe ſhewed by ſaying, The Lord your God he is God in Heaven above, and in Earth beneath, Joſh. 2. 11. And this ſhe teſtified by being ſo induſtrious to preſerve the Meſſengers, and to do all things agreed on betwixt them and her, for her ſafety.

Ver. 26. There have been many ways [o] invented how to reconcile theſe Words of St. James with the Apoſtle Paul aſſerting, That a Man is juſtified by Faith, without the deeds of the Law, Rom. 3. 28. As,

1ſt. That when St. Paul ſaith, We are juſtified by Faith without the Works of the Law, and that to him that worketh not, but believeth, Faith is imputed unto him for Righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 5. or to Juſtification; Juſtification, there aſcribed to Faith alone, imports only our Abſolution from Condemnation by Reaſon of our paſt Offences, committed before Faith, and our Reconciliation to God by the Pardon, or the not imputing them to Believers. It conſiſts, ſaith the Apoſtle, in the Remiſſion of ſins that are paſt, Rom. 3. 25. it is, ſaith Peter, the Purgation of us from our Old Sins, 2 Pet. 1. 9. It is effected by the Death of Chriſt procuring Redemption, for Sins committed under the Old Covenant, Heb. 9. 15. This is apparent from the chief Argument the Apoſtle uſeth to prove the neceſſity that both Jew and Gentile, ſhould be juſtified freely by his Grace, and not by the Works of the Law, becauſe they were all under ſin, all become guilty before God, all having ſinned, and come ſhort of the Glory of God, Rom. 3. 9. 19, 23. Whereas, ſaith he, being juſtified by Faith we have Peace with God, and rejoyce in hope of the Glory of God, Rom. 5. 1, 2. Therefore Chapter the 3d. He muſt be ſpeaking of the Condition of Jew and Gentile, before Faith. So again, when the Apoſtle ſaith, The Scripture hath concluded all under Sin, that the Promiſe (of Juſtification) by (the) Faith of Jeſus Chriſt, might be given to them that believe (in him), Gal. 3. 22, 23, 24. Wherefore the Law was (then) our School-Maſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by Faith (in him), v. 25. But now after that Faith is come, we are no longer under a School-Maſter, (i. e. under the pædagogy of the Law,) v. 26. For ye are all the Children of God through Faith in Chriſt Jeſus; He plainly inſinuates that we cannot be juſtified by the Works of the Law, becauſe the Law leads us to Chriſt before Juſtification, and ceaſeth, now the way of Juſtification by Faith in Chriſt is made known; And again, we are juſtified by Grace, not of Works. For we are his Workman-ſhip Created in Chriſt Jeſus to good Works, Eph. 2. 8, 9, 10. Where the Argument ſeems plainly to run thus, We cannot be juſtified by Works preceding Faith, becauſe we do no good Works till by Faith we are Intereſted in Chriſt Jeſus. Whereas St. James ſpeaks plainly of thoſe Works which follow Faith, are wrought by it, and are the Fruits of it, and of their neceſſity in order to our Continuance in a State of Juſtification, and freedom from our final Condemnation.

2dly. That St. Paul Excludes from Juſtification only thoſe Works which are oppoſed to juſtification by an Act of Grace, and make it to be of Debt, and ſo give occaſion to our glorying in our being Righteous in the ſight of God, purely by reaſon of our Works, as in theſe Words, If it be of Grace it is no more of Works, otherwiſe Grace is no more Grace; but if it be of Works, then it is no more Grace, otherwiſe Work is no more Work, Rom. 11. 6. And again, To him that Worketh the Reward is reckoned, not of Grace, but of Debt; but to him that Worketh not, but believeth, Faith is accounted unto him for Righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 4, 5. And again, Where then is Glorying? It is excluded. By what Law? By that of Works? No; But by the Law of Faith, Rom. 3. 27. Whereas St. James requires only thoſe Works to our Salvation, and our continuance in a ſtate of Juſtification, which proceed from, and are accepted through Grace, and ſo can never Render our Juſtification of Debt, or give us a juſt ground of boaſting.

3dly. That St. Paul is arguing againſt the Jews, who ſought for Juſtification by Virtue of the Law of Moſes, and ſought it not by Faith, Rom. 9. 32. nor ever conceived that ſufficient for that End, declaring againſt that way of Juſtification, becauſe it would confine the Bleſſing of Abraham to the Circumciſion only, Rom. 4. 9. And becauſe the Law of Moſes was Four Hundred and Thirty Years after the Promiſe made to Abraham, ſpeaking of that Law which ſaid, Do this and Live, Gal. 3. 17. which was our School-Maſter to bring us to Chriſt, and which was then to ceaſe, as to the Obligation of it, whereas St. James ſpeaks of Justification by works performed under the Covenant of Grace, and as conditions even of that new Covenant. Now I except not against any of these ways of Reconciling these two Apostles in their Discourse upon this Subject; but then I also think we may add this other to them.

4ly. That St. Paul plainly speaks to Christians only, concerning their Justification from their past Offences by Faith in the blood of Jesus; but St. James speaks as well to the unbelieving, as believing Jews, touching Faith in God, such as Abraham had when he believed God's Promise, v. 23. and such as Raab the Harlot had, v. 25. saying, Thou believest there is one God, v. 19. without the least mention of Faith in Christ, and who perhaps thought it sufficient to keep them in the Favour of God, and render them his Friends, that they had cast off all Idolatry, and only owned the true God; proving this not to be sufficient to procure the Divine Favour, unless by the Obedience of their Lives they glorified him as God, since otherwise they only did in words profess to own him, but in Works deny him, being disobedient.

CHAP. III.

a Verse 1. MY Brethren,[a] be not many Masters, [i. e. διδάσκαλοι, Teachers of the Law,] knowing that [thereby] we shall receive the greater Condemnation [for our Offences against that Law we teach to others.]

2. [And this we ought the rather to beware of;] For in many things we offend all [against the Law, and more especially in that Member we employ in Teaching of others, for] if any b Man offend not in Word, the same is [b] a perfect Man, and able also to bridle, [curb, and direct the motions of] the whole Body.

3. [I use the Metaphor of a Bridle as apposite in this Case, for] Behold we put Bits [or Bridles] in the Horses mouths, that they may obey us, and [with them] we turn about their whole Bodies, [even so, if we by any means can bridle, and thereby govern the Tongue, by the like means we may govern the whole Man.]

4. Behold also the Ships, which though they be so great [in Bulk,] and are driven with fierce Winds, yet are they turned about with a very small Helm, whithersoever the Governour [or Pilot of the Ship] listeth.

5. Even so [is it with] the Tongue [as with this Bit and Helm, it] is a little Member, c and boasteth great things, [ὡς μεγαλαυχεῖ, but it mightily exalts it self by its great Performances,] behold how great a matter [how much Wood] a little Fire kindleth.

6. [a] And the Tongue is [as] a Fire, a d world of Iniquity [is kindled by it;] so is the Tongue amongst our Members, [as fire among wood;] that it defileth [Gr. spotting or blackning] the whole Body, and setteth [Gr. inflaming, or setting] on fire the Course of Nature, [or the Succession of Men in the world,] and it is set on fire of Hell, [Gr. being set on fire by Hell.]

7. [And it resembles fire in this also, that when it hath once got the Mastery, it cannot easily be subdued, and extinguished;] For every kind of Beasts, and of Birds, and of Serpents, and things in the Sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed, e by Mankind. e

8. But the Tongue [of others] can no Man tame; it is an unruly evil, [and like the Serpents mentioned, v. 7.] full of deadly Poison.

9. Therewith bless we God, even the Father [of us all,] and therewith [f] curse we f Men which are made [g] after the Similitude g of God, [and upon that account are to be reverenced by us.]

10. Out of the same mouth proceedeth Blessing and Cursing: my Brethren, these things ought not so to be; [for]

11. Doth a Fountain send forth, at the same place, sweet water and bitter?

12. Can the Fig-Tree, my Brethren, bear Olive-berries, or, a Vine Figs? [Surely no, even] so no Fountain [can] both yield Salt-water, and fresh; [And if Nature produceth no such contrary fruits, much less should Grace produce things so extremely opposite as are Blessing and Cursing.]

13. Who [then] is [h] a wise Man, and en- h dued with knowledge among you? [to which you are great Pretenders,] let him shew out of a good Conversation his works with meekness of wisdom, [or the works of wisdom with meekness, i. e. let him by his charity, and meekness towards his Brethren, shew forth his wisdom.]

14. But if ye have [i] bitter envying, and i strife in your Hearts, glory not [of your wisdom,] and lye not against the Truth [in pretending to be wise as to it.]

15. This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is Earthly, [from the love of Earthly things,] sensual, [proceeding from the Lusts of the Flesh, among which Strife, and Envy are reckoned, Gal. 5. 20.] devilish [coming from Satan the promoter of Strife, and Envy, and from Pride and Ambition, by which he fell, 1 Tim. 3. 6.]

Digitized by Google

16. For where Envying and Strife is, [as the Root,] there is [k] confusion, and every evil work, [as the Fruit.]

17. But the wisdom which is from above is first pure, [from sensuality, and earthly-mindedness, v. 15.] then peaceable, [and] gentle, [in opposition to contention, v. 14.] easie to be intreated, [or persuaded, in opposition to the inflexibility of the Jews,] [l] full of Mercy and good fruits, [wanting in them, v. 13.] [m] without partiality, and [n] without hypocrisy, [of which things the Jews were highly guilty.]

18. And the [o] fruit of Righteousness is sown in peace of [for, or, to] them that make peace.

Annotations on Chapter III.

[a] Verse 1. Μὴ πολλοὶ διδάσκαλοι γίνεσθε, be not many Teachers.] The Jews had not only in Judæa, but in their several dispersions, their מוֹרִים or Doctors of the Law, who being created Doctors, Masters, or Rabbins by Imposition of Hands, were authorized to teach the Law to others. This Office the Jews much affected, θέλοντες εἶναι νομοδιδάσκαλοι, affecting to be Teachers of the Law, 1 Tim. 1. 7. and being confident of their abilities to be guides to the blind, a light to them that sat in darkness, instructors of the foolish, and διδάσκαλοι νηπίων, Teachers of Babes, Rom. 2. 19, 20. And such especially were the Zealots among them. Whence (a) Eleazer the chief of them saith, they had especial Reason to expect a share in the Divine Favour, as being blameless as to the Observation of the Law, and also Teachers of it to others. This Affectation of that Office the Apostle here warns them to avoid, as that which would expose them to greater Condemnation for their Offences against that Law they taught to others, and so confessed they knew themselves.

[b] Ver. 2. Τέλειος ἀνὴρ, a perfect Man.] Is a Person fully instructed in his Duty. See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6.

[c] Ver. 5. Καὶ μεγαλαυχεῖ, and boasteth great things,] This word signifies not only to vaunt of, but also to do great things; μεγάλα ἐργάζεται καλὰ, ἢ κακὰ, it works great good and evil, saith Oecumenius: Magnificatrix est, it is a doer of great things, so Faber: it answers to the Hebrew רום, which signifies to be valid, and move it self violently, to be haughty and exalt it self, Psal. 9. 19. Ezek. 16. 50. Zeph. 3. 11. Eccl. 48. 18. And this signification both the Text, and the Resemblance of the Tongue to fire, seem plainly to require.

[d] Ver. 6. Ἡ γλῶσσα πῦρ, the Tongue is a fire.] The Comparison of a Tongue to fire, first blackning, and then wasting the whole World, (or Wood,) is taken from the Scripture, and from the Sayings of the Hebrew Doctors: The froward Man bringeth Destruction, in his Mouth there is a burning Fire, Prov. 16. 27. And v. 28. λαμπτῆρα δόλος πυροδίει. κακοῖς, he kindles a Firebrand of Deceit to the wicked. As the matter of Fire, κατὰ τὴν ὕλην πυρὸς, according to the wood of the Fire so it burneth, and the stronger they are that contend, the more they will be inflamed, Eccl. 28. 10. A lusty Contention kindleth a Fire, the Fire burning kindles great heaps, saith Ben Syra, which is thus explained; As a little fire consumes great heaps of wood, so nothing more wasts the World than an evil Tongue.

Note, 2*dly*. If the Original was, as our Translation hath it, a world of Iniquity, something must be added to it to make the Sense complete, as I have done in the Paraphrase, or as the Æthiopick, a world of Iniquity is contained in it. But the Syriack reads thus, And the wicked world is as the wood; and this makes both the Sense, and the Similitude run clear.

[e] Ver. 7. Τῇ φύσει ἀνθρωπίνῃ, by Mankind] is the Hebrew Phrase for Man, as ἀνθρωπίνη κτίσις, is a Man, 1 Pet. 2. 13.

[f] Ver. 9. Καταρώμεθα, Curse we Men.] This the unbelieving Jews did towards the Christians, Cursing, and Anathematizing them in their Synagogues; as (b) Justin Martyr often testifieth to the Face of Trypho the Jew.

[g] Ibid. Καθ' ὁμοίωσιν θεοῦ, after the Similitude of God.] From this 9th. Verse it appears that Man lost not the Image of God by the Fall; and thence 'tis probable that it consists not primarily in holiness, but in Dominion, Gen. 1. 26.

[h] Ver. 13. Ἐπιστήμων ἐν ὑμῖν, a wise Man among you.] That the Jews were great Pretenders to Knowledge, see Rom. 2. 18. That they gloried in the Title of Chochamim, or wise Men, see Note on 1 Cor. 1. 20. 3. 18. [i] Hence their Divines are stiled חכמי האמת wise Men as to the Truth, saith Buxtorf.

[i] Ver. 14. Ζῆλον πικρὸν ἐν ἐριθείαν, bitter envy and strife.] The unbelieving Jews are represented still as οἱ ἐξ ἐριθείας, Men of Contention

Ver. 17. Μεστὴ ἐλέους, full of Mercy.] Which, ſaith (c) Joſephus, of all good Paſſions was moſt of all loſt among the Jews.

m Ibid. Ἀδιάκριτος, without Partiality.] Or, as the word ſignifies, without putting a Difference betwixt Men of their own, and other Nations, as the Jews did, counting all other Nations, Dogs, unclean, not fit to be converſed with, and dealing with them accordingly; for as (d) Tacitus hath obſerved of them, apud Ipſos fides obſtinata, miſericordia in promptu, adverſus omnes alios hoſtile odium; They would be merciful to Men of their own Religion and Country, but hated all Mankind beſides; confining brotherly love to Men of their own Nation, as we learn from our Saviour's Parable of the good Samaritan. When they broke into Sects and Parties, they had the ſame hatred to thoſe of their own Nation who would not think, and do, as they did. The Zealots, and thoſe that were for War, ſet themſelves againſt, and even threatned Death to them who were for Peace, looking upon them as no better than Heathens, ſaith (e) Joſephus; whereas true Chriſtian Wiſdom requires us to live peaceably with, and to do good to all.

Ibid. Ἀνυπόκριτος, and without Hypocriſie.] For which our Saviour ſo ſeverely inveighs againſt the Scribes and Phariſees; the Leaders of the Jews. n

Ver. 18. Καρπὸς τῆς δικαιοσύνης, the fruit of Righteouſneſs.] i. e. The Reward of Righteouſneſs to them who make it their buſineſs to live peaceably themſelves, and incline others to it, is here ſown happily and quietly by the Preachers of the Goſpel of Peace declaring it to the World, and ſhall hereafter aſſuredly be reaped by them. Or thus; Theſe Fruits of Righteouſneſs now ſown by the Chriſtian endued with this Heavenly Wiſdom, will yield a plentifull and happy Crop to them who are Promoters of Peace. o a Verſe 1. FRom [a] whence come wars and fightings among you [Jews?] Come they not hence, even of your Luſts [or Pleaſures] that war in your Members [againſt the Soul? 1 Pet 2. 11.]

CHAP. IV.

b 2. [b] Ye luſt and have not; ye kill and deſire to have, and cannot obtain; ye fight and war, yet ye have not, becauſe ye ask not.

3. Ye ask, and receive not, becauſe ye ask amiſs, that ye may conſume it upon your luſts.

4. Ye Adulterers and Adultereſſes, know ye not that the friendſhip of the World, [which ſtands in competition with, and indiſpoſeth you to believe, and obey God's Will] is enmity with God, [and ſo Idolatry, which in the Language of the Scripture is Adultery?] Whoſoever therefore will be [thus] a friend of the World, is the Enemy of God, [having renounced him to have Mammon for his Lord, Matth. 6. 24.]

5. [c] Do you think that the Scripture ſaith c [Gr. ſpeaks] in vain, [againſt this worldly, mindedneſs?] the Spirit that dwelleth in us [Chriſtians] luſteth [he] to envy, [as yours doth? v. 2. Is he not rather the Spirit of Love and goodneſs, engaging us to love all Men, and eſpecially our Chriſtian Brethren? 1 Pet. 1. 22.]

6. But [so far is he from this Envy, that d where he dwells] [d] he giveth more Grace, [or Favour,] wherefore he [or it, the Scripture] saith, God resisteth the proud, but giveth Grace [or sheweth favour] to the humble, [Prov. 3. 34.]

[Be ye then humble, and] submit your selves therefore to [that] God, [who giveth Grace to the humble:] resist the Devil [the Author of those Wars, Envyings, and Lustings which are among you,] and [then] he will fly from you.

e 8. [e] Draw nigh to God [by Prayer, Humiliation, Repentance and Obedience,] and he f will draw nigh to you [in Mercy;] [f] cleanse your hands, [from Rapine and Injustice,] ye sinners, and purifie your hearts, [from the love of the World,] ye double-minded, [whose hearts are divided betwixt God, and Mammon.]

9. Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep; let your laughter be turned to mourning, g and your Joy to [g] heaviness.

10. Humble your selves [therefore] in the sight of the Lord, [and under his mighty hand that is upon you, 1 Pet. 5. 6.] and he shall lift you up, [that he may exalt you ἐν καιρῷ, in that season of his Visitation, as he did then his faithful servants, by a wonderful Deliverance, according to his Promise. See Note on Matth. 24. 31.]

h 11. [h] Speak not evil one of [or against] another, Brethren, he that speaketh evil of [or against] his Brother; and judgeth his Brother, speaketh evil of the Law, and judgeth the Law, [or speaketh against the Law, as being evil, or imperfect, in that it doth not command, or condemn those things which thou dost command, or condemn;] but if thou [take upon thee to] judge the Law, thou art not [in thy behaviour as] a doer of the Law, but a Judge [of it.]

12. [Whereas indeed] There is [only] one Law-giver, who is able to save and to destroy; who [therefore] art thou that judgest another?

13. Go to now ye that [presume to] say, To day or to morrow we will go into such a City, and continue there a Year, and buy and sell, and get gain, [as if both life, and the advantages of life, depended wholly on your selves, and not at all on Divine Providence.]

14. Whereas ye [who speak with such confidence of the future] know not what shall be on the morrow; for, what is your life? It is even [as] a Vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.

15. [Thus you are wont to speak.] For that [Gr. whereas] ye ought to say, [i] if the Lord i will we shall live, and do this or that.

16. But now you rejoice in your Boastings [of the future;] all such Rejoicing is evil, [as being an assuming to your selves what belongs to God only, and so an evidence that you do not subject your own will to the will of God: For since this life is so short, and uncertain, and thereby teacheth you to think humbly, and speak modestly, and with due dependance on the Divine Providence, with respect both to your lives, and future actions, you by thus pleasing your selves in these vain Boastings, and talking as if you were immortal, and independent upon Providence, are guilty of an evil Exaltation, and vain Boasting.]

17. Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doth it not, to him it is sin: [If after my Admonition to avoid this, and other Crimes, you continue in them, you will be inexcusably guilty of sin, Joh. 15. 22. and the guilt of it will abide upon you, Joh. 9. 41. as it will also in all other things done against knowledge, and the Convictions of your Conscience; for in such things the heart departs from, and rebels against the Lord; he that thus sins, despiseth the Word of the Lord, and reproacheth him that spake it, Numb. 15. 30, 31.]

a Verse 1. Πόθεν πόλεμοι, whence come Wars?] This Epistle seems to have been writ about the 8th. Year of Nero, and the 62d. of Christ, the Year before the Death of James, before which time the Jews had great Wars, and Fightings, not only with their Neighbours, See Note on Matth. 24. 6. but even among themselves in every City, and Family, saith (a) Josephus, nor only in Judæa, but in Alexandria, Syria, and many other places. See the Preface, §. 5. 6.

Ver. 2. Ἐπιθυμεῖτε, &c. ye lust, &c.] For b
Explication of these words we are to note, that the Jews were then vehemently lusting after two things.

1st. Liberty and freedom from Tribute, which was, say they, the Token of Subjection; (b) Josephus saith, they were continually clamouring, to have the Tributes took away, and that upon this very account, and (c) that the Zealots, the Band of Thieves, and their Magicians were still pressing the People to fight for their Liberty from the Roman Yoke.

2dly. Dominion over other Nations, for having got this Fancy into their Heads, that their (d) Meſſiah was to be a Temporal Prince, who ſhould enable them to Lord it over the Heathens, they were Zealous to have theſe pretended Prophecies accompliſhed, and (e) the hopes of it encouraged them to Fight. Whence we may Paraphraſe on theſe two Verſes thus, You luſt (for Liberty and Dominion) and you have it not; yet in purſuit and deſire of them,) kill, and (yet) you cannot obtain (them,) becauſe you ask not (whether that be according to the Will of God which you ſo greedily deſire.) Ye ask theſe things, and receive them not, becauſe ye ask amiſs, that you may conſume them upon your luſts; viz. That having this Liberty and Empire, you may poſſeſs the good things of this World you luſt after, and may Lord it over the Heathen World.

c Ver. 5. Ἢ δοκεῖτε ὅτι κενῶς ἡ γραφὴ λέγει, Or, Do you think that the Scripture ſaith in vain, &c.] They who make this whole Verſe one Sentence, are obliged to ſhew where the Scripture hath theſe Words, The Spirit that dwelleth in us luſteth to Envy; which no Interpreter hath yet ſucceſsfully attempted. But in the Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe, which makes the whole to conſiſt of two Queſtions, this is needleſs. Now in favour of this Expoſition, let it be noted,

1ſt. That nothing is more ordinary than for Particles to be repeated from the precedent Member. So Pſal. 9. 19. The needy ſhall not alway be forgotten, the Expectation of the Poor ſhall (not) periſh for ever, See Pſal. 38. 1. 44. 19. 1 Sam. 2. 3. Job 30. 25. 31. 20. Prov. 25. 27. 30. 3. So אם if, Pſal. 139. 8. Prov. 6. 1. 9. 12. See Glaſſius de Ellipſi partic. l. 4 tr. 2. obſerv. 10. p. 721. So here the Particle ἢ may be repeated thus, Or doth the Spirit that is in you luſt to Envy? Though the Senſe be full only by Reading the Words by way of Interrogation. Note, 2dly. That not to ſpeak in vain, is not to do it without Cauſe, or juſt Reaſon; as Ezek. 6. 10. And God, or the Scripture, is ſaid to ſpeak in Vain to them who attend not to, or receive no benefit by his Words, Jer. 8. 8. So then the Senſe runs thus; Doth the Scripture ſpeak without cauſe againſt this Worldly-mindedneſs? Would it not have you attend to, and receive advantage by what it ſaith againſt it?

Ver. 6. Μείζονα δὲ δίδωσι χάριν, but he giveth more Grace.] That חן and χάρις throughout the Scripture ſignifie Favour, and Good-will, See Note on 2 Cor. 6. 1. And this Senſe the Oppoſition here requires, God being diſpleaſed with, and oppoſing himſelf to the Proud, but ſhewing Favour to the Humble, and cauſing them to find favour, among Men, Prov. 3. 34. What Monſieur le Clerc here ſaith, 'That in thoſe times the Jews uſed to 'produce as out of Scripture, not only 'the Senſe of Places without regarding 'the Words, but alſo a Jewiſh Tradition 'or Interpretation of Scripture, and ſo we 'are not to look for what is here ſaid 'in the Old Teſtament, is intolerable; for is it fit to make an Apoſtle giving us thoſe Scriptures which are to be our Rule of Faith, ſpeak thus, Do you think the Scripture ſpeaks in vain, what it ſpeaks not at all? And to call a Jewiſh Tradition the Scripture? d

Ver. 8. Ἐγγίσατε τῷ Θεῷ, Draw nigh to God.] The way of drawing nigh to God being now, under the Goſpel Diſpenſation, through Faith in Chriſt, and in his Blood ſhed for the Propitiation of our Sins, we being made nigh to him through the Blood of Chriſt, Eph. 2. 13. and through the Introduction of that better Hope, by which ἐγγίζομεν τῷ Θεῷ, we draw nigh to God, Heb. 7. 19. it being Chriſt alone by whom we have an Introduction to the Father through Faith in him, Eph. 2. 18. 3. 12. and who hath ſuffer'd for us that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3. 18. This may be looked on as an Exhortation to the ἀπίστοις, the unbelieving Jews to believe in Chriſt, and to the δίψυχοι the wavering Jews, (See Note on Chap. 1. v. 8.) to cleave ſtedfaſtly to the Faith. e

Ibid. Καθαρίσατε χεῖρας, cleanſe your Hands.] That the Hands of the Jews, and eſpecially of the Zealots among them, were full of Blood and Rapine we learn from (f) Joſephus, who makes very often ſad complaints of the Murders, and Rapines committed by them. (See Chap. 5. 4, 6.) And ſo this Exhortation muſt be very properly directed to them. True alſo is the Note of Eſthius here, Porro ſi jubentur homines emundare manus, & purificare corda, nec juketur f

g Ver. 9. Εἰς καταφθειαν, into heavineſs,] For now the day of Vengeance upon the unbelieving and back-ſliding Jews approacheth, Luke 21. 22. Now the Coming of the Lord to Execute Vengeance on them draweth near, Chap. 5. 8. When Wrath ſhall come upon them to the uttermoſt, Theſ. 2. 16.

h Ver. 11. Μὴ καταλαλεῖτε, ſpeak not Evil.] For Explication of theſe Words let it be noted, that the great Exception which both the unbelieving Jews, and the Judaizing Chriſtians among them had againſt the Believing Gentiles, was this, That (g) they obſerved not their Feaſts or Sabbaths, and that they were not Circumciſed, whence they concluded they differ'd little from the Heathens. This was the thing for which the (h) Chriſtian Fathers did contend againſt them; viz. That the Ancient Patriarchs of Old were acceptable to God, and conſequently the Chriſtians, and eſpecially the Converted Gentiles, might be acceptable to God without the Obſervation of theſe Feaſts and Sabbaths, or of Circumciſion. Hence the Apoſtle is ſo concerned that they ſhould not judge one another on the account of Days or Meats, Rom. 14. 4, 5, 6. Hence he inveighs againſt the Galatians, as being brought in Bondage by the Judaizers to the Obſervation of Circumciſion, Chap. 5. 3. And of Days, Months, Times and Years, Chap. 4. 10. And warns his Coloſſians not to be induced to follow thoſe Rudiments of the World, as being Circumciſed in Chriſt, Coloſ. 2. 11. And ſaith, let no man judge you in Reſpect of Feaſts, or New Moons, or of the Sabbaths, v. 16. So that the Argument of the Apoſtle here ſeems to run thus, Let no man ſpeak againſt his Chriſtian Brethren the Gentiles, for not obſerving theſe things; for, the Law it ſelf requiring theſe things not of the Gentiles that even dwelt among them, but only of the Jews, he that ſpeaks againſt them, and judgeth them for the Non-obſervation of theſe things, he in effect ſpeaks againſt and judgeth that Law as deficient which required not theſe things. And thou who takeſt upon thee to ſay they cannot be Saved, Acts 15. 1. and ſo judgeſt them to Deſtruction without the Obſervation of them, thou even takeſt upon thee the Office of this great Law-giver, who alone is able to Save and to Deſtroy, and who by not requiring thoſe things of the Gentiles, ſhews he will Save them without them, and not deſtroy them for neglect of them. So the Targum on Ezek. 13. 18. brings in God ſpeaking to the falſe Prophets thus, Can you kill, or make alive the Souls of my People? Others indeed refer this to the Law of Chriſtian Love, but that is ſtill ſtiled the Law of Chriſt, Gal. 6. 2. Or, the Law of Liberty, Chap. 2. 12. But never abſolutely, the Law, as here; and therefore, I prefer the former Interpretation.

i Ver. 15. Ἐὰν ὁ Κύριος θελήσῃ, If the Lord will.] It was a Rule of Ben Syra, (Buxt. Flor. p. 4.) Let no man ſay he will do any thing, unleſs he firſt ſay, if the Lord Will: Who alſo adds, that one died before Night for refuſing to add this. And when Alcibiades had ſaid to Socrates, I will do ſo, if you will, (i) Socrates tells him he ought to have ſaid, ἐὰν ὁ θεὸς ἐθέλῃ, if God will. Not that we are obliged always to ſay thus, Rom. 15. 28. but only ſtill to own our Dependance on Divine Providence.

a Verſe 1. Go to now, ye Rich Men [of the Jewiſh Nation, you will have cauſe to] weep and howl for the Miſeries that ſhall come [Gr. are coming] upon you.

2. Your Riches are corrupted, [or, are as things putrified by being kept too long,] and your Garments [are become] Moth-eaten, [They being laid up in your Wardrobes and not uſed to Cloath your naked Brother, ſhall be as uſeleſs to you as if they were devoured by the Moth.]

3. Your Gold and Silver is canker'd [or eaten out with Ruſt] and the Ruſt of them ſhall be a Witneſs againſt you [of your Covetous and Worldly Minds,] b and ſhall eat your Fleſh as it were Fire; ye b have heaped Treaſure together for the laſt days, [Gr. It ſhall eat your Fleſh as Fire, you have Treaſured it up for the laſt days.]

c 4. Behold the [c] Hire of the Labourers which have Reaped down your Fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth; and the Cries of them that have Reaped, [and are thus Defrauded of their Wages by you,] are entred into the Ears of the Lord of Sabbaoth.

d 5. [d] Ye have lived in Pleaſure on the Earth, and been wanton, ye have nouriſhed your hearts as in [or for] e [e]a day of ſlaughter.

f 6. Ye have condemned [f], and kill'd the Juſt, and he doth not reſiſt you.

7. Be patient therefore, Brethren, unto the Coming of our Lord, [to avenge you of theſe Murtherers;] behold, the g [g] Husbandman waiteth for the precious Fruit of the Earth, and hath long patience for it till he receive the early and latter Rain, [the firſt to make the Corn ſown, ſwell, and grow up, the latter to make the Ear Plump before Harveſt.]

8. Be ye alſo patient, ſtabliſh your Hearts [in expectation of this Advent;] h for [h] the Coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

i 9. [i] Grudge not [Gr. groan not] one againſt another, Brethren, [as men impatient, and deſiring Vengeance, uſe to do] leſt ye be Condemned, [as wanting in that Patience which ought to have its perfect Work in you, and in that Chriſtian Charity, which requires you to pray for Mercy, and not to cry for Vengeance on your Enemies;] Behold the Judge [who will plead your Cauſe againſt your perſecuting Brethren] ſtandeth before the Door.

10. Take, my Brethren, the Prophets who have ſpoken [to you Jews] in the Name of the Lord, for an Example of ſuffering Afflictions, and of Patience [i. e. of patient ſuffering; for they had experience of cruel Mockings, and of Death, and yet they ſuffered theſe things patiently, Heb. 11. 36, 37.]

11. Behold we count them happy that endure [Afflictions for Righteouſneſs ſake, and for the Tryal of their Faith, Matth. 5. 12. 1 Pet. 4. 14.] ye have heard of the k Patience of Job, and have ſeen [i. e. known] the End of the Lord, that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender Mercy, [as then he was to him a Deliverer, and a Rewarder of his Patience, ſo will he be to you.]

12. [l] But above all things, my Brethren, Swear not, neither by Heaven, nor by the Earth, nor by any other Oath, but let your Yea be Yea, and your Nay, Nay, [i. e. let your Actions be agreeable to your Words, See Note on 2 Cor. 1. 17.] m leſt ye fall into Condemnation.

13. Is any man among you Afflicted, let him Pray, [to God to Alleviate, and Sanctifie his Affliction;] is any Merry, let him Sing [Praiſes to that God who hath given him this Cheerfulneſs of Spirit;]

14 Is any man Sick among you, n [n] let him call for the Elders of the Church, and let them pray over him, o [o] Anointing him with Oil in the Name of the Lord.

15. p [p] And the Prayer of Faith ſhall Save the Sick; and the Lord [in anſwer to this Prayer of Faith] ſhall raiſe him up; and if he q [q] hath committed [ſuch] Sins [as brought this Sickneſs on him,] they ſhall be forgiven him [upon this Prayer of Faith.]

16. Confeſs [therefore] your Faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed, the r [r] effectual fervent [Gr. the Inſpired] Prayer of a Righteous Man availeth much.

17. Elias was a Man ſubject to like Paſſions as we are, and he prayed earneſtly that it might not Rain, and it Rained not upon the Earth, by the Space of s [s] three Years, and ſix Months.

18. And he prayed again, and the Heaven gave Rain, and the Earth brought forth her Fruit.

19. Brethren, if any of you do err from the Faith, and one convert him.

20. t [t] Let him know that he who converteth the Sinner from the Error of his Way, ſhall ſave a Soul from Death, and ſhall hide a multitude of Sins.

Annotations on Chapter V.

a Verſe. 1. [a] Ἄγε νῦν, go to now.] This is only a form of Tranſition, Chap. 4. 13. and converting of Speech to any Perſon; as if he ſhould have ſaid, And now to ſpeak to you that are Rich, I call upon you to weep, &c.

That this Prediction was exactly fulfilled by the Slaughter and ſpoiling of the Rich Jews throughout Galilee, and Judæa, (a) Joſephus will not ſuffer us to doubt. For he informs us, that the Zealots ſpared none but thoſe who were πενητοὶ διὰ τυχὼ, poor and and low in Fortune, and that they were ſo inſatiably rapacious, that they ſearched all the Houſes of the Rich, killing the Men, and abuſing the Women. And that it alſo was fulfilled touching thoſe of the Diſperſion, ſee the Preface, §. 5, 6.

b Ver. 3. It ſhall eat your Fleſh as Fire, ἐν ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις, in the laſt Days.] As the Ruſt eats into the Gold and Silver, ſo ſhall your Fleſh and Subſtance be eaten up as with Fire, as if you had treaſured up Fire in the midſt of it. For, 1ſt. This is a frequent Metaphor among the Prophets who often ſpeak of the Fire eating up the wicked, and devouring their Fleſh, Thou ſhalt make them as a fiery Oven in the time of thy Wrath, καὶ καταφάγῃ αὐτοὺς πῦρ, and the fire ſhall eat them up, Pſal. 21. 9. The Light of Iſrael ſhall be for a fire, and his Holy One for a flame, and it ſhall burn, καὶ φάγῃ and eat up his Thorns and Briars in one Day, καὶ καταφάγεται ἀπὸ ψυχῆς ἕως σαρκῶν, and it ſhall eat up from the Soul to the Fleſh, Iſ. 10. 16, 17. Πῦρ τοὺς ἐναντίους ἔδεται, the fire ſhall eat up the Adverſaries, Chap. 27. 11. Behold the Name of the Lord cometh forth from far, burning with Anger, καὶ ἡ ὀργὴ τοῦ θυμοῦ ὡς πῦρ ἔδεται, and the Anger of his Fury ſhall eat as the Fire, Chap. 30. 11. Behold I will make my Word in thy mouth fire, and this People wood, καὶ καταφάγεται αὐτούς, and it ſhall eat them up, Jer. 5. 14. They ſhall go out from one fire, καὶ πῦρ αὐτοὺς καταφάγῃ, and another fire ſhall eat them up, Ezek. 15. 7. I will bring forth a fire from the midſt of thee, and the fire, καταφάγῃ σε, ſhall eat thee up. See Amos 5. 6.

2dly. This was punctually fulfilled in the Deſtruction of that Nation by their own Seditions, and the Roman Wars. For amongſt the Sicarii, and the Zealots, the Ringleaders of all their Seditions, it was Crime enough to be Rich, and their inſatiable Avarice induced them ſtill to make τῶν πλουσίων οἴκων ἔρευναν, a ſearch into the Houſes of the Rich: For them to remain among theſe Tyrants was Deſtruction; (b) For by falſe Accuſations they were ſlain as Deſerters, for their Subſtance. Yea both their Subſtance and their Fleſh were (c) devoured by the Flames which burnt up the City and the Temple, and ſo conſumed both their dead Bodies and their Subſtance and their Wardrobes; and that which remained became a Prey to the Army of the Romans. See the like done in their Diſperſions, Preface §. 6.

Ver. 4. Ὁ μισθὸς the Hire.] The Precept in the Law touching this matter running thus, Thou ſhalt not defraud thy Neighbour.— The Wages of him that is hired ſhall not abide with thee all Night untill the Morning, Lev. 19. 13. this keeping of it back is truly Stiled Fraud, and Oppreſſion, and all Sins of that Nature cry to Heaven for Vengeance, on the fraudulent Oppreſſor. So the Cry of the Iſraelites, under their Oppreſſion in the Land of Egypt, came up to God, Exod. 2. 23. 3. 7. The Cry of the Afflicted Widow, and the Fatherleſs, Exod. 22. 23. The Cry of the Poor, and the Afflicted, Job 34. 28. Pſalm 9. 12. The Cry of him that wants his Pledge to cover him, Exod. 22. 27. And the Cry of him whoſe Wages is kept back. Thou ſhalt not oppreſs an hired Servant that is poor, and needy; at his Day thou ſhalt give him his Hire, neither ſhall the Sun go down upon it— leſt he cry againſt thee to the Lord, and it be a Sin unto thee, Deut. 24. 14, 15. c

Ver. 5. Ἐτρυφήσατε καὶ ἐσπαταλήσατε, ye have lived in Pleaſure and been Wanton.] The firſt Word ἐτρυφήσατε, ſay Criticks, refers to their Luxurious Eating; The ſecond, ἐσπαταλήσατε, to their carnal Luſtings and Laſciviouſneſs, 1 Tim. 5. 6. Ezek. 16. 49. both which were Vices the Jews then were very ſubject to, eating and drinking to exceſs in their Feaſts. Ver. 6. Ἐφονεύσατε, they have killed, &c.] Here Oecumenius ſaith, Ἀναντιῤῥήτως τὸ ἐφονεύσατε δίκαιον ἐπὶ τὸν χριστὸν ἀνενεγκεῖται; this is undoubtedly to be referred to Chriſt, who is emphatically ſtiled the Juſt one, Acts 3. 14. 7. 52. 22. 14. So (e) Juſtin Martyr, Ἀπεκτείνατε τὸν δίκαιον, ye have killed the Juſt one, and before him the Prophets. But againſt this Interpretation it is objected by Eſthius, 1. That the Apoſtle here ſpeaks by way of Diſtinction to the Rich, who drag'd the Chriſtians before the Tribunals, whereas the f

Death of Chriſt is imputed to the Princes and Rulers of the Jews, and to the People in General, Acts 3. 14. 7. 52. 13. 27, 28. 2dly. 'Tis ſaid in the Preſent Tenſe, and he doth not reſiſt you, whereas had this been ſpoken of Chriſt it ſhould have been ſaid, he did not reſiſt you; and therefore Oecumenius doth acknowledge this is to be extended alſo to all thoſe Juſt Men, St. Stephen, and others who ſuffered in like manner from the Jews, according to our Lord's Prediction, Matth. 24. 9. and St. Paul's Confeſſion, That before his Converſion he perſecuted this way unto the Death, Acts 22. 4. Hence this Paſſage is Connected to the enſuing Words directed to the Chriſtians in general by this Particle, therefore.

g Ver. 7. The Husbandman Waiteth, &c.] So the Targum of Jonathan, on 2 Sam. 23. 4. compareth thoſe who expect the Years of Conſolation, to the Husbandman, who in a Year of Draught waiteth for Rain upon the Earth.

h Ver. 8. Ἡ παρουσία τοῦ κυρίου ἤγγικε, the Coming of the Lord is at Hand.] He ſpeaks, ſaith (f) Oecumenius, of the Coming of the Romans to Captivate the Jews, which he calls the Coming of our Lord, as St. John does, Chap. 21. 22. And this Expoſition is confirmed, 1ſt. From the conſtant uſe of the like Phraſe, ἐγγὺς ἡμέρα Κυρίου, the Day of the Lord is at Hand, Iſa. 13 6. Ezek. 30. 3. Joel 1. 15. 2. 1. 3. 14. Obad. 15. Zeph. 1. 7, 14. from the Evils which he ſaith are coming on the Rich, v. 1. and which then eſpecially came upon them. 2dly. From his ſaying this Coming is at Hand, and the Judge ſtandeth at the Door, ver. 9. or in St. Peter's Phraſe τὸ τέλος ἤγγικε, the End is at hand, 1 Pet. 4. 7. which anſwers exactly to the Words of Chriſt touching the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, then ſhall, τὸ τέλος, the End come, Matth. 24. 14. it is near, ἐπὶ θύραις, even at the Door, v. 33. Her Deſolation, ἤγγικε, draweth nigh, Luke 21. 20. See Note on Philip. 4. 5. And this was a true Ground for Patience, and anſwers the Objection of Eſthius againſt this Expoſition.

i Ver. 9. Μὴ στενάζετε, Groan not.] Theſe groanings in the Scripture have a Voice and Cry, and God is ſaid to hear them. Thus the Children of Iſrael groaned by Reaſon of their hard Bondage, κατεστέναξαν, and their Cry came up to God, Exod. 2. 23. and the Spirit is ſaid to intercede in Chriſt's ſuffering Members with Groans unuttered, Rom. 8. 26. Thus David prays, that God would hear the Voice of his Groanings, and the groaning of the Priſoners, Pſal. 102. 5, 20. Theſe Groanings when they are only the Natural Iſſues of an Afflicted Soul, move God to pity, Jud. 2. 18. and remember us in Mercy, Exod. 6. 5. but when they are the Fruits of Impatience under Troubles, and a deſire of Revenge upon our Enemies, they tend to our Condemnation; and the Perſecuting Jews, being of the ſame ſtock with the Converted Jews, their groaning againſt them is ſtiled groaning againſt one another.

It is the Obſervation of (g) Juſtin, that the Converts among the Gentiles were not only more than thoſe among the Jews, and the Samaritans; but alſo that they were better Chriſtians, and more truly ſo, for theſe Jewiſh Converts were ſtill Leavened with an expectation of a Temporal Kingdom, and of Liberty from the Roman Yoke, and the Dominion over all Heathen Governours. Whence the Apoſtles do ſo frequently enjoin them to be Subject to the higher Powers, Rom. 13. 1. to be ſubject to Principalities and Powers, Tit. 3. 1. to be ſubject to every Humane Ordinance, and not uſe the Liberty to which they were called, as a Cloak of Maliciouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2. 13, 16. Now theſe, as Dr. Hammond well obſerves, lived intermixed with the unconverted Jews and Zealots, who were ſtill grudging, and contending againſt all that would not ſtand up for Liberty, and fight for this Temporal Kingdom, (h) accounting them no better than the very Heathens on that account, and theſe may be the Grudgers here intended.

Ver. 11. The patience of Job.] Hence may k we very probably conclude, that what is written in the Book of Job, is truly an Hiſtory of what hapned to him, and not, as ſome conceive, a Parable or Fiction of a thing not truly done; for feigned things contain no ſerious Motives to, nor juſt Examples of Patience. 2. We find this Holy Man numbred with Noah, and Daniel, as Perſons very prevalent in Prayer, Ezek. 14. 14, 20. as therefore Noah, and Daniel, were Perſons truly prevalent in their Supplications, Gen. 8. 21. Dan. 9. 23. ſo alſo Job muſt be, as he is repreſented, Chap. 42. 8. 10.

Ver. 12. Μὴ ὀμνύετε, Swear not.] i. e. l Let not your Afflictions move you to uſe Raſh Oaths, as Men are wont to do when much provoked. That Raſh Oaths are only forbidden here, and Matth. 5. 34. ſee the Note there. The Oaths here forbid being ſuch as our Impatience under ſufferings, and our unbridled Paſſions do produce.

m Ibid. "Ινα μὴ ὑπὸ κρίσιν πέσητε, that ye fall not into Condemnation.] Some Copies read, εἰς ὑπόκρισιν, into Hypocriſie; but 1. This reading is not found in many Copies. 2. The Apoſtle v. 9. puts them in mind of the Judge ſtanding at the Door, requiring them not to grudge againſt one another, leſt they be condemned by him; 'tis therefore far more probable he ſpeaketh alſo here of Condemnation by the Judge. 3. To be falſe to the Oath of God is Perjury in the proper ſenſe, for which God threatens he will not hold the Offender guiltleſs, but is not properly Hypocriſie. If therefore this had been the meaning of St. James, Swear not, leſt you be tempted to the violation of your Oaths, he ſhould have called that Perjury, not Hypocriſie.

n Ver. 14. Προσκαλεσάσθω τοὺς Πρεσβυτέρους τ῀ς Ἐκκλησίας, the Elders of the Church.] That it was the Office of the Presbyters, ὅπως ἐπισκέπτεσθαι πάντας ἀσθενεῖς, to viſit all the Sick, we learn from the Epiſtle of Polycarp, ad Philip. §. 6. But that theſe Presbyters ſhould be Biſhops properly ſo called, as ſome conceive, ſeems not very probable; for then it muſt not only be the Office of the Biſhop, perſonally to viſit the Sick, but the Duty of every ſick Perſon to ſend to him, and to no other. Yea, there muſt be more than one Biſhop in the Church, of which the ſick Man is a Member, and he muſt be obliged to ſend to more, for the Text runs wholly in the plural, let him call for the ELDERS of the Church, καὶ προσευξάσθωσαν, and let them (not one of them) pray over him, and therefore the ſick Man muſt be obliged by this Text, to call for more than one of them, where more were to be had, as we know there were in the Primitive Conſtitution of the Church.

o Ibid. Anointing him with Oyl.] This was agreeable to the Practice of the (i) Jews, who anointed the Sick, pro more, cuſtomarily, ſaith their Tradition; hence, though our Lord only commiſſioned his Diſciples to heal the Sick, Matth. 10. 8. Luke 9. 2. yet St. Mark informs us, that they added their uſual Ceremonies in doing this, for they anointed many that were ſick, with Oyl, and healed them, Mark 6. 13. And St. James ſpeaking to the Elders of the Jews, bids them uſe this Unction in the Name of the Lord, as doubtleſs the Apoſtles did, as in caſting out of Devils, Luke 10. 17. ſo in healing the Sick, Acts 3. 16. 4. 10, 30. And this Addition made the Cure Miraculous.

p Ver. 15. Ἡ εὐχὴ τ῀ς πίστεως, and the Prayer of Faith ſhall ſave the Sick.] Among the χαρίσματα, or the miraculous and extraordinary Gifts vouchſafed at firſt to the Preachers of the Goſpel, and to the Rulers or Elders of the Churches, was the Gift of Faith, as in theſe words, to another is given Faith by the ſame Spirit, 1 Cor. 12. 9. i. e. by a ſtrong impulſe of the Spirit, fully perſuading them that God would enable them to do this or that. This ſeems to be that Faith which is ſtiled πίστις Θεοῦ, the Faith of God, to which even the removing of Mountains, or the performing things moſt difficult, and extraordinary is promiſed, Mark 11. 22, 23. Matth. 21. 21. and of which the Apoſtle ſpeaks, ſaying, If I had all Faith ſo as to remove Mountains, 1 Cor. 13. 2. and by which they healed the Sick, even by Faith in his Name, Acts 3. 16. and therefore this is here promiſed, that where the Prayer of the Elders was attended with ſuch a Faith, it ſhould be ſtill ſucceſsful for the healing the Sick, or the raiſing him up again from the Bed of ſickneſs; for σώσει, will ſave, is ἐγερεῖ, he will raiſe him up.

Ibid. And if he hath committed Sins.] i. e. q Such Sins for which God was pleaſed to inflict this bodily Diſeaſe upon him, as he did on the Members of the Church of Corinth, for their diſorderly celebrating the Lord's Supper, for which Cauſe, ſaith the Apoſtle, many are weak, and ſickly among you, 1 Cor. 11. 30. they being thus chaſtened of the Lord, v. 32. And where the Sickneſs is by way of Chaſtiſement, the healing it is a Teſtimony of God's forgiveneſs of it. Hence, thy Sins be forgiven, is our Lord's uſual Expreſſion when he healed the Sick, Matth. 9. 2, 6, 7. See the Note there: according to thoſe words of the Prophet Iſaiah, The Inhabitants ſhall not ſay they are ſick, the People ſhall be forgiven their Iniquity, Chap. 33. 24. Hence it is evident, that here is no foundation for the Sacrament of Extreme Unction, called by the Roman Church, The Sacrament of the dying, and adminiſtred for the purgation of their Sins, when they ſeem paſt hopes of recovery; for how can they gather a Sacrament of Extreme Unction, from an Unction that is not Extreme; or a perpetual Ordinance from an Action that was extraordinary and miraculous, and is long ſince ceaſed? How can they prove a Sacrament that is proper to dying Perſons, from a Rite uſed only upon Perſons who were not to die, but to be raiſed up from Sickneſs? Or promiſe to him forgiveneſs of his Sins, to whom they cannot promiſe that Recovery which was the token of it? Moreover the things already obſerved, afford us a ſufficient Anſwer to the Objections Objections of Eſthius againſt our Expoſition, which are theſe:

Object. 1. Firſt, That the Grace of Miracles extended not to Spiritual Effects, as the forgiveneſs of Sins, but Temporal.

Anſw. This is ſaid in flat Contradiction to our Lord, who doth ſo often Preface his miraculous Cures of the Sick with this Expreſſion, Thy Sins are forgiven thee, Matthew 9. 2. Nor was this forgiveneſs ſo much a Spiritual Effect, as temporal, it being only the Remiſſion of a Temporal Puniſhment of Sin, viz. Sickneſs inflicted for it.

Object. 2. Had the Apoſtle ſpoke of miraculous Cures, he would only have adviſed them to call thoſe who had the Gift of Healing, whether Presbyters or not, not all the Presbyters, and them only.

Anſw. He reaſonably adviſeth to call them, and them only to pray over the Sick, who were by Office appointed for that Work, and doth here only tell them what they might expect from it, when that miraculous Faith was raiſed in them, which often, in thoſe times of Miracles, accompanied their Prayers.

Object. 3. The Apoſtle ſpeaks of a ſick Chriſtian Brother to be anointed by a faithful Presbyter, whereas the uſe of Miracles was chiefly for converting Infidels, and hence this Unction was not uſed towards Trophimus left at Miletum ſick, 2 Tim. 4. 20. or to Epaphroditus, ſick near unto Death, Philip. 2. 27.

Anſw. If it were not uſed by St. Paul to them, and eſpecially to Epaphroditus, 'tis certain that he knew nothing of this Sacrament. 2. Eſthius hath no cauſe to aſſert that of Miracles in general, which the Apoſtle ſaith only of the Gift of Tongues, that they were only for Unbelievers; the Gift of Healing, for ought he knows to the contrary, might be ſtill exerciſed upon Believers, but only under the Conduct of the Spirit, raiſing up this miraculous Faith which aſſured them of it in reſpect to ſome, and not to others, as he ſaw fit. See Note on Philip. 2. 27.

Object. 4. That had the Apoſtle intended miraculous healing, Oil had not been preſcribed, Chriſt having ſaid, they ſhould lay their hands on the Sick only, Mark 16. 18.

Anſw. One Ceremony excludes not the other; moreover laying on of Hands is there preſcribed in preaching to the Gentiles, anointing with Oyl here to the Jews, as being cuſtomary in caſe of Sickneſs.

Object. 5. All the other things delivered in this Epiſtle, belong to the Chriſtians of all Ages; this therefore muſt do ſo too.

Anſw. As if this hindred the Apoſtles, as they had occaſion, to give Rules touching the Spiritual Gifts proper to their own Times, that, when they ſpake of other matters not to ceaſe, their Precepts reach unto all Times. St. Peter in his following Epiſtle hath one Direction concerning thoſe Spiritual Gifts, 1 Pet 4. 10, 11. though the other Precepts contained in that Epiſtle, do concern all Ages.

Ver. 16. Δέησις ἐνεργουμένη, the inſpired Prayer.] As they who were inwardly acted by an evil Spirit were ſtiled ἐνεργούμενοι, ſo they that were acted by the Holy Spirit, and inwardly moved by his Impulſes, were alſo ἐνεργούμενοι in the good ſenſe, and therefore it ſeems moſt proper to apply theſe words not to the Prayer of every Righteous Perſon, but to the Prayer offered by ſuch an extraordinary Impulſe; not only from the Force of this Expreſſion, but 2dly, from the ſame thing here mentioned, as the ſubject of this Prayer, that our Sick-Brother may be healed, which was to be done by the Prayer of Faith, v. 15. 3dly. From the Example of Elias, for his Prayer was the Prayer of Faith in the ſenſe now mentioned; for he abſolutely foretold, and confirm'd it with an Oath, that there ſhould be no Rain thoſe Years, but according to his Word, 1 Kings 18. 1. And his Prayer for Rain was upon God's Promiſe to ſend Rain upon the Earth, Chap. 19. 1. r

Ver. 17. Three Years and ſix Months.] So Luke 4. 35. when therefore it is ſaid, that Elijah came to Ahab in the Third Year, and the Lord ſaid, I will ſend Rain upon the Earth, Note, that Elias tarried before a Year at the Brook Kerith, and then in the middle of the Third Year came to Ahab. s

Ver. 20. This ſeemeth to be meant not of the Sins of the Perſon thus converted, for the ſaving of his Soul includes the Remiſſion of his Sins, but of the Sins of him that converts him, i. e. this charitable Work ſhall be ſo pleaſing to God, as to prevail with him to cover many of his Sins. t

THE PREFACE TO THE First Epistle of St. PETER.

CONcerning this Epistle, allow'd by the Church of all Ages to be the Genuine Work of the Apostle Peter, it may be enquir'd, 1. When? 2. Whence? 3. To whom? 4. On what Account it was written? And,

Quest. 1. 1st. Whereas it is ordinarily affirm'd by the Romanists, that this Epistle was written in the Forty-fourth Year of Christ, as that Opinion seems to have been taken up by them in favour of their avowed Tenet that St. Peter was Twenty-five Years in that See, and therefore he dying in the Year of our Lord 69 must have come thither in the Year 44. So is it easily confuted both from this Epistle, and by many other cogent Arguments.

1. From these Words of this Epistle, Ch. 4. 8. τὸ τέλος πάντων ἤγγικε, the end of all things is at Hand; that is, saith Dr. Hammond, who also follows this Opinion, the great and fatal Destruction to the Obdurate Jews so often spoken of by Christ, and his Apostles, is now near at hand; which could not have been said in the Forty-fourth Year of Christ, that is about Twenty-six Years before it happened, seeing the Apostle St. Paul in his Second Epistle to the Thessalonians writ, saith the Reverend Dr. Hammond, A. D. 51, warneth the Thessalonians not to be shaken by any Word, or Epistle as coming from the Apostles, which intimated that the Coming of the Lord was at hand, and so he must have contradicted St. Peter, had he delivered this positively Seven Years before. 2dly. The Apostle James hath the like Expressions, saying, ἡ παρουσία τοῦ Κυρίου ἤγγικε, the Coming of the Lord draweth near, Ch. 5. 8. Behold the Judge stands, πρὸ τῶν θυρῶν, before the Door; whence Dr. Hammond, and Dr. Lightfoot well conclude, That this Epistle could not be written long before the Death of St. James, which happened in the Year 63. And this Argument concludes as strongly for this Epistle's being indited after the same time. Add to this that these Expressions, τέλος, and ἡ παρουσία τοῦ Κυρίου ἤγγικε, the end, the Coming of the Lord is at Hand, and, πρὸ τῶν θυρῶν, before the Door, are plainly taken from our Saviour's Words in his Prediction of the destruction of Jerusalem; where also the Time is fixed by two remarkable Characters, 1. When you shall see Jerusalem compassed about with Armies, then know ye, ὅτι ἤγγικεν ἡ ἐρήμωσις αὐτῆς, that her Desolation draweth near, Luke 21. 20. that is, saith Dr. Hammond, when you see Jerusalem besieged by the Romans, then know the Destruction of the City is near. Now this happned not at all till the Twelfth of Nero, and the Sixty-sixth Year of our Lord, when (a) Cestius besieged Jerusalem; it happened not, say the best Interpreters, according to the Words of the Evangelist, till the Year 68 when Vespasian coming thither, his Army (b) compassed the City round about. These saith St. Luke, are the days of Vengeance, when all things which are written shall be fulfilled, v. 22. and then shall they see the Son of Man coming in the Clouds, v. 27. Again, our Lord having foretold all the Signs of his Coming, καὶ τὴν συντέλειαν, and of the end of the Jewish Age, adds, when you see all these things come to pass, then know that this Desolation, ἐγγύς ἐστιν ὅτι θύρας, is nigh, even at the Door, Matth. 24. 33. Mark. 13. 29. clearly shewing that Phrase importeth still a nearer approach of that great Desolation.

2dly. That St. Peter was not at Rome, nor departed from Judea, till a long time after the Forty-fourth Year of Christ, is so evident from the History of the Acts, and the Epistles of St. Paul, that he that runs may read it. For, That St. Luke in an History design'd especially to record the Acts of St. Peter and St. Paul, should omit a matter of such vast Moment and Importance to the whole Christian World, happening within that very time in which he speaketh of St. Peter; that saying of him Ch. 12. 17. He de-departed and went to another Place, he should not say, as Bellarmin and Baronius, that place was Rome, but in flat Contradiction to them, that he went down from Judea to Cæsarea, and there abode, v. 19. That he should tell us how Aquila and Priscilla came from Italy, because Claudius had commanded that all the Jews should depart from Rome, but should not tell us, as they do, that St. Peter came thence to Jerusalem on the same account, and therefore was found present at the Council of Jerusalem about Six Years after, but speak of him there, as if he never had left Jerusalem; That in this Council he should urge against the Necessity of imposing Circumcision on the Gentiles, only the Example of Cornelius, and his Kinsmen, converted and not circumcised, and say not one word of the Church of Rome, the Seat of all spiritual Power, and Infallibility, and to which all other Churches were to Veil, and do Homage, converted by him in like manner, and free also from the Yoke of Circumcision; Nay, that he should not mention that ever he was there, in an History continued till the fifth Year of Nero, though he mentions his Travels to, his Preaching, and abode at several other Places; these sure are things sufficient to convince all unprejudiced Persons, that St. Peter was not then at Rome.

3dly, The same may strongly be concluded from the Epistles of St. Paul. For about the Year 57, saith Bishop Pearson, he writ his Epistle to the Romans, in which he spends the greatest part of one Chapter in saluting particular Persons that were there; but yet we find no Salutation to St. Peter. Who, had he been then at Rome, would doubtless have been mention'd in the first place; and yet in so large an Epistle, he neither is directly, nor indirectly taken notice of. Moreover, St. Paul himself, in the beginning, intimates his earnest desire to come thither, that he might impart unto them some spiritual Gifts, to the end they might be established in the Faith; for which there could be no apparent Cause had the Apostle Peter been there so long before him. St Paul himself soon after comes to Rome, which when the Brethren heard of, they came to meet him as far as Appii Forum, Acts 28. 15. but not a word of St. Peter either coming or sending to him. When he is come, he goes not to sojourn with, or so much as to salute St. Peter, which sure he would have done if he had been there, but dwells in his own hired House. Being come, he calls the chief of the Jews together, who desire to hear of him what he thought of the Sect of the Christians, they knowing this only of it, that it was every where spoken against, v. 22. And what then had St. Peter, the Apostle of the Circumcision, been doing all this while among them? And how unlikely is it that there should be then, as (c) Dr. Hammond saith, a Church consisting much of the Jews residing there? And how reflecting on the supposed Labours of St. Peter among the Jews there, are the following Words, v. 26, 27, 28. that because they would not hear, or be converted, he would not leave them to St. Peter, but turn unto the Gentiles who would hear? After his coming to Rome, he writes Epistles to several Churches, to the Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, and one to Philemon; in which two last we have sent from Rome the Salutations of Aristarchus, Marcus, Justus, Epaphras, Luke, and Demas, Colos. 4. 10.--- 14. Philem. 23. 24. but not a word from St. Peter. In that to the Colossians, he tells them he had no other Helpers, or Fellow-workers unto the Kingdom of God among the Jews, which had been a Comfort to him, but Aristarchus, Marcus, and Justus, Ch. 4. 10. 11. which evidently excludes St. Peter. In his Epistle to Timothy he saith, that at his first Answer at Rome, all men forsook him, 2 Tim. 4. 16. which we can hardly believe, had St. Peter been there. He adds, that only Luke was with him, that Crescens was gone to this place, Titus to that, and Tychicus was left at another. Strange therefore is it, that if St. Peter were then gone from Rome, St. Paul should take no notice of it. Was he a Person so inconsiderable, as not to deserve to be remembred? Or was he gone upon a sleeveless Errand, not worthy of the notice of St. Paul? Or was he not rather one who being not at Rome, could give St. Paul no reason to take notice of him when he writ from thence? But this Subject is so fully handled, and the Hypothesis of Baronius so learnedly confuted by (d) Dr. Cave, that 'tis superfluous to insist longer on this Subject.

Quest. 2. To the Second Enquiry, Whence this Epistle was Indited? I have returned a sufficient Answer in the Note upon these Words, Ch. 5. 13. The Church which is at Babylon saluteth you, by shewing that by Babylon Rome is to be understood; whence this Epistle must be therefore written. And then it must be written after the Persecution in the 10*th of* Nero, at which time neither Paul nor Peter were at Rome.

Quest. 3. That it was written to the Jews dispersed through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia (minor) and Bithynia, the Inscription (e) shews; but that it must be also written either to the Gentiles proselyted to the Jewish Religion, of whom see the Note on 1 Pet. 1. 1. or to the Converts of the twelve Tribes scattered among the Heathens, and there serving their Gods, according to the Threat denounced upon them Deut. 28. 36, 64. that they should serve other Gods which neither they nor their Fathers had known, seems evident from these Words, that they

they were deliver'd from their vain Converſation delivered to them from their Fathers, Ch. 1. 18. See the Note there; that in times paſt they were not the People, but now are the People of God; that they had not obtained mercy, but now had obtained Mercy, Chap. 2. 10. which words were ſpoken of the Ten Tribes; Hoſ. 1. 10. 2. 23. and that the time paſt might ſuffice them to have done the Will of the Gentiles, when they walked in Laſciviouſneſs, Luſts, Exceſs of Wine, Revelings, Banquetings, and abominable Idolatries, Ch. 4. 3.

To imagine that the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking of the Diſperſion mention'd Acts 8. 1. is to ſpeak what is very improbable, they being diſperſed only into the Countries of Judea and Samaria, ſaith the Text there; nor is it ſaid that any of them travell'd any farther than Phœnice, Cyprus, and Antioch, Ch. 11. 19. Nor is it likely that many of them travell'd ſo far, the Churches of Judea and Samaria having Peace ſoon after this Diſperſion, Acts 9. 31. That any of them went to all, or any of the Places here mention'd by St. Peter, we have no reaſon to imagine, but that there was long before a great Diſperſion of the Jews throughout theſe Parts of Aſia, See the Note on James 1. 1.

Laſtly, Upon what Account this Epiſtle was written, we may beſt learn from the Epiſtle it ſelf; which informs us, 1ſt. That it was written to encourage them to perſevere, and to continue conſtant under thoſe manifold Temptations, Ch. 1. 6. thoſe Fiery Tryals, Ch. 4. 12. and Perſecutions, Ch. 2. 3, 4, 5. they were then ſubject to. 2ly. To preſerve them from being concerned in the Jewiſh Wars, or bearing any part in that Rebellion againſt Cæſar and His Officers, which was then beginning among the Jews Ch. 2 from ver. 12. to the 23. and Ch. 3. 16, 17, 18. And 3ly. To engage them to lead a Chriſtian Converſation, that ſo they might bring over others to the Chriſtian Faith, Ch. 2. 12. Ch. 3. 1. and might ſtop the mouths of thoſe who ſpake againſt them as Evil-doers, Ch. 3. 16.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS

On the First Epistle of St. PETER.

CHAP. I.

Verse 1. PETER an Apostle of Jesus Christ [writeth] to the [a] strangers [b] scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia [minor,] and Bithynia.

2. [That is, to those of them who are] [c] Elect [d] according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, [e] through sanctification of the Spirit unto Obedience, and [to the] [f] sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ; [wishing that] Grace to you, and Peace [may] be multiplied.

3. Blessed be the [g] God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a [h] lively [Gr. living] hope, by the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

4. [We being begotten by his Resurrection, as the first-fruits of ours, 1 Cor. 15. 20, 23.] to [the hope of] an inheritance incorruptible and [i] undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in Heaven for you, [Believers.]

5. [k] Who are kept by the power of God through Faith [l] unto [the] Salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

6. Wherein [i. e. on the Account of which] you greatly rejoice, though now for a season, [m] if need be, ye are in heaviness through manifold Temptations.

7. That the trial of your Faith being [which is] much more precious [and advantageous to you] than [the Trial of] Gold that perisheth, though it be [n] tried by fire, [or though upon Trial it endure the fire,] might be found to your praise, honour, and glory at the appearance of Jesus Christ [in Glory.]

8. [o] Whom, having not seen, ye love, in whom, though now you see him not, yet [Gr. not now seeing, but] believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable, and full of Glory.

9. Receiving the end of your Faith, [p] even the Salvation of [your] Souls.

10. Of which Salvation the Prophets have enquired, and searched diligently, who propheſied of the Grace that should come unto you, [i. e. of the Grace to be brought unto us at the Revelation of Jesus Christ, v. 13. Matth. 13. 17.]

11. [q] Searching what, or what manner of time the [r] Spirit of Christ which was in them did signifie, [or to what time he did relate,] when he testified before-hand [s] the Sufferings of Christ [in himself and his Members,] and the Glories that should follow [them, Dan. 9. 24.]

12. To whom it was revealed, that not unto themselves, but unto us they did minister the [same] things which are now reported, [or have been now declared] to you, by them who have preached the Gospel to you [t] which the Holy Ghost sent down from Heaven, which things the [u] Angels desire to look into.

13. [x] Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober [Gr. vigilant] and hope to the end for the Grace that is to be brought [Gr. that is brought] to you at [by] the Revelation of Jesus Christ, [who hath brought life and immortality to light by the Gospel, 2 Tim. 1. 10.]

14. As

14. As [it becometh] obedient Children, not faſhioning your ſelves according to the former luſts [you practiſed] in your ignorance.

15. But as he [God the Father, v. 17.] who hath called you is holy, ſo be ye holy in all manner of Converſation.

16. Becauſe it is written [thus] be ye y holy for [y] I [the Lord your God] am holy, [Lev. 11. 44. 19. 2.]

17. And if ye call upon the Father, who z [z] without reſpect of Perſons judgeth according to every Man's works, paſs the time of your ſojourning here in fear [of Condemnation from this impartial Judge at that day.]

18. Foraſmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with Corruptible things, [ſuch] as [are] Silver and Gold, [ſuch as the Jews brought up to Jeruſalem to buy their Offerings,] aa from [the demerit of] your [aa] vain Converſation received by Tradition from your Fathers.

19. But with the precious blood of Chriſt, bb [who was delivered up to Death for you,] as [bb] a lamb without blemiſh, and without ſpot.
cc 20. Who verily was [cc] fore-ordained [Gr. foreknown, i. e. deſigned as the Meſſiah,] before the foundation of the World, but was manifeſted in theſe laſt times for you [r ſakes.]

21. [dd] Who by [Faith in] him [thus riſen,] dd do believe in God that raiſed him up from the dead, that your Faith and Hope [of a bleſſed Reſurrection] might be in God.

22. Seeing ye have purified your Souls in [by] obeying the Truth through the Spirit, [by whom you are enabled to perform this Obedience,] to unfeigned love of the Brethren, [which is one part of that Obedience,] ſee that you love [Gr. ye will love] one another with a pure heart fervently.

23. Being born again not of Corruptible ſeed, [as is that from which you had your firſt Nativity, whence you alſo who are thus begotten are Corruptible,] [ee] but of Incorrup- ee tible [as being born again] [ff] by the Word ff of God which liveth, and abideth for ever.

24. For all fleſh is as graſs, and all the glory of Man as the flower of graſs, [as then] the graſs withereth, and the flower of it falleth away, [ſo will it be with our body of fleſh.]

25. But the Word of the Lord, [ſaith the Prophet, Iſa. 40. 8.] endureth for ever [in it's ſelf, as being of Eternal Truth, and in it's Effects upon us, as nouriſhing us to life Eternal.] and this is the Word which by the Goſpel is preached to you.

Annotations on Chapter I.

a Verſe 1. Παρεπιδήμοις, to the Strangers] He writes eſpecially to the Diſperſion of the Jews, to whom the word Strangers, or Foreigners, here chiefly doth belong, but not to them only, for he ſpeaks to them alſo, who in time paſt had walk'd according to the will of the Gentiles, in abominable Idolatries, Chap. 4. 3. and of them who formerly were not the People of God, and had not found Mercy; we therefore are to underſtand, that among them were many Devout Greeks, and Proſelytes of the Gentiles, converted with them to the Chriſtian Faith: Thus when St. Paul and Barnabas preached in a Synagogue of the Jews at Iconium, a great multitude both of Jews and Greeks believed, Acts 14. 1. and Paul preaching at Epheſus and thereabouts two Years, prevailed ſo, that all that dwelt in Aſia heard the Word of the Lord Jeſus, both Jews and Greeks, Acts 19. 10. See Chap. 17. 4, 12. 18. 4. In the Acts of the Apoſtles we read of Proſelytes of all Nations. They were reckoned in the Days of David and Solomon 153600 Perſons, 2 Chron. 2. 17. In the Days of Artaxerxes we are told that πολλοὶ τῶν ἐθνῶν περιετέμνοντο, καὶ ἰουδαΐζον, many of the Heathens were Circumciſed and turned Jews, Eſth. 8. 17. And ſo it was alſo in the ſucceeding Ages; for (a) Joſephus informs us, that after the Times of Antiochus Epiphanes, the Jews, in Antioch, and other Places, always converting to their worſhip a great many Greeks, made them as it were a part of themſelves; And at (b) Damaſcus he ſaith, they would have deſtroyed the Jews among them, but that they feared their own Wives, who, all except ſome few, were Converts to the Religion of the Jews.

Ibid. Διασπορᾶς, of the Diſperſion.] i. e. b diſperſed through Pontus, &c. The Apoſtle ſpeaks not of the Diſperſion made by the Perſecution mentioned, Acts 8. 1. for that ſcattered the Chriſtians only through Judæa, and Samaria, ibid. Nor were they afterwards diſperſed farther by the malice of the Jews, but went themſelves to preach the Word, not in Aſia, but in the parts of Syria, in Phœnice, Cyprus, and Antioch, Acts 11. 19. Of their Diſperſion thence into Aſia, we read not one word, but that that there were great Dispersions before of the Jews through the Places here mentioned, from the time of the Captivity under Salmanasser, we learn from (c) Agrippa's Address to Caius, where he informs him that they possessed most parts of Asia, to the utmost borders of Bithynia and Pontus.

e Ibid. Ἐν ἁγιασμῷ, through sanctification of the Spirit,] The great Principle of all true Obedience; so v. 22. Having sanctified your Souls or Lives to the Obedience of the Truth through the Spirit.

f Ibid. Καὶ ῥαντισμὸν, and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus.] By way of Obsignation of that Covenant by which we are engaged to that Obedience; for so it was in the Delivery of the Old Law: For upon the reading of that Covenant in the Audience of all the People, and upon their Professing, All that the Lord hath said we will do, and be obedient, Moses took the blood, and sprinkled it upon the People, and said, Behold the blood of the Covenant which the Lord hath made with you, concerning all these words, Exod. 24. 7, 8. So Dr. Hammond. Or to that sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ which cleanseth us from all Sin, 1 John 1. 7. i. e. from all the sinful Imperfections which cleave to our Obedience, and by which the full pardon of our past Sins, is procured, and we obtain an entrance into the Holy of Holies, Heb. 10. 19, 20. and which procures for us not only Acceptance upon Earth, but an Inheritance in Heaven, Heb. 9. 15. 12. 24. whence this Blood is stiled, Αἷμα ῥαντισμοῦ, the blood of sprinkling, Heb. 12. 24. and of Christ it is said, he shall sprinkle many Nations, Isai. 52. 15.

g Ver. 3. Ὁ θεὸς καὶ πατὴρ, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.] Here, saith Schlictingius, as formerly the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob distinguished the one true God from any other, so now this Phrase distinguisheth him who is called his God, and Father, from Jesus Christ. But yet the Primitive (d) Fathers thought otherwise; for they stiffly maintained against the Gnosticks, who held there was another God above the God of Abraham, &c. or the God of the Jews, that he was the God and Father of all, supra quem non est alius, and yet that Jesus Christ was God, as being in the Father from all Eternity, and receiving the Divine Nature from him.

Ibid. Εἰς ἐλπίδα ζῶσαν, to a living hope.] Either an hope that giveth life, as ὕδωρ ζῶν, living water, John 4. 10, 11, 14. ὁ ἄρτος ὁ ζῶν, the living bread which came down from Heaven, of which if a Man eat, he shall live for ever, John 6. 51. 7. 38. λόγια ζῶντα, the living Oracles, Acts 7. 38. which if a Man observe, saith Moses, he shall live by them, Levit. 18. 4. ὁδὸς ζῶσα, a living way, Heb. 10. 20. as leading to life eternal, And ζωῆς πηγαὶ, living fountains of Waters, Rev. 7. 17. for by Hope we are saved, Rom. 8. 24. Or a Hope that makes us active, and lively, joyful, and comfortable in our lives, rejoycing in hope of the Glory of God, Rom. 5. 2. In which sense it is said of the Word of God, that it is ζῶν καὶ ἐνεργὴς, living, and active, Heb. 4. 12. Of the Members of Christ's Spiritual House, that they are λίθοι ζῶντες, i. e. living Stones, 1 Pet. 2. 5. And we are bid to offer our Bodies, Θυσίαν ζῶσαν, a living Sacrifice, Rom. 12. 1. Hence it seems to follow, that the Jews before had not this lively hope, which our Lord's Resurrection ministers. h

Ver. 5. Ἐν δυνάμει θεοῦ φρουρουμένους διὰ πίστεως, who are kept by the Power of God through Faith.] Not that all who have true Faith are kept by the Power of God, so as that they shall certainly continue in the Faith; but, that they shall be thus preserved, if they continue in the Faith, rooted, and settled, and are not removed from the hope of the Gospel, Col. 1. 23. If they keep the beginning of their Confidence firm unto the end, Heb. 3. 14. k

l Ibid. Εἰς σωτηρίαν ἑτοίμην ἀποκαλυφθῆναι ἐν καιρῷ ἐσχάτῳ, the Salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.] i. e. Say some, the Deliverance ready to be vouchsafed to the Christians at the Destruction of the Church and Polity of Jerusalem, this being the Salvation then ready to be revealed. But this seems not very probable; 1. Because in this Salvation Christians are said to rejoice greatly, or to exult for joy, v. 6. which it becomes not them to do for Temporal, but for Spiritual Blessings. 2dly. Because 'tis the Salvation, not of our Bodies, but our Souls, even that Salvation which is the end of our Faith, v. 9. See the Note there. To the Argument produced for the other sense from the Words,

I answer, 1. That though the last times, and days, in the Plural do mostly signifie the times of the Gospel Dispensation, concurring with the last times of the Jewish State; yet the last time, or day, in the Singular often signifies the time of the Resurrection, or the last Judgment, especially when it is joined with the Resurrection of the Body mentioned here, v. 3. So John 6. 39. I will raise him up, ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ ἡμέρᾳ, in the last day. See v. 40. 44, 45. Chap. 11. 24. I know that he shall rise in the last day, and Chap. 12. 48. the word that I have spoken shall judge him in the last day.

2dly. As there is mention of a double Revelation of Jesus Christ; one when he appeared as a Prophet to the World, stiled usually φανέρωσις the manifestation of Jesus Christ; another at the day of Judgment, stiled ἀποκάλυψις, the Revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ, 1 Cor. 1. 7. the Revelation of Jesus Christ from Heaven, 2 Thess. 1. 7. his glorious Revelation, 1 Pet. 4. 13. and here emphatically the Revelation of Christ, v. 7. 13. So is there a double Revelation of the Salvation promised in the Gospel, one by the preaching of the Gospel which brought Life, and Salvation to light, 2 Tim. 1. 10. and a farther Revelation of it to be made hereafter, when Christ who is our Life shall appear, Col. 3. 3, 4. 1 John 3. 2. stiled the Glory ready to be revealed, when the great Shepherd shall appear, 1 Pet. 5. 4. the Glory ready to be revealed at the Redemption of our Bodies, Rom. 8. 18, 23. to which this Passage may refer.

m Ver. 6. Εἰ δέον ἐστί, if need be.] This is great Consolation under all the Afflictions of God's Servants, that they then only shall befall them, when God sees them needful for the Promotion of his Glory, or for the furtherance of our Salvation, as when they tend to make us Partakers of his Holiness, and to work in us the comfortable fruits of Righteousness, Heb. 12. 10, 11. or work for us an exceeding and eternal weight of Glory, 2 Cor. 4. 17. by conforming us to him in Sufferings to whom we shall be like in Glory, 1 Pet. 4. 13. Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11.

n Ver. 7. Διὰ πυρὸς δοκιμαζομένου.] Proved to be genuine by the Fire it endures, as your Faith is by patiently enduring fiery Trials. See Note on Chap. 4. 12.

o Ver. 8. Ὃν οὐκ ἰδόντες.] If this reading be true, it is most proper to translate the words thus, whom having not known, if ὃν οὐκ ἰδόντες, as other Copies have it, and all the Versions do translate it, be the true reading, then our Translation is right also.

p Ver. 9. Σωτηρίαν ψυχῶν.] The Preservation of your lives, so Dr. Hammond, but there is no ὑμῶν in the Greek, to answer to the word your in the English; and the Salvation of lives seems not so properly assigned as the end of our Faith, as the Salvation of Souls, as we may learn also from the following words.

q Ver. 11. Εἰς τίνα ἢ ποῖον καιρὸν, what, or what manner of time.] The Particle εἰς is oft redundant. See Nold. p. 66, 67. and p. 464. or it may here be rendred de, of what time, as 2 Cor. 12. 6. let no Man think, εἰς ἐμὲ, of me, more than he ought to think, Eph. 5. 32. I speak, εἰς Χριστὸν, καὶ εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, of Christ and the Church, Acts 2. 25. David spake εἰς αὐτὸν of him. So Acts 25. 20. Heb. 7. 14. εἰς ἣν φυλὴν, of which Tribe.

r Ibid. Τὸ ἐν αὐτοῖς πνεῦμα Χριστοῦ, the Spirit of Christ which was in them.] That is, say the Socinians, the Spirit in them which spake of Christ, as the word of life, and of Salvation, is the word which speaks of Life, and of Salvation. But in this sense he might as well have been stiled the Spirit of Antichrist, or the false Prophets, because he also spake of them. All the Ancients agree in the other sense, that (e) Christ spake by his Spirit in the Prophets, they being inspired with his Grace, and taught by his Spirit, their words proceeded from the Divine Word, moving them, and by him they prophesied; He spake in Isaiah, in Elias, and in the Mouth of the Prophets. So the Fathers.

Ibid. Τὰ εἰς Χριστὸν παθήματα, the Sufferings of Christ.] Not only in himself, but in his Members, and the Glories which should be after, as well to them, as to their Saviour, Saviour, Rom. 8. 18. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. 1 Pet. 4. 13. as appears from v. 13. where this Glory is stiled the Grace to be brought to us at the Revelation of Jesus Christ.

t Ver. 12. Ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ, by the Holy Spirit sent down from Heaven.] Hence it is evident that the Apostles in all those Writings, in which they declared the Gospel of Christ, were θεόπνευστοι, Men assisted by the Holy Ghost, and that they in preaching, and inditing the Gospel, were acted by the same Spirit who moved formerly the Prophets. See the General Preface.

u Ibid. παρακύψαι, Angels desire to look into.] And shall Holy Prophets be so desirous to know the time when these things should happen, and holy Angels so diligent to look into these glorious Revelations; and shall we, to whom, and for whose happiness, this Gospel was revealed, neglect not only to obtain, but even to know this great Salvation? Some refer this to Dan. 8. 13.

x Ver. 13. Note, that from this, and the foregoing Verse we have several Arguments to prove these things relate not to the Temporal Deliverance of Christians from the Persecution of the Jews, but to their Deliverance from the guilt of Sin, by the blood of Christ, v. 19. and that eternal Deliverance which is the object of the Christian's hope. For, 1st. That cannot properly be stiled the Grace which is to come to us by the Revelation of Jesus Christ; that being the Grace which brings Salvation, Tit. 2. 11, 13. (2dly.) That was not the thing which they who preached the Gospel did, ἀναγγέλλειν ἡμῖν, declare unto us, but as St. John informs us, they did ἀναγγέλλειν ζωὴν αἰώνιον, shew unto us eternal life, 1 John 1. 2. (3.) They could not be the things the Angels did desire to look into. (4.) The motive to Perseverance to the end, is not a Temporal Deliverance from the Jews, but a Spiritual, and Eternal Deliverance, Rom. 8. 18. 2 Cor. 4. 17. Heb. 10. 35, 36.

y Ver. 16. Ἐγὼ ἅγιος εἰμι.] The Holiness of God in Scripture, hath respect to a double Object, viz. Sin; and so it doth import his perfect freedom from, his hatred of, and Opposition to all Impiety. 1st. His entire freedom from all Impurity, for God is Light, saith the Apostle, and in him is no Darkness at all, 1 John 1. 5. He is a just God, and without Iniquity, Deut. 32. 4. A God of purer Eyes than to behold Evil, Hab. 1. 13. i. e. without the greatest Detestation. 2dly. His perfect hatred of it; whence he is said to loath, detest, and to abhor it, and the workers of it; and it is stiled the abominable thing which his Soul hateth, Jer. 44. 4. And since God's Nature is immutable, his Holiness unchangeable, he must for ever hate with a most perfect hatred whatsoever is unholy, and impure; and to suppose an Interruption in his hatred of evil Doers, is to suppose he can cease to be a pure and holy God. And, 3dly. from this hatred naturally flows a just Assurance of his Opposition to all Impiety, and Unholiness, that he by no means will clear the guilty, Exod. 34. 7. or let the Sinner always go unpunished. Nah. 1. 3. And this seems to be the import of the Holiness of God we are here called to imitate, because it stands in Opposition to the former lusts of their Ignorance: Or, 2dly. God's Holiness respects such Persons as are by Consecration, or by Resemblance of him, holy; and so it intimates his great Affection to them, and Concernment for them.

z Ver. 17. Ἀπροσωπολήπτως.] i. e. without difference of Nations, whether Jew or Gentile, or without Respect had to any Man's Progenitors in the great Day of his Account, Acts 10. 34, 35. Rom. 2. 58. See Note on James 2. 1.

aa Ver. 18. Ἐκ τῆς ματαίας ὑμῶν ἀναστροφῆς, from your vain Conversation.] Two Expressions in this Chapter, seem to intimate that the Apostle speaks here, not only to the Native Jews, but also to the converted Gentiles. 1st. His Exhortation to them not to fashion themselves according to their former lusts, ἐν τῇ ἀγνοίᾳ ὑμῶν, in their Ignorance, which Phrase in the New Testament, hath still Relation to the Times of Ignorance in which the Gentiles lay, before the preaching of the Gospel to them, So Acts 17. 30. τοὺς χρόνους τῆς ἀγνοίας, the times of Ignorance God winked at, Eph. 4. 10. being darkned in your Mind, διὰ τὴν ἄγνοιαν, by the Ignorance that is in you. 2dly. This of their Conversation received by Tradition from their Fore-fathers, for tho' the Scribes and Pharisees had delivered Traditions to the People, which rendred the Worship of God vain, Matth. 15. 9. yet a vain Conversation received by Tradition from their Fore-fathers, seems rather to respect the Conversation of the Heathens, ἀναστροφὴ being the word by which the Conversation of the Gentiles is designed, Ephes. 2. 3. 4. 22. 2 Pet. 2. 7, 18. and μάταια here added to it, determining the Conversation to the Worship of vain Gods, Acts 14. 15. Eph. 4. 17. Their Plea for their Religion, and vain Worship being also this, that they received it from their Fathers, saying, that (f) they were not to be moved by any Persuasions from the Religion which they had (g) received from their Fore-fathers. But yet I confess these things may relate to the Gentile Proselytes among the Jews, which were very numerous. See Note on v. 1.

bb Ver. 19. Ὡς ἀμνοῦ ἀμώμου, a lamb without blemish.] Christ, being perfect, and without spot of sin, was typified by the Lamb offered daily for their Sins; and that Lamb being bought with the half Shekel, every one gave for the buying of the daily Sacrifice, Exod. 30. 14, 15, 16. and which was therefore stiled Kesseph Kippurim, the Money of Expiations, and was sent up to Jerusalem from every City of Judæa, and all the Provinces where the Jews lived, in Silver and Gold, the Apostle may here allude to this when he saith, You were not redeemed with Silver and Gold, by which the daily Sacrifice was bought, which made atonement for your Souls, but with the precious blood of Jesus, who shed his blood for your Redemption from that Death, which by your sins you had contracted. Others refer this to the Paschal Lamb, by the sprinkling of whose blood they were delivered from Destruction when the first-born of the Egyptians perished, Exod. 12. 11, 17. Both these Lambs were to be ἀμνοὶ ἄμωμοι, perfect, and without spot, that they might be accepted, Exod. 12. 5. Lev. 22. 21. Numb. 28. 3, 9, 11, 19, &c.

cc Ver. 20. Προεγνωσμένου, foreknown.] The Jews, say, that (h) "When God created "the World, he held forth his hand un- "der the Throne of Glory, and created "the Soul of the Messiah and his Com- "pany, and said to him, wilt thou "heal, and redeem my Sons after "Six thousand Years? He answered, "Yes. God said to him, If so, wilt thou "bear Chastisements to expiate their Ini- "quity, according to what is written, "Isai. 53. 4. Surely he bore our Griefs? "He answered, I will endure them with "Joy. And to this Representation of this Covenant made with the Messiah, before the Creation of the World, it may be the Apostle here refers. See the Note on Eph. 1. 4. In the stile of (i) Philo he is ἀϊδίου λόγου, the eternal word, the first-born, and the most ancient Son of the Father, by whom all the Species were framed. This therefore is according to the received Opinion of the Jews.

dd Ver. 21. Πιστεύοντας εἰς Θεὸν, by him do believe in God.] Here the Socinians object thus, He by whom we believe in God, is not that God in whom we believe, for the means of Faith, can never be the Object of it; but Christ is he by whom we believe in God, ergo, Christ is not God. To this I answer, That Christ according to the Nature which died for us, and which was raised from the Dead, is he by whom we believe in God, i. e. own him to be able to raise us also from the Dead; and according to the same nature we acknowledge him not to be God, but that hinders not his being God according to that nature by which he had power to, and did actually raise himself from the Dead, Joh 10. 18. 2. 19.

But still they object, That by him we believe in him that raised him from the Dead, that our Faith and Hope might be in God, to wit, the Father; Faith therefore and Hope in Christ, is not Faith and Hope in God. Answ. 1. It only follows hence that it is not Faith and Hope in God the Father; but 2dly, the Apostle here saith, that by believing in him who raised up Christ from the Dead, we believe in God, because we believe in that Divine Power which can raise us also from the Dead; since therefore the Holy Scripture expressly and frequently asserts that we shall be raised up from the Dead by the Voice of the Son of God, John 5. 25, 28. and that because as the Father hath life in himself, and so is able to give life to the Dead, so hath he given to the Son, to have life in himself, v. 26. Seeing Christ often saith of him that believeth in him, I will raise him up at the last day, John 6. 39, 40, 44, 54. for I am the Resurrection and the Life, Joh. 11. 24, 25. Since the Apostle saith he hath Dominion over the Dead, and over the Living, Rom. 14. 9. that by him all Men shall be made alive, 1 Cor. 15. 22. and that he will change our vile Bodies into the likeness of his Glorious Body according to the mighty power whereby he is able to subdue all things to himself, it rather follows hence, that our Faith and Hope in Christ thus raising us from the Dead, as his Father did him, is Faith, and Hope in God.

ee Ver. 23. Ἀναγεγεννημένοι, being born again of Incorruptible seed.] Here is a farther Evidence that the Word of God is the ordinary means of our new Birth: For 'tis τὸ ῥῆμα τὸ εὐαγγελισθὲν, the Word preached, (not any inward Word infused,) which is here stiled that Incorruptible Seed, from which this new Birth is derived.

ff Ibid. Διὰ λόγου ζῶντος Θεοῦ, the living Word of God.] This Epithet is ascribed to the Word of God, Heb. 4. 12. and that this is not spoken of the Living God, is evident, because in the Greek it is not διὰ λόγου Θεοῦ ζῶντος, but ζῶντος Θεοῦ, i. e. not not by the Word of the living God, but by the living Word of God. 2dly. That it is to be understood of the Word preached is clear, because the Epithet, living, and abiding for ever, agrees to the same thing. Now the Apostle saith it is the Word preached that abideth for ever, and so the Prophet Isaiah had said before him, Chap. 40. 8. τὸ δὲ ῥῆμα τοῦ θεοῦ ἡμῶν μένει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα.

among the Crucifiers of the Messiah, and condemned with them hereafter, it being just with God, that they who will not reform, and amend at the preaching of the Gospel, and so receive benefit by it, should for their obstinacy be condemned, and so the worse for it; Christ being set for the falling, as well as the rising of many in Israel, Luke 2. 34. and the Gospel being a Savour of Death to them that perish, 2 Cor. 2. 15, 16. And they being those whom ἔθετο ὁ Θεὸς εἰς ὀργὴν, God hath appointed for wrath. 1 Thess. 5. 6. And to be sure it cannot signifie that God absolutely ordained the unbelieving Jews εἰς ἀπείθειαν, to Disobedience, for then this Disobedience would be a compliance with the Divine Ordinance, or Will, and so could not deserve the Name of Disobedience; nor could this Disobedience be objected to them as their Crime, unless compliance with his Ordinance, and Will be so, and it be a fault to be such as God by his immutable Counsel and Decree hath ordained we should be, or it should render Men criminal and obnoxious to Punishment, that they have not made void God's absolute Decree, or done what that made it impossible for them to do. Wherefore this Passage cannot signifie that the unbelieving Jews were appointed to Disobedience, but only that being disobedient to the Gospel, so clearly revealed, and by so many Miracles and Distributions of the Holy Ghost confirm'd, they were appointed to the Punishment of that Disobedience to fall and perish: For so the the Hebrew כשל and the Greek πρόσκομμα, and σκάνδαλον import, viz. the Ruin and Fall of them who stumble at this Stone, as hath been proved on Rom. 14. 13. See Prov. 16. 19. Isai. 8. 14, 15. Jer. 6. 21. Ezek. 3. 20. 21. 15. Zech. 12. 3. Matth. 21. 41. Luke 20. 18. So (c) Oecumenius on the Place. Or, secondly, the words may be thus construed, to them who are disobedient, and through that Disobedience stumble at the word, this other Character of the Stone belongs, of a stone of stumbling; whereunto these stones were put one for Honour to the Believer, the other for a stone of stumbling to the Unbeliever, and Disobedient, for to both these stones the Apostle Paul Rom. 9. 33. and St. Peter here, do put this Preface, Behold I lay in Zion a stone. And this agrees with that of Simeon, Behold, this Child is placed for the fall, and rising of many in Israel, Luke 2. 34.

h Ibid. The Titles here given to the Christians are the same which formerly were given to the whole Jewish Nation, and are accordingly to be interpreted. γένος ἐκλεκτὸν, a chosen or elected Nation.] Not only the Righteous and obedient Persons among them, but the whole Nation of the Jews are stiled the Elect of God throughout the Old Testament; Thus Deut. 4. 37. because he loved thy Fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, therefore ἐξελέξατο τὸ σπέρμα αὐτῶν μετ' αὐτοὺς ὑμᾶς, he chose you their Seed after them, and brought you out of Egypt by his mighty Power. Where it is evident that their whole seed, even all that came out of Egypt, were the Elect, Deut. 7. 6, 7. Jehovah thy God hath chosen thee to be a peculiar People to himself, above all People that are on the face of the Earth. The Lord did not set his Love upon you because you were more in Number than any People; but because the Lord loved you, and because he would keep the Oath which he had sworn to your Fathers, hath he brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the House of Bondmen. Where evident it is, 1st. That their being chosen before other Nations to be God's peculiar People is their Election. 2dly. That all that were brought out of Egypt were thus beloved, and thus elected. 3dly. That to these Elect, and chosen People God only promiseth to keep Covenant and Mercy, provided they would love him, and obey him, and that he threatneth to destroy them, and to repay them to their Face, if they neglect so to do. In the 10th. Chapter, v. 14. 15, 16. he speaks thus, The Lord hath a delight in thy Fathers to love them, καὶ ἐξελέξατο, and he elected you their seed after them above all People; circumcise therefore the Fore-skin of your hearts, and be no more stiff-necked. Where again evident it is, that the whole seed of Abraham by Isaac, even the stiff-necked of them, were the beloved, and elect of God. Ch. 14. he saith to all to whom the following Precepts did belong, and therefore doubtless to all Israel, Thou art an holy People to the Lord thy God, καὶ σὲ ἐξελέξατο ὁ Κύριος, and the Lord hath chosen thee out to be a peculiar People above all Nations.

And with this notion of the Words accords the constant use of the same Phrase in all the Prophets, and sacred Writers of the Old Testament: Thus Solomon saith, 1 Kings 3. 8. Thy Servant is in the midst of thy People, ὃν ἐξελέξω, which thou hast elected, a great People that cannot be numbred, nor counted for multitude. In the Book of Psalms the Jews in general are stiled The Seed of Israel his Servant, the Children of Jacob, ἐκλεκτοὶ αὐτοῦ, his Elect, Ps. 105. 6, 43. Ps. 135. 4. There doth he say, τὸν Ἰακὼβ ἑαυτῷ ἐξελέξατο ὁ Κύριος, the Lord hath chosen Jacob to himself, ſelf, and Iſrael for his own Inheritance, Pſal. 106. 5. There doth he tell us, that the Lord brought forth his People with joy, καὶ τὸς ἐκλεκτὸς αὐτῦ, and his Elect with gladneſs. There he deſires of God, χρηστότητα τῶν ἐκλεκτῶν, the good of his Elect, to rejoice in the gladneſs of his Nation; ſo that throughout the Pſalms God's Servants, his People, his Nation, his Inheritance, and his Elect, are the ſame Perſons.

In the Evangelical Prophet we read, God ſpeaking of Jacob, ὃν ἐξελεξάμην, whom I have elected, and Iſrael whom I have loved, Iſai. 41. 8, 9. and to whom he ſpeaks thus, Thou art my Child whom I have choſen, Chap. 43. 20, 21. There God declares he will make Waters in the Wilderneſs, and Rivers in the Deſarts, ποτίσαι τὸ γένος μῦ τὸ ἐκλεκτὸν, to give drink to my choſen Generation, my People whom I have choſen to ſhew forth my Praiſe, Chap. 45. 4. There we read of Jacob my Servant, and Iſrael mine Elect, Ch. 65. 9 and of a Mountain which his Elect ſhall inherit, and in which his Servants ſhall dwell.

In the Prophet Jeremy we find God is diſpleaſed with them who ſaid, the two Families אשר בחר יהוה בהם whom the Lord had choſen, he hath even caſt them off, Jer. 33. 24. The Prophet ſpeaks of the day when the Lord choſe Iſrael, and lifted up his hand to the ſeed of the houſe of Jacob, Ezek. 20. 5. The Prophet Zechariah ſtiles God, The Lord who hath choſen Jeruſalem, Zech. 3. 2. And Daniel ſpeaks of a time when οἱ ἐκλεκτοὶ αὐτῦ, his Elect ſhould not be able to ſtand before their Enemies, Dan. 11. 15.

And to carry on this Phraſe even to the times of the New Teſtament, in the Book of Eſther we are told of a time in which τὸ γένος ἐκλεκτὸν, the choſen generation ſhould have periſhed, Eſth. 16. 21. i. e. in which the wicked Haman deſigned to cut off the Jews. In the Book of Eccleſiaſticus we are informed that Joſhua was made great, ὅτι σωτηρίᾳ ἐκλεκτῶν αὐτῦ, for ſaving the Elect of God, and taking vengeance on their Enemies that roſe up againſt them, Eccl. 46. 1. that he might ſet Iſrael in their Inheritance.

Thus have I traced this Phraſe throughout the whole Old Teſtament, and ſhewed, that it belongs not to particular Perſons, but to the whole Jewiſh Church, and People in the general, to the Bad, as well as to the Good among them, to them to whom God threatneth the worſt of Evils, as well as them to whom he promiſed the greateſt Bleſſings.

When in the New Teſtament this Phraſe is applied to the Jews, it plainly ſignifies as many of them as were converted to the Chriſtian Faith, though afterwards too many of them fell off from it, or brought not forth thoſe fruits of Righteouſneſs which Chriſtianity required, and is applied to them all in general, and without diſtinction. And it is highly reaſonable to conceive it ſhould be ſo; for the Apoſtles writing to that Nation, who had been ſtill accuſtomed to this notion of the Word, and were all ſtiled the Elect, they muſt be ſuppoſed to uſe the words of the Old Teſtament in that ſenſe in which they always underſtood them: That the Apoſtle doth here ſo uſe the word is evident from this conſideration, that the holy Nation, the peculiar People, the royal Prieſthood, joined with it, are Expreſſions belonging primarily to that Nation, and from them derived to the Chriſtians. 2dly. That this Epiſtle is writ to the Elect, that is, the Strangers of the Diſperſions of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Aſia, and Bithynia, they all being ſtiled the Elect, i. e. ſuch as profeſſed Chriſtianity, and ſo were viſible Members of the Church of Chriſt, whereas too many of them were not ſo, according to that meaning of the word Elect, which makes it to import Men abſolutely deſigned for eternal Happineſs, as this and the Second Epiſtle may inform us. (3dly.) That the Second Epiſtle ſent to the ſame Perſons, writes only to them, who had obtained like precious Faith with us, and ſo informs us that the Faithful and Elect are in St. Peter's Phraſe the ſame: And that this is the notion of the Word in all the other places of the New Teſtament, ſee proved in the Notes upon them; and that it is applied to whole Churches, and ſcarce ever to any individual Perſon, in that ſenſe in which it hath ſo generally been uſed by ſome late Divines.

Ibid. Βασίλειον ἱεράτευμα, a Royal Prieſthood.] Exod. 19. 6. A Kingdom of Prieſts: Kings and Prieſts, ſaith the Chaldee. On which account all Chriſtian Churches, being called out of the World, and dedicated to the ſervice of God by Jeſus Chriſt, are in the Preface to St. Paul's Epiſtles ſtiled Saints. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 2. k peculiar People, τὰς ἀρετὰς μὲ διηγεῖσθαι, to shew forth my Praise. See also Chap. 63. 7. Hab. 3. 3. Zech. 6. 13. Esth. 14. 10.

l Ibid. Λαὸς εἰς περιποίησιν, a peculiar People.] A Treasure, as the word Segullah signifies, a People in Covenant with God, and so become his Peculium, whom he will be careful to protect, and preserve, and to whom belong his peculiar Favours, and Privileges.

m Ver. 10. Οἱ ποτὲ οὐ λαὸς, who in times past were not a People.] These words plainly relate to God's dealing with the Ten Tribes of Israel, when he had given them a Bill of Divorce, Jer. 3. 8. and sent his Prophet Hosea to say unto them, you are not my People, neither will I be your God, Hos. 1. 6. 9. And again, I will no more have mercy on the House of Israel, but will utterly cast them away. And indeed, God having so expressly said, that the Children of Judah and Israel should be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, that he would have mercy upon her who had not obtained mercy, and would say to them who were not his People, thou art my People, Hos. 1. 11. 2. 23. and that they should say, thou art my God, and that the House of Judah should walk with the House of Israel, I doubt not but that there was a considerable return of the Ten Tribes, or at least a considerable Conversion of them in the places where they were; and though they being mixed with the Heathen, did many of them serve their Gods, as he threatned they should, Deut. 28. 36, 64. and so may be also said to be called from darkness to this marvellous light; yet since the Apostle Paul applies this Passage to the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 25. I doubt not but that in the Mystical Sense it must relate to them also.

n Ver. 11. Ὡς παροίκους, as Strangers and Pilgrims.] They whose Citizen ship is in Heaven, and whose Names are written in Heaven, Phil. 3. 20. Heb. 12. 23. must be Pilgrims, and Strangers upon Earth. See Note on Heb. 11. 13.

Ibid. Στρατεύονται, war against the Soul.] For whereas the natural motion of that Spiritual Being, is towards Spiritual, and Heavenly Beings, These lusts, saith Oecumenius, draw down, and captivate the Soul to sensual, and worldly things: As therefore Strangers and Pilgrims are not wont to be affected much with the Objects which they see in their Travels, so neither should we, who profess to be Pilgrims in this World, be much affected with sensual Objects.

o Ver. 12. Καταλαλοῦσιν ὑμῶν, speak evil of you as of evil Doers.] Here Oecumenius gives this Relation from Irenæus, Bishop of Lyons concerning the Martyrs, Sactus and Blandina; that the Heathens apprehending the Servants of some Christians, and compelling them to declare what evil they knew of them, these Servants having heard from the Christians that the Holy Sacrament was the Body and Blood of Christ, and thinking that it was τῷ ὄντι, verily and substantially his Flesh and Blood, related this to the Enquirers, and they thinking ὡς αὐτοχέδιον, that this was done in very deed by Christians, told this to other Heathens, and compelled the Martyrs, Sactus and Blandina, by Torments to confess it; to which Blandina answered, How can they be guilty of such things, who by Exercise, (i. e. through Temperance,) permit not themselves to enjoy lawful Flesh?

p Ibid. Ἐν ἡμέρᾳ ἐπισκοπῆς, in the day of Visitation.] That is, when they afflict and persecute you; So ἐπισκοπὴ and ἡμέρα ἐπισκοπῆς often signifie in the Septuagint, Isai. 10. 3. What will you do, ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς, in the day of Visitation, when your Affliction shall come from far? Jer. 6. 15. ἐν καιρῷ ἐπισκοπῆς, in the time of their Visitation they shall perish, and again, Chap. 10. 15. Wisd. 3. 7. ἐν καιρῷ ἐπισκοπῆς in the time of their Visitation they shall shine, Eccles. 2. 14. Woe to them who have lost Patience, what will they do, ὅταν ἐπισκέπτηται ὁ Κύριος, when the Lord visits? And Chap. 18. 20. Before the Judgment examine thy self, καὶ ἐν ὥρᾳ ἐπισκοπῆς, and in the hour of Visitation thou shalt find Propitiation.

q Ver. 14. Δι' αὐτοῦ, by him.] That is, by God, saith Esthius, because these Governors were not always sent by Cæsar for these good ends; but it is sufficient that this was the general end of Punishment, &c. and therefore they in Charity must be supposed to be sent by Kings and Emperors for those ends.

r Ver. 16. Ὡς ἐλεύθεροι, as free, &c.] That the Gnosticks pretended to any such liberty as exempted them from subjection to Superiors, I find not in Church History, but that the Jews to whom St. Peter writes, and especially the Zealots among them, were notorious for this Doctrine, and were practising it at the writing of this Epistle, is evident; For

1st. They held themselves obliged to own (d) God alone as their only Lord, and Governour, in opposition to Cæsar, and all Kings, which were not of their own Nation, and did not govern them by their own Laws, or his immediate Appointment.

2dly, They, many of them, rebelled againſt the Romans, and againſt the Governors ſent by them, upon this very pretence, That (e) they were a free People, and ought to preſerve their Liberty. And thus they uſed their Liberty for a Cloak of maliciouſneſs.

u Ver. 18. Οἱ οἰκέται, Servants be ſubject.] This alſo was a Leſſon needful for the Jews, becauſe the Eſſens among them, ſay Philo, and Joſephus, thought it againſt the Law of Nature to be Servants to any; and their Rabbins allowed not a Jew to be a Servant to an Heathen. See Note on 1 Tim. 6. 1, 2.

x Ver. 19. Τοῦτο γὰρ χάρις.] This will procure the Divine Favour, and Reward. So what is, ποία ὑμῖν χάρις, What thank have you? Luke 6. 32, 33. is τίνα μισθὸν ἔχετε, What Reward have you? Matth. 5. 46. and in the following Verſe this Phraſe is rendred this is acceptable.

y Ver. 20. Note, 1ſt. From comparing this and the preceding Verſe, that to ſuffer, v. 19. and to take our Sufferings patiently, v. 20. in the Scripture import is the ſame thing.

z Ver. 24. Ἀνήνεγκεν, bare our Sins.] If theſe Words be truly rendred, he bare our Sins, 'tis certain that an Innocent Perſon can only bear them by bearing the Puniſhment due to them. And that this is the proper import of theſe Words, τὰς ἁμαρτίας ἡμῶν ἀνήνεγκεν, is evident, both from the Prophets Expoſition of them, when he ſaith of the ſame Perſon, αὐτὸς ἁμαρτίας πολλῶν ἀνήνεγκε, he bore the Sins of many, Iſa. 53. 12. and Expounds this thus, διὰ τὰς ἀνομίας αὐτῶν παρεδόθη, he was delivered up to Death for their Iniquities; and from the uſual Import of the Phraſe in the Old-Teſtament; as when we Read in the Book of Leviticus, Ch. 7. 18. He that eateth of the Peace-offering in the third Day, it ſhall not be favourably accepted, τὴν ἁμαρτίαν λήψεται, he ſhall bear his Iniquity. And again, Thou ſhalt not hate thy Brother in thy heart, thou ſhalt in any wiſe reprove him, καὶ οὐ λήψῃ δι' αὐτὸν ἁμαρτίαν, and not bear Sin for him, Lev. 19. 17. And in the Book of Numbers thus, Your Children ſhall wander in the Wilderneſs forty Years, καὶ ἀνοίσουσι τὴν πορνείαν ὑμῶν, and ſhall bear your Whoredoms — Ye ſhall bear your Iniquities Forty Years, Numb. 14. 33, 44. When we hear the Prophet Jeremy complaining, Our Fathers have ſinned, and are not, וְאֲבוֹתֵינוּ אֵינָם; τὰ ἀνομήματα αὐτῶν ὑπέχομεν; and we have born their Iniquities, Lam. 5. 7. When we hear God ſaying to Ezekiel, Lie thou upon thy left ſide, and lay the Iniquity of the Houſe of Iſrael upon it, according to the number of the days that thou ſhalt lie upon it, λήψῃ τὰς ἀδικίας αὐτῶν, thou ſhalt bear their Iniquities, Ezek. 4. 4, 5, 6. when it is farther ſaid, The Soul that ſinneth it ſhall Die; the Son, οὐ λήψεται, ſhall not bear the Iniquity of the Father, neither ſhall the Father bear the Iniquity of the Son, Ezek. 18. 20. When we read ſo often in the Law of Moſes, that ſuch Perſons have been guilty, (f) and ſhall bear their Iniquity, they ſhall Die for it; and find ſo many Cautions there given to the Jews, that they offend not in ſuch a kind, (g) that they bear not Iniquity and Die; or leaſt they bear Iniquity and Die; in all theſe Places neither Socinians nor any other Perſons, do fanſie any other Import of theſe Words, but that by bearing of Iniquity, and Sin, is meant bearing the Puniſhment of Sin; and in theſe latter places being puniſhed with Death for it: When therefore the ſame Jews found it foretold of their Meſſiah, by their own Prophet, that he ſhould bear their Iniquity, that he ſhould bear the Sin of many, What could they underſtand by theſe Expreſſions, but that he was to ſuffer the Puniſhment, and bear upon him the burden of their Sins? When the Apoſtle informs thoſe very Jews who were ſo well acquainted with the import of this Phraſe, that Chriſt was once offered, or given up to Death to bear the Sins of many; and when St. Peter, writing to the ſame Jews, informs them, that he bare our Sins in his own Body on the Tree, how can we think otherwiſe than that they both apprehended, and the Bleſſed Apoſtle did deſign to teach them, that he ſuffered this Death as the Puniſhment of their Iniquities? Let Mr. Le Clerc continue, if he pleaſe, to be confident, that it is not ſo much the Expiation of Sins, as the Mortification of them that is here ſignified, whilſt we poor Mortals rather think our Sins muſt be mortified in us, than on a Tree, and in our own Bodies, than in Chriſt's, or in the Sufferings of his Body; and that 'tis not very good Senſe to ſay, he mortified our Sins, that we might die unto him.

aa Ver. 25. Theſe and the former Words are taken from, Iſa. 53. 7. where the words are, we as Sheep have gone aſtray, and the Lord hath laid on him the Iniquity of us all. Hence are both Jews and Gentiles repreſented as loſt Sheep, Sheep, and Christ as the good Shepherd who goes after them, and brings them home upon his Shoulders. See Isa. 40. 11. Ezek. 34. 23. Here then is a farther Confutation of the (b) Socinian Gloss upon the former Verse, viz. That Christ took away our Sins by his own Body Crucified upon the Cross, procuring our Absolution from them by his Sufferings, not that he underwent the punishment of our Transgressions, but because his voluntary Death prevailed with God to give him Power to absolve his Servants at the last, and to reward them with eternal Glory. For were this the whole Import of the Words, why is it added, in plain Allusion to those Emphatical Words of the Prophet Isaiah, he bare our Sins, the Chastisement of our Peace was upon him, and by his Stripes we are healed? Why is it so Emphatically Noted, That he who did no Sin, v. 22. yet bare our Sins? Doth not this lead us to this Sense, That he thus suffered not for his own, but for our Sins? Why is he said to take away our sins in his own Body? Doth not that seem to intimate that the Punishment of our Sins was laid upon his Body? Why is he said to do this upon the Tree? Must not that intimate that what he did to take away our Sins was done upon the Cross? Especially if we consider that the Cross was the Altar, upon which he suffered, and that ἀναφέρειν, ἀνενεγκεῖν ἐπὶ τὸ θυσιαστήριον, to (i) carry up upon the Altar is the usual Phrase for offering the Sin-Offering, or the Burnt-Offering upon the Altar. And so the Import of this whole Sentence seems to be this; He bare or took away our Sins in his own Body offered upon the Altar for us. Moreover, if this be chiefly done after Christ's Resurrection, and the great Day of Recompence, and only by Christ's Death, as it prevailed with God to give him power, then to absolve us from our Sins, why doth the Author to the Hebrews make such a plain Distinction, betwixt Christ's bearing our Sins, and his second coming to give a final Absolution from them, saying, Heb. 9. 27, 28. Christ was once offered to bear the Sins of many, and to them that look for him, he will appear a second time, χωρὶς ἁμαρτίας, without a Sacrifice for Sin unto Salvation? Crellius allows that χωρὶς ἁμαρτίας, signifies without a Sin-Offering; and doth it not hence follow, that his first coming to bear our Sins, was his coming with a Sin-Offering for them? Since then the Sin-Offering still suffered in the Sinner's stead, and bare the Punishment of his Iniquity, it follows that he who came to be a Sin-Offering for us, must come to suffer in our stead, and bear the Punishment of our Iniquities.

Lastly, Admit the words may be translated thus, He took away our Sins, it is most reasonable so to interpret them as this Phrase is used in Scripture, when 'tis applied to the same purpose, now when it is there used of taking away Sin by a Sacrifice offered up to God for Sin, it always hath Relation to an Atonement made by the Sacrifice for that Iniquity; and that Sin-Offering is said to bear away the Iniquity, by taking it upon himself. So when 'tis said that the Sin-Offering is given, ἵνα ἀφέλητε τὴν ἁμαρτίαν τῆς συναγωγῆς καὶ ἐξιλάσασθε περὶ αὐτῶν ἔναντι Κυρίου, to take away the Iniquity of the Congregation, it is there said to do it by making an Atonement for them before the Lord, Lev. 10. 17. So it is said of the Scape-Goat, That he shall bear away all their Iniquities; but then he must be presented before the Lord, τοῦ ἐξιλάσασθαι ἐπ' αὐτοῦ, to make Atonement with, or upon him, Lev. 16. 10. i. e. Aaron must confess their Iniquities upon his Head, and he shall bear upon him all their Iniquities, λήψεται ἐφ' ἑαυτῷ τὰς ἁμαρτίας αὐτῶν, he shall take their Iniquities upon himself, and shall bear them away into the Wilderness. So Deut. 21. 9. Thou shalt take away innocent blood from among you; but this is to be done, by making an Atonement for the innocent blood shed. When therefore it is said that Christ was manifested to take away Sin, 1 John 3. 5. and that, He took away our Sins on his own Body, and was offered to take away the Sins of many, Heb. 9. 28. is it not reasonable to suppose he did this by taking the Punishment of them upon himself, and making Atonement for them before God? Especially if we consider that he is speaking to those Jews to whom these Phrases were familiar.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. (AND to proceed to the other Relations of Man and Wife;) Likewiſe ye Wives, be in ſubjection to your own Husbands, that if any [be ſuch as] obey not the word, they alſo without the word, [i. e. without attending to the other Demonſtrations of the Truth of it,] may be won [to the Faith] by the Converſation of the Wives:

a 2. Whilſt they behold your Chaſt [a] Converſation coupled with fear.

b 3. Whoſe Adorning, let it not be that outward Adorning of [b] plaiting the Hair, and of wearing of Gold [Chains,] or of putting on of [gorgeous] Apparel.

4. But let it be [that of] the hidden Man of the Heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the Ornament of a meek, and quiet Spirit, which in the ſight of God is of great price.

5. For after this manner in the old time the holy Women alſo who truſted in God, adorned themſelves, [with chaſtity and ſubjection,] being in ſubjection to their own Husbands.

6. Even as Sarah obeyed Abraham, [in token of that Subjection] calling him Lord: whoſe Daughters ye are as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any Amazement, [i. e. And be not moved by your Fears to deny the Truth, as ſhe was, ἐφοβήθη γὰρ, for ſhe was afraid, Gen. 18. 15.]

c 7. [c] Likewiſe, ye Husbands, dwell with them according to [the] Knowledge [of your Chriſtian Duty, which requires you to love, and cleave to your Wives, forſaking all others, and to render them due Benevolence,] giving honour [or Conjugal Affection] to the Wife as to the weaker Veſſel, [and ſo leſs able to contain, and more liable to Temptations,] and as being heirs together of the grace of life; that your Prayers be not hindred, [as they muſt be if you refuſe to cohabit with them.]

8. Finally, be ye all of one mind, [minding the ſame things,] having Compaſſion one of another, [under all your Afflictions;] love as Brethren, be pitiful, [as being the internal motive to] be courteous, [that being an effect of love.]

9. Not rendring evil for evil, or railing for railing; [things contrary to love, as ſhewing rancor in the Heart, and Tongue,] but contrariwiſe, bleſſing; knowing that ye are thereunto called, [i. e. for this very end] that you ſhould inherit a bleſſing, [and ſo by bleſſing others, will imitate your gracious God, and ſhew how willing you are the ſame mercies may be conferred on others.]

10. For he that will love life [i. e. who is deſirous of a quiet, pleaſant life,] and [would] ſee good [i. e. proſperous] days, let him refrain his Tongue from evil [ſpeaking, that ſo Men may refrain from ſpeaking evil of him again,] and his Lips that they ſpeak no guile.

11. Let him eſchew evil, and do good; let him ſeek Peace, and enſue it, [that ſo Men may be diſpoſed to ſpeak uprightly, and do good to you, and live peaceably with you, and you may live under the Protection of Divine Providence.]

12. For the Eyes of the Lord are over the Righteous, [to protect them from evil,] and his Ears are open to their Prayers: but the Face of the Lord is againſt them that do evil, [to return it upon their own heads.]

13. And [this Deportment doth alſo naturally tend to preſerve you from evil, for] who is he that will [be ſo unnatural, and ungrateful as to] harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good, [and obliging to them?]

14. But if [it ſhould ſo happen, that notwithſtanding] ye [ſhould] ſuffer for Righteouſneſs ſake, happy are ye; [Chap. 4. 14.] and [therefore] [d] be not afraid of their d
Terror, [i. e. of what they threaten,] neither be ye troubled, [for what they can inflict upon you.]

15. But [e] ſanctifie the Lord God in your e hearts: and be ready always to give an [f] f anſwer [or account] to every Man that aſketh you a Reaſon of the Hope that is in you, with Meekneſs and Fear.

16. Having [or retaining] a good Conſcience; that whereas they ſpeak evil of you, as of evil Doers, [and conſequently repreſent your Faith as inſtigating you to evil Practices,] they may be aſhamed [of ſuch falſe Accuſations,] when they falſly accuſe your good Converſation in [the Faith of] Chriſt.

17. [This care of retaining a good Conſcience is neceſſary, that you may have comfort in your Sufferings, and be conformed to Chriſt by them;] For it is better, if the will of God be ſo, [and he ſees fit to permit it,] that you ſuffer for well doing, than for evil doing.

18. For Chriſt alſo hath once [g] ſuffered g for ſins, the [h] juſt for the unjuſt, that he h might [i] bring us to God, being put to i

Death in the Flesh, but quickned by the Spirit.

k preached [k] to the Spirits in Prison;

20. Which some times were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the Ark was preparing, wherein few, that is, eight Souls, were saved by water.

21. The like figure whereunto [Gr. the Antitype of which Ark is that] Baptism [which] doth also now save us, not [merely as it is] the putting away of the filth of l the flesh, but [as it is] the [l] answer [or stipulation] of a good Conscience towards God; [and this Salvation it works for us] by [virtue of] [m] the Resurrection of Jesus
m Christ;

22. Who is [Gr. being] gone into Heaven, and is on the right hand of God [there interceding for us, and invested with all Power to give eternal life to those whom God hath given him, and who is able to save us to the uttermost who come unto God by him, Heb. 7. 25.] Angels and Authorities and Powers being made subject to him, [who therefore will use the good Angels as ministring Spirits sent forth to minister to them who are Heirs of Salvation, Heb. 1. 14. and will preserve them from those Authorities and Powers, and evil Spirits, which oppose and persecute them, and seek their Ruin.

Annotations on Chapter III.

a Verse. 2. Τὴν ἐν φόβῳ ἁγνὴν ἀναστροφὴν ὑμῶν, your chast Conversation in fear] i. e. That they observing that the Fear and Reverence of that God you serve, produceth in you all due subjection and obedience to them, great Chastity, and Freedom from all suspicion of Lust, great meekness and quietness of Spirit in the Family, Sobriety in your Apparel, and Care of their Concerns, you may by these things commend to them, not only your own Persons, but that Faith which produces in you these good Fruits.

b Ver. 3. Ἐμπλοκῆς τριχῶν, not the outward Adorning, &c.] These in the words of Clemens of Alexandria (a) are, τὸ ἑταιρικὸν καλλώπισμα, the Ornaments of Whores; and such as demonstrate τὸ σύβαριν, καὶ θρυπτικὸν, καὶ ἀβροδίαιτον, their Arrogance, Softness and Lasciviousness; the Plaiting of the Hair was, saith he (b) a sign of corrupt Women, καὶ γὰρ αἱ περίπλοκαι τριχῶν ἑταιρικαί; And they that use them, saith he, were ἑταιρικῶς κοσμούμενοι, attired like Whores. And as for the wearing of Gold, (c) Jamblichus in the Life of Pythagoras, saith, τὸ χρυσὸν ἐλευθέραν μηδεμίαν φορεῖν, μόνον δὲ τὰς ἑταίρας, that no free Women wore Gold, but Whores only. The precious Apparel is the thing which all the Comedians mention as the Attire which such Women sought after, and gloried in. These things therefore when they are used as such marks of Distinction, are absolutely forbid Chast Women; But when they cease to be so, they may be worn by Christian Women, provided they do it without Pride, or much concern about them; and still remembring that Gravity in Apparel, is still more honourable, and becoming Christian Matrons, and that the Ornaments of the Mind, which are not subject to Corruption, are much to be preferred before them.

Ver. 7. Οἱ ἄνδρες ὁμοίως, likewise, ye Husbands.] I am very uncertain what is the true sense of these words. The Reverend Dr. Hammond interprets them thus; "Let "the Husbands in like manner live conju- "gally with their Wives, as Christianity "requires of them; giving them mainte- "nance as Persons less able to provide for "themselves, and considering that they are "by God's appointment Co-partners with "them of the good things of this life; "that so they may not be disturbed in "their Prayers by their Distractions and "Solicitudes for this World? Which In- terpretation I should acquiesce in, could I find that the Phrase συγκληρονόμοι ζωῆς, or ζώσης, being heirs together of the Grace of life, was ever used, only with respect to the good things of this present Life: or that ἐκκόπτεσθαι τὰς προσευχὰς signified only to be distracted in Prayers, and not rather to have them wholly hindred.

Others interpret them thus, Let the Husbands live with their Wives as Christianity requires, not irritating, or provoking them, Col. 3. 19. not despising their Company; but giving honour to them as most needing it, and as considering that they are equal to them in respect of Spirituals; and that by your Discontents, Displeasure against, and separation from one another, your Prayers be not hindred.

Others, as in the Paraphrase, refer this to conjugal Relation, and to conjugal Duties; as all the Ancients, who have spoken of these words, interpret them. Oecumenius saith, he thinks they are to be interpreted preted, ὅτι τ᾽ γαμικῆς χρήσεως, of the Conjugal uſe of one another; and the word συνοικεῖν ſeems to plead for this Senſe; but then I find not that the word τιμὴ beareth any ſuch ſenſe. Only to this it may be anſwered, That (d) Origen ſeems to point the words thus; Let the Husband dwell with the Wife according to Knowledge, as being more infirm, giving Honour to them alſo, as being Heirs of the grace of life. And ſeeing συνοικέω ſignifies to marry, or contract Matrimony, the words may be thus Paraphaſed, Likewiſe ye Men, be ye joined in Marriage with the Women, as you find them endued with the knowledge of Chriſtianity, they being the weaker Veſſels, and ſo more ſubject without this knowledge to miſcarry: Giving Preference in your Choice to ſuch as be Heirs together with you of the Grace of Life, that through difference in Religion your Prayers be not cut off.

d Ver. 14. Τὸν φόβον αὐτῶν μὴ φοβηθῆτε, fear not their Fear.] Theſe, and the following words, Sanctifie the Lord God in your hearts, are plainly taken from Iſai. 8. 12. and they are there an Exhortation not to fear the Aſſyrians, nor to be diſmayed, as thoſe Jews were, who out of fear were deſirous to confederate with them, and ſo accordingly they muſt here ſignifie, that Chriſtians were not ſo to dread thoſe by whom they ſuffered for the ſake of Righteouſneſs, nor any that out of fear conſpired with them to avoid Perſecution, as too many of the Jews did, Gal. 6. 12, 13. as to do any thing contrary to the fear of God, or unbecoming their Profeſſion.

e Ver. 15. Κύριον ἁγιάσατε, but ſanctifie the Lord God in your hearts.] This Phraſe in Scripture ſeems to import theſe things.

1ſt. That we ſhould always have upon our Spirits ſuch an holy fear and reverence of God as will prevail upon us to dread more his Diſpleaſure, than any thing which we can ſuffer from the hand of Man, Matth. 20. 28. and ſo enable us to ſtick cloſe to our Duty, and to endeavour to ſecure his Favour, whatſoever we may ſuffer for ſo doing. So Iſai. 8. 12, 13. Fear not their Fear; but ſanctifie the Lord of Hoſts himſelf: and let him be your fear, and let him be your Dread: So Chap. 29. 23. They ſhall ſanctifie the Holy One of Jacob, and ſhall fear the God of Iſrael.

2dly. To ſanctifie the Lord God in our hearts, is from the heart to own, and to believe the Truth of all that God delivers by his Word and Promiſe: As when God ſaith to Moſes and Aaron, Becauſe ye believed me not to ſanctifie me in the eyes of the Children of Iſrael, therefore ye ſhall not bring this Congregation into the Land which I have given them, Numb. 20. 12. Hence the Apoſtle, having told the Chriſtians he writeth to them of the Engagements God had made, that his eyes ſhould be over the Righteous, and his ears open to their Prayers, and minded them of the Hope that was in them, requires them thus to ſanctifie the Lord God in their hearts.

3dly. This Phraſe imports a firm belief of his Almighty Power, which makes him able to protect his People againſt all their Enemies, and an Affiance in his goodneſs, and eſpecial Providence towards them: Sanctifie the Lord God in your hearts, and he ſhall be for a Sanctuary, Iſaiah 8. 13. So Ezek. 36. 22, 23, 24.

4thly. To ſanctifie the Lord, is to acknowledge and believe his Juſtice, and that he is a God who will be ſure to execute his Judgments on the wicked, and more eſpecially upon the Perſecutors of his People. So when he executed his Judgments on Nadab and Abihu, Moſes declares, This is the thing the Lord had ſpoken, I will be ſanctified in thoſe that come nigh me; So Numb. 20. 13. This is the Water of Meribah, becauſe the Children of Iſrael contended with the Lord, and he was ſanctified in them, by puniſhing their Rebellion, ſaith the Targum. So God declares he would be ſanctified upon Sidon, which had been to the Houſe of Iſrael, a pricking Briar, and a grieving Thorn, Ezek. 28. 24. And upon Gog, the great Enemy of Iſrael, Chap. 38. 3. So the Rabbins ſay, That when God doth Judgment, he ſanctifies himſelf before his Creatures; according to theſe words of the Prophet Iſaiah, The Lord of Hoſts ſhall be exalted in Judgment, and God that is holy ſhall be ſanctified in Righteouſneſs, Chap. 5. 16.

Ibid. Περὶς ἀπολογίαν.] This Apology f for the hope that was in them, ſeems rather ſuch as ſhould be made by Works, than Words, againſt them who accuſe the Profeſſors of it as evil Doers, rather than againſt them who only doubt of the Truth of it.

Ver. 18. Περὶ ἁμαρτιῶν ἔπαθε, hath ſuffered for ſins.] Here note that Chriſt is not g only ſaid to ſuffer for us, but to ſuffer for our ſins. Now was ever any Man ſaid to ſuffer for his own ſins, who did not ſuffer the Puniſhment of his Iniquity? Why therefore ſhould our Lord be ſaid to ſuffer for ſins, if he did not ſome way ſuffer the Puniſhment of our Iniquity? Again, is not the ſin-offering in the Old Teſtament ſtiled above 60 times, τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, and τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίαν, the offering for ſin; when when therefore the Oblation of our Lord is also called, τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, an offering for sin, Rom. 8. 3. when he is said to suffer περὶ ἁμαρτίων, for sins, 2 Cor. 5. 21. what could the Jews, to whom the Apostle writes, conceive to be the proper import of these words, but that he suffered to make Atonement for their Sins, as did all their Sin-Offerings, by suffering in their stead, the Punishment of their Iniquity? See the Notes on Rom. 8. 3. 2 Cor. 5. 21.

h Ibid. ὁ δίκαιος ὑπὲρ ἀδίκων, the just for the unjust.] That is, saith (e) Schlichtingius, That the unjust might not suffer Death, nor bear the Punishment of their Iniquities; for the Victim suffers lest the guilty should be punished.

i Ibid. Ἵνα προσαγάγῃ, that he might bring us to God.] This Phrase in all other places of the New Testament, where it is used with respect to Christ, imports his procuring to us Freedom of access to God, who by our Sins were formerly excluded from him, and banished from his gracious Presence. By him we have, saith the Apostle Paul, προσαγωγὴν πρὸς τὸν πατέρα, Admission to the Father; by him we do obtain παῤῥησίαν εἰς τὴν προσαγωγὴν, a freedom of access to God with Confidence, Eph. 2. 18. 3. 12. This is obtained, saith the same Apostle, by virtue of his blood; for we who sometimes were afar off, are by the Blood of Christ brought nigh unto him; we are brought nigh to him, saith St. Peter here, by his suffering for our Sins. Must not then we who were excluded, and banished from him by our Sins, be brought nigh to, and reconciled to him by the Blood of Christ, and by his Sufferings for us on the Cross?

k Ver. 19. Τοῖς ἐν φυλακῇ πνεύμασι, to the Spirits in Prison.] Or as other Copies read, πνεύματι, by which Spirit going, he preached to those in Prison: For Explication of which words, Note,

1st. That by those in Prison we may understand the Gentile World in Bondage and Captivity to Sin and Satan, and held in the Chains of their own Lusts, and in the Bonds of their Iniquity. For by this Phrase the Evangelical Prophet doth thrice express the preaching of the Gospel by our Lord Jesus Christ: As in those words, I gave thee for a Covenant to the People, for a Light to the Gentiles, to open the blind Eyes, to bring ἐκ δεσμῶν δεδεμένους, καὶ ἐξ οἴκου φυλακῆς the Prisoners out of Prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the Prison House, Isai. 42. 7. and again, I will give thee for a Light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my Salvation to the ends of the Earth, that thou mayest say, τοῖς ἐν δεσμοῖς, ἐξέλθετε, to the Prisoners, go forth, Chap. 49. 9. And a third time, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me to proclaim Liberty to the Captives, and the opening of the Prison to those that are bound, Chap. 61. 1, 2. To this effect are all these places interpreted by St. Jerom, Theodoret, and Procopius upon Isaiah, viz. of those Gentiles who were bound in the Chain of their Sins, and captivated by Satan. Accordingly Lactantius, having cited the words extant, Ch. 42. 7. saith, cum igitur nos antea tanquam cæci, & tanquam carcere stultitiæ inclusi, sederemus in tenebris, ignorantes Deum & veritatem, illuminati ab eo sumus, qui nos Testamento suo adoptavit & liberatos malis vinculis, atq; in lucem sapientiæ productos in hæreditatem regni cœlestis ascivit, l. 4. c. 20. Accordingly (f) Philo doth often represent Men brought in Bondage to their Lusts, ὡς ἐν δεσμωτηρίῳ καθειργνυμένων ψυχὴν ἐχόντες, as Persons whose Souls are shut up in a Prison House; and those who have overcome their Lusts, and sinful Pleasures, (g) ὥσπερ ἐξ εἱρκτῆς προσηλυθότων, καὶ δεσμοῖς δὶς ἐπισφίγγοντο διαφευγόντων, as Persons who are come out of Prison, and have put off their Chains: adding that God promiseth Liberty to the Souls that seek to him for it, (h) ἃ μόνον λύσιν δεσμῶν καὶ ἔξοδον ἐκ τῆς περιφερομένης εἱρκτῆς παρέχεται, not only affording them freedom from their Bonds, and an exit from the Prison in which they were kept, but giving them Provisions for their Journey, and safe Conduct. Now the Antediluvians, who lived about the time of Noah, were ἐν φυλακῇ, in Prison, upon a double account: 1st. By reason of their Bondage to Sin; for then all Flesh had corrupted their way, their wickedness was great upon the Earth, and every imagination of their heart was to do evil, and that continually, Gen. 6. 5, 6, 13. And (2dly.) they were in Prison, or ἐν φυλακῇ, as having from God received the Sentence of Destruction, if they repented not within an Hundred and twenty years; according to these words, My Spirit shall not always strive with Man for that he is Flesh, yet his Days shall be an Hundred and twenty Years, Gen. 6. 3. i. e. so long will I expect his Reformation before I bring the Flood upon them. Thus the long-suffering of God waited for them in the days of Noah, expecting their Repentance, and keeping them as it were in Prison for the Day of Slaughter, if they did not repent. During this time, and before, God sent unto them his Prophets, denouncing by his Spirit his his Judgments againſt the wicked; for to them Enoch, the ſeventh Prophet from Adam, propheſied ſaying, The Lord cometh with his thouſands of Angels to do Judgment againſt all, and to reprove all the ungodly concerning all their ungodly works which they had wickedly committed, and concerning all their hard Speeches which ungodly Sinners had ſpoken againſt him, Jude 14. 15. And he ſent alſo Noah to them, a preacher of Righteouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2. 5. who by preparing an Ark before them for his own Preſervation, in obedience to the Oracle delivered to him, condemned the Old World, Heb 11. 7. Thus did Chriſt by his Spirit preach to them in the Days of Noah: And therefore the Antediluvian Age is even by the Jews ſtiled the Age of the Holy Ghoſt; according to thoſe words, My Spirit ſhall not always ſtrive with Man, that is, ſay Ainſworth, and the Biſhop of Ely, My Spirit, in my Prophets Enoch and Noah, ſhall not be always chiding, and reproving, and thereby endeavouring to bring Men to Repentance, but ſhall proceed to puniſh them. Now this Puniſhment being the drowning of the Old World, their Spirits have been ever ſince kept in Priſon, or reſerved in Chains of darkneſs, to the Judgment of the Great Day: For by the conſent of the Jewiſh Nation, (i) The Generation of the Old World have no Portion in the World to come, neither ſhall they ſtand up in Judgment; for it is ſaid, My Spirit ſhall not always judge with Man. The Phraſe, " My Spirit, ſaith Dr. Fuller, " is never uſed of any other but the Spi- " rit of God, and therefore muſt here be " interpreted of the ſame Spirit.

Now from that time to our Saviour's Advent, God ſent no Prophet to the whole Heathen World, no Perſon with Commiſſion to preach to all Nations, or teach the Goſpel to every Creature, but ſuffered them to walk in their own ways, Acts 14. 16. whence they are ſaid to have been diſobedient only once of Old Time, in the days of Noah.

Ver. 21. Ἐπερώτημα, the Anſwer of a l good Conſcience.] Therefore, ſay the Anabaptiſts, Baptiſm cannot be ſalutary to thoſe Infants who cannot make this Anſwer of a good Conſcience. To this I anſwer, That St. Paul alſo ſaith, that the true Circumciſion before God, is not the outward Circumciſion of the Fleſh, but the internal Circumciſion of the Heart and Spirit, Rom. 2. 29. But will any one hence argue, that the Jewiſh Infants, for want of this, were not to be admitted into Covenant with God by Circumciſion? And yet the Argument is plainly parallel: The Anſwer of a good Conſcience is required that the Baptiſm may be ſalutary; therefore they only are to be baptized who can make this Anſwer: And the inward Circumciſion of the Heart is required as the only acceptable Circumciſion in the ſight of God; Therefore they only are to be Circumciſed who have this inward Circumciſion of the Heart. The Jews did not admit Proſelytes to Circumciſion without this Anſwer of a good Conſcience; but yet they admitted their Infants without any ſuch thing; why therefore may we not allow the Chriſtian Church, in the Adminiſtration of Baptiſm, to obſerve the ſame Cuſtom in admitting the Children of their Proſelytes to Baptiſm, as they admitted them both to Circumciſion, and Baptiſm?

2. [Insomuch] That he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh, [in obedience] to the lusts of Men, [ignorant of the Truth, 1 Pet. 1. 14.] but to the will of God, [Rom. 6. 10, 11.]

3. For the time past of our life may suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, [fleshly] lusts, excess of wine, revellings, a banquetings, and [a] abominable Idolatries.

4. Wherein they think it strange [Gr. wonder] that you run not with them to the same excess of Riot, speaking evil of you.

5. Who shall give [an] account [of these Sins against Nature] to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead.

6. For, for this cause was the Gospel b preached also [b] to them that are dead, [i. e. to the Gentile World, dead in Trespasses and Sins,] that they might be judged [might judge, condemn and oppose their former life, led] according to Men, [not enlightned by the Gospel,] in the Flesh, but [and might] live according to God in the Spirit.

c 7. But the [c] end of all things [belonging to the Jewish state, mentioned Matth. 24. 6. Mark 13. 7. Luke 21. 9.] is at hand, be ye therefore sober, and watch unto Prayer, [according to our Lord's advice in that case, Luke 21. 34, 36.]

8. And above all things have fervent Charity among your selves, for Charity shall cover the multitude of Sins, [which you may have been guilty of in the time of your Enmity to Christ, and his Servants, or those manifold infirmities you may have committed in building Hay and Stubble on the Foundation to your own great hazard, 1 Cor. 3. 12, 15. Or, it covers the Sins of others, preventing them by Patience, not taking notice of them when committed, and concealing them from others: To this sense the words of the wise Man lead, Prov. 10. 12.]

9. Use Hospitality one to another without grudging, [or murmuring that you bestow your Charity on them who are not of your Nation, or are not circumcised, and obedient to the Law, as you think your selves obliged to be.] d 10. As every Man hath received [d] the Gift [of the Spirit,] even so, [let him] minister the same one to another, as [becomes] good Stewards of the manifold Grace of God [to do.]

11. If any Man speak, [i. e. teach,] let him speak as [be is instructed from] the Oracles of God, if any Man minister [as a Deacon,] let him do it as of the Ability that God giveth, that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion [ascribed] for ever and ever. Amen.

12. Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery Trial which is [come] to try you, [Gr. wonder not at the burning that is among you, and is befallen you for Trial,] as though some strange [and unexpected] thing [had] happened to you, [this being only that which was foretold by us, 1 Thess. 3. 4. to which you were appointed, and to which you were called, 1 Pet. 2. 21.]

13. But rejoice [in it rather,] in as much as you are [thus made] [e] partakers of [Sufferings resembling] Christ's Sufferings, that [so] when his Glory shall be revealed, ye may, [resembling him then in Glory, as you do now in Sufferings, Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12, &c.] be glad also with exceeding joy.

14. [And] if [it so happen that] ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye [in such sufferings,] for the [f] Spirit of Glory, and of God rests upon you; [so that though] on their part [who are unbelievers] he [i. e. Christ] is evil spoken of, but [Gr. yet] on your part he is glorified.

15. But let [especial care be taken that] none of you suffer [g] as a Murtherer, or as a Thief, or as an Evil Doer, or as a busie Body, in other Mens matters.

16. Yet if any Man suffer as a Christian, [i. e. only on that account,] let him not be ashamed, but let him [h] glorifie God on this behalf.

17. For the time is come that Judgment must, [according our Lords Prediction, Matth. 24. 21, 22. Mark 13. 13, Luke 21. 16, 17.] begin at the House of God: and if it first begin at us [believing Jews] what shall be the [i] end of them that obey not the Gospel of God?

18. And if [some of] the Righteous scarcely be saved [i. e. preserved from this burning, v. 12. being saved, yet so as by Fire, 1 Cor. 3. 15.] where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? [in safety from these dreadful Judgments which are coming on the Jewish Nation, Prov. 11. 31.]

19. Wherefore [seeing the sufferings of Christians then will be so little, in comparison of those which shall befal the unbelievers, v. 17, 18. seeing the Spirit of Glory, and Power, shall support, and comfort them under these sufferings, v. 14. and Christ hath promised them protection in that dreadful day, and said, he that endureth to the end shall be saved, Matth. 24. 12, 13.] let them that suffer according to the will of God, commit the keeping of their Souls [i. e. their lives] to him in well doing as to a faithful Creator, [who being their Creator, must be able to deliver them; and being faithful, will not suffer them to be tempted above what they are able, 1 Cor. 10. 13.]

Annotations on Chapter IV.

a Verse 3. Ἀθεμίτοις εἰδωλολατρείαις, Abominable Idolatries.] i. e. In Idolatries joined with divers Abominations, (i. e. with Drunkenness, Uncleanness, unnatural Cruelties to their own Children, Homicide.)

Note here, that this is an evidence that this Epistle was directed not only to the Jewish Nation, but to the Gentile Converts.

b Ver. 6. For Explication of these words, Note,

1st. That οἱ νεκροὶ the dead, in Scripture doth often signifie, not those who in a natural sense are dead by Dissolution of the Soul and Body, but those who are spiritually so, as being alienated from the Life of God, and dead in Trespasses and Sins; as when the Apostle saith, The Widow that liveth in pleasure is dead whilst she liveth, 1 Tim. 5. 6. And Christ unto the Church of Sardis, Thou hast a Name to live and art dead, Rev. 3. 1. And when he speaks to one of his Disciples thus, Follow thou me, and let the dead bury their dead, Matth. 8. 22. This is a Phrase so common with the Jews, that, as (a) Maimonides informs us, they proverbially say, Impii etiam viventes vocantur mortui, the wicked are dead even while they live: for he, saith (b) Philo, who lives a life of sin, τέθνηκε ἡ τυφλαμένα, is dead as to a life of Happiness; his Soul is dead, and even buried in his Lusts and Passions. And because the whole Gentile World lay more especially under these most unhappy Circumstances, whence the Apostle stiles them Sinners of the Gentiles, Gal. 2. 15. it was proverbially said by the Jewish Doctors, Populi terrarum, i. e. ethnici non vivunt, the Heathens do not live; and they in Scripture are more peculiarly intended by that Phrase. Hence the Apostle saith to the Ephesians and Colossians, Ephes. 2. 1. Col. 2. 13. that they were νεκροὶ τοῖς ἁμαρτήμασι, dead in Trespasses and Sins; and brings in God thus speaking to the Gentiles, Awake thou that sleepest, arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee life, Eph. 5. 14.

2dly. The ends for which this Gospel was revealed to these Gentiles thus spiritually dead, and buried in sensuality, were these.

1. Ἵνα κριθῶσι κατ' ἀνθρώπους σαρκὶ, that they might condemn, might strive against, might mortifie those sensual Desires and carnal Appetites, which they indulged to whilst they lived, κατ' ἀνθρώπους, as natural Men, wanting the knowledge of God's Will, and the assistance of his Grace and Spirit. This I conceive to be the genuine import of the Greek: For, 1. The word Flesh being here set in opposition to the Spirit, not of Man, but God; or at the least to the renewed Spirit of Man, cannot be reasonably thought to signifie that fleshly Body which we bear about us, but rather that sinful Flesh which lusts against the Spirit, Gal. 5. 17. that law of our Members which wars against the Law of our Minds, Rom. 7. 23. that φρόνημα τῆς σαρκὸς, or fleshly Wisdom which is not subject to the Law of God, Rom. 8. 7.

This being so, κριθῆναι τῇ σαρκὶ cannot be duly rendred to be condemned, judged, and punished in the Flesh, that is, the Body, but to strive with, to mortifie, and subdue the Flesh, with its Affections and lusts; which is the common import of the word κριθῆναι both in the Septuagint, and the New Testament. So Job 9. 3. ἐὰν βούλῃ κριθῆναι αὐτῷ, if he will contend with God, he cannot answer him one of a thousand. And Chap. 13. 19. τίς ἐστιν ὁ κρινόμενός μοι, who is he that contendeth with me? Jer. 45. 26. Put me in remembrance ἵνα κριθῶμεν and let us plead together. Chap. 50. 8. He is near that justifieth me, τίς ὁ κρινόμενός μοι Who is he that contendeth with me? And Chap. 66. 16. ἐν τῷ πυρὶ κρινεῖ ὁ Κύριος, by Fire will the Lord plead with all Flesh, Hos. 2. 2. Κρίνεσθε πρὸς τὴν μητέρα ὑμῶν, κρίνεσθε, plead with your Mother, plead. And Mic. 6. 1. Arise κρίνεσθε πρὸς τὰ ὄρη, contend against the Mountains. So also Matth. 5. 40. Θέλοντι σοι κριθῆναι, is to him that will contend with thee, and Jude 9. τῷ διαβόλῳ διακρινομένῳ, is contending with the Devil. See also Judg. 21. 22. Jer. 2. 9. And this I think sufficient to justifie the rendring these Words actively without referring to Glassius's Canon, (l. 3. Tr. 3. Can. 24.] that Verbs passive sometimes signifie actively.

Note, 3dly. That the Phrase κατ' ἄνθρωπον in the New Testament, doth always signifie to live, speak, or act after the manner of mere natural Men, not yet acquainted with the mind of God, or not assisted by his Spirit: as in those Passages of the Apostle Paul, Speak I these things, κατ' ἄνθρωπον, according to the Dictates of mere human wisdom? Saith not the Law the same also?

1 Cor.

1 Cor. 9. 8. My Doctrine is not κατ' ἄνθρωπον, the product of Man's Wisdom, but I received it from the Revelation of Christ Jesus, Gal. 1. 11. Κατ' ἄνθρωπον λέγω, I speak what Men would from the mere strength of Reason argue, Rom. 3. 5. And again κατ' ἄνθρωπον λέγω, I speak what is acknowledged among Men, that a Man's Testament is accounted sacred, and no Man addeth to it, or taketh from it, Gal. 3. 15. If I have fought with beasts at Ephesus κατ' ἄνθρωπον, after the Heathen manner, what advantageth it me if the dead rise not? 1 Cor. 15. 32. And lastly, whereas there are Contentions among you, are you not carnal, and walk κατ' ἄνθρωπον, as natural Men? 1 Cor. 3. 3. not as Men called by the Spirit?

So that Κριθῆναι κατ' ἄνθρωπον σαρκὶ, is, to condemn their former Life led as natural Men, or as mere Heathens in the Flesh, or to strive against that Flesh which they indulged to in their Heathen State; and to live unto God in the Spirit, which is the second end for which the Gospel was preached unto the Gentiles, is, by the Assistance of the Holy Spirit, to live according to the Will, and the Example of an Holy God.

To this Interpretation of this Text, the Context plainly seems to lead; for the Apostles Argument runs thus: Christ having suffered for us in the flesh, it doth become us also, in a Spiritual Sense, to suffer in the flesh by the Mortification of our fleshly Lusts; that though we still live in the flesh, we may not henceforth live unto the lusts of Men, but to the will of God, v. 2. I say, the Christians must no longer live after the will of the Gentiles, in Lasciviousness, Lusts, &c. v. 3. for which things Heathens will be obnoxious to God's just Displeasure at the great Day of their Accounts, since for this cause the Gospel hath been preached unto them, that they might be engaged by it to condemn, and strive against that fleshly Conversation, in which they lived formerly, according to the lusts of Men, not yet acquainted with the mind of God, and might henceforth live according to God in the Spirit.

c Ver. 7. Τὸ τέλος ἤγγικε, the end of all things is at hand.] This Phrase, and the Advice upon it, so exactly parallel to what our Lord had spoken, will not suffer us to doubt that the Apostle is here speaking, not of the end of the World, or of all things in general, which was not then, and seems not yet to be at hand, but only of the end of the Jewish Church and State, mentioned in the Enquiry of the Apostles, thus, Tell us when πάντα ταῦτα, all these things shall be finished? Mark 13. 4 and in our Saviour's answer thus, This Generation shall not pass away, ἕως ἂν πάντα γένηται, till all things be fulfilled, Luke 21. 32. that is, πάντα ταῦτα, all these things, Matth. 24. 34. Mark 13. 30. And 'tis the Observation of Interpreters upon these words, τοῖς πᾶσι γέγονα τὰ πάντα I became all things to all Men, 1 Cor. 9. 22. and πάντα μοι ἔξεστιν, all things are lawful for me, Ch. 10. 23. that the word πάντα must be restrained to the subject matter.

Ver. 10. Χάρισμα, the Gift.] That the d Gift should here signifie, Wealth, I cannot think; for though χεὶρ sometimes bears that sense, yet χάρισμα is never used to signifie Wealth, but hath always relation to the spiritual Gifts vouchsafed then to the Church of Christ. (2.) Because the speaking as the Oracles of God, seems plainly to be the same with Prophesying according to the Analogy of Faith, mentioned, Rom. 12. 6. and the ministring here with the διακονία there, both which are mentioned as Spiritual Gifts according to the Grace given to them. See note there, and on the helps mentioned, 1 Cor. 12. 27.

Ver. 13. τοῖς τοῦ χριστοῦ παθήμασιν, are e Partakers of Christ's Sufferings.] Because he looks upon the sufferings of his Members, as his own, Acts 9. 4. Coloss. 1. 14.

Ver. 14. Πνεῦμα τῆς δόξης, the Spirit of f Glory; or as some Copies read τῆς δόξης καὶ δυνάμεως, of Glory and Power,] is doubtless that holy Spirit which attended the preaching of the glorious Gospel, and made it to be the ministration of the Spirit, ἐν δόξῃ in Glory, and by partaking of which Spirit, we Christians are said to be transformed from Glory to Glory, as by the Spirit of the Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 8, 9, 18. and who is also stiled πνεῦμα δυνάμεως, the Spirit of Might, 2 Tim. 1. 7. and being promised, and given to those who suffered for Christ's sake to abide with them for ever, as their Comforter, and to help their Infirmities, Rom. 8. 26. 2 Tim. 1. 7, 8. must make them happy Sufferers, and being also that Spirit by which they were enabled to work many Miracles, and endued with exraordinary Gifts, Christ must be glorified by him, as he foretold he should, John 16. 14.

Ver. 15. Ὡς φονεὺς, as a Murtherer, &c.] g Whosoever reads Josephus, will find there was the greatest reason to give these Cautions to the Jewish Nation, which then prodigiously abounded with Thieves, were continually employ'd in murthering not only Heathens, but their own Brethren, were κακοποιοὶ, or as some Copies read, κακοῦργοι, to such an high degree, that he saith, they practised all manner of injustice and wickedness that was ever thought of or committed; and ἀλλοτριεπίσκοποι, Men who would have the Government of other Mens Consciences, and over-rule their Actions, especially the Zealots.

CHAP. V.

a Verſe 1. THE [a] Elders which are among you, I exhort, who am alſo [an elder, and a Witneſs of the ſufferings b of Chriſt, and alſo [ſhall be] [b] a partaker of the Glory which ſhall be revealed:

2. Feed the Flock of God which is among you, taking [upon you] the overſight c thereof, [c] not by conſtraint, but willingly; d [d] not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind.

e 3. [e] Neither as being Lords over God's Heritage, but being Examples to the Flock.

4. And when the chief Shepherd ſhall appear, ye ſhall receive a Crown of Glory that fadeth not away, [and ſo receive a full, and better Reward of your Labours than others aim at.]

5. Likewiſe ye younger ſubmit your ſelves unto the elder, [or aged]: yea all of you be ſubject one to another, [i. e. be as ready to do kind Offices to others, as if ye were ſubject to them, See Note on Phil. 2. 3.] and [f] be f cloathed with Humility; for God reſiſteth the Proud, and giveth Grace unto the Humble.

g 6. [g] Humble your ſelves therefore under the mighty hand of God [now coming upon you, Chap. 4. 17.] that he may exalt you in due time.

7. Caſting all your Care upon him, [and committing your ſelves to the Conduct of his All-wiſe Providence, Chap. 4. 19.] for he careth for you.

8. Be ſober, be vigilant, becauſe your adverſary the Devil, as a roaring Lion, walketh about ſeeking whom he may devour, [and by his Perſecutions tempt to an Apoſtacy from the Faith, 1 Theſſ. 3. 5. Rev. 2. 10.]

9. Whom reſiſt ſtedfaſt in the Faith, knowing that the ſame Afflictions [which you now endure,] are accompliſhed in your [Chriſtian] Brethren that are in the World. [See James 4. 7.]

10. But [and] the God of all Grace who hath called us to his eternal Glory by Chriſt Jeſus, after that ye have ſuffered a while, make you perfect [in Patience,] eſtabliſh, ſtrengthen, ſettle you.

11. To him be Glory and Dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12. By Sylvanus a faithful Brother unto you [h] as I ſuppoſe I have written briefly, h exhorting and teſtifying that this is the true Grace of God in which you [now] ſtand.

13. The Church that is at [Rome, figuratively called] [i] Babylon, elected together with i you, ſaluteth you, and ſo doth Marcus my Son, [i. e. who as a Son with his Father hath ſerved me in the Goſpel, Phil. 2. 22.]

14. Greet ye one another with a kiſs of Charity. Peace be with all that are in Chriſt Jeſus. Amen.

Annotations on Chapter V.

a Verſe 1. Πρεσβυτέρους τοὺς ἐν ὑμῖν, the Elders that are among you.] That is the Biſhops, ſaith Dr. Hammond, here, and whereſoever the word occurs in the New Teſtament; for the Order of Presbyters was not yet in being, but only afterwards appointed by St. John; For that the Apoſtle is here ſpeakihg of Elders not by Age, but Office, appeareth by his Exhortation directed to them to feed the Flock committed to their Charge, v. 2. But this Notion ſeems not well conſiſtent with what others have diſcourſed upon this Subject: For,

1ſt. They who make the Biſhop, Prieſt, or Elder, and Deacon, to be appointed as anſwering to the High-Prieſt, the Prieſt and Levites, muſt ſuppoſe that all theſe three Orders were at firſt appointed, eſpecially in the Church of Jeruſalem, as being derived from their Platform. And ſo muſt all thoſe learned Men who ſay the Church was modelled after the manner of the Jewiſh Synagogue; for as to that the Parallel muſt run between the Chief of the Synagogue, the Elders, and their Miniſterial Officers, and the Biſhops, Prieſts, or Elders, and the Deacons;

cons; and if the middle Order had been wanting so long as is supposed, the Government of the Church would not have been formed after that Platform; which, as Epiphanius, * and the Jews inform us had these several Offices in it. The same may be said of those who make the Elders or Presbyters to be answerable to the Seventy, appointed by Christ as inferior Officers under the Apostles, and make this an Argument of an inequality betwixt Bishops and Presbyters, established in the Church by Christ.

2dly. Hence it must necessarily follow, that not only in the Times, but even in the Writings of the Apostles, the Names of Presbyters and Bishops were so far confounded, that a Presbyter, in their Stile, did always signifie one that was properly a Bishop: which yet the learned Bishop Pearson † seems not to allow.

3dly. This seems to make the Work and Office of a Bishop too great to be discharged by a single Person, especially in such great Churches as that of Jerusalem, where there were many Myriads of Believing Jews, Acts 21. 20. For 'twas his Office, saith that Reverend Person, to be the Teacher of the whole Flock committed to him: Acts 20. 28. Ye that are Bishops of the several Churches of Asia, look to the Churches committed to your Trust, to rule, and order all the faithful Christians under you; So the Paraphrase. See the Paraphrase and Note on Heb. 13. 7, 17. where he saith, That to Teach, Exhort, and Confirm, and impose Hands, were all the Bishop's Office in Judæa. He was to exercise the whole Discipline of the Church, by hearing all the Ecclesiastical Causes, inflicting Censures, and receiving Penitents, see the Paraphrase and Note on Titus, 3. 10. He was to take the Principal care of the Poor, to receive, and distribute to them the Churches Stock; So here: The Supreme Trust and Charge of that, saith he, being always reserved to the Apostles and Bishops of the Church. Note F. on 1 Cor. 12. 28. He was to visit the Sick, and pray with them; that being, saith he, one Branch of the Office of Bishops; Note on James 5. 14. And how one Bishop could perform all this to a Church consisting of many Myriads of Persons, it is not easie to conceive. I therefore think it better to admit of the ordinary Acceptation of the word Presbyter here; that is to think they also may be included in the Term.

b Ibid. Κοινωνὸς δόξης, and also a Partaker of the Glory which shall be revealed.] i. e. saith one, present at the Discourse, concerning the Glory that should be consequent to his Death, the remarkable Destruction of his Crucifiers, and the Deliverance of his faithful Disciples. But, 1st. 'Tis certain that the Scripture mentions nothing of any such Discourse; but only that Moses and Elias then spake of his Decease which he was to accomplish at Jerusalem, Luke 9. 31. And though Peter was then present, he heard not a word of that Discourse, being then fast asleep, v. 32. This Glory therefore is doubtless the Glory which we shall enjoy at the Resurrection, or the Redemption of our Bodies from Corruption, Rom. 8. 18, 23. stiled the Glory of God, Rom. 5. 2. the Glory we shall enjoy when Christ appears, Col. 3. 4. when our vile Bodies shall be made like unto Christ's glorious Body, Phil. 3. 21. and shall be raised up in Glory, 1 Cor. 15. 43. eternal Glory, v. 10. this being that we shall enjoy at the Revelation of Christ Jesus, v. 4. 1 Pet. 1. 7, 13. Chap. 4. 13. of this St. Peter was a Partaker then in the Promise, and in the earnest of it, the first fruits of the Spirit.

Ver. 2. Not by constraint, but willingly;] μὴ ἀναγκαστῶς ἀλλ' ἑκουσίως.] Not as it were constrained to it by the dread of what you may suffer, the woe impendent if you do not perform this Office; but voluntarily, and as a Free-will Offering to that God who hath loved you so much, and from a ready mind to serve the Interests of Souls, as in those words of St. Paul, ἀνάγκη, a necessity is laid upon me, and woe unto me if I preach not the Gospel, but if ἑκὼν willingly I do this, I have a Reward, 1 Cor. 9. 16, 17. c

Ibid. Μηδὲ αἰσχροκερδῶς, not for filthy lucre.] As did the false Apostles, and Judaizers, teaching things they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake, Tit. 1. 11. thinking gain godliness, 1 Tim 6. 5. d

Ver. 3. Μηδὲ ὡς κατακυριεύοντες τῶν κλήρων, not as Lords over God's Heritage.] Or as it might be rendred, of the Possessions of the Church. It was the Custon then of many to sell their Heritages, and give the money to the Governors, and Bishops of the Church, to be distributed to the use of poor Christians; and these Inheritances and Monies were stiled κλῆροι, both the Scriptures, and the best Greek Authors, using it for a Patrimony, or Heritage obtained by Lot, as the Inheritance of the Jews was, Josh. 12. 8. whence the word κλῆρος is so often used in this sense through the Book of Joshua, and Judges. And so the Bishops, to whose hands it was committed, are here required not to act as if they were Lords, but only as Stewards of it; and so as to e

f Ver. 5. Ἐγκομβώσασθε, be ye cloathed with Humility.] The word hath two ſignifications; it ſignifies a Frock put over the reſt of our Cloaths, and ſo imports that this Humility ſhould be viſible in us above all other Chriſtian Vertues, in our whole Converſation, our words and actions. 2dly. It ſignifies a Belt which girts about our Garments, and ſo imports we ſhould tie it faſt unto us, and have thoſe conſiderations always fixt upon our Spirits, which may ſtill keep us in an humble Frame of Soul.

g Ver. 6. Ταπεινώθητε.] That is, ſubmit with patience to the Chaſtiſements ſent by his powerful hand upon you, that being truly ſenſible of the Divine diſpleaſure, being afflicted, and mourning for thoſe Sins which brought theſe Evils down upon you, and turning unto him that ſmites you, he may draw nigh to you, and in due ſeaſon work for you a Deliverance from this afflicted State. See this in the place parallel to this, James 4. 7, 10.

h Ver. 12. Ὡς νομίζω, as I ſuppoſe.] From theſe, and many like expreſſions uſed in the Epiſtles of the Apoſtles, it is evident that the Divine Afflatus, by which the Holy Ghoſt aſſiſted them to write, did not dictate the very words, but only preſided over them to preſerve them from Error in writing, ſeeing the Holy Ghoſt could not ſay, as I ſuppoſe; nor could St. Peter have uſed this Phraſe, if the Divine Illumination had influenced, and inſtructed him in this matter.

i Ver. 13. Ἡ ἐν Βαβυλῶνι, the Church in Babylon.] That Babylon is figuratively here put for Rome is an Opinion ſo early delivered by (a) Papias, and which afterwards ſo generally obtained, as we learn from Euſebius (b) St. Jerom and Oecumenius on this place, that I ſubſcribe to the Note at the end of this Epiſtle, that ἐγράφη ἀπὸ Ῥώμης, it was written from Rome, ſtiled alſo Babylon by the (c) Author of the Revelations, Chap. 17. and the 18th. For the Apoſtle muſt at the writing of it be at Rome figuratively, or at ſome City properly called Babylon; Now as it is uncertain whether St. Peter ever was at Babylon in Chaldea, in in Egypt, and improbable that he ever made any conſiderable ſtay there, ſo is it very improbable he ſhould do it ſo near his end. At Rome and Antioch, where he confeſſedly reſided, Church Hiſtory is copious in giving an Account of his Succeſſors in thoſe Sees; but who can ſhew any thing of this nature, with reference to either of theſe Babylons? As to the reaſon why Rome is covertly thus repreſented by the Name of Babylon, I cannot think, with Oecumenius, it was ſtiled, διὰ τὸ ἐπιφανὲς, becauſed advanced to as great Eminency as Babylon had ever been, for then why ſhould St. Peter have diſguiſed the matter? I rather think it was ſo ſtiled, either becauſe it did reſemble that City in its Idolatries, and oppoſition to the Church of God; or becauſe it was to be deſtroyed for ever, as the Prophets had foretold of Babylon; which though the (d) Primitive Chriſtians did believe, it was their wiſdom to conceal. Thus (e) St. Jerom ſaith, that the Prophet Jeremiah covertly ſpake of Babylon, under the name of Seſack, that he might not incenſe the Babylonians againſt him, who beſieged Jeruſalem; and that the Apoſtle ſpeaks of the Roman Empire under that name of τὸ κατέχον, that which letteth, that he might not provoke them to perſecute the Chriſtians for ſpeaking of the Roman Empire, which was by them eſteemed (f) Imperium ſine fine, or Eternal.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epistle of St. PETER.

ΠΕΤΡΟΥ τῦ Ἀποστόλε ἐπιστολὴ καθολικὴ δευτέρα, The Second Catholick Epistle of St. Peter.] That this Epistle also was written by the Apostle Peter, is evident beyond all just Exception. (1.) From the Inscription of it, in which the Writer stiles himself Simon Peter, a Servant and Apostle of Jesus Christ; there being no other Apostle of that Name. Moreover of this Apostle it is particularly noted in the Scripture, that he was Σίμων ὁ λεγόμενος Πέτρος, Simon called Peter, Matth. 4. 18. 10. 2. Σίμων ὁ ἐπικαλούμενος Πέτρος, Simon which was Sirnamed Peter, Acts 10. 18. 11. 13. He is stiled Simon Peter once by St. Luke, Chap. 5. 8. and by St. John the Evangelist seventeen times, Chap. 1. 41. 6. 8, 68. 13. 6, 9, 24, 36. 18. 10, 15, 25. 20. 2, 6. 21. 2, 3, 7, 11, 15. Whereas Symeon Bishop of Jerusalem, to whom Grotius ascribes the writing of this Epistle, was neither Peter, nor Apostle. (2.) From a Concurrence of Circumstances in it relating to St. Peter, and no other; as (1) When he says, He shortly must put off this Tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ had shewed him. Chap. 1. 14. This well agrees to Simon Peter, to whom our Lord signified what Death he should die, Joh. 21. 18, 19. And that this Death should befal him before his coming to the Destruction of Jerusalem, Ver. 22. which was then at hand when St. Peter writ this. See Note on 1 Pet. 4. 7. 2dly. He adds, that he was with him in the Holy Mount, when our Lord Jesus was transfigured, and was an Eye-witness of his Majesty, and heard those Words, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, Ver. 16, 17, 18. which he could hear only then, no such Words being spoken, John 12. 28. to which Grotius would refer this Passage. Now at our Lord's Transfiguration, besides St. Peter, were only present the two Sons of Zebedee James and John, neither of which were ever thought to be the Author of this Epistle. 3dly. This also may be gathered from these Words, Chap. 3. 1, 2. This Second Epistle, beloved, I write unto you; in which I stir up your sincere Minds by way of remembrance: Ver. 2. That ye may be mindful of the Words which were spoken before by the Holy Prophets, and of the Commandment of us the Apostles of the Lord and Saviour. Whence it is manifest, 1st. That this Epistle was writ by an Apostle, and therefore not by Symeon Bishop of Jerusalem. 2dly. That it was writ by an Apostle, who had before directed an Epistle to the same Persons. Now though some of the Ancients doubted whether this Second Epistle were Canonical, yet (a) they all owned that it bore his Name and was ascribed to him, and never, that we find, was ascribed to any other Apostle; we therefore have just Reason to conclude, according to the Title of it, that it was also the Epistle of Simon Peter, the Apostle of our Lord, to whom both these Epistles expressly are ascribed by (b) Origen, who also adds, That Paul is called his Brother, by Peter the Apostle, which he is only in this Epistle. Being therefore written by an Apostle assisted by the Holy Ghost sent down from Heaven, 1 Pet. 1. 12. we cannot doubt of the Authority of this Epistle; for whereas Grotius, to avoid the strength of this Argument, imagines that this Chapter contains a Second Epistle, and that the First Epistle referred to, ended at the close of the Second Chapter of that which is now called the Second Epistle. He not only doth this without all Authority of any Ancient Versions or Authors to countenance his Opinion, but against the Frame and

and the Contexture of Epiſtles, which uſually begin with an Inſcription, which is not to be found in the Third Chapter.

As for the time when this Epiſtle was indited, I lay down this as certain, againſt Grotius, from what hath been diſcours'd already, that it could not be written after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem; for St. Peter here ſaith, that he was ſhortly to put off his Tabernacle, or to die, whereas he was actually dead in the Fourteenth Year of Nero, that is, Three Years before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus. But that it was written but a little before his Death, may juſtly be concluded from his Declaration that he knew, either by Revelation, or by our Lord's Diſcourſe, that the time of his Death (c) was ſuddenly to follow, or was nigh at hand.

Of the Perſons to whom it was written, we are aſſured alſo from theſe words, This Second Epiſtle, Beloved, I write unto you, they being a demonſtration that it was written to the very ſame Perſons to whom the firſt had been directed, viz. to the Converted Jews diſpers'd through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Aſia, and Bithynia, 1 Pet. 1. 1.

And laſtly, as for the occaſion of his writing, that plainly ſeems to have been double. 1*ſt. To arm the* Jews converted againſt that fiery Trial which was then come upon them, and againſt that Apoſtacy from the Faith, that turning away from the Holy Commandment, Chap. 2. 21. that falling from their own Stedfaſtneſs, Chap. 3. 17. to which they of that Nation were ſo prone: And evident it is that the chief deſign of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews was to put a ſtop to it: and many Paſſages in all the Catholick Epiſtles, not excepting the 2*d. and* 3*d. Epiſtles of St.* John, are evidently writ for the ſame purpoſe; And to warn them of, and to preſerve them from, the deſtructive Doctrines of thoſe Jewiſh Solifidians who held it unneceſſary to add unto their Faith Vertue. 2*dly. To arm them againſt thoſe impure* Nicolaitans and Simonians, who turn'd the Grace of God into Laſciviouſneſs: Of whom ſee the Notes on the 2*d. Chapter. And* 3*dly. Againſt thoſe* Scoffers at the Promiſe of Chriſt's Coming, as if it were a Promiſe which never would be verified.

But then I am conſtrained to diſſent from the Opinion of the Reverend and the Judicious Dr. Hammond, and Dr. Lightfoot, who conceive that the Apoſtle doth not diſcourſe of our Lord's coming to the General Judgment in his 3*d. Chapter, but only of his coming to execute his Judgments on the* Jews by the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem. For, not to inſiſt upon this Conſideration that this Opinion is wholly new, and contrary to the Judgment of all the Ancients, who own this Epiſtle, and have occaſion to make mention of theſe words, they all agreeing in this with Oecumenius, that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh ὅτι συντελεία τῦ αἰῶνος, of the end of the World, it is extremely evident.

1. From theſe very words, ver. 7. But the Heavens and Earth which now are, by the ſame word are kept in ſtore, reſerved to fire againſt the day of Judgment, and perdition of ungodly Men. And ver. 10. But the day of the Lord will come as a Thief in the night, in the which the Heavens ſhall paſs away with a great noiſe, and the Elements ſhall melt with fervent Heat; the Earth alſo, and the works that are therein, ſhall be burnt up. To interpret all theſe words only of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, is to turn them into Metaphor and Allegory; whereas St. Peter plainly ſays, that as the Old World was deſtroy'd by Water, ſo ſhall the World that now is be deſtroy'd by Fire. Here then, as one ſays truly, is no room for Allegories or Allegorical Expoſitions; for, as the Heavens and Earth were deſtroy'd by Water, ſo are they to be deſtroy'd by Fire: And if in the firſt place you underſtand the natural material World, you muſt alſo underſtand it in the ſecond; they are both Allegories, or neither.

2. Were the Apoſtle ſpeaking of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem which happen'd Forty ſeven Years after the Death of Chriſt, and was, according to our Lord's Prediction, to fall out whilſt ſome of them whom he ſpake to were yet living, what need was there of ſaying, one day with the Lord is as a thouſand years, &c. when he was ſpeaking, it ſeems, of that which he knew was to happen before four years were expired? And laſtly, The ſolemn Exhortation, Seeing then all theſe things ſhall be diſſolved, what manner of Perſons ought we to be in all Holy Converſations and Godlineſſes, looking for, and haſtening to the Coming of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, that we may be found of him without ſpot, and blameleſs? This, I ſay, ſounds too high for the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, in which they of Pontus and Galatia could not be much concern'd; but 'tis an Exhortation very proper for thoſe who had the lively Idea of the Conflagration of the World, and the tremendous Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men, then ſet before them.

There is, I confeſs, a middle Opinion betwixt both theſe, which interprets the words of St. Peter in the 3*d. Chapter, of the Judgment of the Great Whore, or the* Antichriſtian Church mention'd Rev. 17. 1. after which is to follow the New Heaven and New Earth, promiſed to the Jews, and to be accompliſhed in the calling of them to the Chriſtian Faith, and the flowing in of all Nations to them. Concerning which, Note,

1*ſt. That*

1ſt. That this Judgment, according to the Predictions both of the Prophets in the Old, and of St. John in the New Teſtament, is to be executed upon her by Fire. So Daniel 7. 11. The Beaſt was ſlain, and his Body deſtroyed, and given to the burning Flame: and ver. 26. The Judgment ſhall ſit, and they ſhall take away his Dominion, to conſume, and to deſtroy it to the end. Accordingly, in the Judgment of the Whore, ſhe ſhall be utterly burnt with Fire, for ſtrong is the Lord that judgeth her. Rev. 17. Rev. 18. 8, 9, 10.

Note 2dly, That it is uſual with the Prophets to repreſent God's Judgments on the Enemies of his Church and People, by the tragical Expreſſions of burning up the Earth, diſſolving the Heavens. Thus of the Deſtruction of Babylon, which Name was writ upon the Forehead of the Great Whore, God ſpeaks thus; Behold, the Day of the Lord cometh, cruel and with fierce wrath, to lay the Land deſolate, for the Stars of Heaven, and the Conſtellations, ſhall not give their Light, and the Sun ſhall be darkned in his going forth, and the Moon ſhall not give her Light, and I will make the Heavens to ſhake (or move away) and the Earth ſhall remove out of its place, Iſai. 13. 9, 10, 13. The Indignation of the Lord againſt the Idumæans, is repreſented in theſe dreadful words, The Mountains ſhall be melted with their Blood, and (d) all the Hoſt of Heaven ſhall be diſſolved, and the Heavens ſhall be rolled together as a Scroll, and all their Hoſt ſhall fall down as a leaf falleth from the Vine, and as a falling Fig from the Fig-tree. Of the Deſtruction of Sennacherib and his People, God ſpeaketh thus; The Heavens ſhall vaniſh away like Smoak, the Earth ſhall wax old like a Garment, and they that dwell therein ſhall die in like manner, Iſai. 51. 6. See Deut. 32. 22. Jer. 4. 23, 24. Joel 2. 30. 3. 15. Here then we ſee all the Expreſſions uſed in the 3*d. Chapter of St.* Peter, uſed alſo by the Prophets when they ſpeak of the Deſolation of a Nation and People, and eſpecially of the Enemies of the Church; which is ſufficient to evince that the Apoſtle being himſelf a Jew, and writing to thoſe Jews who were accuſtomed to theſe Expreſſions, might thus ſet forth the great Deſtruction of the Beaſt, mention'd Revelations 17th. and the 18th. and by the New Heavens and New Earth, that Glorious State of the Church which was to enſue by the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, and the flowing in of all Nations to them.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Second Epiſtle of St. PETER.

CHAP I.

Verſe 1. SIMON PETER, a Servant and Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt [writing] to them that have obtained like preciousFaith a with us [a] through the Righteouſneſs of God, [by Faith, Rom. 1. 17.] and [the Sufferings of] our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

2. [Wiſheth that] Grace and Peace [may] be multiplied to you, through the knowledge of God, and of Jeſus [Chriſt] our Lord.

3. According as [it hath been with us already, for] his Divine Power hath given to us all things that pertain to life and godlineſs, [or, to the life of godlineſs,] through the knowledge of him that hath called us to b [Gr. by] [b] Glory, and Vertue.

c 4. [c] Whereby are given to us exceeding great and precious promiſes, that by theſe d ye might be [d] partakers of the Divine Nature; having eſcaped the Corruption which is in the World through luſt.

e 5. [e] And beſides this [Gr. καὶ, αὐτὸ τοῦτο, and for this cauſe] giving all diligence, add to your Faith Vertue, [or courage in the Profeſſion of it, and ſincerity in the Practice of thoſe things this Faith requires,] and to Vertue [an exact] knowledge [of your Duty;]

6. And to Knowledge, Temperance, [in carefully abſtaining from thoſe ſenſual Affections, and diſorderly Paſſions, which obſtruct the performance of your Duty,] and to Temperance Patience, [under all the Sufferings which may affright you from it,] and to Patience Godlineſs, [that fear of God which will reſtrain you from ſin, that love of him which will conſtrain you to your Duty, that Conformity of Will which will cauſe your Mind to approve of, your Heart to affect, and chuſe what is according to his will, and your whole Man to be exerciſing it ſelf to Godlineſs.]

7. And to Godlineſs Brotherly kindneſs, [i. e. fervent love to Chriſtians, as being Children of our heavenly Father, and fellow members of Chriſt's Body,] and to Brotherly kindneſs Charity, [to all Men, as proceeding from the ſame Stock, having the ſame Nature, and being ſubject to the ſame neceſſities.]

8. For if theſe things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye ſhall neither f be [f] barren [Gr. ſlothful] nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

g 9. But [on the other hand] he that lacketh theſe things is [g] blind, and cannot ſee afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old ſins, [by that Baptiſm in which he being waſhed from the guilt of them, engaged to die to ſin, Rom. 6. 4.]

10. Wherefore [being called to this Faith,] the rather, Brethren, give diligence [Gr. give the more diligence by practiſing theſe things,]
h [h] to make your Calling and Election ſure; [i. e. to ſecure to your ſelves the Bleſſings of Chriſtianity to which God hath called you; and for which end he hath choſen you to be his People:] for if you do theſe things you ſhall never fall, [or miſcarry eternally.]

i 11. For ſo an entrance ſhall be miniſtred to you abundantly [i] into the everlaſting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

12. Where-

12. Wherefore I will not be negligent k to put you always [k] in Remembrance of theſe things, tho' you know them [before,] and be eſtabliſhed in the preſent Truth, [viz. that the Practice of theſe Chriſtian vertues is neceſſary to the making your calling and Election ſure, and to your Entrance into Chriſt's heavenly Kingdom.]

13. Yea I think it meet, as long as I am in this Tabernacle [of the Body,] to ſtir you up [to the performance of your Duty,] by putting you [ſtill] in Remembrance [of theſe things.]

14. Knowing that ſhortly I muſt put off this my Tabernacle [by Martyrdom,] even as our

15. Moreover I will endeavour [by leaving theſe Epiſtles, deſigned for that End,] that you
m may be able after my deceaſe, [m] to have theſe things always in Remembrance.

16. For we have not followed cunningly deviſed Tables, when we made known to you the Power [given to our Lord Chriſt over all Fleſh, that he might give eternal life to them that believe, John 17. 2.] and [the] coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt [to Crown them with Glory;] but were Eye-witneſſes of his Majeſty.

17. For he received from God the Father Honour and Glory, when there came ſuch a Voice to him from the [n] excellent n Glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed.

18. And this Voice which came from Heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount.

19. We have alſo [o] a more ſure Word o of Propheſy; whereto you do well that ye take heed, as to a light that ſhineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the [p] Day-Star ariſe in your Hearts.
p

20. Knowing this firſt [as the foundation of all you learn from the Prophetick Writings,] [q] that no Propheſy of the Scripture is of any Private Interpretation, q [Gr. of their own Incitation, Motion, or the Suggeſtion of their own private Spirits.]

21. For Propheſy came not in old time by the will of Man; but Holy Men of God ſpake as they were moved by the Holy Ghoſt.

dent thus; As you have received from the Gift of God all things neceſſary to Life and Godlineſs, ſo do ye add, or for this cauſe add to your Faith, Vertue. &c.

f Ver. 8. Οὐκ ἀργούς, you will not be ſlothful,] or negligent in the Concerns of God's glory, and your Soul's welfare, for Sloth proceeds from want of Faith, or Courage, or Love; nor unfruitful, i. e. Unprofitable to others, for that proceeds from want of Brotherly-Kindneſs, or Charity.

g Ver. 9. Τυφλός ἐστι, he is blind,] for want of knowledge, and blinded by his Paſſions and ſenſual Affections, and cannot ſee to the End and Deſign of Chriſtianity, and the Rewards of Faith and Patience, nor conſiders he the Obligations which lie upon him to depart from Iniquity. The word μυωπάζων following, is by our Tranſlators rendred one that cannot ſee afar off, agreeably to theſe words of Ariſtotle, they are ſaid, μυωπάζειν, who from their Birth are τὰ μὲν ἐγγὺς βλέποντες τὰ δὲ ἐξ ἀποστάσεως οὐχ ὁρῶντες, Men who can only ſee things near, not thoſe that are remote; and it is ordinary to ſay that ſuch a one is blind, as being comparatively ſo, and as to many things; And to this ſenſe the following words, they cannot look back to their Purgation of Old, ſeem to lead; tho' the great Bochart ſaith, the Word here ſignifies to cloſe the Eyes againſt the light, Hieroz. l. 1. c. 4. p. 31, 32.

h Ver. 10. Βεβαίαν ὑμῶν κλῆσιν ποιεῖσθαι, to make your calling and Election ſure.] Many Manuſcripts, and many of the Ancients add, διὰ τῶν καλῶν ἔργων, by good Works: and this the Text ſeems to require, for it immediately follows, if you do theſe things ye ſhall never fall, plainly declaring, that the making of their calling, and Election ſure, depended on the doing thoſe works of Vertue, Temperance, Patience, Godlineſs, Brotherly-Kindneſs, and Charity, mentioned before, and ſo was only a Conditional Election upon their Perſeverance in a Life of Holineſs.

i Ver. 11. Εἰς τὴν αἰώνιον βασιλείαν, into the everlaſting Kingdom.] As ζωὴ αἰώνιος is everlaſting life, Luke 10. 25. αἰώνιος κληρονομία, an everlaſting inheritance, Heb. 9. 15. αἰώνιοι σκηναὶ everlaſting Tabernacles, Luke 16. 9. οἰκία αἰώνιος, an everlaſting Houſe, 2 Cor. 5. 1. δόξα αἰώνιος, everlaſting Glory, 2 Tim. 2. 10. σωτηρία αἰώνιος, everlaſting Salvation, Hebr. 5. 9. So αἰώνιος βασιλεία, is doubtleſs the everlaſting Kingdom prepared for Chriſt's faithful Servants, and not his Vindictive Kingdom over the Jews, nor yet the Kingdom of Saints mentioned by Daniel as never to give place to any other Kingdom, they to whom the Apoſtle writ being to die long before the coming of that Kingdom.

k Ver. 12. Ἐν ὑπομνήσει in Remembrance.] For could we be eſtabliſhed in the belief of heavenly things, and have them ſtill in Remembrance, we ſhould not flag in the Performance of our Duty.

l Ver. 14. Ἐδήλωσε μοι, hath ſhewed me.] Declaring to him in a Viſion, ſay (c) Hegeſippus and (d) St. Ambroſe, that he muſt go again to Rome to be Crucified. Thus (e) St. Polycarp, in a Viſion ſaw his Pillow, or Night-Cap burning with Fire a little before he was conſumed by the Flames: And St. Cyprian, by a Viſion was admoniſhed of his Death, and of the Kind of Martyrdom he was to ſuffer. Pontius in Vitâ Cypr. Ed. Oxon. p. 7 m Ver. 15. Τῶν τούτων μνήμην ποιεῖσθαι, to make a Remembrance of theſe things.] St. Peter therefore was not of the Opinion that Oral Tradition was a better way than Writing, to preſerve the Memory of theſe things, and that without Writing they might be able ſo to do. Accordingly (f) Ignatius, adviſing the Churches to ſtand faſt in the Tradition of the Apoſtles, thought it neceſſary, for the greater ſecurity, to commit them to Writing. For, ſaith (g) Origen, That which is delivered only by Mouth quickly Vaniſheth, as having no Certainty.

n Ver. Ὑπὸ τῆς μεγαλοπρεποῦς δόξης, from the magnificent Glory.] Some conſidering, that in all the three Evangeliſts the Transfiguration of our Lord is mentioned after he had ſpoken of the Coming of the Son of Man in Glory, or in the Glory of the Father, think this Transfiguration was an Image of that glorious Kingdom he was to erect at the Calling of the Jews; and that St. Peter here refers to this when he ſaith, we made known to you the power, and coming, or the illuſtrious coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; whence Moſes, and Elias are here ſeen with him in Glory, and according to ſome Manuſcripts, are ſaid to ſpeak of the δόξα, i. e. his Glory, which was to be hereafter in Jeruſalem. But that Glory being not yet come, to what purpoſe ſhould the Apoſtle Write to them of that Age, to give all diligence to obtain an an Entrance into that Kingdom? Or why doth he ſo generally promiſe an Entrance into it to them who were to die ſo long before, and were not at all, unleſs they died Martyrs, to enter into it? nor was it to be an everlaſting, but only a Millennary Kingdom. Wherefore for Explication of the Words, obſerve concerning the Transfiguration of our Lord, (1) That when he was transfigured his Face did ſhine as the Sun and his Garments were ſplendent, Matth. 17. 2. And this, ſaith Nazianzen, God did τὸ μέλλον μυσταγωγῶν, ſhewing what he was to be hereafter, and as an Introduction to that Glory in which he was to ſhine at the Right Hand of Majeſty in the Heavens; for to ſhine as the Sun, is a Phraſe expreſſing ſomething belonging to Cœleſtial Majeſty, Matth. 13. 43. The white and ſplendid Garments being alſo proper to Kings, and the Royal Miniſters of the Heavenly Court, Rev. 3. 4. And hence when Chriſt is repreſented as the firſt-born from the Dead, and the Prince of the Kings of the Earth, to whom power and Glory belonged, he appears in Splendor, as the Sun ſhining in his Power, Rev. 1. 14, 15. And this is the Majeſty of Chriſt of which St. Peter, James, and John were Eye-witneſſes on the Mount.

2ly. Of the Teſtimony given to him; obſerve, (1.) That it was, This is my beloved Son, i. e. This is he who is Heir of all things; Heb. 1. 2. And is ſat down at the Right Hand of Majeſty and Glory, v. 3. And therefore this is made a Proof of our Lord's Reſurrection, and Exaltation to the Higheſt Glory, that the Father ſaid to him, Thou art my Son, this Day have I begotten thee, Acts 13. 33. Hebr. 1. 5. 5. 5. This is he to whom the Father hath given to have life in himſelf, John 5. 26. And ſo to raiſe the Dead, v. 24. And give eternal life to them, John 17. 1, 2. Now all this being comprehended in this Teſtimony, ſhews the Truth of what St. Peter ſaid he had declared to them. Note (2ly.) That this Voice was given from the magnificent Glory, or bright Cloud which then appeared, and was the Conſtant Symbol of the Divine Preſence; See note on Phil. 2. 6. And ſo aſſured them this Teſtimony was given by the God of Truth. Note (3ly.) That this Teſtimony is delivered in the very words ſpoken of that Prophet which ſhould come after Moſes, viz. a Prophet will the Lord your God raiſe unto you like to me, to him ſhall ye hearken, Deut. 18. 15. And ſo aſſured them that this beloved Son was that Prophet of whom Moſes ſpake. Note Laſtly, That theſe words were directed not to Chriſt, but to thoſe that attended him, and bad them obſerve that God the Father here owned him as his only Son, in whom he is well pleaſed, and as the only Prophet whom they ought to hearken to.

Ver. 19. Βεβαιότερον ἔχομεν προφητικὸν λόγον, a more ſure word of Propheſy.] This is ſpoken in compariſon of the Apoſtle's Teſtimony of what he heard, which to the Jews was not ſo certain, and convincing, as was the Record of their own Prophets; whence the Apoſtles both in diſputing with the unbelieving Jews, and writing to the believers among them, confirm their Doctrines from the Writings of the Old Teſtament. o

Ibid. Καὶ φωσφόρος ἀνατείλῃ, &c. And the Day ſtar ariſe in your Hearts.] Some conſidering that Balaam Propheſies of the Meſſiah as a Star that was to come out of Jacob, by which Star, ſay the three Targums, Bereſchith Rabba, R. Moſes Hadarſon, and R. Iſaac, is meant the Meſſiah, compared to a Star, becauſe of the Splendor of his Dominion and Kingdom, and who is ſtiled by St. John ὁ ἀστὴρ λαμπρὸς, ὁ πρωϊνὸς, the bright and Morning Star, Rev. 22. 16. refer this to Chriſt's ſecond coming to convert the Jews, and ſet up the Kingdom of the Saints, Dan. 7. 27. Saying, That the Apoſtle compares the intermediate Time, in which Antichriſt was to reign, to the Night, and Darkneſs, according as the Scripture uſeth to expreſs the times of Ignorance, and Idolatry, Eph. 5. 8. 1 Theſ. 5. 4. See note on Rom. 13. 12. And the time of Chriſt's advent to call all Iſrael, and to bring in with them the fulneſs of the Gentiles, to the light diſſipating that Darkneſs; and doth here bid the Jewiſh Nation to attend to the Propheſies in the Old Teſtament touching this glorious time, till it ſhould be accompliſhed upon them. But the Apoſtle writes not here to the unbelieving Jews, who are to be the only Subjects of that calling; but to them who had obtained like precious Faith with him. Moreover that the time from writing this Epiſtle till the Converſion of the Jews, which is not yet accompliſhed, ſhould be accounted as Darkneſs, or a Time in which the Light, or Day appeared not, ſeems not ſuitable to that Expreſſion of St. Paul. The Night is far ſpent, and the day is at Hand. See note on Rom. 13. 12. Nor could he bid thoſe of that Age to expect till that day-Star ſhould ariſe in their Hearts, which to this very day is not yet riſen. It therefore ſeems plain to me from theſe words, tho' Dr. Hamond, and others would interpret them to another ſenſe, that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh this concerning ſome other light that was to enlighten and affect their Hearts, and give p them full Assurance that our Jesus was the Son of God, the Prophet God had sent into the World. Now this was done by the internal Gifts, and Illuminations of the Holy Spirit vouchafed to Believers; by which, saith the Apostle Paul, The testimony of Christ, or, which the Apostle's gave of him, ἐβεβαιώθη ἐν ὑμῖν was confirmed in, or upon them, 1 Cor. 1. 6. By which God did βεβαιῶν ἡμᾶς σὺν ὑμῖν εἰς χριστὸν, Confirm both the Apostles, and those that believed in the Faith of Christ, 2 Cor. 1. 21, 22. 5. 5. So that the import of the Words seems to be this, till you your selves have those Prophetick Gifts, by which you may be able from what you find in your selves, to know by the Spirit that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, 1 Cor. 12. 3. And have that Unction of the Holy Ghost, by which you know all things, 1 John 2. 27. And have also the Scriptures of the New Testament committed to you, which contain a more perfect light, Rom. 13. 14. And are indited also by the Holy Spirit sent down from Heaven, 1 Pet. 1. 12. Like to this is that Expression of (h) Philo, what Reason is in us, that is the Sun in the World, ἐπειδὴ φωσφορεῖ ἑκάτερος, both being unto us a Phosphorus, the Sun giving light to our Senses, and Reason intellectual Raies to our Conceptions. And when φῶς ἐπιλάμπει τὸ θεῖον, the Divine light shines upon us, that of our Reason sets; and when that sets, this ariseth, τῷ δὲ προφητικῷ γένει φιλεῖ τοῦτο συμβάινειν, and so it was with the Prophets.

Ver. 20. Ἰδίας ἐπιλύσεως οὐ γίνεται, no prophesy is of private interpretation,] i. e. Prophesy comes not from the Prophet's own Suggestion, but from the Inspiration of the Holy Ghost. That this is the true sense of these words appears, (1.) From the Apostle's own Interpretation; for not to be of the Prophets own incitation, or Suggestion, v. 20. is not to come by the will of Man, v. 21. i. e. not by human Reason, but by the will of God, John 1. 13. (2ly.) From the Use of the Phrase; for ἐπίλυσις, according to Phavorinus and Suidas, is ἔφοδος Accession, or Incitation, or Insult; and the Word ἰδία added to it, must therefore signifie that Prophesie is not of private Impulse or Incitation; whence the Expression, used by the true Prophets, is generally this, ἐπῆλθεν ἐπ' ἐμὲ the Spirit came upon me, Numb. 24. 2. 1 Sam. 10. 10. 2 Chron. 15. 1. 24. 20. And, (3) From the Nature of the thing it self, and the constant Opinion of the Jews about it; which was, (i) as Philo saith, that a Prophet speaketh nothing of himself, but he is the Organ of God in what he speaks, God speaking in and by him. Whence to speak of himself, or of his own Heart or mind, is always made the sign of a false Prophet, whom God had not sent, Numb. 16. 28. 22. 18. 24. 13. Jer. 23. 16, 26. Ezek. 13. 17. Ridiculous therefore, and full of Ignorance is the inference of Esthius hence, that the Reformed, and their Pastors must not interpret the Scriptures according to their own Sense, or Judgments, which surely they may do, as well as he, or any other Romish Commentator, who have nothing but their own private sense for many Interpretations of the Scriptures they discourse upon.

Vers. 1. 2. [f] And many shall follow their Pernicious ways, by reason of whom the way of Truth shall be Evil spoken of.

3. And through [g] Covetousness shall they with feigned Words make merchandice of you, [h] whose Judgment now of a long time lingreth not, and their damnation slumbreth not.

4. For if God spared not the Angels that sinn'd, but cast them down [i] to Hell, and delivered them to Chains of Darkness to be reserved unto Judgment;

l but ſaved [only] Noah [l] the eighth Perſon, a Preacher of Righteouſneſs, bringing in the flood upon the World of the ungodly;

6. And turning the Cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into Aſhes, condemned them with an overthrow, making them an Example to thoſe that after ſhould live ungodly. [See note on Jud. 7.]

7. And delivered Juſt Lot vexed with the filthy Converſation of the wicked;

8. For that righteous Man dwelling among them, in ſeeing and hearing [of them] vexed his Righteous Soul from Day to Day with their unlawful deeds.

m 9. [Then may we reſt aſſured that] [m] the Lord knoweth how to deliver the Godly out of Temptation, [as he did Noah, and n Lot,] and to reſerve the unjuſt [n] unto the Day of Judgment to be puniſhed.

o 10. But chiefly them [o] who walk after p the Fleſh in the luſts of uncleanneſs, and [p] deſpiſe Government, preſumptuous are they, ſelf-willed, they are not afraid to ſpeak evil of Dignities.

11. Whereas Angels, which are greater in power and might [than evil Spirits,] bring not railing accuſations againſt them before the Lord. [See Note on Jude 9.]

q 12. [q] But theſe, as natural brute Beaſts [Gr. as irrational, natural living Creatures, rather than Men,] made to be taken and deſtroyed, [or to raven, and deſtroy,] ſpeak evil of the things they underſtand not, [i.e. of the Angelical Powers whom they blaſpheme, v. 10.] and ſhall utterly periſh in their own Corruption.

13. And ſhall receive, [Gr. receiving, by this Deſtruction, v. 12.] the Reward of unrighteouſneſs, as they that count it pleaſure r to [r] riot in the day time: Spots they are ſ and Blemiſhes, [ſ] ſporting themſelves with t their own Deceivings, whilſt [t] they feaſt with you.

14. Having Eyes full of Adultery, that cannot ceaſe from ſin; beguiling unſtable Souls; an heart they have exerciſed with u [u] covetous Practices; curſed Children.

15. [x] Which have forſaken the right way, x and are gone aſtray, following the way of Balaam the Son of Boſor, who loved the wages ofunrighteouſneſs: [and to obtain them, counſelled Balak to entice God's People to commit fornication with the Midianites, Numb. 31. 16. Βαλαὰμ τῦ Βόσορ that is, ſaith Grotius, of the City of Boſor, as Pethor his City, Numb. 22. 5. is called.]

16. But was rebuked for his Iniquity: [for] the dumb Aſs ſpeaking with Man's Voice, forbad the madneſs of the [y] Prophet. y

17. Theſe are wells [Gr. fountains] without water, Clouds that are carried with a Tempeſt, [unprofitable for any good, as fountains without water; and pernicious as Tempeſts, which blaſt and root up all before them,] to whom the miſt [Gr. the blackneſs] of darkneſs is reſerved for ever.

18. For when they ſpeak great [z] ſwelling words of Vanity, they allure through z the luſts of the Fleſh, through much wantonneſs, [or to laſciviouſneſs,] thoſe who were clean eſcaped from them that live in Error.

19. Whilſt they promiſe them [aa] liberty, aa they themſelves are the Servants of Corruption; for of whom a Man is overcome, of the ſame is he brought in Bondage.

20. [bb] For if after they have eſcaped the bb Pollutions of the World, through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worſe with them than the beginning:

21. For it had been better for them not to have known the way of Righteouſneſs, than after they have known it, to turn from the holy Commandment delivered unto them; [Becauſe they ſin by Apoſtacy againſt the light received, and with ingratitude to the Author of it.]

22. But it is happened to them according to the true Proverb, [cc] the Dog is cc turned to his own vomit again, and the Sow that was waſhed, to her wallowing in the mire.

Annotations on Chapter II.

a Verſe 1. Ψευδοδιδάσκαλοι, falſe Teachers.] Concerning the Perſons chiefly concerned in this Chapter, and in the parallel Epiſtle of St. Jude, I find three Opinions.

1. That of Dr. Lightfoot, who thinks theſe Chapters ſpeak chiefly of the Jews, i. e. of the falſe Teachers of that Nation. The Second is,

2. That of the Ancients, who ſay expreſly, ἀρχὴ εἰπεῖν ὁ κατὰ τῶν Νικολαϊτῶν ἀιρέσεως, he begins to ſpeak of the Hereſie of the Nicolaitans. So Occumenius. The Third is,

3. That of the Reverend and Learned Dr. Hammond, and of the Ancients alſo; That the Apoſtles ſpeak theſe things touching the Gnoſticks. And this Opinion ſeems not much much to differ from the Second. For the Ancient Fathers say, The (a) Gnosticks sprang from the Nicolaitans, and borrowed from them all their Filthiness, and Lasciviousness. Moreover, the Apostle Peter speaketh plainly of the false Teachers which were to be hereafter, for v. 1, 2, 3. he speaks still in the future Tense, though both St. Jude in his Epistle, and St. Peter in the following words, do plainly intimate that some of them were come already; so that in the Exposition of this Chapter, and the Epistle of St. Jude we have reason to take in those Heretiaks, who appeared after the writing these Epistles.

Nevertheless, because the false Apostles, and false Teachers of the Jewish Nation, and the Nicolaitans were certainly then come, and we have express, and frequent mention of them in the Epistles of St. Paul, and in the Revelations of St. John, and because St. Peter speaks of them in the Plural Number; therefore I shall apply the words to all of them, giving the Preference to them in the Exposition of these words, who are expressly mentioned in the Holy Scriptures.

b Ibid. Ἐν ὑμῖν ἔσονται ψευδοδιδάσκαλοι, there shall be false Teachers among you.] The Apostle writing to the Jews, seems by these words to intimate that these false Teachers should be among the Jewish Converts especially, as being either Jews by Birth, or Proselytes to that Religion, as was Nicolas of Antioch, Acts 6. 5. but then their entring in among the Jewish Converts, Jude 4. and being among them in their Feasts of Charity, v. 12. their leaving the right way, 2 Pet. 2. 15. and their Returning with the Dog to the Vomit, make it probable that they once professed the Christian Faith, though after they revolted from it, or introduced such Doctrines of Perdition, as fundamentally destroy'd the Faith which they professed.

c Ibid. Αἱρέσεις ἀπωλείας, damnable Heresies.] Such as tended to the present Destruction, and future Damnation of them who taught, and who believed them. Thus the Doctrine of the False Apostles among the Jews tended to the perverting of Souls, Acts 15. 24. To make Christ die in vain, Gal. 2. 21. And their Faith to profit them nothing, Gal. 5. 2. And Christ become of none effect unto them, they being by them fallen from Grace, v. 5. and become Enemies to the Cross of Christ, Phil. 3. 18.

The Heresie of the Nicolaitans is stiled by (b) Epiphanius, an Heresie which did ἑαυτὸς καὶ τὸς πειθομένους ἀπολλύειν, destroy them that taught, and them that believed it. Yea, Christ himself declares his hatred of it, Rev. 2. 15. And the same all the Fathers say of the Gnostick Heresie.

Ibid. Τὸν ἀγοράσαντα αὐτὸς δεσπότην ἀρνούμενοι, denying the Lord that bought them.] Christ being never stiled δεσπότης in the New Testament; and St. Jude distinguishing this δεσπότης, or Master, from our Lord, it seems most reasonable to interpret this of God the Father, who is said to have bought the Jews: Is he not thy Father, who hath bought thee? Deut. 22. 5. And the Christians: ye are bought with a price, therefore glorifie God with your Souls and Bodies, which are his, 1 Cor. 6. 20. Hence also it is truly observed by Esthius, That Christ died for them that perish, and bring destruction upon themselves. d

Ibid. Ταχινὴν ἀπώλειαν, shall bring upon themselves swift destruction.] That the Apostatizing Jews did this, the Scripture every where informs us, and the Apostles frequently warn them of it. St. Paul doth it throughout the Epistle to the Hebrews, elsewhere speaking of them as Men whose end is Destruction, Phil. 3. 19. On whom should come swift Destruction, 1 Thess. 5. 3. they being appointed for wrath, v. 9. St. James, as of Men fatned for a day of slaughter, Chap. 5. 5. and that suddenly to come upon them, their Judge standing at the door, v. 9. Christ also threatens to them that held the Doctrine of the Nicolaitans, that he would come against them swiftly, and fight against them with the Sword of his Mouth, Rev. 2. 16. That is, he would destroy them, Rev. 19. 15, 21. Accordingly Church History informs us that they were extinct (c) λόγῳ θάττον, in a very little time. e

But I find nothing of any such remarkable or swift Destruction which befell the Gnosticks in Church History, not one word that any of them perished at the Destruction of Jerusalem by the Roman Army, though doubtless their Iniquities would find them out. We rather read in the Church History, that they were never persecuted by the Heathen Emperors; this being the Observation of the Fathers, that the (d) Simonians, and the Menandrians were never persecuted perſecuted by the Heathens, their fury being only poured out upon the Chriſtians. Nor could it probably be otherwiſe, ſeeing they made the Doctrine of the Croſs no part of their Religion; but held it lawful (e) to deny the Faith in times of Perſecution, to avoid ſuffering for it, and counting Idolatry in ſuch Caſes a thing indifferent, whence ſaith Origen, they were never perſecuted at all.

f Ver. 2. Καὶ πολλοὶ, and many ſhall follow, &c.] That the Judaizers much infeſted the Chriſtian Church, and perverted many in the Church of Corinth, Galatia, Epheſus, and Crete, we learn from St. Paul's Epiſtles; and that by reaſon of the Jewiſh Zealots, who deſpiſed Dominions, and ſpake evil of Dignities, the way of Truth was evil ſpoken of, from 1 Pet. 2. 12. Indeed the Heathens ſeem to have made little or no diſtinction betwixt the Jews, and the Chriſtians that ſprang from them, but imputed all the Diſturbances they made, to Chriſt, or to the Chriſtians. Hence (f) Suetonius ſaith of Claudius, That Judæos impulſore Chreſto aſſiduè tumultuantes Roma expulit, he expel'd the Jews from Rome, as being frequently tumultuous through the Inſtigation of Chriſt. Of the Nicolaitans (g) Epiphanius ſaith, that great was the Deceit which they brought upon Mankind. And (h) Clemens Alexandrinus profeſſeth to write againſt them, and the Gnoſticks, to remove the ſcandal which they by their Doctrines might bring upon Chriſtianity: As (i) Juſtin Martyr alſo hints. Yea, Clement adds, that from theſe Men who taught (k) that Women ſhould be common, aroſe the greateſt Blaſphemy againſt the Name of Chriſt, or Chriſtians.

Moreover, it is to be noted, that inſtead of ἀπωλείαις, many Copies read ἀσελγείαις their laſcivious ways; which reading may be confirmed from St. Jude, who begins his Deſcription of the ſame Perſons thus, They turn the Grace of God, εἰς ἀσέλγειαν, into Laſciviouſneſs; And this Character agrees in ſome meaſure to the falſe Teachers among the Jews, who taught Fornication and Uncleanneſs. See Note on 1 Cor. 6. 13. Eph. 5. 6. practiſed τὰ κρύπτα τῆς αἰσχύνης, the hidden things of ſhame, 2 Cor. 4. 2. And gloried in their ſhame, Phil. 3. 19. And whoſe Exhortation was ἐξ ἀκαθαρσίας, of Uncleanneſs, 1 Theſſ. 2. 3. And many of whoſe followers were guilty of Unclenneſs, Fornication, καὶ ἀσελγείας, and Laſciviouſneſs, 2 Cor. 12. 21. But this is more emphatically the Character of the Nicolaitans, and of the Gnoſticks, the Succeſſors of them, for they were, ſaith Oecumenius, περὶ μὲν δόγματος ἀσεβέστατοι, περὶ δὲ βίον ἀσελγέστατοι, moſt ungodly in their Principles, and moſt laſcivious in their Lives. Refert complexus, & permixtiones execrabiles, obſcœnaſq; conjunctus, & quædam ex ipſis adhuc turpiora, ſaith (l) Tertullian; yea, things ſo exceeding filthy, that we bluſh to mention them, and therefore paſs them by. Πάνδημον Ἀφροδίτης κοινωνίαν μυσικὴν ἀναγορεύσαν, ſaith (m) Clemens of Alexandria. Τῷ ἀιχρερρηγίαν ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις ὑπτελεῖν τὰς ἑαυτῶν μαθητὰς ἐδίδαξεν, ſaith (n) Damaſcen. Hence (o) Pſeud-Ignatius ſtiles them ἀκαθάρτους Νικολαΐτας immundiſſimos Nicolaitas, amatores libidinis. St. Auſtin, Sectam turpiſſimam; for ſaith (p) Timotheus, Οὐδεὶς τῶν ἄλλων αἱρεσιαρχῶν φανεὶς ὅτως αὐτῷ πάσης βδελυκτῆς καὶ μυσερᾶς καὶ ἀῤῥήτε πράξεως διδάσκαλος, amongſt all the Maſters of Hereſie, none taught ſuch filthy, and abominable Actions.

Ver. 3. Ἐν πλεονεξίᾳ, through Covetouſneſs.] If πλεονεξία ſhould here and v. 14. ſignifie Adultery, as 1 Theſſ. 4. 6. it ſeems to do, See Note there; and as Dr. Hammond thinks it doth here, there will be no difficulty in applying this to the Nicolaitans, as well as to the Gnoſticks, and falſe Teachers among the Jews, the Note on the 2d. Verſe ſhewing that this emphatically belonged to them, and gave the riſe to that impure Sect. But becauſe they are accuſed v. 15. of following the way of Balaam who loved the wages of unrighteouſneſs, and by St. Jude v. 11. of running greedily after the Error of Balaam for Reward, I think it better to admit of that ſenſe which our Tranſlation giveth of the word, and then to apply it at once to the falſe Teachers among the Jews, and to the Nicolaitans; It ſeems highly probable from the 6th. the 8th. and the 10th. Chapters of the Firſt Epiſtle of the Corinthians, that the Apoſtle is there diſcourſing againſt the Nicolaitans. Now of theſe falſe Teachers he ſaid that they devoured the Corinthians, 2 Cor. 11. 20. St. Paul in his Second Epiſtle to Timothy, Chap. 3. 6. ſpeaks of a ſort of Men who crept into houſes, leading captive ſilly Women laden with ſins, and led away with divers Lusts; a Character which perfectly agrees to the Nicolaitans: And speaking to Titus of the same Persons, he saith, Chap. 1. 10, 11. They subverted whole houses, teaching things which they ought not for filthy lucre sake. (q) Irenæus informs us of the Valentinians, that they would not impart their Mysteries to all, but to them only who were able to pay great Sums for them. Whence the (r) Pseud-Ignatius stiles them, Covetous of what belongs to others, and violent lovers of Riches.

h Ibid. οἷς τὸ κρῖμα ἔκπαλαι οὐκ ἀργεῖ, whose Judgment now of a long time lingreth not.] St. Jude, in the parallel place, v. 4. saying they were Men οἱ πάλαι προγεγραμμένοι εἰς τοῦτο τὸ κρῖμα, of old assigned to this condemnation, viz. by the Prophesy of Enoch, see the Note there; I think these words may be best rendred thus, To whom the Judgment pronounced of old lingreth not, it being a swift Destruction which the false Teachers among the Jews, and the Nicolaitans brought upon themselves. See Note on v. 1. of this Chapter. Note also, that their Damnation is in the Greek, their Destruction.

Ver. 4. ταρταρώσας, casting them down to hell.] Tartarus, saith Phavorinus, is ἀὴρ ὑπογαῖος καὶ ἀνήλιος, the subterrestrial Air, where the Sun comes not. It signifies also, saith Suidas, τὸν περὶ τὰ νέφη τόπον, the place in the Clouds or in the Air: Hence τάρταρον ἠερόεντα, and ζόφον ἠερόεντα, in Homer, to intimate that Tartarus was the dark Air, as Crates in Stephanus saith. These Angels being therefore placed in the bright Regions of the Heavenly light, and being now confined to the dark Air (whence Satan is called the Prince of the Power of the Air) are said to be cast down into Tartarus. And this suits with the Opinion both of the Heathens and the Jews, who held that the Air was full of Spirits or Dæmons; (see Note on Eph. 2. 2.) but chiefly of the Ancient Fathers, according to those words of Jerom, in his Comment on that Passage of St. Paul, against Spiritual wickedness, ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις, in Cœlestibus, that is, saith he, in the Air; (s) For this is the Opinion of all the Doctors, that the Air, which divides between the Earth and Heaven, is full of contrary Powers. He is stiled, the Prince of the Power of the Air, saith (t) Oecumenius, because he is the Prince of the evil Spirits that are in the Air, not as having Dominion, saith Theophylact, but only his Habitation there. That this was the Opinion of most of the Ancients, see Petavius de Angelis l. 3. c. 4. Now hence it follows that though the Devil and his Angels are at present for ever banished from the Divine Presence, and so do suffer the Punishment of loss now of the Beatifick Vision; though they are in the Language of Tertullian, Prædamnati ad Judicii diem, condemned before hand to the Tremendous Day; Prædestinati supplicio sempiterno, fore-ordained to eternal Punishment, saith St. Austin; Reservati in diem Judicii, reserved to the Day of Judgment, saith Origen, and St. Peter here; or kept in Chains of Darkness to that Day, saith St. Jude, and knowing, and believing this, they cannot chuse but tremble, and be filled with present Horror; yet is the Doctrine of (u) Rupertus highly probable, That at present they are not suffering in the infernal flames, but have their Residence in the dark Air, whence at the Day of Judgment they shall be precipitated into the Fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels.

1. Because this seems to have been the Opinion of all Antiquity, for five whole Centuries together, as appears, not only from their common Doctrine mentioned before, that they at present had their Habitation in the Air, but also from their express words who spake still in the future of their infernal Punishments, saying as (x) Justin M. That they shall be punished with eternal Fire, and that the pressures they now suffer for the Name of Jesus, is an indication of their future Punishment in everlasting Fire. This he confesseth, μηδέπω τοῦτο πεφάξαι τὸν Θεὸν, that God hath not yet done, but yet he saith, (y) Christ hath foretold, told, that he and his Angels ſhall be caſt into the Fire, and everlaſtingly tormented there. And (z) Tatianus ſaith of them, The Lord of all things ſuffers them to expatiate or inſult till the time of the Diſſolution of the World, and till the Judge comes. (a) Tertullian ſaith, that their deſperate condition in the account of their being condemned before, receives ſome comfort from the delay of their Puniſhment. (b) Minucius Felix ſaith, that he foreknowing, trembles at the Puniſhment appointed for him, and thoſe that worſhip him. (c) Lactantius, that at the time of Judgment this Prince with his Miniſters will be laid hold on, and condemned to Puniſhment.

2dly. This muſt be the Doctrine of thoſe Fathers who held that the Devil knew not that he ſhould be certainly condemned till our Lord's Advent, and therefore durſt not before blaſpheme God; which was the Doctrine of (d) Juſtin. M. (e) Irenæus, Euſebius and (f) Epiphanius; or as (g) Oecumenius interprets them, He did not know it manifeſtly, as being only obſcurely hinted by the Prophets, but when Chriſt coming declared manifeſtly that everlaſting Fire was prepared for him and his Angels, he ceaſed not to practiſe his wiles againſt his Saints. And this Doctrine they founded on the following Scriptures, viz.

1. That Queſtion which theſe Devils put to Chriſt, Art thou come to torment us before the time? Concluding hence, that not this preſent Age, but the future, was the time when theſe evil Spirits were to be puniſhed, as (h) Origen ſaith twice. They thought, ſaith St. Jerom, ad judicandos ſe veniſſe, that Chriſt was come to judge them: ſaith Chryſoſtom, ἐκ ἀναμένειν τὸν καιρὸν τ῀ κολάσεως, that he would not ſtay till the time of Puniſhment, i.e. the Day of Judgment. Hence Maldonate, upon the place, admires at the great conſent of the Ancients in this Opinion.

This 2dly. They gathered from thoſe words of Chriſt, Depart ye wicked into the Fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels. Whence they concluded with (i) St. Bernard, that the Sentence againſt them was determined, but was not yet paſt upon them, and that, Jam diabolo ignis paratus, etſi nondum ille præcipitatus in ignem, The Fire was indeed prepared for the Devil, but he was not yet caſt into it; concluding that was only to be done (k) at the end of the World, or at the Day of the great Judgment, or in the World to come.

But, 3dly. This they chiefly concluded from theſe words of (l) St. Peter and St. Jude, that they were reſerved unto the Day of Judgment to be puniſhed. Nor is it eaſie to conceive a more natural Conſequence than this; They are reſerved unto the Day of Judgment to be puniſhed, therefore they are not yet puniſhed with the Fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels.

And laſtly, This they gathered from the Revelations of St. John, who often ſaith, (m) that the Old Serpent the Devil ſhall be caſt into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone at the Day of Judgment: To which the frequent ſayings of St. Auſtin do refer.

Since then to torment the Devils at our Saviour's Advent, was to torment them before the time of Torment; ſeeing our Saviour when he ſhall paſs the final Sentence, will only amand the Wicked to the Fire, pre- pared for, not actually tormenting then, the Devil and his Angels; seeing they only are reserved in Chains of Darkness to the Day of Judgment to be punished, and so the Sentence, and the Execution of it is no more passed upon them than upon the Prisoner that's kept in Chains for the Assizes; seeing the Devil is only said to be then (n) cast into the Lake of Fire and Brimstone, when the Judge sat upon the Throne, and all Men were Judged according to their Works; there seems sufficient reason to assert that even the Devils shall not be tormented in the infernal Flames until the Day of Judgment; And if not they, then much less wicked Men.

k Ver. 5. Οὐκ ἐφείσατο, and spared not the Old World. This Instance agrees very exactly to those Nicolaitans and Gnosticks who had corrupted their ways, as they of the Old World did, by taking to them what Women they pleased to enjoy, as far as appears, without any Solemnity of Matrimony, Gen. 6. 2, 4. for it is only said, that the Sons of God went in unto the Daughters of Men; hence are these Giants said to be, οἱ ἐκπίπτοντες εἰ βίαιοι, violent Men, who by force invaded them: And also by Idolatry. See Ainsworth on Gen. 4. 26.

l Ibid. Ὄγδοον, the eighth Person.] One would think from Adam, whereas indeed he rather was the tenth from Adam, Gen. 5. and so it is the eighth of them that were saved from the Deluge, 1 Pet. 3. 8. So Plutarch saith of Pelopidas, that he came εἰς οἰκίαν δεδεκαλῳ, unto his House with eleven more; and Polybius of Dionesidorus, that τρίτῳ ἀπενήξατο, he swam out with two more; so here Noah was saved with seven Persons; so celebrated in History that the Hill where the Ark rested, is called the Hill of the Eighth, or Themanim; and a Village by it bears the same Name. See Dr. Hammond on the place.

m Ver. 9. Οἶδε, the Lord knoweth.] God's knowledge here includes his Power and his Will. So Psalm 1. Whatsoever the Righteous doth, it shall prosper, for the Lord knoweth the way of the Righteous, v. 6. i. e. he is able and willing to make it prosper Matth. 6. 31. Take no thought what you shall eat or drink, or wherewithal ye shall be cloathed, for your heavenly Father knoweth you have need of all these things, v. 32.

n Ibid. Εἰς ἡμέραν κρίσεως, to the day of Judgment to be punished.] Note that this is signally the time when the ungodly shall be punished; (2dly.) That the evils which wicked Men suffer in this Life, will not exempt them from future Punishments in the World to come; even Sodom, and Gomorah must then suffer, Matth. 10. 15. 11. 22.

Ver. 10. Ὀπίσω σαρκὸς, who walk after the Flesh.] See Note on v. 2. o

Ibid. Καὶ κυριότητῳ καταφρονοῦντας, and despise Governments.] The Note of Estbius on the place is this, that we read not in Church History that the Gnosticks despised Governments, but rather flatter'd them. What Dr. Hammond saith of their teaching Christians to despise all Authority of Magistrates, or Masters, is not proved by him, for he attempts not to prove that they were κυριότητῳ καταφρονοῦντες, despisers of Government; and his attempt to prove that they taught Christian Servants to despise their Masters, from 1 Tim. 6. 2. hath been considered already. Nor do I find any thing of this nature charged upon the Nicolaitans. But then it may be noted, that κυριότητες ἢ δόξαι, Dominions and Glories in the New Testament, doth often signifie the Angelical Powers; as when Christ is said to be exalted, ὑπεράνω πάσης κυριότητῳ, above all Dominion, Ephes. 1. 21. and when κυριότητες are mentioned among the invisible things of the Creation, Colos. 1. 16. Accordingly some of the (o) Fathers refer this to the Angelical Powers; and this they do with great probability: For, (1.) The Apostle Peter here asserts, that they blasphem'd, ἐν οἷς ἀγνοοῦσι, in things of which they had no knowledge: St. Jude, that they blaspheme things that they knew not: which very well agrees with their bold Assertions touching the Angels; in which they did, as St. Paul saith, ἃ μὴ ἑώρακαν ἐμβατεύειν, intrude into those things they had not seen, Colos. 2. 18. but cannot so well be applied to Civil Dignities, of which these Hereticks must have sufficient knowledge. (2.) The Apostle adds, that whereas these Men did not tremble to blaspheme these Dignities, the Holy Angels, ἃ φέρουσι καθ' αὐτῶν ἐλάσφημον κρίσιν, durst not use railing, or blasphemous words against them. Now they whom Michael and his good Angels durst not blaspheme, were, saith St. Jude, the Devil and his Angels, who were in Scripture stiled the Principalities, and Powers, and Rulers of the darkness of this World, Eph. 6. 12. And therefore they whom these Hereticks blasphemed, must also be Angelical Dignities.

But against this it is objected, that we read not in Church History that the Heresie of the Gnosticks had any thing in it of particular Opposition or Defiance to the Angels, but on the contrary the Æones noting the Angels make up a great part of their Divinity. Answ. This seems a great mistake, ſtake for both (p) Irenæus and (q) Epiphanius aver, that when they practiſed their moſt vile impurities, they invoked ſome of the Angels, to whom they did aſcribe that work, ſaying, when they performed it, ὁ δεῖνα Ἄγγελε, καταχρῶμαί σε τῷ ἔργῳ, ἢ δεῖνα ἐξουσία, περίττω σε τῇ περιξίν, O Angel I am doing thy work, I am employ'd in thy Service; which ſure muſt be to blaſpheme theſe Dignities.

Moreover it is evident that the Nicolaitans did alſo horribly blaſpheme them. For, (1.) They made the Angels to be the Off-ſpring of an obſcene and filthy Æon, as both (r) Tertullian and (ſ) Epiphanius inform us. (2.) They add, that the (t) Mother appears in a beautiful form to Princes, and extracts their Seed from them, with Pleaſure, that ſhe may recollect her Power, or Vertue, diſpers'd among many: And from this Hypotheſis, ſaith (u) Epiphanius, Nicholas brought the Myſtery of his filthineſs into the World: They doing all their Villanies, I ſuppoſe, in imitation of her.

q Ver. 12. This Verſe in St. Jude, runs thus, But theſe ſpeak evil of the things they know not, but what they know naturally as brute Beaſts, in theſe things they corrupt themſelves, v. 10. And therefore to make this Verſe parallel to it, it ſeems neceſſary to make the Conſtruction run thus, ὅτοι δὲ, but theſe Blaſphemers of Dignities, ἐν οἷς ἀγνοοῦσι βλασφημοῦντες, blaſpheming in things of which they have no knowledge, ſhall periſh in their own Corruption; as do the natural brute Beaſts, made to be taken, and deſtroy'd; to whom they are, in this Practice of making all Women common, like, and whoſe example they plead in favour of their common Whoredoms (x): eſpecially the followers of (y) Carpocrates and his Son Epiphanes, making the Marriage of one a violation of the Community ordained by God, and exemplified in other living Creatures.

r Ver. 13. Τὴν ἐν ἡμέρᾳ τρυφήν, riot in the Day.] This is exactly true of the Nicolaitans, (z) who practiſed their Impurities Day and Night; and held, that if a Man were not laſcivious every Day, he could not be ſaved.

f Ibid. Sporting themſelves in their own Deceits.] i. e. In thoſe Practices which were the effects of their deceitful Principles. So that there ſeems no need of reading ἀγαπαῖς, their Love Feaſts; for they were the Feaſts of the Church, not of the Hereticks.

t Ibid. Συνευωχούμενοι, when they feaſt with you.] Of theſe Feaſts ſee Note on Jude 12. And alſo Irenæus's ſaying of Marcus, and other Hereticks, That εἰώθασιν ὅτι τοῖς θείοις τῶν κλήρων ὅτοι πάντοτε παίζειν, they are always accuſtomed in thoſe Suppers which they make by Lot to play; or as the Latin hath it, Sortibus ludere, to play by Lot; I ſuppoſe what Women they ſhould commit Lewdneſs with, or who ſhould provide the Supper, which being ended, there followed, as (a) Juſtin Mart. hints, the putting out of the Candle, and their promiſcuous Luſts: He ſpeaking thus of the Marcionites; and (b) Clemens Alexandrinus of the Carpocratians.

Iſrael to Idolatry and Fornication; this is hinted in thoſe words, Come therefore I will advertiſe thee, Num. 24. 14. i. e. what to do to this People now, and what they will do to thee in the latter days; ſo the Chaldee Paraphraſt upon the place; I will counſel thee what thou ſhalt do to this People, that thou mayſt make them to ſin; ſo the Jeruſalem Targum. This Counſel, ſaith Joſephus, was that Balaam told Balak upon his departure, that the only way to prevail upon this People, would be to draw them into ſin; and to that purpoſe he counſel'd him to tempt them with their beautiful Women. Theſe were firſt to entice the Iſraelites with their Beauty, and compliant Converſation, and when they had entangled their Affections, they were to conſent to their Embraces, upon condition that the Iſraelites would forſake their own Law, and worſhip the God of the Moabites, Joſeph. Antiq. l. 4. c. 6. Note, 3dly. That this Counſel made them err in the matter of Peor; and ſo not only to commit Fornication with the Women of Midian, Cor. 10. 8. but alſo to commit Idolatry. Now this Baal-Peor, ſaith St. Jerom, and other Criticks, was Priapus, who was worſhipped by ſhewing of their ſhame; to which theſe words of the Prophet Hoſea may refer, They ſet up Altars to Baal Phegor, and ſeparated themſelves to that ſhame, Chap 9. 10. And thoſe of Jeremiah, you have ſet up Altars to ſhame, even Altars to burn Incenſe to Baal, Jer. 11. 13. And then, as the ἐξεχύθησαν, they were diſperſed, or ran about after the Midianitiſh Women, anſwers to the Practice of thoſe Men who crept into houſes, leading captive ſilly Women; ſo the matter of Baal Peor, anſwers exactly to the execrable Villanies theſe Men committed cum Membris Pudoris.

Moreover, this Paſſage ſeems to confirm that Expoſition, which refers what is here ſpoken, to the Nicolaitans. For St. John ſpeaks thus to the Church of Pergamus, I have a few things againſt thee, becauſe thou haſt there them that hold the Doctrine of Balaam; who as he taught Balak to caſt a Stumbling-block before the Children of Iſrael, to eat things ſacrificed to Idols, and to commit Fornication; ſo haſt thou alſo them that hold the Doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which I hate. Now the Church Hiſtory informs us this was the Doctrine of the Nicolaitans, that (c) it was lawful to eat things offered to Idols, and to commit Fornication, as Irenæus, St. Auſtin, and others teach.

Ver. 16. The Prophet.] That Balaam was y indeed a Prophet of God, and well acquainted with his Revelations, the Hiſtory in the Book of Numbers will not ſuffer us to doubt; for thoſe words, I cannot go beyond the Commandment of my God, to do good or evil, Num. 22. 18. ſhew he was not unacquainted with the true God. See alſo Ch. 24. 4. Though after, through a covetous deſire of Gain, he uſed Enchantments; the madneſs of the Prophet appeared in this, that hearing the Aſs ſpeak, which argued the miraculous Aſſiſtance of God enabling him ſo to do, he goes on in his mad Fury, and ſaith he would kill him.

Ver. 18. Ὑπέρογκα, ſwelling words of z Vanity.] This did the Hereticks many ways, v. 9. by their barbarous Names, quibus terreant Auditores, by which they affrighted the Hearers, ſay (d) St. Auſtin, and (e) Epiphanius, and impoſed upon them by thoſe vile words, or by thoſe proud words, that they are the Spiritual, the Perfect, the Seed of Election, Men who have perfect knowledge of God. See Note on Jude 19. that they have Grace, ἀπὸ τ ἀῤῥήτε καὶ ἀνονομάστε συζυγίας, from the ineffable and not to be named Conjugation, and (f) therefore ought to be always meditating the Myſtery of Conjugation, and that (g) he that being in the World does not love a Woman ſo as to enjoy her, is not of the Truth, and that except a Man be laſcivious every day, he cannot enjoy eternal Life. And that they being (h) Spiritual, cannot receive Corruption by any evil Actions they do, or be hurt by any material Actions, ſo as to loſe their Spiritual Subſtance; in oppoſition to which vain boaſts theſe Apoſtles ſo expreſly ſay, They ſhall periſh in their Corruption.

Ver. 19. Ἐλευθερίαν, they promiſe them aa Liberty.] They promiſed them a double Liberty. (1ſt.) A Liberty to do any thing they pleaſed without fear. (2.) A Liberty from the Eye and Hand of their Judge; as we learn from the ὑπέρογκα, ſwelling words of Vanity, cited by (i) Irenæus from them which are a full Comment on v. 18.

bb Ver. 20. From v. 18, 20, 21. it seemeth to be strongly argued, That they who were once truly faithful, may totally and finally fall away. For, 1st. That the Persons here mentioned were once truly faithful, seems evident from this, 1st. That they had once ὄντως, truly, and entirely escaped from them that live in Error, v. 18. Being not then entangled with, not overcome by the Pollutions which are in the World, through Lust; but having escaped them through the knowledge of Christ Jesus: That they turned from the holy Commandment in which they formerly had walked: That they were once washed from that mire to which they returned, v. 22. All which cannot be truly said of Hypocritical Professors, who were still in the Gall of Bitterness, and the Bond of Iniquity.

That these Men after fell away totally, and finally, we learn from these Expressions, That they were again allured to Wantonness, that they were again entangled, and overcome by the Pollutions which were in the World through Lust, and therefore brought in Bondage; that they turned from the holy Commandment delivered to them; yea, with the Dog to the Vomit, and the wash'd Sow to the wallowing in the Mire: And this so far, as that it had been better for them not to have known the way of Righteousness.

Ver. 22. Κύων ἐπιστρέψας, the dog is turned to his Vomit, &c.] These two Proverbs, of which the first is taken from Prov. 26. 11. and the second is common among the Writers de Re rustica (See Schotti adag. sacra in locum), are very expressive of the folly of those Men, who return to those Vices they had formerly renounced, and therefore the Fathers apply them to Julian returning to that Heathenism he had renounced in his Baptism. So Nazianzen. Orat. Stell. 1. cc

CHAP. III.

Verse 1. THis second Epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in [both] which I stir up your [a] pure minds, a by way of Remembrance.

2. [b] That ye may be mindful of the words b which were spoken before by the holy Prophets, [of the Old Testament, Enoch, (Jude 14.) and Daniel Chap. 12. 2. touching the Judgment of ungodly Men,] and of the Commandment of us the Apostles of our Lord and Saviour, [or of the Commandment of the Apostles of our Lord and Saviour, as St. Jude v. 17. that is, to expect patiently, and with unshaken Faith that day, Heb. 10. 23. 35. 39. Jam. 1. 6. 5. 7, 11. 1 Pet. 1. 13. 4. 1.]

3. Knowing this first, that [according to their Predictions] there shall come in the last c days [c] Scoffers, walking after their own Lusts.

4. And saying, Where is the Promise of his coming [to judge the World, and raise his d faithful Servants from the dead]? for [d] since the Fathers [to whom these Promises were made] fell asleep, all things continue as [they were] from the beginning of the Creation.

5. For this they willingly are [e] ignorant e of, [Gr. they that are of this mind are ignorant,] that by the word of God the Heavens were of old, and the Earth standing out of the Water, [viz. dry land] and in the Water, [viz. that part of it which is covered with the Sea.]

6. Whereby the World that then was, being overflowed with water, perished.

7. But the Heavens and Earth which now are, by the same word are kept in store, [being] reserved unto fire, against [f] the f day of Judgment, and Perdition of ungodly Men, [who, as the Antediluvians have been punished by Water destroying the World then, shall be punished with Fire destroying it again.]

8. But, [for farther answer to this Question,] beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a [g] thousand years, and a thousand years as g one day.

9. The Lord is not slack concerning his Promise, as some Men count slackness, [concluding thence that he hath changed his Purpose, or will not perform it,] but is [in this] long-suffering to us ward, [h] not [being] willing h that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.

10. But [though it be thus deferred for a time, yet] the Day of the Lord will come, as a Thief in the Night, [i. e. suddenly, and unexpectedly to them, Luke 21. 34. 1 Thess. 5. 2, 3.] in the which the Heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the Elements shall melt with fervent heat, the Earth also and the works that are therein shall be burnt up.

11. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, [by Fire designed to punish the ungodly,] what manner of Persons ought ye to be in all holy Conversation and Godliness?

12. Looking for, and hasting to [prepare for,] the coming of the day of God, wherein

in the Heavens being on fire ſhall be diſi ſolved, and the [i] Elements ſhall melt with fervent heat.

13. Nevertheleſs according to his Promiſe we look for [καινὸς ὴ ϑερανὸς προσδεχόμεν, we alſo do expect] [k] new Heavens, k l and a new Earth [l] in which dwelleth Righteouſneſs.

m 14. Wherefore, beloved, ſeeing that [m] ye look for ſuch things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without ſpot, and blameleſs.

15. And account that the long-ſuffering of our Lord is [deſigned for the] Salvation [of you Jews;] even as our beloved Brother Paul alſo according to the [Spirit of] Wiſdom given unto him, hath written unto you, [in theſe words, Rom. 2. 4. Deſpiſeſt thou the Riches of his Goodneſs and long ſuffering, not knowing that the Goodneſs of God leadeth thee to Repentance? And more eſpecially in theſe, and ſo all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, &c. Rom. 11. 26. For God hath concluded them all in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all, v. 32. See the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Hebrews.]

16. [n] As alſo in all his Epiſtles, ſpeaking n in them of theſe things: [o] in which are o ſome things hard to be underſtood, which they that are unlearned, and unſtable, wreſt, as they do alſo the other Scriptures, to their own Deſtruction.

17. Ye therefore, beloved, ſeeing ye know theſe things before, beware leſt ye alſo being led away with the Error of the [ſe] wicked [Scoffers,] fall from your own ſtedfaſtneſs.

18. But [rather] [p] grow in Grace, and in p the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt: to him be glory, both now and for ever. Amen.

Annotations on Chapter III.

a Verſe. 1. Τὼ εἰλικρινῆ διάνοιαν ὑμῶν, your ſincere minds.] A ſincere deſire to know, and regard to the Truth, being once ſeated in the Mind and Heart, we ſhall readily embrace, and firmly ſtand in the Truth delivered to us.

b V. 2. That theſe words ſhould relate to that notable Deſtruction of the unbelieving Jews foretold by Chriſt, ſeems not very probable; ſince the Believers are inſtructed to be mindful of theſe Commands, that they might be armed againſt the Scoffers, mentioned v. 3. who ſaid, Where is the promiſe of his coming? Now that the thing queſtioned by them was not our Lord's coming to the Deſtruction of the Jews, but to the Judgment of the World, is evident, it being ſtiled emphatically, ἡμέρα κρίσεως, the day of Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men, v. 7. 10, 11, 12.

c Ver. 3. Since both St. Peter and as St. Jude tells us, the reſt of the Apoſtles were ſo careful to mind thoſe to whom they writ, or preached, of theſe Scoffers, we may conjecture that theſe Scoffers were then come; though in reſpect of the Prophecies concerning them, they were yet to come, whence Jude ſaith of them, Theſe are they that ſeparate themſelves, &c. v. 8, 9.

Ibid. Ἐμπαῖκται, Scoffers.] St. Jude ſeems to teach us, that theſe Scoffers were the Hereticks mentioned in the former Chapter, viz. the Simonians, who being Samaritans, held ſtill their (a) old Hereſie, that there ſhould be no Reſurrection of the Fleſh; and therefore walked after their own Luſts. For theſe of whom, ſaith He, I have treated and am ſpeaking, are they of whom the Apoſtles did forewarn you, ver. 17, 18.

Ver. 4. Ἀφ' ἧς, viz. ἡμέρας.] For from the d
Day, that the Fathers, to whom this Promiſe of a Reſurrection, and an Heavenly Country, Heb. 11. 16. is ſuppoſed to be made, and who foretold this Judgment to come upon the wicked, Jude 14. have ſlept, we ſee no ſuch thing verified to them; nothing anſwering their Predictions, but all things continue as they were. That ἀφ' ἧς ſhould ſignifie, except that, I find no Inſtance or Example.

Ver. 5. Λανθάνει γὰρ αὐτές.] That is, e
They conſider not God's Power in making the World, which muſt enable him alſo to deſtroy it, if he pleaſe; and that by his Word the Earth was ſeparated from the Waters which covered it, and gathered into its Channels, ſo that the dry Land, which we call Earth, appeared; and that by theſe very Waters, deſcending partly from the Heavens, and partly from the great Deep, Gen. 7. 11. the Earth was again overwhelmed for the ſin of the Antediluvians (eight Perſons being only preſerved) ſo that thoſe wicked Men which then lived, periſhed in their Wickedneſs; and ſo the Prophecy of Enoch was remarkably fulfill'd upon them.

f Ver. 7. Εἰς ἡμέραν κρίσεως, to the day of Judgment.] From theſe words it ſeems to follow, (1ſt.) That the day of Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men, and the Conflagration of the World, muſt be contemporary; and that therefore New Heavens and New Earth, in the literal ſenſe, muſt vainly be expected before the final Judgment of ungodly Men. (2dly.) That the ungodly are not to be judged, or puniſhed by Fire, before the Conflagration of the World: for the Heaven and Earth that now are, are to be burnt up with that very Fire by which the ungodly are to be deſtroyed, they being left in the midſt of thoſe Flames, whilſt the godly, being ſnatcht up into the Air above the reach of them, ſhall be for ever with the Lord, 1 Theſſ. 4. 16. For the wicked are reſerved unto the day of Judgment to be puniſhed, 2 Pet. 2. 9. That Fire in which they are to be tormented and deſtroyed is reſerved unto the ſame day, Matth. 25. 41, 46. The fallen Angels, for whom the Fire is prepared, in which the wicked ſhall be puniſhed, are reſerved to that day, 2 Pet. 2. 4. Jude 6. And, laſtly, Sodom and Gomorrah, who periſhed by Fire and Brimſtone, are ſet forth ὡς δεῖγμα, as an Example of that Puniſhment the wicked ſhall ſuffer at that great day of Retribution, 2 Pet. 2. 5. Jude 7. they are not therefore to be caſt into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone before that day.

g Ver. 8. Χίλια ἔτη, a thouſand years.] That is, though God defer his coming to this Judgment a thouſand years or more, we muſt not think this long, for in reſpect of him whoſe duration is eternal, and ſo who ever lives to make good his Promiſes and Threats, a thouſand years is as one day. In like manner (b) Zoſimus in his Hiſtory produces a Prediction from the Sibyls, or from one Phaellon, and then adds, Let none think that this Prophecy was of ſome other thing, becauſe it was fulfilled, μετὰ χρόνες, καὶ ὀλίγες, a long time after, πᾶς γὰρ χρόνος τῷ θεῷ ἕρα γὰς ἀεί τι ὄντι, καὶ ἑστηκότι, for all time is ſhort to that God who ever is, and ever will be. Mr. Mede indeed ſaith, that theſe words cannot be thus interpreted, becauſe the Queſtion is not whether the time in which they expected the coming of the Lord, were long in reſpect of God, but only in reſpect of us, and ſo he would have the words interpreted thus, The day of Judgment ſpoken of ſhall be a thouſand years. But (1.) The Text ſaith not one day ſhall be a thouſand years, but is as a thouſand years, and that again not abſolutely, but only παρὰ κυρίῳ, with reſpect to God. (2dly.) Here is no Queſtion mentioned touching the length of time, either with reſpect to God, or us, but only touching the Truth of God's Promiſe, v. 4. And to this the Interpretation well agrees, that God's Promiſe may be true, and in his time fulfilled, though he who ever lives to make it good, ſhould defer it a thouſand years. And (3.) That this reſpects God's Promiſe, and not the length of the day of Judgment, is evident from the enſuing words.

h Ver. 9. Μὴ βουλόμενός τινας ἀπολέσθαι, not being willing that any ſhould periſh.] Note here, that when it is ſaid, God would have all Men come to Repentance, 'tis certain that this Will refers to all to whom the preaching of the Goſpel is vouchſafed, to all whom in the times of ignorance God winked at, for now he commandeth them all every where to repent, Acts 17. 30. when therefore it is ſaid, he is not willing any one ſhould periſh. he muſt be ſuppoſed to mean, he would have none to whom the Goſpel is vouchſafed, to periſh. Vain therefore here are the Deſcants of Eſthius upon this place, as V. G.

1ſt. When he ſays, God would have none to periſh, becauſe he gives to all ſome general means of Converſion to God, though they be not ſufficient for that end without thoſe ſpecial Aids he will not give them. For certain it is, that he who wills not the means neceſſary to bring them to Repentance, wills not that they ſhould come to Repentance. And he that determines to withhold the means, which being with-held, they muſt periſh, wills they ſhould periſh.

2dly. When he reſtrains this to the Elect, ſaying, God is not willing any of them ſhould periſh, For the words are too general to admit of this Reſtriction, for they run thus, 1ſt. He would have all to come to Repentance; he would not that any ſhould periſh. 2dly. He is here ſpeaking of the day of Judgment, and Perdition of ungodly Men, and gives this Reaſon why it is deferred, viz. becauſe God is long-ſuffering, and would not any Man ſhould periſh. He therefore muſt in Reaſon be ſuppoſed to ſpeak of God's long ſuffering in the general.

3dly. When he adds, He would not any Man ſhould periſh, becauſe he excites good Men to pray they may repent, and ſo not periſh. For if this Prayer be according to the Will of God, then muſt it alſo be his Will they ſhould not periſh; If it be not, they cannot thus pray in Faith, or with expectance to be heard, becauſe they know, according to his Doctrine, they do not pray according to his Will: Nor can God excite them thus to pray.

i Ver. 12. Στοιχεῖα ὑ καυσόμενα, and the Elements being burnt, shall be dissolved.] That the Elements cannot be here taken in the common sense Mr. Mede proves well, because one of them is that Fire which shall consume these Elements, but that they signifie the Planets he proves from the Testimonies of (c) Justin Martyr, (d) Theophilus of Antioch, of (e) Polycrates, and other Ancient Fathers. So ἐνέργεια στοιχείων, is the Influence of the Stars, Wisd. 7. 18. and στοιχεῖα ἐπουρανια, the Cœlestial Signs or Constellations, as Valesius proves, (in his Notes upon these words of (f) Polycrates Bishop of Ephesus; κατὰ τὴν Ἀσίαν μεγάλην στοιχεῖα κεκοίμηται, in Asia great Lights are extinct,) out of Diogenes Laertius, and Epiphanius; and since the Planetary Bodies are found to be as much Earth as that we tread on, and borrow all their Light from the Irradiations of the Sun, I think there is no need of those Criticisms which turn παρελεύσονται, they shall pass away, into, they shall be changed, and καυσόμενα λυθήσονται, they shall be dissolved being burnt, into, they shall be refined; whereas if they be refined as Silver is by Fire, they must be dissolved as that is. Nor see I any reason why we should prefer either an unusual, or Metaphorical, before the proper import of these words.

k Ver. 13. Καινὸς οὐρανὸς, new Heavens and new Earth.] That this cannot refer to the Millennium supposed to be promised in the Revelations of St. John, appears, not only because this Epistle was writ before the Revelations, which, saith (g) Irenæus, were seen ad finem Domitiani Imperii, about the end of the Reign of Domitian, whereas St. Peter suffered Martyrdom in the Reign of Nero: but also (1st.) Because the Millennium of St. John is peculiar to the Martyrs, and those who have suffered for the Cause of Christ; the New Heavens and Earth here mentioned, are the common Expectation of all Christians, who upon this account are admonished to be found of him without spot, and unblamable in Peace, v. 14. (2dly.) I grant that the Apostle is here speaking of the Destruction not only of the Sublunary Heavens and Earth, but also of the Planetary Heavens, v. 12. by Fire: But this Concession is so far from doing any service to the Hypothesis of the Millennium of St. John, that it doth perfectly destroy it; for this Conflagration of the World is Contemporary with the Day of Judgment and Perdition of ungodly Men: and by that very Fire which consumes the World, are they to perish. See Note on v. 7. So doth the Scripture constantly express the Punishment of the wicked, saying, That at the end of the World the Angels shall cast them into a Furnace of Fire, Matth. 13. 28. And that Christ shall come in flaming Fire to take vengeance on them, 2 Thess. 1. 7, 8. Whereas the Millennium of St. John must be at an end before that day, for after he had spoken of the First Resurrection, and the Conclusion of the Thousand Years, in which they were to reign who were then raised, and of the Insurrection of Gog and Magog against them, I say, after the Conclusion of those Years, doth he introduce one sitting on a great white Throne, and the dead both small and great standing before him, and being judged out of those things which were written in the Books, according to their Works, Rev. 20. 13, 14.

I also grant, that after the Apostle had spoken of the Conflagration of the World, he hath these words, We also do expect New Heavens and New Earth; but then I add, that these words are not to be rendred thus, Nevertheless after this violent Dissolution of the World, we expect new Heavens and new Earth, which are to succeed them: But rather, as Dr. More renders them, But before this Conflagration we expect them; or rather, but besides this Conflagration, we expect New Heavens and New Earth. As if the Apostles should have said, I hitherto have answered this Question of these Scoffers, by shewing what substantial Mutations have been, and will be wrought upon the World by the Word of the Lord, and his coming to Judge his People: This also I think fit to add in answer to them, That we Christians expect the coming of our Lord to make such a Moral Change in the Affairs of the Church, as will amount to the new Creation of Heaven and Earth, promised to the Jews, Isa. 65. 16, 17, 18. So that these Scoffers have no cause to doubt of our Lord's coming in behalf of his faithful Servants, since he will come to raise his Church by his calling the Jewish Nation to the Faith, and so to such a glorious State.

Nor is it to be wondred that the Apostle should speak of these two things together in answer to that Question, Where is the Promise of his coming? Seeing the Jews thought them connected, expecting these New Heavens and new Earth at the coming of the Messiah, and his coming at the end of the World, according to that Question of the l Ibid. Κατὰ τὸ ἐπάγγελμα αὐτοῦ, according to his Promiſe.] This cannot relate, as I have proved, to St. John's Diſcourſe of theſe New Heavens, &c. for this farther Reaſon, That he ſpeaks of them only as in Viſion, not by way of Promiſe; it remains therefore, that the New Heaven and New Earth promiſed by Iſaiah, be the thing here referr'd to. Now theſe New Heavens and New Earth are manifeſtly promiſed to the Jewiſh Nation, to whom alſo the Apoſtle here writes; nor can they poſſibly admit of any other ſenſe, or be primarily accompliſhed upon any other People, for God having ſaid by his Prophet, behold I create New Heavens and a New Earth, immediately adds, Be ye (Jews) glad, and rejoyce for ever in what I do create; for behold I create Jeruſalem, a Rejoycing, and her People, a Joy; and I will rejoice in Jeruſalem, and joy in my People. Now ſure this New Heaven and Earth promiſed to the Jews, muſt be created before the Conflagration of the World; that is, before the Jews be burnt to Aſhes, they being not like to be converted afterward. St. John indeed ſpeaks of his New Heaven and Earth, after he had mentioned the day of Judgment; but that he doth this by a Prolepſis, is evident from this Conſideration, that after his whole Diſcourſe of theſe New Heavens and Earth, the New Jeruſalem coming down from Heaven, and of the Bride, and the Lamb's Wife, i. e. the Jews converted then to Chriſt, follow theſe words, Behold I come quickly, and my Reward is with me, to render to every one according to his Works, Chap. 22. 13. which words contain a Repetition of what was ſaid Chap. 20. 13. to ſhew, that what was mentioned there, was not to be accompliſhed till after the appearance of the New Heavens and the New Earth.

m Ver. 14. Ταῦτα προσδοκῶντες, expecting theſe things. Theſe words directed to the Jews then living, ſeem to prove, that in ſome inferior ſenſe this Promiſe of the New Heavens, &c. was to be made good in their times. For why ſhould he exhort them to this diligence on the Account of what ſhould only happen One thouſand ſeven hundred Years after they were dead? For he plainly ſpeaks to them to whom St. Paul had written, v. 16. and therefore to the Jews of that preſent Age.

n Ver. 16. Ὡς καὶ ἐν πάσαις ταῖς ἐπιστολαῖς, as alſo in all his Epiſtles.] I do not think it neceſſary ſo to underſtand theſe words, as if the Apoſtle were ſaid to have ſpoken in all his Epiſtles, That the long-ſuffering of God was deſigned for their Salvation; for I do not find any thing of that nature in many of them: He ſpeaks indeed generally of Chriſt's coming to Judgment in them, but that ſeems not pertinent to the Text. I therefore give the ſenſe of the words thus; As alſo, according to the ſame Wiſdom, he hath written in all his Epiſtles, ſpeaking in them of theſe things of which I am now diſcourſing, that is of the day of the Lord's coming, and of the Preparation we ſhould make for it.

o Ibid. Ἐν αἷς, in which.] This cannot relate to the Epiſtles of St. Paul, becauſe the word, being of the Neuter Gender, cannot agree with ἐπιστολαῖς, Epiſtles, which is of the Feminine; but to thoſe things of which St. Peter had been diſcourſing in this Chapter, and which were ſo wreſted by the unlearned and unſtable, that ſome of them thought long before the writing of this Epiſtle, That the day of the Lord was inſtant, 2 Theſſ. 2. 2. and ſo became unſtable in the Faith, v. 15. Some ſaid, The Reſurrection was paſt already, and thereby overthrew the Faith of ſome, 2 Tim. 2. 18. ſome wanting Patience to expect it longer, left the Aſſemblies of Chriſtians, Heb. 10. 25. And ſome queſtioned whether this Promiſe would be made good at all, as here, v. 4. 9. THE PREFACE TO THE First General Epistle of St. JOHN.

CONcerning the Author of this Epistle, all Ages have agreed that it was St. John, the Apostle of our Lord and Saviour.

As for the time when it was written, some both Ancient and Modern Writers, think his Epistles to be the last of his Works, and therefore to have been written in the last years of Domitian. But Dr. Hammond hath very well observed, that this Epistle must have been written some time before the great Destruction which befel the Jews. 1. Because he speaks of the last hour as now at hand; which that it must be understood of the last times of the Jewish State, see Note on Chap. 2. 18. 2. Because he speaks of the Antichrist, Chap. 2. 18. and the False Prophets, Chap. 4. 1. which were then among them, or come into the World; such as Christ tells us were to be the immediate Forerunners of that Destruction, Matth. 24. 24. declaring that they went out from them of Judea, ver. 19.

3. It being written by an Apostle of the Circumcision, it is not doubted but it was written to the Jews, but that it was an Epistle to the Parthians, as (a) St. Austin, Possidonius in his Index, and Idacius contra Verim. every, as I know nothing can be said against it, but that it only is asserted by Authors of a latter date, so if Parthia be taken for the whole Empire as it was enlarged by the Arsacidæ, it is a farther proof not only that this Epistle was written to the Jews, who, saith (b) Josephus, abounded in Babylon and Mesopotamia, and had there three famous Universities, one of them at Neerda mention'd by Josephus, but also that many of the Ten tribes were then converted, they being seated in Mesopotamia and Media, for the Text saith, that they were carried away into Assyria, and placed in Halah and Habor by the River Gozan, and in the Cities of the Medes, 2 Kings 17.6. 18.11. Now all these places, saith the learned (c) Bochart, are to be found thereabouts; and therefore St. John being an Apostle of the Circumcision, may well be supposed to have written to them, though perhaps he was never there; as St. Paul writ some of his Epistles to Churches he had never seen.

Whence it was written, neither Scripture, nor any thing in Antiquity that I have met with, gives any ground for a conjecture.

The occasion of it seems to be, 1. To arm the Jewish Converts against those loose and pernicious Doctrines which had obtain'd among the Jews, viz. that Solifidian Doctrine of being righteous by a Faith, that is not fruitful in good Works, or without doing Righteousness, 1 Joh. 2. 29. 3. 7, 10. being Children of the Light without walking in the Light, Favourites of God without Obedience to his Laws, or Love to his Servants. 2dly, Against the Madness of their Zealots abounding every where among them, who thought their Zeal for God, and for his Laws, would atone for their hatred of, and murther of their Brethren, and for all the other Sins which, saith Josephus, they did so greedily commit. See Note on Rom. 2. 1. and on ver. 24.

ver. 24. and on James 1. 26. And 3dly, To preserve them ſtedfaſt in the Truth which they had heard from the beginning againſt thoſe Deceivers, Antichriſts, and Falſe Prophets, which were then among them, Chap. 2. 19, 26. Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3. and to continue them ſtedfaſt in the belief that Jeſus was the Chriſt the Son of God, Chap. 5.

And here, becauſe that Queſtion hath made ſo great a noiſe of late, Whether Salvation or Perdition depends upon believing or rejecting this one Propoſition, That Jeſus was the Meſſiah, as ſaith the Author of the Reaſonableneſs of Chriſtianity, p. 43. adding, p. 47.. that all that was to be believed for Juſtification was no more but this ſingle Propoſition, That Jeſus of Nazareth was the Chriſt, or the Meſſiah; I ſhall endeavour briefly to ſtate, and to explain this matter, and ſo give farther light to thoſe words of this Epiſtle, Chap. 4. 2, 15. Chap. 5. 1, 5. which ſeem to ſay the ſame thing.

Whereas then this Author challenges all the Syſtematical Divines, p. 192. to ſhew that there was any other Doctrine, upon their Aſſent to which, or Disbelief of it, Men were pronounced Believers or Unbelievers, and accordingly received into the Church of Chriſt as Members of his Body, as far as mere believing could make them ſo, or elſe kept out of it: This I ſhall undertake to ſhew.

1. From the expreſs words of Chriſt, who requires of all his Diſciples, in order to their admiſſion into the Church by Baptiſm, Faith in the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, Mat. 28. 19. ſaying, He that believeth (this) and is baptized, ſhall be ſaved; He that believeth not, ſhall be damn'd, Mark 16. 16. He adds with an Aſſeveration, Verily, verily, I ſay unto you, except you eat the Fleſh of the Son of Man, and drink his Blood, you have no life in you, Joh. 6. 53. clearly declaring the neceſſity of Faith in his Body given, and his Blood ſhed, for the Remiſſion of Sins to Juſtification and Salvation, we being juſtified by his Blood, and through Faith in his Blood, Rom. 3. 25. 5. 9.

2. From the plain Declarations of St. Paul, who among the firſt things he preach'd to the Corinthians, as things by the belief of which they ſhould be ſaved, mentions three Articles; firſt of all, That Chriſt died for our Sins, according to the Scriptures, 1 Cor. 15. 1, 2, 3, 4. 2, That he was buried. And 3. That he roſe from the dead. In the ſame Chapter he plainly aſſerts the Neceſſity of the believing the Reſurrection of the Body, ver. 19. 32. Among the Foundations and firſt Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt from which all Chriſtians were to go on to Perfection, he reckons the Doctrines of Repentance, of Faith towards God, of Baptiſm, of laying on of hands, (for the receiving of the Holy Ghoſt,) of the Reſurrection of the Dead, and of eternal Judgment, Hebr. 6. 1, 2. Theſe therefore were then neceſſary to be believed by all Chriſtians. The Doctrine of the Sufficiency of Faith in Chriſt's Death for Juſtification without the works of the Law, is by the ſame Apoſtle declared to be ſo neceſſary, that he ſaith of them who gainſay'd it, Chriſt is become of no effect to you, ye are fallen from Grace, Gal. 5. 2, 4

Moreover, it will be eaſie to account for the Practice of our Lord, and his Apoſtles, who inſiſt ſo much upon, and lay ſo great ſtreſs upon this one Article, if we conſider, who they preached to, and how much was contained in, or neceſſarily depended upon the cordial Belief of this one Article.

1. Then, our Lord and his Apoſtles whilſt he was on Earth, preached only to the Jews, Matth. 10. 6. that is, to them to whom pertained the Adoption, the Glory, the Covenants, the Giving of the Law, the Service of God, and the Promiſes, Romans 9. 4. and to whom were committed the Oracles of God, Romans 3. 2. i. e. thoſe Scriptures which were able to make them wiſe to Salvation, with faith in Chriſt Jeſus, 2 Timothy 3. 5. i. e. if they, to the belief of them, added Faith in Chriſt, they teaching them the Knowledge of the true God, and the way in which he would be worſhipped, and ſhewing them what was good, and what the Lord required of them. They alſo were writ by, and made frequent mention of the Spirit of God, of the New Covenant God would eſtabliſh with them, of the Sufferings of Chriſt, and of the Glory that ſhould follow, 1 Peter 1. 11. of his Prophetical, Prieſtly, and his Kingly Office, of an Emanuel that ſhould be born to them, whoſe Name ſhould be called Wonderful, Counſellor, the mighty God, the everlaſting Father, the Prince of Peace, Iſaiah 7. 1, 14. 9. 6. It is not therefore to be wonder'd that whilſt our Saviour was on Earth he only call'd them to Repentance, and Faith in the promiſed Meſſiah.

Moreover, St. Paul's Sermon Acts 13. was preached to the Children of the Stock of Abraham, ver. 26. and yet he preacheth to them not only that Jeſus was the Chriſt, but alſo that he died, and roſe again, and that Remiſſion of Sins was to be obtain'd through his Name, and that by him all that believed were to be juſtified from all thoſe things from which they could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes, ver. 38, 39. And though we find him once Diſputing in the School of one Tyrannus, we ſeldom find him preach any where but in a Jewiſh Synagogue. Others alſo preach'd to the ſame Perſons; for they that were diſperſed upon the Perſecution of St. Stephen, preached to the Jews only, Acts 11. 19.

We have in the whole Acts of the Apoſtles mention only of four Perſons who were not Jews by birth to whom the Goſpel was thus preach'd;

preach'd; one of these was the Eunuch, who was before a Worshipper of God, and as is probably conjectured of the Jews Religion; and therefore came up to Jerusalem to worship. St. Paul preacheth to Lydia in a Jewish Synagogue, Acts 16. 13, 14. and she was also one that worship'd God, and so in probability of the Jews Religion. The Centurion to whom St. Peter preach'd was one that feared God, wrought Righteousness, was much in Prayer and Alms, and yet St. Peter, before his Baptism, preaches to him and his Friends, of the Word that God sent to the Children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ, declaring how he was anointed by God with the Holy Ghost, healed all that were oppressed of the Devil, suffered and rose again, that he was made Lord of all things, that he was ordain'd of God to be the Judge of the quick and the dead, and that through his Name whosoever believed in him should receive Remission of Sins, Acts 10. 36, 43. The only Heathen Family that St. Paul admits to Baptism, is the Jaylors; and he first Preaches to them the Word of the Lord, Acts 16. 32. i. e. say even the Socinians, be summarily expounded to them (d) who this Jesus, this Son of God, was, what Miracles he did, how he was crucified by the Jews, rais'd up again by God, taken up into Heaven, made Lord of all things; what Promises he had made, what Precepts he enjoin'd. I know this Author saith, that Preaching the Word was only Preaching that Jesus was the Messiah; but the Scriptures cited by him do not say so: For the Word mention'd Acts 10. 37. is the whole Word which God sent to the Children of Israel, preaching Peace by Jesus Christ. It is the Word of the Gospel, Acts 15. 7. It contains the whole Ministry of the Gospel, Acts 6. 4. All the Council of God being the Word of his Grace which was able to build them up, and give them an Inheritance among them who were sanctified through faith in Christ, Acts 20. 27, 32. It cannot therefore be concluded from the Preaching of our Lord, or his Apostles, that they thought nothing more was necessary to be believ'd by Christians saving this one Article, that Jesus was the Christ.

2dly. The Belief of this Proposition that Christ is the Messiah, and the Son of God, may well be represented as the chief initiating Article of Christian Faith, because where it is heartily profess'd, it carries with it a Profession of believing all Christ's Sayings, and of obeying all his Precepts: and where it cordially is embraced, it produceth both this Faith and Practice. That Jesus is the Christ, as it is the principal Article of pure Faith, the most peculiar Doctrine of our Religion, as it stands opposed to that of Judaism; so doth it virtually comprehend all other Doctrines of moment in it, regarding either Faith or Practice. For to believe him to be the Christ, is to believe him to be a Prophet sent from God to teach the way of life unto us, John 3. 3. even that Prophet which was to come into the World. Hence Christ applies these words to himself, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me because he hath anointed me to Preach the Gospel, &c. Luke 4. 18. Now sure we are obliged to embrace as Truth whatsoever was taught by such a Prophet, and to obey all his Precepts upon pain of Destruction; for Whosoever will not hear this Prophet, shall be destroyed from the People, Acts 3. 23.

Again, To believe him to be the Christ, is to believe him to be the Son of God, according to that Profession of St. Peter, Thou art Christ the Son of the living God, Matth. 16. 16. and the Enquiry of the High Priest, Art thou the Christ, the Son of God? Matth. 26. 63. Now this lays an Obligation upon us to hear, that is, obey him; according to those words of God, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, hear him, Matth. 17. 5. 'Tis also to believe him to be our Lord, and King, according to those words of the Angel, To you is born a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord, Luke 2. 11. and of Nathanael, Rabbi, thou art the Son of God, thou art the King of Israel. Now this Relation calls for Obedience; For why, saith our Saviour, call you me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I say? Luke 6. 46. and that on penalty of Ruin from him when he shall say, Bring these mine Enemies who would not I should reign over them, and slay them before me, Luke 19. 27. 'Twas also Jesus who was called Christ, even that Jesus who was to save his People from their Sins, and a Saviour to give Repentance and Remission of Sins, Matth. 1. 21. Now upon such a King, and such a Saviour, we may securely rely for the Obtainment of all the Blessings and Rewards which he hath promised to the Obedient. Hence we may learn, that it was highly reasonable that the Apostles should begin their Preaching with proving and persuading this Doctrine, that they should give such great Commendations, annex such excellent Privileges, offer such high Rewards to the hearty Belief of such a comprehensive Article, and should admit them to Baptism who profess'd it, since by that Baptism, saith this Author, pag 196. 197. they own'd themselves the Subjects of this Jesus whom they believed to be their Messiah, (i. e. The Prophet sent from God to teach them) and received for their Lord and King, and this was the solemn visible Act whereby they who believed him him to be the Meſſiah, receiv'd him as their King, and profeſs'd Obedience to him, and ſo were admitted as Subjects into his Kingdom. For as every one who was circumciſed became a Debtor to obey the whole Law of Moſes, Gal. 5. 3. and therefore to believe it, ſo every Perſon baptized being of Age, doth by that very Baptiſm profeſs to believe all the Doctrines, and obey the Precepts of the Holy Jeſus, into whoſe Name he is baptized. And therefore though St. John here ſays, He that confeſſeth that Jeſus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God, Chap. 4. 15. and Every one that believeth that Jeſus is the Chriſt is born of God, Chap 5. 1. yet he requires of the ſame Perſons, in order to the ſame Ends, that they ſhould walk in the Truth of the Goſpel, in Conformity to the Example of Chriſt, and to the Love of God, and in Obedience to his Commands; and adds, that he that is born of God ſinneth not, neither can ſin; clearly inſinuating, that this Propoſition, when cordially embraced, will produce a Faith and Practice anſwerable to it in our Lives.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE First Epistle General of St. JOHN.

CHAP I.

a Verse 1. THat which was [a] from the beginning, [of the Gospel Dispensation, that] which we have heard, b which [b] we have seen [i. e. discerned, as clearly as if we had seen it] with our Eyes, [that] which we have looked upon, and our hands have [as it were] handled of the Word of Life [declare we to you.]

2. [Nor have ye the least reason to suspect our Testimony, either of this Life, or the Author, and Procurer of it:] For the Life [we speak of] was manifested [in the Author, and the Promise of it,] and we have seen, [or known,] and bear witness [to it,] and shew unto c you [c] that eternal life which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us.

3. That which we have seen and heard [of this Word of Life] declare we to you, d that ye also may have [d] fellowship with us [in the same Life:] and truly our fellow-e ship is [e] with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.

4. And these things write we unto you that your Joy may be full, [i. e. that believing this eternal life, you may rejoyce with joy unspeakable, and full of glory, 1 Pet. 1. 8, 9. For which cause you must carefully attend to another Message he hath sent by us.]

5. This then [and this] is the Message which we have heard of him, [i. e. from God by Jesus Christ,] and declare unto you, that God is light, [a pure, and spotless Spirit,] and in him is no darkness at all: [Nothing of Impurity or Iniquity in his Commands, which are all Holy, Rom. 7. 12. Or in his Actions, as in the Heathen Deities, be being holy in all his Works.]

6. [And therefore] If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lye, and do not [speak] the Truth.

7. But if we walk in the light, [f] as he f he is in the light, [endeavouring to be holy, as he is holy,] we have [g] fellowship one g with another, and the [h] blood of Jesus h Christ his Son cleanseth us from all [those] sins [which might obstruct our Communion with this Holy God, and our Attainment of the life thus manifested to us.]

8. [And of this Expiation we have all need, for] [i] If we say that we have no sin, [to be i thus cleansed from,] we deceive our selves, and the Truth is not in us; [For in many things we offend all, Jam. 3. 2. And therefore are required to pray daily for the remission of our sins, and have even after our Regeneration need of this Advocate for the Propitiation of our sins, Chap. 2. 1, 2. See 1 Kings 8. 46. Eccles. 7. 21.]

9. [But] if we confess [these] our sins, he [who hath made this new Covenant in the blood of Christ, that he will be merciful to our Iniquities, Heb. 8. 8.] is faithful [to his Promise,] and just to forgive us our sins, [upon the Satisfaction made to his Justice by the death of Christ,] and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

Annotations on Chapter I.

a Verse 1. "Ὃ ἦν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς.] This I here render from the beginning of the Gospel Dispensation, because I find that is the constant import of the Phrase in this Epistle, and elsewhere, when it relates to what Christians had heard, and seen, as here. In this sense is that which you have heard, ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, used six times by our Apostle, in these Epistles; viz. 1 Ep. Ch. 2. 7, 24. twice; Chap. 3. 11. Ep. 2. v. 6. So the Commandment which we have received, ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, 1 Ep. 2. 7. 2 Ep. v. 5. doth necessarily import, it being Christ's New Commandment of Love. So ἀπ' ἀρχῆς αὐτόπται, are those who from the beginning of Christ's preaching were Witnesses of what he said, and did, Luke 1. 2. And in this sense Christ saith to his Disciples, you have been with me, ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, John 15. 27. Acts 1. 21.

b Ibid. Ὃ ἑωράκαμεν, which we have seen.] That is, in Scripture Phrase, said to be seen, and looked upon, which is as truly known and discerned by us, as if we had seen it. So the Jews are said to do the things which they have seen with their Father, John 8. 38. and to have seen the end of the Lord's dealing with Job, James 5. 11. So we are said to see God, or not to see him, 1 John 3. 6. Ep. 3. 11. To see the life here, v. 2. So also ψηλαφᾶν when applied to Spiritual things, is not to touch with the hand, but to apprehend with the mind, Acts 17. 27. I confess all these things are more properly true of the Word made Flesh, of whom the Apostles declared what they had heard from him, and seen of him, who saw his Glory, John 1. 14. and what one of them had touched. But then the λόγος agreeing only to the Divine Nature, a Metaphorical Sense must be allowed in seeing, and handling that.

c Ver. 2. Τὴν ζωὴν τὴν αἰώνιον, ἥτις ἦν πρὸς τὸν πατέρα, that eternal life which was with the Father.] Thus of our eternal life the Apostle saith, it is hid with Christ in God, Col. 3. 3. And of the Evangelical Dispensation, That before the Revelation of it by Christ, and his Apostles, it was a Mystery hid in God, Eph. 3. 9. But this also may be applied to the Divine λόγος, stiled by this Apostle, life eternal, Chap. 5. 20. who was in the Bosom of the Father, and was manifested to us, John 1. 18. Yet two things seem to favour the first Interpretation.

1st. That the Phrase here used, being not ἐν ἀρχῇ ἦν, he subsisted in the beginning of all things; but only ἀπ' ἀρχῆς ἦν, he was from the beginning, This Phrase excludes not his Creation, as the other seems to do. And as I have observed, it chiefly is applied by this Apostle, to the beginning of the Gospel dispensation.

2dly. That though ὁ λόγος and ζωὴ, absolutely put, are spoken of Christ; yet ὁ λόγος τῆς ζωῆς is never used concerning the Person of Christ, but is expressly used of that word by which eternal life is manifested; as when we are bid to hold fast, λόγον ζωῆς the word of life, Phil. 2. 16. and when the Apostles are bid to teach τὰ ῥήματα τῆς ζωῆς, the words of this life, Acts 5. 20. See Acts 13. 26.

Ver. 3. Κοινωνίαν μεθ' ἡμῶν, Fellowship with us.] It doth not follow hence, as Esthius imagines, that no Man can have fellowship with God, who hath not fellowship with the Church, (though that be doubtless true of Fellowship with the invisible Church, united to Christ by the Spirit, and so made an habitation of God through the Spirit, and of Fellowship in Doctrine, and Communion with the Church of the Apostles.) For as like precious faith with us, is only such Faith as we have, 2 Pet. 2. 1. so here fellowship with us, is only such fellowship as we have. d

Ibid. Μετὰ τοῦ πατρὸς, with the Father.] We being Heirs of God, Joint-heirs with Christ, Rom. 8. 17. and being united to, and having Communion with the Father, and the Son, by the Spirit of both dwelling in us, John 14. 21, 23. Eph. 2. 21, 22. Rom. 8. 9. 11. And he being to us the Earnest of this life, 2 Cor. 1. 22. 5. 5. Eph. 1. 13, 14. Who seals us up to the Day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30. e

Ver. 7. Ὡς αὐτός ἐστιν ἐν τῷ φωτὶ, as he is in the Light.] That this Metaphor of Light relates not to the Knowledge or the Felicity, but to the Purity of the Divine Nature, appears, (1st.) from the Injunction to walk in the Light, as he is in the Light; for we are not any where bid to resemble God in knowledge, or in happiness, but we are commanded to be holy as he is holy. (2dly.) From the Darkness set in opposition to it, which doth not refer so much to the ignorance of Men, as to the Vices they practised in a State of ignorance. See Note on Rom. 13. 12. f g Ibid. Κοινωνίαν ἔχομεν μετ' ἀλλήλων, we have Communion with one another.] Some Manuscripts read, μετ' αὐτοῦ, with him; which either is the true Reading, or gives the true Sense of the other Reading, i. e. We have Communion with God, and he with us, as is evident from v. 6. Moreover, the Apostle had said nothing before of our Communion with one another, but only of our Fellowship with God, v. 6. with the Father, and the Son, v. 3. which makes it reasonable to refer the words to that Communion of which the Apostle so often speaketh in this Epistle. See Chap. 2. 5, 6, 24. Chap. 3. 24. Chap. 4. 13. Notwithstanding it is true that then we have Communion with one another by virtue of that Holy Spirit which enlightens us, and enables us to walk in the light.

h Ibid. Τὸ αἷμα Χριστοῦ, the Blood of Christ cleanseth us from all Sin.] This cannot well relate to that effect of the Blood of Christ which we call, Justification by Faith in his Blood, or the Remission of our past Sins by virtue of our Faith in Christ, dying for us; for that follows immediately upon our Faith, and cannot require that an habit of Purity, or of walking in the light, should precede it; it therefore seemeth to refer to those sinful Infirmities and Defects, which in this State of Imperfection cleave to our best Actions, and even good Men are still subject to, and which do not deprive us of the Divine Favour, or of an entrance into that New Jerusalem, into which nothing enters that is polluted, or unclean; because in this New Covenant of Grace, established in the Death of Christ, his Blood doth cleanse all faithful and sincere Christians from the guilt of them.

i Ver. 8. 10. Note, The Question is of whom the Apostle speaketh here, Whether of sincere Christians after their Conversion to the Christian Faith, or only of them considered before they entred on that State. That St. John here speaks only of the latter, is argued from these Considerations.

1. That the Apostle doth plainly teach the contrary to the first Exposition, by saying, He that is born of God sinneth not, Chap. 3. 9. 5. 18. But to this I shall return an Answer in the Comment on those places.

2dly. That the words run in the Preter-perfect Tense, if we say ὅτι οὐ ἡμαρτήκαμεν, we have not sinned, whereas some single Acts of lesser sins they were then still subject to, to whom he speaks.

Answ. True; and therefore he adviseth them to confess them, that they might obtain forgiveness of them: Now Confession of them must be after they have been committed.

3dly. Because this Phrase ἁμαρτίαν ἔχειν, to have sin, is still used of such sins as will condemn us at the last, Joh. 9. 41. 15. 22, 24. 19. 11.

Answ. The Text cited from, Chap. 19. 11. is impertinent; the other two may be taken absolutely as to the matter spoken of, i. e. They had been guilty of no sin of Infidelity, if Christ had not come to them, or if he had not proved his Mission, Chap. 15. 22, 24. or if they had wanted means to discern the Truth, Chap. 9. 41. Nor would their sin of Infidelity have been condemning, had they confessed it, and forsaken it.

Since then the Apostle was speaking, v. 7. of them who walked in the light, who had Communion with God, and who were cleansed from the guilt of sin; And v. 8. goes on to add, If we say we have no sin; it seems more probable that he speaks there at least of the same Persons.

Note also, That some of the (a) Jews professed to be ἀναμάρτητοι πρὸς θεὸν, ἢ μικρὰς μεταχόντες, supple ἁμαρτίας, free from all sins and offence against God, and of such may the last Verse be interpreted: They varying in this from the Doctrine of other Jews; for (b) Maimonides truly saith, Nullus homo dari potest qui non peccet, vel ignoranter in dogmate & sententia aliqua amplectenda, aut qualitate eligenda quæ non eligenda est, vel ob Iræ, aliorumque affectuum, vehementiam & prædominationem.

CHAP. II.

Verse 1. MY little Children, these things [concerning the necessity of walking in the light, and putting off the deeds of darkness,] write I unto you, that ye sin not, [i. e. that ye live not in any course of sin;] And [a] if any Man [through the infirmity of the Flesh, be overtaken with a] sin, we [Christians] have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the Righteous, [the just one, in whom was no sin, 1 Pet. 3. 18.]

2. And [b] he is the Propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only, but [c] also for the sins of the whole World.

3. [d] And hereby [Gr. in this] we do know that we know [Gr. have known] him, [truly and acceptably,] if we keep his Commandments.

4. He that saith I [have] know[n] him, and keepeth not his Commandments, is a Lyar, and the Truth is not in him: [He is a false pretender to the knowledge of God; for such Persons do in words profess to know God, but in works they deny him, being disobedient, Tit. 1. 16. They likewise know not Jesus Christ according to the Truth, Eph. 4. 21.]

5. But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the [e] love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

6. [f] He that saith he abideth in him, [in Christ by the Spirit,] ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7. Brethren, I write [g] no new Commandment unto you, [when I thus call upon you to walk in the light as he is in the light, or to walk as Christ walked,] but an old Commandment which you had from the beginning [of Christ's preaching, John 3. 21. 8. 12. 12. 35. See Note on Chap. 1. v. 1.] The old Commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8. [h] Again, a new Commandment I write unto you; which thing is true in him, [who is the Author of it; for no such light ever came into the World before, and no such love was manifested to the World before,] and in you, [who before were darkness, but are now light in the Lord, Eph. 5. 8. Children of the light, and of the day, 1 Thess. 5. 5. and to whom not long ago the light appeared, 2 Cor. 4. 6. and ye are taught of God to love one another, 1 Thess. 4. 9.] because [by your late receiving the Gospel] the [former] darkness [you were in] is past, and the true light now shineth [in, and upon you; wherefore the night of ignorance, and darkness being far spent, and the day being nigh at hand, and shining more and more upon you, you are obliged to put off the works of darkness, and to put on the armour of light, Rom. 13. 12.] Or thus; Again [being now to speak to you of Christian love] a new Commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him, [for thus he speaks, A new Commandment I give unto you, that you love one another as I have loved you, Joh. 13. 34.] and in you: because [it shews] the darkness [you were in whilst Jews, bearing affection only to them of your own Nation and Religion,] is past, and the true light [of the Gospel] now shineth [upon you.]

9. He that saith he is in the light, [that he lives under the influences of the light of the Gospel, and walks according to it,] and [yet] hateth his Brother, [wishing ill to him, and from that disaffection doing ill Offices to him,] is [whatever he professes to the contrary,] in darkness even until now. [But]

10. He that loveth his Brother, [as Christ loved us, being willing to do him all kind Offices which he is able, from love to God, and as a fellow Member of Christ's Body,] abideth in the light, and there is [i] no occasion of stumbling [Gr. no scandal] in him.

11. But he that hateth his Brother [k] is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither [the way leads in which] he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his Eyes, [Job. 12. 35.]

12. [l] I write unto you, little Children, because your sins are forgiven you for his Names sake.

13. I write unto you, Fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young Men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. I write unto you, little Children, because ye have known the Father.

14. I have written unto you, Fathers, because you have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young Men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

15. Love not the World, [i. e. neither the Men of the World, who will not own you, but hate, and persecute you, Chap. 3. 1. 13. and who live in wickedness, Chap. 5. 19. love them not so as to be conform'd to their manners, Rom. 12. 2.] neither the things that are in the World, [the Pleasures, Honours, or Enjoyments of it, so as to cleave to them, Matth. 6. 24. or to be unwilling to part with them for Christ's sake, and to secure the favour of God, Matth. 19. 28.] If any Man [thus] loveth the World, the love of the Father is not in him, [for seeing God is to be loved above all, he loves him not at all truly, who cleaves to any other thing in oppoſition to him, or hazards his favour to ſecure it.]

16. For all that is in [vogue, or eſteem with the Men of] the World, the luſt of the fleſh, [all voluptuous Enjoyments which tend to Senſuality, and Intemperance, and making proviſion for the Fleſh,] and the luſt of the Eyes, [the deſire of Gold, Silver, ſtately Houſes, rich Furniture, fair Gardens, which tend to gratifie the Eye,] and the pride of life, [the deſire of places of Dignity, high Titles, all the Honour, Glory, and Splendor of the World, which tends to gratifie our pride,] is not of the Father, [they are not Deſires excited by him, nor is it according to his will, that we ſhould ſet our hearts upon them,] but is [the Deſire] of [the Men of] the World, [whoſe chief concern is to gratifie theſe ſenſual Appetites.]

17. And the World paſſeth away, and the [things which miniſter to the] luſts thereof, but he that doth the will of God abideth for ever.

18. Little Children, it is the laſt time, [or hour of the Jewiſh Oeconomy,] and as ye m have heard that [m] Antichriſt ſhall [ſhortly] come, [ſo] even now are there many Antichriſts, [i. e. oppoſers of Chriſt, and deniers of him to be the Chriſt, v. 22.] whereby we [may] know that it is the laſt time.

n 19. [n] They went out from us, [Chriſtians of Judæa, Acts 15. 1. and from us the Apoſtles, Acts 15. 24.] but they were not of us; [but were falſe Brethren, Gal. 2. 4. and falſe Apoſtles, 2 Cor. 11. 13.] for if they had been of us [conſpiring with us the Apoſtles and true Churches of Chriſt, in the Doctrine and Truth of the Goſpel,] they would no doubt have [Gr. μεμενηκεισαν ἂν, they might have ſtill] continued with us, [preaching that Doctrine which we teach;] but [they went out from us] that they might be made
o manifeſt [o] that they were not all [Gr. that they all were not] of us.

P 20. But ye have an Unction [p] from the q holy one, [q] and ye know all things: [ye to whom I write; which ſhews he ſpeaks not of the Chriſtians of all Ages in general, but of them in particular.]

21. I have not written to you, becauſe you know not the Truth; [i. e. to inſtruct you as Perſons ignorant of it,] but becauſe ye know it, and that no lye [utter'd by theſe Antichriſts, and falſe Prophets] is of [or hath any Communion with] the Truth [of the Goſpel.]

22. Who is a lyar, but he who denieth that Jeſus is the Chriſt? [i. e. who ſo emphatically deſerves that title, ſeeing] he is Antichriſt [by way of eminency] [r] who denieth r the Father and the Son.

23. [And let not the Jewiſh Antichriſts pretend this belongs not to them who know the Father, for] whoſoever denieth the Son [of God,] the ſame hath not [the true knowledge of] the Father.

24. Let that [Doctrine] therefore abide in you which you have heard from the beginning [preached to you; for] if that which you have heard from the beginning ſhall remain, [and bring forth its due fruits] in you, ye ſhall continue in the Son, and in the Father, [united to them by the Spirit, who alſo will inſtruct you in the ſaving knowledge of them both, Joh. 14. 23. 6. 56.]

25. [s] And this is the promiſe which he s hath promiſed us, [who thus remain in him, viz.] eternal life.

26. Theſe things have I written concerning them that deceive you, [i. e. who endeavour ſo to do.]

27. [t] But [*this not out of abſolute neceſſity, t
as if through ignorance you could not otherwiſe be preſerved from their Seductions,* [v. 2. for] the anointing which ye have received of him, [who is your head,] abideth in [or among] you, and [ſo] you need not that any Man [ſhould] teach you, but as the ſame anointing [i. e. Spirit of wiſdom and knowledge] teacheth you all things [neceſſary;] and [for it] is truth, and is no lye, and even as it hath taught you, ye ſhall abide in him.

28. And now, [καὶ νῦν, now therefore] little Children, abide in him, [in the Profeſſion and Practice of what he hath taught you,] that when he ſhall appear we may have confidence [of the life promiſed to them that do ſo, v. 25.] and [may] not be aſhamed before him [Gr. may not be put to ſhame by him, or, go aſhamed from him] at his coming [to Judgment, Chap. 4. 17. as being judged by him unworthy of this life, as we ſhall not be, if we be found doing Righteouſneſs; for]

29. If ye know that he is righteous, ye know that every one that doth righteouſneſs is born of him; [As being born again of the Spirit derived from him, and ſo become a Son of God, and an Heir of life, Rom. 8. 14. 17. and by this Spirit ſealed up unto the day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30.]

a Verse 1. Ἐὰν τις ἁμάρτῃ, and if any Man sin.] Though this is not to be interpreted of sins of infirmity only, yet since the Apostle is here speaking of his little Children whose past sins were already forgiven them for his Names sake, v. 12, 16. and the Apostle would not encourage them in wilful, or habitual sins, I think, as it relates to them, it chiefly is to be referred to those sins of ignorance, weakness and infirmity, which will be pardoned by the Tenour of the New Covenant, through Christ's Intercession.

b Ver. 2. Ἱλασμός ἐστι περὶ τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ἡμῶν, he is the Propitiation for our sins.] In the Old Testament the Sin-offering which made Atonement for a Trespass, that it might be forgiven, is called κριὸς ἱλασμοῦ, the Ram of Atonement, Lev. 6. 6, 7. Num. 5. 8. And that which in the Law is φέρειν, προσφέρειν τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, to bring an Offering for sin, is in Ezekiel προσφέρειν ἱλασμόν, to bring an Atonement, or Propitiation, Ezek. 44. 27. when therefore it is said here of Jesus Christ, that he is ἱλασμός, the Propitiation for our sins; and Chap. 4. 10. That God sent him into the World to be ἱλασμόν, the Propitiation for our sins; have we not reason to conclude he was so our Propitiation, as were all the Sin-offerings of the Jews for them; viz. by suffering in our stead, to make Atonement for our sins, and so to render God propitious to us in the forgiveness of them? Moreover why is he stiled Jesus Christ the Just, or Righteous, who made Propitiation for our sins, if he intended not to intimate that the Just suffered instead of the Unjust, to make Atonement for their sins? To this Crellius replies, That δίκαιος should be rendred not the Just, but the Faithful.

Answ. This is to say, it must here signifie not what it ordinarily and truly signifies, but what it both improperly and rarely signifies; and when it is ascribed to Christ, as here it is, it never signifies; for it is ascribed to him elsewhere ten times in the New Testament, Matth. 27. 24. Luke 23. 47. Acts 3. 14. 7. 52. 22. 14. 2 Tim. 4. 8. 1 Pet. 3. 18. Rev. 16. 5. and in those places it doth always signifie that Just, or Righteous Person; yea, in this very Chapter, and the next it is twice spoken of him, first in these words, v. 29. If ye know that he is Righteous, ye know that every one that doth Righteousness is born of him. And Chap. 3. 7. He that doth Righteousness is Righteous, even as he is Righteous; where it is evident that it retains it's proper Sense. Why therefore, in the place contested, should it import that which when it is applied to Christ, it never signifies?

Object. And whereas Crellius objects, that the Apostle speaks of Christ here, as of our Advocate in Heaven, where he doth not satisfie God, or suffer any Punishment on our Account.

Answ. I answer, That seeing Christ there intercedes by virtue of his Blood shed to satisfie for our Offences, and of the Death he suffered as the Punishment of our Iniquities: The Parallel runs clearly thus, That as the Sacrifices of the Old Testament were slain, and the Blood shed, before it was brought to the Mercy-Seat, and yet the High-Priest made Atonement with it, when at his Entrance into the Holy Place, he offered up that Blood to God in his peculiar Presence; so though our Lord was slain, and shed his Blood on Earth, yet may he make Atonement in the Presence of God with it, by virtue of the Sufferings he endured when his Blood was shed.

c Ibid. περὶ ὅλου τοῦ κόσμου, for the sins of the whole World.] That is, of all Men in general; for when he saith, he is the Propitiation for our sins, sure he intends this Comfort to all them to whom he speaks, and means not that Christ was the Propitiation for some of their sins only; for this would have left them all in doubt whether this Advocate, and this Propitiation did belong to them, but would have comforted none of them. When then he adds, he is the Propitiation not for our sins only, but for the sins of the whole World, he in like manner must extend this Phrase to all Men in the World.

Again, when he saith, he is the Propitiation for our sins, he doth not mean that he was so sufficiently, but not intentionally; for what comfort would that afford them, that his Death was sufficient to procure the Pardon of their sins, had God designed it for that end, unless they also knew that he intended it for their Propitiation? When therefore he proceeds to say, and not for ours only, but for the sins of the whole World, he must mean also, that he was the Propitiation for their sins, not only sufficiently, but also in his gracious Intention. And indeed otherwise it might as properly have been said of the fallen Angels, or the whole Host of Devils, he is the Propitiation for their their ſins, as for the ſins of thoſe who are not elected, ſeeing had God deſigned it for that end, Chriſt's Death, by reaſon of its intrinſick value, might have been ſufficient to procure Atonement for the ſins of fallen Angels. Laſtly, The Import of theſe words cannot be only this, He died, or is the Propitiation for the ſins of the Elect throughout the World. For (1.) The whole World in Scripture never ſignifies the Elect only, in oppoſition to the wicked in the whole World; but in this very Epiſtle, and in theſe words, We know that we are of God, and that the whole World lies in wickedneſs, Chap. 5. 19. it plainly ſignifies the wicked of the World, in oppoſition to the faithful Chriſtians. (2dly.) Would it not be ſtrange, and alien from the Mind of Scripture to ſay, The whole World is elected to Salvation, the whole World ſhall be juſtified by Chriſt, and ſanctified by his Spirit dwelling in them, and obtain an happy Reſurrection; and yet all this muſt be true of the whole World of the Elect? Why therefore are none of theſe things equally affirmed of the whole World, as well as that Chriſt died, and is the Propitiation for the ſins of the whole World, if they be words of equal Latitude, and Truth? Theſe Arguments are as ſtrong againſt the Expoſition of others, who ſay the Apoſtle means not only for the ſins of the Jews, but alſo of the Gentiles.

d Ver. 3. It is a Rule in Divinity, That verba notitiæ denotant affectum, adde & effectum, i. e. That when the knowledge of God, or Chriſt, is put abſolutely, it ſignifies a knowledge which is fruitful in Love, and Obedience, as the effect of that Love, and Knowledge. Whence they who diſobey him, are ſtill in Scripture ſaid not to know God, 1 Sam. 2. 12. Hoſ. 5. 14. Jer. 2. 8. 9. 3. Tit. 1. 16. and here v. 4. And they that do what is acceptable, and delightful to him, are ſaid to know him, Jer. 22. 15, 16. 24. 7. 31. 33, 34. Hoſ. 2. 19, 20. John 10. 4. Eph. 3. 19.

Moreover, 'tis obſervable, that many of the Jews had an apprehenſion that their knowledge, and Belief of the true God, would be ſufficient for their Juſtification and Acceptance with him; whence they are repreſented as boaſting in God, and in the Knowledge of his Will, Rom. 2. 17, 18. And expecting Juſtification on this account, That they believed there was one God, James 2. 19. And this might cauſe the Apoſtle to be ſo diligent in teaching them, that the true Knowledge of God conſiſted in keeping his Commandments.

e Ver. 5. Ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ, the Love of God perfected.] The Love of God here may ſignifie either God's Love to us, as when 'tis ſaid, Who ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God which is (ſhewed to us] in Chriſt Jeſus? Rom. 8. 39. And that the Love of God is ſhed abroad in our hearts, through the Spirit that he hath given us, Rom. 5. 5. See Jude 21. and then this Love is perfected in us by that Aſſurance the Holy Spirit giveth of it, and that humble Confidence we have of it, becauſe we keep his Commandments, Chap. 3. 21, 22. So the Apoſtle ſeems to interpret this Perfection in Love, Chap. 4. 16, 17, 18. Or (2dly.) This Love may ſignifie our Love to God and Chriſt, as when Chriſt upbraids the Phariſees with the want of the Love of God, Luke 11. 42. And ſaith to the Jews, I know that you have not the Love of God in you, John 5. 42. And when Chriſt ſaith, He that hath my Commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me, and he that loveth me ſhall be loved of my Father, John 14. 21. And v. 23. If any Man love me, he will keep my Word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him, and take up our abode with him. And this Love is perfected in us, by keeping his Commandments, becauſe that ſhews we are fully inſtructed in the nature of that love, which is one Senſe of Perfection. See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6. And it engages us to the ſincere performance of our whole Duty to God, which is another Senſe of the word Perfection: And hereby we know that we are in him, even by this Spirit, by which God abideth in us, Chap. 3. 24. And who ſheds abroad the Senſe of the Divine Love in our Hearts.

Note alſo, that hence we may paſs a certain eſtimate of neceſſary, and fundamental Doctrines; for if they be ſuch as are neceſſary to the Love of God to us, or to that Love of ours to him, which conſiſts in keeping his Commandments, they are Doctrines truly neceſſary to Salvation: If not, they cannot be ſo; becauſe we may truly love God, and abide in his Love, without the knowledge of them.

Ver. 6. For ſeeing we abide in God the Father and the Son, only by the Communion of the Spirit, Chap. 3. 24. 4. 13. whence he that is in Chriſt is one Spirit with him, 1 Cor. 6. 17. and he that hath not the Spirit of Chriſt, is none of his, Rom. 8. 9. We that are animated with the ſame Spirit that was in Chriſt, as we are enabled, ſo alſo are we thereby engaged, to walk after his Example, or to walk in the Light as he is in the Light, Chap. 1. 7. f

Ver. 7. Οὐκ ἐντολὴν καινὴν, no New Commandment.] Moſt Interpreters conceive this relates to the Commandment of Chriſtian Love, that being the Commandment which they are ſaid to have heard from the beginning, Chap. 3. 11. and ſaid to be on that account no New Commandment, Ep. 2. 5. and yet being ſtiled by Chriſt a New Commandment, John 13. 34. Episcopius against this Exposition cogent. For whereas, Object. 1. He objects that these words seem to be spoken to remove the thought of some that he was propounding a new Doctrine which they had not learned; whereas no Man who was acquainted with the Law of Moses, or even with that of Nature, could think the Law of Charity was new.

Answ. I answer, It is not the Law of Charity in general, which our Lord, and his Apostles, stile a New Commandment; but that of loving one another as he had loved us, John 13. 34, 35. And this might justly be looked on as a New Commandment, it being a Commandment of laying down our Lives for the Brethren, Chap. 3. 16. And therefore a Commandment not contained in the Law of Nature, nor in that of Moses.

Object. 2. Whereas he adds that these words, I write unto you, seem to respect not any thing that was to follow, but which was said before, and to contain this Sense, when I write this to you, I write nothing new.

Answ. I answer, that it may be so; for having told us, That he that saith he abideth in Christ, ought also to walk as he walketh; he may well be conceived to have an especial Eye to the great Example of Love Christ shewed to Mankind, both in his Life and Death. Yet his Exposition given in the Paraphrase seems also very probable, by reason of the following words, Because the Darkness is past, and the true Light now shineth; and therefore I shall have respect to both.

h Ver. 8. The Ceremonials of the Law are sometimes called a Shadow, but never Darkness; and though the Alexandrian Manuscript reads σκιὰ, a Shadow, yet because all other Copies read σκοτία, Darkness, and the following words, v. 9. and 11. shew that this is the true reading, and because it is so easie in short writing, to mistake σκοτία for σκιὰ, the Interpretation of these words which depends upon that reading, cannot be relied on.

i Ver. 10. Σκάνδαλον ἐν αὐτῷ οὐκ ἔστιν, i. e. There is nothing at which he will fall, or stumble.] So Psal. 119. 156. Great Peace have they that love thy Law, καὶ οὐκ ἔστιν αὐτοῖς σκάνδαλον, and they have no stumbling-block. The labour of Love they must undergo, the evils they may be exposed to, will not hinder them from doing the Duty they owe to God, and to their Brother for his sake; but they go on securely, and cheerfully in it, for perfect Love casts out Fear, Chap. 4. 18.

Ver. 11. Ἐν τῇ σκοτίᾳ ἐστὶν, is in darkness.] i. e. He lives in great ignorance of his Duty, and of the way to life, as not guiding his Actions by that Light of the Gospel which hath appeared unto him. k

Ver. 12, 13, 14. Note, That these words may either relate to the foregoing, and then they are to be interpreted as motives to walk in the Light, and as Christ walked, and in particular to walk in Christian Love, thus; I have written to you Children, touching this Love, and walking in the Light, and after Christ's Example, because your sins have been forgiven for his Names sake, and so in gratitude to him who hath procured the Pardon of them, you ought to walk as he walked, and to love the Brethren: Ye also have known the Father, and had experience of his Love to you, and therefore stand obliged to imitate his Love to you, and to walk in the Light, that you may still have fellowship with him. l

I have written to you, Fathers, because ye have known him who was from the beginning,] i. e. Christ Jesus, and so know how to walk by his Example, and to imitate his Obedience to the Father, and his Love to Mankind.

I have written to you, young Men, because ye are strong] by virtue of the Word of God abiding in you, and by the Sword of the Spirit and Shield of Faith, have been enabled successfully to Combat, and overcome that wicked one, who tempts you to the deeds of Darkness, and to hatred of the Brethren, Chap. 3. 10.

If they relate to the words following, they must be an Exhortation to little Children, to take off their Affections from the World, and place them upon God and Christ, on the account of the Love, and Mercy shew'd to them by God the Father through Christ. To the Fathers so to do, because they have known Christ how dead he was to the World, and how he despised the Pleasures, Honours, and Enjoyments of it. To the young Men so to do, because they had overcome the wicked one, all whose Temptations arise from some Allurements, or Affrightments of the World. Or lastly, The words may be extended to all he saith to them in this whole Epistle; and then both Expositions, may take place.

Ver. 18. Ὁ Ἀντίχριστος ἔρχεται, Antichrist cometh.] To wit, then in the last hour. And this being represented as the Character by which they might know that the last hour was now come, 'tis manifest that the last hour cannot signifie the end of the World, or include the times of the last Judgment, but must be restrained to the last times of the Jewish State, which only were then instant, or at hand. m 2dly. The ὁ Ἀντίχριστος, Antichriſt, then in being, if it refer to any Nation, muſt be the Nation of the unbelieving Jews perſecuting, and oppoſing Chriſtianity with their whole might, and denying Jeſus to be the Chriſt, or promiſed Meſſiah; and then the many Antichriſts here mentioned, may be the falſe Prophets, and deceitful workers, who transformed themſelves into the Apoſtles of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11, 13, 14, 15. who preached Chriſt not ſincerely, but out of Contention, Phil. 1. 15. who as Jannes and Jambres withſtood Moſes, ſo alſo did reſiſt the Truth, 2 Tim. 3. 8. who were Men of corrupt Minds, and deſtitute of the Truth, 1 Tim. 6. 5.

n Ver. 19. Ἐξ ἡμῶν ἐξῆλθον, they went out from us,] of Judæa. For ſome, κατελθόντες ἀπὸ τῆς Ἰουδαίας, going out from Judea, taught the Brethren, that except they were Circumciſed after the manner of Moſes, they could not be ſaved, Acts 15. 1. and from the Apoſtles; for ſo they ſpeak, we have heard that τινὲς ἐξ ἡμῶν ἐξελθόντες, ſome going out from us, have troubled you with words perverting your Souls, ſaying that ye ought to be Circumciſed, and to keep the Law, v 24. The Perſons who taught theſe Doctrines, are ſtiled ψευδάδελφοι falſe Brethren, Gal. 2. 4. ψευδαπόστολοι, falſe Apoſtles, deceitful workers, Miniſters of Satan, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 15. Dogs, evil workers, the Conciſion, Philip. 3. 2. their Doctrine tended to the Subverſion of Souls, Acts 15. 24. to the corrupting, and turning the minds of Men from the Simplicity of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 10. 3. to hinder the truth of the Goſpel from continuing with them, Gal. 2. 5. to make Chriſt die in vain, v. 21. to cauſe Chriſtians to fall from Grace, ſo that Chriſt ſhould profit them nothing, Gal. 5. 2, 4. So that they were falſe Prophets, falſe Apoſtles, and Antichriſts in the worſt of Senſes; and by going out from the Apoſtles, and Churches of Judæa, to preach this deſtructive Doctrine to the Gentiles, which both the whole Church of Judæa, and the Apoſtles, aſſembled for that purpoſe, flatly diſown'd, and cenſured, it ſufficiently appeared that all the Preachers of theſe Doctrines ſo oppoſite to Chriſtianity, and deſtructive of it, were not of them. Theſe therefore, doubtleſs, were ſome of thoſe many Antichriſts, which the Apoſtle ſpeaks of here as writing to the Jews; and they alſo divided, and ſeparated themſelves from the Church, and became Hereticks under the Name of Cerinthians, Nazarens, and Ebionites. (a) Cerinthus ſpread his Hereſie in Aſia, the Province of St. John, ſaith Theodoret, and was (b) Contemporary with the Apoſtles. Whence the (c) Church deſired him to write againſt Cerinthus and the Ebionites; And (d) St. John left the Bath becauſe Cerinthus the Enemy of the Truth was in it. Moreover theſe words, they were not of us, cannot be interpreted of the Elect, but of the Church in general; for from them they went out, and with them might have remained; not from the Elect, who are not viſible, nor could they have remained with the Church of the Elect, who were never of them. (2dly.) Their going out from them for a ſeaſon, was no certain Argument they were not of the Elect, ſince 'tis confeſſed they may fall totally, though not finally.

made him a Lyar, Chap. 5. 10. whereas he that receives his Testimony, hath set to his Seal that God is true, John 3. 33. (2) To deny the Doctrine of the Father, or that Doctrine which proceedeth from him; for, He whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God, John 3. 34. Whence it is evident, that he who denieth the Son, cannot thus retain the true knowledge of the Father, because no Man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son who is in the Bosom of the Father, he hath declared him, John 1. 18. He only hath done it; for no Man knoweth the Father but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him, Matth. 11. 27. By him only can we come acceptably to the Father, so as to have life; for he is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, John 14. 6. And by him only are we taught how to worship the Father in Spirit, and in Truth, John 4. 23, 24. Hence Christ so often tells the Jews they therefore wanted the true knowledge of the Father, because they knew not him, saying, Ye neither know me, nor my Father; if ye had known me, ye would have known the Father also, John 8. 19, and 55. 14. 7. and these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me, John 16. 3.

f Ver. 25. For the fruit of the Spirit is life, Rom. 8. 6, 11, 13, 16, 17. Gal. 6. 8. and he is given as the Earnest of our future Inheritance, to seal us up to the day of Redemption, 2 Cor. 1. 22. 5. 5. Eph. 1. 13, 14. 4. 30. And this life he hath often promised to us, John 5. 25, 26, 29. 6. 27, 29, 33, 39, 40, 47, 50, 51, 54, 57, 58.

t Ver. 27. The Quakers and other Sectaries hence argue against the necessity of the Ministerial Function, or any Teachers of the Word, it being here said, you need not that any teach you, &c. And others say, This seems to make all Scripture, and all that the Apostle writ to them, needless. But for answer to this Objection I say,

1st. That it must be granted, that in those times of the Effusion of the Spirit, and his miraculous Gifts upon Believers, this Unction was promised to teach them all things necessary, who had then no other Rule of knowing what was so, but by the teaching of the Apostles, and Prophets then among them, acted by this Spirit, and teaching in their Assemblies, and doing other publick Offices by this Afflatus, and by the Spirit of Wisdom, and Instruction then imparted to them, and hereby they were enabled to distinguish betwixt Pretenders to the Spirit, and those who really were acted by him, (See Note on Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3.) and to know they dwelt in Christ, because he had thus given them of his Spirit, John 3. 24. 4. 13. which things do certainly imply, that they who then had the Spirit, could certainly know they had it, and make an Argument of it to try the Doctrines and Spirits of others, and much more in themselves; but now these sensible Indications, and extraordinary Gifts of the Spirit are long since ceased, and therefore now they are to be directed by those Writings which were indited for their perpetual use, by Men assisted with that Spirit, who led them into all Truth; and surely if in those times when the Gifts of the Spirit were so generally vouchsafed, they were yet taught by Apostles, Prophets, Evangelists, Pastors, and Doctors, assisted by the Spirit for that work, 'tis reasonable to believe that now these Gifts are ceased, Believers should be yet instructed by Pastors and Doctors assisted by the Scriptures indited by these Spiritual Men. And therefore,

2dly. It is observable, That the Apostle doth not here absolutely say, they need not any one should teach them, but only that they need not any one should teach them but as this Unction taught them. Now the Apostles having this Unction in the highest measure, these words cannot exclude their Teachings, or render them unnecessary, but rather must confirm them as a standing Rule to all Posterity. Till then these Sectaries can shew that they have still such an immediate, and an extraordinary Afflatus of the Holy Spirit, as was then vouchsafed to the Primitive Christians, they cannot hence conclude the outward Ministry of the Word, by Pastors and Doctors set apart for that Work, to be unnecessary.

CHAP. III.

Verse 1. BEhold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called [a] the Sons of God: therefore the World knoweth us not, [i. e. doth not acknowledge, and affect us Christians,] because it knew him not. which ministers so great advantage to you, which causes them to disaffect you.]

2. Beloved, now are we the Sons of God, and it doth not appear what we shall be [made further Partakers of, as the compleat import of that Title:] but [this] we know, b that [b] when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

3. And every Man that hath this hope in him, [of seeing him in glory] doth puc rifie himself even [c] as he is pure, [in whom was no sin, v. 5.]

d 4. [d] Whosoever committeth sin, transgresseth also the Law, for sin is the transgression of the Law.

5. And ye know that he, [i. e. Christ, v. 3.] was manifested to take away our sins; [not only by suffering to remove the guilt of our past sins, but also to purifie us from the Power, and Dominion of it, that henceforth we might not serve sin, Rom. 6, 6. that ἁμαρτίαις ἀπογενόμενοι, being freed from sin we might live unto righteousness, 1 Pet. 2. 24.] and in him is no sin, [and so our likeness to him must consist in ceasing from it.]

6. Whosoever [therefore] abideth in him, sinneth not: whosoever [thus] sinneth, hath not seen him, neither known him [as the Truth is in Jesus, Eph. 4. 21.]

7. Little Children, let no Man deceive you, [with Pretensions that Faith without Works of Righteousness will make you righteous before God, for only] he that doth righteousness is righteous, even as he [i. e. Christ] is righteous, [by doing the will of his Father, John 15. 10.]

e 8. [e] He that committeth sin is of the Devil; for the Devil [thus] sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested [to the World] that he might destroy the works of the Devil.

f 9. Whosoever is born [f] of God, doth not commit sin; for his Seed [the Word of God, Matth. 13. 1 Pet. 1. 23.] remaineth in him, and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

10. In this the Children of God are manifest, and the Children of the Devil;
g whosoever [g] doth not righteousness, is not of God, neither [is] he [so] that loveth not his Brother, [and so both these are Children of the Devil.]

11. For this is the message which ye have heard from the beginning, [or from the first preaching of the Gospel,] that we should love one another, [from a pure heart fervently, 1 Pet. 1. 23. and as Christ hath loved us, John 15. 12.]

12. [And if we be not the Children of the Devil, but of God, we shall] not [be] as Cain, who was of that wicked one, and [therefore] slew his Brother, and wherefore slew he him? [viz.] because his own works were evil, and his Brothers righteous, [as God himself testified by respecting the Offering, not of Cain, but of Abel, and this begat in him that hatred which concluded in his Brother's death.]

13. [And] Marvel not, my Brethren, if [in like manner] the World, [the Seed of Cain, who are also of that wicked one, John 8. 44. 1 John 5. 19.] hate you, [i. e. if they persecute, and kill the Just, as being condemners of their Actions, and alien from their ways, and manners, in Affection, Aim, Desires, and therefore hated by them, John 15. 19. for whatsoever they may do to destroy this life;]

14. We know that we have passed from Death to Life [i. e. that we have obtained a Right to escape Death Eternal, and enjoy everlasting Life, John 5. 24.] because we love the Brethren [in Deed and Truth, v. 18. for this is a sign that we are translated from Darkness to Light, Chap. 2. 10. and so are the Children of the Light, yea that we are born of God, Chap. 4. 7. and therefore are Children and Heirs of God, Rom. 8. 17.] he that loveth not his Brother, abideth in [the state, and under the sentence of] Death, [he is still in that darkness of sin and ignorance, Chap. 2. 11. which will end in eternal death.]

15. [For] Whosoever hateth his Brother, is [in the Disposition of his heart, and the Construction of God's Law,] a Murtherer, [Matth. 5. 21, 22.] and ye know that no Murtherer [being so great, and wilful a violater of the Moral Law,] hath eternal life abiding in him; [He therefore must be obnoxious to Death Eternal, till with Holy David, by a deep and long Repentance, be is delivered from blood guiltiness; or, till God in Mercy hath put away his sin, as in the Case of David, 2 Sam. 12. 13.]

16. Hereby perceive we the love of God [to us,] because he [who was his beloved Son, at his command, John 10. 18.] laid down his life for us, [i. e. for our Salvation, and the Propitiation of our sins;] and we [also] ought [in imitation of this Example] to lay down our Lives, [i. e. expose them to the Death] for [the Salvation of] the Brethren: [Going on in the Prosecution of our Duty, to win them to life eternal, though with the hazard, and even the loss of this temporal life.]

17. But [if Love requires us to part even with life for them, then] whoso hath this World's Goods, and seeth his Brother have need, [of some of them,] and [yet] shutteth up his bowels of Compassion from him, [not being moved out of Compassion to his Indigence to give him what he hath to spare,] how dwelleth the Love of God in him?

18. My little Children, let us not love in Word, neither in Tongue, [only, Jam. 2. 16.] but in Deed and in Truth, [in true affection of heart, 1 Pet. 1. 22. and in sincerity

cerity of Action, Rom. 12. 9. by Love serving one another, Gal. 5. 13. not pitying only, but relieving them according to their wants, and our ability to supply them.]

h 19. And hereby we [may] know that h i we are of the Truth, and shall i assure our hearts before him.

20. For if our heart [the inward witness of our Thoughts, and Actions] condemn us, [of want of sincerity, and obedience to the Truth of the Gospel,] God is greater than our heart, [both in holiness to condemn,] and [in knowledge to perceive the evil of them, for he] knoweth all things.

21. [Whereas] Beloved, if our heart [after a diligent search of it, and a comparing of our Actions with the Law of Liberty,] condemn us not, [of insincerity in our Obedience,] then have we [humble] confidence towards God [in our Addresses.]

22. And whatsoever we ask [according to his will, Joh. 5. 14.] we receive of him, because we keep his Commandments, and do those things which are pleasing in his sight.

23. And this is his Commandment, that we should believe on the Name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us Commandment.

24. And he that keepeth his Commandments dwelleth in him, [i. e. in God] and he [God] in him, and hereby we know that he abideth in us by [the efficacious Gifts of] k the Spirit which he hath given us. k

a Verse 1. Τέκνα θεοῦ, the Sons of God.] The Jews were stiled the Children, and the Sons of God, because they owned him as their God and Father, and entred into Covenant to serve him; and so became an holy People to the Lord; and he had chosen them to be his People, Deut 14. 1. So we are all the Sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus, Gal. 3. 26. John 1. 12. The Land in which they dwelt is stiled the Lord's Land, Hos. 9. 3. And they, as being his First-born, Exod. 4. 22. have it given them for an Inheritance; but we, as being in a more spiritual Sense, the Sons of God, are Heirs of God, joint-heirs with Christ, as being those that shall reign with him in his heavenly Kingdom, Rom. 8. 17. See the Note there. They in that Land enjoyed the Majestick Presence of that God who dwelt among them; and therefore, saith he, the Land is mine, Lev. 25. 23. We as his Sons shall be admitted to his Cœlestial Presence, where we shall see him as he is, v. 2. The Enjoyment of that Land was unto them a Type of the Heavenly Canaan, which the faithful among them were to enjoy; and therefore they are represented as Strangers and Sojourners with him in it: Whence the Apostle tells them, that there remained yet a Fest for the People of God, Heb. 4. 9. And the Patriarchs are said to have confessed that they were Strangers, and Pilgrims upon Earth, and thereby to declare, that they desired, and sought a better Country, that is, an heavenly, and that upon this account God called himself their God, viz the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because he had prepared for them a City, Heb. 11. 13, 16. Now because they in their own Persons could not enjoy this heavenly Country without a Resurrection, hence the Evangelist informs us, that they were the Sons of God, τῆς ἀναστάσεως υἱοὶ ὄντες, as being Sons of the Resurrection; The Redemption of their Bodies from Corruption, and the ἀναβίωσις, Reviviscence of that which once died, and saw Corruption, being the consequent of this υἱοθεσία, Adoption, or Sonship of God's Children; hence therefore doth our Saviour firmly prove the Resurrection from those words, I am the God of Abraham, &c. Matth. 22. 32. Luke 20. 36, 37. And thus you see how great is the Love of God in owning us as his Sons, and have also a just Comment on the following words.

Ver. 2. Ἐὰν φανερωθῇ, when he doth appear.] Note here, b

1st. That as the Hebrew word אם, so the Conjunction ἐὰν signifies as well, when, or postquam, after that, as if. See Nald. Partic. p. 87, 89. So John 12. 32. ἐὰν ὑψωθῶ, when I am lifted up, 13. 20. ἐὰν πέμψω, when I send, 14. 3. ἐὰν πορευθῶ, when I go away, 16. 7. Note, 2dly. That this is spoken of Christ, seems evident. (1st.) From the word φανερωθῇ which is used of Christ, v. 5. and agrees properly to him alone. And (2.) From the Phrase we shall be like him, viz. who shall change our vile Bodies into the likeness of his glorious Body, Phil. 3. 21. And cause us to bear the Image of the Lord from Heaven, by being raised with glorious, and incorruptible Bodies, 1 Cor. 15. 47, 49. And from the words, we shall see him as he is, i. e. in glory; this being his Prayer, That they whom God had given him, might be with him, and behold his glory, John 17. 24.

c 3. Καθὼς ἐκεῖνός, as he is pure.] For he being manifested to take away our sins, v. 5. and to destroy the works of the Devil in us, v. 8. they who expect to be made like to him hereafter, must be so here in Purity, and Righteousness. But then let it be noted,

1. That this imitation doth not require our likeness to him we are to imitate in the manner, or inward Principle of his Actions, but only in the quality, and as far as humane frailty will permit us, in the measure of them: For instance, it is as necessary for God to be absolutely perfect in Holiness and Goodness, as to be God, and yet we must be holy as he is holy, and perfect as our heavenly Father is perfect. And it is generally asserted in the Schools, That the Obedience, and perfect Holiness of Christ, did necessarily result from the most intimate union of the Divine, and humane nature, and from that Grace of Unction, which he received without measure, whereas our Holiness and Obedience must be acts of Choice, and so our Holiness and Virtue will proceed not from an inward Principle which doth necessitate us to be good, but from the Choice of our own Wills; and yet we must walk as he walked, and must purifie our selves as he is pure.

2dly. This Imitation doth not require an absolute equality, or full proportion of our Actions to the Example set before us, this being not consistent with the frailty of our humane Nature. For the Example here is that of the Holy Jesus, in whom was no sin, and who performed perfect Obedience to the whole Law of God, whereas in many things we offend all, and our Obedience will be still imperfect in this life. When therefore we are commanded to be holy, and perfect as God is, to walk as Christ walked, and to purifie our selves as he is pure, 'tis sensus Similitudinis, non æqualitatis; i. e. The word as, binds us not to equal them in Holiness and Perfection, but to bear such a likeness to them in these Perfections, as may discover that we truly aim at being holy in all manner of Conversation, and heartily endeavour to continue so, through the whole Tenour of our Lives.

Vain then is that Objection of the Socinians, That were Christ truly God, we could not possibly expect, nor therefore would it be our Duty to imitate him; for seeing the Example of God himself is made the matter of our imitation, the Argument must equally conclude against the Deity of God the Father. In a word a likeness to him, as far as humane frailty will permit, may be our Duty though he should be God; a perfect likeness to him who did no sin, could never be our Duty, though he were but Man.

Ver. 4. Ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, he that committeth sin.] i. e. who lives in the Commission of it, lives in an Opposition to the Law of God; For he is of the Devil, v. 8. He is not born of God, v. 9. which could not be truly said of him that is guilty of any one sin, or violation of God's holy Law. d

Ver. 8, 9. Ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, he that committeth sin.] i. e. He that lives, or goes on, in any way of sin. That this is the true import of this Phrase in the Writings of this Apostle will appear, (1st.) From the same Phrase used in his Gospel, Πᾶς ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, whosoever committeth sin, is the Servant of sin, John 8. 34. Now to be the Servant of sin, is plainly to continue and to live in it, Rom. 6. 1, 2. To yield Obedience to it in the lustings of it, v. 12. for then sin reigns in our mortal Bodies, Ibid. And we are Slaves, and Subjects to it; then doth it κυριεύειν, Lord it over us, and we are δοῦλοι εἰς ὑπακοὴν, Servants to yield Obedience to it, v. 14. 16. though the Conscience may boggle at it, our reason may condemn it, our will be somewhat averse to it; so that in obeying it we do the Evil we would not; yet if ἐμπλακέντες ἡττῶμεθα, we are so entangled as to be overcome by it, we are Servants to Corruption, for of what a Man is overcome, to that is he brought in Bondage, 2 Pet. 2. 19, 20. If the Law of our Members leads us captive to the Law of sin, Rom. 7. 23. So that we yield our Members Instruments of unrighteousness to sin, we so commit sin as to be the Servants of sin. And he that is born of God, cannot (thus) sin, because by that new Birth he is made free from (the Service of) sin, John 8. 36. And become a Servant to righteousness, Rom. 6. 18. He hath that seed within him, which alienates his Mind and his Affections from sin, and that Spirit which causes him to mortifie the deeds of the Flesh, Rom. 8. 13. To die to sin, and to live to God, Rom. 6. 10. e

2dly. From those words, neither can sin, for so he doth not do it, as he cannot do it. Now that doth not import that a good Man cannot be overtaken with a fault, Gal. 6. 1. No, even those little Children whose sins are forgiven, and who have known the Father, may, and will be obnoxious still to some Infirmities, and wandrings out of the way, Chap. 2. 1. They may sin not unto Death, and therefore may have still the Spiritual Life remaining in them, Chap. 5. 16, 17, 18. But the true import of that Phrase is this, (a) That he hath such an inward Frame

Frame of heart, such a Disposition of Spirit, as renders sin exceeding odious, and hateful to him; so that he cannot entertain the Thoughts of doing it, or a Temptation to commit it, without the utmost detestation, and the greatest horror, and so can very rarely, and only through surprize, or want of due deliberation, or through such violent Temptations as prevent, or hinder his Consideration, be obnoxious to sin; and when he comes to consider of such an Action, is presently condemning himself for it, bitterly repenting of it, and for the future watching most carefully against it. Thus they that are evil cannot speak good things, Matth. 12. 34. A good Tree cannot bring forth bad Fruit, Matth. 17. 18. The World cannot hate those that are of it, Joh. 7. 7. The Jews could not hear Christ's word, Joh. 8. 43. could not believe Joh. 12. 39. The World could not receive the Spirit, Joh. 14. 17. They that are in the Flesh cannot please God, Rom. 8. 7, 8. The natural Man cannot know the things of God, 1 Cor. 2. 14. The Church of Ephesus could not bear the wicked, Rev. 2. 2.

3dly. From the Phrase, He that committeth sin is of the Devil; for 'tis not he who committeth one, or more, sins of Infirmity, for so did Christ's Disciples while they were with him; nor he who committeth one great sin through the Power of a strong Temptation, of which he bitterly repents, and from which he returns to his Obedience; for thus did David, and St. Peter, who yet were not then the Children of the Devil; but they who comply with the Lusts of Satan, and who will do them, John 8. 44.

The other Interpretations which are given of these words, seem either vain and impertinent, or false, and dangerous. And,

1. Vain is that Sense which some put upon these words, viz. He that is born of God, non debet peccare, ought not to sin; or that it is absurd for him to sin; for the Apostle speaks not of what he ought not to do, but of what he doth not. Such is that also of those Fathers, who interpret this of him, who is perfectly born of God, by a παλιγγενεσία, or a Resurrection from the Dead; for the Apostle speaks not of what he shall not do hereafter, but of what he doth not do at present.

2. False seems to be the Sense which Origen, St. Jerom, and Ambrose put upon the words, That he that is born of God sinneth not, quamdiu renatus est, whilst he is born of God, because he ceaseth to be a Child of God when he sins; for this is not only confuted by the Examples of David and St Peter, whose Faith under that great miscarriage failed not, Luke 22. 32. but by the words of the Apostle, Little Children, if we sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the Righteous, and he is the Propitiation for our sins, Chap. 2. 1. who yet is only the Advocate for the Sons of God. For the same Reason I cannot assent to that Exposition which saith, a Child of God cannot be guilty of any great, or deliberate Crime, as Tertullian de Pudicitia, c. 19.

3. Dangerous is the Exposition of St. Bernard *, That they who are born of God sin not, Quia etiamsi peccent, peccata illis neutiquam imputentur, because their sins will never be imputed to them. And of those who think it sufficient to say, He sins not without great reluctancy, or not willingly, the evil that he doth being that which he would not do; for the will of that Man who after some contest in his Soul, yields to the Commission of sin, is more strongly inclined to sin, than to the avoiding of it, and so is not renewed. Nor doth the Apostle say, He that is born of God sins not willingly, or without renitency, but absolutely He doth not commit sin.

I conclude this Note with that of our Judicious Gataker, He that is born of God sinneth not; that is, vitam à peccato immunem quantum potest sibi proponit, nec peccato unquam sponte dat operam; si aliquando præter animi propositum deliquerit, non in eodem persistit, sed errore agnito ad institutum vitæ pristinum quamprimum quantumq; potest, festinus revertitur.

Ver. 9. Ἐκ θεοῦ, of God.] By the Spirit, and the Word, John 3. 6, 8. Jam. 1. 18. 1 Pet. 1. 23. That is, he is preserved from, and hath his heart framed into an hatred, and loathing of sin. 1. From the Word of God treasured up in his heart demonstrating to him the vileness of sin, that he may hate it, the danger of it, that he may flie from it; I have hid thy Word in my heart, that I might not sin against thee, Ps. 119. 11. And by attending to it as his Rule, and taking heed to his ways according to his word, ibid. v. 9. (2.) By the Holy Spirit abiding in him as a new Principle of life lusting against the Flesh, so that we cannot do the things which that would have us do, Gal. 5. 16, 17. f

Ver. 10. Ὁ μὴ ποιῶν δικαιοσύνην, that doth not Righteousness.] That is, he that doth not from an heart studious of Conformity to him who is Righteous, v. 7. and in Obedience to his Law, commanding us to live righteously, exercise himself in sincere endeavours of walking righteously through the general course of his life, is not a g a Verſe 1. BEloved, [a] believe not every [pretender to the] Spirit [of God,] but try the Spirits, whether they be of God, [or not,] becauſe many falſe Prophets are gone out into the World, [pretending to be the Chriſt, or the Meſſiah promiſed to the Jews.]

2. [And for your direction in this Trial,] hereby know ye the Spirit of God, [from that of Error;] every Spirit, [i. e. Perſon pretending to the Spirit of God, or of Prophecy,] which confeſſeth that Jeſus Chriſt [Gr. Jeſus Chriſt which] is come in the Fleſh, is of God.

3. And every [pretender to the] Spirit which confeſſeth not that Jeſus Chriſt [Jeſus Chriſt which] is come in the Fleſh, is not of God; and this is that Spirit of Antichriſt, whereof ye have heard that it ſhould come, and even now already is it in the World.

4. Ye [to whom he hath given this Spirit, Chap. 3. 24.] are of God, little Children; b and [b] have overcome them, [theſe Antichriſts and falſe Prophets;] becauſe greater is he [the Spirit] that is in you, than he [the Spirit] which is in the World.

5. 7. Beloved, let us [who are of God, v. 6.] love one another, for love is of God, [the fruit of his good Spirit in us, Gal 5. 22. 1 Pet. 1. 22.] and every one that loveth is born of God, [by the Spirit, John 3. 5.] and [this reſemblance he hath to him, in love to mankind in general, and to thoſe he hath ſo highly loved in particular, v. 9, 10. ſhews that he] knoweth God [aright, becauſe he keepeth his Commandments, Chap. 2, 3, 4.]

a Verse 1, 2. THE Jews being then generally in expectation of their Messiah, were divided into two parts, a Remnant who believed that he was come already, and that our Jesus was the very Person promised under that Character, and a more prevailing part of them who rejected and looked for another. Now among these appeared many who took upon them to be the Messiah, or the Prophet promised by Moses like unto him, saying, Lo Christ is here, and lo he is there; (See the Note on Matth. 24. 24, 26.) and these declaring themselves Prophets, must also pretend to the Spirit of Prophecy, and do this, as Josephus saith they did, προφήμασι θειασμῶ, under the pretence of a Divine Afflatus. These, saith the Apostle here, are Antichrists, i. e. pretenders falsly to be Christ, in opposition to him who was truly so; nor could they belong to him, or truly confess him who was the Word made Flesh. Now the strength of this Argument depends on these Considerations, that the effusion of the Spirit promised in the times of the Messiah, could only belong to them who owned, and believed in the true Messiah; this being made one Character of the true Messiah, that he should baptize them who believed in him with the Holy Ghost, Matth. 3. 11. This promise of the Father, as the Holy Ghost is stiled, was to be sent by Christ, Luke 24. 49. to his Disciples, John 16. 7. 15. 26. to be sent in his Name, John 14. 26. And when he came his Office was to enable those who received him to testifie of Christ, that he was indeed risen from the Dead, and was the Christ, John 15. 26. Acts 1. 8. 5. 32. and to convince the World of Sin, because they believed not in him, John 16. 9. The condition of receiving him was faith in Christ, John 7. 37. Acts 2. 38, 39. And by his Assistance, did his Disciples prove that Jesus Christ who appeared to the Jews in the Flesh, and was crucified among them, was the Christ. He therefore who was made Partaker of the χαρίσματα of the Holy Ghost must be one who believed in that Jesus who suffered in the Flesh for us; and therefore they who denied this, could not be assisted by that Spirit who was only sent by him, and given to Believers: Whence the Apostle saith, That no Man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus Anathema, as these false Prophets, who owned him not, must do, 1 Cor. 12. 3. and that no Man could say, that Jesus was the Christ but by the Holy Ghost: That is, he could not confess, and testifie to the World this Truth, but by the assistance of the Holy Ghost promised, and given to Believers for that end. See v. 6. 13, 14, 15.

Note therefore, that the Apostle is not here speaking of the Trial of Doctrines, but of Spirits, not of the faith necessary to be be believed to Salvation, but only of the Faith necessary to the Reception of the Holy Ghost, that Unction which would teach them all things, 1 John 2. 27.

b Ver. 4. Καὶ νενικήκατε, and have overcome.] The Doctrine which you Preach, and confirm by these Gifts, and Distributions of the Holy Ghost, hath mightily prevailed over all the Opposition which the unbelieving Jews and their false Prophets, and false Apostles, make against it; because the Spirit which acts in them is only able to work by them τέρατα ψεύδους false, counterfeit, and lying wonders; whereas the Spirit that is in you, enables you to confirm the Truth with real Miracles, and Signs, and divers distributions of the Holy Ghost, by which God beareth witness to the Truth of that Doctrine which you preach, Heb. 2. 4. Rom. 15. 19. 1 Thess. 1. 5.

c Ver. 5. That the hopes of Dominion over the Heathens, encouraged some of them to set up for the Messiah, and others to fight, see the Testimonies of Josephus; Note on James 4. v. 1, 2, 3. And on this account they rejected the true Messiah, because his Kingdom was not of this World.

d Ver. 6. When the Romish Prelates have once proved they are of God, as the Apostle did, it will be time to consider the Inference of Esthius from this place, That he that is of God must hear their Prelates and their Church, and come to them to be resolved of any doubt.

e Ver. 8. Ὁ θεὸς ἀγάπη, God is Love.] The Apostle by these words intends not to express what God is in his Essence, or to say, as the Schools do, that he is Love essentially, and Love causaliter, as being the Cause, or objectivè, as being the Object of our Love; but that he is so demonstrativè, and ἐνεργητικῶς, shewing great Philanthropy to Men in all his dealings with them, or his Dispensations towards them, as appears from the two following Verses.

f Ver. 10. Ἐν τούτῳ ἐστὶν ἡ ἀγάπη, herein is Love.] Here the Apostle most lively doth express the Freedom, and the Greatness of the Love of God; the Freedom of it, in that he loved us first, when there was nothing in us to deserve, or move affection, but our misery; but many things which both deserved, and might have moved him to the execution of his Wrath, we being Enemies to God by wicked Works. The Greatness of it, 1. In the Person sending, the great God of Heaven, who humbles himself even to behold what's done in Heaven and Earth; Oh therefore what is Man that he should be thus mindful of him? 2dly. The Person sent, τὸν μονογενῆ, his only begotten, τὸν ἴδιον υἱὸν, his proper Son, Rom. 8. 32, for if to call God πατέρα ἴδιον, his proper Father, was to make himself equal to God, John 5. 18. the Father himself by calling him his proper Son, must equally exalt him. Hence even Episcopius here declares him to be so called, because Essentiam suam a Patre per veram generationem accepisset. he had received his Essence from the Father by a true Generation: For it is certain that the Apostle is here extolling the Love of God to the highest pitch, and therefore must use this Phrase the only begotten Son of God in the sublimest Sense in which that word is used in Scripture. 3dly. The place whither he was sent, into the World which lay in wickedness. 4thly. The Errand for which he was sent. 1. To give up himself a Sacrifice for the Propitiation of our Sins. See Note on Chap. 2. v. 2. 2dly. To procure to us, who were dead in Trespasses and Sins, eternal life.

g Ver. 12. Τετελειωμένη, his Love is perfected in us.] He then loves us entirely according to those Words of Christ, If any Man keep my Words my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and take up our abode with him, John 14. 23. Or, then is our love to him entire, because then we love him so as to keep his Commandments, Ch. 2. 5. and so as to follow that Example of Love which he hath set us, and as he is, so are we in the World, v. 17.

h Ver. 15. For to as many as received him, gave he power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name, John 1. 12. And because we are Sons, God hath sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying Abba Father, Galat. 4. 6. Only let it be noted, that this hearty Confession must be attended with a readiness to believe all that this Son of God hath taught us in his Father's Name, for if he say the truth, why do we not believe him? John 8. 46. and a firm purpose to obey his Commandments, for why call we him, Lord, Lord, and do not the things that he saith? Luke 6. 46.

i Ver. 18. Φόβος οὐκ ἔστι, there is no fear in Love.] Christ having so expressly promised a Come ye blessed to the Charitable Person, Matth. 25. 34, 35, 36. and the Apostle recommending it as the most excellent of Christian Graces, 1 Cor. 13. 13. and the fulfilling of the Law, Rom. 13, 8, 10. when this Love is made perfect in us, it may well give boldness, and cast out fear of Condemnation in the day of Judgment.

Others expound the words thus; There is no fear of what we may lose or suffer, in (perfect) love (of our Brother,) but (such) Love casteth out (this) Fear, for fear (of what we may lose or suffer) hath torment in it: (And therefore) he that thus feareth, is not made perfect in love (to him.)

k Ver. 19. That is, whosoever thus loves God, and shews it by loving thus his Brother, ther, can challenge nothing on that account as due from God, it being God's preventing love to him, which gave the Rise to all the love he bears to God, or to his Brother for his sake. If therefore any Person be constrain'd by this Love to that Obedience which testifies the sincerity of his Affection to God, or to imitate his love to us by fervent love to the Brethren, 'tis the Divine Philanthropy which hath excited this Affection in him. Or if ἀγαπῶμεν be the Subjunctive Mood, the Sense runs thus, Let the great love of God to us, mention'd v. 9, 10. provoke us to returns of love to him, and to our Brethren for his sake, since we do hypocritically pretend to love him, if we do not shew it by fervent Charity towards his Children and our Brethren.

Ver. 20. That is, If what we have l more opportunity to do, and can perform with less difficulty, we do not do, how shall we perform what is more difficult? Now we have our Christian Brethren still in our view, they are the Object of our Senses, we daily converse with them, and their wants and miseries being the Objects of our Senses, must naturally move compassion in us; and so it is less difficult to express our love to them, than to that God whom we have not seen, and who is only present to our Minds by raised Meditations, which do not naturally occur to us, and which we cannot long continue, and so is more difficult than the love of our Brother.

CHAP. V.

Verse 1. WHosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ [a] is born of God; and every one that loveth him that begot, loveth him also that is begotten of him, [as being by this new Birth Partaker of the Divine Nature, and created a-new after the Image of God, Eph. 4. 24. Colos. 3. 10.] a

2. [And this Note is reciprocal, for] By this we know that we love the Children of God, when we love God and keep his Commandments; [when our Affection to God prevails upon us, to do to them all Acts of Charity he hath required, and by his Example recommended to us, 1 John 3. 11, 23. 4. 21.]

3. For this is [the genuine Test of] the love of God, that we keep his Commandments, and his Commandments [to the true lover of him] [b] are not grievous. b

4. For whosoever is born of God overcometh the World, [his Affections are taken off from it, and set upon his God, and so it cannot be grievous to him to part with it, or suffer the loss of any worldly good, to secure the Divine Favour;] and this is the Victory which overcometh the World, even our Faith, [to wit, that Faith which is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen, Heb. 11. 1. which gives us the Assurance of a better and a more enduring Substance, and so makes us take joyfully the spoiling of our Goods, Heb. 10. 34. and patiently endure those light Afflictions which are but for a season, as knowing they work for us an exceeding and eternal weight of Glory, 2 Cor. 4. 17.]

5. Who is he that overcometh the World, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God? [And so the Author of Eternal Salvation to all that obey him, for hence we know that we have eternal life, v. 11, 12, 13.]

6. This is he [c] that came by [or with the Testimony of] water and blood, even Jesus Christ, not [d] by water only, but by water [e] and blood; and it is [f] the Spirit that beareth witness, [and on his Testimony we may rely,] because the Spirit is Truth. c d e f

7. [The Law judges that sufficiently proved which is confirmed by two or three Witnesses, Deut. 19. 15. That Jesus is the Son of God, v. 5. is thus proved by Witnesses from Heaven, and on Earth,] For [g] there are three that bear Record [to this Truth] in [and from] Heaven, the [h] Father, the [i] Word, and [k] the Holy Ghost, and these three are one [as in Testimony, so in Essence,] g h i k

8. And there are three that bear witness on Earth, the Spirit, and the Water, and the Blood, and these three [l] agree in one. l

9. [m] If we receive the witness of Men [in these Cases,] the witness of God is greater [of more validity, and certainty than that of Men, he being neither liable to ignorance, nor falshood; and if his Testimony be of such force, we must believe that Jesus is the Christ,] for this is the witness of God which he hath testified of his Son. m

10. He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witneſs in himſelf, [as having in himſelf that Spirit of God which gives this Teſtimony to Chriſt,] he that believeth not [this Teſtimony of] God, hath made him a Lyar, becauſe he believeth not the Record which God gave of his Son.

11. And this is the [ſubject of this] Record, that God hath given to us [Chriſtians the promiſe of] eternal life, and this life is in his Son, [he being the hope of Glory, Col. 1. 27. this life being hid with Chriſt in God, Col. 3. 4. and he being our life, ibid. he being the Author, and Procurer of it, and having power to confer it on us, John 17. 2.]

12. He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God, hath not life; [For we are all the Children of God through Faith in Jeſus Chriſt, Gal. 3. 26. and if Children, then Heirs, Rom. 8. 17.]

13. Theſe things have I written to you that believe on the Name of the Son of God, that ye may know that ye have [by Promiſe a right to, and by the Spirit an earneſt of] eternal life, and that ye may [more firmly] believe in the Name of the Son of God.

14. And this is the [farther] confidence that we have in [and through] him, that if we ask any thing [of God. Chap. 3. 21, 22.] according to his will, he heareth us, [according to Chriſt's Promiſe, John 14. 13, 14. 15. 7, 16. 16. 23, 24.]

15. And if we know that he heareth us, whatever we [thus] ask, we know that we have the Petitions that we deſired of him, [Chap. 3. 22.]

16. If any Man ſee his [ſick] Brother ſin a ſin which is not [a] unto death, [i. e. for which God hath not peremptorily threatned, and required that he ſhould die for it, as he did to them that were guilty of Murther, Gen. 9. 5, 6. Numb. 35. 30, 31. and for Idolatry, Deut. 17. 2, 3, 4, 5.] he ſhall ask [of God Reſtoration of his Life and Health,] and he ſhall give him life for them that ſin not [this] unto death. There is a ſin unto death: [of which God hath denounced that he that doth it ſhall die for it:] I do not ſay that he ſhall pray for it, [i. e. for deliverance of the Perſon guilty of it from death.]

17. All unrighteouſneſs is ſin, and there is a ſin [of unrighteouſneſs againſt our Brother, which is] not unto death [the Law requiring not that the guilty Perſon ſhould die for it, but only that he ſhould bring his Offering, and make reparation for it.]

18. We know that whoſoever is born of God ſinneth not [thus, Chap. 3. 15.] but he that is begotten of God keepeth himſelf, and that wicked one toucheth him not. [See Note on Chap. 3. 9.]

19. And we know that we are [begotten] of God, and [that] the whole World lieth [ſtill] [o] in wickedneſs.

20. And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an underſtanding that we may know him that is [the] true [God]: and we are in him that is true, [even, or to wit] in his Son Jeſus Chriſt. [p] This is the true God, and [in him is] eternal life.

21. [Having therefore this knowledge of the true God] Little Children keep your ſelves [q] from Idols, [or falſe Gods.] Amen.

Annotations on Chapter V.

a Verſe 1. Ἐκ Θεοῦ γεγέννηται, is born of God.] The Jews gloried in this Title, that they were the Children of God, and had him for their Father, John 8. 41, 42, 45. they being called his Sons, Deut. 14. 1. 32. 19. Pſal. 72. 15. and his firſt-born, Exod. 4. 22. The Apoſtle therefore here informs them, that this Relation would ſtand them in no ſtead, unleſs they were born again of Water, and of the Spirit, John 3. 5. or baptized into the Name of Chriſt, and by that Faith had power to become the Sons of God, John 1. 12. and alſo loved thoſe Chriſtians which were born of him, which the unbelieving Jews. and the falſe Teachers among them were ſo far from doing, that they every where perſecuted the true Believers. See Note on Chap. 3. 1.

b Ver. 3. Βαρεῖαι οὐκ εἰσίν, are not grievous.] Becauſe his will is conformed to the will of God, and ſo he only doth what he would do, and his Affections are chiefly placed upon him and ſo he is then doing what he chuſeth and delighteth in, and it cannot be grievous to be employed as we would, and as we do delight to be.

c Ver. 6. That came.] viz. in the Name of God, Matth. 21. 9. in his Father's Name, John 5. 43. See Matth. 11. 3. Joh. 1. 9, 15. Matth. 21. 9.

d Ibid. Δι' ὕδατος, by Water.] That is with the Teſtimony of Water, or the Teſtimony given to him by St. John at his Baptiſm; for when John was baptizing, he teſtified of him, ſaying, This is he that cometh after me, who was before me, John 1. 27, 28. He alſo declared that he came baptizing for this very end, that he might be made manifeſt to Iſrael, v. 31. and teſtified ſaying, I ſaw the Spirit deſcending from Heaven like a Dove, and it abode upon him: And I knew him not, but he that ſent me to baptize with water, water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost. And I saw, and bare record that this is the Son of God, v. 32, 33, 34. Hence is he stiled, a Man sent from God, who came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all Men through him might believe, v. 6, 7, 8. Hence do St. John's Disciples say to him, He to whom thou bearest witness baptizeth, John 3. 26. And Christ himself appealeth to his Testimony, John 5. 32, 33. Now this Testimony could not be rejected by them, for all Men held John as a Prophet; nor durst the Pharisees themselves deny that his Testimony was from Heaven, Matth. 21. 25, 26.

c Ibid. Καὶ αἵματος and blood.] For he died in Testimony of the Truth, and came into the World for this end, that he might bear witness to the Truth, John 18. 37. Whence he is said to witness before Pontius Pilate a good Confession, viz. that he was the Son of God, or the Messiah, the King of the Jews, 1 Tim. 6. 13. This he also testified to the High-Priest, Matth. 26. 63, 64. And for this Testimony was he condemned as worthy of Death, v. 66. For this they mock him at his Sufferings, that he said he was the Son of God, Matth. 27. 43. Mark 15. 32. And at his Death he commends his Spirit to God as his Father, Luke 23. 36, 46. The Miracles which attended his Crucifixion were so great, that they forced the Jews, the Centurion, and those that were with him, to confess truly this was the Son of God, Matth. 27. 54. and the whole Multitude to smite their Breasts, Luke 23. 48. In a word, the Spirit which assisted the Baptist, proclaimed him the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the World, John 1. 30. And that supposeth he was to offer up himself unto the Death, for the Propitiation of their Sins. Yea, he himself doth frequently declare, that he was to be slain, Matth. 16. 21. to be delivered into the hands of Men and killed, Matth. 17. 22, 23. to be condemned to Death, Matth. 20. 18, 19. and to rise again the third day; That he was to be lifted up upon the Cross, Joh. 3. 14. and that being thus lifted up, he would draw all Men to him, Joh. 12. 32. Now what Impostor would lay this as the foundation of the Truth of all his sayings, and all the hopes of any Blessings which were to be expected from him, that he should be crucify'd and die an ignominious, and painful Death? Or, what could tempt him thus to die, who had no hopes to rise again, if he were not the true Messiah, or the Son of God? How was it possible he should be raised from the dead, but by the mighty Power of God? And is it reasonable to imagine that the God of Truth should thus exert the greatness of his Power in confirmation of a Lye? That he should work so great a Miracle in favour of a vile Impostor falsly usurping his Name? Or give such large Credentials to one who falsly did pretend to be a Prophet sent from God, and to be honoured as his Son by all Men?

Ibid. Καὶ πνεῦμα ἐστι, &c. and 'tis the f
Spirit that beareth witness.] Here it is to be noted, that the witness in this Verse is only stiled τὸ πνεῦμα, viz. that Spirit which enabled Christ to heal Diseases, cast out Devils, raise the Dead, and work all sorts of Miracles, for confirmation of his Mission; but in the 7th. Verse he is stiled τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα, the Holy Ghost, which doth distinctly signifie the inward Gifts by which the Understanding is enlightned, and is enabled to perform things which by Nature it could not do without the immediate workings of the Holy Ghost, as V. G. the Gifts of Wisdom, Knowledge, Faith, Prophecy, discerning of Spirits, the Gift of Tongues, and the Interpretation of them. That there is ground for this Distinction, will appear from these Considerations:

1. Because our Saviour, whilst he was on Earth, gave to his Apostles and the Seventy Disciples power to heal the Sick, cleanse the Lepers, raise the Dead, cast out Devils, Matth. 10. 8. Luke 10. 9. And yet the Evangelist St. John informs us that the Holy Ghost was not yet, because that Jesus was not glorified, John 7. 39. Our Saviour also tells his Disciples, that the Holy Ghost would not come till he departed, John 16. 7. And St. Peter, that our Lord being exalted to the right hand of God, received the Promise of the Holy Ghost, Acts 2. 33. The Holy Ghost must therefore signifie something distinct from the Power of working Miracles.

2. The Prophecy of Joel, which by St. Peter is mentioned as the Promise on which the giving of the Holy Ghost was founded, is only a Promise of Visions, Dreams, and Prophecies, but not of Miracles; and the Gifts of the Spirit, mention'd by the Prophet Isaiah, are only those of Wisdom, Knowledge, Understanding, Counsel, Courage, Piety, and of the Fear of the Lord, no mention being made there of Signs, and Wonders.

2. Because throughout the History of the Acts of the Apostles, where St. Luke hath occasion to mention the Miracles which the Apostles, and Primitive Professors did, he always uses these words τέρατα, σημεῖα, δυνάμεις, Wonders, Signs, and Powers; but where he speaks of Persons Prophesying, or speaking with Tongues, he doth as constantly ascribe this to the Holy Ghost, descending on them.

And lastly, where the Scripture mentions these things together, it puts a manifest distinction betwixt Signs and Wonders, and the Gifts and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt. Thus God, ſaith the Apoſtle, bare witneſs to the Doctrine which they Preached, by Signs and Wonders, and diverſe Miracles, ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ μερισμοῖς, and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, Heb. 2. 4. See Rom. 15 19. Galat. 3. 5.

The Spirit therefore bare witneſs to Chriſt on Earth by the enabling him to do ſo many mighty Works in confirmation of his Miſſion, to heal all manner of Diſeaſes, Sickneſſes and Maladies, to command the Wind and Seas to be obedient to him, to caſt out Devils, and to raiſe the Dead, and by aſſiſting his Apoſtles and Diſciples to do theſe things in his Name. For that not only his Diſciples, but even our Lord himſelf did caſt out Devils by the Spirit of God, he himſelf expreſly teſtifies, Matth. 12. 28. and ſaith moreover, that in him was fulfilled that of Iſaiah, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, wherefore he hath anointed me to Preach the Goſpel to the Poor; he hath ſent me to heal the broken in heart, to preach deliverance to the Captives (to Sin and Satan,) and to give ſight to the blind, Luke 4. 18, 20. Hence St. Peter ſpeaks thus to Cornelius and his Friends, You know how God anointed Jeſus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghoſt, and with Power, who went about doing good, and healed all that were oppreſſed of the Devil, Acts 10. 38. And to theſe Works thus wrought by the aſſiſtance of the Spirit of God, our Lord doth frequently appeal as to a ſure Teſtimony that God had ſent him, For the Works, ſaith he, that I do in my Father's Name bear witneſs of me, John 10. 24. and 5. 36. Yea, they ſhewed that the Father was in him, and he in the Father, John 10. 37, 38. and 14. 10, 11.

g Ver. 7. Τρεῖς εἰσιν οἱ μαρτυροῦντες ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ, there are three that bear witneſs in Heaven, &c.] I ſhall ſay nothing of the Diſpute, whether this Verſe be genuine or not, ſeeing the learned Dr. Mills treats ſo copiouſly on that Subject in his Edition of the New Teſtament. I only note, that the places cited from Tertullian and St. Cyprian agree not exactly with the words of St. John, ſeeing they ſpeak de Patre, Filio & Spiritu Sancto, not of the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghoſt. The Objections of Schlictingius againſt this Verſe are theſe.

Object. 1. That this Verſe, though it be introduced with ὅτι for, hath no coherence with the former Verſe.

Anſw. It coheres well with it thus, the witneſs of the Spirit ought in this matter to be received, becauſe he is the Spirit of Truth ſent from the Father, and the Son; for in the Teſtimony of the Holy Spirit ſent down from Heaven, is contained the witneſs of the Father, and the Son alſo, ſo that we may truly ſay, there be three that bear witneſs.

Object. 2. But if ſo, the Teſtimony of the Father is included in the Teſtimony of the Holy Ghoſt.

Anſw. True. And by this theſe three witneſſes become one in Teſtimony, and yet they differ as the Perſon ſending, and the Perſon ſent.

Object. 3. The λόγος, or Word, is the Son of God; and therefore to ſay he teſtifies of the Son of God, is to make him teſtifie of himſelf, Anſw. It is confeſſed that the ſame Perſon is both the λόγος and the Son of God, but the thing teſtified, is not that Chriſt was the λόγος, or the Son of God by eternal Generation, or by his miraculous Conception, but that he was the Chriſt the promiſed Meſſiah, and in that Senſe the Son of God; and to this the Divine Nature might give Teſtimony.

Ibid. ὁ πατὴρ, the Father,] Teſtified this h at his Baptiſm by his Voice from Heaven, ſaying, This is my beloved Son, &c. Matth. 3. 17. and at his Transfiguration ſaying again, This is my beloved Son, hear him, Mat. 17. 5, 6. See Note on 2 Pet. 1. 14, 15, 16. and chiefly by ſending of the Holy Ghoſt which he had promiſed in the times of the Meſſiah, and who is therefore ſtiled The Promiſe of the Father, Luke 24. 49. Acts 1. 4.

Ibid. ὁ λόγος, the Word.] Not only by i appearing to St. Stephen, Acts 7. 56. and ſaying to Saul, I am Jeſus whom thou perſecuteſt, Acts 9. 5. but chiefly by ſhedding the Spirit on the Apoſtles, and other Believers according to his Promiſe; for he being exalted to the right hand of God, and receiving from the Father the Promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, hath, ſaith St. Peter, ſhed forth this which you now ſee and hear; wherefore let all the Houſe of Iſrael know, that God hath made this Jeſus Lord and Chriſt, Acts 2. 33, 36.

Ibid. Τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα, the Holy Ghoſt.] k The Power from on high they were to be endued with, Luke 24. 49. by falling down from Heaven upon his Diſciples, whence they were filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and ſpake with Tongues to Men of all Nations, the wonderful things of God. Till his deſcent upon them they were not to ſtir from Jeruſalem, as being not fitted for their work, Acts 1. 4. but when he was once given to them that believed, they proved and bare witneſs that God had exalted Jeſus to his right hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, Acts 5. 31, 32. And this our Lord, by his Omniſcience, foretold foretold that he should testifie of him, John 15. 26. yea, that at his coming he should convince the World of sin, because they believed not in him, of [his] righteousness, because he was gone to the Father, and of Judgment, because the Prince of the World was judged, and cast out of his Kingdom by him, John 15. 9, 10, 11. John 12. 31.

And thus 'tis easie to discern how these three are one in Testimony, because both the Father and the Son, give in their Testimony by the Holy Ghost; but then if these be three witnesses properly so called, they must be three Persons, and more especially the Holy Ghost, by whom the other Persons do bear witness, must be so; and if his Testimony be also the Testimony of God the Father, and the Word, he must be one in Essence with them: For if the Spirit be a Creature, how can his Testimony be formally the Testimony of God? as it is stiled, v. 9. 10.

l Ver. 8. Εἰς ἓν εἰσιν, agree in this one.] If by ἓν ἐισι, v. 7. were meant no more than εἰς ἓν εἰσι here, why did the Apostle change the Words, since these three also are one in Testimony, as that imports this only, that they confirm this fundamental Truth, That Jesus is the Christ the Son of God. Especially if we consider what is insinuated, v. 6. that of these three the Spirit only beareth witness properly, the other by some Action of the Spirit attending them, and by the Testimony of others of it; The Water by the Spirit descending on Christ whilst he was in the Water, and the Baptist's Testimony that by this Sign God had declared to him that he was the Christ; the Blood as it assures us that he who shed it died for the Truth.

m Ver. 9. Εἰ τὴν μαρτυρίαν τῶν ἀνθρώπων λαμβάνομεν, if we receive the witness of Men.] This is not so to be interpreted as if the three witnesses on Earth related only to the Testimony of Men, and the three from Heaven only to the Testimony of God; and so that the Apostle intended here to signifie we had greater Reason to believe the witnesses in Heaven than those on Earth; For, 1. The Testimony of the Spirit, and of the Holy Ghost, are of equal certainty and validity: And 2dly, John Baptist being sent from God, John 1. 6. and his Baptism being from Heaven, and not of Men, Matth. 21. 25. was also in effect the Testimony of God. The import therefore of these words is rather this: If the Testimony of two or three Men be thought sufficient to give Credit to any matter in all Courts of Judicature, surely the Testimony of that God, v. 8. who cannot lye, or deceive us, must be of greater force and strength to produce Faith in us.

n Ver. 16. Ἁμαρτίαν πρὸς θάνατον, a sin unto death.] Note here, That the Phrase, he shall give him life, cannot reasonably be interpreted of eternal life, for that depends not on the Prayers of other Men, nor can they be certain that their Intercession shall prevail for it, since it belongs only to them who truly repent, and reform their lives. 2. Because the Person to be prayed for is one that hath not sinned unto death, i. e. hath not committed a sin which renders him obnoxious to death eternal. 3. They who interpret this Phrase a sin unto death, of a sin on which eternal Death will certainly follow by the Decree of God, 1. Make the Duty here enjoyned impracticable; for who can know when his Brother's sin is thus to death or not? who is acquainted with any such Decree of God? 2. They make the difference betwixt a sin unto death, and not to death, to consist not in the nature of the sins themselves, but in the Decree by God pass'd upon the sinner. 3. They make the Apostle say, he dares not encourage them to pray for the Salvation of them who are at present in a state of Death and Condemnation, which is against the Tenor of the Scripture. See Rom. 10. 1. The words, If a Man see his Brother sin a sin not unto death, seem like to those of St. Paul, if he see him overtaken with a fault, Gal. 6. 1. i. e. with an Act of Injustice against his Brother, to awaken him out of which sin God hath inflicted sickness on him, as he did on the Corinthians, 1 Cor. 11. 30. The words, Let him ask and he shall give him life, seem parallel to those of St. James, The Prayer of Faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; See the Note on James 5. 15. If this Interpretation will not stand good, consider that after all the Miracles, and Distributions of the Holy Ghost vouchsafed in confirmation of the Gospel, too many of the Jews apostatized from the Profession of it, relapsing to their former Judaism; And this Apostacy may here be termed, the sin unto Death, it being also that which our Saviour represents as the sin against the Holy Ghost, which should not be forgiven, Matth. 12. 32. and they who commit it being Men, saith the Apostle, whom it is impossible to renew unto Repentance, Heb. 6. 4, 5, 6. and to whom there remaineth nothing but fearful looking for of Judgment, Heb. 10. 26, 27. the Apostle might well add, I do not say that you shall pray for them.

Ver. 19. Ἐν τῷ πονηρῷ.] In Satan, who worketh in the Children of Disobedience, Eph. 3. 2. and leads them captive at his will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. whence by Faith in Christ we are said to be translated from the power of darkness, Col. 1. 13. from the Power of Satan, Acts 26. 18. and recovered from the Snare of the Devil. o

Ver. 20. Οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ ἀληθινὸς θεὸς, he is the true God.] That this is not spoken p

of Chriſt, the Socinians endeavour to prove, becauſe the Article is here added to the word Θεὸς God; which is never, ſay they, done when Chriſt is called God: But this is manifeſtly falſe, for Thomas ſaith expreſly of him, ὁ Κύριός μου καὶ ὁ Θεός μου, my Lord, and my God, John 20. 28. and the Apoſtle ὁ ὢν ἐπὶ πάντων Θεὸς, who is God over all, bleſſed for ever, Rom. 9. 5. We prove that this is ſpoken of Chriſt;

1. Becauſe the demonſtrative Pronoun οὗτος moſt appoſitely relates to that which immediately went before; now this is Jeſus Chriſt the Son of God.

To this the * Socinians anſwer, That this is not always ſo; theſe Relatives often referring to what is more remote: and ſo this οὗτος may refer to the true God going before. To this we reply;

1. That when this happens to be ſo, the neceſſity of referring it to what is more remote is evident from the Text, and neceſſary from the nature of the thing; as when 'tis ſaid, Acts 4. 11. οὗτος, this is the ſtone ſet at nought by you builders, this cannot be referr'd to the Man that was made whole, v. 10. And Acts 7. 19. οὗτος, he dealt ſubtilly with our Nation, this cannot refer to Joſeph, but to the King of Egypt. So alſo Acts 10. 5, 6. 2 Theſſ. 2. 9. 2 John 7. But here is no neceſſity of referring the Pronoun to any thing more remote, but on ſuppoſition that Chriſt is not truly God.

2. This never happens when the Pronoun relates to any thing that is ſpoken of profeſſedly, but only when the neareſt Antecedent is only mentioned accidentally, and by the by. So Ep. 2. 7. Many Deceivers are gone out into the World, who confeſs not that Jeſus is the Chriſt, οὗτος, he is a Deceiver and an Antichriſt; where the Pronoun refers not to Chriſt, becauſe he is there mentioned only by accident, as being the Object of the Error of theſe Seducers: and ſo it is in all the other places cited. But here the Apoſtle is profeſſedly ſpeaking of Chriſt through the whole Verſe, and of the Father only as we by Chriſt are taught to know him: And,

3. To refer this to the true God going before, makes the Apoſtle guilty of a Tautology, by ſaying, the true God, he is the true God.

4. Of the ſame Perſon it is ſaid, He is the True God, and eternal life. Now eternal life is in this very Chapter thrice aſcribed to the Son as the Author of it. v. 11, 12, 13. He is ſtiled ζωὴ life, John 1. 4. 5. 26. 14. 6. 17. 2. our life, Col. 3. 4. Chriſt is here alſo ſtiled, ὁ ἀληθινὸς the true, as alſo Rev. 3. 7. 19. 11. And otherwiſe the Greek ſhould have been ὦμεν, that we may, or might be, to anſwer to γινώσκωμεν, that we might know, and not ἐσμὲν we are in the true.

Ver. 21. Ἀπὸ τῶν εἰδώλων, from the Idols] or falſe Gods of the Heathens, among whom you live: So 1 Theſſ. 1. 9. they turned ἀπὸ τῶν εἰδώλων from Idols to the true and living God; thus, an Idol is nothing in the World, i. e. no true God, becauſe there is but one true God, 2 Cor. 8. 4. Thus, to eat things offered to Idols συνειδήσει τῇ εἰδώλου with Conſcience of the Idol, is to eat it with Apprehenſion that there was ſomewhat of Power or Vertue in that God to whom 'twas offered. Nevertheleſs, becauſe theſe falſe Gods were ſtill repreſented by, and worſhiped in their (a) Images, and they were thought neceſſary to the worſhip of their Deities, therefore the Apoſtle uſeth here the word Idols, and equally forbids that way of worſhipping the true God.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epistle of St. JOHN.

THAT St. John the Apostle was the Author of the First Epistle, is confessed by all the Ancients, and that the same Person was the Author of this Epistle, is evident from the exact Agreement of almost every Word of this with the former, except the Preface and Conclusion. For,

1st. These Words in the Fifth Verse, I write no new Commandment to you, but that which you have had from the beginning, that ye love one another, are the same with those Ep. 1. Chap. 2. 8, 10. Chap. 3. 10.

2dly, These Words in the Sixth Verse, This is Love, that we walk after his Commandments, are the same with 1 Ep. 5. 3. and the following Words are in sense the same with Chap. 4. 21.

3dly, These words in the Seventh Verse, For many Deceivers are gone out into the World, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the Flesh; he is a Deceiver and an Antichrist, are in sense the same with 1 John 2. 18, 19, 26. Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3.

4thly, These Words Ver. 9. He that transgresseth and abideth not in the Doctrine of Christ, hath not God; he that abideth in the Doctrine of Christ, hath the Father and the Son, are in sense the same with 1 John 23, 24.

5thly, These Words, Ver. 12. That your Joy may be full, are expresly found 1 John 1. 4.

Moreover, the Arguments which Grotius advances to the contrary, as Magna Argumenta, are of no Force against, but rather may be used as Confirmations of this Assertion, That St. John the Apostle was the Author of this Epistle. For whereas it is objected that Eusebius puts this and the following Epistle among the doubtful Epistles, leaving it uncertain whether they were written by the Apostle, or by John Bishop of Ephesus, to whom they were ascribed, saith St. Jerom, it is to be noted from Eusebius, that though by some they were doubted of, yet (a) were they known to many of the Ancients. Yea, This Second Epistle is cited twice by Irenæus, as the Genuine Epistle of St. John the Apostle and Disciple of our Lord, declaring that they who denied that Jesus Christ was come in the Flesh, were (b) Seducers and Antichrists, Ver. 7th. and 8th. and they who bid the (c) Heretick good Speed, are Partakers of his Evil Deeds; which are the Words found Ver. 10.

And in the Council of Carthage, held Anno Domini 256. (d) Aurelius cites the Tenth Verse as the Words of St. John the Apostle of the Lord.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE Second Epiſtle of St. JOHN.

a b Verſe 1. THE [a] Elder to the [b] Elect Lady and her Children, whom I love in the Truth; and not only I, but alſo all that have known the Truth.

2. For the truth's ſake which dwelleth in c us, and ſhall be with us [c] for ever.

3. Grace be with you, mercy and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Son of the Father in truth and love, [or the true, and beloved Son of the Father.]

4. I rejoyced greatly that I found [thoſe] d of thy Children walking [d] in the Truth, as we have received a Commandment from the Father.

5. And now I beſeech thee, Lady, not as though I wrote a new Commandment, but that which we had from the beginning [of the Goſpel,] that we love one another. [See Note on 1 John 2. 7.]

6. And this is love, that we walk after his Commandment, [Chap. 5. 3.] and this is the Commandment, That as ye have heard from the beginning ye ſhould walk in it, [Chap. 2 24. i. e. we ſhould continue walking according to the truth of the Goſpel, which it concerns us now eſpecially to be careful of.]

7. For many Deceivers are gone out into the World, who confeſs not that Jeſus Chriſt [e] is come in the Fleſh, [or Jeſus Chriſt coming in the Fleſh.] This is a Deceiver and an Antichriſt. [See Note on Chap. 2. 18, 22. Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3.] e

8. Look to your ſelves, that we loſe not the things that we have wrought, but that we may receive [f] a full Reward. f

9. Whoſoever tranſgreſſeth, and abideth not in the Doctrine of Chriſt, hath not God: he that [g] abideth in the Doctrine of g Chriſt, he hath both the Father and the Son.

10. If there come any one unto you, and bring not this Doctrine, receive him not into your houſe, neither bid him God ſpeed, [i. e. have no familiarity with him, and wiſh him no ſucceſs in his Enterprizes.]

11. For he that biddeth him [h] God ſpeed, h is partaker of his evil deeds, [as ſhewing friendſhip to him that does them, and wiſhing well to them; for by this he ſhews he is willing he ſhould ſucceed in them.]

12. Having many things to write unto you, I would not write [them] with Paper and Ink, [as I do this Epiſtle,] but I truſt [ἐλπίζω γάρ, for I hope, ſay ſome Copies] to come unto you, and ſpeak face to face, that your joy may be full.

13. The Children of thy Elect Siſter greet thee. Amen. [See Note on v. 1.]

a Verse 1. Πρεσβύτερος, the Elder.] That the Apostle should in this Epistle conceal his Name, as in the former he had done, is so far from being an Argument to conclude he was not the Author of it, that it proves rather the contrary, he being, as it is observed by Dr. Hammond, the only Apostle that affected to conceal his Name; and who in his Gospel scarce ever speaks of himself without some Circumlocution.

That he should call himself Elder, and not Apostle, as St. Peter also doth, is no more an Argument against the Apostleship of the one than of the other. The word Elder, being a Name of Honour and Dignity belonging to the Chief of their Tribes, agrees very well with the Office of the Apostles, set over the Twelve Tribes of the house of Israel. But if this Epistle was written before the Destruction of Jerusalem, as is probably collected from that Caution given in it, v. 7, 8. to beware of the Deceivers that were gone out into the World, that they might not lose the things which they had wrought, The Apostle could not then be so aged when he writ it, as he is generally thought to have been, though he might be then seventy years old, and therefore aged. See Note on Philemon, v. 9.

b Ibid. Ἐκλεκτῇ Κυρίᾳ, to the Elect Lady.] That the Apostle wrote this Epistle to a single Person who was of Honourable Descent, and therefore stiled Lady, will not follow from the mention of her Children, v. 4. seeing that Phrase is used both of the Members of the Jewish, and of the Christian Church, Isa. 54. 1. Gal. 4. 25, 27, 28, 31. nor from the words, I hope to come to you, and speak Mouth to Mouth, for so St. Paul did to the Church of Jerusalem, when he declared to them, what things God had wrought by him, and Barnabas, Acts 15.4. and so might St. John do to that, or any other Church. It seems rather, from the words I have many things to write to you, and from the Children of the Elect Sister, mentioned v. 12. 13. that it should be some Christian Church. And then I think there is great Reason to conjecture it must not be that of Ephesus, but some Jewish Church, and most probably that of Jerusalem, the Mother of all Churches. For

1. All the other Epistles, excepting that one to Gaius, which pass under the Name of Catholick, were written to the Jews, and so this probably must be so.

2. As other Churches are stiled συνεκλεκτοὶ, elected together with her, 1 Pet. 5. 13. So is the Church of the Jews stiled throughout the Old Testament, The Elect, and the Converts of them in the New, The Elect, Matth. 24. 22. and The Election, Rom. 11. 5, 7.

3. The Phrase, The Word that ye have heard, the Truth you have received ἀπ' ἀρχῆς from the beginning, seems most properly to agree to them to whom it was necessary that the Word of God should be first preached, Acts 13. 41.

4. This Church, being that Church from whence the Word came out to all other Churches, who all received of her Spiritual things, she may on that account by the Apostle of the Circumcision be well stiled κυρία, as being the Lady and Mother of all other Churches, And so we find that anciently both she, and her Bishops, were at first prefer'd before other Bishops and Churches; whence the Emperor (a) Justinus, in his Epistle to Pope Hormisda, saith, That all Churches favour the Church of Jerusalem, as being the Mother of all Churches.

c Ver. 2. Εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, for ever.] This seems to assert the perpetuity, and indefectibility of the Church of God; for where the Truth of the Gospel is for ever, there must be a Church for ever.

d Ver. 4. Ἐν ἀληθείᾳ, in the Truth.] i. e. In the Doctrine of Christ, as the Father hath commanded, saying, This is my beloved Son, hear him, Matth. 17. 5.

e Ver. 7. Ἐρχόμενον ἐν σαρκὶ, coming in the Flesh.] It appears from the Epistle of Ignatius to the Church of Smyrna, that there were then Hereticks, or rather (b) Infidels, who denied that Jesus Christ had taken upon him true Flesh, saying, he only had the appearance of it, and suffered only in appearance. And these are thought to be the Followers of Simon Magus, who taking upon him to be Christ, said, that he (c) appeared in Judea as a Man, not being so, and seem'd to suffer when he did not so, (d) Saturninus, one of his Followers, taught that Christ only appeared

(a) Ad Ecclesiam Hierosolymitanam præcipuè omnes favorem impendunt, quasi matri Christiani nominis. Vide Coteler. not in lib. 2. Recogn. p. 338. 339.

(b) Οὐκ ἄσπερ ἄπιστοί τινες λέγουσι τὸ δοκεῖν αὐτὸν πεπονθέναι, §. 2. καὶ ὁμολογῶν αὐτὸν σαρκοφόρον. §. 5. Vide § 4. and 7 (c) Καὶ φανῆναι ἐν Ἰουδαίᾳ ὡς ἄνθρωπον, μὴ ὄντα ἄνθρωπον, καὶ παθεῖν, ἅπερ πεπονθότα. Theod. Hær. Fab l. 1. c. 1. (d) Putative visum hominem. Iren. l. 1. c. 22. peared as a Man, and ſuffered in appearance only. But the Apoſtle could not here put in this Caution againſt him, becauſe he was not yet in being when this Epiſtle was indited. According to the other rendring of the words, denying Jeſus Chriſt who is come in the Fleſh, they will ſignifie the ſame as denying him to be the Meſſiah, and ſo reſpect the unbelieving Jews, and be deſigned to eſtabliſh them to whom he wrote againſt that Apoſtacy which was then among the Jewiſh Converts.

f Ver. 8. Μισθὸν πλήρη, that we loſe not — a full Reward.] Hence it follows, That it is not only lawful, but is the Duty of a Chriſtian to ſerve God with reſpect to the Recompence of Reward. 2. That they who once walked in the Truth as they had received a Commandment, v. 4. had Chriſtian Charity, v. 5. even that love which enabled them to walk according to God's Commandments, v. 6. might loſe thoſe things which they had wrought.

g Ver. 9. Ὁ μένων ἐν τῇ διδαχῇ, he that abideth in the Doctrine of Chriſt.] Theſe words being in ſenſe the ſame with thoſe we find, 1 John 2. 22, 23, 24. ſeem to ſhew that the Doctrine of Chriſt here mentioned is this fundamental Doctrine, that Jeſus is the Chriſt, and then the not abiding in it muſt be the Apoſtatizing from it to Judaiſm, which St. Paul, and the Apoſtles of the Circumciſion, ſo much laboured to prevent.

h Ver. 10. Χαίρειν αὐτῷ μὴ λέγετε, bid him not God ſpeed.] This Precept ſeems to be taken from the Jews, who were forbid to ſay שלום, God ſpeed, to a Man that was excommunicated, or was doing any evil Action. (e) Hence is it forbidden by their Canons, to ſay, God ſpeed to a Man that is plowing on the Sabbath day. They alſo are forbid to come within four Cubits of an Heretick, or of a Perſon excommunicated; and much more to admit him into their houſes. But yet this doth not forbid us to ſhew humanity towards a Diſtreſſed Heretick, (ſeeing he ceaſeth not to be of the number of thoſe whom we ſhould pity and pray for,) but only is a Prohibition from doing any thing which imports a Conſent to, or Approbation of his Evil Actions.

A PARAPHRASE WITH ANNOTATIONS ON THE

Verſe 1. THE Elder to the beloved b [b] Gaius, whom I love in the Truth, [i. e. with great ſincerity.]

2. Beloved, I wiſh above all [things] that thou mayeſt proſper, and be in health, [περὶ πάντων, in all things temporal,] even as thy Soul proſpereth [in all things Spiritual.]

3. For I rejoiced greatly when the Brethren came [out of Judæa,] and teſtified of the truth of the Goſpel that is in thee, even as thou walkeſt in the Truth, [confirming their Teſtimony by thy Converſation.]

c 4. I have no greater Joy [c] than to hear that my Children walk in [the] Truth.

5. Beloved, thou doſt faithfully, [as becomes a faithful Chriſtian,] whatſoever thou doſt to the Brethren, and to Strangers [whom thou receiveſt into thy houſe, Rom. 16. 23.]

6. Who have born witneſs of thy Cha- d rity before the Church, [d] whom if thou bring forward on their Journey after a godly ſort, [i. e. with ſuch Charity and Care, as becomes one who conſiders that he performs theſe things not to Men only, but to God and Chriſt, whoſe Miniſters they are,] thou ſhalt do well.

e 7. Becauſe that [e] for his Name's ſake they went forth [to preach the Goſpel, Acts 15. 26.] taking nothing of the Gentiles, [to whom they preached the Goſpel without Charge, 1 Cor. 9. 18.]

8. We therefore ought to receive ſuch, that we [Chriſtians who do not preach it] might [yet] be fellow-helpers to the Truth, [by helping them that do ſo.]

9. [f] I wrote to the Church, but Dio- f trephes, who loveth to have the Preeminence among them, receiveth us not.

10. Wherefore, if I come, [g] I will remem- g ber his Deeds which he doth, prating againſt us, [me, and the other Apoſtles who thought not fit to lay the burthen of Circumciſion on the believing Gentiles,] with malicious words, and not content therewith, neither doth he himſelf receive the Brethren, and [but] forbiddeth them that would, and caſteth them out of the Church, [as the Jews did the uncircumciſed out of their Society. See Note on James 2. 12.]

11. Beloved, follow not that which is evil, [after the Example of Diotrephes,] but that which is good, [as Demetrius doth, for] he that doth good is of God, [who is good to all,] but he that doth evil hath not ſeen God, [1 John 3. 6, 10.]

12. Demetrius hath [a] good report of all Men, and of the Truth it ſelf; yea, and we alſo bear record [of him;] and ye know that our record is true. [John 19. 35. 21. 14.]

13. I had many things [which it would be profitable] to write, but I will not with Ink and Pen write unto thee.

14. But I truſt I ſhall ſhortly ſee thee, and we ſhall ſpeak face to face. Peace be to thee. Our Friends ſalute thee; greet the Friends by Name.

a Ἰωάννου τοῦ Ἀποστόλου Ἐπιστολὴ καθολικὴ τρίτη, i. e. the Third Epiſtle general of the Apoſtle John.] That this Epiſtle was written by the Author of the Firſt, and Second, and therefore by St. John the Apoſtle, appears by the Agreement of them in Words and Phraſes. For,

1ſt. The Elder, v. 1. I rejoiced greatly that thou walkeſt in the Truth, v. 3. He that doth good is of God, he that doth evil, hath not ſeen God, are the uſual Phraſes of the Firſt, and Second Epiſtles.

2dly. Thoſe words, I have no greater joy than to hear that my Children walk in the Truth, are in ſenſe the ſame with the fourth verſe of the ſecond Epiſtle. The thirteenth and fourteenth Verſes are in Words the ſame with the twelfth Verſe of that Epiſtle.

3dly. Thoſe Words v. 12. And we bear witneſs, and ye know that our witneſs is true, do characterize this Apoſtle: For as they are words of confirmation importing an Apoſtolical Authority, ſo are they twice uſed by this Apoſtle, John 19. 35. 21. 24. and by him only.

b Ver. 1. Gaius.] This Gaius who is here commended for his Charity to, and Entertainment both of the Brethren and Strangers, v. 5. and eſpecially of thoſe who went out from the Church of Jeruſalem, to preach the Goſpel among the Gentiles, and who had given Teſtimony of his Love before the Church, ſeems to be Gaius of Corinth, ſtiled by St. Paul, Gaius my hoſt, and of the whole Church, Rom. 16. 23. where there is intimation of his Charity to the Brethren, and to himſelf, given by St. Paul to thoſe at Rome, and ſo a Teſtimony of it, from one of them who went out to preach the Goſpel among the Gentiles, taking nothing of them. And indeed Paul and Barnabas went out upon this Errand, firſt from Antioch, by the Direction of the Spirit, Acts 13. 4. then from Jeruſalem, being ſent by that Church to Antioch, Acts 15. 30. And they went out ὑπὲρ ὀνόματος αὐτοῦ, for the Name of Chriſt, v. 26. taking nothing of the Gentiles, 1 Cor. 9. 5, 6. So did alſo Titus and Timothy, and all that were ſent by St. Paul to Achaia, 2 Cor. 12. 17, 18. So did they at Theſſalonica, 1 Theſſ. 2. 9. and ſo did none of the reſt of the Apoſtles, or Brethren of the Lord, 1 Cor. 9. 5, 6. So that we have no ground from Scripture to refer this to any other. And whereas it is ſaid that Gaius of Corinth was the Convert of St. Paul, 1 Cor. 1. 14. whereas this Gaius is here ſtiled one of St. John's Children, and ſo muſt be ſuppoſed to have been the Convert of St. John: To this it may be anſwered, That St. John calls all to whom he writes, his Children, 1 John 2. 1, 12, 18, 28. 3. 7, 18. 5. 21. and ſo the word Children ſignifies with him, no more than the word Chriſtian Brethren; and Elders and Fathers being oft of the ſame import, he ſtiling himſelf an Elder, may well call them he writes to, Children.

Ver. 4. Ἵνα ἀκούω, than to hear.] This c Conſtruction of the Conjunction ἵνα, ſaith Betuleius, is ſufficient to ſhew that this is the Epiſtle of St. John, it being almoſt peculiar to him to uſe this Conjunction for ὅτε, or ὅταν, or ἤ ἵνα, as John 15. 8. In this is my Father glorified, ἵνα, when you bring forth much fruit; and v. 13. Greater love than this hath no Man, i. e. ἵνα, than that a Man lay down his life for the Brethren, Chap. 16. 2. The time will come, ἵνα, when they will put you out of the Synagogues. And v. 32. The hour cometh, ἵνα, when you ſhall be ſcattered. See Note on 1 John 4. 17.

Ver. 6. Οὓς προπέμψας ἀξίως τοῦ Θεοῦ, d whom if thou bring forward as is worthy of God;] i. e. as it is fit to receive the Miniſters of God. So to receive Phœbe ἀξίως τῶν ἁγίων is to receive her as it becometh Chriſtians to receive the Saints, Rom. 16. 2. The word προπέμψας is the word ſtill uſed concerning them who are to be ſent forward in preaching the Goſpel, or in their Travels concerning the Affairs of the Church. See Acts 15. 3. 20. 38. 21. 5. Rom. 15. 24. 1 Cor. 16. 6, 11. 2 Cor. 1. 16. Tit. 3. 13.

Ver. 7. Ὑπὲρ γὰρ τοῦ ὀνόματος αὐτοῦ ἐξῆλθον, e for his Names ſake they went forth.] That is, ſaith one, they were expell'd, or caſt out; referring this to the Chriſtians, who by the Perſecution of the unbelieving Jews, were driven from Jeruſalem, Acts 8. 1. But 1ſt. The word ἐξῆλθον, they went forth, is only uſed in the forcible ſenſe, when mention is made of Devils going forth from thoſe they poſſeſſed at Chriſt's command, and never of any Chriſtians expell'd from any place for the profeſſion of Chriſtianity. 2dly. The Apoſtle ſpeaks manifeſtly here of thoſe who went out as the Apoſtles and Miniſters of Chriſt to preach to the Gentiles, whereas they of the Diſperſion mentioned Acts 8. 1. went out to avoid Perſecutions, and preached to the Jews only, not thinking it lawful to converſe with, or preach to the Gentiles, Acts 11. 19.

Ver. 9. Ἔγραψα, I wrote.] I had writ- f ten, ſo the Vulgar: I would have writ, ſo the Syriac: The Hebrews often uſe the Præ-

teritum for the Plusquam perfectum; and Vossius observes of the Aorist, that it is so called, because it is used sometimes for the Perfect, sometimes for the Preterperfect Tense, and then ἔγραψα may be rendred, I had written. See Examples of this Nature, Note on 1 Cor. 5. 9. The Apostle then seems here to obviate an Objection why he writes to Gaius, a single Person, and not to the whole Church, declaring that he would have writ to the Church, but then Diotrephes, and his Party, would have hindred the effect of his writing. Now who this Diotrephes was, is wholly uncertain: I see no ground for the conjecture of Grotius, that he was a Gentile Convert, who would not admit those Jews, who professing Christianity, still observed the Rites of the Law, into the Christian Assemblies. Estius, on the contrary, conjectures that he was one of those Jewish Zealots who held it necessary, that even the Gentile Converts should be circumcised, and observe the Law, and rejected those who had declared for the contrary, as we know from St. Paul, and the Council at Jerusalem, St. John had done; and that there were Men in Corinth, and Galatia, who upon this account opposed the Apostles, we learn from those Epistles; but read not of any Gentile Converts who would not receive the weak Jews, or be hospitable to them, on the account of their observance of the Law, much less, of any of them who opposed themselves to the Apostles upon this account. Moreover, the subject of the Apostle's writing being to exhort Christians to receive them who had gone out to preach the Gospel among the Gentiles, taking nothing of them, and all that did so, as far as we know any thing of them, being against these Impositions, the Apostle could not fear they should not be received, because Observers of the Law; but on the contrary, because they were dead to the Law.

Ver. 10. Ὑπομνήσω, I will remember his g Works.] Private Offences against our selves must be forgiven and forgotten, but when the Offence εἰς τὴν πίστιν ἐμπόδιον φέρει, is an impediment to the Faith, and very prejudicial to the Church, it is to be opposed, and openly reproved.

THE PREFACE TO THE General Epistle of St. JUDE.

HAVING Proved, Note on Ver. 1. That Jude the Apostle was the Author of this Epistle, I have nothing more to add, by way of Preface to it, but the Words of the learned Dr. Lightfoot, which are these:

'As the Second Epistle of St. Peter, and this of Jude, are very near a-kin in Style, Matter, and Subject; so is it fairly conjecturable that they were not far removed in time, speaking both of wicked Ones, and wickedness, at the same Height and Ripeness. It may be Jude stands up in the Charge of his Brother James among the Circumcision of Judæa, and directs his Epistle to all those who were sanctified and preserved in those Apostatizing Times, as his Brother had done to all the Twelve Tribes in general.

'In citing the Story of Michael the Arch-Angel contending with the Devil about the Body of Moses, Ver. 9. he doth but the same that St. Paul doth in naming Jannes and Jambres, 2 Tim. 3. 8. namely, alledge a Story which was current, and owned among that Nation, though there was no such thing in Scripture; and so he argueth with them from their own Authors and Concessions: For among the Talmudists there seems to be something like the Relicks of such a Matter, viz. of Michael and the Angel of Death disputing, or discoursing about fetching away the Soul of Moses.

'His alledging the Prophecy of Enoch, is an arguing of the very like Nature; as reciting, and referring to some known and common Tradition that they had among them. To this purpose the Book Sepher Jesher, an Hebrew Writer, speaketh of Enoch after such a Tenour; and in both these he useth their own Testimonies against themselves, as if he should have said at large, These Men speak evil of Dignities, whereas they have, and own a Story for current, that even Michael the Arch-Angel did not speak evil of the Devil, when he was striving with him about the Body of Moses. And whereas they shew and own a Prophecy of Enoch, of God coming to Judgment, these are the very Men to whom this Matter is to be applied. Which Words give a sufficient Answer to the only Objection made against the Authority of this Book; viz. That it cites Apocryphal Writings.

Verſe 1. JUDE the ſervant of Jeſus Chriſt, and [a] Brother of James, to them that are ſanctified by God the Father, and preſerv'd in Jeſus Chriſt, and called: [Gr. to the called, who have been ſanctified by God the Father, and preſerved in (the faith of) Jeſus Chriſt.]

2. Mercy unto you, and Peace, and Love be multiplied.

3. Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common Salvation, it was needful for me, [Gr. I thought it neceſſary] to write unto you, and exhort you that you ſhould earneſtly contend for [b] the faith which was once delivered to the Saints.

4. For there are certain Men crept in unawares, [Gr. for certain Men have entred, viz. into the Church,] who were [c] of old ordained to this Condemnation, ungodly Men, [d] turning the Grace of God into Laſciviouſneſs, and denying the only [e] Lord God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

5. I will therefore put you in remembrance, though you once knew this, how that the Lord having ſaved the People [of Iſrael, of whom you are a part,] out of the Land of Egypt, afterwards deſtroyed [f] them that believed not.

6. And the Angels [g] which kept not their firſt Eſtate, but left their own Habitation, he hath reſerved in everlaſting Chains under darkneſs unto the Judgment of the great day.

7. Even as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Cities about them, [h] in like manner giving themſelves over to Fornication, and going after ſtrange [Gr. other] fleſh, [i] are ſet forth for an example, ſuffering the vengeance of eternal fire.

8 Likewiſe alſo [k] theſe filthy Dreamers defile the fleſh, deſpiſe Dominion, and ſpeak evil of Dignities.

9. Yet Michael the Arch-Angel, when contending with the Devil, he diſputed [l] about the Body of Moſes, durſt not bring againſt him a railing Accuſation, but ſaid, The Lord rebuke thee.

10. But theſe ſpeak evil of [m] thoſe things which they know not, but what they know naturally, as brute beaſts; in thoſe things they corrupt themſelves.

11. Wo unto them, for they have gone [n] in the way of Cain, and ran greedily after the Error of Balaam for Reward, and periſhed, [o] in the gainſaying of Core.

12. Theſe are [p] ſpots in your [q] feaſts of Charity, when they feaſt with you, feeding themſelves without fear [of Intemperance or eating things offered to Idols:] [r] Clouds they are without water, carried about of winds; [ſ] Trees whoſe fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots.

13. [t] Raging waves of the Sea, foaming out their own ſhame, [u] wandring Stars, to whom is reſerved the blackneſs of darkneſs for ever.

14. And

14. And Enoch alſo, the ſeventh from x Adam, [x] propheſied of [Gr. to] theſe, ſaying, Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thouſand of his Saints,

15. To execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them, of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard ſpeeches, which ungodly ſinners have ſpoken againſt him.

16. Theſe are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own luſts; and their mouth ſpeaketh great ſwelling words, having Mens perſons in admiration becauſe of advantage.

17. But beloved, remember ye the words which were ſpoken before [by] the Apoſtles of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt:

18. How that they told ye there ſhould be mockers in the laſt time, who ſhould walk after their own ungodly Luſts. [See Note on 2 Pet. 3. 2, 3.

19. Theſe be they who ſeparate themſelves, ſenſual, having not the Spirit.

20. But ye beloved, building up your ſelves in your moſt holy Faith, praying in the Holy Ghoſt, 21. Keep your ſelves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt unto eternal life.

22. And of ſome have compaſſion, making a difference, [betwixt the Beguilers through ſubtilty, and the beguiled through ſimplicity.]

23. And others ſave with fear, pulling them out of the Fire, hating even the Garment ſpotted by the Fleſh.

24. Now unto him that is able, [and willing to do his part, ſee Note on Rom. 14. 4.] to keep you from falling, and to preſent you faultleſs before the Preſence of his Glory, with exceeding Joy;

25. To the only wiſe God, [who alone is infinite in wiſdom, and hath that wiſdom from himſelf, and who is] our Saviour, be Glory and Majeſty, Dominion and Power [aſcribed] both now and ever. Amen.

ANNOTATIONS.

a Verſe 1. Ἀδελφὸς Ἰακώβου, the Brother of James.] This Characteriſtick is ſufficient to aſſure us this Epiſtle can belong only to Jude the Apoſtle, (diſtinguiſhed from Judas Iſcariot by this Title, that he was Judas the Brother of James, Luke 6. 16.) and to confirm the Title given to this Epiſtle by the Ancients, The General Epiſtle of Jude the Apoſtle; this being a plain Demonſtration of the Point, Grotius will have theſe words, The Brother of James to be an addition of ſome Tranſcriber; but this being ſaid without any proof, lays the whole Scripture uncertain, ſince every Man may ſay, if that will be ſufficient without proof, that what he diſlikes is the addition of ſome Tranſcriber. (a) Tertullian is poſitive that Enoch apud Judam Apoſtolum teſtimonium poſſidet, hath the Teſtimony of Jude the Apoſtle to confirm his Prophecy, and among the Apoſtles of Chriſt (b) Origen reckons Peter the writer of two Epiſtles, and James and Jude. That in this Epiſtle he doth not ſtile himſelf an Apoſtle can be no argument to conclude he was not an Apoſtle, ſince the ſame argument will prove that St. James and St. John, and even St. Paul were no Apoſtles.

b Ver. 3. Τῇ ἅπαξ παραδοθείσῃ πίστει, the faith once delivered to the Saints.] Here, ſaith Eſthius, the Apoſtle inſinuates that which the Fathers teach, viz. that nothing can be added to the Faith, becauſe it was delivered all at once as a Depoſitum, ſo to be kept that nothing ought to be added to it, or taken from it. Whence it is evident to a Demonſtration, that the new Articles added by the Trent Council to the Apoſtles Creed, can be no Articles of the Chriſtian Faith, as being not delivered by Chriſt, or his Apoſtles to the World, nor known to the Chriſtians for many Ages after their deceaſe.

c Ver. 4. Προγεγραμμένοι εἰς τοῦτο τὸ κρῖμα, before ordained to this Condemnation.] Gr. of whom it was before written that this ſhould be their Condemnation. For that this cannot be meant of any Divine Ordination, or Appointment of them to eternal Condemnation, is evident, 1ſt. Becauſe it cannot be thought, without horror, that God doth thus ordain Men to Perdition before they had any being. 2dly. The word κρῖμα here relates not unto ſin, but puniſhment, the fruit of ſin. So Mark 12. 40. They ſhall receive περισσότερον κρῖμα greater puniſhment. Thinkeſt thou this, Oh Man, that thou ſhalt avoid τὸ κρῖμα τοῦ Θεοῦ the Judgment, or Puniſhment of God? Now God ordaineth none to Puniſhment but Sinners, and ungodly Men, as theſe Perſons here are ſtiled. And, 3dly. Theſe were Men of whom it was before written, or propheſied, that they ſhould be condemned for their wickedneſs; for v. 14, Enoch προεφήτευσε, propheſied before to, (or of) theſe Men, ſaying, That God would come ποιῆσαι κρίσιν, to do judgment upon all, and to reprove all the ungodly among them; And in the parallel place of St. Peter (2 Pet. 2. 3.) their Puniſhment is ſtiled τὸ κρίμα ἔκπαλαι, the Puniſhment long ago denounced againſt them, viz. that they ſhould be reſerved unto the day of Judgment to be puniſhed, v. 9. that they ſhould periſh in their Corruption, v. 12. they being the Men to whom the blackneſs of darkneſs was reſerved for ever, v. 13. And this is the very thing that both St. Peter from v. 4. to the 13th. and St. Jude from this v. to the 16th. ſet themſelves to prove. And this alſo is the import of the word προγεγραφῶν, Rom. 15. 4. ὅσα προεγράφη, whatſoever things were before written, were written for our Inſtruction. And Gal. 3. 1. See the Note there. He ſpeaks this of them, ſaith (c) Oecumenius, becauſe St. Peter and St. Paul had before ſpoken of them, that in the laſt time there ſhould come ſuch Deceivers; and before them Chriſt himſelf, ſaying many ſhall come in my Name and deceive many. And againſt this Interpretation of Oecumenius and Dr. Hammond, there lies only this Objection, that the Judgment mentioned by Chriſt and his Apoſtles, not long before, cannot ſo properly be called κρίμα τὸ ἔκπαλαι, the Judgment long ago denounced, nor could theſe ungodly Men be ſtiled οἱ πάλαι προγεγραμμένοι, the Men propheſied of of old, on that account, ſo well as if this be referr'd to the Prophecy of Enoch, Jude 14. or to the words ſpoken before by the Holy Prophets, 2 Pet. 3. 2. For ἔκπαλαι and πάλαι joyned with προγεγραμμένοι, ſeem plainly to import ſome ancient time in which this Judgment was denounced againſt theſe ungodly Men.

d Ibid. Μετατιθέντες, turning the Grace of God into Laſciviouſneſs.] This agrees exactly with the lewd Doctrines of the Nicolaitans, mention'd Note on 2 Pet. 2. and as exactly with the Doctrine of Simon Magus, that they who believed in him and his Helena might freely do what they liſted, ſecundum enim ipſius gratiam ſalvari, ſed non ſecundum operas juſtas, Men being to be ſaved by his Grace, and not by Works, Iren. l. 1. c. 29. Theodoret Hær. Fab. l. 1. c. 1.

e Ibid. Καὶ τὸν μόνον δεσπότην Θεὸν καὶ κύριον ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἀρνούμενοι.] Theſe words may be thus rendred, and denying Jeſus Chriſt our only Maſter, God and Lord. And that they ought to be thus rendred is argued, 1. Becauſe one Article only is put before all theſe words, δεσπότης, Θεὸς, κύριος; which ſhews they all belong to the ſame Perſon. 2. Becauſe the Perſon who is here δεσπότης Θεὸς, the only Maſter God, is by St. Peter, 2 Pet. 2. 1. ſtiled ὁ ἀγοράσαντα αὐτοὺς δεσπότην, the Lord that bought them: Now it is Chriſt who bought us with the price of his own Blood. To the firſt of theſe Arguments Grotius and Woltzogenius anſwer, That it is common in Scripture to affix one and the ſame Article to divers Perſons, and in particular to God the Father, and to Chriſt: as V. G. No Fornicator, or unclean Perſon ſhall have any Inheritance in the Kingdom, τοῦ Χριστοῦ καὶ Θεοῦ, of Chriſt and of God, Eph. 5. 5. I charge thee ἐνώπιον τοῦ Θεοῦ καὶ Κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, before God and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Tim. 5. 21. which 2 Tim. 4. 1. is τοῦ Θεοῦ καὶ τοῦ Κυρίου, and 2 Pet. 1. 2. in the knowledge, τοῦ Θεοῦ καὶ Ἰησοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν, of God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. See 1 Tim. 6. 13. To the ſecond Argument it may be anſwered, That in Scripture, not only Chriſt, but the Father is ſaid to have bought and purchaſed us, Acts 20. 28. 1 Cor. 6. 20. And that he is the Perſon intended by St. Peter, See the Note there. And ſeeing the word δεσπότης is never elſewhere aſcribed to Chriſt, I think our Verſion, which puts the Comma after God, is without juſt exception. Note alſo, that Simon Magus denied both the God of Iſrael and Jeſus Chriſt, declaring that he himſelf was that (d) infinite Power which appeared to the Samaritans as the Father, and to the Jews as the Son of God; and ſo he and his Followers denied both the Father and the Son.

Ver. 5. Τοὺς μὴ πιστεύσαντας, them that f believed not.] i. e. ſaith Grotius, thoſe that obeyed not; for ſuch ſhew they believe not at all, or not aright. But this Note is needleſs here; for the Scripture expreſly ſaith, they periſhed in the Wilderneſs, becauſe they believed not in God, but tempted, i. e. diſtruſted him, ten times, Numb. 14. 22. Pſal. 106. 24. And St. Paul, We ſee then they could not enter in becauſe of unbelief, Heb. 3. 18, 19. Heb. 4. 2.

Ver. 6. Μὴ τηρήσαντας τὴν ἑαυτῶν ἀρχὴν, g not keeping their original eſtate, ἀλλὰ ἀπολιπόντας τὸ ἴδιον οἰκητήριον, but leaving their proper habitation. That which we are to enjoy for ever is in the ſtile of Scripture called, τὸ ἴδιον, our own, that which is proper to us; that which we are to leave to others, τὸ ἀλλότριον, as in thoſe words, If you have been unfaithful in that which is another Man's, who will give you that which is your own? Luke 16. 10, 12. Theſe Angels being therefore primarily deſigned to live for ever in the the higheſt Heavens, the Regions of Light and Bliſs, they are here ſtiled their proper habitation. See Note on 2 Pet. 2. 4.

h Ver. 7. Τὸν ὅμοιον τούτοις τρόπον ἐκπορνεύσασαι, fornicating then, and going after other fleſh, in like manner,] as theſe do now. Of both theſe Crimes the Nicolaitans were notoriouſly guilty: For 1ſt. They held that Matrimony was a mere human Inſtitution that oblig'd no Man's Conſcience; and ſo did indiſcretè vivere, live without making any difference betwixt one Woman and another. And 2dly. They practiſed unnatural luſts, and Sodomitical Copulations, as may be proved from the Teſtimonies of (e) Irenæus, Clemens of Alexandria, the Conſtitutions of the Apoſtles, Epiphanius, and others.

i Ibid. πρόκειται δεῖγμα πυρὸς αἰωνίου δίκην ὑπέχουσαι, are ſet forth for an example, ſuffering the vengeance of eternal fire.] That this is ſpoken not of the Cities themſelves, but of the Inhabitants which dwelt in them, i. e. of them who had given themſelves over to Fornication, and gone after ſtrange Fleſh, is evident; but yet I conceive they are ſaid to ſuffer the vengeance of eternal fire, not becauſe their Souls are at preſent puniſhed in Hell fire, but becauſe they, and their Cities periſhed by that fire from Heaven which brought a perpetual, and irreparable Deſtruction on them, and their Cities. For 1ſt. We have proved, Note on 2 Pet. 2. 6. 3. 7. that even the Devils themſelves are not tormented at preſent in that infernal fire, but only will be caſt into it at the day of Judgment; and therefore neither do the wicked Sodomites yet ſuffer in thoſe Flames. 2dly. I would admoniſh you, ſaith the Apoſtle, Though you once knew this, that Sodom and Gomorrah thus ſuffered the vengeance of eternal fire. Now from the Hiſtory of Geneſis, and the Writings of the Prophets, they might know that theſe Cities, and the Inhabitants of them were overthrown εἰς αἰῶνα with a perpetual Deſolation, Zeph. 2. 9. but they could not know from thence that their Souls were afterwards caſt into Hell fire. 3dly. Τὸ δεῖγμα an example, is to be taken from ſomething viſible to, or knowable by all who were to be terrified by it, eſpecially when it is δεῖγμα προκείμενον an example manifeſted, and propoſed: Now ſuch was not the Puniſhment of their Souls in Hell fire; but nothing was more known and celebrated among Authors, Sacred and Prophane, Jewiſh, Chriſtian, and Heathen Writers, than τὸ ἐπὶ πᾶσι καταβάσιον Πενταπόλεως, the fire that fell down upon Pentapolis, or the five Cities of Sodom, they being mention'd ſtill in Scripture as the Cities which God overthrew with a perpetual Deſolation; in the Apocryphal Writings, the waſte Land that yet ſmoaketh, and the Plants bearing fruit that never come to ripeneſs, being, ſaith the Book of Wiſdom, μαρτύριον τῆς πονηρίας, a Teſtimony of their Wickedneſs, Wiſd. 10. 7. and of the Divine Vengeance on them for it. The Author of the Hiſtory of the Maccabees, ſaith, that God deſtroying them by fire and brimſtone, Macc. 3. 2, 5. παράδειγμα τοῖς ὑπομένουσι κατέλιπεν, left them an Example to the Ages to come. (f) Philo ſaith, that the Cinders, Brimſtone and Smoak, and the obſcure flame as it were of a fire burning, yet appearing about Syria, are Memorials of the perpetual evils which happened to them, (g) Joſephus adds, that the things which are ſaid of Sodom, ἔχει πίστιν ἀπὸ τῆς ὄψεως, are confirm'd by ocular inſpection, there being yet viſible ſome Relicks of the fire coming down from Heaven, and the ſhadows of the five Cities. This Region, ſay (h) Clemens Romanus, and other Chriſtian Writers, being condemned by Fire and Brimſtone made it apparent that God reſerves the Wicked for puniſhment and ſtripes. Even (i) Heathen Writers do confeſs that 'twas traditionally received, that formery there were fruitful Fields, and large Cities which were afterwards conſumed by Thunder and Lightning. And 4. This ſenſe may be farther confirmed from the parallel place of St. Peter, who ſaith, that God reducing the Cities of Sodom and Gomorrah to aſhes, condemned (the Inhabitants of) them by that overthrow, propoſing them for an example of his vindictive Juſtice upon them who afterwards ſhould live ungodly: Where plainly the τέφρωσις, the Reduction of thoſe Cities with their Inhabitants into Aſhes, or the burning them by Fire and Brimſtone falling down from Heaven, is mentioned as the thing which placed them as an Example of God's Vengeance on the ungodly to all future Ages; nor could any thing be a more fit Example of it; for ſince St. Peter hath informed us, That the Heavens and the Earth that now are, are reserved to fire against the Day of Judgment, and Destruction of ungodly Men, when the Earth and the Works that are therein shall be burnt up, what could be a more exact Emblem of that Day, when God will come in flaming fire to take vengeance on the wicked, and leave them burning with the Earth for ever, than was this burning of the Cities and the Inhabitants of Sodom, by Fire and Brimstone falling down from Heaven; nor is there any thing more common and familiar in Scripture, than to represent a thorow and irreparable vastation, whose Effects and Signs should be still remaining, by the word ἀιώνιος, which we here render eternal. I will set thee εἰς ἔρημον ἀιώνιον, in places desolate of old, Ezek. 26. 20. I will destroy thee, and thou shalt be no more, εἰς τ ἀιῶνα for ever, v. 21. I will make thee ἐρημιαν ἀιώνιον, a perpetual Desolation, and thy Cities shall be built no more, Chap. 35. 9. See also Ezek. 36. 2. Isai. 58. 12. They have caused them to stumble in their ways, to make their Land desolate, and σύριγμα ἀιώνιον, a perpetual hissing, Jer. 18. 15, 16. I will bring upon you, ὀνειδισμὸν ἀιώνιον, an everlasting reproach and a perpetual shame, which shall not be forgotten, Jer. 23. 40. 25. 9. I will make the Land of the Chaldeans a perpetual Desolation, θήσομαι αὐτὰς εἰς ἀφανισμὸν ἀιώνιον, they shall sleep, ὕπνον ἀιώνιον, a perpetual sleep, Jer. 51. 39. And this especially is threatned, where the Destruction of a Nation or People is likened to the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah; thus, Babylon shall be as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, ὰ κατοικηθήσεται εἰς τ ἀιῶνα χρόνον, It shall never be inhabited, Isai. 13. 19, 20. And again, Jer. 50. 40. The like is said of Edom, Jer. 49. 17, 18. and of Moab, surely Moab shall be as Sodom, and the Children of Ammon as Gomorrah, ἠφανισμένη εἰς τ ἀιῶνα, a perpetual Desolation, Zeph. 2. 9.

k Ver. 8. οἱ ἐνυπνιαζόμενοι, these filthy Dreamers.] These Dreamers of Dreams, or vain Imaginations; for I find not that the word ἐνυπνιάζω bears any impure sense as ὀνειρώσσω sometimes doth. The Apostle therefore seems to refer to the delirous fancies of their filthy Æones, Prunice and Calacauth, which gave the rise to all the filthiness the Nicolaitans committed, and after them the Gnosticks and the Carpocratians. See the Note on 2 Pet. 2. 11. And therefore (k) Clemens of Alexandria saith of these Nicolaitans, and their Successors the Gnosticks and the Carpocratians, that St. Jude speaks of them in these words prophetically, the Nicolaitans being only then in being, and the Gnosticks and Carpocratians succeeding them.

l Ver. 9. Περὶ τ̃ Μωσέως σώματος, about the Body of Moses.] That the Body of the Jews, and their Service should be here called the Body of Moses, and that these words are to be referred to Zach. 3. 1. seems not very probable; seeing in that Prophet there is no mention of Michael, or of the Body, or the Death of Moses. Nor doth Onias speak of the Body of Moses, 2 Macc. 15. 12. but περὶ παντὸς Ἰουδαίων συσήματος, of the whole Jewish Nation. Moreover, that Moses was not buried by the Jews we learn from the Scripture which saith, No Man knoweth of his Sepulchre unto this day, Deut. 34. 6. and therefore (l) Philo saith he was buried χρείαν ὐ θνητὰς, ἀλλ' ἀθανάτοις δυνάμεσιν, not by Men, but Angels: That there was an Altercation betwixt Michael the Archangel, and Samael the Prince of Devils, about the Body of Moses, we learn from the Traditions of the (m) Jews, and 'tis most probable it was not only that his Sepulchre might be unknown, lest the Jews who were prone to Idolatry, should worship him, but about the ascent of it into Heaven, he being taken away as Enoch and Elias were, and not dying the common death of all Men, (which Satan contended he ought to do (n) διὰ τ τ̃ Αἰγυπτίου φόνον, for killing the Egyptian) but disappearing only. Hence the Jews say, ascendit ad ministrandum excelso, that he ascended to minister to the Lord: And (o) Philo saith, God brought him πλησίον ἑαυτ̃, near to himself, saying to him, stand with me, and that by the Word of God, μετανίσας, he was translated, whence he was present with Elias at the Transfiguration of our Lord.

p Ver. 12. Σπιλάδες, Spots.] Σπίλας, πέτρα τις, the word ſignifies a Rock, ſaith Phavorinus. They are hollow Stones or Rocks in the Sea, againſt which Ships ſplit, ſay the Lexicons: Σπιλάδες τοῖς πλέουσιν ὀλέθριοι, ἀπροσδοκήτως σπιλωνόμεναι, Rocks which are pernicious to Navigators, who fall upon them unawares; to which theſe Perſons are compared, becauſe ἐνέλπιστον κακὸν, they bring an unexpected Miſchief upon them that feaſt with them.

q Ibid. Ἐν ταῖς ἀγάπαις, in their Feaſts of Charity.] I ſee no neceſſity of referring this to the Chriſtians Love-Feaſts, celebrated after the Holy Sacrament. It is obſerved by Dr. Lightfoot, Note on 1 Cor. 10. 16. that in the Evening of the Sabbath the Jews had their Κοινωνία, or Communion, when the Inhabitants of the ſame City met together in a common place to eat together; and that they had near to their Synagogues their Ξενοδοχία, or places where Strangers where entertained at the Publick Charge; and where they had their Dormitory; theſe ſurely, were more likely places for ſuch Perſons to come to, and play their Pranks in, than the Love-Feaſts of the Chriſtians.

r Ibid. Νεφέλαι ἄνυδροι, Clouds without water, carried about with the Wind.] Such Clouds, ſaith Oecumenius, refreſh no places with their Showers, for they have no water in them, but they blacken and darken the places over which they hang: Even ſo theſe Men diſtil the Waters of Life upon none; but blacken them with their filthy Practices, being moved to them by the impulſe of Satan, as theſe Clouds are moved by the Winds.

f Ibid. Φθινοπωρινὰ, Trees without fruit, twice dead.] i. e. ſaith Oecumenius, by caſting their fruit, and their leaves too, which gives a Beauty to them: And ſomething like this, ſaith he, happens to theſe Men, who twice die, caſting of their fruit, διὰ τῆς σωφροσύνης, and putting away the Beauty of a ſober Converſation, whence they are rooted up out of the Garden of the Church of God.

t Ver. 13. Κύματα ἄγρια, Raging waves of the Sea.] To which, ſaith he, they are likened for the inſtability of their life, ἢ ἐκ τῆς ἐυδιαλύτου ἀιχρότητος, τοιοῦτος γάρ ὁ πρὸς ὀλίγον παρεικάσθησαν ἄφρος τῶν Κυμάτων.

u Ibid. Ἀστέρες πλανῆται, wandring Stars.] The Jews, ſaith Grotius, were wont to call them who took upon them to be Teachers, Stars: So the Apoſtle calls theſe falſe Teachers, Wandring Stars; becauſe they kept not their Station, but wandred from the Truth, having no true light in them.

x Ver. 14. Προεφήτευσε, propheſied.] From theſe words we learn that Enoch was a Prophet, which he ſhewed even in the Name he gave to his Son Methuſelah, by the Spirit of Prophecy, which ſignifies, ſaith (p) Bochartus, That when he is dead ſhall enſue an Inundation of Waters; whence that of Stephanus concerning Enoch or Hannock, ἐδόθη χρησμὸς ὅτι τότε τελευτήσαντος πάντες διαφθαρήσονται, there was an Oracle given out, that when he was dead all Men ſhould be deſtroyed.

Προεφήτευσε τούτοις, he before propheſied to them.] This is ſaid very poſitively, the Prophecy of Enoch being directed to them, who in like manner had corrupted their ways by Carnality, or Fornication, Gen. 6. 2. and by Idolatry, Chap. 4. 26.

y Ibid. Ἐν μυριάσιν ἁγίαις, with his ten thouſand Saints.] i. e. With his glorious attendance of Myriads of Angels, ſo called Heb. 12. 22. So was he preſent at Mount Sinai when he delivered the Law, whence the Pſalmiſt ſaith, The Chariot of God is Myriads of Angels; ſo the Chaldee, And the Lord is among them as in Sinai, Pſal. 68. 18. So Deut. 32. 2. The Lord cometh from Sinai with his Myriads of Holy Ones: with Myriads of Holy Angels, ſay the Talmud of Jeruſalem, and Jonathan, and Zach. 14. 5. The Lord my God ſhall come, and all his Holy Ones with him, i. e. and all his Guard of Angels; Thoſe who attend him ſitting on his Throne, Dan. 7. 10. Or coming to execute Judgment, Matth. 16. 27. 25. 31. 2 Theſſ. 1. 7.

z Ver. 16. Murmurers and Complainers.] I find nothing of this nature applicable to the Nicolaitans and Gnoſticks in Church-Hiſtory, only the Apoſtle having ſaid, Be ye not Idolaters, nor Fornicators with reſpect to them, 1 Cor. 10. 7, 8. adds, neither be ye Murmurers, v. 10. And the Pſeud-Ignatius calls them Συκοφάντας, malos Calumniatores, Ep. ad Tral. §. 11. But the Jews, of whom the Nicolaitans were a part, were notorious for their Complaints againſt that Providence, which ſeemed to neglect, and deal ſo hardly with ſuch Zealots for God, as they were, as you may ſee in Joſephus de Bell. Jud. l. 7. c. 34. p. 990. B.

aa Ibid. Ὑπέρογκα, great ſwelling words.] This Dr. Hammond refers to Simon Magus, exalting himſelf above all that is called God; but ὑπέρογκα being only proud ſwelling words, called by St. Peter in the parallel place, Ὑπέρογκα ματαιότητος, ſwelling words of Vanity, by which they allured, through the Luſts of the Fleſh to Laſciviouſneſs, thoſe who were clean eſcaped from them that live in Error, 2 Pet. 2. 18. I think it may more probably refer to the words relating lating to their Lusts, mentioned in the Note upon that place.

b b Ibid. Ὠφελείας χάριν, because of Advantage.] See Note on 2 Pet. 2. 3, 14.

c c Ver. 19. Οἱ ἀποδιορίζοντες ἑαυτούς, separating themselves.] Of the Jewish Zealots we read, that they separated, and withdrew from all who were not circumcised Acts 11. 3. Gal. 2. 12. But of the Nicolaitans and Gnosticks we read no such thing, but rather that they assembled with the Christians in their Feasts of Love, v. 12. 2 Pet. 2. 13. Ἀποδιορίζεσθαι therefore, as it respects them, may rather signifie that they distinguished themselves from others as more perfect, and as φύσει πνευματικοὶ by nature (q) Spiritual, stiling all other Christians, ψυχικοὶ Animal Men, which perhaps made the Apostle return this Character upon them, as being truly sensual Persons.

d d Ver. 20. Ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ, in the Holy Ghost.] The Holy Ghost in the New Testament, always signifies some Afflatus, or χάρισμα of the Spirit; and seeing the Person of the Holy Ghost cannot here well be understood, it seems to follow that the Apostle here speaketh of that gift of Prayer, which by the Holy Ghost was conferred upon them in their Publick Assemblies, and Christian Exercises, where they prayed by the Spirit, 1 Cor. 14. 15. and spake to one another in Psalms, and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, being filled with the Spirit, Eph. 5. 18, 19. Col. 3. 16. And so this Passage is interpreted by (r) Oecumenius and Dr. Hammond.

e e Ver. 21. Ἑαυτὸς τηρήσατε, keep your selves, &c. Hence it is evident, That we are not so kept by the Power of God, but that something must be done on our parts, to preserve our selves in the Divine Favour.

f f Ver. 22. Διακρινόμενοι, making, or putting a difference.] Discerning which of them are to be treated with this Mercy, which of them with sharp reproof. That this is the true sense of the word διακρινόμενοι, see Note on Rom. 14. 23. Oecumenius, and some Manuscripts read not ἐλεεῖτε of some have Compassion, but ἐλέγχετε, some reprove, putting a difference betwixt them who are to be rejected, and them who only are to be reproved.

g g Ver. 23. Ἐσπιλωμένον χιτῶνα, hating even the Garment.] To hate and fly the Garments spotted with the Flesh, is only to hate every thing that doth defile, though in the least degree, for so the leprous and unclean Garments did. This Text can therefore yield no Argument against the use of our Ceremonies, till it be proved there is some Defilement, or Impurity in the use of them.

THE PREFACE

SCaliger was pleased to say, Calvinus sapuit, quia non scripsit in Apocalypsin, Calvin was wise because he did not write upon the Revelations. I confess I do it not for want of Wisdom; that is, because I neither have sufficient Reading, nor Judgment, to discern the true Intendment of the Prophecies contained in that Book. But yet conceiving that I have either found out the true Sense of those Words, Chap. 20. 4. which usually are alledged as the Foundation of the supposed Millennium, or Resurrection of the Martyrs to reign with Christ on Earth a thousand years; or at the least have said what is sufficient to shew it is not necessary to understand them in a proper sense; I have comprised my Sentiments of that Controversie in the ensuing Treatise; which I submit to the Judgment of the Reader.

The Introduction.

HAving employ'd ſome Thoughts upon the Myſtery of the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, mention'd by St. Paul, Rom. 11. and comparing the glorious things he there ſays of it, with what the Prophets had foretold of the ſame thing in very high Expreſſions; I began to compare them with what was written in the Revelations concerning the New Jeruſalem, the New Heavens, and New Earth, and the Bride of the Lamb made ready for a Marriage with him; and finding that this Bride was thought, by the beſt Commentators, to be the Jewiſh Church and Nation, Repreſented formerly by our Saviour as not having on her Wedding Garment, Matth. 22. 12. that the New Heavens and New Earth were the very Things promiſed to the Jews, that the New Jeruſalem was deſcribed in the very words of the Prophets and Jewiſh Writers, ſpeaking of that glorious State they expected towards the End of the World; I was ſtrongly inclined to conceive this glorious Converſion which St. Paul ſaith, ſhall be even to the Gentile, ζωὴ ἐκ νεκρῶν, life from the dead, Rom. 11. 15. and which is by the Prophets frequently repreſented as the ζωοποίησις ἀνάστασις, i. e, the New Birth, Reviviſcence, Reſurrection of their Dead Church, and Nation by the Meſſiah; ſo that ὁ θάνατος οὐκ ἔσται ἔτι, Death ſhould be no more, Rev. 21. 4. might be the very Reſurrection intended by St. John, and the flouriſhing Condition and Union both of the Jewiſh and the Gentile Church thus raiſed from the Dead, and ſo continuing in Peace and Plenty, with a great encreaſe of Knowledge, and of Righteouſneſs, and a Return of the Primitive Purity of Doctrine, and of Manners, might be the Reign of the Saints, on Earth a thouſand Years, which the Apoſtle mentions: This naturally led me to a Diſcourſe of the Millennium; which being framed according to this new Hypotheſis, I ſhall now offer it to the Conſideration of the Learned, in the following Method.

1. I ſhall ſtate the true Millennium of the Ancients: ſhewing how far it was received, and by whom oppoſed in the four firſt Centuries, and what were the particular Opinions which then obtained concerning the Millennium; and how far the Modern Patrons of the Millennary State have diſcarded the received Opinion of the Ancients who embrac'd that Doctrine.

2. I ſhall ſhew what Reaſon I have to conceive that this Millennium is to begin with the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation; and doth indeed relate to the moſt happy State and flouriſhing Condition the Church of Chriſt ſhall at that time enjoy.

3. I ſhall attempt to anſwer all that hath been offer'd to prove a proper and literal Reſurrection of the Martyrs, and other Chriſtian Sufferers, and Saints to Reign on Earth a thouſand years; conſider the Pretences of them who place this Reign before the Conflagration of the World, as moſt of the Aſſertors of this Doctrine do; and of the Reverend Dr. Burnet, who makes it to begin after the Conflagration of the World. And,

4. I ſhall offer ſome Arguments againſt this Doctrine of the Millennium, or of the literal Reſurrection of the Saints and Martyrs, to Reign on Earth a thouſand years.

OF THE MILLENNIUM OF THE Ancient Doctors of the CHURCH.

CHAP. I.

That the Doctrine of the Millennium was never generally received in the Church of Christ, is proved, I. From the Testimony of Justin Martyr and Irenæus, §. I. Of Eusebius, Origen and Stephanus Gobarus, and the Distinction which then obtained betwixt the Allegorists and the Disciples of the Letter, §. II. An Answer to the Pretended Tradition of Papias, mentioned by Irenæus, §. III. The Millennium of the Ancients differed from that which is now asserted by the most judicious of the modern Millennaries in Five Particulars: (1st.) The Ancients generally held, That the Temple, or City of Jerusalem should be new built. (2dly.) That all the Just were then to rise, and not Martyrs only. (3dly.) That Jesus Christ should then Reign on Earth. (4thly.) That they should fare Deliciously, and enjoy Corporal Delights. (5thly.) That they should get Children; all which Things are denied by the Modern Millennaries, §. IV. The Necessity of these Doctrines according to the Letter of the Scriptures cited for the Millennium, by those Ancients who espoused that Doctrine, §. V. This Error of some of the Fathers, as to the Millennium, will not invalidate their Authority as to any thing delivered by them as Eye-Witnesses, or which they deliver as the Practice of the Church of Christ in their Days, §. VI.

THE Patrons of the Millennium do usually say, Their Doctrine was both generally received in the Three First Centuries, and was derived by Tradition from the Apostles; and that the first Man who oppos'd it was Dionysius of Alexandria. In opposition to this Pretence, I shall endeavour to make it appear,

I. That this Opinion was never generally received in the Church of Christ.

II. That there is no just Ground to think it was derived from the Apostles, but rather from a Mistake of the Words of the Author of the Apocalypse; or from the Notions of the Jews, and of the Sibylline Author. See L. 2, L. 3, L. 4.

III. That the new Patrons of the Millennium differ in many Things of Moment from the Ancient Assertors of it, and have indeed scarce any Suffrage of Antiquity for that Millennium which they do so stifly maintain. And,

§. I. That this Opinion was never generally received in the Church of Christ, appears sufficiently from the Confessions and very Words of the two first Assertors of it, whose Writings are still extant, viz. Justin Martyr and Irenæus. I begin with Irenæus, because his Words will justifie the ancient Reading of the Words of Justin Martyr, against the Criticism upon them, or rather the Corruption of them by (a) Mr. Mead and (b) Mr. Daille. Irenæus therefore speaks thus, (c) I am not ignorant that some among us, who believe in divers Nations, and by various Works, and who believing do consent with the Just, do yet endeavour, transferre hæc (Gr. Μεταφέρειν,) id to turn these things into Metaphors, or to carry them from their proper to an improper Sense, as Metaphors are wont to do: That this is his meaning is evident from these Words following, But if some have attempted to allegorize these things, they have not been found in all things consistent with themselves, and may be convinced from the Words themselves. Again he complains, That (d) the Sentiments of some were carried away by the Discourses of the Hereticks; so that they were ignorant of the Appointments of God, and the Mystery of the Resurrection of the Just, and the Kingdom. Here then we may evidently discern Three Sorts of Men, 1. The Hereticks denying the Resurrection of the Flesh, and the Millennium. 2*dly*. The exactly Orthodox asserting both the Resurrection and the Kingdom of Christ upon Earth. 3*dly*. The Believers who consented with the Just, and yet endeavoured to allegorize, and turn into Metaphor all those Scriptures he had produced for a proper Reign of Christ, and who had Sentiments rather agreeing with those Hereticks who denied, than those exactly Orthodox, who maintain'd this Reign of Christ on Earth. Now these being almost a Translation of the Words of (e) Just. Mart. they vindicate the Reading of all the Manuscript Copies of that Writer, and exclude the bold Criticism of Daille and Mr. Mead. (f) Tell me truly, says Trypho, Do you (Christians) indeed confess that Jerusalem shall be built again, and that your People shall be gathered together (there,) and rejoyce with Christ, together with the Patriarchs, and Prophets, and those of our Nation, or those who are made Proselytes before the coming of your Christ, or before you expect your Christ shall come (to Judgment?) Or do you only confess this, that thou mayst seem to overcome us in Questions?

Here you see that Justin Martyr did before ταῦτα ὁμολογεῖν, confess these things, as he doth plainly, p. 243. were Trypho having put the Question thus, What! Do you say that none of us shall have any Inheritance in the Holy Mount of God? Justin Martyr replies. I say not so, but that the Gentiles who repent, and believe in Christ, shall inherit (it) with all the Patriarchs, and Prophets, and the Just which proceed from Jacob; and therefore he here answers thus (g) I have before confessed that I and many others are of this Mind, that these things shall happen. But then again I have intimated to you, That many Christians of a pure and pious Judgment, do not own this; (I speak of Christians of a pure and pious Judgment,) for as for those who are called Christians, but indeed are Atheists, and ungodly, and Hereticks, I have told you already, that they teach things wholly blasphemous, atheistical, and absurd, (and therefore are not to come into the Account of Christians) If therefore you have met with some of them who blaspheme the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and deny the Resurrection of the Dead, that confess not this, you are not to esteem them Christians, (or to take an estimate of the Doctrines of the Christians from them.) They indeed deny the Resurrection of the Flesh and the Millennium, (h) But I and all Christians who are exactly and in all things Orthodox, know there will be a Resurrection of the Flesh, and a Millennium in Jerusalem built, adorned, and enlarged. Here then, as in Irenæus, is a plain distinction of three sorts of Men, (1.) Of Hereticks, that were κατὰ πάντα βλάσφημοι, entirely Blasphemers of the God of Israel, and Denyers of the Resurrection of the Flesh, and consequently of the Millennium which supposed this Resurrection. 2*dly*. Of Christians who were κατὰ πάντα ὀρθογνώμονες, in all thing Orthodox, who owned both the Resurrection of the Flesh, and the Millennium: and Justin Martyr being of this Opinion, and declaring here that he thought it a Doctrine delivered by God, it could not be expected that he should affirm of them that held it not, that they were of a right Opinion in all things. 3*dly*. Of many Christians of a pure and pious Judgment, who did not own this Millennium.

Object. But where, saith Mr. Daille, had he made mention before of any such? I answer with another Question, Where had he made mention before of the many who confessed the Millennium, as he here saith he had? Mr. Daille should have considered that Justin's Memory

Memory could not serve him to write down all he had discourſed with Trypho, or that he might not think that part of his Diſcourſe neceſſary to be afterwards committed unto Writing; and then this Objection would not have ſeem'd of force ſufficient to have authoriz'd him to change Juſtin's words, without any conſent of Copies, into the direct contradictory words, and for Chriſtians κ καθαρᾶς γνώμης of a pure Judgment, to read Chriſtians μὴ κ καθαρᾶς γνώμης of an impure Judgment, ſince ſuch bold Criticiſms will evacuate both the Senſe and Force of any Teſtimony.

§. II. 2*dly*. This is ſtill farther evident from the Ancient Writers of the Church, who plainly tell us, that this was a particular Opinion of ſome Doctors of the Church, and never was received by all. It had its Riſe, ſaith Euſebius, from Papias, a Man of ſlender Judgment; (i) But the Antiquity of the Man prevailed with many of the Eccleſiaſticks to be of that Opinion, particularly with Irenæus, and if there were any other of the ſame Judgment with him. Now he that confeſſeth that moſt of the Eccleſiaſticks were of that Opinion, plainly denies that all were of it. He that particularly ſpeaks of Irenæus, adding if there were any other of the ſame Judgment, ſeems to intimate they were not many. Origen, in his Philocalia [c. 26. p. 99.]ſaith, they were only τινὲς, ſome that held this Doctrine, and that ſo clancularly that it had not yet come to the Ears of the Heathens: and in his Prolegomena to the Canticles[f. 69.B.]that they were only Simpliciores quidam ſome of the ſimpler ſort of Chriſtians. Beſides, of all the Fathers of the Chriſtian Church, none hath ſpoken more ſeverely, and more contemptibly of that Doctrine than Origen, who repreſents it as a wicked Doctrine, a Reproach to Chriſtianity; the Heathens, ſaith he, having better Sentiments than theſe. He therefore being then the great Doctor of the Church, and continuing in great Authority amongſt all Church-men for above an hundred years; his Scholars being alſo the moſt celebrated Doctors of that Age, and one of them, viz. Dionyſius Alexandrinus, undertaking to confute this Doctrine; and his Philocalia, where we find theſe ſevere Sayings, being a Collection of the two great Lights of the Fourth Century, St. Baſil and Gregory the Divine; it cannot be doubted but this Opinion then loſt ground daily, and was generally decry'd by the Learned of thoſe Centuries. In a word, (k) Stephanus Gobarus, in his Account of Opinions in which the Fathers differed from each other, reckons this as the tenth, That the Juſt ſhall riſe firſt, and live deliciouſly a thouſand years, eating, drinking, and getting Children; and that there ſhould be no precedence in the Reſurrection, no Millennary Delights, no Marriage then.

3*dly*. This will be more evident if it be conſider'd, that as the Doctors of the Church were then of different Opinions, ſo were they then diſtinguiſh'd by different Names, as they who denied the Millennium, ſaith Irenæus, attempted to allegorize the places produced by others for it, ſo had they upon that account the Name of Allegoriſts, and therefore Nepos, a Man, ſaith Euſebius, from Dionyſius of Alexandria, otherwiſe Orthodox, but a Writer for the Millennium, ſtiled his Book, ἔλεγχον τῶν Ἀλληγορισῶν, or a Refutation of the Allegoriſts. H. Eccl. l. 7. c. 24.

Accordingly in (l) Origen, they who deny the Millennium, are οἱ τροπολογοῦντες τὰ προφητικὰ, they who interpret the Sayings of the Prophets by a Trope, and they who aſſert it, are ſtiled Solius literæ diſcipuli, Diſciples of the Letter of the Scripture only; the firſt, ſaith he, aſſert Horum vim figuraliter intelligi debere, the Paſſages which they produce from Scripture ought to be figuratively underſtood; the other, ſaith he, underſtand the Scripture Judaico ſenſu, after the manner of the Jews. (m) Epiphanius ſpeaking of the Millennium aſſerted by Apollinaris, ſaith, There is indeed a Millennium mentioned by St. John, but the moſt, and thoſe pious Men, look upon theſe Words as true indeed, but to be taken in a Spiritual Senſe.

And here it may deſerve to be obſerved by the by, that the Primitive Fathers derived almoſt all their conſiderable Errors from the Jews, viz. That Angels had to do with Women, and begat Giants of them, That the World was to end ſoon after the coming of the Meſſiah, That Elias was in Perſon to uſher in his ſecond Advent, &c.

§. III. 2*dly*. As for the pretended Tradition from the Apoſtle John touching this Doctrine, it is only mentioned by Irenæus, as received from Papias, and the Words in which it is delivered are ſufficient to demonſtrate the incredibility, and the apparent folly of it: For theſe Elders pretend to have heard from St. John,

John, these Romantick Words, (o) 'The days 'shall come in which there shall be Vines 'which shall severally have ten thousand 'Branches, and every of these Branches shall 'have ten thousand lesser Branches, and every 'of these Branches shall have ten thousand 'Twigs, and every one of these Twigs shall 'have ten thousand clusters of Grapes, and in 'every one of these clusters shall be ten thou-'sand Grapes, and every one of these Grapes, 'being pressed, shall give twenty five Metretas, '(that is, according to the mildest computati-'on, 275 Gallons) of Wine; and when one shall 'take hold of one of these sacred Bunches, a-'nother shall cry out, I am a better Bunch, 'take me, and by me bless the Lord; to omit what he says from the same Tradition of every Grain of Wheat, and of Apples, Seeds and Herbs. Now can any Man be so wholly bereft of sense, as to imagine this stuff could ever come out of the Mouth of an Apostle? No certainly, he had it only from the converted Jews, in whose Writings, some Learned Persons have informed me, the words cited by Irenæus from Papias, are yet to be found. As for Papias the only Voucher of this Tradition, Eusebius informs us, he was a Man of a very slender Judgment, as the Story cited by Irenæus from the Fourth Book of his Discourse may abundantly convince us, there being scarcely any things in the most infamous of Romish Legends, more fabulous than, as Eusebius truly saith, his traditional Relations were.

§. IV. 3*dly*. That the new Patrons of the Millennium differ in many things of moment from the Ancients, and have indeed scarce any Suffrage of Antiquity for that Millennium they maintain, will be apparent from a just representation of the Millennium of the Ancients: For,

1. The Ancient Millennaries generally held, that the Temple or the City of Jerusalem should be rebuilt, and that the Land of Judæa should be the habitation of those who were to reign on Earth a thousand years. So Just. M. [Dial. cum Tryph. p. 243. c.] tells the Jews, that the believing Gentiles should then dwell Ἐν τῷ ὄρει τῷ ἁγίῳ in the holy Mount, and that they should then acknowledge him [p. 259. c.] Ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ τοπῷ τῶν Ἱεροσολύμων, in the same place of Jerusalem where they had crucified him: He confesses also to Trypho, [p. 306. B. 307. B.] ἀνοικοδομηθῆναι τὸν τόπον Ἱερουσαλὴμ, that the place of Jerusalem should be built, and that the Saints should spend a thousand years in Jerusalem, built, adorned and augmented, and that all Christians entirely Orthodox knew this would be so; and therefore they all, saith he, [p. 312. B.] expected τὸν Χρίστον ἐν Ἱερουσαλὴμ φανήσεσθαι, Christ to appear in Jerusalem. (p) In the times of that Kingdom Jerusalem shall be built, saith Irenæus, and the Jews shall be restored to the Land he gave to their Fathers. (q) He, (i. e. Christ) shall build the holy City, saith Lactantius, and there shall be the Reign of the Just for a thousand years. St. Barnaby is very positive, (r) that the very Temple which was destroyed by their Enemies shall be rebuilt gloriously. They feign to themselves, saith Origen, (s) that the Terrestrial Jerusalem shall be rebuilt with precious Stones, and that the Aliens shall be their Servants to rebuild it. (t) Hence Dionysius of Alexandria in his Book writ against them, derides their Golden Jerusalem upon Earth, adorned with Jewels, and the restoration of the Temple. Whereas scarce any of our new Millennaries dare assert that this shall be the place of the Habitation of the raised Saints, and one of them makes the whole Earth to become a Paradise for the Reception of them.

2*dly*. They held this Resurrection was not to be confined to the Martyrs only, but that all the Just were then to rise, and Reign with Christ; this Justin M. confesses touching all Christian People, all the believing Gentiles, and the just Progeny of Jacob in the forecited places. Irenæus frequently declares of the Just in general, that they shall arise to inherit the Promises. (u) Tertullian affirms, that some shall rise sooner, and some later, but that all the Just shall rise within the time of the Millennium. This Millennium, saith Lactantius, (x) belongs to all the Just which ever were were from the beginning of the World. Whereas the Millennaries of this Age do generally with Dr. Burnet (x) say, the first Resurrection, and the Reign of Christ seem to be appropriated to the Martyrs, Rev. 20. 4.

Moreover, the Ancients extend this Reign on Earth, not only to the Dead, but to the Just also who shall be then alive at this first Resurrection; this being a necessary consequent of the former Doctrine, that this Millennium belongs to all the Just. Thus Irenæus, amongst those who are to enjoy the Millennium, reckons (y) those whom the Lord shall find in the flesh expecting him from Heaven, who having suffered Tribulation, did nevertheless escape the hands of the Wicked. (z) Then they that are found living shall not die, saith Lactantius: Whereas 'tis inconsistent with the Hypothesis of Dr. Burnet, that any of the Just should be then living, since this Millennium only begins after the Conflagration of the World, and the burning of all things that are in it.

3*dly*. The Ancients generally consent in this, that Jesus Christ shall then come down from Heaven, and be seen on Earth, and Reign there with his Servants. Papias, the first Assertor of this Doctrine, declares that (a) it shall be a Reign of Christ bodily upon Earth. Justin M. tells the Jews that they should then see him whom they had pierced, and this in that very place of Jerusalem where they had crucified him, that both they and Christians should then be gathered together, and rejoyce with him. Victorinus saith, (b) this is that true Sabbath in quo Christus cum electis suis regnaturus est, in which Christ is to Reign with his Elect; and Lactantius saith expressly, That Mille annos inter homines versabitur, he shall be conversant with Men a thousand years. (c) Irenæus seems not so clear as to this matter; yet he declares the Just shall Reign on Earth encreasing by the Vision of Christ; for saith he, Christ will be every where seen as Men are worthy to see him: That which seems most expressly in him to relate to this Affair, is this, that discoursing of our Lord's Promise to drink new Wine with his Disciples in the Kingdom of Heaven, he declares, (d) This cannot be done by him whilst he remains in those Cœlestial Regions. But Nepos was express in this, That (e) after this Resurrection the Kingdom of Christ was to be on Earth a thousand years, and the Saints were to Reign with him in Pleasures, or faring deliciously there; and therefore Dionysius saith of him, and the Brethren that magnified his Book, That (f) they had no sublime or magnificent Thoughts of the Glorious and Divine Advent of our Lord, or of our Resurrection, and our gathering together, and assimilation to Christ, but hoped then for little and mortal things, and such as Men now hope for in the Kingdom of God.

4*thly*. They all declare they shall then fare deliciously, and shall enjoy the richest Wines, and most delicious Fruits, build Houses, plant Vineyards, and eat the Fruits of them: Thus Justin M. (g) understands those words of Isaiah (c. 65. 21.) of the Millennium, viz. they shall build Houses, and inhabit them, and they shall plant Vineyards, and eat the Fruit of them. And Irenæus saith, (h) They shall have a Table prepared for them by God, who shall feed them with Dainties; adding, that the Promises he had cited, Creaturæ epulationem significant, do signifie the Banquets they should have upon the Creature: Hence doth he tell us of the prodigious Clusters of Grapes, and Ears of Corn, the Vines and the Earth shall then bring forth. (i) The Earth, saith Lactantius, shall open its fertility, and of its own accord produce Fruits plentifully, the Rocks of the Mountains shall sweat with Honey, Wines shall run down with Streams, and the Rivers flow with Milk. Of this Opinion doubtless was Tertullian in his Book De spe fidelium: And Nepos, who promised, saith Dionysius of Alexandria, a thousand years of corporal Delights on Earth. Accordingly Gennadius saith,

(k) In the Divine Promiſes we believe nothing concerning Meat and Drink as Irenæus, Tertullian, and Lactantius teach from their Author Papias, nor of the Reign of a thouſand years with Chriſt on Earth after the Reſurrection, and the Saints reigning deliciouſly with him, as Nepos taught. St. Auſtin therefore ſaith of this Opinion, (l) That it might be tolerable if they mentioned any Spiritual Delights which the Saints might enjoy by Chriſt's Preſence; but ſince they affirm, that they who then riſe ſhall enjoy carnal and immoderate Banquets of Meat and Drink without Modeſty, theſe things can only be believed by carnal Men. And becauſe all this Plenty could not be procured and enjoyed, theſe Houſes could not be built, nor theſe Vineyards planted, nor this Wine brought into the Fat, nor this Corn into the Barn, threſh'd, ground, and made fit for theſe new raiſed Inhabitants, without hands: The Ancients have made Proviſion for this alſo, telling us, That they ſhall be (m) Κυριεύοντες ὅτι ἐπὶ γῆς ſuch as lord it upon Earth; and therefore (n) Irenæus ſaith that which was ſpoken to Jacob, The Nations ſhall ſerve, and Princes ſhall bow down to thee, Gen. 27. 27, 28. Ad tempora Regni ſine contradictione pertinet, quando regnabunt Juſti ſurgentes à mortuis, without all contradiction belongs to this Millennary Kingdom. (o) The Nations ſhall not utterly be deſtroyed, ſaith Lactantius, but ſome of them ſhall be left to be triumphed over by the Juſt, and ſubjected to perpetual Slavery. (p) They think, ſaith Origen, that Aliens ſhall be given them to be Miniſters of their Delights, who ſhall either ſerve at the Plow, or be their Maſons and Carpenters to build up their fallen City, and they ſuppoſe they ſhall have of their Proviſions to eat, and have Dominion over their Riches, ſo that they ſhall come and offer to them Gold, and Frankincenſe, and precious Stones. Dr. Burnet muſt either produce theſe ſervile Nations, as he hath done Gog or Magog, out of the Mud, or his Opinion muſt fall into it, unleſs he hopes to avoid this, by ſaying, that in this State it will be part of their Diverſion and Entertainment to learn Mechanicks, p. 213.

And becauſe Men can hardly do this whole buſineſs without Beaſts, the Ancients have made Proviſions of them alſo, ſubjecting to them not only Sheep, and Goats, and Oxen or Bulls, but Wolves, and Bears, and Leopards, and Lions, which (q) with all other Animals, ſaith Irenæus, ſhall be then ſubject to Man. And that the Doctor may not be at a loſs for the production of theſe Beaſts, (r) Stephanus Gobarus informs him the Doctrine of the Ancients was this, That the Juſt ſhould riſe firſt, Καὶ σὺν αὐτοῖς πάντα τὰ ζῶα, and all thoſe living Creatures with them. Now the New Millennaries as they ſay little of theſe Slaves, and theſe Brute Beaſts, who are ſo neceſſary for the enjoyment of the Univerſal Plenty, and the Goods of Fortune prepared in this State, ſo are they ſhie of owning Futuras corporis voluptates & luxurias, ſuch Luxuries and Bodily Pleaſures, as Origen ſaith, (ſ) the Millennaries of his time did expect.

They ſhall beget an infinite multitude*, ſaith Lactantius, (u) and their Seed ſhall be holy: To their other Luxuries, ſaith Origen, (w) they add, Nuptiarum conventiones, & filiorum procreationes etiam poſt reſurrectionem futuras, the Solemnities of Marriage, and the Procreation of Children even after the Reſurrection: And again, (x) They think, ſaith he, that after the Reſurrection, we ſhall eat, and drink corporeal poreal Meats, and shall use those conjugal Duties by which our Prayers are hindred, and which cannot be performed without some impurity: And a third time (x) they believe, That after the Resurrection we shall, according to the Chief Promises of the Gospel, eat, and drink, and as some of them say, beget Children; these things, saith he, should they come to the Ears of Heathens, would lay a great imputation of Folly upon Christianity, since many Heathens have better Opinions than these are: So much are they mistaken who reckon Origen among the Patrons of the Millennium. Stephanus Gobarus gives us the Opinion of the Millennaries in these Words, (y) The Just shall rise first, and for a thousand years shall fare deliciously, eating, and drinking, and getting Children, and after this shall be the general Resurrection. Methodius is the only Person who (z) denies they shall be thus employ'd after the Resurrection; and with him doubtless all our Modern Millennaries do agree, as knowing this unworthy to be the matter of a Gospel Promise.

§. V. Moreover, if we consider the Scriptures on which the Ancients grounded this Millennium, we shall perceive it necessary that all these Doctrines should be maintained by them. For,

1. That the Temple, or City of Jerusalem should be new built, and that the Land of Judæa should be the Habitation of those who are to enjoy this New Heaven, and Earth, can never reasonably be denied by those who interpret the Sayings of the Prophets literally, since they so plainly, and so fully speak of a Mount Zion to be established upon the top of the Mountains, Isa. 2. 2. —— 27. 13. — 56. 7. and of God's Promises to beautifie the place of his Sanctuary, the House of his Glory, and to make the place of his Feet glorious, c. 60. 7, 13. And of all Nations flowing in to her, and being gathered to her, and of all Nations and Tongues coming to see her Glory, Isa. 60. 5. 66. 18. when God had brought them again into their own Land.

2*dly*. That this Resurrection must belong to all faithful Christians, and that they must all Reign with Christ on Earth, will follow from the literal interpretation of those words of St. John (a) Thou hast redeemed us to God by thy Blood out of every Kindred and Tongue, and People, and Nation, and hast made us to be Kings, and Priests to God, and we shall Reign on Earth, Rev. 5. 9, 10. For, according to the import of these words, if, as Dr. Burnet saith, they belong to the first Resurrection, all that have been redeemed by the Blood of Christ, must Reign on Earth. This follows also from those words, I saw the Souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the Word of God, and (of them) which had not worshipped the Beast, nor his Image, and which had not received his mark upon their Foreheads, nor upon their Hands, and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years, Rev. 20. 4. for, they who worshipped not the Beast, are all they whose Names were written in the Book of Life, Rev. 13. 8. 17. 8. This follows from St Peter's New Heaven, and New Earth, if truly interpreted by Dr. Burnet of this Resurrection; for these, saith he, we Christians do expect, and therefore are concerned to be found of him without spot, and blameless, 2 Pet. 3. 13, 14. This follows from the words of St. Paul, if they belong to the Millennium, as he saith they do, for they introduce the whole Creation groaning to be delivered from the Bondage of Corruption into the glorious liberty of the Sons of God, and all that had the first Fruits of the Spirit, groaning for the Adoption, i. e. for the Redemption of their Bodies from Corruption, Rom. 8. 16, 23.

3*dly*. They must bring Christ from Heaven to Reign on Earth, who contend that this Reign is the very time of the restitution of all things, Acts 3. 21. for the Heavens are only to contain him till that time, and who infer this Reign of Christ from those Words, They that have part in the first Resurrection, shall be Priests of God, and of Christ, and shall Reign with him a thousand years; for if they Reign on Earth without him, they do not Reign there with him. Moreover, if he continue still at the right hand of God, with what propriety is this Resurrection called, ἡ παρουσία, the Presence, the appearance of our Lord, and that from Heaven?

4*thly*. That in this Millennium they must fare deliciously, drink precious Wines, and have those splendid Banquetings of which the Fathers often speak, must follow from the application of all those Passages to this State, which say, The Meek shall inherit the Earth, that they shall drink new Wine with Christ in his Kingdom, that they shall receive (b) an hundred fold increase of Goods and Lands, that there shall be then a recompence of their Alms given, and their Feasts made for the Poor; and all from the Prophets say of the fruitfulness of the Earth, and of the temporal Blessings they shall then enjoy.

5*thly*. That the Nations shall then serve them, and even build up Jerusalem for them, cannot be denied by them who literally interpret those Words of the Prophets, The Sons of Strangers shall build up thy Walls, and their Kings shall minister to thee: The Sons also of them that afflicted thee, shall come bending unto thee, and they that despised thee shall bow themselves down at the soles of thy Feet: And the Nation and Kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish, Isaiah 60. 10, 12, 13. And Strangers shall stand and feed your Flocks, and the Sons of the Alien shall be your Plowmen, and your Vine-dressers; ye shall eat the Riches of the Gentiles, and in their Glory shall you boast your selves, ch. 61. 5. See also ch. 49. 22, 23. And,

6*thly*. That they shall have Wives and Children, and as Irenæus saith, shall be multiplied upon the Earth, must follow from the literal Exposition of our Saviour's Promise, That they who have lost, or forsaken Wife, or Children for his sake, shall receive an hundred fold; for Children cannot lawfully be begotten without Wives, and the use of the Marriage-bed: And lastly, whereas the Millennium of the Reverend Dr. Burnet is to begin after the Conflagration of the World, that of the Ancients is still placed before it; We expect it, saith Justin Martyr, (c) before Christ's coming to Judgment. (d) After this, saith Tertullian, shall be the destruction of the World, and the Conflagration at the day of Judgment, and we shall be changed in a moment into an Angelical Substance. (e) God shall after this Reign on Earth a thousand years, renew the World, saith Lactantius.

It therefore deserves to be admired, that learned Men with so much confidence, make use of these Testimonies of Scriptures, and these Authorities of the Fathers, to establish their Millennium, and yet so stifly should deny the Consequences which flow so naturally from those Scriptures, and reject what these Ancients so generally delivered as a part of that Doctrine. But to insist no longer on these things, hence I suppose it evident,

First, That the Doctrine of the Millennium was not the general Doctrine of the Primitive Church from the times of the Apostle to the Nicene Council, as Dr. Burnet hath asserted; for then it could have made no Schisms in the Church, as (f) Dionysius of Alexandria saith it did, declaring how fully he confuted it, and reconciled the Brethren that were contending about it, and prevailed upon Coracius the Author, and Ring-leader of this Doctrine, to own he was convinced of his Error, and promise he would no more embrace, or discourse of it to the People.

2*dly*. That the old Doctrine of the Millennium differed in many material Points from that which is asserted by the new Patrons of it.

§. VI. If any Man think it not safe to discover so much of the Nakedness of the Fathers as I have done in this Chapter, I Answer:

First, That I think it more safe than to let it be confidently said and believed, that they were all Millennaries from the first to the fourth Century, seeing that shakes the Foundation of Episcopacy, and the Translation of the Sabbath to the Lord's Day, and other Constitutions derived from the Apostles.

2*dly*. I answer, That this mistake of the Fathers in a matter which they received from the Traditions, and Notions of the Jews, will not invalidate their Authority in any thing delivered by them as witnesses of what they saw with their own Eyes, or declared to have been then the Practice of the Church of Christ, nor will it affect their Testimony in any other Doctrine which they neither did or could receive, only on the Authority of the Jewish Doctors.

CHAP. II.

How far I differ from the Ancient and Modern Millennaries, and in what I agree with them, §. I. The Propoſition that the true Millennium is only a Reign of the Converted Jews, and of the Gentiles flowing in to them, Ibid. Where it is noted, 1. That all Spiritual Bleſſings have been ſtill conveyed from the Jews to other Nations. 2. That there will be a glorious Converſion of the Jews to the Chriſtian Faith, §. II. That the Deſcription of this Converſion of the Jews made by their own Prophets and Writers, anſwers fully to the Millennium of St. John, which he ſpeaks of in the very words of the ſaid Prophets, §. III. The Characters which the Patrons of the Millennium give of thoſe Times accord exactly with the Characters given by the Prophets of the Converſion of the Jews, §. IV. The Prophets ſeem to intimate that this Converſion ſhall be effected by a full influence of the Holy Ghoſt upon them. §. V. All the Paſſages cited to this Effect from the Jewiſh Writers ſpeak only of the Millennium, the Reſurrection, the New Heavens and Earth belonging to the Jewiſh Nation, §. VI.

HAving thus given you a juſt Account of the Millennium of the Ancients, and of the true extent of that Opinion in the Primitive Ages of the Church; I proceed now to ſhew in what things I agree with the Aſſertors of that Doctrine, and how far I find my ſelf conſtrained by the force of Truth to differ from them.

§. I. I believe then, That after the Fall of Antichriſt there ſhall be ſuch a glorious ſtate of the Church by the Converſion of the Jews to the Chriſtian Faith, as ſhall be to it Life from the Dead; that it ſhall then flouriſh in Peace and Plenty, in Righteouſneſs and Holineſs, and in a pious Off-ſpring; that then ſhall begin a glorious and undiſturbed Reign of Chriſt over both Jew and Gentile, to continue a thouſand years during the time of Satan's binding. And that as John the Baptiſt was Elias becauſe he came in the Spirit and Power of Elias; ſo ſhall this be the Church of Martyrs, and of thoſe who had not received the Mark of the Beaſt, becauſe of their entire Freedom from all the Doctrines and Practices of the Antichriſtian Church, and becauſe the Spirit and Purity of the Times of the Primitive Martyrs ſhall return. And therefore,

1. I agree with the Patrons of the Millennium in this, That I believe Satan hath not yet been bound a thouſand years, nor will he be ſo bound till the time of the Calling of the Jews, and the time of St. John's Millennium.

2. I agree with them in this, That the true Millennium will not begin till the Fall of Antichriſt; nor will the Jews be Converted till that time, the Idolatry of the Roman Church being one great Obſtacle of their Converſion.

3. I agree both with the Modern and the Ancient Millennaries, That then ſhall be great Peace and Plenty, and great meaſures of Knowledge and of Righteouſneſs in the whole Church of God.

I therefore only differ from the Ancient Millennaries in three things.

1. In denying Chriſt's Perſonal Reign upon Earth during this thouſand years; and in this both Dr. Burnet and Mr. Mead expreſly have renounc'd their Doctrine.

2. Though I dare not abſolutely deny what they all poſitively affirm, That the City of Jeruſalem ſhall be then rebuilt, and the Converted Jews ſhall return to it, becauſe this probably may be collected from thoſe words of Chriſt, Jeruſalem ſhall be trodden down till the time of the Gentiles is come in, Luke 21.24. and all the Prophets ſeem to declare the Jews ſhall then return to their own Land, Jer. 31. 38, 39, 40. yet do I confidently deny what Barnabas, and others of them, do contend for; viz. That the Temple of Jeruſalem ſhall be then built again: for this is contrary not only to the plain Declaration of St. John, who ſaith, I ſaw no Temple in this New Jeruſalem, Rev. 21. 22. whence I infer there is to be no Temple in any part of it; but to the whole deſign of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, which is to ſhew the Diſſolution of the Temple Service for the weakneſs and unprofitableneſs of it; that the Jewiſh Tabernacle was only a Figure of the true and the more perfect Tabernacle which the Lord pitched, and not Man; the Jewiſh Sanctuary only a worldly Sanctuary, a Pattern, and a Figure of the heavenly one into which Chriſt our High Prieſt is enter'd Heb. 8. 2. 9. 2. 11. 23, 24. Now ſuch a Temple, ſuch a Sanctuary, and ſuch Service, cannot be ſuitable to the moſt glorious and ſplendid times of the Chriſtian Church; and therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, The Lord God omnipotent, and the Lamb, shall be their Temple.

3. I differ both from the Ancient and the Modern Millennaries as far as they assert that this shall be a Reign of such Christians as have suffer'd under the Heathen Persecutors, or by the Rage of Antichrist; making it only a Reign of the Converted Jews and of the Gentiles then flowing in to them, and uniting into one Church with them. This I believe to be indeed the truth of this mistaken Doctrine, and therefore I shall set my self more fully to explain, and to confirm it: Let it be noted therefore,

§. II. 1. That as the Jews were the first Nation which were owned by God as his People, and therefore are stiled his first born, Exod. 4. 22. Israel his Elect, Isai. 54. 4. the Children of Jacob his chosen ones, 1 Chron. 16. 13. Psal. 105. 6. God having chosen them to be a peculiar treasure to himself above all the people of the Earth, Exod. 19. 5. Deut. 7. 6. so all Nations of the World have ever since received the Word of God and the true Religion from the Jewish Nation, and Jerusalem hath been still the Mother of all other Churches. Before the Advent of our Lord and Saviour, to them alone, saith the Apostle Paul, belonged the Adoption, the Glory, and the Covenant, and the giving of the Law, and the Service of God, and the Promises, Rom. 9. 3. and none then could be joined to the Lord, Isa. 56. 3. and worship him aright, unless he join'd himself to the Jews, and became a Worshipper of the God of Israel, or a Member of that Church.

After Christ's coming in the Flesh, the Gospel was first sent to them, as being the Children of the Kingdom, Matth. 8. 12. our Lord exercised his Ministry only among them, whence he is stiled The Minister of the Circumcision, Rom. 15. 8. and saith, he was not then sent to any but only to the lost Sheep of the House of Israel, Matth. 15. 24. And sending his Apostles, he forbids them, whilst he was on Earth, to go into the way of the Gentiles, or to enter into any City of Samaria, Matth. 10. 5. but saith to them, Go rather to the lost Sheep of the House of Israel. After his Ascension, they were charged to begin their Preaching at Jerusalem, Luke 24. 47. as accordingly they did, preaching the Word to none but the Jews only, Acts 11. 19. Paul, the Apostle of the Gentiles, first offers his Ministry to them, preaching Christ in their Synagogues, as his manner was, Acts 9. 20. 13. 5. 14. 1. 17. 12, 17. 18. 4. and declaring it was necessary that the Word of God should be first spoken to them, Acts 13. 46. the Gospel being the power of God to Salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, Rom. 2. 10. and that through their fall, and rejection of it, the Gospel came unto the Gentiles, Rom. 11. 28. the halt, lame, and blind, being called to this Feast, because those Guests first bidden refused to come, Luke 14. 21.

Note also, That notwithstanding the Infidelity of many of them, the first Church that ever received the Gospel, the Doctrine, the Sacraments of the New Testament, was the Jewish Church, Acts 2. 42, 47. All the Churches of the Gentiles received the Gospel from them, they being made partakers of their Spiritual things, Rom. 15. 27. and the Word of God coming out from them to other Churches, 1 Cor. 17. 56. they being all grafted into their good Olive Tree. Hence, in the Primitive Times, the Church of Jerusalem had the pre-eminence of all other Churches; to her they went for the decision of their Controversies, Acts 15. and the Bishop of Jerusalem is therefore stiled by the Ancients (a) The first Bishop, the Guide of Priests, the Top of the Heads, the Bishop, and Chief of the Apostles; and the Church of Jerusalem is said to be the Church cui omnes favorem impendunt quasi matri Christiani nominis, which all favoured as the Mother of Christians.

After the Fall of Antichrist, and before the second Coming of our Lord to Judgment, the Jews shall be converted, and become a most famous Church again. For this Mystery the Apostle hath revealed, that Blindness in part hath happened to Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in, and so all Israel shall be saved, as it is written in the Prophet Isaiah, Chap. 59. 20. There shall come out of Zion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob; for this is my Covenant with them, saith the Lord, when I shall take away their sins. These words are as a Key to the great things said by Isaiah touching the Jewish Nation, and teach us to interpret them of their glorious Conversion to the Christian Faith, and the gathering them out of every Kindred, and Tongue, and Nation, and People, that at the blowing of the great Trumpet they may come from the Land of Assyria and Egypt, and may worship the Lord in the holy Mount in Jerusalem, Isa. 27. 13. and they may fear the Lord from the West, and his Glory from the rising of the Sun, Isa. 59. 19. This is that day when the Lord shall set his hand שנית a second time to recover the remnant of his People, and shall assemble the out-casts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the Earth, Isa. 11. 11, 12, when he will so bring again the Captivity of Jacob, and have mercy on the whole House of Israel, as to leave none of them any more there, nor hide his face any more from them, Ezek. 39. 25, 28, 29. when when he ſhall ſo plant them in their Land, that they ſhall no more be pulled up out of the Land that he hath given them, Amos 9. 14, 15. So Tobit ſaith, That when Πληρωθῶσιν αἱ καιροὶ τοῦ αἰῶνος, the times of the Age ſhall be accompliſhed, they ſhall return from all places of their Captivity, and build up Jeruſalem gloriouſly, and the Houſe of God ſhall be built in it gloriouſly, as the Prophets have ſpoken thereof, Tobit 14. 51. 6. 7. And when they ſhall be thus converted, and receive the Goſpel, then ſhall Salvation be again derived from them to the Gentiles, and they ſhall be the Means of converting ſuch of them as ſtill remain to be converted, and ſhall draw them to as great Purity and Zeal, and as great knowledge of the Truth as ever the Church enjoy'd: For, ſaith the Apoſtle, If the Fall of them be the Riches of the World, and the diminiſhing them the Riches of the Gentiles, how much more their Fullneſs? And if the caſting away of them be the reconciling of the World, what ſhall be the reconciling them but Life from the Dead, to the ſame World? Rom. 11. 12, 15. Of this the Prophets ſpeak very fully, ſaying, In that Day there ſhall be a Root of Jeſſe which ſhall ſtand for an Enſign to the People, and to it ſhall the Gentiles ſeek, and his Reſt ſhall be Glory, Iſa. 11. 11. Behold, ſaith God, I will then lift up my hands to the Gentiles, and ſet up my Standard to the People, and they ſhall bring thy Sons in their Arms, and thy Daughters ſhall be carried upon their Shoulders, and Kings ſhall be thy nurſing Fathers, and Queens thy nurſing Mothers; they ſhall bow down to thee with their Faces towards the Earth, and lick up the Duſt of thy Feet, Iſaiah 49. 22, 23. Behold, thou ſhalt call a Nation that thou knoweſt not, and Nations that have not known thee, ſhall run unto thee, becauſe of the Lord thy God, and for the holy One of Iſrael, for he hath glorified thee, Iſa. 55. 5. The Lord God that gathereth the outcaſts of Iſrael, ſaith, yet will I gather others to him beſides thoſe that are gathered to him, ch. 56. 8. And the Gentiles ſhall come to thy Light, and Kings to the brightneſs of thy Riſing, lift up thine Eyes round about, and ſee; all they gather themſelves together, they come to thee, thy Sons ſhall come from far, and thy Daughters ſhall be nurſed at thy ſide; the abundance of the Sea ſhall be converted unto thee, the forces of the Gentiles ſhall come to thee, ch. 60. 3, 4, 5. And the Sons of Strangers ſhall build up thy Walls, and their Kings ſhall miniſter unto thee; therefore thy Gates ſhall be open continually, they ſhall not be ſhut day or night, that Men may bring unto thee the Forces of the Gentiles, and that their Kings, may be brought. For the Nation and Kingdom that will not ſerve thee, ſhall periſh, and ſhall be utterly waſted, v. 10, 11, 12. Thou ſhalt ſuck the Milk of the Gentiles, and ſhalt ſuck the Breaſts of Kings, ver. 16. Ye ſhall be named the Prieſts of the Lord; Men ſhall call you the Miniſters of our God, ch. 61. 6. 9. Ye ſhall eat the Riches of the Gentiles, and in their Glory ſhall you boaſt your ſelves, ch. 62. 2. The Gentiles ſhall ſee thy Righteouſneſs, and all Kings thy Glory, Behold, I will extend Peace to her like a River, and the Glory of the Gentiles like a flowing Stream, ch. 66. 12. I will gather all Nations and Tongues, and they ſhall come and ſee my Glory, ver. 18. And they ſhall bring all their Brethren for an offering to the Lord out of all Nations to my holy Mountain Jeruſalem, and I will alſo take of them for Prieſts and for Levites ſaith the Lord, ver. 20. 21, 22. For as the new Heavens, and the new Earrth which I ſhall make, ſhall remain before me, ſaith the Lord, ſo ſhall their Seed, and their Name remain. Many Nations, ſaith Tobit, ſhall come from far to the Name of the Lord God, with Gifts in their hands, even Gifts to the King of Heaven, when his Tabernacle ſhall be built again with Joy, and he ſhall make his Captives joyful in Jeruſalem; yea, all Nations ſhall turn, and fear the Lord God truly, chap. 13. 10, 11.

§. III. Now here 'tis eaſie to obſerve, how fully this Deſcription of the Converſion of the Jews by their Prophets, anſwers to the Millennium of St. John, who uſeth the very Words by which the Prophets had foretold their glorious Converſion, and ſaith, they ſhall be then accompliſhed. And, Firſt, St. John ſpeaks of a Reviviſcence of the Church of the Primitive Martyrs that ſuffered for the Teſtimony of Jeſus, and for the Word of God, Rev. 20. 4. See Chap. 3. §. I. and with them all the Juſt. Now the very Words Ἀνάστασις and Ἔζησαν, uſed by St. John, are very frequently uſed by the Prophets to expreſs the glorious State of the Jewiſh Church; and by St. Paul, to ſignifie the flouriſhing Condition of the Gentiles then. St. John ſaith, They who enjoy this Millennium, ſhall be Prieſts to God and Chriſt, Rev. 20. 6. And the Propet Iſaiah ſaith of the Converted Jews, Ye ſhall be named the Prieſts of the Lord; Men ſhall call you the Miniſters of our God, ch. 6. 6. And of the Gentiles that come to them, I will take of them to be Prieſts and Levites, ch. 65. 20. This was the very thing promiſed to the Jewiſh Nation when God entred into Covenant with them, That they ſhould be a Kingdom of Prieſts, Ex. 19. 6. Βασίλειον Ἱεράτευμα, a kingly Prieſthood, ſaith the Septuagint, מלכין כהנין, i. e. Kings and Prieſts, ſaith the Targum. This all Chriſtians are already made, ſaith St. Peter, 1 Pet. 2. 5. and St. John, Rev.

Rev. 16. 5, 10. We are, ſaith (a) Juſtin Martyr, truly Prieſts to God; it therefore may be expected Men ſhould be more eminently ſo in that glorious State of the Church.

2*dly*. St. John ſpeaks of a new Heaven and a new Earth that he ſaw, ſaying, The former Heaven and Earth were paſſed away, Rev. 21. 1. and introduceth our Lord, ſaying, Behold, I make all things new, verſe 5. And the Prophet Iſaiah introduceth God thus, ſpeaking at the Converſion of the Jews, Behold, I create new Heavens and new Earth, and the former ſhall not be remembred nor come into my mind, Iſaiah 65. 17. And again, I have put my word in thy Mouth, that I may plant the Heavens, and lay the Foundations of the Earth, and ſay unto Zion, Thou art my People, ch. 51. 16. And, Thirdly, In the very Words of the Author of the Revelations, Behold, I make things new, ch. 43. 18, 19. Seeing then theſe new Heavens and new Earth muſt be contemporary with the Converſion of the Jews, ſure they muſt be before the Conflagration of the World, i. e. before the Jewiſh Nation be conſumed to Aſhes, and therefore can be only a new Heaven and new Earth, in that Moral Senſe in which Maimonides explains the Phraſe, (b) when he ſays, It ſignifies, that God will place them in perpetual Joy, in lieu of their former Sorrow and Anxiety; ſo that the memory of their former Sorrow ſhall no more remain.

I confeſs, there is this peculiarity in St. John's new Earth, that it is ſaid of it, καὶ ἡ θάλασσα οὐκ ἔστιν ἔτι, and the Sea is not yet, becauſe he had all along repreſented the Beaſt as aſcending out of the Abyſs, and ſitting upon many Waters, which were the People, and Multitude, and Nations, and Tongues, that had ſubmitted to her, Rev. 17. 1.—8. 15. Now becauſe the Beaſt was utterly deſtroy'd, and Satan was bound up for a thouſand years, and Gog and Magog were not to be gathered till then, nor were the Armies of the Beaſt which were ſlain, to riſe again till the thouſand years were paſt, Rev. 19. 21.—20. 6. Therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, That in this new Earth the Sea was not yet.

3*dly*. St. John ſaith, I heard a great Voice from Heaven, ſaying, The Tabernacle of God is with Men, and he will dwell with them, and they ſhall be his People, and God himſelf with them ſhall be their God, Rev. 21. 3. And Ezekiel the other Prophet, who by the Ancients is ſuppoſed to ſpeak of the Millennium, ſaith in like manner, I will make a Covenant of Peace with them, and will place them, and multiply them, and will ſet my Sanctuary in the midſt of them for evermore; my Tabernacle alſo ſhall be with them, and I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People, Ezek. 37. 26, 27.

4*thly*. St. John ſaith, God ſhall wipe away all Tears from their Eyes, and there ſhall be no more Death, neither Sorrow, nor Crying, neither ſhall there be any more Pain, for the former things are paſſed away, Rev. 21. 4. So alſo ſaith the Prophet Iſaiah of Jeruſalem, that after the former Heaven and Earth were paſſed away, the voice of Weeping ſhall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of Crying, ch. 65. 19. That the Lord will wipe away Tears from all Faces, ch. 25. 8. That they ſhall not Hunger, nor Thirſt, neither ſhall the Heat nor Sun ſmite them, for he that hath mercy on them ſhall lead them, even by the Springs of Water ſhall he guide them, chap. 49. 10. Which Words exactly anſwer to thoſe of St. John, Rev. 7. 16, 17.

5*thly*. St. John ſaith, The Building of the Wall of the City was of Jaſper, and the City was of pure Gold like unto clear Glaſs, and the Foundations of the Wall of the City were garniſhed with all manner of precious Stones, Rev. 21. 18, 19. And Iſaiah ſaith, I will lay thy Stones with fair Colours, and thy Foundations with Sapphires, and I will make thy Windows of Agats, and thy Gates of Carbuncles, and all thy Borders of pleaſant Stones, ch. 54. 11, 12. And Tobit ſaith, Jeruſalem ſhall be built up with Sapphires, and Emeralds, and precious Stones; thy Walls, and Towers, and Battlements with pure Gold; and the Streets of Jeruſalem ſhall be paved with Beryl, Carbuncle, and Stones of Ophir, ch. 13. 16, 17, 18.

6*thly*. St. John ſpeaks of the Tree of Life planted there, and of a pure River of Water of Life, proceeding out of the Throne of God, and of the Lamb, Rev. 22. 1, 2. And the Prophet Zachary ſpeaks of Living Water going out of Jeruſalem, ch. 14. 8. And he that paſſeth under the Name of Eſdras, ſaith, They ſhall have the Tree of Life planted for an Ornament of ſweet ſavour; For unto you, ſaith he, is Paradiſe opened, the Tree of Life is planted, 2 Eſdr. 2. 12.

7*thly*. St. John ſaith, There ſhall be no Night there, and they need no Candle, neither Light of the Sun, chap. 22. 5. Iſaiah ſaith the ſame, chap. 60. 19. And the Prophet Zachariah ſaith, It ſhall be one day which ſhall be known unto the Lord, not day nor night, and it ſhall come to paſs that at the evening time it ſhall be light, ch. 14. 7.

Moreover, St. John ſo repreſents the Scene of things following the Fall of Antichriſt, as plainly to inform us, That he is ſpeaking of this glorious Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, and God's marrying her again whom he had had formerly divorced; for as the Church of Christ is represented as the Israel of God, Gal. 6. 16. the Commonwealth of Israel, Eph. 2. 12. the Jerusalem which is above, Gal. 4. 26. the Celestial Jerusalem, Heb. 12. 22. So St. John represents the new Scene of things in the same Language, saying, I John saw the holy City, New Jerusalem, coming down from God out of Heaven, Rev. 21. 2. And again, He shewed me the great City, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of Heaven from God, ver. 10. Now that this great and holy City, this New Jerusalem, is the Jewish Church converted to God; the Characters he gives of it will not suffer us to doubt: For, First, he saith, The City had no need of the Sun, neither of the Moon to shine in it; for the Glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the Light thereof, Rev. 21. 23. So saith God of the Conversion of the Jews. They shall call thee the City of the Lord, the Zion, the holy one of Israel, Es. 60. 14. Thou shalt call thy Walls Salvation, and thy Gates Praise; the Sun shall be no more thy Light by Day, neither for Brightness shall the Moon give Light unto thee; but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting Light, and thy God thy Glory. He saith, The Gates of this City shall not be shut at all by day, neither shall there be any night there, and they shall bring the Glory, and Honour, Τιμὴν, the substance of the Nations unto it, ver. 25, 26. Even as Isaias had said, Thy Gates shall be open continually, they shall not be shut day nor night, that Men may bring unto thee the Wealth of the Gentiles, and that their Kings may be brought, Isa. 60. 11. Lastly, he saith, The Nations of them that are saved, shall walk in the Light of this City, and the Kings of the Earth do bring their Glory and Honour to it, ver. 24. which I have shewed to be the very thing foretold by the Prophets at the Conversion of the Jewish Nation.

Add to this, That he introduceth this holy City, this New Jerusalem, prepared as a Bride adorned for her Husband, Rev. 21. 2. and saith, Come hither, I will shew thee the Bride, the Lamb's Wife, ver. 9, 10. and then shews the great City, the holy Jerusalem; and ch. 19. 7, 8. he saith, He heard a Voice, saying, the Marriage of the Lamb is come, and his Wife hath made her self ready; and to her was granted, that she should be arrayed in fine Linen, clean and white, for the fine Linen is the Righteousness of the Saints. Now thus have the Prophets represented the Jewish Church, converted to God: Hence is she introduced, speaking thus, I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my Soul shall be joyful in my God; for he hath cloathed me with the Garments of Salvation, he hath covered me with the Robe of Righteousness, as a Bridegroom decketh himself with Ornaments, and as a Bride adorneth her self with Jewels, Isa. 61. 10. And again Thou shalt no more be termed forsaken, neither shall thy Land any more be termed desolate, but thou shalt be called Hephzibah, and thy Land Beulah, for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy Land shall be married, ch. 62. 4. and ver. 5. For as a Young Man marrieth a Virgin, so shall thy Sons marry thee; and as the Bridegroom rejoiceth over the Bride, so shall thy God rejoice over thee.

§. IV. Add to this, that all the Characters which the Patrons of the Millennium give of those times, exactly accord with the Characters given by the Prophets of the Conversion of the Jews, and are many of them taken from the very Words of the Prophets, foretelling those times: For instance,

First, Indolence and Plenty, saith Dr. Burnet, [B. 4. c. 7. p. 183.] seem to be two Ingredients of this happy State. Accordingly the Prophets every where speak, how the Riches of the Gentiles shall then flow in to them, Isa. 60. 5, 11. and they shall eat the Riches of the Gentiles, chap. 61. 6. That there shall be then no Hunger nor Thirst, no Heat nor Sun to smite them, no Voice of Crying or Weeping. See Isa. 35. 10.

2dly. That it shall be a time of universal Peace and freedom from War and Persecution, [Ib. p. 184.] and this he proves from the words of the Prophets, declaring, That at the day, that time when God shall create new Heavens and new Earth, the Lamb and the Lion shall lie down together, and the Sucking Child shall play with the Basilisk, and they shall not hurt in all my holy Mountain, as it is written, Es. 11. 6, 7, 8, 9. and ch. 65. 25. and saying, That the Nations shall beat their Swords into Plowshares, and their Spears into Pruning-hooks; Nation shall not lift up a Sword against Nation, neither shall they learn War any more, Is. 2. 4. Mich. 4. 3. as appears also from the Promises, that God will then make her Officers Peace, Is. 60. 17. and will extend Peace to her as a River, ch. 66. 12.

3dly. That it shall be a Kingdom of Righteousness, [Ibid] Accordingly of this holy City, Jerusalem, it is said, There shall no more come into thee, the uncircumcised and unclean, Isa. 52. 1. An high-way shall be there, and it shall be called the way of Holiness, the Unclean shall not pass over it, ch. 35. 8. which exactly answers to those Words of St. John, Into the holy City shall nothing enter that is polluted or unclean, Rev. 21. 27. And again, Thy People shall be all righteous, ch. 61. 21. See Zeph. 3. 9. Zach. 14. 20, 21.

Moreover this, saith he, [p. 185.] will be a State under a peculiar Presence and Divine Conduct, because the Tabernacle of God will be with Men, and he will dwell with them; and this we see was promised at the Conversion of the Jewish Nation, Ezek. 37. 27.

The last Character, saith he, that belongs to this this State, or rather to those that enjoy it, is this, that they are Kings and Priests unto God; and this also, we have shewed to be promised to the converted Jews, Es. 61. 6 — 65. 20.

I add, That as the ancient Fathers generally held that the time would come when all Israel should be saved, and be converted to the Christian Faith; so did they as generally conceive that this should happen at the Close of the World, (c) and about the time of our Saviour's second coming: and most of 'em speak of it as a branch of the Millennium.

So Justin M. says once and again, that (d) then the Jews shall see, and shall acknowledge him whom they have pierced; and he confesses to Trypho, (e) that Jerusalem shall be rebuilt, and that (f) Christians shall rejoyce with Christ together with the Patriarchs and Prophets, and with the Jews and their Proselytes, i. e. the Nations then flowing in to them before the coming of our Lord. So (g) Irenæus declares, that then God will restore them to the Land which he had promised, and given to their Fathers, and they shall dwell in it in hope. And (h) Tertullian saith, that he will then own the Circumcision, Et Abrahæ gentem, cum ultimo venerit, acceptatione, & benedictione dignabitur, and at his last coming will vouchsafe to accept, and bless the Seed of Abraham. And this is suitable to the ancient Opinion of the (i) Jews, that in the end of the World there should be to them a World full of joy and exaltation, so that their Heaven and Earth should as it were be renewed, according to the words of Isaiah, chap. 65. 17. So the Targum upon those words of Hosea, the Children of Israel shall seek the Lord their God, and David their King, and shall fear the Lord and his goodness in the latter days.

§. 5. Nor is it to be wonder'd that there should be then such a glorious Conversion of them, and such a flowing in of the Nations to them, seeing the Prophets seem to intimate there shall be then a full Effusion of the Holy Ghost upon them, somewhat resembling that which was vouchsafed to the first Ages of Christianity. So the Prophet Isaiah speaks of the Desolation of the City ἕως ἂν ἔλθῃ ἐφ' ὑμᾶς πνεῦμα ἀφ' ὑψηλοῦ, until the Spirit be poured upon them from on high, Isa. 32. 15. which is the very Phrase in which our Lord promiseth the Spirit to his Apostles, Luke 24. 49. St. Paul proves their Conversion from those words of the Prophet Isaiah, The Deliverer shall come out of Zion, and shall turn away iniquity from Jacob: with which these are immediately connected, And this is my Covenant with them, saith the Lord, My Spirit that is upon thee, and my words which I have put into thy Mouth, shall not depart out of thy Mouth, nor out of the Mouth of thy Seed, nor out of the Mouth of thy Seed's Seed from henceforth for ever, Chap. 59. 20, 21. And again, Chap. 44. 3. I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground; I will pour my Spirit upon thy Seed, and my Blessing on thy Offspring. So Ezek. 36. 24. I will take you from among the Heathen, and gather you out of all Countries, and will bring you into your own Land. And ver. 27. I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my Statutes. And Chap. 39. 28, 29. I have gathered them unto their own Land, and have left none of them any more there, neither will I hide my Face any more from them, for I have poured out my Spirit upon the House of Israel, saith the Lord. And this seems plainly to be hinted in these words of St. Paul, 2 Cor. 3. 15, 16, 17. Even unto this day, when Moses is read, the Veil is upon their heart. Nevertheless, when it shall turn to the Lord, the Veil shall be taken away; for the Lord is (the giver of) that Spirit, (or ὃ δ) where the Lord is, there is the Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is Liberty, from subjection to the Law, and from that Veil which hinders them from turning to Christ.

To this Mr. Mead (pag. 761, 767.) conjectures there shall be added a Vision of Jesus Christ to them; for saith God by his Prophet Zachariah, Chap. 12. 10. I will pour upon the House of David, and upon the Inhabitants of Jerusalem, the Spirit of Grace and of Supplications, and they shall look upon him whom they have pierced, and mourn for him. And Christ being ask'd, What shall be the Sign of the End of the World? Matth. 24. 3. saith ver. 30. Then shall appear the Sign of the Son of Man in Heaven, and then shall all the Tribes of the Earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of Man coming in the Clouds of Heaven, with Power and great Glory. And he speaks to the Jews thus, Verily, I say unto you, yet a little while, and you shall not see me till you say, Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord, Matth. 23. 39.

Or that according to the ancient and general Doctrine both of Jew and Christian, they shall have an Elias sent to instruct them, a Deliverer ἕνεκεν Σιὼν, for the sake of Zion, as the Septuagint, Isa. 59. 20. For, saith he, It may be fit to conceive magnificently of so great a work of God towards a People for whom he hath formerly shewed so many wonders; especially this being the greatest work of mercy and wonder der that ever he did for them, far beyond the bringing them forth of Egypt, and leading them in the Wilderneſs. And to this he refers theſe words of Eccleſiaſticus, Elias was ordained to turn the hearts of the Father to the Son, and to reſtore, καταστῆσαι, the Tribes of Jacob: Μακάριοι οἱ ἰδόντες σε, καὶ οἱ ἀγαπήσει κεκοσμημένοι, καὶ γὰρ ἡμεῖς ζωῇ ζησόμεθα, Bleſſed are they that ſee thee, and are adorned with love, for we ſhall ſurely live, Ecclus. 48. 10, 11. Where note, that their Converſion is again repreſented by a new life, and by the very word uſed concerning the Souls of the Martyrs which were ſlain, Rev. 20. 4.

§. VI. Add to this, That as all the ancient Millennaries held that this Reign on Earth ſhould be at (k) Jeruſalem, and that the Jews converted then ſhould Reign together with the Chriſtians; ſo all the Paſſages cited from Jewiſh Writers concerning the Millennium, ſpeak only of the Millennium of the Reſurrection, the new Heavens and new Earth the Jewiſh Nation ſhall enjoy. This is apparent from thoſe words on which the Midraſh Tehillim founds this Millennium, viz. Comfort us according to the days in which thou haſt afflicted us, Pſal. 90. 15. in Babylon, in Greece, in Rome. From the words cited by Galatinus, l. 12. c. 1. from R. Eliezer, ch. 34. As I live, ſaith the Lord, I will raiſe you in the time to come, in the Reſurrection of the dead, and I will gather you, with all Iſrael, into the Land of Iſrael. From thoſe cited from R. Saadias on Dan. 7. 18. Becauſe the Jews rebelled againſt their Lord, their Kingdom ſhall be taken from them, and given to the four Monarchies who ſhall poſſeſs it in this World, and ſhall ſubdue and carry captive Iſrael till the Age to come in which the Meſſiah ſhall Reign. From the Targum on Hoſ. 14. 8. They ſhall be gathered from the midſt of their captivity; and on Pſal. 50. 4. From the Paſſage quoted by Galatinus, l. 11. c. 1. From the Book Beracoth, that Iſrael ſhall no more make mention of their departure out of Egypt in the Age to come, in the days of the Meſſiah. And from the words cited by Mr. Mead, Luke 21. 24. The Jews ſhall be carried captives into all Nations till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled, and then ſhall they ſee the Son of Man coming in the Clouds. From the words of Tobit cited by Mr. Mead, p. 579. Then the Children of Iſrael ſhall go into a very long captivity, but the bleſſed God ſhall remember them, and gather them from the four corners of the Earth. Accordingly Mr. Mead ſums up their Opinion thus, They expect their Forefathers, at leaſt ſuch as were juſt and holy, ſhould riſe in the beginning of the ſame Millennium, and reign in the Land of Iſrael with their Off-ſpring under the Meſſiah. And, ſaith he, I can hardly believe that all this ſmoak of Tradition could ariſe but from ſome fire of Truth anciently made known unto them. And this I freely grant, and do indeed ſuppoſe by aſſerting a Prediction of ſuch a general Call of the Jews near the cloſe of the World, as they ſtiled ζωοποίησις, a reviving, and a Reſurrection of them. But how comes this Tradition to relate to Chriſtian Martyrs beheaded for the Name of Chriſt, or to be fulfilled in the Reſurrection of them only who are chiefly Chriſtians, not of the Jews, but of the Gentiles? Mr. Mead ſolves the matter thus, p. 604. Under the ſecond ſort of theſe Reigners I would in a particular reſpect underſtand the Nation of the Jews then converted to the Chriſtian Faith; who coming in toward the end of the day, may, above all others, be ſaid to be thoſe who had not worſhipped the Beaſt, nor his Image, nor had received his mark upon their foreheads or their hands. And thus will Truth prevail at laſt, but to the ruin of this literal Reſurrection: For how can they literally be ſaid to live again, and to have a part in the firſt Reſurrection, who were never ſlain for the Faith? And who are not to be converted, ſay their own Prophecies and Traditions, till God createth a new Heaven and a new Earth, and much leſs till the Fall of Babylon?

CHAP. III.

This Chapter contains an Answer to all the Arguments produc'd from Scripture, to prove this literal Resurrection of the Martyrs, and this Reign of them on Earth a thousand years, viz. 1. To the chief Argument for this Opinion, from Rev. 20. 4, 5, 6. §. I. To 2 Pet. 3. from verſ. 5. 13. §. II. To Heb. 2. 5. compared with Chap. 1, 6. §. III. To Matth. 5. 5. The Meek ſhall inherit the Earth, §. IV. To Rom. 8. 19, 20. The Creature ſhall be delivered from the Bondage of Corruption into the glorious Liberty of the Sons of God, §. V. To Acts 3. 20, 21. The Heavens muſt receive him till the time of the Reſtitution of all things, §. VI. To Matth. 19. 27, 28, 29. Ye that have followed me in the Regeneration, ſhall ſit upon twelve Thrones, §. VII. And they ſhall receive an hundred fold now in this Life. Ibid.

I Proceed now to the Arguments produced from Scripture for the Doctrine of the Millennium, to which I hope to return a clear and ſatisfactory Anſwer, beginning with thoſe words of the Revelations in which all the Aſſertors of this Doctrine place their Confidence. And they are theſe.

§. I. Arg. 1. And I ſaw Thrones, and they ſat upon them, and Judgment was given to them: and I ſaw the Souls of them that were beheaded for the Witneſs of Jeſus, and for the Word of God, and which had not worſhipped the Beaſt, neither his Image, neither had received his Mark upon their Foreheads, or in their Hands, and they lived and reigned with Chriſt a thouſand years, Rev. 20. 4.

But the reſt of the Dead lived not again till the thouſand years were finiſhed. This is the firſt Reſurrection, verſ. 5.

Bleſſed and holy is he who hath part in the firſt Reſurrection: On ſuch the ſecond Death hath no power, but they ſhall be Prieſts of God and of Chriſt, and ſhall reign with him a thouſand years, verſ. 6.

Firſt, Here, ſay they, is mention of a Firſt Reſurrection, antecedent to the General Reſurrection of the Juſt, who are not to live again till they who firſt riſe have reigned a thouſand years on Earth.

2*dly*. This Reſurrection, ſay they, is proper to thoſe who were ſlain for the Teſtimony of Jeſus, and the Word of God, and were not Worſhippers of the Beaſt.

3*dly*. This Reſurrection, ſay they, is not a Metaphorical, but a proper Reſurrection; for the Souls, i. e. the Perſons of them that were ſlain live again.

4*thly*. They do reign with Chriſt a thouſand years, and that Reign, ſay moſt of them, is to be upon Earth; therefore there is to be a Reign of thoſe Martyrs who were ſlain for the Teſtimony of Jeſus and the Word of God upon Earth a thouſand years.

Now in anſwer to this Argument, let it be noted:

Anſw. 1. That it is not the Bodies, but the Souls of them that are beheaded who are ſaid to live; now the word ψυχὴ, rendred Soul, occurs ſix times in this Book, this place excepted; and in all theſe places, it ſignifies either the Soul in ſeparation, or diſtinction from the Body, or the living Soul; for, Chap. 6. 9. The Souls under the Altar, not only cry with a loud Voice but they are cloathed with white Robes, ver. 10, 11. which Expreſſions cannot be well applied to Dead Bodies. Chap. 8. 9. Τὰ κτίσματα ἔχοντα ψυχὰς, are the Creatures having Animal Souls by which they lived, Chap. 12. 11. It plainly ſignifies their Lives, i. e. the Souls by which Men live, Chap. 16. 3. It is expreſly ἡ ψυχὴ ζῶσα, the living Soul, Chap. 18. 13. It ſignifies the Lives of Men, or elſe the Souls of Men which they did hunt for, or devour, as Ezek. 13. 18, 20.— 22. 25. and ver. 14th. ἐπιθυμία τῆς ψυχῆς, is the deſire not of the Body but the Soul; Why therefore muſt this Word be here ſuppoſed to ſignifie not the Soul, but that dead Body oppoſite to it, which alone properly can be ſaid to riſe, and live again.

2*dly*. Let it be noted, that a proper and a literal Reſurrection is never in the whole New Teſtament expreſſed, or repreſented to us by the living of the Soul, but always by the living, raiſing, or the reſuſcitation of the Dead, the raiſing of the Bodies of the Saints, of them that ſlept in the Duſt, or in their Graves and Sepulchres, or who were buried in the Sea or in the Earth; if then the Holy Ghoſt here meant a literal and proper Reſurrection, why doth he ſo much vary from the Terms he conſtantly doth uſe elſewhere, whenever he diſcourſeth of ſuch a Reſurrection, and take up with the Terms ſo oft applied in Scripture to a Moral, and Metaphorical Reſurrection? As we ſhall ſee hereafter.

Answ. 2. 2*dly.* I grant that here is mention of a First Resurrection antecedent to the general and proper Resurrection, but then it plainly is a Resurrection in which all that are blessed and holy, and over whom the second Death hath no Power, have a part, ver. 6. and they are all whose Names are written in the Book of Life, ver. 14. 15. It is a Resurrection of all who had not worshipped the Beast, ver. 4. and they are all the same Persons, Rev. 13. 8. It is a Resurrection of those who are made Kings and Priests to God and Christ, which all good Christians are, 1 Pet. 2. 5, 9. and therefore not of Martyrs only.

Again, It is a Resurrection before the Day of Judgment, and before the Sea, and Death, and the Grave deliver up their Dead, as the words following intimate, ver. 12. 13. viz. I saw the Dead, small and great stand before God, and the Books were opened; and another Book, which is the Book of Life, and the Dead were judged out of those things which were written in the Books, according to their Works. And the Sea gave up her Dead, that were in it: and Death and Hades delivered up their Dead that were in them: and they were judged every Man according to his Works. Where note, that the Dead delivered up were all that were judged according to their Works. It also is a Resurrection before Christ's coming to render to every Man as his Works shall be; for this He after promiseth to do, Chap. 22. 12. whereas, according to the Doctrine of the Millennium, Christ had already given to them whom he had raised to reign with him on Earth, the Blessing promised to him that overcometh, Rev. 2. 26, 27. — 3. 21. 5. 10.

3*dly. The rest of the Dead* that lived not again until the thousand years were finished, are not the Just, but the Synagogue of Satan, Gog and Magog, ver. 8. for St. John, Chap. 19. represents the King of kings and Lord of lords, with the Armies which were in Heaven making War with the Kings of the Earth, and their Armies, and giving their Flesh to be meat unto them; in which War the Beast was taken, and the false Prophet, and cast alive into a lake of Fire, ver. 20. And then it follows thus, καὶ οἱ λοιποὶ, and the rest of them, who were gathered together to make War with this King of kings were slain with the Sword that came out of his Mouth, and all the Fowls were filled with their Flesh, ver. 21. Now it being by the Pagan Emperors first, and by the Beast afterwards, That Satan, the great Dragon, made war with the Seed of the Woman which kept the Commandments of God, and had the Testimony of Jesus Christ, Rev. 12. 17. These Instruments of Satan being thus slain, and overcome by Christ, Satan is bound a thousand years, i. e. He is so long disabled from persecuting and molesting the Church of Christ, and during this space She is raised up to her Primitive Purity, and flourisheth gloriously, and so is represented, as having a Resurrection from the Dead: This thousand years being ended, Satan is let loose again, and gathers again his Instruments, i. e. the Nations which are in the four quarters of the Earth, Gog and Magog to Battle, and they compass the Camp of the Saints. Rev. 20. 8, 9. And this is the living of the rest of the Dead again after the thousand years was ended, ver. 5. for it is only οἱ λοιποὶ, the rest that were slain, Chap. 19. 21. that lived again; it is only those who had no share in the First Resurrection, and so were neither blessed nor holy, ver. 6. nor had their Names written in the Book of Life; and consequently those on which the Second Death had place, which Death they suffered when Fire came down from Heaven and devour'd them, and they were cast into the Lake of Fire with the Devil, ver. 10. 15.

And that οἱ λοιποὶ the rest, Chap. 19. 21. and Chap. 20. 5. should signifie the same Persons, cannot seem strange, if we consider that only four Verses intervene betwixt them. And that they must be the same Persons, is evident from the connexion of the words, thus, the rest of the Dead lived not till the thousand years of Satan's Binding and the Saints Reign was ended, ver. 5. And when those thousand years were ended, Satan was loosed, and gathered them together against that Church of Christ, which had thus Reigned a thousand years, ver. 7, 8, 9, 10.

And this interpretation of the rest of the Dead rising again, gives a clear Answer to the Objection of Mr. Mead, against the other Senses commonly imposed upon these Words, viz. That it would be a most harsh and violent Interpretation, to say the Dead, and the living again of the Dead, should not be taken in the same Sense; for according to this Exposition they are exactly taken in the same Sense, the Dead Church living again in the same Metaphorical Sense, in which the rest of the Dead, the Enemies of the Church live again, at the end of the thousand years when Satan is loosed, and gathers them to Battle against the Church.

4*thly.* The Souls of them who were slain for the Testimony of Jesus, and for the Word of God, are those Christians who were slain in the time of the Ten Persecutions, and the Souls of them who worshipped not the Beast, are those Christians who chose rather to die, or suffer Persecution, than to be guilty of Romish Idolatry: And they are said to live again as the Beast which had received Τὴν πληγὴν θανάτου, the Wound of Death, and one of whose Heads was wounded to Death, ἔζησε, lived again, Rev. 13. 3, 12. viz. in the Succession of the Antichristian Beast, to him which exercised the Power of the Heathen Emperors over the Earth, and reviv'd the Idolatry try of the Heathen Empire. And as the two Witneſſes, when ſlain, are ſaid to live again, the Spirit of Life from God entring into them, Rev. 11. 7, 11. becauſe a ſucceſſion of Men of the ſame Faith and the ſame oppoſition to the Beaſt, revive, and flouriſh after they were ſlain; Some here reply, that this was ſpoken of the two Churches, that they were ſlain, and lived again, not of the Suppoſita. But why then may not the words of St. John be ſpoken of the Church of Jew and Gentile then reviving, and not of the Suppoſita? Moreover, theſe two Witneſſes are ſaid to be ſlain, ver. 7. and their dead bodies to lie in the ſtreets of the great City, ver. 18. to be ſeen lying there three days and an half, and not to be ſuffered to be put into their Graves, ver. 9 and after three days and an half, the Spirit of God is ſaid to enter into them, to make them ſtand upon their feet, and live again. If therefore nothing of this be ſpoken of the Suppoſita, why ſhould thoſe words, I ſaw the Souls of them who were beheaded for the Witneſs of Jeſus, and they lived again, be ſpoken of the Suppoſita, and not of the Churches of the Converted Jews and Gentiles? This being the Prophetick Scheme by which the Scripture ſtill repreſents the glorious Reſtoration of God's Church and People. For,

1. The Reſtoration of the Church is ſometimes repreſented as a Reſurrection of it from the Dead. So ſaith the Prophet Iſaiah, ἀναστήσονται οἱ νεκροί, thy dead ſhall ariſe, and be raiſed out of their Tombs, Chap. 26. 19. So God ſpeaks to the Jewiſh Nation by Ezekiel, ſaying, I will open your graves, and cauſe you to come out of your graves, and bring you into the Land of Iſrael, Ezek. 37. 13, 14. The Prophet Hoſea ſpeaks thus, in three days ἀναστησόμεθα we ſhall riſe up again, and we ſhall live before him, Hoſ. 6. 2. And the Apoſtle ſpeaking of this very matter, viz. the Converſion of the Jews, ſaith, it ſhall be even to the Gentiles ζωὴ ἐκ νεκρῶν, as life from the dead, Rom. 11. 15. Here then is a Reſurrection of the Church of God agreeable to that which our Interpretation of this Paſſage of the Revelations doth import: nor is there any more reaſon to ſay the words of St. John reſpect the Suppoſita, and not the Churches, than to ſay the ſame of many of the places cited.

Moreover, the Scripture doth more frequently mention the Reſtoration of the Church, and her Return from a low, captive, and afflicted State under the Metaphor of a new Life, a Life from the dead, a Reviviſcence of God's Church and People. Thus when God moved the Perſian Kings to let the Jews return to their own Land, he is by Ezra ſaid to give them ζωοποίησιν a Reviviſcence, Ezra, 9. 8, 9. The Pſalmiſt ſpeaking of himſelf as the Text, or of God's People alſo, ſaith the Marginal Reading, uſeth theſe words, Thou which hath ſhewed me great and ſore troubles, ſhalt quicken me (Marg. us) again, and ſhalt bring me up again (Marg. us) from the depth of the Earth, Pſal. 71. 20. And the Church ſpeaketh thus to God, ζωώσεις thou wilt quicken us, and we will call upon thy Name, Pſal. 80. 18. And again, Thou wilt return καὶ ζωώσεις ἡμᾶς and revive us, and thy People ſhall rejoyce in thee, Pſal. 85. 6. ζήσονται οἱ τεθνεῶτές σου Thy dead Men ſhall live, Iſa. 26. 19. ſay Symmachus and Theodotion. ζησόμεθα We ſhall live in his ſight, ſaith the Prophet Hoſea, Chap. 6. 2, 3. and Ch. 14. 17. They ſhall live with their Children and return again, ſaith the Prophet Zachary, Chap. 10. 8, 9. The Son of Syrach ſaith, at the coming of Elias, ζωῇ ζησόμεθα we ſhall live again, Chap. 48. 11. But the chief Seat of this Metaphor is in the 37th. Chapter of Ezekiel, where God is introduced inquiring of the Jews in Babylon, εἰ ζήσεται can theſe Bones live? ver. 3. and promiſing to put into them πνεῦμα ζωῆς the breath of life, ver. 5. and ſaying, I will put my Spirit into you καὶ ζήσεσθε and ye ſhall live, and bidding the Prophet blow upon them καὶ ζησάτωσαν that they may live, v. 9. and declaring, that when he had done ſo, breath entred into them, καὶ ἔζησαν and they lived again, and ſtood upon their feet, v. 10. in all which places the very word which St. John uſeth to expreſs the firſt Reſurrection, is here uſed to expreſs the Return of the Church from her Obſcurity and Thraldom to a glorious State. Why therefore may not the word in St. John bear that Senſe which it ſo often bears in the Prophetick Writings, and twice in the (a) New Teſtament, when ſpoken of the Gentiles? It hence at laſt appears, that by this Interpretation I put no force upon the words, but do expound them in the familiar Senſe in which they are ſtill uſed upon the like occaſion in the Prophetick Writings.

Now it is generally agreed by thoſe who own this Converſion of the Jews, that it is not to commence till after the Deſtruction of the Beaſt, or the Downfall of Antichriſt, mention'd Chap. 18. and therefore in the next Chapter he begins his Diſcourſe upon it, ſaying, Chap. 19. 7. The Marriage of the Lamb is come, and his Wife hath made her ſelf ready, i. e. ſhe who was formerly put away, becauſe ſhe was not (b) prepared for the Bridegroom's coming, was now to be married to God again. And Chap. 21. he reaſſumes this matter, and ſhews the Bride the Lamb's Wife in ſuch a deſcription, as will not ſuffer us to doubt ſhe is the Jewiſh Nation converted to the Chriſtian Faith: For, he calls her the Holy City, and the New Jeruſalem, and tells us in the very very words of Isaiah, Chap. 60. 3, 10. that the Nations which shall be saved shall walk in the light of this City. He calleth her also the Bride to be married to the Lamb; which is the Description the Prophets make of this converted Nation, viz. as of a Bride adorned with her Jewels, and as one that is to be married to the Lord, Isa. 61. 10. 62. 4, 5. And he goes on in a continual Description of this New Jerusalem in the words of the Prophets, Isaiah and Ezekiel speaking of the Conversion of the Jewish Nation. The City also coming down from Heaven, ver. 10. is the new Church of the converted Jews, said to come down from Heaven, according to the Hebrew Phrase, because of that Divine Wisdom, and those Spiritual Gifts and Graces with which she shall be adorned from Heaven: For as they were wont to say of one who treated of sublime heavenly things, that he did לרקיע עלה (a) ascend into Heaven, and speak as one who was admitted into the Divine Councils, Deut. 30. 11, 12. Prov. 30. 3. and of those who heard these things that they were exalted to Heaven, Matth 11. 23. so the pouring down of these Gifts and Blessings is represented as the opening of Heaven, and letting them down upon the Earth. Thus when St. John receives his Prophecy, he sees a door opened in Heaven, and hears a Voice saying come up hither, and I will shew thee what shall be hereafter, Rev. 4. 1. Where note, that the Voice he heard then was as the Voice of a Trumpet: And so the very same Voice he heard when he was in the Spirit, Rev. 1. 10. The two Witnesses also, when they live again, are called up into Heaven, Rev. 11. 11, 12, as being filled with heavenly Wisdom. And since the Spiritual Gifts imparted to the Church are said to come from above, from the Father of lights, Jam. 1. 17. and they who were made Partakers of them to have tasted τ̃ δωρεᾶς ἐπουρανίε of the heavenly gift; seeing the Church of Christ is the Jerusalem which is from above, Gal. 4. 25, the heavenly Jerusalem, Heb. 12. 22. it is no wonder that she is represented here as coming down from Heaven, when she was as it were to have a new Birth which is from above, Joh. 3. 3. and to be adorned with spiritual blessings in heavenly things in Christ Jesus, Eph. 1. 3. and to be reduc'd to her Primitive Lustre and Purity; for then shall the Purity of the Church return, and be as it was in the times of the first Martyrs for the Faith, and the Gospel shall be professed without any Antichristian mixture, as they who opposed the Beast endeavoured to preserve it: And thus shall these Martyrs and Opposers of the Beast live again.

A Reverend and Worthy Person, of more than ordinary Skill in matters of this nature, is of Opinion;

1*st*. That the first Resurrection, here mention'd, will be a literal Resurrection of them that have lost their Lives for the Testimony of Christ, to enjoy eternal Life in Heaven a thousand years before the general Resurrection, as the Martyrs of the Old Testament arose with the Body of Christ, Matth 27. 52. They shall reign saith he, with Christ, not on Earth, but in Heaven, where Christ is, and shall be till he come to Judgment.

2*dly*, He is of Opinion, That not only the Martyrs shall then rise to heavenly Bliss, but that their Murtherers shall then also arise to eternal Punishment. Which he gathers from those words of Daniel, Chap. 12. 2. And many of them that sleep in the dust shall arise, some to everlasting Life, and some to everlasting Shame and Contempt. Now,

1*st*. Against the Doctrine of the first and second Resurrection, properly so called, I have offered some Arguments in the Annotations on 1 Cor. 15. and Chap. 4. §. 2. I therefore only farther note;

First, That St. Matthew speaks not one word of any Martyrs that arose after Christ's Resurrection, but only of the arising of some Saints that slept, and their going into the holy City, and appearing unto many; which seems rather to make it probable they were Saints who had lived in the Memory of those to whom they appeared, and were known. See the Note there.

2*dly*. St. Matthew doth not say as St. John doth, that many Souls lived, but that πολλὰ σώματα many Bodies of those that slept arose out of their Sepulchres: His words must therefore be understood of a proper Resurrection of the Bodies of the Saints; but it cannot be hence inferr'd that the words of St. John bear the same sense.

3*dly*. St. John doth not say his Martyrs shall reign with Christ a thousand years before the general Resurrection, but only, that they shall reign with Christ a thousand years; which seems an odd Expression when applied to them who are rais'd to reign for ever with him. Add to this, that after the Resurrection of St. John's Saints to reign with Christ a thousand years, Satan is loosed, and raises his Armies to fight against, and compass about τὴν παρεμβολὴν τ̃ ἁγίων the Camp of the Saints, v. 7, 8, 9. which fairly intimates that the Saints mention'd ver. 6. as partakers of the first Resurrection, were still on Earth, and not reigning with Christ in Heaven.

Lastly, The second part of this Opinion seems to contradict many Scriptures which expressly teach that the time of the Punishment of the wicked shall be after the Sentence of Absolution hath been passed upon the Blessed, Matth. 25. 41,—46. when all the Good have gone into everlasting Life, John 5. 28, 29. at the

the day of Judgment, and when we shall appear before the Judgment-seat of Christ, Rom. 2. 8, 9, 16. 2 Cor. 5. 10. and that they who have persecuted Christ's Members shall be punished at the Revelation of Christ from Heaven, 2 Thess. 1. 6—9. at the Conflagration of the World, 2 Pet. 2. 9. 3. 7. at the day of Judgment, Jude 14. 15. when he cometh in the Clouds, Rev. 1. 7. and that the Crown of Glory shall be given to the Righteous at the same time. See Note on 2 Tim. 4. 8.

Obj. 2. Some refer to this Millennium those words of Christ, Matth. 5. 5. Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the Earth, saying, that neither David, nor our Saviour, could understand this otherwise than of a future State, because it is not the meek, but the great ones of the World, that slice the Earth among them, and Court-flatterers that scramble for Preferment.

Ans. But it is evident to a Demonstration, that David did understand this of the present Earth, or of the Land of Canaan; for the Tenor of this whole thirty seventh Psalm is design'd to shew that wicked Men shall by God's Judgment suddenly perish, whilst righteous Men lived easily and quietly in the Land of Canaan. So ver. 9. Evil doers shall be cut off, but they that wait upon the Lord they shall inherit the Earth; for yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be, but the meek shall inherit the Earth. They that are blessed of him shall inherit the Earth, and they that are cursed of him shall be rooted out. So verse 34. Wait on the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee τοῦ κληρονομῆσαι τὴν γῆν to inherit the Earth: when the wicked are destroyed thou shalt see it. See also ver. 14, 17, 19, 23, 24, 25, 29. 'Tis therefore unadvisedly said, the Psalmist could not understand this of the present Earth, and that upon a plain mistake of the Import of the Phrase; as if inheriting the Earth was enjoying a vast Fortune, or a great share of temporal Enjoyments here, whereas the Comfort of this Life, as our Lord teacheth, Luke 12. 15. Consisteth not in the abundance of the things that we possess. The Phrase rather imports, That Meekness is the best way to procure us a long and peaceable Life on Earth, Psal. 34. 12, 14. 1 Pet. 3. 10. and that the meek Person shall ordinarily have the most sure enjoyment of these things as far as they are needful; that he shall enjoy them with the greatest Quiet and Tranquility, without that Strife, Debate, Anxiety, and Trouble, which imbitter the Enjoyment of of these things to others; and with the truest Comfort, Satisfaction, and Contentedness of Mind. For, as Chrysostom well observes upon the place, because the Jews had been oft taught this Lesson in the Old Testament, our Saviour addresses himself to them in the Language they had been accustomed to; this Son of David repeateth and confirmeth to them the Promise made by David. And this I judge to be the most natural, and truest Exposition of these Words.

Obj. 3. Our Saviour promises to his Disciples and Followers, That for the Losses they should sustain here on his account, and for the sake of his Gospel, they should receive there an hundred fold, and sit upon Thrones with him judging the Tribes of Israel. The Words are these: And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that ye which have followed me in the Regeneration, when the Son of Man shall sit on the Throne of his Glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve Thrones, judging the twelve Tribes of Israel, Matth. 19. 27, 28. These Thrones must, in all Reason, be the same with the Thrones mentioned Dan. 7. 9. Apoc. 20. 4. and therefore mark the same time and state. And seeing in those places they plainly signifie the Millennial State, or the Kingdom of Christ and his Saints, they must here signifie the same in this Promise of our Saviour to his suffering Followers. And as to the word παλιγγενεσία which is here translated Regeneration, 'tis very well known that both the Greek Philosophers and Greek Fathers use that word for the Renovation of the World, which is to be at, or before the Millennial state.

Answ. In Answer to this Argument, I shall not take notice that what the Argument saith is promised to Christ's Disciples and Followers in general, is indeed promised only to his twelve Apostles, to them who had then lost all and followed him, Matth. 19. 17. to them who had continued with him in his Temptations, Luke 22. 28. The Thrones here mentioned therefore cannot be the Thrones spoken of in Daniel, and the Revelations; for these Thrones are peculiar to the twelve Apostles: Those in the Revelations are supposed to belong to all that have a share in the first Resurrection: the Apostles sit upon these Thrones only to Judge the twelve Tribes of Israel; but they who sit on the Thrones mention'd in the Revelations, are to Rule over the Nations, and Judge them, Rev. 2. 26, 27. 3. 21. 5. 10. 20. 4. 6. But,

2*dly*. I grant the παλιγγενεσία, or Regeneration here mentioned, may be referred to the Consummation of the World, and to the new Heavens and Earth of which the Prophets speak; but then I add, this παλιγγενεσία or new Birth, is only that of the Church of Christ, that ζωοποίησις or new Life, that ζωὴ ἐκ νεκρῶν Life from the dead, she shall receive when all Israel shall be saved, and the Fulness of the Gentiles shall flow in to them. For,

1*st*. The Persons here to be judged are only the Twelve Tribes of Israel, which makes it more than probable, that the whole Promise made to the Apostles respects their Government over these Tribes, coming in at the Close of the World after the Fall of Antichrist; and that not by a Resurrection of their Persons, but by a Revivescence of that Spirit which resided in them, them, and of that Purity and Knowledge which they delivered to the World, and chiefly by Admiſſion of their Goſpel to be the Standard of their Faith, and the Direction of their Lives.

2*dly*. It hath been obſerv'd already, that the Delivery of the Jews from their former Captivities and Miſeries, is always repreſented as a ζωοποίησις a giving of Life, and a Reſurrection to the Jews. And thus may thoſe words of St. John be primarily referr'd to them, viz. I ſaw Thrones, and they ſat upon them, and Judgment was given to them, Chap. 20. 4. though theſe things belong not to them only, but in general to him that overcometh, Chap. 2. 26, 27. 3. 1. Seeing then their Return from their Captivity is in the ſtile of the Prophets uſually repreſented as a παλιγγενεσία, a reviving, or new Life; Why may not the time of their moſt glorious Converſion, and Collection from all the Corners of the Earth, be by our Saviour here repreſented under that known Metaphor? And this Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation being by me placed in St. John's Epocha, viz. after the Deſtruction of the Beaſt, and the Death and Slaughter of the Armies of them that fought for him, or worſhipped his Image; and her converted Members being, in my Opinion, the very Bride of the Lamb, which had made her ſelf ready, and, after a long Divorce, was now married to God again; I comply in this with all the Ancients Millennaries, and eſpecially with (b) Juſtin Martyr, when he ſaith, this παλιγγενεσία is the Myſtery of the Regeneration of all that expect Jeſus Chriſt to appear at Jeruſalem, ſpoken of by Haiah, Chap. 66. and that all Chriſtians entirely Orthodox expect to ſpend a thouſand years in Jeruſalem, as the Prophet Iſaiah hath foretold, ſaying, There ſhall be a new Heaven and new Earth. For as theſe things are ſpoken by a Prophet of the Jews, one ſent to ſpeak theſe things to them, ſo is it beyond diſpute that they chiefly and immediately concern that Nation, and her τεκνογονία new Birth of a numerous Offſpring after a long Barrenneſs, Chap. 66. 7, 8, 9. and her Exaltation to an high Eſtate of Excellence and Glory; and that ſo viſible to the Gentiles, that all Nations and Tongues ſhall ſee her Glory.

As for the following words, urged ſtifly by the ancient and ſome latter Millennaries, viz. And every one that hath forſaken Houſe, or Brethren, or Siſter, or Father, or Mother, or Wife and Children, or Lands for my Name's ſake, ſhall receive an hundred fold now in this time, Houſes, and Brothers, and Siſters, and Mothers, and Children, and Lands; and in the World to come, eternal Life. It is, in my Opinion,

1*ſt*. Very unreaſonable to interpret theſe words of Bleſſings to be conferr'd on Men after the Reſurrection; for they that are thought worthy to be Sons of the Reſurrection, ſaith our Lord, neither marry, nor are given in marriage, Luke 20. 35. Whence therefore ſhould they have theſe Mothers, and theſe Children, not to add Wives an hundred fold? They are made like to the Angels at the Reſurrection; and what ſhould ſuch Angelical Perſons do with, what Advantage will they reap from an hundred Houſes, or a like Increaſe of Land, on Earth?

If you reply, That theſe words of our Saviour relate not to the firſt Reſurrection, of which this Text, which ſpeaks of Wives and Children, is to be interpreted, but only to the ſecond and general Reſurrection; I Anſwer, That the words are general, and therefore muſt include all that are Sons of the Reſurrection. Moreover, by admitting this double Reſurrection, the firſt in which they that are raiſed might marry, or have Wives and Children, and the ſecond in which they could not, the Objection or Enquiry of the Sadducees is partly left unanſwered; for this Diſtinction doth ſuppoſe a Reſurrection, in which the ground of their Enquiry might take place.

2*dly*. This wonderful Increaſe is promiſed νῦν at preſent, ἐν τῷ καιρῷ τούτῳ in this time of life, Mark 10. 30. Luke 18. 28. in oppoſition to what they ſhall receive in the Age to come. Now the Millennium is ſtill placed by Dr. B. in the Age to come after the Conflagration of the World; this Promiſe therefore cannot refer to his Millennium, nor yet to any other which begins after the Reſurrection of theſe Perſons, for that Time can with no propriety of Speech be ſaid to be now, nor can the Bleſſings then received be ſaid to be received in this Life. Moreover, theſe Bleſſings are to be received μετὰ διωγμῶν with Perſecutions, it being the known Obſervation of Criticks and (c) Grammarians, that μετὰ with a Genitive Caſe ſignifies with, and denotes τὸ αὐτὸν καιρὸν the ſame time, and only with an Accuſative Caſe ſignifies after, and denotes ὑστερογρονίαν a following time; ſo that theſe Perſecutions muſt be contemporary with the Enjoyment of theſe Bleſſings, whereas a general Peace, and (d) freedom from all Perſecutions, is made a neceſſary Character of the Millennial State.

Laſtly, Theſe words afford an Argument againſt the Doctrine of the Millennium, becauſe, according to them, the only Bleſſing to be receiv'd ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι τῷ ἐρχομένῳ in the Age to to come is life everlasting, which Blessing is confin'd to Heaven, and not to be enjoyed on Earth, our House eternal being in the Heavens, 2 Cor. 5. 1. and our Inheritance eternal reserved in the Heavens for us: and therefore they to whom the Promise is here made, are not in the World to come to live a thousand years on Earth, or to enjoy the temporal Blessings promised here, because they are not to be enjoyed in the World to come, but now, in this present life, and because the only Blessing promised in the World to come is not to be enjoy'd on Earth, but is reserved in the Heavens for us, 1 Pet. 1. 4.

Obj. 4. St. Peter, in his Sermon to the Jews after our Saviour's Ascension, tells them that he will come again, and that there will be then a Restitution of all things, such as was promised by the Prophets. The Heavens, saith he, must receive him till the time of Restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the Mouth of all his Prophets since the World began, Acts 3. 20, 21.

Answ. I answer, that these words cannot be meant of a Restitution of all things to their former state; for sure 'tis very improper to say there will be a Restitution of all things to their former state, which God hath spoken by the Mouth of all his holy Prophets; for since these things relate to the Forerunner of our Lord, Christ's coming in the Flesh, his Life, Death, Resurrection, and Ascension, the preaching of the Gospel to the Gentiles, the Reign of Antichrist, the Calling of the Jews, and the coming in of the Fulness of the Gentiles, these things may very well be said to be exhibited, performed, accomplished, and consummated; but I see not with what propriety or truth they can be said to be restored to their former States, or be renewed, and therefore ἄχρι χρόνων ἀποκαταστάσεως πάντων is by the Syriack rendred until the fullness of the time of all things; by the Arabick, till the time in which all things shall be perfected, or finished; by (e) Tertullian, Adusque tempora exhibitionis omnium; by (f) Irenæus, Usque ad tempus dispositionis omnium, i. e. till the time of the exhibition, or disposal of all things; by Oecumenius, till the time that all things do εἰς τέλος ἐλθεῖν come to an end: and for the confirmation of this import of the word, we have the Suffrage of Hesychius and Phavorinus, that ἀποκατάστασις is τελείωσις the consummation of a thing. Hence then I argue thus against this Doctrine. Since Christ is to continue in Heaven till the Completion, or Consummation of all things spoken by the holy Prophets, if the Millennium were any of them, Christ must continue in Heaven till the Consummation of that also, and therefore is not to come down from Heaven to reign on Earth till the Millennium be ended; nor can that be contemporary with our Lord's second coming, which is from Heaven.

The Arguments produced in favour of this Millennium from Rom. 8. 19, 20, 21. from 2 Thess. 2. 1. from Heb. 1. 6. and 2. 5. and from 2 Pet. 3. 8.—12. are sufficiently answered in the Notes upon those places.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

This Chapter contains Arguments against the literal Resurrection, and the Reign of Martyrs upon Earth a thousand years. First, From the Inconsistency of it with the happy State of Souls departed, §. I. Secondly, From the accurate Description of the Resurrection in the Holy Scripture, without any mention of a first and second Resurrection, and with such Descriptions of the Qualities of the Bodies raised, the efficient Cause, of the Time, Circumstances, and Consequents of it, which suit not with the Doctrine of the Millennium, §. II. Thirdly, From the Inconsistency of it with the Genius of the Christian Faith, and the Nature of the Gospel Promises, §. III.

HAving thus shewed, That Scripture and Antiquity afford no sure Foundation for this supposed Resurrection of the Saints and Martyrs to reign with Christ on Earth a thousand years; I proceed now to shew the Inconsistence of this Doctrine, with many things delivered in the Holy Scripture. And,

§. I. First, This Doctrine seems not well consistent with the happy State of Souls departed, recorded in the Sacred Writings; for can it rationally be supposed, That those Spirits of Just Men made perfect, which are now with Christ, Heb. 12. 23. and, being absent from the Body, are present with the Lord, 2 Cor. 5. 8. Phil. 1. 23. should leave those blessed Mansions, or quit that happy State, to live on Earth again a thousand years? That they who are already entred into Rest, Luke 23. 43. and who enjoy all the Delights and Satisfactions which Paradise it self affords, should quit that Station to enjoy Peace and Plenty upon Earth? Can they expect to be more righteous and holy, or to have more divine and heavenly Speculations, or better Company, or a more full Fruition of their Lord on Earth, than they enjoy'd in Paradise? If not, who can imagine, That God should thus degrade them after so long enjoyment of those happy Regions, or that they should voluntarily quit those Mansions for any Temporal Enjoyments of the Body, any Meat or Drink, or Earthly Pleasures, which they had formerly deny'd themselves, and were even dead to whilst they lived here; or for any Temporary Converse upon that Earth in which they only lived as Pilgrims and Strangers, still looking for a better Country, that is an heavenly? Heb. 11. 13, 16. And if this Change seems not consistent with the State of happy Souls in general, much less will it comport with those especial Privileges and high Prerogatives supposed, by some Fathers, to belong unto the Souls of Martyrs, viz. that they do instantly receive their Crowns, and are admitted to a fuller Vision, and a more intimate Enjoyment of the God of Heaven; for the higher their Advancement is, the greater must their Degradation be, when they return again to live on Earth. So that this Doctrine seems least of all consistent with the State of those Christian Sufferers, who are supposed to be the very Persons for whom it chiefly was design'd, and to whom it is chiefly promised.

2dly. Let us compare the Resurrection mentioned by the Holy Scripture, with that supposed by the Millennaries, and we shall easily discern, That no Man reasonably can desire to enjoy the latter, who can be made partaker of the former.

They who believe the Resurrection promised in Scripture, expect our Lord from Heaven to change their vile Bodies into the likeness of Christ's glorious Body, Philip. 3. 21. The Millennaries expect him to change, or to restore them into such Bodies as shall be still mortal, corruptible Bodies; for else, what need of Meat and Drink, what Pleasure can they reap from their Plenty? The first expect, this corruptible should then put on Incorruption, this mortal put on Immortality, 1. Cor. 15. 53. The second, that it should do this only after a thousand years; for they suppose, [B. 4. c. 9. p. 206.] That Nature may be weak, and they may be desirous to be dissolved in the Millennial State. The first expect, That their dishonourable Bodies should be raised in Glory, ver. 43. The second, That they be first raised with their dishonourable Parts. The first, That the Body should be raised a Spiritual and a Cœlestial Body, bearing the Image of the heavenly Adam, v. 44, 48. The second, That it be first raised an Earthly Body, bearing the Image of the Earthly Adam. And Oh! How inglorious, how despicable is the Resurrection which these Men expect, compared with the Resurrection promised in the Holy Scripture? How much more happy would the Saints and Martyrs be, could they immediately enjoy the Scripture Reſurrection, than by enjoying that which the Millennaries have allotted to them? 'And why ſhould 'any one conceive they ſhould not do it? 'Is it becauſe there is a neceſſity they ſhould 'firſt live on Earth a thouſand years, (a) to 'prepare them for Heaven, and eternal Glo-'ry; Ut paulatim aſſueſcant capere Deum, as 'Irenæus ſays, (b) That they may by degrees 'inlarge their Capacities, fit and accuſtom them-'ſelves to receive God; or, as he ſays in ano-'ther place, That they may become capable of 'the Glory of the Father, that is, capable of 'bearing the Glory and Preſence of God? Sure this is not for the Credit of the Martyrs, That they ſhould not be fit or capable to receive God, and enjoy the Glory of the Father, without imploying their Contemplations and Devotions upon Earth a thouſand years, when theſe holy Perſons who riſe not till the general Reſurrection ſhall from that time be for ever with the Lord, 1 Theſſ. 4. 17. and be immediately partakers of the Beatifick Viſion. Moreover, What is it that muſt be thus fitted, and capacitated by Contemplation to receive God, and to enjoy this Bleſſed Viſion? Is it not the Soul? And can ſhe not as well contemplate him under the Altar, or the Throne, or whilſt ſhe doth abide in Paradiſe? Is coming down from thoſe Cœleſtial Regions to this dull Earth, the way to elevate the Soul to Heaven? Will putting on a corruptible Body, a Body needing plenty of earthly things, and finding pleaſure in them, be the way to quicken and invigorate her Heavenly Flights and Aſpirations? Or, is there no true (c) Friendſhip, no ingenuous Converſation to be had in Paradiſe, that the Soul muſt deſcend to Earth to enjoy it? Or, is it neceſſary, as (d) Tertullian, and (e) others argue, by way of retribution, That the Body which hath ſuffered, may be rewarded in like kind; i. e. that it may be now gratified with bodily Delights, the Pleaſures of the Throat and Palate, fine Cloaths, and innocent Diverſions here on Earth? As if a change of this vile Body into the likeneſs of Chriſt's glorious Body, were not a better, and far more glorious Reward, of all its Sufferings.

Arg. 2. §. II. A ſecond Argument againſt this Doctrine, of a proper Reſurrection to reign with Chriſt a thouſand years on Earth, is taken from the accurate Deſcription of the Reſurrection contained in the Holy Scripture. For, Firſt, in all the Deſcriptions the Holy Ghoſt ſo largely gives us of the Reſurrection, and the future Judgment in the Evangeliſts, and the Epiſtles, there is no mention of a firſt and ſecond Reſurrection, or of any Prerogative of ſome Saints above others in it, or of any Precedence of any before others, as to the Reſurrection of their Bodies, which might have reaſonably been expected, had this Doctrine been then received, in ſome of thoſe places where the thing is ſo largely and critically diſcourſed on, as to inform us twice, That the Order of the Reſurrection ſhall be this, That the Dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt, 1 Theſſ. 4. 16, 17. and then, We that are alive ſhall be changed, and that Chriſt is raiſed as the firſt-Fruits, and that afterwards they that are Chriſt's ſhall be raiſed at his coming: Here I confeſs, is mention made of an Order in the Reſurrection; for it is ſaid, In Chriſt ſhall all be made alive, every Man in his own Order, 1 Cor. 15. 23. but then the Order is expreſſed thus, Chriſt the firſt Fruits, afterwards they that are Chriſt's. Whereas, according to the Millennial Hypotheſis, the Words ſhould rather have run thus, Chriſt the firſt Fruits, then the Martyrs, and a thouſand years after, the reſidue of the Juſt; In the Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians alſo, there is no Order of the Reſurrection of the Dead mentioned, but of them altogether; and without diſtinction it is ſaid, Them that ſleep in Chriſt, will God bring with him, and the Dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt.

In Anſwer to this Argument, we have been told, That (f) as the Scripture ſpeaks of the Reſurrection in Groſs, without diſtinguiſhing firſt and ſecond, ſo it ſpeaks of the coming of our Saviour, without diſtinction of firſt and ſecond. But this is a great overſight; for the Scripture gives expreſs notice of Chriſt's coming ἐκ δευτέρου, a ſecond time, for the Salvation of his Servants, Heb. 9. 20. and of his coming again, to receive them into thoſe Manſions he is gone to prepare for them, Joh. 14. 3. There being therefore equal reaſon to expect a like Diſtinction betwixt the firſt and ſecond Reſurrection, properly ſo called, the conſtant Silence of the Scriptures as to that matter, is no ſmall prejudice againſt that Hypotheſis, which doth ſuppoſe a firſt and ſecond Reſurrection.

2*dly*. The Scripture in thoſe places containeth many things which ſeem moſt plainly inconſiſtent with that Doctrine; for either in thoſe places the Scripture ſpeaketh only of the ſecond Reſurrection excluſively of the firſt firſt, and then it is not true which Mr. Mead aſſerts, That the Day of Judgment, and the time of the Reſurrection, includes both the Millennium and the General Reſurrection; or, that the Scripture ſpeaks of the Reſurrection in the Groſs, without diſtinguiſhing betwixt the firſt and ſecond; for, if it ſpeaks only of the ſecond excluſively of the firſt, it muſt ſpeak of it diſtinctly from the firſt, or it muſt in thoſe places intend to ſpeak of both conjunctly and without diſtinction, and then what is ſaid in them muſt be applicable to them both without diſtinction.

Again, the Scripture in thoſe places ſpeaketh many things: Firſt, As to the Nature of the Reſurrection, and the Qualities of the Bodies raiſed. 2dly. As to the efficient Cauſe of the Reſurrection, our Lord Jeſus. 3dly. As to the time of the Reſurrection, 4thly. As to the Circumſtances, and the immediate Conſequences of that Reſurrection, which are by no means applicable to the firſt, and the particular Reſurrection ſuppoſed by the Millennaries, but only to the general Reſurrection, which all Chriſtians own. And,

Firſt, That which the Scripture ſaith of the Nature and the Qualifications of the Bodies raiſed, is this, That they ſhall be raiſed Glorious, Spiritual, Immortal and Incorruptible Bodies; for then this Corruptible muſt put on Incorruption, and this Mortal muſt put on Immortality, 1 Cor. 15. 52, 49. then ſhall we bear the Image of the heavenly Adam, or of that Lord from Heaven who ſhall change our vile Bodies into the likeneſs of his glorious Body, Phil. 3. 21. then ſhall we be cloathed upon with our Houſe from Heaven, and Death ſhall be ſwallowed up in Victory, 2 Cor. 5. 1, 4. Now, can a Body raiſed in Glory, i. e. in Clarity and in Splendor, ſhining like the Sun, and made like to Chriſt's glorious Body, and like unto the Angels, as they ſhall be, ſaith Chriſt, who are thought worthy of the Reſurrection, have any need of all the Plenty which Dr. Burnet hath prepared for it on Earth? Can it feed upon, or reliſh any of the Banquets which God, ſaith Irenæus, and all the Ancient Millennaries, hath prepared for it? Can a Body raiſed in Power, i. e. free from all Renitency, all Pain and Laſſitude, continue ſtill, as Dr. Burnet [B. 4. c. 9. p. 206.] makes the Bodies of his raiſed Millennaries to do, under ſuch Weakneſs of Nature as will not ſuffer them to continue long under ſtrong Paſſions, or intenſeneſs of Mind? Can a Spiritual Body, free from Groſneſs and Ponderoſity, from needing Reſt, Sleep, Cloathing, Suſtenance, receive advantage from that Univerſal Plenty, [Chap. 7. p. 184. p. 186.] or need thoſe Goods of Fortune, that external Felicity, that Temporal Happineſs he hath provided for it upon Earth? Can theſe Men raiſed with Immortal and Incorruptible Bodies, which have already ſwallowed up Death in Victory, wiſh to be diſſolved, as he ſaith they will? [p. 206.] Can the Devil, when looſed, be ſo fooliſh, as to ſummon up his Armies to fight againſt, and kill them who are Immortal, and can die no more? Can Gog and Magog, with all their numerous Hoſt, hope to prevail againſt them, or even dare to aſſault ſuch ſhining radiant Bodies as they then will have? In a word, Can ſuch Bodies need, or receive any farther Exaltation to fit them for Heaven, or for their Elevation into the Clouds, to be for ever with the Lord? If not, why ſhould they live a thouſand years on Earth after God hath thus fitted and prepared them for their Habitation in the higheſt Heavens? I therefore do imagine, That when the Patrons of this Millennial Reſurrection find themſelves thus preſſed, they will aſſign to their new raiſed Inhabitants of the Earth, a Body capable of enjoying the good things on Earth, and taking pleaſure in thoſe Goods of Fortune they have there provided for them, and leave their Bodies to be changed after the Millennium, into the likeneſs of Chriſt's glorious Body, and to ſuffer then another change into Cœleſtial and Spiritual Bodies, tho' not another Reſurrection; and it ſeems neceſſary for them to admit of the forementioned Abſurdities, or to admit of this Hypotheſis; for when the Apoſtle ſaith, The Dead ſhall be raiſed incorruptible, and we ſhall be changed, their new raiſed Inhabitants muſt belong to the Dead, and ſo be raiſed incorruptible, and ſo incapable of thoſe earthly Goods they mention, as their Reward on Earth; or to the Living, and then they muſt be changed. And yet this ſhift is plainly contrary to the Account St. Paul hath given us of the Reſurrection of the Body; for he expreſly ſaith, That when this corruptible, weak, diſhonourable, earthy Body ſhall be raiſed, it ſhall be raiſed in Incorruption, Glory, Power, and be a Spiritual Body: That to the Natural ſucceeds the Spiritual Body, to the Earthy the Heavenly Body, 1 Cor. 15. 43, 44. To the Body bearing the Image of the Earthly, the Body bearing the Image of the Heavenly Adam: Whereas this ſhift muſt infer a Body raiſed not in Glory, or in Incorruption, not a Spiritual and an Heavenly Body, and ſo muſt make theſe Martyrs twice bear the Image of the Earthy Adam, or at leaſt at their Reſurrection not to bear the Image of the Heavenly. Again, They who are then alive, and ſhall be changed, ſaith the Apoſtle, are only thoſe who never ſlept in the Grave, v. 51, 52. Now this cannot be true of Martyrs raiſed from the Dead, and ſo the change here mentioned cannot belong to them.

2*dly*. This Doctrine seems inconsistent with what the Scripture most plainly hath delivered concerning our Lord Jesus, the efficient Cause, as well as the Exemplar, of the Resurrection of those that are Christ's; for he that is the Author of this Resurrection, is ὁ Κύριος ἐξ οὐρανοῦ, the Lord coming down from Heaven, to effect it, 1 Cor. 15. 47. our Lord descending down ἀπ' οὐρανῶν, from the Heavens; 1 Thess. 4. 16. the time when God shall give to those that have been persecuted and afflicted, Rest with the Apostles, who sure will have a share in the first Resurrection, is the time of the Revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ from Heaven, 2 Thess. 1. 7. The time of this Millennium, say the Patrons of it, is the time of the Restitution of all things. Now at that time, saith the Apostle Peter, our Jesus is to be sent down from the Heavens, Acts 3. 20, 21. they being only to contain him till that time. And one would think that if the Saints must reign with Christ on Earth a thousand years, he must be with them on the Earth; but this the Patrons of the Millennium will by no means own, but look upon it as a great Absurdity. For, that Christ should leave the right hand of his Father, to come and pass a thousand years here below, living upon Earth in an Heavenly Body; this I confess, saith Dr. Burnet, (g) is a thing I never could digest. And (h) I dare not imagine, saith Mr. Mead, of this Presence of Christ in his Kingdom, that it should be a visible Converse upon Earth; for the Kingdom of Christ ever hath, and shall be Regnum Cœlorum, a Kingdom whose Throne and Kingly Residence is in Heaven. Here then the Scripture-Account of the Resurrection, that it shall be effected by the Lord Jesus coming down from Heaven, and the Millennium of the Ancients, is at once rejected; For, as (i) Lactantius saith, the Son of God shall come, and be conversant among Men a thousand years, and rule them with a righteous Empire: he shall reign with them upon Earth; So was this the avowed Doctrine of all the Ancient Millenaries; for they not only did assert his Reign on Earth, but assigned Jerusalem as the peculiar place of his Residence whilst he reigned upon it.

3*dly*. This Doctrine is still more evidently repugnant to the time assigned for the Resurrection of the Just; for they are to be raised, saith the Apostle, in a moment, in the twinkling of an Eye, at the last Trump, 1 Cor. 15. 52. for the Trumpet shall sound, and (then) the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we that are alive, and have not slept, shall be changed. For the Lord himself shall descend from Heaven with a shout, and with the Voice of the Archangel, and with the Trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first. Here we are taught that the dead in Christ, and so the Martyrs, shall not be raised till our Lord's Descent from Heaven, that then they shall be raised in a moment, in the twinkling of an Eye; that, immediately upon their being raised, they that are then alive shall be changed. (k) St. Jerom therefore said, with good ground, that the Apostle by these words, cunctam primæ & secundæ Resurrectionis excludit fabulam, destroys the Fable of the first and second Resurrection, by asserting that the Resurrection of all that are dead in Christ, and sleep in him, shall be performed in a moment, and in the twinkling of an Eye, at the sounding of the last Trump, and at the Shout, or Voice, of the last Angel: Which leaves no room for a whole thousand years betwixt the first and second Resurrection, unless the Angel should be supposed to shout, or the Trump sound, a thousand years. The hour cometh, saith our Lord, John 5. 28. when all that are in the Tombs shall hear my Voice, and shall come forth. And sure that must be a long hour which lasteth a full thousand years. Again, there shall be Pious Persons living and unchanged, when all the Pious that were dead are raised; for the dead in Christ shall rise first, then we that are alive shall be changed, 1 Thess. 4. 16, 17. we that have not yet slept, saith the Apostle. Place now the Millennium after the Conflagration of the World, and all things in it, and where will you find these Pious Men alive, or how will you preserve them from those flames? (l) Dr. Burnet finds a great Difficulty, not common to all, as he imagines, but peculiar to his own Invention, of a Millennium after the Conflagration of the present Earth; viz. How Gog and Magog should get into this new Earth, the wicked being all consumed in those Flames. He is not hardy enough to say, that this is the Poetick Tale of the Giants, Giants, though he saith (p. 219.) it hath great affinity with it. And therefore he produces these Men, according to the Philosophy of Lucretius and Mr. Hobbs, (p. 220.) from the slime of the Earth, and the heat of the Sun, as Brute Creatures were at first: But whence come these Pious Men that have not yet slept, into this new Earth, is a fresh Difficulty; and to this the Doctor hath yet nothing to say, for he either thought not of them, or was unwilling to take up with the Rabbinical Notion that they had Eagles wings given them to mount up into the Air whilst the Earth was on fire.

4thly. This Doctrine seems inconsistent with many Circumstances of the Resurrection mentioned in the Holy Scripture; for that speaks constantly of the Resurrection of all Saints, as of a Resurrection not to a temporal Life on Earth, but to an eternal in the Heavens. They shall come forth out of their Tombs to the Resurrection of Life, John 5. 28. He that seeth and believeth in me, He that eateth my flesh hath eternal Life, and I will raise him up at the last day, Chap. 6. 54. That teaches us that when Christ comes again, they shall be received into the Heavenly Mansions prepared for them, Joh. 14. 2, 3. 17. 24. and shall be with him where he now is; that when Christ, who is their Life, shall appear, they shall appear with him in Glory, Col. 3. 14. that when he doth appear, they shall be like him, and see him as he is. Whereas according to the Hypothesis of the Millennaries, when Christ appears, and when he comes again, they who have been his choicest and most faithful Servants, shall not immediately be raised to eternal Life, but first to that Life which is but temporal; they shall not be received into Heavenly, but into Earthly Mansions; they shall not be glorified with him, appear with him in Glory, be like him in his Glory, or see him as he is, till they have spent a thousand years on Earth to fit them for those blessed Mansions, and to prepare them for this Beatifick Vision. Moreover, it is said of all the Dead in Christ, of all that slept in Jesus, that they shall be raised first, and that then immediately we that are alive shall be snatched up with them in Clouds to meet the Lord in the Air, and then we shall be for ever with the Lord. Now if this be so, surely we cannot afterwards expect to live on Earth a thousand years; For as (m) Nyssen puts the Question, τί δὲ χρεία τῆς κάτω ζωῆς ἐκείνοις ἡ μετὰ Χριστοῦ ἐλπιζομένη; what need is there that they should live below on Earth, who hope thus to live in Heaven, and to be ever with the Lord? especially since these words plainly seem to speak not of a temporal, but an eternal Life with Christ, not by enjoyment of him upon Earth, but by Translation from it to Heaven? Again when the same Apostle saith, this I say, Brethren, that flesh and blood shall not inherit the Kingdom of God, neither shall Corruption inherit Incorruption, 1 Cor. 15. 20. and thence concludes that the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed; does he not sufficiently intimate that we shall be raised not to enjoy an Earthly but an Heavenly Kingdom; and that our raised Bodies being glorified, shall not consist of Flesh and Blood? And what then will they do with all that plenty, and that great affluence of the Goods of Fortune which the Millennaries do so highly value? In a word, the comfort which the Apostle gives the (n) Thessalonians concerning their departed Friends who had suffered much Affliction, Persecution, Tribulation, and doubtless many of them Death, for Christ's sake, is only this, that they who remained alive should not prevent them in the enjoyment of the Happiness promised to the Body, but the dead in Christ should rise first, and then the living should be changed; not this, that these Sufferers for the sake of Christ should rise a thousand years before the rest to Reign with Christ on Earth; which yet is by the Millennaries deemed great matter of their Consolation, and so was very proper to have been mentioned there, had it been any Article of Christian Faith.

Arg. 3. §. 3. 3dly. This Reign of Christians upon Earth agrees not with the genius of Christian Faith, or with the nature of Christian Promises, or with that frame and temper of Spirit it requires from the Professors of Christianity. For,

1*st*. The Christian is represented as one who is entirely dead to the World, and to the things of the World; one who is not to love it, or the things of it, who is to use it as if he used it not, as one whose Conversation is in Heaven, Phil. 3. 19. and it is made the Character of one who is an Enemy to the Cross of Christ, that he minds earthly things; whereas if this be a true Gospel-promise made to Christians for their Consolation and Encouragement under the troubles of this present World, that they shall after this Life ended, live again on Earth a Life of Indolence, and Peace, and Plenty in the Enjoyment of the Goods of Fortune: If this be one great part of the Reward which God hath promised to those that suffer for his Name, sure it becomes them to have their Minds and their Affections set upon it, to live in expectation of it, and to desire to enjoy these Goods of Fortune, this Peace and Plenty upon Earth; and it would rather be the Character of those who bear the Cross in prospect of these Blessings to mind earthly things. That, saith St. Paul, which makes the sufferings of this present World so light unto us, is this consideration, That we look not at the things which are seen, but which are not seen, ſeen, not at things Temporal but Eternal 2 Cor. 4 17, 18. even at an houſe not made with hands eternal in the Heavens, Chap. 5. 1. Whereas if this be one of the great and precious Promiſes contained in the Goſpel, and made for the encouragement of Chriſtians to ſuffer for Chriſt's ſake, they muſt then look not only at things Eternal, but things Temporal, or for a temporal Houſe on Earth, as well as one eternal in the Heavens, for their ſuppoſed Reign on Earth will be but temporal.

(m) Caten. in Mat. 5. p. 119. (n) 1 Thess. 1. 6. 2. 14, 15. 3. 3. 2 Thess. 1. 4, 5, 6, 7.

Again, the Exhortation of our Lord in his admirable Sermon on the Mount runs thus, Lay not up for your ſelves treaſures upon Earth, but lay up treaſures in the Heaven, for where your treaſure is, there will your hearts be alſo, Mat. 6. 19, 20, 21. And again, provide your ſelves bags that wax not old, a treaſure in the Heavens that faileth not, Luke 12. 33, 34. St. Paul exhorts all that are riſen with Chriſt, to ſet their hearts, and their affections not on things on the Earth, but on things above, where Chriſt ſitteth at the right hand of God, Col. 3. 1, 2, 3. and that becauſe they are Dead with Chriſt unto theſe worldly things, and their Life is hid with Chriſt in God; ſo that when Chriſt, who is their Life, ſhall appear, they ſhall appear with him in Glory. And yet if our Lord Chriſt in that very Sermon, as the Millenaries ſuppoſe, encouraged them to ſuffer with Patience and Meekneſs upon this Conſideration that they ſhould inherit the Earth, and had pronounced them bleſſed upon this account, ſurely they might have ſuffered upon this very proſpect of laying up for themſelves Treaſures upon Earth in this Millennium, and might have had their Hearts and Affections placed upon them; for wherefore are they bid to lay up Treaſures in the Heaven, and to ſet their Affections on things above, but becauſe theſe are the Bleſſings promiſed as the Reward of Chriſtian Piety and Patience: If then theſe Bleſſings to be enjoyed on Earth after the Reſurrection be one great part of the Reward which God hath promiſed to the Piety and Patience of the Chriſtian, what reaſon can be given why he ſhould not ſeek, and ſet his Heart upon them alſo? If it be ſo great a Privilege to have a part in the firſt Reſurrection, to enjoy this Indolency, Peace, and Plenty upon Earth, that the Apoſtle ſtiles them bleſſed who have a part in it, ſhould they not ſeek, and ſet their Hearts upon that very thing in which their Happineſs conſiſts? And yet the comfort which our Lord, and his Apoſtles do afford theſe Chriſtian ſufferers is only this, that great is their reward in Heaven, Mat. 5. 12. Luke 6. 23. that when they are tried they ſhall receive a Crown of Glory, Jam. 1. 12. and that they have in Heaven a better, and more enduring ſubſtance, Heb 10. 34. which as it placeth the Reward and Comfort of Chriſt's ſuffering Members not on Earth, but in the Heavens, and ſo gives us juſt reaſon to conclude our Lord, and his Apoſtles knew nothing of this Reign on Earth, or thought it no great matter of their Conſolation, ſo did it give occaſion to the Ancients to conclude thus (o) If the Inheritance of Martyrs be in Heaven, their reign on Earth can be no better than a Fable.

Moreover, It is evident that all the ancient Patrons of the Millennium held that Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and all the Patriarchs and Prophets were to be Sharers with the Chriſtians in this Reign on Earth, and that then would the promiſed Canaan be made good to them; Whereas the Apoſtle plainly tells us, that they expected no Reward on Earth, nor did they mind that Canaan where they dwelt, but only waited for an heavenly Country; They confeſſed, ſaith the Apoſtle, that they were Strangers and Pilgrims upon Earth; that they were not mindful of that Country whence they came out, but ſought a better Country, that is, an Heavenly, Heb. 11. 13, 16. ſince then theſe holy Patriarchs, and choice Friends of God, not only ſought not after, but even diſdained any Inheritance on Earth, ſeeing the only Country they did expect and look for, was an heavenly Country; ſeeing this only was the Inheritance God, as their God, provided for them, and therefore that only which they were to enjoy at their Reſurrection, when they compleatly were to be made, and treated as the Sons of God: Surely in vain muſt Chriſtians hope for any Reign on Earth with them, who profeſſing themſelves Pilgrims and Strangers in it, declared they were not mindful of ſuch an Habitation in the Land of Canaan, and who are at the Reſurrection to be made like the Angels, and to enjoy not any earthly, but that heavenly Country which God hath graciouſly prepared for them.

In a word, to foretel Times of Peace and Plenty to ſucceeding Ages, to raiſe the expectation of a People whoſe Backs are bowed down, and have been long enſlaved and afflicted, is very ſuitable to this Divine Oeconomy; but, to promiſe Plenty, and the Goods of Fortune as the Reward of Chriſtian Piety and Patience, and let them know that if they ſuffer for the ſake of Chriſt, he will be ſure to raiſe them up to plentiful enjoyments of the Goods of Fortune, this is too mean, too much beneath the ſublime Spirit of Chriſtianity, to be one of her great and precious Promiſes.

	13.	JESUS cometh to Jerusalem at the time of the Passover, and entring into the Temple, scourgeth out those that bought and sold there: The Jews require a Sign of his Authority, Christ bids them destroy the Temple, (understanding the Temple of his Body) and in three days he will raise it up.
	Matth. XIV. 3. Mark VI. 17.	Herod the Tetrarch casteth John the Baptist into Prison, for reprehending the Incest with his Brother Philip's Wife, and other Evils done by him.
	Luke III. 19.	Christ discovers himself to the Woman of Samaria.
31.	John IV. 7, 42.	He goes throughout all Galilee, teaching in the Synagogues, and working Miracles.
	Luke IV. 43. V. 27.	Matthew called to be a Disciple.
		The Second Passover of Christ's Ministry, John V. 1. compared with IV. 3, 5. from which the Second Year of the Seventieth Week of Daniel begins.
	John V. 1.	JESUS comes up to Jerusalem, at the time of the Feast, and heals on the Sabbath day a Man that had an Infirmity 38 Years, lying at the Pool of Bethesda. He makes a most Divine Apology to the Jews that sought to kill him, because he said that God was his Father.
	Luke VI. 13.	Christ out of the multitude of his Disciples chuseth 12, whom he calleth Apostles; namely, Peter, Andrew, James, John, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James the Son of Alpheus, Simon called Zelotes, Judas the Brother of James, and Judas Iscariot. To these our Saviour chiefly directs his Discourse in that glorious, full, and admirable Sermon on the Mount.
	Matth. V. VI, VII. Luke VI. 10.
	IX. 1.	Jesus sends his Twelve Apostles by two and two, to preach and heal the Sick.
	Mark VI. 7.
32.	Matth. X. 1. XIV. 6.	John the Baptist is beheaded in Prison by Herod's Command.
	Mark VI. 35. Luke IX. 12. John VI. 1, 15.	Jesus feeds 5000 Men, besides Women and Children, with five Barley Loaves, and two little Fishes. He refuses to be made a King.
		The Third Passover of Christ's Ministry, John VI. 4. from which the Third Year of the Seventieth Week of Daniel begins.
	Matth. XVII. 1. Mark IX. Luke IX. 28.	JESUS is transfigured on the Mount, Moses and Elias are seen to walk with him, and a Voice from Heaven is heard a second time, saying, This is my beloved Son, hear him.

	III.	like as of Fire, and enableth them to ſpeak all Languages. Peter the ſame day preacheth Chriſt and the Reſurrection, and about 3000 Believers are added to the Church.
33.	IV.	Peter by Faith in Chriſt's Name healeth a lame Man. The Rulers of the Jews offended at Peter's Sermon, and his miraculous cure of the lame Man, caſt both him and John into Priſon; upon their Examination they boldly avouch the lame Man to be healed by the Name of Jeſus, and that by the ſame Jeſus we muſt be eternally ſaved. After this the Jews forbid them to ſpeak any more in that Name; but the Apoſtles Anſwer, That it is fit they ſhould obey God rather than Men. They are threatned and let go.
	V. 1.	Ananias and Sapphira for their Hypocriſy are ſuddenly ſtruck dead.
	Acts V. 17.	The Apoſtles are again caſt into Priſon by the High Prieſt, but an Angel ſets them at liberty, and bids them preach the Goſpel to the People without fear; being taken again teaching in the Temple, they are brought before the Council, where by the Advice of Gamaliel a Phariſee, and Doctor of the Law, they are delivered.
34.	VI.	The number of Believers encreaſing at Jeruſalem, the Apoſtles Ordain ſeven Deacons, who ſhould diſtribute the Alms of the whole Church to the Widows, and poorer ſort of Believers.
	VII.	Stephen one of theſe Deacons having confounded ſome that diſputed with him, is by them falſly accuſed of Blaſphemy, and brought before the Council, where he reprehends their Rebellion and murdering of Chriſt; whereupon they caſt him out of the City and ſtone him; he in the mean time praying for them.
	VIII.	A great Perſecution of the Church at Jeruſalem, follows after the Death of the firſt Martyr Stephen.
	5,	Philip one of the ſeven Deacons preacheth at Samaria, and converteth many; working Miracles, and healing the Sick.
		Simon the Sorcerer ſeeing the Wonders that are done by Philip, believeth and is baptized.
	15,	The Apoſtles at Jeruſalem hearing that Samaria had received the Faith, ſend thither Peter and John to confirm and enlarge the Church. The Apoſtles by Prayer and Impoſition of Hands, confer the Holy Ghoſt on all Believers. Simon Magus offers them Money that he may receive Power of conferring the ſame, whoſe impiety is ſharply reproved by Peter.
		Having compleated their Miniſtry in thoſe Parts, they return to Jeruſalem.
35.	26.	An Angel ſendeth Philip to teach and baptize the Æthiopian Eunuch.
	IX. 1,	Saul a violent Perſecutor of all that call on the Name of Jeſus, and one who conſented to the Death of Stephen, goes now towards Damaſcus, with Commiſſion from the High Prieſt and the Council to apprehend all Chriſtians in thoſe Parts, and to bring them bound to Jeruſalem; on the way he is miraculouſly converted by a Voice from Heaven; and three days after baptized by Ananias at Damaſcus, where he preacheth the Goſpel of Chriſt with great boldneſs, to the aſtoniſhment of thoſe that knew upon what deſign he was ſent thither.
38.	23.	Saul having preached the Goſpel at Damaſcus a long time,
	2 Cor. XI. 32.	the Jews lay wait to kill him, but he eſcapeth from thence, and comes to Jeruſalem, there he ſees Peter, and James, the Brother of our Lord, and abides with them fifteen days. Here he ſpeaks boldly in the Name of Je-

38.	Acts XXII. 17.	While Saul prays in the Temple he is in a Trance, and the Lord appears unto him, and bids him depart from Jeruſalem, becauſe they will not receive his Teſtimony; adding that he will ſend him to the Gentiles.
	Acts IX. 30.	Saul leaving Jeruſalem, goes to his own Country Tarſus, and from thence travels into Syria and Cilicia.
	Gal. I. 21.
	Acts IX. 32, 36.	Peter viſits the Churches of Judea, Galilee, and Samaria, &c. at Lydda he cureth Eneas of the Palſie, and at Joppa reſtoreth Tabitha to life.
41.	X.	At Cæſarea, Cornelius a Centurion, by Prayer and Alms, finds favour in the ſight of God, and is commanded by an Angel to ſend for Peter now at Joppa. God by a Viſion teacheth Peter not to deſpiſe the Gentiles; and being ſent for by Cornelius, goes and preacheth Chriſt to him, and a great Company that were met at his Houſe; while Peter preacheth, the Holy Ghoſt falls upon them all; and immediately the Apoſtle baptizeth them.
	XI.	Peter, at his return to Jeruſalem, is accuſed by thoſe of the Circumciſion for converſing with the Gentiles, but he declares to them his Viſion, and the whole matter concerning Cornelius, and they glorifie God for granting to the Gentiles alſo repentance unto Life.
		The Believers, who ever ſince the Martyrdom of Stephen, and the Perſecution thereupon enſuing, had been diſperſed throughout all Phœnice and Cyprus, come now to Antioch, and preach the Goſpel to the Greeks there, having before preached to none but the Jews. The Church at Jeruſalem underſtanding this, and that the number of Believers increaſed exceedingly, ſends Barnabas thither to confirm them; he goes to Tarſus and takes Saul along with him to Antioch, where they continue a whole Year, converting multitudes to the Faith. Here the Diſciples were firſt called Chriſtians.
44.	XII.	About this time James the Brother of John is beheaded by the Command of Herod Agrippa; He alſo impriſoneth Peter, whom an Angel delivers upon the Prayers of the Church. This ſame Herod not long after ſpeaking to the People at Cæſarea, ſome of them cry out, it is the Voice of God, and not of Man, and immediately an Angel of the Lord ſmites him, becauſe he gave not the Glory to God, and he is eaten of Worms and dieth.
45.	XIII.	Barnabas and Saul ſet forward in their preaching of the Goſpel; They plant the Chriſtian Faith in Seleucia, Cyprus, and other places. At Paphos they preach the Goſpel to Sergius Paulus, Governor of that Country; Elymas the Sorcerer withſtanding them, and endeavouring to turn away Sergius from the Faith, is at Saul's Rebuke ſtruck blind. From this time Saul is always called by his new Name, Paul; he preacheth at Antioch, the Gentiles believe, but the Jews gain-ſay and blaſpheme; whereupon he and his Aſſiſtants, turn to the Gentiles, and come to Iconium.
46.	Acts XIV.	At Iconium they are perſecuted, and ready to be ſtoned; from hence they fly to Lyſtra and Derbe, Cities of Lycaonia. At Lyſtra Paul healing a Cripple, the Multitude cry out, that the Gods are come down, and call Barnabas, Jupiter, and Paul, Mercurius, and would have ſacrificed to them, had not the Apoſtles with Clothes rent, run in among them, and aſſured them, that they were Men like themſelves. Soon after there came Jews from Antioch and Iconium, who excite the People againſt them. Paul is by the

	2 Cor. XI. 25.
46.	2 Cor. XII. 2.	In this Year, perhaps at this very time, Paul was caught up into the Third Heaven, and heard unſpeakable Words, fourteen Years before he wrote his Second Epiſtle to the Corinthians.
	2 Tim. I. 2, 5.	About this time, Timothy, though a Child, with his Mother Eunice, and his Grand-Mother Lois, embrace the Chriſtian Faith preached by Paul.
52.	Acts XV.	Certain Judaizing Chriſtians come from Judæa to Antioch, and teach that the Gentiles ought to be circumciſed, and obſerve the Law of Moſes; theſe Paul and Barnabas oppoſe, and a Council is held by the Apoſtle and others at Jeruſalem, to determine this Controverſie. The Decrees of the Synod are ſent to the Churches.
53.	36.	Paul and Barnabas thinking to viſit the Churches together, fall at ſtrife, and part aſunder; Barnabas and Mark go into Cyprus; Paul and Silas into Syria and Cilicia.
	XVI.	Paul coming to Derbe, finds there Timothy, whom (becauſe his Mother was a believing Jew, though his Father a Gentile,) he cauſed to be circumciſed, and takes along with him.
		He is by a Viſion admoniſhed to go into Macedonia; coming to Philippi the chief City of that part of Macedonia, he converts Lydia; caſteth out of a certain Maid-Servant a Spirit of Divination, whoſe Maſter loſing a conſiderable gain thereby, brings Paul and Silas before the Magiſtrates; theſe cauſe them to be whipped and impriſoned; but at Mid-night Paul and Silas ſinging Pſalms, the doors of the Priſon fly open, and their Bonds are looſed: The Jaylor ready to kill himſelf, is converted to the Faith, and baptized the ſame Night with his whole Family. Next Day the Magiſtrates come themſelves and pray them to depart the City.
54.	XVII.	From Philippi Paul takes his Journey through Amphipolis and Apollonia, and comes to Theſſalonica, where he finds a Synagogue of the Jews, there he preacheth three Sabbath Days; ſome believe, others perſecute him: Leaving Theſſalonica he comes to Beræa, and ſoon after arrives at Athens, diſputes with the Philoſophers, and declares unto them that UNKNOWN GOD whom they had ignorantly worſhipped. He converts Dionyſius the Areopagite, and thence paſſeth to Corinth.
	Acts XVIII.	Paul at Corinth meets with Aquila and Priſcilla, not long before baniſhed Rome by the Decree of Claudius. Here he continues a Year and ſix Months, and thence
55.		writes to the Theſſalonians.
		Paul is accuſed by the Jews and brought before Gallio, Proconſul of Achaia, who refuſeth to be a Judge in a Controverſie about Religion, and ſo drives them away from the Judgment-Seat.
56.	18.	Paul departs from Corinth, and paſſeth to Epheſus, thence he ſets out towards Jeruſalem, that he may be at the Feaſt, he lands at Cæſarea, goes down to Antioch, and comes into the Regions of Galatia and Phrygia, confirming the Diſciples in all thoſe places.
57.	XIX.	Paul returns to Epheſus, diſputes daily in the School of Tyrannus, and continues preaching there, and the parts thereabouts. He writes his Epiſtle to the Galatians.
60.		At Epheſus Demetrius, a Silver-Smith, jealous of his gain, raiſeth a Tumult againſt Paul, which is appeaſed by the Town-Clerk.

The Year after CHRIST.
	1 Cor. I. 11. XVI. 8.	About this time a Schism ariseth in the Church of Corinth, which causeth Paul, (now in or about Ephesus) to write his First Epistle to the Corinthians.
60.	Acts XX. 2 Cor. VIII. 1, 2, 6, 19.	Paul departs from Ephesus, and comes into Macedonia, and gathers a Contribution for the Relief of the Saints at Jerusalem.
	2 Cor. XVI. 5.	The Apostle having learnt from Titus the success of his First, writes now his Second Epistle to the Corinthians; out of Macedonia he goes into Greece, and comes to Corinth, where he writes his Epistle to the Romans.
	Acts XX. 3, 4.	Paul purposing to go directly from thence into Syria, that he may carry the Collections to Jerusalem, the Jews lay wait for him; he understanding this, thinks it best to return into Macedonia the same way he came, and thence to pass into Asia.
	XX. 6.	After the Days of unleavened Bread, Paul sails from Philippi, and comes to Troas, there he restores Eutychus to Life. Having passed through several Cities of Greece, he arrives at Miletus, from thence he sends to call the Elders of the Church of Ephesus, whom he earnestly exhorts to the Performance of their Duty.
	XXI.	Paul comes to Jerusalem, is apprehended in the Temple, and secured in the Castle, he claimeth the Privilege of a Roman, and escapeth scourging.
	Acts XXII. XXIII.	Paul pleadeth his Cause before Ananias the High Priest. The Chief Captain understanding that above Forty Jews had bound themselves under a Curse, neither to eat nor drink till they had killed him, sends him to Felix the Governor of the Province, by whom he is imprisoned at Cæsarea.
	XXIV.	Paul is accused before Felix by Tertullus the Orator; Felix goes out of his Office, and to gratifie the Jews,
62.		leaves Paul in Prison. Portius Festus succeeds him in the Government.
	Acts XXV.	The Jews come to Cæsarea and accuse Paul before Festus. He answers for himself, and Appeals to Cæsar. King Agrippa comes to Cæsarea, and Festus opens the matter to him.
	XXVI.	Paul makes his Defence in the Presence of Agrippa, who thereby is almost persuaded to be a Christian, and the whole Company pronounce him innocent.
63.	XXVIII.	Paul comes to Rome, is a Prisoner at large, and Preacheth there two Years.

Here ends the History of the Acts of the Apostles, written by St. Luke, St. Paul's beloved Companion in his Travels.

ST. Paul from Rome writes his Epistles,
To the Philippians.
To Philemon.
To the Colossians.
To the Ephesians.

65.	Hebr. XIII. 24.	About the latter end of this Year, St. Paul is set at Liberty, and a little before his Departure out of Italy into Asia, he writes his Epistle to the Hebrews.
	Tit. I. 5.	He Preacheth the Gospel in the Isle of Crete, and leaves Titus there to set things in order, and Ordain Elders in every City.

An Alphabetical Table of all the Places mentioned in the Goſpels, Acts, or the Epiſtles.

A.

1. ABYLENE is one of the Four Tetrarchies, mentioned Luke 3. 1. it fell, ſay St. Luke and Joſephus, (a) to the ſhare of Lyſanias; it was ſo named from the City Abyla in Cœloſyria, mentioned by (b) Pliny, and from the Tetrarch of it bore his Name; for ſaith Ptolemy, Ἄβιλα ἐπικληθεῖσα Λυσανίου, Abila bears the Name of Lyſanias.

2. ACHAIA in the largeſt ſenſe comprehends Greece properly ſo called, and ſo is bounded on the Weſt by Epirus, on the Eaſt by the Ægean Sea, on the North by Macedonia, on the South by Peloponneſus; and ſo it ſeems to ſignifie when St. Paul, according to the Roman Acceptation, mentions all the Regions of Achaia, and directs his Second Epiſtle to all the Saints in Achaia, 2 Cor. 11. 10. Thus what is Achaia, Acts 19. 21. is Hellas, i. e. Greece, Acts 20. 2. and ſo Mela ſpeaks of it. 2dly. Achaia ſtrictly ſo called, is the Northern Region of Peloponneſus, bounded on the North by the Gulph of Corinth, on the South with Arcadia, on the Eaſt with Chaonia, and on the Weſt with the Ionian Sea.

3. ACELDAMA was a place without the South-Wall of Jeruſalem, beyond the River of Siloam, and was called the Potters Field, Matth. 27. 7, 10. becauſe they dug thence the Earth of which they made their Pots; and the Fullers Field, becauſe they dried their Cloth there, but being afterwards bought, by that Money by which the High-Prieſt and Rulers of the Jews purchaſed the Blood of the Holy Jeſus, it was, by the Providence of God ſo ordering it, called Aceldama, that is, the Field of Blood, Acts 1. 19. Matth. 27. 7, 8.

4. ADRAMYTTIUM (mentioned Acts 27. 2. where 'tis ſaid that St. Paul entred into a Ship of Adramyttium) is by (c) St. Jerom and others ſaid to be a City of Egypt, built by Alexander M. as a Monument of his Triumphs, at the Cannobick Mouth of the River Nile, from which it received its Water, and is by Livy, the old Etymologus and Phavorinus, made to be (d) the ſame with Thebes; but it was rather Adramyttium in Myſia, mentioned by Strabo, l. 13. p. 417. by Pliny, l. 5. c. 30. p. 298. and by Mela, l. 1. c. 18. l. 17. for in this Ship St. Paul and his Company ſail from Cæſarea to Myra in Lycia, the direct way to Adramyttium in Myſia, Ver. 5. whither ſhe being bound, and not to Italy, they there quit her, and finding a Ship of Alexandria ſailing into Italy, went aboard her, Ver. 6.

5. ADRIA is mentioned Acts 27. 27. where St. Paul ſaith that they were toſſed in Adria; he ſaith not in the Adriatick Gulph, which ends with the Illyrican Sea, but in the Adriatick Sea, which, ſaith Heſychius, is the ſame with the Ionian Sea; and therefore to the Queſtion, how St. Paul's Ship which was near to Malta, and ſo either in the Libyan, or Sicilian Sea, could be in the Adriatick, it is well anſwered, that not only the Ionian, but even the Sicilian Sea, and part of that which waſheth upon Crete, was called the Adriatick. Thus Ptolemy ſaith, that Sicily was bounded on the Eaſt (e) ὑπὸ τῦ Ἀδρίε, by the Adriatick, and that Crete was compaſſed on the Weſt (f) ὑπὸ τῦ Ἀδριατικῦ πελάγους, by the Adriatick Sea; and (g) Strabo ſaith that the Ionian Gulph, μέρος ἐστι τῦ νῦν Ἀδρίε λεγομένου, is a part of that which in his time was called the Adriatick Sea.

6. ÆNON or Enon ſignifies the Place of Springs, which made it a convenient place for St. John's baptiſm, John 3. 23. it is uncertain where it was, whether in Galilee, or Judæa, or Samaria.

7. ALEXANDRIA, that noble Mart whence Merchandiſes were carried through all the World, was, after the Deſtruction of Carthage, the chief City of the World next to Rome, and was therefore called Emphatically, πόλις, as that was called Urbs, and A- thens ἀεὶ. The Ptolemy's of Egypt chuſing it as their Seat, beautified it to that Degree, that it gave place to Rome only; and the Romans, when they had taken it, were careful to preſerve its Splendor, divers Emperors adding new Ornaments to it, and confirming its Privileges. It was a large City ſaith (h) Joſephus, in length thirty furlongs, in breadth ten, which provided Rome with four Months Corn, and paid as much Tribute to it in a Month, as Jeruſalem did in a Year. Here was a celebrated Academy, which bred famous Phyſicians, and Philoſophers, as Philo the Jew, and Hiſtorians; and a great Library collected by Ptolemy Philadelphus, containing 500000 Volumes, and conſumed in the Wars betwixt Cæſar and Pompey; near to it is the Iſland Pharos, where ſome deceitful Jews ſhewed J. Martyr the Remains of the Cells where the LXXII. Interpreters tranſlated the Hebrew Bible into Greek apart, and yet in the ſame words; of which ſee the Preface to St. Matthew. Here dwelt the Jews in vaſt numbers; Alexander M. for the Service they did him in his Wars, permitting them to dwell there, and giving them equal Privileges with the Gentiles; here they had many Synagogues, a famous Cathedral of Seventy Stalls, and afterwards a Temple built by Onias; but they found the Alexandrians their conſtant Enemies, they cruelly murthering many thouſands of them in the time of Caius, of which Philo gives a large account in his Embaſſy to him; and 50000 of them in the time of Nero, ſaith Joſephus, de B. Jud. l. 2. c 36.

8. ÆTHIOPIA is only mentioned in the Hiſtory of the Baptiſm of the Eunuch, Acts 8. 27. where I have ſhewed the Evangeliſt ſpeaks not of Æthiopia in Arabia, where the Queen of Sheba dwelt, but of Æthiopia in Africa, where Candace had been long the Name of their Queens, whence (i) Strabo makes mention of a Candace ἡ καθ' ἡμᾶς ἦρξε τῶν Αἰθιόπων, who in his time was Queen of Æthiopia, and (k) Dio of the ſame Candace living in Æthiopia under Egypt. See the Note on Acts 8. 27.

9. AMPHIPOLIS, mentioned Acts 17. 1. is a City of Macedonia, in the Confines of Thrace. ſo called, ſaith (l) Thucydides, becauſe the River compaſſeth it about. Suidas, who places it as others do in Thracia, ſays it was alſo formerly called the Nine Ways. See Mr. Wells Geogr. p. 134.

10. ANTIOCHIA, the Metropolis of Syria, was built, ſay ſome, by Antiochus Epiphanes, ſay others, by Seleucus Nicanor, the firſt King of Syria after Alexander M. in memory of his Father Antiochus, and was (m) the Royal Seat of the Kings of Syria, or the Place where their Palace was; for Power and Dignity, ſaith (n) Strabo, it is not much inferior to Seleucia, or Alexandria; it was, ſaith (o) Joſephus, the third great City of all that belonged to the Roman Provinces; it was called Antiochia apud Daphnem, near Daphne, i. e. the Village where her Temple was, to diſtinguiſh it from the other ſixteen Cities in Syria, and elſewhere, which bore that Name. It was celebrated among the Jews for the Jus Civitatis, which Seleucus Nicanor had given to them in that City with the Græcians and Macedonians, and which, ſaith (p) Joſephus, they ſtill retained; and for the Wars of the Maccabeans with thoſe Kings; among Chriſtians for being the place where they firſt received that Name, and where both St. Luke and Theophilus were born and inhabited: There was alſo another Antioch in Piſidia, mentioned Acts 13. 14.

11. ANTIPATRIS; this place was formerly called Capharſalama, 1 Macchab. 7. 31. and was of little Repute till it was rebuilt by Herod in the Plain of Capharzaba, which, ſaith (q) Joſephus, was watry and fit for Plants, with a River, and a Grove compaſſing the City; it was eighteen miles from Jeruſalem, and in the way to Cæſarea Paleſtinæ, Acts 23. 31. and within the borders of Samaria.

12. APOLLONIA was a City of Macedonia, lying betwixt Amphipolis and Theſſalonica; for ſaith St. Luke, when we had paſſed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, we came to Theſſalonica. Geographers ſay there were 14. Cities and two Iſlands of that Name.

13. ARABIA is only mentioned by St. Paul, ſaying, that after his Converſion, he went firſt into Arabia, Gal. 1. 17. where ſome make him to have ſtaid three years without any buſineſs he did there that they know of, and without any ground; for both the deſign of St. Paul which was to prove that he received not his Goſpel from Man, but from the immediate Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, and his Declaration that he preached firſt at Damaſcus, and then at Jeruſalem, Acts 26. 20. ſeem to make it no improbable Conjecture, that as Chriſt after his Baptiſm went immediately into the Wilderneſs of Judæa, ſo did St. Paul after his Baptiſm go into Arabia deſerta, where he received his knowledge of that Goſpel which he preached by Revelation from Chriſt Jeſus, and thence thence returning to Damaſcus, Gal. 1. 17. he ſtraightway preached Chriſt at Damaſcus, Acts 9. 20. and ſo continued to do many days, or a conſiderable time, Ver. 23. We read alſo of Cretes and Arabians, Acts 2 11. where by Cretes ſome think we are not to underſtand the Inhabitants of Crete, that Iſland being far from Arabia, but the Cherithim a Philiſtine Nation and Country, rendred κρῆτες by the Septuagint, Ezek. 25. 16. Zeph. 2. 5, 6. but Libya and Rome mentioned Ver. 10. were at a greater Diſtance. The Arabians were anciently called Iſhmaelites and Hagarens, the firſt from Iſhmael the Son of Hagar, the 2d. from Mount Hagar in Arabia. See Note on Gal. 4. 25. This large Country, reaching from Euphrates to Egypt, was divided into three parts; Arabia deſerta, ſo called probably from the word Araba, which ſignifies deſert, which lay full Eaſt of Judæa, and is called by (r) Strabo, Schenitis, by reaſon of the Tents in which that wandring Nation dwelt; and the Inhabitants of it are in Scripture called the Men of the Eaſt, Gen. 25. 6. Judg. 6. 3. 2. Petræa, ſo called from the Rockineſs of it, or from the ſtrong City Petra built on a Rock, whence the Soldans keep their Treaſure in it; and in this Arabia was Mount Sinai, where the Law was given. 3dly. Arabia Felix lying betwixt the Perſian Gulph, and the Red-Sea, a fertile Country producing Laudanum, Myrrh, Caſſia, and many other Drugs and Spices, celebrated on that account not only by the Poets, (ſee Lloyd's Dictionary) but by Dionyſius P. and (ſ) Euſtathius upon him, by Strabo, Pliny, Herodotus, and Q. Curtius, and that part of it eſpecially, ſaith Strabo, p. 535. which is the moſt happy Nation of the Sabæans, and where is Gold, which the Arabian Magi brought with them when they came to Chriſt. See the Note on Matth. 2. 1.

14. ASIA, as it is mentioned by ancient Geographers, is one of the largeſt Diviſions of the World into three parts, but in the New Teſtament it is always taken for Aſia Minor only, as it contains the Proconſular Aſia, conſiſting of four Regions, of Phrygia, Myſia, Caria, and Lydia, ſaith (t) Cicero; of which ſee Biſhop Uſher in his Treatiſe of the Leſſer Aſia; in this Proconſular Aſia were the ſeven Churches mentioned in the Revelations, Chap. 2. and 3.

15. ASSOS, Acts 20. 13. is a Town in Troas, for St. Paul went from Troas to it; it is memorable, ſaith (u) Pliny, for the lapis ſarcophagus, which burns up, and conſumes Fleſh; of which ſee Voſſius in P. Melam, p. 88, 89. beſides this there ſeems to have been another Aſſos in Crete, of which ſee the Note on Acts 27. 13.

16. ATHENS was a City of Greece properly ſo called, and of the ſubdiviſion of it named Achaia; it was ſo called from Ἀθήνη, i. e. Minerva, to whom it was conſecrated. In it was a celebrated Academy, which, ſaith (x) Cornelius N. for Antiquity, Humanity and Learning, made it excel all the Cities of the World; whoſe Inhabitants, ſaith (y) Cicero, were the Inventers of all learning, the Men who invented, and perfected Eloquence, and from whom Humanity, Learning, Religion, Laws were diſperſed through the whole World; but then to qualifie theſe commendations, he adds, they only knew what was right, but would not do it; they were, ſaith (z) Plutarch, ſuſpicious and vain-glorious; they were, ſaith the Apoſtle, δεισιδαιμονέστεροι, very ſuperſtitious, and great worſhippers of Idols, and ſo were vain in their Imaginations, and their fooliſh heart was darkned. See the Note on Acts 17. 16.——22. and Dr. Hammond there, and Lloyd in Voce.

17. ATTALIA was a City of Pamphylia, built by King Attalus, whence St. Paul goes from Perga in Pamphylia to it, Acts 14. 25. It was a Sea-port, and the chief Reſidence of the Prefect. Strabo l. 14. p. 459.

18. AZOTUS, the Aſhdod of the Philiſtines, where the Ark of God triumphed over their Dagon, 1 Sam. 5. 2. and where Jonathan (a) having routed the Army of Apollonius, burnt both their God and their Temple, and all who fled to it for Refuge; it lay above thirty miles diſtant from Gaza toward Joppa, ſo that the Angel, when he caught up Philip, Acts 8. 40. carried him ſo many miles.

1. BABYLON. By Babylon, the Jews understand not only Chaldæa, but also Mesopotamia, Assyria, and even all those Kingdoms to which they were carried in the Babylonian Captivity, and for this they have ground from the Scriptures of the Old Testament, which extend that Name to the whole Empire of Babylon; as when the Destruction of Babylon is represented as the Destruction ὅλης τῆς οἰκουμένης of the whole Empire, Isa. 12. 9, 11. and from the use of the word among the Heathens, for Pliny saith, Babylon of the Chaldaick Nation had long the Eminency over the whole World, (b) on which account the rest of Mesopotamia and Assyria was reckon'd a part of it. I have shewed, Note on 1 Pet. 5. 13. that according to the Fathers, the Name of Babylon was given to Rome by St. Peter, and according to the same Fathers the Name of (c) Mystical Babylon was given to her also, partly for her Greatness, Pride, and Oppression of God's People, and partly for her resemblance of it in Idolatry, that Kingdom so fully representing the Idolatry of the Church of Rome, in the Description given of it in the sixth Chapter of Baruch, that scarce any real difference betwixt them can be observed.

2. BEREA, mentioned Acts 17. 10. is a City of Macedonia; (d) a great and populous City, saith Lucian; This was the City to which Paul and Silas fled from Thessalonica, and where they found a Synagogue of the best natured Jews and Proselytes they met with, for they received the Word with all readiness, and examined it by the best Test of Truth the Scriptures, and so the Converts there were many of both sorts, Ver. 11, 12.

3. BITHYNIA is a Region of Asia Minor, (e) bounded on the North with the Euxine Sea, on the South with Phrygia, on the West with the Propontis, on the East with Paphlagonia; it was anciently called Bebraica, and Mygdonia, say (f) Servius, Solinus and Mart. Capella, and afterwards Bithynia, from Bithynus the King of it, say most Geographers; from Bethen, the Belly or interior parts, saith Bochart, both (g) Pliny and Mela, representing them as possessing the inward parts of that Region only. The old Geographer published by Gothofrid, stiles them * the Greatest and most Happy Nation, in which the first General Council of Nice was held.

4. BETH-HABBARA signifies a place of passage; it was a Water distinct from Jordan, and removed somewhat from it, John 1. 28. 10. 40. to which Men passed over Jordan; the Town was out of the Precincts of Judæa, in the Scythopolitan Country, where the Jews dwelt among the Syro-græcians, and was over against Galilee; So Dr. Lightfoot, over against Jericho, Josh. 3, 16.

5. BETHANY took its Name from a Tract of ground so called from Athene, which signifies the Dates of Palm-Trees, which grew there plentifully; the Town of Bethany where Lazarus dwelt, and where he was raised from the Dead, was fifteen furlongs from Jerusalem, John 11. 8. but the Tract of ground that bore that Name reached within eight furlongs of Jerusalem, it being only a Sabbath days Journey from it, Luke 24. 50. Acts 1. 12. and then began the Tract called Bethphage, from the Phagi, i. e. the green Figs which grew upon it, which ran along so near to Jerusalem, that the outmost street within the Walls was called by that Name. St. Jerom saith there was Villula, a little Village there of the same name.

6. BETHLEHEM, the House of Bread, was the place where Christ the Bread of Life was born, as the Jerusalem Gemarists confess; it was a City in the time of Boaz, for he stiles it the City of his People, Ruth 3. 11. and goes up to the Gates of it, Chap. 4. 1. it was a City fortified by Rehoboam 2 Chron. 11. 6. it is called David's City, 1 Sam. 20. 6, 29. and therefore when every Tribe and Family went up to their respective Cities to be taxed, Luke 2. 3. Joseph goes up to this City of David, v. 4. Though therefore it be called by the Jews κώμη a Town or Village, Joh. 7. 42. that only signifies that being one of the least Cities it might comparatively be called so, as Nain is by Josephus, v. Nain; and the Hebrew עיר a City, is often rendred by the Seventy κώμη, where our Translation speaks of Cities, as Josh. 10. 37. 15. 9. 1 Chron. 27. 25. Isa. 42. 11. it might be after the Destruction of Jerusalem, a Village, as it is twice called called by (b) Justin M. In St. Jerom it is sometimes a City, and sometimes a Village, but then that he stiles it only comparatively a Village, may be gathered from his (i) own words on Mic. 5. 2.

7. BETHESDA, the Pool of Bethesda, is the same with the Pool of Siloam, of which see there, and Note on John 5. A. B. It was a Pool in Jerusalem, saith St. Jerom, and had the Name προβατικὴ, the Sheep-Pool, from the Sacrifices washed there by the Priests; he adds that there is yet a Lake there (k) whose Waters are very red, as if mixt with blood, giving Testimony of what was done there of old. Dr. Lightfoot saith these Sacrifices were washed elsewhere, and that the unclean washed in this Pool, and whilst they did so laid up their Cloathes in one of the Porches: Of the Miracles wrought there by the Angel descending, and of the Miracle wrought by our Lord, see the Note there.

8. BETHSAIDA, saith Bochart, is a place of fishing, as it might be called, because situated, saith (l) Pliny, on the East of the Lake Gennesareth; in Batanea and the lower Gaulonitis, saith (m) Josephus, at the beginning of the mountainous Country; it is a place of hunting, saith Dr. Lightfoot, so called because it stood near Nephthali, where there were store of Deer, Nephthali abounding in Venison, Gen. 49. 21. It was raised by Philip from a Village to the honour of a City, and called Julia in honour of the Emperor's Daughter; it was one of the Cities against which Christ denounced a Wo, Matth. 11. 21. for her impenitence and infidelity, after the mighty Works he had done in her; it also was the City where three Apostles dwelt, viz. Philip, Andrew and Peter, John 1. 45.

1. CANA. There were two Cana's without Galilee, one in the Tribe of Aser, Josh. 19. 28. called by St. Jerom, Cana the Great; another in the Tribe of Ephraim, Jos. 16. 8. 17. 9. and two in Galilee, one in the north part of the Lower Galilee, and dividing it from the upper, and Cana of Galilee, or the less, situated over against Julius Betharampta, on the West of Capernaum, whence Christ, after he had wrought his first Miracle there, went down to Capernaum, John 2. 12. and when he was returned thither, the Nobleman comes from Capernaum to him there, John 4. 46, 47. Of this Cana Josephus speaks saying, ἐν κώμῃ τῆς Γαλιλαίας ἡ προσαγορεύεται κανᾶ, (n) in a Village of Galilee which was called Cana.

2. CANAAN was two-fold, the larger terminated on the South part with the desert of Sin or Cades; on the North with M. Libanus and Antilibanus; on the East with the River Euphrates, and with the Mediterranean Sea on the West: So Deut. 11. 24. Josh. 1. 3, 4. Every place that the Sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given you, from the Wilderness (of Paran) and (or, even to) Libanus, and to the great River Euphrates, and to the great Sea shall your coast be; accordingly Joshua saith, God gave to Israel all the land which he sware to give to their Fathers, and they possessed it and dwelt in it, Josh. 21. 43, 45. and Chap. 23. 14. There failed not any good thing which the Lord had spoken to the house of Israel; all came to pass. How this could be said by him who had left so much of the Seven Nations unsubdued, Judg. 1. and who divided not to them the whole Land of Canaan, but only that part of it which was possessed by the Seven Nations, is a great Question; to which the usual Answer is, That he gave them a Right to the whole Country, dividing it among them by a Lot ordered, and directed by him, and he gave them the actual Possession of the greatest part of it, with Power to subdue the rest if they continued Obedient, and more was not intended presently, the Lord not having promised to give them the whole Land at once, they being not sufficient to people the whole Country, but by degrees, as their Increase should make them ready for, and their Obedience should continue their Right to it; for thus saith God by Moses, Exod. 23. 29. I will not drive them out before thee in one year, lest the land become desolate, and the beasts of the field multiply against thee; but by little and little I will drive them out before thee, until thou be encreased to inherit the Land. To which may be added, that Joshua gave them all the Land their feet had trod on, and more God did not promise to them in the words cited from him.

CANAAN the leſs is extended from the Wilderneſs in the South to Libanus in the North, and from Jordan on the Eaſt, to the Mid-land Sea on the Weſt, the length of it being 160 miles, the breadth of it only 50; and it is thus deſcribed, Gen. 20. 19. The borders of the Canaanites (i. e. the Seven Nations of them voted to deſtruction) was from Sidon (i. e. the Country of Sidon, which extended it ſelf Eaſt as far as Jordan) as thou comeſt to Gerar unto Gaza, and (the Southern border is) as thou goeſt to Sodom and Gomorrah, Adma and Zeboim, even unto Laſhah, i. e. the Λέσα in (o) Joſephus, towards Arabia Petræa. See Bochart. Phaleg, l. 4. c. 37.

3. CAPERNAUM was a City ſeated near to the Sea of Galilee, at the bottom of the Lake of Genneſareth; for Chriſt's Diſciples came from the Wilderneſs of Bethſaida over the Lake to the Land of Genneſareth, Matth 14. 34. Mark 6. 46. and yet to Capernaum, John 6. 16, 24. it was in the borders of Zebulon and Nephthali, Matth. 4. 13. renowned on the account of Chriſt's Habitation and his many Miracles, which brought a woe upon them for their infidelity, Matth. 11. 23. Near this Town was the Mountain where Chriſt preached his excellent Sermon, for coming down thence he went to Capernaum, Matth. 8. 5. i. e. a Journey of ten miles, if Thabor was that Mount as 'tis conjectur'd by St. Jerom on the place; and near it alſo was the Cuſtom-houſe at which Matthew the Publican ſat when Chriſt called him, for he called him as he paſt from his own City, Matth. 9. 1, 9.

4. CAPPADOCIA was a Kingdom bounded on the (p) Eaſt with Armenia, on the Weſt with Paphlagonia and Galatia, on the North with the Euxine Sea, on the South with that part of Mount Taurus which looks toward Cilicia; it was famed for (q) Mules and Horſes, of which it gave yearly to the Perſians, Horſes 1500, Mules 2000. It was a Nation ſo ſervile, ſaith (r) Strabo, that when the Romans offered them their freedom to live by their own Laws, they ſaid they could not endure liberty; they were, ſaith Cicero, de Grege Venalium. Orat. poſt red. in Senat. N. 12.

5. CÆSAREA-PALESTINÆ, ſo called as being the Metropolis of Paleſtine and the Seat of the Roman Proconſul, was formerly named the Tower of Strato, but being a Mart-Town whoſe Haven was very incommodious, Herod the Great built there a large City with many (ſ) ſtately Marble Buildings, a Theatre of Stone, and a moſt capacious Amphitheatre (where Herod Antipas was ſmitten by an Angel of God, See the Note on Acts 12. 23.) and an admirable Haven, with Marble Edifices and Towers, the greateſt of which he called Druſus, in honour of the Emperor's Son, the City Cæſarea in honour of Cæſar; it was ſituated between Doron and Joppa, thirty five miles from Jeruſalem, and was inhabited (t) partly by the Jews, who had their Schools there, but chiefly by the Greeks or Syrians, betwixt whom there were feuds περὶ τῆς ἰσοπολιτείας, concerning equal Privileges, the Cæſareans killing about 1200 Jews, when Florus was Procurator of Judæa. Here Peter converted Cornelius and his Kinſmen, the firſt Fruits of the Gentiles, Acts 10. Here liv'd Philip the Evangeliſt, Acts 21. 8. and here Paul defended himſelf againſt the Jews and their Orator Tertullus, Acts 24.

6. CÆSAREA-PHILIPPI, mentioned Matth. 16. 13. Mark 8. 27. was firſt called Lais, or Laſhem, Judg. 18. 7. and when ſubdued by the Danites, Dan. V. 29. It was built by Philip the Tetrarch of Ituræa and Trachonitis, Luke 3. 1. who made it the place of his Reſidence, as being conveniently ſeated between both; He built it, ſaith (u) Joſephus at Paneas by the Springs of Jordan, and called it Cæſarea-Philippi, and alſo Neroniada in honour of Nero; it was ſeated at the Springs of Jordan the leſs, not far from Libanus in the midland Phœnicia, ſaith Ptolemy, and was a Decapolitan City. What Euſebius ſaith of the two Statues of Corinthian Braſs, erected here by the Woman cured at Capernaum of the bloody Flux, ſee confuted in the Note on Mark 5. 26.

7. CEDRON. Of the Brook Cedron, which our Lord paſſed over to go into the Garden where he was betrayed, John 18. 1. mention is made when David fled from Abſolom, for he paſſed over the Brook Kidron, 2 Sam. 15. 23. and when King Solomon ſaith to Shimei, in the day that thou paſſeſt over the Brook Kidron thou ſhalt ſurely die. See alſo Jer. 31. 40 where the Septuagint always ſpeaks of Κέδρων or τῶν Κέδρων, in the Plural; it was, ſaith (x) Jerom, a Torrent or Valley near to Jeruſalem, on the Eaſt ſide betwixt it and Mount Olivet; a deep Valley, ſaith (y) Joſephus; and into this Valley was conveyed the blood poured out at the foot of the Altar, which becauſe it made the River look black, ſome think it was called Cedron from the word Kiddar, which ſignifies signifies blackness; others from the Cedar Trees planted on each side, whence, say they, it is still named in the plural, τῶν Κέδρεων, from these Cedar Trees.

8. CHALDÆA, is only mentioned in these words, Acts 7. 4. and Abraham came out of the land of the Chaldæans, and dwelt in Charran, where by the Land of the Chaldæans, we are not to understand the Country so named in Asia Major, which was in the Plain, but a mountainous Country, which is part of Mesopotamia, as appears from these words, God appeared to Abraham while he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran V. 2. then came he out of the land of the Chaldæans, and dwelt in Charran; That both this Charran and Chaldæa lay in Mesopotamia, see Bochart Phaleg, l. 2. c. 6. and the Note on Acts 7. 2.

9. CENCHREA was the Isthmus of Corinth, distant 70 furlongs from it, where were celebrated the Isthmian Games, whence the Apostle in his Epistle to the Corinthians, speaks so oft in allusion to these Games; see Note on 1 Ep. 9. H. I. K. 2 Ep. 4. 7, 8, 9. Hence he tells them of a corruptible Crown for which they wrestled, their Coronets being either of the σέλινον Parsley, which quickly withered, or of πίτυς the Pine Tree which soon decayed.

10. CLAUDA Acts 27. 16. was an Island near Crete, situated at the meeting of the Southern and the Western Sea, of which Geographers say nothing, unless it be the Gaudos mentioned by Pliny, l. 4. c. 12. and by Mela l. 2. c. 7.

11. CHIOS, Acts 10. 15. is an Island of the Ægean Sea, between Lesbos and Samos; celebrated by (z) Horace and (a) Martial, for the Wine and Figs that came from thence, and also by Pliny, l. 5. c. 31. and Strabo, l. 14. p. 444. for its Marble and white Earth.

12. CILICIA, a Country of Asia Minor, betwixt Pamphylia on the West, and Pieria on the East, the Mount Taurus on the North, and the Cilician Sea on the South, celebrated on the account of Cicero, Proconsul there, but more on the account of St. Paul's birth at Tarsus a City of Cilicia, Acts 21. 15.

13. COOS, Acts 21. 1. was an Island in the Ægean or Icarian Sea near Myndus and Cnidus, which had a City of the same Name, from which Hippocrates the celebrated Physician, and Apelles the famous Limner, were called Coi; here was a large Temple of Æsculapius, and another of Juno; it abounded in rich Wines, and here were made those Coæ Vestes which were transparent, and are so often mentioned by the Poets.

14. CHORAZIN, saith St. Jerom, is a Town in Galilee, which our Lord deplores for her incredulity, Matth. 11. 22. Dr. Lightfoot wonders how such a wo should be denounced against it, when we read not in the whole New-Testament that our Lord had ever been there; but that our Lord was frequently at Bethsaida and Capernaum, Copartners in that Woe, we read; now Chorazin being by Dr. Lightfoot placed betwixt them, and being, saith (b) St. Jerom, but two miles distant from Capernaum, and in many Maps but little distant from Bethsaida, and it being said expresly, that mighty works were done in her, doubtless Christ must be often there.

15. CNIDUS, mentioned Acts 27. 7. was a City and Promontory in the Peninsula of Caria, celebrated for the worship of Venus, hence called Venus Cnidia; whence * Horace sings thus, O Venus Regina Cnidi; and for the Statue of Venus made by Praxiteles, and by † Pliny reckoned among the admirable works of that Artificer.

16. CORINTH was a most noble City of Achaia propria called anciently Ephyre, saith (c) Pliny, and after Corinth from one Corinthus who took and rebuilt it. It was considerable among Heathen Authors for its Cittadel Acro-Corinthus, built on a very high Mountain, and for its (d) Insolence against the Roman Legates, which caused L Mummius, thence stiled Achaicus, to destroy it, in the Conflagration of which City so many Statues were melted down, that the remains of them made that famous Corinthian Brass which was esteemed above Gold or Silver; and of which, saith Josephus, the beautiful Gate of the Temple of Jerusalem was made. See the Note on Acts 3. 2. The Corinthians were noted for their Wisdom, hence stiled by (e) Cicero, The light of all Greece, by Florus, Decus Græciæ, the Glory of Greece; and for their Riches, for saith (f) Strabo, πλουσία διαπαντὸς ὑπῆρξεν, it was always rich; they were filled with Orators and Philosophers, and from them, say the Fathers, came the Contentions and false Doctrines which sprang up in that Church, on the account of which St. Paul speaks thus to them, Ye are rich, ye are wise and honourable, 1 Cor. 4. 9, 10. They also had a Temple of Venus, to whom, saith (g) Strabo, 1000 Whores were consecrated, whence they became infamous to a Proverb a Proverb for that Vice, and for all kind of Lasciviousness, which caused the Apostle in his Epistles to them, to speak so much against it; see the Preface to the First Epistle. Lastly, there was a great resort of the Jews to this City, who, saith Philo, inhabited Κορίνθου καὶ πλεῖστα καὶ ἄριστα Πελοποννήσου, Corinth and the chiefest and best parts of Peloponnesus, and had one or more Synagogues there, Acts 18. 8. whence came those Judaizers and false Apostles, so often mentioned in the Epistles to those Churches.

17. CYPRUS, so called from the Flower of the Cyprus Tres growing there, as (h) Pliny speaking of the kinds of Cyprus, and (i) Eustathius say, was an Island having on the East the Syrian, on the West the Pamphylian, on the South the Phœnician, on the North the Cilician Sea; it was celebrated among the Heathens for its Fertility, as being say (k) Strabo and Ammianus Marcellinus, sufficiently provided of all things within it self, & nullius externi indigens, whence it was also called the rich and happy Island, but was very (l) infamous for the worship of Venus, who had thence her Name Κύπρις, and her Title Venus Cypria; that Demon, saith Eustathius, delighting in that Island for their Adultery, and proneness to Venery, they consecrating their Women to Whoredom, and by a Law compelling them to lie with Strangers, as the Babylonians did. It was memorable among the Jews for being an Island in which they so abounded, that at one time they slew, saith (m) Dio, 240000. of the Inhabitants, and were on that account forbid to come afterwards to that Island; and among Christians, for being the Place where Joses called Barnabas, had the Land he sold, Acts 4. 36. and where Mnason an old Disciple lived, Acts 21. 16.

D.

DAMASCUS, a most ancient City where Eliezer, the Servant of Abraham, dwelt, built, saith (n) Josephus, by Uz the Son of Aram, mentioned Gen. 10. 23. and situate in the Valley betwixt Libanus and Antilibanus, watered by the Rivers Abana and Parphar, 2 Kings 5. 12. one of which is by (o) Pliny, (p) Strabo, and others, called Chrysorrhoas, by reason of its Golden Sands; it was made Tributary to David, 2 Sam. 8. 6. afterwards it was the Capital City of the Kings of Syria, Isa. 7. 8. It is a City famous for its Antiquity, and for being still one of the richest and most magnificent Cities of the Levant, but most of all for being the place of the miraculous Conversion of St. Paul. Here the Jews had their Synagogues, and converted to their Religion (q) most of the Women of the Place, but the Men entirely hated them, and killed at one time twelve, at another eighteen thousand of them, and their Families.

2. DECAPOLIS, saith St. Jerom, was a Country of ten Cities beyond Jordan, which all do not reckon alike, saith (r) Pliny, who places them all beyond Jordan, except Scythopolis: (s) Josephus saith that Justus of Tiberias τὰς ἐν τῇ Συρίᾳ Δεκαπόλεις ἐπολέμει fought against the Cities of Decapolis in Syria, and that when Vespasian came to Ptolemais (t) οἱ πρῶτοι τῶν τῆς Συρίας Δεκαπόλεων, the chief Men of the Cities of Decapolis in Syria complained to him against Justus upon that account; and of these Cities (u) he saith, that Hippo and Gadara were two; whence it is evident Brochardus must mistake when he places all these Cities in Galilee, and makes Tiberias to be one of them, it being Justus of Tiberias that fought against them. They were all Cities inhabited chiefly by the Gentiles, though some of them might be within the Region of Judæa.

3. DERBE was a City of Lycaonia near Isauria, mentioned Acts 14. 6. it was the Seat of Antipater Derbæus, and the Country of Timothy.

1. EGYPT was bounded on the North with the Mediterranean; on the Eaſt by Arabia Petræa and the Red Sea; on the South by Æthiopia, and Nubia; on the Weſt by Libya, and the deſart of Barca. It is divided into the upper Egypt, through which Nile runneth with a ſingle Stream, and into lower Egypt which begins where Nile divides, and ſo makes the Iſland, from its reſemblance of the Greek Δ called Delta, and then runs down to the Mediterranean ſhore, whence it is alſo called Egyptus Maritima; of the River Nile, the Pyramides, their Mummies, Cities, Cuſtoms, ſee Geographers; of the Names it hath in the Old Teſtament, ſee Bochart. For explication of ſome Paſſages in the New, conſider, 1ſt. The Ægyptian Language, which differed from the Greek, as (x) Bochart proves againſt Kircher, and from the Hebrew, whence the Jews in it are ſaid to have heard a ſtrange Language, Pſal. 81. 6. and coming from it, to have come from a barbarous People, Pſal. 114. 1. See the Note on 1 Cor. 14. 11. Hence Joſeph repreſenting an Egyptian, ſpeaks to his Brethren by an Interpreter, Gen. 42. 23. and it is propheſied by Iſaiah, Ch. 19. 18. that five Egyptian Cities ſhould ſpeak the Language of Canaan, i. e. of thoſe who lived there. Hence Chiun, which in the Hebrew is put for Saturn, as alſo it ſignifies among the Perſians and Iſhmaelites, is by the Septuagint, who made their Tranſlation in Egypt, turned into Ραιφὰν, Amos 5. 26. which in the Egyptian Language is put for Saturn, and is cited by St. Stephen Ρεμφὰν, Acts 7. 43. See the Note there.

2dly. The Egyptian learning, which had it not been conſiderable, ſure we ſhould not have heard of Homer, Solon, Muſæus, Dædalus, Pythagoras, Plato, Democritus, and others going thither to learn Wiſdom, and bringing to their reſpective Countries the learning they had there acquired; Egypt would not have been called by Horus in Macrobius (y) the Mother of Arts, nor the Inhabitants the Parents of all Philoſophy: nor would (z) Athenæus have told us, that both the Greeks and Barbarians had all their learning from the Alexandrians; but of this ſee more in the Commentary on theſe words, And Moſes was learned in all the Wiſdom of the Egyptians, Acts 7. 22.

3dly. Egypt is by prophane Authors, as well as by the Fathers, ſaid to be guilty of moſt vile Idolatry. (a) Herodotus informs us they Firſt made Altars, Images, and Temples for the Gods, and that almoſt all the Names of the the Gods came from Ægypt (b) into Greece. And Jupiter in (c) Lucian confeſſes that the Egyptian Gods were ἄιχρα καὶ γελοιότερα, filthy and more ridiculous, than thoſe of other Nations; their Gods were called, not only by the (d) Fathers, but even by the Poets (e), Portenta magis quam numina. They are alſo noted in Scripture for afflicting, perſecuting, and deſtroying the People of God; upon both theſe accounts the great City Rome is by St. John ſtiled, ſpiritually Egypt, Rev. 11. 8.

4thly. That Moſes led the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, is atteſted by many (f) prophane Authors; and that he led them through the Sea, and that the Egyptians following after them were drowned, is owned by Artabanus; (g) Diodorus Siculus adds, that the fame of this drying up of the Red Sea, was preſerved till his time among the (h) Ichthyophagi, who lived near to it; And (i) Origen informs us, that it was common among the Heathens, to exerciſe Demons by that God who did καταποντίσαι ἐν τῇ ἐρυθρᾷ θαλάσσῃ τὸν Αἰγυπτίων βασιλέα, καὶ τὰς Αἰγυπτίας overthrow the Egyptians and their King in the Red Sea, according to thoſe words of St. Paul, by faith they paſſed through the Red Sea, as by dry land, which the Egyptians aſſaying to do were drowned, Heb. 11. 30.

2. ELAMITES are only mentioned in theſe words, Acts 2. 9. Parthians, Medes and Elamites, where St. Luke goes from Eaſt to Weſt, the Elamites lying Weſt of the Medes; for the Susians are joined to the Elamites, saith Strabo, and to them the Medes. Elam and Madai are also mentioned in Scripture together, Isa. 21. 2. Jer. 25. 25. They were so called from Elam the Son of Sem, Gen. 10. 22. and their Capital City was Elymais; they were a Warlike People living by Rapine, and fighting with Bows and Arrows, Isa. 22. 6. Jer. 49. 35. as the Susians and Persians did, but were a different People from them, for they were joyned to Susia, saith (k) Strabo, and there was an ingress to them from Persia, and the Susians and Elamites are mentioned apart, Ezr. 4. 9. though they are both comprehended sometimes under the Name of Elam. See Dan. 8. 2.

3. EMMAUS, say St. Luke, Chap. 24. 15. and (l) Josephus in his Book of the Wars of the Jews, was a Village distant sixty furlongs from Jerusalem; it was after made a City, and a Roman Colony, and called Nicopolis.

4. EPHESUS, the Metropolis and noble Mart of the Proconsular Asia, was famous for the Temple of Diana, one of the stateliest Structures in the World; it was as (m) Pliny saith, the wonder of Magnificence, built at the common charge of all Asia, properly so called, and was 220 years in building, it was 425 foot long, 220 broad, and supported by 127 Pillars 60 foot high, and was generally accounted one of the Seven Wonders of the World; it was burnt the same day that Socrates was poysoned, 400 years before Christ; and again the same Night that Alexander M. was born, but rebuilt and adorned by the Ephesians, whence that City is stiled νεωκόρος, Acts 19. 35. an Adorner of the Temple of the Goddess Diana, from κορεῖν which, say the Scholiast upon Aristophanes, and Suidas, signifies to (n) adorn and beautifie. See Note there. The Ephesians were noted for their Skill in the Art of Magick; See the Note on Acts 19. 19. and for their luxury and lasciviousness; see the Note on Eph. 5. 5. The Jews dwelt here in abundance, having obtained the Privilege of Citizens, saith (o) Josephus: But this City was chiefly celebrated among Christians for St. Paul's stay here almost three years, Acts 20. 31. his mighty Miracles done there, Acts 19. 11. 1 Cor. 16. 9. and the opposition he met with from the Jews, Acts 20. 19. for Timothy, made Bishop there; for the beloved Apostle who governed the Asiatick Churches; and for being one of the Seven Churches to which Christ sent Instructions, Rev. 2. 1.

5. EPHRAIM. We read John 11. 54. that Christ went from Jerusalem to a Country near the Wilderness, and to a City named Ephraim: Now Ephraim and Bethel, saith. (p) Josephus were πολιχνία, little Cities situated in the Land of Benjamin, near the Wilderness of Judæa, in the way from Jerusalem to Jericho.

GADARA was, according to (q) Josephus, the Metropolis of Peræa, or the Region beyond Jordan; it is now called Hippodion, saith (r) Pliny, and hath the River Hieramax or Jarmoc flowing by it; both make it a (s) Decapolitan City, and so of Heathen Jurisdiction, whence perhaps it was destroyed by the Jews, but was rebuilt by Pompey in favour of Demetrius Gadarensis, his manumitted Servant, saith (t) Josephus. The Inhabitants of this City being rich, sent Legates to Vespasian coming against Judæa, and gave up this strong City to him; both the City and Villages belonging to it, lay within the Region of the Gergesens, whence Christ going into the Country of the Gadarens, Mark 5. 1. is said to go into the Region of the Gergesens, Matth. 8. 28.

2. GALATIA is a Province of the lesser Asia, so called from the Gauls, who saith (u) Strabo, seated themselves there under their Captain Leonorius; it was bounded on the West by Phrygia, on the East by the River Halys, on the North by Paphlagonia, and on the South by Lycaonia; its chief Cities were Ancyra, Tavium, and Pessinuntum, whence Grotius saith St. Paul writing to the Churches of Galatia, writ to these. They worshipped the Mother of the Gods, and especially they of Pessinuntum, and so, as St. Paul saith, Galat. 4. 8. They knew not God. Callimachus in his Hymns, and Hilary who was himself a Gaul, represent them as (x) a very foolish People, whence St. Paul, saith, Ch. 3. 1. O foolish Galatians who hath bewitched you? This Church was so dangerously perverted and almost overturned by the Judaizers there, that the Apostle in his Epistle to them, doth not call them Saints.

3. GALILEE contained the Tribes of Iſſachar, Zebulon, Nephthali, Aſher, with part of Dan, and Perea, beyond the River; it was bounded on the North by Lebanon and Syria, on the Weſt by Phœnicia, on the South by Samaria, on the Eaſt moſtly by the River Jordan, and the Sea of Galilee; it is divided by (k) Joſephus into the upper and the lower Galilee, but Dr. Lightfoot divides it into three parts; the upper Galilee, ſo called becauſe it abounded in Mountains; it was eminently called Galilee of the Gentiles, Matth. 4. 15. becauſe it abounded with them, being partly inhabited, ſaith (l) Strabo, by Egyptians, Arabians, and Phœnicians; this contained the Tribes of Aſher and Nephthali. The lower, which contained the Tribes of Zebulon and Iſſachar, becauſe it was Champian, was called the Great Field; and 3dly. the Vale which is the Border of Tiberias. It was, ſaith (m) Joſephus, very populous, containing 204 Cities and Towns, the leaſt of which Towns had πεντακισχιλίους ὑπερ τοὺς μυρίους ἀνθρώπους, above 15000 Inhabitants. It was alſo a very rich Country, as paying for its Tribute, ſaith he, 200 Talents; they were, ſaith he, a warlike People, defending themſelves againſt all the Aſſaults of their Enemies round about, and their Wealth and Proweſs made them a ſeditious People, and prone to rebel againſt the Romans.

4. GAZA, or AZZA, was a City in the Tribe of Judah; it was taken by Judah, Judg. 1. 18. but becauſe they deſtroyed not the Inhabitants, as they ſhould have done, but only made them Tributaries, v. 28. it was regained by them after the time of Japtha, when the Children of Iſrael did evil again, and the Lord delivered them into the hands of the Philiſtines, Ch. 13. 1. it was one of the five Satrapies of the Philiſtines, which offered their Golden Emerods to the God of Iſrael for a Treſpaſs-Offering, 1 Sam. 6. 17. and the City whoſe Gates Sampſon took away, Judg. 16. 2. and whither he was carried when taken, v. 22. and where he pulled down the Houſe of their God Dagon upon the Lords of the Philiſtines, v. 30. This old Town was deſtroyed by Alexander, and ſo made deſolate as the Prophet had foretold, Zeph. 2. 4. and is therefore called, and, ſaith (n) Strabo, continued deſert. See the Note on Acts 8. 26. for whereas this old City was ſeven furlongs from the Bay, the new built by Conſtantine, was, ſaith (o) St. Jerom, in another place nearer to it.

5. GENNESARETH was a Region 30 furlongs in length, and in breadth 20; a very pleaſant and fruitful place, abounding in the Gardens of great Men, whence it had its Name from Gen and Sar, as being the Garden of Princes, it lay at the bottom of the Lake of Genneſareth, and gave that name to it, Luke 5. 1. The celebrated City of Tiberias, was built cloſe by it on the Eaſt, and gave it the Name of the Sea of Tiberias, John 21. 1. and it was called the Sea of Galilee, John 6 1. as being ſituated in Galilee, in the Tribe of Nephthali, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot; of Zebulon, ſay others; it was, ſaith (p) Joſephus, forty furlongs in breadth, and an hundred in length; ſaith (q) Pliny, ſixteen miles long, and ſix in breadth; its waters were ſweet and pleaſant, and as the Jews ſay that God loved this more than all the other Seas, ſo did our Saviour much frequent it, and after his Reſurrection appeared to his Diſciples at it, John 21. 1.

6. GERGESA was a Town near Gadara, ſo called either from the Gergiſites, the Poſterity of Canaan, for neither did Zebulon nor Nephthali drive out all the Canaanites, Judg. 1. 30, 33. or from Gergiſhta ſignifying Clay, the Soil being Clay; it gave name to a Region ſo called which comprehended in it, Gadara, Hippo, and Magdala. See Gadara.

7. GETHSEMANE was a Garden beyond Kedron at the foot of Mount Olivet, ſo called from the Wine-preſſes in it.

8. GOLGOTHA ſignifies a Skull, from the rolling of it, as we read Luke 23. 33. the place was called the place of a Skull, Matth. 27. 33. Mark 15. 32. John 19. 17. of which St. (r) Cyril gives this very improbable reaſon, that it was called ſo prophetically, becauſe Chriſt our Head was crucified there, he being not κρανιον our Skull, but ἡ κεφαλὴ our Head; others think it was ſo called from the Head of Adam buried there; this we have received by Tradition, ſay (ſ) Origen, Cyprian, Athanaſius, St. Baſil, Epiphanius, Ambroſe, Chryſoſtom, St. Auguſtin, whereas they could receive no ſuch Tradition from the Jews, who taught that Adam was buried at Kiriath-Arbe, or Hebron, whence St. Jerom on the place ſays this Tradition is pleaſing, but not true; he therefore ſaith it was ſo called as being a place full of Skulls, by reaſon of the Malefactors executed and buried there; against which Opinion it may be objected, that it is never called the place of Skulls, but of a Skull; others therefore say it was so called because it was a little Hill in form like to a Man's Skull.

9. GREECE was celebrated throughout the World for learning and Wisdom, it was that little part of Europe, saith (t) Cicero, which flourished in fame, glory, in learning, and in most Arts. Hence (u) Tatian saith, they divided Wisdom among themselves, and said it belonged to them alone, and to this the Apostle seemeth to refer, when he saith, I am debtor to the Greek and to the Barbarian, to the wise and to the unwise, Rom. 1. 14. they calling all other Nations Barbarians: (See the Note on 1 Cor. 14. 11.) because saith (x) Strabo. τὸ παιδείας καὶ λόγων ὀνομαστὸν, learning and reason obtained among them, but was neglected by other Nations, (y) who the more they were distant from them, the more were they ignorant: But then the Apostle also adds, that which all the (z) Apologists for the Christian Faith observe, that professing themselves wise they became fools by their Idolatry, Rom. 1. 21, 22. none being more addicted to it than the Græcians, and the Athenians, (see there) who were esteemed as the Eye of Greece; (a) Tatian saith, they rather chose to have more Dæmons than one God. Their Gods, saith (b) Cicero were first Men, and with these We, saith he, and they have filled the Heavens, and yet in is with the highest reason said in the same Author, that nothing can be more absurd, quam homines morte deletos reponere in Deos, than to make Gods of dead Men, De Nat. Deorum l. 1. N. 29. Note also that Greece in Daniel, Chap. 8. 22. 10. 20. 11. 2. is used in the largest acceptation to denote Macedonia as well as the more Southern parts of Greece, whereas in Acts 20. 2. it is used exclusively of Macedonia, when it is said that St. Paul going through the parts of Macedonia came to Greece.

1. FAIR HAVEN, Acts 27. 8. stiled by Stephanus καλὴ ἀκτὴ, the Fair shore, is a part of Crete, where, saith he, was a City, or great Village; but whereas it is there stiled a part, ᾧ ἐγγὺς ἡ πολις Λασαία, near to the City of Lasæa, that troubles the Commentators who can find no City in Crete of that name, besides one mentioned by Pliny, which he places in the Continent. St. Jerom, and from him other Geographers speak of it as Civitas littoralis, a City by the Shore; moreover Dr. Lightfoot shews that ἐγγὺς and ἀπέχω are sometimes used by Geographers of places distant almost One hundred miles.

2. HIERAPOLIS, mentioned Colos. 2. 1. is a City of Phrygia, as appears from its nearness to Laodicea, celebrated by (c) Strabo for its hot lapidifick Waters, and for an hollow place called Plutonium, not much exceeding a Man's length, whose noisom exhalations suffocate every thing that enters into it, except a Capon.

1. ICONIUM was a City of Lycaonia, the chief of the fourteen belonging to that Tetrarchy, saith (d) Pliny; a well-built City in the richest part of Lycaonia, saith (e) Strabo. Here was a Synagogue of Jews and Proselytes, to whom Paul and Barnabas preaching, and confirming their Doctrine by Miracles, made many Proselytes, Acts 14. 1, 2, 3. and where the unbelieving Jews and Gentiles made an Assault upon them, to use them despitefully, and to stone them, v. 5.

2. IDUMEA, Mark 3. 8. is not the Region of Syria, in which the Edomites, or the Posterity of Esau dwelt, but the Jewish Idumea, or the South part of Judæa; and hence in Diodorus Siculus, the Sea of Sodom which is in the South of Judæa, is said to be (f) κατὰ μέσην τὴν σατραπείαν τῆς ἰδυμαίας, in the midst of the Province of Idumea: In the Book of Maccabees are many places mentioned as in Idumea, which were almost in the middle of Judæa, V. G. Bethoron is κώμη ἰδυμαίας, a Village of Idumea, 1 Maccab. 4. 29. it is κώμη τῆς ἰουδαίας, a Village of Judæa, saith (g) Josephus; and v. 61. Bethsura near to Jerusalem, is fortified to be a defence against the Idumeans; Josephus adds that Judas and his Brethren left not off fighting with the Idumeans, Idumeans, but fell upon them every where, (h) taking the Cities of Hebron, Marissa and Azotus, which were all in the Land of Judah. It therefore is conjectured, that in the time of the Captivity of the Jews in Babylon, the Edomites had invaded their Possessions, and fixed their Seats there, tho' afterwards by the powerful Arms of the Maccabees and Asmoneans, they were either rooted out, or constrained to embrace Judaism: Thus Josephus informs us, That when Hircanus had taken Sechem and Mt. Gerizim, and the Country of the Cutheans or Samaritans, he proceeds to take the Cities of Idumea, Ador and Marissa, both in Judea; and having subdued all the Idumeans, he declares he would expell them from their Seats, if they would not be circumcised, and submit to the Jewish Laws, and that hereupon they out of Love to their Country, (i) ἠ̃ τὴν περιτομὴν ἠ̃ τὴν ἄλλην τὴν Βίου διαγωγὴν ὑπέμειναν τὴν αὐτὴν τοῖς Ἰουδαίοις τούτοις, received Circumcision, and conformed to the same Course or Diet with the Jews, and from that time were reckoned among the Jews, and stiled themselves their Domesticks, and Com-patriots, de B. Jud. l. 4. c. 16, 17.

3. JERICHO was a wealthy City in Benjamin, which Joshua destroyed, with a Curse upon him that should rebuild it, Chap. 6. 26. Nevertheless Hiel the Bethelite rebuilt it in the Days of Ahab; and the Curse pronounced upon him by Joshua, for so doing, was punctually fulfilled, 1 Kings 16. 34. After its Restauration it was ennobled by the Schools of the Prophets; near to it was a large Spring, but unwholsome, and making the Land unfruitful, till Elisha cured it, 2 Kings 5. 21. and from that time it produced Fruitfulness and Abundance. The Country, saith (k) Josephus, was seated in a Plain, narrow, but long; for it runs out Northward to the Country of Scythopolis, and Southward to the Land of Sodom, being 150 Miles in length, and 15 in breadth: Opposite to it lay a Mountain beyond Jordan, and this great Plain is by St. Matthew stiled ἡ περίχωρος τοῦ Ἰορδάνου, the Region about Jordan, Matth. 3. 5. It was planted, say Strabo and Pliny, with a Grove of Palm-Trees, (whence the City of Palm-Trees, Deut. 34. 3. Judg. 1. 16. is by the Targum called Jericho) and well water'd with Springs, and fruitful with Balsam, which, saith (l) Josephus is the best Commodity of the Place. Under the second Temple it gave place to no City of Judea, but Jerusalem, had a (m) Royal Palace in it, where Herod ended his days; an Hippodromus, where the Jewish Nobility being imprisoned by him were to be slain after his Death, and an Amphitheatre where his Will was publickly opened and read; it was distant from Jerusalem almost 90 Miles; but the way from Jerusalem to it being desert and rocky, it was infested with Thieves, (see the Note on Luke 10. 30, 32.) and Jericho having 12000 Priests and Levites, which served at the Temple, it is no wonder that a Priest and Levite should pass by that way.

4. JERUSALEM may be considered either (1st) as the Capital City of Judea, in compass six Miles and a quarter, standing in the two Tribes of Benjamin and Judah, and built upon three Mountains; Mount Zion, on which the Upper City which was on the North of Jerusalem, was built; Acra, on which stood the Lower City, properly called Jerusalem; and Mount Moriah, the Mountain of the Lord's House, which was compassed about by the City as a Theatre, and walled round; it was a perfect Square of 500 Cubits on each side, and 2000 in the whole; and as the City of Jerusalem is called the Holy Place, Matth. 24. 15. and the Holy City, Matth. 4. 5. and was so esteemed by the Jews, 1 Maccab. 10. 31. so this Mountain was called Holy Ground, to which they who had Issues, or were menstruous, or Women in Child-bed, during the time of their Uncleanness, might not come. Or,

2dly, It may be considered as the Place where our Lord was crucified, where the Gospel was first preached, and where it found the greatest Opposition: And, in reference to this, it hath been shewed,

1st, That before Christ's Passion the Scribes and Pharisees were the great Enemies to our Lord's Person, and his Doctrine; but when the Apostles began to assert his Resurrection, and the Resurrection of Believers, by his Power, the Sadducees also were vehement Opposers of his Doctrine. See the Note on Acts 4. 2.

2dly, That they not only persecuted the Christians in Judea, and throughout all the Synagogues of the Jews, but instigated all Heathen Governors where they had any Footing, they persecuting and killing them with their own hands, where they had Power, and perswading others so to do where they had Interest sufficient, Acts 13. 50. 14. 2, 5. 17. 5, 13. See the Note on Gal. 3. 4. and the Preface to the Epistle of St. James.

3dly, That for their Infidelity and Opposition to the Gospel, the Kingdom of God was taken from them, Matth. 21. 43. they were blinded and given up to a spiritual Slumber, Rom. 11. 7, 8. were rejected and broken off, V. 15, 17. for their Unbelief, V. 20. Or,

3dly, We may discourse of it as it was the City, which, with the Temple and the Inhabitants, was therefore to be destroyed, laid waste, and trodden down by the Gentiles: And here observe,

1st, That both our Lord and his Forerunner declared their Ruine was at hand, if they would not repent, and believe the Gospel, That the Ax was then laid to the Root of the Tree, Matth. 3. 10. That Jerusalem should be left desolate, and all the Blood of the Prophets, shed from Abel, should be required of that Generation, Matth 23. 35-38. That all he had foretold concerning the Destruction of the Temple, the City, the People of Jerusalem, should be fulfilled before that Generation passed away, Matth. 24. 34. See Matth. 16. 28. 26. 64. Luke 19. 41, 42, 43. and the Notes there.

2dly, That this was the constant Doctrine taught in most of the Epistles, and the continual Expectation of the believing Jews and Christians, that Wrath was coming upon that Nation, for their Infidelity and Persecution of the Christians, and that Christ would shortly come to destroy them for those Sins. See Rom. 11. 22. 1 Thes. 2. 15, 16. Chap. 5. 9. 2 Thess. 2. 8. Heb. 10. 36. James 5. 8. 1 Pet. 4. 17, 18. and the Notes on those Places, and Gal. 4. 20. 6. 12. Phil. 3. 18, 19.

3dly, That Josephus speaks frequently of the τέρατα καὶ σημεῖα, the Signs, Wonders, and certain Indications then given of their approaching Ruine, de B. Jud. l. 1. c. 1. l. 4. c. 17. l. 7. c. 30, 31. as also doth the Heathen Tacitus. (n) Josephus adds, That God was now ἀπεσεσημένος καὶ τὰ ἅγια, rejecting their Holy Things, and would have both their Temple and City purged by Fire; That he in vain attempted to save τοὺς ὑπὸ θεοῦ κατακριθέντας, them whom God had condemned, and that their Ruine was foretold by their own Prophets, and not to be avoided, τὸ γὰρ τὸ πλῶν εἶναι τοῦ θεοῦ. (o) Eleazer from what was done takes notice, that all might thence know that once beloved Nation now ἀπολέλα κατεγνωσο was condemned to Destruction; and even (p) Titus says their Actions shewed their Destruction was wrought θεοῦ μένει by the Anger of God, and that they prospered in their Attempts against them θεοῦ συνεργίαις by the Divine Assistance: In a word the History of these Wars, compos'd by that Jewish Priest, is the best Comment on, and the greatest Confirmation of the Truth of Christ's Predictions of all the Circumstances of their Ruine, as is shewed on Matth. 24.

5. JOPPA, Acts 9. 13. was a famous Port-Town betwixt Cæsarea and Azotus, so called, as some think, from Japhet the Son of Noah, who built, or rather rebuilt it after the Flood; for (q) Solinus and (r) Mela say it was built before the Flood; it was famous among the Heathens, for the Fable of Andromeda and Perseus; among the Jews, for being a Port-Town from whence they went up to Jerusalem, which they might see, saith (s) Strabo, from Joppa, tho' it were above a Day's Journey, and for the miserable (t) Shipwreck of the Jews when Vespasian took it; and among the Christians for Tabitha, there raised from the Dead by Peter, Acts 9.

6. JORDAN is a River arising in the Region of Daphne, near to Libanus, not out of two Fountains or Rivers, Jor and Dan, as St. Jerom and Suidas say; but from one that is in the Cave, called Phanium, as (u) Pliny saith, and Josephus often: Tho' in his third Book of the Jewish Wars, he says, that it was found out by Philip the Tetrarch, to have its Rise from the Springs of Phialæ, which run under ground 26 Furlongs, and appear only at the Cave of Phanium, which therefore is assigned for its apparent Rise. It is called Jordan the Less, till it falls into the Lake Samochonitis, whence coming forth augmented, it is called Jordan the Greater, and falling into the Lake of Genneseareth it passes thro' it, and ends in the dead Sea: It is famous among the Jews for being dried up at a time when it overflowed all its Banks, to give a Passage to the Children of Israel into Canaan; and among Christians, for being the Place of our Lord's Baptism by St. John.

7. ITUREA, mentioned as Part of the Tetrarchy of Philip, Luke 3. 1. was so called from Jetbur the Son of Ishmael, Gen. 25. 15. and lay edging upon Arabia, but was in, or bordering upon Cœlosyria: It was the same with Auronitis, in (x) Josephus; for whereas St. Luke saith, Philip was Tetrarch of Iturea and Trachonitis, Josephus says, Batanea, Trachon and Auronitis were assigned to him by Cæsar. Moreover Ishmael being a skilful Archer, Gen. 21. 20. the Itureans are celebrated by (y) Poets and Historians for their Skill in fighting with Bow and Arrow.

8. JUDEA, as it signifies the whole Land of Promise, is by (z) Tacitus said to be terminated terminated with Arabia on the East, Egypt on the South, Phœnicia on the West, and Syria on the North; as it is distinguished from Galilee and Samaria, and contains the Tribes of Judah, Benjamin, Simeon, and Dan, the (a) Bounds towards the North, are the Village Annach, or Dorceus; on the South it reaches to a Village called Farda in Arabia, and its breadth is from the River Jordan to Joppa, and Jerusalem is in the Center of it; it is divided into the Mountains, the Plain and the South; the South lay towards Seor and Amalek, from the Inlets into the Land at the utmost part of the dead Sea, and reached to the rising of the Mountains not far below Hebron. The Mountains began near Hebron, and ran along Northward to, and beyond Jerusalem, having the Plain of Jordan skirting on the East, till you come to the Borders of Samaria: Hence the Blessed Virgin going to visit her Cousin at Hebron, a City of the Priests, is said to go into the Hill Country, Luke 1. 39. The Plain joins to the mountainous Country on the East, and tho' more level than that, yet hath its Hills; to the Plain Eastwardly joins a Valley lower than the Plain, which is the Coast of Sodom, and at length that of Jordan. The Wilderness of Judea, where John first taught, Matth. 3. 1. and Christ was tempted, lay betwixt Jericho and Jordan, and from Jericho towards Jerusalem both of them were comparatively desert, (whence (b) Strabo saith, Jerusalem was a Place not to be envied by any one, as having about it χώραν λυπρὰν καὶ ἄνυδρον, a dry barren Country) tho' both these Deserts were also populous, and had many Towns.

1. LIBYA was so called from the Arabick Word Lub, which signifieth Thirst, as being a dry, thirsty Earth, and therefore by some Grammarians said to have its Name ἀπὸ τοῦ λείπειν καὶ ὕειν from its want of Rain; among the Greeks it is used as another Name for Africa; as it imports a Part of it, 'twas divided into (c) Libya Interior and Exterior: But the Libya mentioned by St. Luke, Acts 2. 10. is that which is by Ptolemy called Libya Cyrenaica, and by (d) Pliny Pentapolitana Regio, from its five Chief Cities, viz. Berenice, Arsinoe, Ptolemais, Apollonia and Cyrene, as appears from these Words, Egypt and τὰ μέρη τῆς λιβύης τῆς κατὰ κυρήνην, the Parts of Libya about Cyrene. It is noted in the Old Testament for its Chariots and Horses used in Fight, 2 Chron. 16. 8. whence it is stiled by (e) Dionysius Periegetes Κυρήνη εὔιππος, and by (f) Strabo ἱπποτρόφος, the Country that bred the best Horses; of which see Bochart. Phaleg, l. 4. c. 33. but it is mentioned by St. Luke on account of the Jews, who living in such vast numbers in Alexandria, that 50000 of them were there slain at one time, may well be thought to have had some Colonies and Proselytes in this Neighbouring Country.

2. LYCAONIA. The Lycaonia mentioned Acts 14. 6. was not that which is called Arcadia, but a Province in the Lesser Asia, bordering upon Galatia, Cappadocia and Pisidia; its chief Cities are all mentioned in this Chapter, viz. Iconium, Lystra and Derbe. They spake, V. 10. in the Lycaonian Tongue; i. e. in some proper Dialect of the Greek Tongue.

3. LYDDA, saith Josephus, was a Village (g) not yielding to a City for Greatness; it was a Part of Judea, not far from Joppa, Acts 9. 38. eminent for its Schools of Jews and learned Men: See the Note there. (h) Josephus elsewhere stiles it a City, and saith it was burnt by Cestius, whilst the Men were gone from it to Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles; God, after they had crucified our Saviour, not taking that care of them at these Times as formerly: It is now called Diospolis, saith (i) St. Jerom.

4. LYSTRA was a City of Lycaonia, chiefly celebrated for the Cure done there upon the lame Man, which made the Lycaonians think the Gods were come down to them in the likeness of Men, Acts 14. 10, 11. and for the Circumcision of Timothy, Ch. 16. 1.

1. MACEDONIA was a vast Province of Greece, formerly called Emathia, and from the Kings of Macedon, Macedonia; it was bounded on the North by the Mountains of Hæmus, on the South by Epirus and Achaia, on the East by the Ægean, on the West by the Ionian and Adriatick Seas, celebrated in all Histories for being the third Kingdom that under Alexander the Great obtained the Empire of the World, and had under it (k) 150 People. To this Country, whose Metropolis was then Thessalonica, St. Paul was called led by a Vision, Acts 16. 9. and the Churches planted by him in it are celebrated for their great Charity, and ready Contribution to the diſtreſſed Jews in Judea, 2 Cor. Ch. 8, 9. when they themſelves lay under the extremeſt Poverty; and both in Theſſalonica and Macedonia, ſaith (l) Philo, lived a great number of Jews.

2. MAGDALA was a City and Territory beyond Jordan, on the Bank of Gadara; it reached to the Bridge above Jordan, which joined it to the other ſide of Galilee, and contained within its Precincts, Dalmanutha: Whence St. Matthew ſaying, Chap. 15. 39. Chriſt came into the coaſts of Magdala, St. Mark ſaith more particularly, Chap. 8. 10. he came into the Parts of Dalmanutha.

3. MEDIA, mentioned Acts 2. 9. in theſe Words, Parthians, Medes and Elamites; was a vaſt Region, having on the North the Hyrcanian Sea, on the Weſt Armenia and Aſſyria, on the South Perſia, on the Eaſt Hyrcania and Parthia; it had its Name from Madai the Son of Japhet, mentioned Gen. 10. 2. and advanced into the ſecond Monarchy, ſtiled the Monarchy of the Medes and Perſians, under Darius the Mede, Son of Aſtyages: Of the Riches of this Country, and of the Vaſtneſs of its chief City Ecbatan, ſee (m) Bochartus. In the Babylonian Captivity the Jews were carried Captive into Aſſyria, and placed in the Cities of the Medes, 2 Kings 17. 6. 18. 11. Hence we find many of them and their Proſelytes at Jeruſalem, when the Holy Ghoſt fell on the Apoſtles.

4. MELITE the Iſland Malta, where St. Paul was ſhipwreck'd; of which ſee the Note on Acts 28. 1.

5. MESOPOTAMIA is a Country in Aſia Major, between the Rivers Euphrates and Tygris, as the Greek Word imports; hence it is ſtiled in the Hebrew, Aram Narajim, i. e. Syria of the Rivers, and the Inhabitants (n) οἱ ἐν μέσῃ τῶν ποταμῶν, they who dwell in the midſt of the Rivers; but that in Scripture and Profane Authors it is ſometimes uſed in a larger Senſe, ſee the Note on Acts 7. 2.

6. MIDIAN, the Land into which Moſes fled from the Ægyptians, Acts 7. 29. it was the Place where Jethro lived, Exod. 12. 11. and the People came from (o) Madian the Son of Abraham by Keturah, Gen. 25. 2. whence we have reaſon to believe they ſtill retained the Worſhip of the True God; it was in Arabia Petræa, whence (p) Philo ſaith, Moſes fled, εἰς τὴν ὁμορον Ἀραβίαν.

7. MILETUS, a Port-Town of Aſia Minor, where, ſaith St. Jerom, St. Paul Majores Epheſi alloquitur, ſpeaks to the Elders of Epheſus, taking no notice of any other Biſhops there convened; it was the City where (q) Thales one of the Seven wiſe Men, Anaximander his Diſciple, Timotheus the Muſician, and Anaximenes the Philoſopher, were born. There was another Miletus in Crete, mentioned by (r) Pliny and by (s) Homer, where St. Paul left Trophimus ſick. See the Note on 2 Tim. 4. 20. and the Preface to Titus. There was alſo, ſaith Euſtathius in Dionyſ. P. κρητικὴ νῆσος, an Iſland of that Name in Crete.

8. MYTILENE, corruptly Mitylene, ſaith (t) Voſſius, was a large and beautiful City of the Iſland Lesbos, where Pittacus one of the Seven wiſe Men, Alcæus the Poet, Diophanes the Orator, and Theophanes the Hiſtorian were born. The whole Iſland was alſo called by (u) that Name, as alſo Pentapolis from the Five Cities in it, viz. Iſſa or Antiſſa, Pyrrha, Ereſſos, Arisba, Mytilene; if it had that Name in St. Luke's time, you may underſtand either the Iſland or the City, when he ſaith, Acts 20. 14. We came to Mytilene.

9. MYRA was one of the ſix great Cities of Lycia, ſaith (x) Strabo, and it lay nigh the Sea, ſaith (y) Pliny, whence St. Luke ſaith, Acts 27. 5. that ſailing over the Sea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, they came to Myra in Lycia. The Latin Copies inſtead of Myra, read Lyſtra in Lycaonia, far diſtant from theſe Seas; againſt the Greek, and the Authority of St. Jerom and Chryſoſtom.

10. MYSIA, mentioned Acts 16. 7, 8. was bounded on the North with Bithynia, on the Eaſt with Phrygia Minor, on the Weſt with Troas, on the South by the River Hermus; there perhaps St. Paul attempted not to ſtay, becauſe, as (z) Cicero notes in his Oration for Flaccus, they were a People deſpicable and baſe to a Proverb.

1. NAIN, mentioned Luke 7. 11, 12. was a City in the extreme Borders of Iſſachar, towards Samaria, two Leagues from Nazareth, and not much more from Tabor, ſaith Brochard, at the Gates of which our Lord reſtored the Widow's Son to Life; it was ſo called from the Pleaſantneſs of the Place: If Joſephus ſpeaks of the ſame Place, he thrice calls calls it a Village, and saith it was walled about by Simon Son of Gejora the Robber, but St. Luke assures us it had Gates in our Saviour's time.

2. NAZARETH was a City of the lower Galilee in the confines of Issachar, and Zebulon, but within the latter; here the Blessed Virgin was born and lived; it was of ill fame in our Saviour's time, as appears from the Question of Nathanael, Can any good thing come out of Nazareth? John 1. 47. whence Christ was by contempt called a Nazarite, and Christians Nazarens. See the Note on Matth. 2. 23.

3. NINEVEH was the chief City of Assyria, by the Greeks called Ninus from the builder of it, named in Scripture, Nimrod, and by the Greeks Νινος, which some think to be hinted in the Name, as being Nin-Neve, the habitation of Ninus, who came from Shinar to Assyria, and built it, Gen. 10. 10. See the Bishop of Ely there. It is called in the Scriptures πόλις μεγάλη τῷ Θεῷ, Jonas 1. 2. 3. 3. i. e. a very great City, (as Moses was ἀστεῖος τῷ Θεῷ very fair, Acts 7. 20. See the Note there,) as well it might, being, saith (b) Diodorus Siculus in length 150 Stadia, i. e. almost 19 miles in breadth 90 Stadia, i. e. 12 miles and an half; in circuit 480 Stadia, i. e. 60 miles, and so counting 20 miles for a days Journey, as the Greeks used to do, a City of three days Journey, not in length, but in circuit, say St. Jerom, Cyril and Theodoret upon the place, Jon. 3. 3. (c) Strabo says it was larger than Babylon, which contained in circuit 350 Stadia; (d) Eustathius on Dionysius Periegetes adds that in the building of it 140000 Men laboured eight years. It was famous for being the City in which the first Monarchy was erected, and which repented at the preaching of Jonah, and so it seems owned the God of Israel as the true God, as generally those Eastern Kingdoms did, though they had topical Gods of their own. See the Note on Luke 1. 76. It was taken 58 years after the time of Jonas, by Arbaces rebelling against Sardanapalus, and destroyed 182 years after by Nabuchodonosor and Assuerus, Tobit 14. 15. Al. by Nabopolasser and Astyages, and was never built again, whence (e) Strabo saith ἡ μὲν δὴ Νινος πόλις ἠφανίσθη παντελῶς, μετὰ τὴν τῶν Σύρων καταλυσιν, and (f) Lucian to Charon, ἡ Νινος μὲν ἀπόλελεν ἤδη, καὶ ὧδε ἴχνος ἔτι λοιπὸν αὐτῆς, Ninus was so destroyed that no footsteps of it now remain, God having said by his Prophet Nahum, Chap. 1. 8. that he would make an utter end thereof. As for its Situation it is commonly said, that it was built on the West side of the River Tygris, but as (g) Bochartus shews, Historians and Geographers differ so much as to the Situation of it, that they seem thereby to confirm the words of the Prophet Nahum, Chap. 3. 17. It shall be as the Locusts, who when they flee away, their place is not known where they were.

O.

MOUNT OLIVET, mentioned Acts 1. 12. had its Name from the Multitude of Olive Trees that grew upon it, whence at the foot of it was Gethsemane, Matth. 26. 26. the place of Oyl-presses, derived from Gath a Press, and Shemen Oyl. It was distant from Jerusalem, saith St. Luke, a Sabbath-days Journey, that is a mile. It lay over against the City, saith (h) Josephus, that is the East part of it, and was distant from it five furlongs; he speaking only of the foot of Mount Olivet which was no farther distant from the City, whereas St. Luke speaks of the place whence Christ ascended which was three furlongs farther, whence he informs us that Christ led his Disciples out ἕως εἰς Βηθανίαν even to the borders of Bethany, not to the Bethany mentioned John 11. 18. which was fifteen furlongs from Jerusalem, but to that Tract of the Mount, where the name of Bethphage ceased, and that of Bethany began, Luke 24. 50, 51.

1. PAMPHYLIA is a Province of Asia minor, having to the South the Pamphylian Sea, mentioned Acts 27. 5. Cilicia to the East, Pisidia to the North, (whence we find St. Paul passing through Pisidia to Pamphylia, Acts 14. 24. and from Pamphylia to Pisidia, Acts 13. 14.) and Lycia to the West. The Cities mentioned in the Scripture as belonging to it, are Perga and Attalia, Acts 13. 13. Here also the Jews dwelt, saith (i) Philo; whence they of Pamphylia are mentioned among those who appeared at Jerusalem at the day of Pentecost, Acts 2. 10.

2. PAPHOS was a City of Cyprus, Acts 13. 4, 6. the Metropolis of that Island, and the place where the Proconsul had his Residence, and Venus, saith Tacitus, had the most (k) ancient Temple, which he describes more largely in the beginning of his second Book of Histories; whence it became, saith (l) Arator, lascivus ager sacrilegæ, libidinis antrum, being the place where the Virgins prostituted themselves before Marriage to get a Dowry, as we learn from (m) Justin and (n) Herodotus. Here St. Paul struck blind Elymas the Sorcerer, and converted Sergius the Proconsul. That the Jews dwelt here in abundance, we learn from Elymas a Jew, V. 6. See Cyprus.

3. Of PARTHIA we have only mention indirectly in these words, Acts 2. 9. Parthians, Medes and Elamites. It lasted an Empire for 400 Years, and disputed for the Empire of the East with the Romans; they were celebrated for the (o) Veneration of their Kings, and for their way of fighting by flight, and shooting their Arrows backwards. They are not mentioned in Scripture, say Ethicus and Orosius, save under the name of Medes. They dwelt betwixt Media and Mesopotamia, in all which Transeuphratensian Places, except some little parts of Babylon, and of some other little Prefectures, the Jews, saith (p) Philo, abounded, and so were at Jerusalem when the Holy Ghost fell on the Apostles.

4. PERGE, or PERGA, is a City of Pamphylia, Acts 13. 13. memorable among the Heathens for a Temple of Diana, built there, whence she was called, saith (q) Mela, Diana Pergæa, Περγαία Ἄρτεμις, saith Stephanus; among the Christians for the departure thence of John Mark, from Barnabas and Paul to Jerusalem, which occasioned the rupture betwixt them for a Season, Acts 15. 37, 40.

5. PHOENICIA was a Province of Syria divided into two parts; Phœnicia-Maritima which reached from Tripolis to Ptolemais, say some; to Pelusium in Egypt, say others; and Mid-land Phœnicia of which Damascus was the Metropolis. They had their Names, saith Bochart, not ἀπὸ τῶν φοινίκων, from the Palm-Trees growing in their Land, nor from the Red Sea, nor à puniceo colore from their purple colour, nor ἀπὸ τῆς φόνε from the slaughters they made where they came, but from their rise, they being beni ynak Sons of the Anakims in Canaan, whence being beaten by Joshua, they fled to the side of the Mediterranean Sea, where saith (r) Procopius, they erected Pillars with this Inscription, ἡμεῖς ἐσμεν οἱ φεύγοντες ἀπὸ προσώπε Ἰησε τῆ λῃσε τε Νάυη, we are they who fly from the Face of Joshua, the Son of Nave the Robber. They were celebrated for their Navigations, of which, saith Bochart, they have left indications in all Places; and for the Invention of Letters, for from them, saith Herodotus, Letters were brought by Cadmus into Greece, and were thence called φοινικία γεγράμματα, Phœnician Letters, Herodot. l. 5. c. 58. Tatian Ed. Ox. p. 3. Euseb. Præp. Evang. l. 10. c. 5. and they had them, saith Eupolemus, from the Jews, Clem. Alex. Strom. 1. p. 343.

6. PHILIPPI was a City of Macedonia, so called from Philip King of Macedon, who repaired it, whence it lost its former Name of Dathos; it is called by St. Luke, ἡ πρώτη τῆς μερίδος τῆς μακεδονίας πόλις, not because it was the Metropolis of it, for that was Thessalonica: See Note on Philip. 1. 1. but because it was the first City belonging to it, which they who came from Neapolis in Thrace, as St. Paul did, Acts 16. 11. or from the Gulph of Strymon, touched at. See the Note on Acts 16. 12. It was celebrated among the Romans for being a Roman Colony, Acts 16. 21. and for the Campi Philippici, where Cæsar and Pompey first, and afterwards Augustus and Mark Anthony fought with Cassius and Brutus; and among Christians for their Conversion by St. Paul, and the liberal Contribution they, and they only, sent him in his necessity by Epaphroditus, Philip. 4. 15, 18. and for his Epistle directed to them.

7. PISIDIA, mentioned Acts 14. 24. was a Country in Asia minor, near Pamphylia, whose chief City was Antioch in Pisidia, Acts 13. 14. So called to distinguish it from Antioch in Syria; its Inhabitants are commended by (s) Livy for their Skill in War above other Asiaticks, and were anciently, saith (t) Pliny, called Solymi, who were compared to Lyons for their Courage.

8. PONTUS, a Province in Asia minor, bounded on the North with the Euxine Sea, on the South with Cappadocia, on the West with the River Halys, on the East with Chalcis, celebrated among the Heathen Poets for its poysonous Herbs, and therefore called by (u) Virgil, Virosa Pontus, and hence Medea is said to have had her Poysons from thence: Among the Jews for the Dispersions of that Nation through Pontus,

9. PHRYGIA is a Province of Asia minor divided into the greater, called in the (y) Notitiæ, Pacatiana, where the chief Cities mentioned in Scripture Colos. 2. 1. are Laodicea and Hierapolis, and of this St. Luke seems to speak, Acts 2. 10. because he joins it with Pamphylia below it towards the East; and Phrygia minor, of which he speaketh, Acts 16. 6. 18. 22. when he saith they passed through Phrygia and Galatia. The Inhabitants were a servile People kept in their Duty best by (z) Stripes, and made wise only by sufferings, saith (a) Cicero. In all these parts of Asia minor, even to Bithynia and the Euxine Sea, the Jews abounded, saith Philo in the place forecited.

10. PTOLEMAIS was a City of Galilee by the Sea-side dividing the upper from the lower Galilee, and the Land of Israel from Phœnicia; it was seated in a Plain compassed about with Mountains, having on the East the mountainous part of Galilee, on the North the Scala Tyriorum, on the South Carmel. Near to it, saith (b) Josephus, is the Sepulchre of Memnon, and the Vale of Sand that turns into Glass, the fragments of which Glass being brought back to the place, will return again into Sand. It was memorable among the Jews for the coming of Petronius thither to set up the Statue of Caius Caligula, which at the intreaty of the Jews, declaring that their Law admitted no Images either in their Temple or prophane places, he defer'd to execute till he had writ to Cæsar, who (c) died before his answer came to the hands of Petronius; and also for the slaughter of two thousand Jews by the Inhabitants of Ptolemais; and among the Christians for St. Paul's Journey in a Ship of Phœnicia to Tyre, where the Ship unladed her burthen, Acts 21. 3. from Tyre to Ptolemais 32 miles on foot; from thence to Cæsarea, v. 7. 8. and from Cæsarea to Jerusalem, v. 15. See the Note on Acts 21. 7.

11. PUTEOLI a famous Mart-Town in Italy, having a commodious Haven for Ships, made, says (d) Strabo, by Art and Labour. It was built, say St. Jerom and the Epitomator of Stephanus by the (e) Samians and called Puteoli, saith (f) Varro, from the Pits of hot and cold Water; by the Greeks it was called Dicæarchia, here St. Paul by the favour of the Centurion, staid seven days. See more Note on Acts 28. 13.

1. RAMA, Matth. 2. 18. was a City in the Tribe of Benjamin, distant from Jerusalem, saith (g) Josephus, forty furlongs, saith St. (h) Jerom, six miles, and being on a Hill, as the word Rama signifies, might be within sight of Jerusalem, as may be probably collected from Judg. 19. 13. It was, saith the Bishop of Ely, northward of Jerusalem, and not far from it, as appears from the Levite going from Bethlehem-Judah to Jebus or Jerusalem, and being benighted when he came there, and not able to reach Shilo, whither he was going, consulted with his Servant whether they should lodge at Rama or Gibeah, Judg. 19. 11, 13, 18. and truly being the place to which he might divert when he was on the West of Jebus in his way to Shilo, after the Sun went down, and being near to Gibeah, Judg. 19. 13. 1 Sam. 22. 6. Hos. 5. 8. it must lie somewhat north-west of Jerusalem, and yet not far from it, and so the Coasts of Bethlehem four miles from Jerusalem, and the Coasts of Rama might be at a less distance. But others to avoid this difficulty how the Coasts of Bethlehem could reach Rama in the Tribe of Benjamin, and the Children slain in those Coasts could cause a weeping in Rama, give us Rama near Gibeah, north of Jerusalem, and at a greater distance from it on that side, than Bethelem was on the south, and place another Rama near Bethlehem, and south of it; but it is certain from 1 Sam. 10. 2. that Rachel's Sepulchre was in the border of Benjamin, and only in the way from Bethel to Bethlehem, Gen. 35. 16, 20. and so the Voice of Rachel weeping at Rama, must refer to Rama in Benjamin; either then their Territories, or the Villages belonging to them, must be near, or the words of St. Matthew must be construed thus, ἀπ-σειλας (Sub. ἀπὸ τῆς Ἱερουσαλὴμ) and sending from Jerusalem, he slew all the Children in Bethlehem, καὶ ἐν πᾶσι τοῖς ὁρίοις αὐτῆς, and in all the Coasts of Jerusalem, it being ordinary for pronoun Relatives to refer to a remoter Antecedent, as is shewed note on Luke 5. 17. and for nouns to be included in a verb relating to them.

2. RHEGIUM is a Port Town in Italy, opposite to Sicily, so called by the Greeks, as judging it was broken off from thence by the Sea, of which see Cluverius de Italiâ antiquâ. l. 1. p. 476. Here St. Paul staid but one day, Acts 28. 13 and did nothing which St. Luke thought fit to mention, but in that day, say the fabulous Writers of the Church of Rome, he converted some of the Inhabitants and Strangers that were there, by burning a large Stone Pillar with a little Candle, preached to the Fishes of the Sea, and commanded the Grashoppers, which with their noise disturbed his Preaching, to be silent, from which time they left the Land. See Lorinus on the place.

3. RHODES was an Island in the Carpathian Sea, so called, say the Greeks, ἀπὸ τῶν ῥόδων from the Roses growing there; it is accounted for Dignity among the Asiatick Islands next to Cyprus and Lesbos; it was of so clear an Air, that Solinus saith, there was not a day in the year in which the Sun did not shine upon it, whence it is stiled by Horace Clara Rhodus. Tiberius, saith (i) Suetonius, sailed thither amœnitate & salubritate Insulæ captus, being taken with the pleasantness and healthiness of the Island, which was therefore by the Roman Nobility made a place for their (k) recess; on the north-west of it were Coos and Cnidus, on the East Patara, whence St. Paul sails from Coos to Rhodus, and thence to Patara, Acts 21. 1. It was famous for a College in which the Students were eminent for Eloquence and Mathematicks; for a Colossus of the Sun which passed for one of the Wonders of the World, it being seventy Cubits high, and falling by an Earthquake; but chiefly for the expertness of the Inhabitants of that City and Island in the Art of Navigation, which made them Sovereigns of the Sea; their Constitutions also, and Judgments in Affairs relating to the Sea, being withal so just, as to become incorporated afterwards into the Roman Pandects. See Strabo l. 14. p. 448.

4. ROME. Of this City, because I can never say enough, I will say only that which some way tends to the Interpretation or the Illustration of something contained in the New Testament. And

1st. I have observed already that it was the Seat of the Fourth Empire, and was therefore called Orbis terrarum, mundi Caput, Regina, Domina, Dea, The Lord of the whole Earth, the Head and Queen of it. (See Lloyd de Româ) and in Scripture πᾶσα οἰκουμένη, the whole World, Luke 3. 1. See the Note on Heb. 2. 5.

2dly. That being so, all the Roman Provinces, stiled the World, of necessity repaired to it not for Religious Causes, but on civil accounts, ob potentiorem principalitatem; See the Note on Acts 28. 15. it being an (l) old Law, that all other Cities should follow the Custom of Rome, the Head of the World.

3dly. That the Epistle to the Romans, though it was written after the Epistles to the Thessalonians and Corinthians, was placed first in order, as some of the Fathers conjecture, by reason of the Dignity of that City. See the Preface to that Epistle: To which add 1st. That it was called Urbs Septicollis, and ἑπταλόφῳ, from the Seven Hills on which it was built, and was celebrated on this account when St. John wrote his Revelations, not only by her famous Poets, Virgil, Horace, Martial, Ovid, Propertius, but by her Orator (m) Cicero, and many others, which makes it reasonable to conceive St. John points to this City when he speaks of the Woman sitting upon seven Hills, Rev. 17. 9. there being then no other City to which the Character of that Woman could agree, none drunk with the blood of the Saints and Martyrs of Christ Jesus, as she was, or having seven heads and ten horns, or making the Kings of the Earth drunk with the Wine of her Fornication.

2dly. That the Beast sitting upon these Hills would suffer no Man to buy or sell who had not his name, or mark upon him, Rev. 13. 17. now this agrees exactly to the Church of Rome, which hath in (n) three several Councils decreed that none of her Members should sell any thing to, or buy any thing of Hereticks, or have any commerce or merchandise, or any dealings with them. Add to this, 3dly, That the Name of the Beaſt who made all Men rich and poor, great and ſmall, free and Servants, to take his Character upon them, Rev. 13. 16, 17. was the number of a Man whoſe Name contained 666, as (a) Irenæus ſays the Name λατεῖνος given to the Latin Church, did; but as for the Name Evanthus and Teiton, which, ſaith he, contains the ſame number, and other Names added by Feuardentius, who can apply any thing of the Characters belonging to this Beaſt, to them? Whence I conclude this Beaſt muſt certainly be Rome, and that not Rome Heathen, which made no ſuch Decrees, and had many more than Ten Kingdoms under her, but Rome Chriſtian.

1. SALAM, mentioned Acts 13. 5. was a City in the Eaſtern part of Cyprus, where was a Synagogue of the Jews, and where the Jews in the time of Trajan deſtroyed the City, and killed all the Inhabitants. See Cyprus. This City was famous among the Greek Writers for the Story of the Dragon killed by Chycreas their King, and for the Death of (o) Anaxarchus, whom Nicocreon the Tyrant of Cyprus pounded to Death with Iron Peſtles, he crying out, Tundis Anaxarchi vaſculum, Anaxarchum non tundis; the Body being ſtiled both by the Scriptures and Philoſophers, σκεῦος the Veſſel, θύλακος the Repoſitory of the Soul. See 1 Theſſ. 4. 4.

2. SALEM, famous for being the Seat of Melchiſedek King of Salem, is by (p) Joſephus called Solyma, and ſaid to be the ſame Place which afterwards was called Jeruſalem, that by the Pſalmiſt being called Salem, in theſe Words, at Salem is his Tabernacle, and his Dwelling-place in Sion, Pſal. 76. 2. But (q) St. Jerom ſaith, it was a Village of the Sichemites, and lay in the Vale betwixt Sodom and Damaſcus, 8 Miles from Scythopolis, or Bethſhan: So the Septuagint muſt underſtand the Word when they ſay, Gen. 33. 18. Jacob went down εἰς Σάλημ to Salem, a City of Sichem, and then it muſt be the Place mentioned, John 3. 23. when it is ſaid, John was baptizing in Enon near Salem, both theſe Places being in the Tribe of Manaſſeh.

3. SALMONE is only mentioned by the by, Acts 27. 7. and is, ſay Pliny, l. 4. c. 12. p. 213. Mela, l. 2. c. 7. and Dionyſius, v. 110. an Eaſtern Promontory of Crete, where alſo was a City of that Name.

4. SAMARIA, as it was the Capital City of the Ten Tribes, belongs to the Hiſtory of the Old Teſtament, as it is mentioned in the New it comprehends the Two Tribes of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, lying in the middle betwixt Galilee and Judæa, John 4. 3, 4. See the Note there. It began at Ginea lying in the great Plain, ſaith (r) Joſephus, and ended at the Toparchy of the Acrobateni; it was deſtroy'd by Hircanus, but was rebuilt and much augmented by Herod the Great, and by him called Sebaſte, in Honour of Auguſtus; but it ſtill retained the Name of Samaria, Acts 8. 5. and Sichem, and by the Jews in deriſion, Sychar: See Note on John 4. 5. The Samaritans, tho' in our Saviour's Time, and long before, they owned the True God, were circumciſed, and owned the Five Books of Moſes: See the Note on John 4. 22. yet were they much hated by the Jews, by reaſon of the Controverſie betwixt them concerning the Place where they were to worſhip, and to which they were to bring their Sacrifices, they ſaying it was Mount Gerizim, the Jews, Mount Zion, where the Temple ſtood: See the Note there. Hence, ſaith the Son of Syrach, My Soul abhorreth them who ſit upon the Mountain of Samaria, and the fooliſh People that dwell at Sichem, Ch. 50. 25, 26, 27. See the Note on John 4. 9. But our Bleſſed Lord did not hate them, for as they expected the Meſſiah, ſo he declared to them, That he was that Meſſiah who was to come, John 4. 25, 26. and at his Aſcenſion commanded his Diſciples to go thro' Judea and Samaria, and then to the Gentiles, Acts 1. 8. which they did with good Succeſs, both in the City and the Villages about it, Acts 8. 5, 25. Tho' Juſtin Martyr doth inform us, That thro' the Deluſions of their two Famous Magicians, Simon Magus and Doſitheus, they became the worſt of Chriſtians, Apol. 2. p. 88.

5. SAMOS was an Iſland in the Icarian Sea, of which the Scripture only ſaith, That Paul paſſed by Chios to Samos, and thence to Miletus, Acts 20. 15. It had its Name, ſaith (s) Bochart, from the high Rocks there named שמו and was famous among the Heathens for the Worſhip of Juno, and for the Earthen Veſſels there; for Pherecydes the Maſter of Pythagoras, who foretold an Earthquake that happen'd there by drinking of the Waters; for the Birth of Pythagoras who was Vir ortu Samius, ſaith (t) Ovid, and for one of the Sibyls called called Sibylla Samia, and for a Place called by Plutarch, Samiorum flores, where they did (u) καὶ ὑπὲρ Ἑολὴν τρυφᾶν, commit all manner of Lewdneſs with Women.

6. SAMOTHRACIA, an Iſland in the Egean Sea, near Thracia, where Hebrus falls into the Sea, was ſo called, ſaith (x) Euſtathius, πρὸς διαστολὴν, by way of Diſtinction from the Ionian Samos, and from another mentioned by Homer, and called Cephalenia. Here the (y) Dii Cabiri, or great Gods, mentioned in the Scholiaſt upon Apollonius, were worſhipped, into whoſe ſacred Ceremonies they who were initiated were eſteemed more holy and juſt, and even ſecure from Shipwreck, as alſo of Preſervation in all Dangers whatſoever. See Bochart Canaan, l. 1. c. 12. & Lloyd in Voce.

7. SAREPTA, Luke 4. 26. was a City of Sidon, betwixt that City and Tyre, it had the Name Zarephath, as being a Conflatory for the boiling of Metals; it was the Place where Elijah dwelling, was preſerved by the Widows Cruiſe of Oil and Barrel of Meal, that waſted not, 1 Kings 17. 9. (z) Joſephus ſaith, the Three years Drought which occaſioned his going thither, was mentioned by Menander.

8. SARON, mentioned Acts 9. 35. was a ſpacious, champion, or fertile Vale, betwixt Lydda and the Sea, having ſeveral Villages in it; it was ſo called from Sharra, to let looſe, becauſe there they turned out their Cattle, and is famous among the Rabbins for its Wines.

9. SELEUCIA, a City not of Meſopotamia, Cilicia or Piſidia, but of Syria, was the firſt City to which Paul and Barnabas came, when they were ſent on a peculiar, temporary Miſſion by the Direction of the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 13. 3, 4.

20. SICHEM was, ſaith Joſephus, the Metropolis of Samaria, built at the Foot of Mount Gerizim, on which Mount hanging over Samaria they had a Temple, at which they offered all their Sacrifices. This Temple was (a) there built by Sanballat for his Son Manaſſeh, chaſed away by Nehemiah, becauſe he would not put away the Daughter of Sanballat. This Temple was, after it had ſtood Two hundred Years, deſtroyed by Hyrcanus, and never was rebuilt in the ſame Place; but that which they called the Holy Mount, remaining, and being in their Pentateuch (here differing from the Hebrew Text) the Place where God commands the Jews to ſet up an Altar, (not on Mount Gerizim, as the Samaritan Copies have it, but on Mount Ebal, Deut. 27. 4, 5.) this they alledge to juſtifie their building a Temple there, and here they had ſtill their Altar for Sacrifice, which made the Schiſm betwixt them and the Jews. This Controverſie ſeems to be decided by the Pſalmiſt, ſaying, He choſe not the Tribe of Ephraim (where that Mountain was) but he choſe the Tribe of Judah, and the Mount Zion which he loved, and there he built his Sanctuary, Pſal. 78. 67, 68. and is more certainly decided in Favour of the Jews by Chriſt, John 4. 22.

11. Sidon is, by (b) Joſephus, thought to have had its Name from Sidon the Son of Canaan; but Trogus ſaith, it had its Name à piſcium ubertate, from the abundance of Fiſhes, the Sea upon which it lay, ſay the Hebrews, abounding with them; accordingly the Hebrew Said, from which it is derived, ſignifies Fiſhery, or Fiſhing, and Beth-ſaida is a Place of Fiſhing, and it was afterwards called Saida, I came to Saida the greateſt of Cities, ſaith Benjamin in Itinerario. The Men of Sidon being great Shipwrights, were famous above other Nations for hewing and poliſhing Timber, there being none who were skill'd how to hew Timber like the Sidonians, 1 Kings 5. 6. One of the Gods of the Sidonians mentioned in Scripture, is Aſhtaroth, Judg. 2. 13. 1 Kings 11. 5. a Goddeſs, by Philo Biblius, Theodoret, Nicetus and Procopius Gazæus, called (c) Venus; as alſo ſay the Greeks, and Cicero. Hence ſhe had her Whores to miniſter to them who committed Whoredom in her Service.

12. Of the Tower and Pool of SILOAM.] The Fountain of Siloam, ſaith (d) Joſephus, was a ſweet and large Fountain on the Weſt of Jeruſalem without the Wall, and its Waters bending towards the South, ran all along the South of Jeruſalem without the Wall, but at the Eaſt-ſide came within the lower Jeruſalem, and made the Pool of Siloam or Betheſda, mentioned John 5. 2, 9, 11. and near it toward the Weſt ſtood the Tower of Siloam, which fell upon the 18 Perſons, Luke 13. 4. ſo proper was the mention of Men ſlaughter'd whilſt they were offering Sacrifice in the Court of the Temple, and in the lower City, by a Tower falling on them, to the very ſame things befalling the Jews at the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem. See the Note there.

13. SINAI was a Mountain in Arabia Petræa, where the Law was given; it had two tops, the one lower, called Horeb, or the Mount of God, Exod. 3. 1. where he appeared to Moses in a Flame of Fire in a Bush; this Horeb is therefore by St. Stephen, Acts 7. 30. and by (e) Josephus, called Sinai, who also saith (f) δόξαν ἔχειν ἱδρυτέσθαι αὐτῷ τὸ θεῖον, it was believed the Divinity resided there, and therefore other Shepherds durst not feed upon it: The other Top of Sinai, where the Law was given was a very high Mountain, saith (g) Josephus, to the Top of which one could scarce see, and was accounted Religious; it being thought that the Divinity dwelt there also. That here afterwards dwelt the Hagarens, and had Houses cut out of the Rock; See Bochart Phaleg, l. 4. c. 27. p. 312. and the Note on Gal. 4. 25.

14. SODOM was the chief of the Pentapolitan Cities, and therefore gave the Name to the whole Land; it was burnt, with three other Cities, by Fire from Heaven for their unnatural Lusts, of the truth of which we have from the Heathens, the Testimonies of Strabo, Diodorus Siculus, Tacitus, Solinus; from the Jews, the Testimonies of Josephus, Philo, and the Book of Wisdom, of which see the Note on Jude, V. 7.

15. SYRACUSE was a City seated on the East-side of the Island of Sicily, built by Archias the Corinthian, saith the Scholiast upon (h) Pindar, out of Four Cities which he overthrew, and turned into one; it is called by Pindar μεγαλοπόλιες συρακόσσαι, it being the most noble City, not only of Sicily, but of all Greece; six Miles in compass, saith (i) Strabo: It is called by Ausonius, quadruplex Syracusa, as being divided into Four Parts, Acradina, Tyche, Neapolis, and the Island, to which Strabo adding Epipolus, calls it Pentapolis: The first of these contained in it the famous Temple of Jupiter; the second was called τύχη because it had the Temple of Fortune in it, and surely Fortune favoured them, since when the Romans took the City, they found, say (k) Livy and (l) Plutarch, more Riches in it than they did in Carthage: In that Part called Neapolis, was a great Amphitheatre, and a wonderful Statue of Apollo, in the midst of a large square: In the Isle of Ortygia was Hiero's Palace, two Temples of Diana and Minerva, and the famous Fountain of Arethusa; and this, saith Strabo, was the only part which Augustus rebuilt after it had been destroyed by Marcellus: Archimedes, who by his Mathematical Engines had much gall'd the Romans, was slain in the storming of it, while he was intent upon his Figures, as Livy and Plutarch say, ibid.

16. SYRIA, among the Ancients, viz. Justin, Herodotus and Strabo, was as large as Assyria, they being after called Syri; but Syria (m) properly so called, is either taken largely, so as to comprehend Phœnicia and the Holy Land, and so it is bounded on the West with the Sicilian Sea, on the East with Euphrates and Arabia Deserta, on the North with Cilicia, and on the South with Arabia Petræa, and had in ancient Times for its Capital City, where the President resided, Damascus, and afterwards Antioch of Syria; in the New Testament it always seems to signifie Syria in the stricter Sense, as it is distinguished from Judea, Matth. 4. 24, 25. and from Phœnicia, Acts 21. 2, 3. in which sense it is also used by Ptolemy, who divides Palestine from it; by (n) Strabo saying, Ἐντεῦθεν Συρία καὶ φοινίκη, then comes Syria and Phœnice; by (o) Pliny, who saith, Syria circumfundi Phœnicen, Syria is surrounded by Phœnice; and by Dionysius P. V. 904, 905. who places Syria, properly so called in the Continent, and Phœnicia in the Tract along the Sea: Hence the Proverb in Suidas, Σύροι πρὸς φοινίκας, i. e. one deceitful Nation against another.

17. SYRO-PHOENICIA is only mentioned in the History of the Woman's Daughter, called a Woman of Canaan, Matth. 15. 22. but a Greek and a Syro-Phœnician, Mark 7. 26. a Greek, because she was of their Religion, and used the Greek Tongue; the Greeks being mingled with the Syrians, saith (p) Josephus; a Woman of Canaan, because Phœnicia was also called Canaan: See the Notes there. A Syro-Phœnician, as being of that Part of Phœnicia, which lay betwixt Syria properly so called, and Phœnicia by the Sea-side, and which was called also, saith (q) Bochartus, Cœlosyria, and contained Heliopolis, Chalcis, and the Tract of Marsya, Damascus and Alala; Hence of Damascus (r) Justin Martyr and (s) Tertullian say, that it belonged to Syro-phœnice.

1. THREE-TAVERNÆ. Of these, and of Appii-Forum, not before-mentioned, see the Note on Acts 28. 15. And that they are not ill translated Taverns or Places of Reception, I gather not only from (t) Isidore Peluſiota, and (u) Oecumenius, who call them πανδοχεῖα ἢ καταλύσεις, but also from (x) Zozimus, when he saith, Severus was strangled at the Place called the Three Taverns, by Men placed there by Maxentius for that purpose.

2. TIBERIAS was a City (y) built by Herod the Tetrarch in Galilee, near the Lake of Genneſareth, and so called in Honour of Tiberius Nero: The Privileges he gave to the Inhabitants of the Place made it grow to be one of the prime Cities of the Lower Galilee, where were Thirteen Synagogues, and an Academy; here was the last Session of the Sanhedrim, and here the Talmud was collected: Of the Sea of Tiberias, see in Genneſareth.

3. TARSUS was a City of Cilicia, Acts 21. 39. the Metropolis and most renowned City, which, saith (z) Joſephus, gave Name to the whole Country; the Mother of Cities, saith (a) Solinus, celebrated among the Romans for being, saith Pliny, Libera Civitas, and having the Freedom of a Roman Colony, or the highest Privileges under Julius Cæſar and Octavian, and the very Name of Juliopolis: See the Note on Acts 22. 28. Among the Jews it was famous for being the Place whither Jonas designed to fly, and the Metropolis of that Country where many of them, saith Philo, dwelt; among the Chriſtians, for being the Place where St. Paul was born: In fine it was a City very rich and populous, where was an Academy furnished with Men so eminent, that, as (b) Strabo saith, they excelled in all Arts of Polite Learning and Philosophy, even those of Alexandria and Athens, and Rome it self was beholding to it for its best Professors.

4. THESSALONICA was the Metropolis of Macedonia; see the Note on Philip. 1. 1. a Noble Mart, and a City, which, saith (c) Strabo, is the most populous of all Macedonia; it is, saith (d) Pliny) a Free City, and had in it a Synagogue of the Jews, they living, saith (e) Philo, in Macedonia and Theſſaly. The Inhabitants of Theſſaly, saith (f) Athenæus were given to Luxury and Dissoluteness, and by their Luxury invited the Perſians into Greece; their Maidens and Women also danced naked, as their Custom was, which things might give Occasion to those Instructions of the Apoſtle to them, to avoid Fornication, and to poſſeſs their Veſſels in Sanctification and Honour, and not in the Luſts of Concupiſcence, as did thoſe Nations which knew not God, 1 Theſſ. 4. 3, 4, 5. To this Church St. Paul wrote his two first Epiſtles.

5. TROAS was a Country and City in leſſer Aſia, where St. Paul came to preach Christ's Gospel; and had a door opened to him of the Lord, 2 Cor. 2. 12. (g) Strabo and Ptolemy place the City in Phrygia minor: it is by St. Jerom said to be the same with Troy, celebrated in the works of Homer. It was, saith (h) Pliny, a Roman Colony.

6. TRACHONITIS was a Region and Tetrarchy, or rather part of a Tetrarchy in Syria, anciently called Argob, Deut 3. 14. it lay North of Perea, and East of Batanea, and was so called, saith G. Tyrius, from Dragons or secret lurking places in which this Country abounded, the Inhabitants living upon (i) Robbery, till they were restrained by Herod.

7. TROGYLLIUM, Acts 20. 15. is a Promontory, saith (k) Strabo, as it were the foot of Mount Mycale, opposite to, and five miles from Samos, to which Paul coming, goes on to Trogyllium to harbor there: There was also a Town there of the same name, mentioned by Pliny, l. 5. c. 29. p. 295.

8. TYRE and Sidon. These two places being so often mentioned in Scripture together, and lying but 200 Stadia, saith (l) Strabo, that, is 25 miles asunder, I shall speak of them both together. And

1st. As to Antiquity, though it be certain that, as (m) Strabo saith, both these Cities were παλαι ἔνδοξοι ἢ λαμπραι, of old illuſtrious and renowned Cities, insomuch, saith he, that they were comparable for greatness, splendor and antiquity; though Tyre be stiled by Dionyſius the Ogygian, and by the Poets, the Cadmean Tyre, and by the Prophet the City whoſe antiquity is of ancient days, Isa. 23. 7. yet was Sidon much the elder; for for (1.) Though (n) Homer mentions Sidon, and speaks of the Sidonians as πολυδίδαλοι excellent Artificers, he hath not one word, saith (o) Strabo, of Tyre; or the Tyrians. (2.) Trogus in (p) Justin saith, that after many years the Sidonians being overcome by the King of Ascalon, and beaten to their Ships, built Tyre the year before the Trojan War, i. e. saith (q) Josephus 240 years before Solomon began to build the Temple; hence most Interpreters conceive that Tyre is called the Daughter of Sidon, Isa. 23. 12. (3.) We read of Sidon the first-born of Canaan Noah's Grandson, who was the Builder of Sidon, as (r) Josephus saith, see Gen 10. 15. and read of Sidon as the border of Canaan, V. 19. but we read nothing of Tyre at least till it be mentioned by Joshua, Chap. 19. 29.

2dly. Sidon at least for a long time, excelled Tyre in Greatness, whence it is stiled Sidon Rabba, the Great, Josh. 11. 8. 19. 28. Mela saith that before it was taken by the Persians, it was maritimarum urbium maxima, the greatest of maritime Cities: (s) Diodorus Siculus having made mention of the City of the Arvadians, the Sidonians and Tyrians, i. e. Arvad, Sidon and Tyre, as the Phœnician Tripolis, he adds of Sidon, that (t) πλέστῳ δὲ καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις χορηγίαις ἡ πόλις πολὺ περιῆν τῶν κατὰ τὴν φοινίκην πόλεων, for riches and other Provisions it far exceeded the other Cities of the Phœnicians, that City having long quietly enjoyed that Trade which brought in these riches; whence to live quietly and securely is to live after the manner of the Sidonians, Judg. 18. 7. Moreover in Skill in Astronomy and Arithmetick, and all the Arts of Merchandize, in Philosophy and Philosophers, (u) Strabo makes them ἐνάμιλλοι emulous, or equal in Comparison, and saith the Greeks had their Philosophy from them. Hence both of them in Scripture are represented as very wise, Zech. 9. 2. Ezek. 27. 8, 9. But then, 4thly. Tyre is to be preferred before Sidon for Strength, as being built in the Sea, four furlongs from the Land, till Alexander joined it to the Continent, whence it is called the strong City, Josh. 19. 29. and after Sidon suffered by the Persians it excelled in Riches, it being stiled The Crowning City, as sending Crowns of Gold to Kings, and being the City whose Merchants were Princes, and whose Traffickers were the honourable of the Earth, Isa. 23. 8. Hence (x) Q. Curtius saith, that in the time of Alexander, it was memorable above all other Cities of Syria and Phœnicia for splendor and greatness. They are mentioned in the New Testament as Places to whose Coasts Christ resorted, Matth. 15. 21. Sometimes as People who resorted to him from their Coasts, Mark 3. 8. and sometimes to upbraid the Cities of Chorazin and Bethsaida, lying eastward of them, as being more incredulous, Matth. 11. 21, 22.

To speak something of Tyre in particular, it is to be observed, that there was (y) Old and New Tyre; the Old Tyre mentioned, Josh. 19. 29. and called Paletyrus, was built upon the Continent, whence they of New Tyre tell Alexander that there was a place without the City, called Paletyrus, where he might sacrifice to Hercules; it was, saith (z) Strabo, distant 30 furlongs from the other Tyre, which was four furlongs within the Sea; hence saith God to her by the Prophet, Thy borders are within the Sea, Ezek. 27. 4. She sent Colonies, saith (a) Curtius, pœne orbe toto, almost through the World, viz. to Carthage, Leptis, Utica in Africa, to Thebes in Bœotia, and Gades in Spain, whence it was accounted the Mart of the World; they also worshipped besides Hercules, the Goddess Astarte at Memphis, whence (b) Herodotus saith, the Tyrians had there the Temple ξένης Ἀφροδίτης of Venus the Stranger, to distinguish her from that Venus whom the Egyptians worshipped.

Though in speaking of the Places near the Sea of Gennesareth or Tiberias, I have followed Dr. Lightfoot, yet because he is singular in the Situation of them, I have left them in the Map as they are ordinarily placed by others.
